SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1944

Every now and then we complain about this or that. But occasionally we praise. And with award day coming up next Friday, we would like to add heretofore unsounded laurels between those applauses:

To the editor and business manager of the CHILHOWEAN, who have assembled a year book when prospects looked darkest. And we have the faith that the annuals will be delivered . . .

To the newly elected officers of the three younger classes. This almost completely feminine representation has been chosen from college material at its best, since the voters have elected them for their leadership ability.

To the dramatic and music departments for their productions. They have overcome their private obstacle courageously. Mrs. West has worked tirelessly to rebuild partially what was once a good collection of costumes. Her direction of the May Day pageant was both timely and out of the realm of triteness. Mr. Jones too has expressed his ingeniuity in presenting an operetta—a musical with a cast too big to allow the production to be "easy."

To the administration of the college, which has doubled its own load to maintain a nearly normal program for the student body.

These are among the ones who will not be given a prize on award days. If we have omitted those also deserving praise, such a mistake was uintentional.

HERE AND ABOUT
By ROBERT F. HUBER

THE MONTGOMERY-WARD CASE

During the past ten days or so the people of America have been witness to the beginning of what may prove one of the most important legal cases in United States history. It seems that the government has seen fit to take over the Chicago plant of the Montgomery Ward mail-order firm because of labor difficulties.

The real issue at stake in this case is not whether the strike is justified or not, but whether the United States government has the power under the Constitution to take over private property in war time.

BACKGROUND FACTS

The story begins back in 1941 when the C.I.O. United Mail Order Union won an NLRB election in the Chicago plant, but Sewell Avery, the chairman of the board of directors, refused to sign a contract with the union until the President had twice threatened him.

Last December the contract expired and Avery refused to renew it because the union no longer represented the workers since there had been a 200 percent labor turnover. The War Labor Board promptly asked the NLRB to hold another election in the Chicago plant, but in the mean time Sewell Avery refused to renew the contract with the C.I.O. union.

THE UNION STRIKES

The union finally struck and Avery still refused to renew the contract, and as a result the WLB turned the case over to the President. He ordered the attorney general to seize the plant and when Avery refused to allow the government to take possession, the army was ordered to take over.. Mr. Avery had to be carried out of his office bodily by two soldiers.

The attorney general claimed that the government had legal right to take over the plant since its production had been stopped by the company's failure to renew the contract and the subsequent strike. They claimed that it was a war industry since one of its branch plants in Massachusetts was producing vital war materials.

But the company lawyers claimed that the Chicago plant was not connected with the war effort and that the strike in that plant did not affect the plants connected with war production.

THE REAL ISSUE

But the real issue as the American people see it is whether or not the President does have the power to take over an industry that seemed to be patently civilian and not vitally connected with war production. How far does the federal power extend? Can the government control every aspect of private property? Just how far does the New Deal intend to go in control of private enterprise? These were the issues involved in the case which is now before a federal court in Chicago.

Upon the decision rendered in this case, United States v. Avery, rests the security of private enterprise and the rights of private property. Upon the results of this case the November election may well hinge.

In any event, this may well be the most important legal case in American history. It will be watched with interest by every American, and the lovers and supporters of democracy will lend their support to Sewell Avery and Montgomery Ward and the rights of private property.

ODDS AND ENDS
DOROTHY DICK

Amid final classes, packing, and checking-in, when one and mostly all are finishing odds and ends of term papers, book reports, and outside reading, it might be fun to recount stray bits of campus humor. Which, anon, brings to mind that motley crew who trooped shyly through first floor Thaw hall Wednesday evening last. Take heed, Alden, Dogpatch Daisy Montgomery, despite nature's obstructions and the high water of Picnic creek, gave Little Abner Taylor a merry chase! The circumstance? Initiation nite—and vengeance wasn't mine! As for Pino, gla-mour, gla-mour . . . and that incendiary black-haired powdered-blonde of comic fame! One could mention The Irshay Phantom, Blondie Richardson and Dagwood Johnson in their Blue Heaven, room 315 Baldwin; the animals and the indian; that Brat named Myrtle whose skirt was too, too . . . when it came to "twee climbin, and bench cwawling." Those, my friends, were Writers' Workshop neophytes a la comic strip!

Cala lilies to Ada and Harold . . . a diamond and a top-of-the-world-look in that man's walk means wedding bells are soon to ring for one more steady couple on the campus. Which brings to mind two other couples about to say "I do"; the dates, May 17 in Washington, D. C.; May 18, Richmond, Va. Best wishes are in order for those who have succumbed to the romantic aura of May. Another diamond found its way to the campus last week . . . where from, to whom? Ask Dutchy Parks, she doesn't mind!

And who were the girls caught napping once upon a Sunday afternoon? In the same breath just mention "snake" to one-half of the inhabitants of 310, 316, 330, 303, 115. It's three feet long by now, and still remembered with shudders by the gentler sex.

Jimmy, please, your attention was being called to a run, wasn't it, Bea? Note the suntan jobs on all these once lily white co-eds, achieved by hours of sunning on Baldwin Beach. Strictly private, fellows, sorry.

A poetic soph sprang this little rhyme the other day that seems to have some reason to it from the oral activities of sundry students upon more than one occasion:

"The lilacs are through,
Spring is gone;
Summer is here,
Yawn, yawn, yawn.

Were you being personal, Grace?

Gas rationing even got around to invading May Day, or did you notice? 'Twas a clever way of bringing the four corners of the U. S. into the picture, and many were the favorable comments from here and there. Cute little boy you were, Lottie. Bouquets to the Queen of the Day and her fair attendants. And of course the gentlemen too. What with darkies, and co-eds, and lassoeing, too, the tradition of May Day was upheld through and through.

And once again, Happy Birthday to you, Rusty. I could be facetious and say, "Many more of them." Need I say more?

Did you hear about the little conference over the Ouija board? Some co-eds Friday evening attempted to convert some cadets to the Ouija board faith. The result? a toss-up; the gals believed, and the cadets still sceptical . . .

And, pray tell, just why was Jean Blanchard dashing madly through the dining hall with dust pan and broom in hand, while no other than Charley Burgreen was racing madly after her? Do you know, Becky? Another question, please, why the sudden popularity of fire escapes both Baldwin and Memorial? For daring exploits? The odds are at an end it seems, or have you heard something I haven't?

TALK OF THE WEEK

One Man Begins Next Year's Worries
By TOMMY PARKINSON

Recently this reporter has been spending a great deal of time worrying. This was brought about by the recent developments concerning the number of men who will be on the campus, and other campuses, next year. This year the crop of civilian men was nothing to brag about, although some few of the girls did manage to find themselves a fellow to stroll around with. And now we are told that the most of those civilians, who were draft-deferred because they were studying for the ministry, will either be in theological seminary or be in the armed service. As if that isn't enough, we are not even going to have the men in uniform stationed here. That group was numerous enough (they almost went around so that all the girls got one), but they were kept so very much restricted. Even so, with them around, a girl got to have a date (although it might have been short) every once in a while.

And now next year, with everyone expecting something around the same number of girls on this campus, neither of those groups of men can be expected to return. Don't exactly know why, but we have a vague premonition that men (even boys) are going to be rather tremendously scarce and outnumbered. There might even be a demand for men by the end of next year; the few fellows will possibly be popular among the girls.

Of course there are those farsighted people who foresee problems arising from that situation. And naturally there have been several plans set forth to remedy the situation(s). Who was it that suggested that on town nights the Maryville High School, with all of its pre-draft-age boys, be included in bounds? But then some "killjoy" had to remind us that not many of the boys would be found at the school after school hours—at least not regularly. And with rationing for the necessities of life all about us it was suggested that dates with the few male students of next year (if there are any, and there probably will be a few) should be rationed. But that, too, brings up too many problems, who would decide on the point values of the different products (men), and who would decide on priorities, etc.? What disinterested party could be found to keep records and handle the administrative end of such a program? Perhaps that will not work either.

We could go on at length with these potential remedies for said distressing situation, but the circumstances are not known well enough at present to decide that any of those plans are practicable. Naturally it is "food for thought." But from here it looks as if it is merely in that stage and will be until we know more about the details.

But a few things can be predicted with a fair degree of certainty. One thing is that the job of proctor of the men's dorm is going to be a much easier position. There will be no temptation to stay out after lights-out and slip in the dorm: that would be too dangerous (It has been predicted that kidnapping will be prevalent) unless there are quite a few fellows together. There will not be that many attending college. And there will probably be a protective association formed among the few men, who will certainly learn quickly that "there's safety in numbers."

YM Hears Brown

The YMCA will hold its last meeting for this year on Sunday. Joe Brown, the new president of the YMCA, will be the speaker. He has chosen for his topic, "The Village of Life," in keeping with next year's theme, "To live is Christ."

The YMCA will have charge of the Vesper services this Sunday night.

ned and prepared by Dorothy Dick, sophomore home economics major and new member of Pi Kappa Delta. She was assisted in the food preparation, table-setting and service of the meal by other of the neophytes anticipating admittance into the society

Place-card programs were made by Byron Sprague, with the assistance of Dorothy Lehamn and Ben Lynt. All members of the team and squad contributed something toward the labor involved, assuring the success of the evening's program.

Formal initiation of the new members took place immediately after the completion of the program. Dorothy Lehman, Mrs. Georgia Meadows Woodward and Ben Lynt were the old members who received the six new fraternity members and the one new honorary member into the society.

Mrs. Nita West Reads at Vols

Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art, will give a reading, "The Lost Word," at the regular meeting of the Student Volunteers Sunday evening, following Vespers.

A group from the Negro church in Maryville presented a program of music and speeches at the last meeting of the organization, April 30. The new officers were also installed and will now carry on the executive duties.

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

SOFTBALL

During last week there were three softball games played in the intramural program. On Tuesday, May 2 the Republicans avenged their defeat last week by walloping the Democrats to the tune of 21 to 10. The next afternoon, Wednesday, April 3, the Republicans again triumphed. This time the score was much closer, 5-4. Then the last game of the series was played on Thursday, May 4, and the Republicans took that one too, 11 to 10.

The second game of the series, played on Tuesday was the most one-sided of the whole series. Not all of the Democrat team were present for the game, and those who were there made quite a few errors in the course of the game. Easter was the winning pitcher. Schieber started out pitching for the Democrats and was succeeded by Parkinson and Kemp in that order. And none of those pitchers was very effective for the losers as the 21 to 10 score would indicate.

The third game of the series was the closest of the four games. It was played on Wednesday afternoon and at the close of the seventh inning, which constitutes a regular game, the score was tied at 4 to 4; so another inning was played to break the tie. The Democrats were at bat first and failed to score. And it looked as if the Republicans were not going to be able to score in their turn at bat either, but with two outs, the Democrat outfielders dropped two fly balls in a row, and that permitted the Republicans to score the run which broke the tie and won the game for them.

Then on Thursday, May 4, the Democrats made a vain effort to win the final game of the series, which would have split the series with two victories for each team. this game;seides-isWethe Republicans started slowly this game; the Democrats got four runs in the first inning and held the lead until the end of the game. It was in the seventh inning that the Democrats again were the victims of some ragged fielding, this time by the infielders, and the Republicans pushed across the winning run. The score of the final game was 11 to 10, and that left the score in games for the entire series at 3 victories for the Republicans and one win for the Democrats.

Pfc. Robert Frances, who is a former student of Maryville and was visiting the campus, was the umpire for all of the games this week.

The following is the list of the players and positions of the teams which were practically the same for all the games this week:

Democrats	pos.	Republicans
Cover	c	Moehlman
Dillener	p	Easter
Taylor	ss	Kidder
Parkinson	1b	Lester
Burgreen	2b	Huber
Kemp	3b	Buford
Schieber	lf	Seel
Crowson	cf	Turner
J. Henry	rf	Kierstein
H. Henry	sf	Poland
Ferguson	rf	Ross

DOUBLES TENNIS

The doubles tennis tournament is nearing completion. The following is a record of the results of the action in that tournament this week:

Easter and Buford outplayed Cross and Parkinson in two of the three sets to take that match by these scores, (4-6), (6-1), and (6-3).

Eaken and Poland surprised everybody by conquering Seel and Cover in two straight sets (6-1) and (6-3).

Kemp and Kidder advanced to the finals of the tournament by first taking a forfeit from Moehlman and Ferguson and then outclassing Huffman and Schieber in two quick sets, (6-0) and (6-1).

There are only two more matches to be played to complete this tournament. Eaken and Poland meet Easter and Buford in a semi-final match, with that winner playing Kemp and Kidder in the final match for the championship.

DOUBLES HORSE SHOES

There has also been a good bit of activity in the doubles horse shoes tourney. Lester and Parkinson beat Schieber and H. Henry (21-9) and 21-8), and won a forfeit from Moehlman and Easter to gain a place in the final match of that tournament.

Ferguson and Brown, who eliminated Huber and Poland (21-16), (16-21), (21-17), will meet Kemp and Buford, who took Seel and Cover (21-11), (21-7), to determine the team to meet Lester and Parkinson in the finals.

DOUBLES PING PONG

We are growing weary of putting this old and very much over-due tournament in this column every week; it was supposed to have been completed April 20. But there was one important match played in it this week. Thursday night, May 4, Huber and Poland eliminated Kemp and Parkinson by winning a match of two games (21 to 19) and 21 to 18). That victory gains for the winners the chance to play again Moehlman and Easter. Those two teams played once before in this double elimination tourney and Moehlman and Easter won. But this time it will be for the championship, and it is possible that the result will be different.

AWARDS

Whether or not all of the tournaments have been completed, all official intramural competitions for this year is to cease Monday night. This will give the Intramural Staff time to figure out the individual intramural points. And those results will be announced in this column of the ECHO next week.

LOOK TO YOUR LOOKS, IT'S SPRING

By HANNAH DUKE

(To the majority of our enrollment—the women):

Now is the time for all coeds to come to the aid of their attractive good-looks—and we do mean first-aid. Spring has come and with it the usual spring-cleaning—Mother cleans house, Dad cleans the car (if he still has one) and you should give yourself a fresh start. It really helps to have a tanned, fresh-as-a-daisy look. Take a glowing complexion, mix with a starry-eyed gaze, one snowy-bright flash of teeth and hair that seems to spring to life and you have one typical American beauty. Clothes are important but the basic foundation is what counts.

Begin with your skin—a daily sun bath plus a little effort will give a tan worthy of the time expended. Be careful to take it slowly at first, using a lotion to prevent getting too much at first. The rings left by sun glasses don't add much beauty to a smooth tan but are sometimes a necessity. Now to the glow—give your face a good scrubbing every night with plenty of soap and water.

If you just won't tan without blister, use the brand of leg make-up to suit your skin, and, please, put it on smoothly, brushing off the excess after it is dry. If used properly you have a look better than the finest nylons.

Now your nails—don't bite them for goodness sake! Keep them well groomed by cleaning them and pushing back the cuticles. Pick a polish to blend, not clash, with your costume. And don't forget a pedicure—give your feet a break if you're going to wear barefoot sandals.

As to eyes—the plucked eyebrown, slinky-eyed look is out. The natural curve of eye-brows well groomed above clear eyes is now the code for coeds. To look really alert requires good study habits and plenty of sleep—you figure out when to get it!

Don't we all envy the sparkling teeth in the tooth paste advertisements? Well, we can get a good facimile of that look by brushing the teeth three times daily, massaging the gums and eating not candy and sweets, but green vegetables, apples, and other fruits.

Your posture—or lack of good posture—can either make or break you before the public eye. A beautiful girl detracts from her appearance if she slumps. There are many good rules for aiding in overcoming poor posture, but most of us don't stand up because we forget to. Wear sensible shoes and remember, you are an American with a heritage of which to be proud. If that doesn't make you face the world with erect shoulders and a head balanced to face the world—proud and unafraid—nothing will.

Rev. J. M. Cotton Speaks at Chapel

"Christianity is practicable for every day living." Thus spoke the Reverend Mr. Jarvis M. Cotton at the chapel service last Wednesday morning. He went on to point out the means by which every person through his daily living can live a Christ-like life and make Christianity a reality instead of merely an ideal.

Mr. Cotton is the pastor of the Waverly Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, but now on his way to help serve as a civilian chaplain to the armed forces further south. Mr. Cotton graduated from Maryville in 1921 and then he attended Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. His father-in-law, Mr. C. W. Dawson, served for many years as the chairman of the directors of the college.

Next Wednesday morning the regular chapel services will be in charge of the seniors.

B. G. Club Elects Four Members

The B. G. club met this week to elect new members to be initiated into the club next fall. They are: future senior member, Hannah Duke; future junior member, Betty Lou King; and future sophomore members, Carolyn Winfrey and Ruth Broadhead.

This organization is composed of eight girls and is the only social club of its kind on the campus. New members are chosen by unanimous vote of the club. The plan is to be composed each year of three seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores. Outgoing members this year will be the president, Vickie Hoole and secretary, Mary Jean Partridge. One vacancy occured at the end of the first semester when Louise Moughton left. Other members are: Leslie Ford, Isabel Muir, Margaret Hunt, and Peggy Caldwell. Miss Susanna Ware sponsors the group.

The last social event of the year will be a breakfast Monday morning welcoming the newly elected "B. G.'s" to the club.

Home Ec. Girls Show Fashions

Soft music, comments by Mlles, Marion Schneeweiss, Margaret Gessert, Edna Watts, and Gracc Rogers, and dresses made by the members of the costume design and textile classes were spotlighted in a fashion show held last Thursday at eight in the Home Economics lecture room. Miss Ruby Lane, instructor in the department was in charge of the showing, which was private, as each member of the class was allowed only two guests. The type of dresses were semi-formal, semi-sport, and those for school wear. One of the gowns to be worn in the Daisy Chain was shown.

Senior Chapel Begins Graduation Exercises

The College Commencement program begins next Wednesday with the Senior Chapel Service, which will be at the unusual hour of 2:00 p.m. because of examinations. The seniors will appear in caps and gowns for the first time, will conduct a chapel program, and will officially transfer their chapel seats to the present junior class.

Chapel service on Friday, May 12 will be for the purpose of distributing various awards earned by achievmeents during the school year 1943-44.

The graduation exercises are scheduled for Monday, May 15, preceded by the Baccalaureate service on Sunday and the Alumni Day Saturday.

Parish Project

Dr. and Mrs. John A. Gates entertained the members of the Parish Project at their home Friday night, May 5. The entertainment was to have been a picnic, but because of rainy weather it was held in the house. After supper had been served, the group enjoyed singing various songs.

Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Watt were special guests.

SERVICE

BY DOROTHY DICK

Pvt. Dick Moore, who would have been a senior this year, visited on the campus over last week-end. Dick was in the A. S. T. Program at Yale University, but when that branch was discontinued he was sent to the Columbia Air Base, Columbia, South Carolina. It is a replacement depot.

Cadet Bob Weldon, a former member of last year's graduating class, spent some time on the campus last week while on leave between semesters at Atlanta Southern Dental College, Atlanta, Georgia. Bob, who was a biology major from Greenport, New York, is now a sophomore dental student.

Spike Tinley, of the class of '42, is a sergeant in the Marines, stationed in an island in the Pacific. Harry Graham, class of '42, who was stationed in Iran, met his brother "Turk" Graham, a member of this year's senior class, somewhere in North Africa a short time ago.

Pvt. Ray Saunders, a freshman last year, has completed 15 weeks of infantry training at Camp Walters,, Texas. He spent three months at Wayne University in Detroit as a student and was accepted into the Air Corps as an air cadet. Then he was released when the Air Corps released 36,000 men. Now with the signal corps, he sends greetings to his Maryville friends.

OLIVER K. WILLIAMS

Chaplain Oliver K. Williams, Lieutenant junior grade, is attending the chaplaincy school at Williamsburg, Virginia. Stationed there since March 10, Oliver expects to graduate in June. He graduated from Maryville in 1941 as a German major. During his four years here, Oliver was a member of the choir, band, and Glee club. He played in the orchestra his first two years and was on the wrestling team his junior year.

Lieutenant Vernon Ferguson, a former member of last year's graduating class, is a pilot of a Flying Fortress in England. A resident of Maryville, Vernon has been in the army for two years; he has been stationed in England for the last three months.

Chuck Gilpatrick, class of '43, Tex Lochausen, class of 543, and Jack DeForest, a member of last year's sophomore class, are all in med school at Boston University. Chuck and Tex are sophomores, and Jack is a freshman. Tex was quite outstanding on the campus as a student, being a class officer two years, and serving in a number of different organizations throughout the four years. Jack was president of his class during the second semester of last year.

Pfc .Danny Long, who was a member of this year's junior class, is enlisted in the Marines, and is stationed at Grove City College, Grove City, Pennsylvania.

Pfc. Phil Vance, who would have graduated this year, is a member of the Army Air Corps Band. In the army since December of 1941, his address is now Mississippi.

Pfc. Enrico Scapellati, who would have been a senior this year, is now stationed in New Guinea. Pvt. Arty Spears, a Maryville resident, and a freshman last year, is with the Quartermaster Corps stationed in Hawaii. Another member of last year's freshman class, Frank Kramer, also from Maryville, just sailed from Fort Meade, Maryland. His destination is still unknown. Paul Cooper, a '43 graduate, who visited on the campus about a month ago, has been reinstated in the Marines.

Spanish club. Margaret is a sociology major from Brent, Alabama. She is now treasurer of her class and will next year be in charge of the YWCA project at Home Avenue Mission. Rosalind is a French major from New York City. She is at present a member of the orchestra.

Mildred Waring is a home economic major from New Bedford, Massachusetts. She is secretary to Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Supervisor of Women's Residence.

Helen Marie Wilson is an English major from Fairview, Pennsylvania. She is a member of the ECHO staff, and is on the YW House Committee for next year. Abbott Kemp is a physics major from Acworth, Georgia. He will be on next year's YMCA cabinet and has participated in intramural sports this year. Owen McGarity, a political science major from Croyden, Pennsylvania, recently played a leading role in the operetta, TULIP TIME. He has been elected vice-president of both next year's YMCA and Athenian society.

Thelma Richardson is a dramatic art major from Staten Island N. Y. She is on the ECHO staff, a member of Writers' Workshop, the new vice-president of Bainonian, and Nu Gamma chairman for next year. She has participated in several dramatic productions, the most recent being the leading role in LADIES IN RETIREMENT.

Marinell Ross is a political science major from Maryville. She is a member of the varsity debate team and has recently been elected to Pi Kappa Delta. She is the new secretary of the Law Club and will be in charge of the M-Book for next year.

Sophomores Elect

John is an economics major from Pine Bluff, Arkansas. He is a member of the freshmen debate team and is treasurer of the present freshman class. Mary Nan is a home economics major from Lewisburg, Tennessee. She is a member of the glee club. Ruth is a biology major from Morris Plains, New Jersey. She is chairman of the freshman selling committee for the war stamp drive and has recently been elected a member of the B. G. society. John Poland is from Beverly Shores, Indiana. He is a member of the freshman debate team, the ECHO staff, and is a member of the Student Council. He is also the newly elected treasurer of the Spanish club.

Olinde is an English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She is a member of the freshman debate team and on the staff of the ECHO. Fay is a psychology major from Detroit, Michigan. She is a member of the Bainonian House Committee for next year. This year she has been on the Student Council. Bob is from Hyattsville, Maryland. He is also the newly elected vice-president of the Ministerial Association. Both Fay and Bob were elected for a two year term. Tommy is an English major from Memphis, Tennessee. He is at present a member of the Student Council, on the ECHO staff, and has been elected head of the athletic committee for the YMCA.

CLUB NEWS

IRC

Meeting for the last time this semester, members of the International Relations Club held a party Monday evening, May 1st, in the Y.W. rooms and heard the retiring president, Malcolm Thompson, make a few remarks summarily as he turned over the gavel to the new president, Bob Huber.

Games were played and refreshments served as planned previously by Aimee Wriggins, Miriam Bowditch and Florence Gywnn.

Guests for the evening were Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, who serves as faculty sponsor for the group, and his son Lee.

It was noted at this final meeting and party that ten of the members were graduating seniors, but that there will be 26 returning members when the fall semesbegins, the recent elections have filled the vacancies left by graduation.

Membership is limited and admission to the club is by election and invitation. Anyone who has expressed an interest in the general field of international relations or world politics may become a member upon invitation of the group, though it is not necessary to belong to the club in order to attend and participate in the weekly programs which it sponsors.

FRENCH CLUB

Nell Ousley was elected president of the French club Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the club in the French classroom. Nell is a sophomore education major from Maryville. Neysa Ferguson, a junior French major from Maryville, was elected vice-president. Imogene Everett, a sophomore French major from Maryville, was elected secretary. Bob Whitford, a Sophomore English major from Paterson, New Jersey, was elected treasurer. The program chairmen are Carroll Stegal, a foreign language major from Richmond, Va. and Catherine Sisk, a sophomore music major from Maryville.

ALPHA SIG

Alpha Sigma Society has planned to have a dinner in Maryville tonight for their last meeting of the school year. The plans for the dinner are being made by Roy Dillener, Charles Burgreen and Ben Lynt.

At this meeting the Alpha Sigs will hold their next year's elections. Because of this important fact, all members are urged to attend. Other plans will be made about the future of the organization.

NATURE CLUB

Members of the Nature Club and their guests will follow two trails to the picnic grounds in a scavenger hunt and picnic sponsored by the club Friday, May 5. President Martha Jeane Shaw announced these plans.

The present officers of the organization will remain in office until this fall when new ones will be elected. This was decided at the club's business meeting held last Monday, May 1.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian program this Saturday evening at 6:15 will consist of a program of "Childhood Days". A number of children's games have been planned for the occasion. Highlight of the program will be a baby contest which will be identification of member's baby pictures. All Bainonians are urged to attend as this will be the final meeting of the year.

LAW CLUB

Law Club members met last Thursday night in the Spanish class room where the main point of discussion was the constitutionality of the government seizure of the Montgomery Ward Company Mail Order House in Chicago last week. The club was of the opinion that the act was greatly irregular, if not unconstitutional, due to the fact that the company, in itself, is not manufacturing war goods.

In their business meeting the members discussed plans for next fall. They plan to start the club functioning again immediately. Because personnel changes so rapidly they plan to wait and hold their elections at that time.

College Students Present Recital At Kiwanis Club

Students of our music department gave a program for the Maryville-Alcoa Kiwanis Club in recognition of National Music Week at Wednesday noon. The program was as follows:

"Sequidilla"—from Carmen, Bizet
"Love Has Eyes"..... Bishop
Frances Grosh
"Sympathy" from The Firefly ..... Friml
Frances Smith—Marcia Keirn
"Summertime" ..... Gershwin
"My Johann" ..... Greig
Marcia Keirn
"A Little Bit O' Honey"..... Bonds
"Fake Prophet"..... Scott
Frances Smith
"Flower Duet"—from Madame Butterfly" ..... Puccini
Frances Grosh—Marcia Keirn

ATHENIAN

Tonight at the final meeting of their society the Athenian members will discuss future plans. Under this heading will come a discussion of means of organization whereby the society will be perpetuated even though there will be a very small number of men on the campus next fall due to the war-time conditions.

Since the Athenians have planned to discuss this matter thoroughly there will probably be no special program.

All members are asked to attend.

Writers' Workshop

The twelve new members elected into Writer's Workshop were initiated at a picnic held by the group in the college woods, Wednesday, May 3. Each new member was required to impersonate some comic strip character in dress. They were also made to follow verbal commands issued them by old members. Faculty members present were served by the neophytes. Virginia Cain and Evelyn Gregory were in charge of the picnic supper while Helen Anderson and Billye Ruth Braly directed the initiates' activities.

Spanish Club

Spanish club is having a picnic tonight in the college woods from 5:30 to 9:30. This party will be the last Spanish club function of the year.

Lois Collett is chairman of the picnic committee. Hamburgers and "angels on horseback" are on the menu. After supper the group will sit around a camp fire and join in story-telling and singing. Gladys David and Abbott Kemp are also on the committee.

In the fall the work of the club will be taken over by Louise Corbett, Edelmira Pino, Mary Johnston, and John Poland.

When they say my jokes are corny
When they tell me that they smell
When they say "I've heard that one before."
I say, "Oh, go . . . write some yourself."

College Graduates 65 Monday

Awards Given To Meineke, Knaupp, Firor, Bailey, Barker

Sports, Dramatics, Debate Honors Also Recognized

Friday morning, May 12, the annual award day service was held at the regular chapel time. Special awards to outstanding students were presented at this time. Each year as a part of the regular senior week program a chapel service is devoted to recognition of those who have achieved success during the past school year. Dr. David H. Briggs was in charge of the devotional period of the service. Immediately afterwards, the following awards were presented by Dr. Briggs:

The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund, established by a generous friend of the College, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Faculty of Bible and Religious Education.

Winners: 1st prize—Lyle Miller Knaupp, $48.00. 2nd prize—John C. Taylor $32.00.

The Alexander English Prize to the member of the senior class who makes the best four-year record in English. The prize this year goes to Lyle Miller Knaupp $40.00.

The Bible Prize, established by Rev. William H. Bates, D.D., of Greeley, Colorado, and awarded annually for proficiency attained in Bible study.

The George A. Knapp Mathematics Scholarship Fund of one thousand dollars was established in 1941 by Tracy F. Knapp, Mary Gertrude Knapp Barrett, and Josephine Knapp Fiefer as a memorial to their father, Dr. George A. Knapp, who served as Professor of Mathematics and Physics in Maryville College from 1914 to his retirement in 1938. The income from this fund is awarded each year at or about the commencement season as a prize to the senior or junior student who is adjudged by a committee to be the most outstanding and most promising among those majoring in Mathematics.

Winner: Ruth Meineke $40.00.

Also, there has been made available this year a supplementary mathematics prize, by an anonymous donor, for another student whose work in mathematics has been sufficiently high. This prize goes to Virginia Lee Cain $20.00.

The Bank of Maryville Economics Prize, awarded annually by the Bank of Maryville to the student doing the most excellent work in Economics during the year

Winner: Rhoda Firor, $25.00.

The Elizabeth Hillman Chemistry Prize Fund provides "a prize or prizes to be awarded to women students for excellence attained in the field of Chemistry."

Winner: Donnell Bailey, $40.00.

A Pin is given by the College to each senior in the Choir who has been in the Choir throughout his senior year, and at least one other year during his college course. This award is based also on regularity and quality of work.

Ruth Cathcart, Wallace Easter, Ermina Fisher, Frances Grosh, Paul Moehlman, John Scott.

Theta Alpha Phi. The following were elected this year to Theta Alpha Phi, Dramatic Honor Society:

Dorothy Lehman, Thelma Richardson.

MC Sophs Score High in English

The results of the nation-wide sophomore co-operative tests which were given here recently arrived a few days ago. In giving the results to the ECHO, Miss Viola Lightfoot pointed out that in general science there had been a drop in the median, but that in the English there had been an increase. As the current events section of the test was not given last year there is no basis for comparison. This year's class of sophomores scored a median of 40 in general science, 68 in English, and 50 in current events. Last year's class scored 54 in general science and 60 in English. Thus this year's sophomores scored fourteen less general science and eight more in English.

Special Program In Chapel Today

This morning in chapel the music department and the dramatic art department presented a program for the Senior class.

Duets were sung by Marcia Keirn and Frances Grosh. Marcia and Frances Smith. Ruth Cathcart entertained with variations of "Mary's Little Lamb" on the piano.

"The Thrice Promised Bride," a Chinese comedy, was given by a group of dramatic students coached by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor in the department. Those taking part were Nancy Russell as the magistrate: Mary Grace Hall, the bride: Esther Farrow, Merriam McGaha, Ruby Sellers, the suitors: Victoria Hoole, the property man: Miriam Bowditch, the mother: Marion Schanck, the attendant: Jeanna Eddleman, the secretary: Dorothy Harned, the first matchmaker: Thelma Richardson, the second matchmaker.

Dean Elected

Martha Dean, a Spanish major from Mosheim, Tennessee, has recently been elected president of Pearsons hall for next year. Betty Jane Miller has served in this capacity this year. The officer is selected by all girls living in the dormitory at the time of the election.

Dr. Barbour Is Vespers Speaker

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, will be the guest speaker at the annual Commencement Vespers tomorrow night at 7:15. Dr. Barbour, who is a director of the college, has been here many times before. He has led the February meetings in previous years and has been guest speaker several times this year.

Commencement Vespers is an annual service which is held primarily for the seniors last college vespers service.

The College choir will present special music.

Senior Reception At Dr. Lloyd's

Pres. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd entertained at a reception today for the seniors, their parents and friends, and members of the faculty. The reception was from 3:00 until 5:00. Dr. Lloyd in chapel Thursday urged all seniors and faculty members to attend.

Huber Elected ECHO Editor For Next Year

Hannah Duke To Be Managing Editor For College Newspaper

Robert F. Huber was elected editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO for 1944-45 at a meeting of the editorial staff last Tuesday evening in the ECHO office.

Bob, a junior history major, is from Passaic, New Jersey, and has been a member of the ECHO staff for three years, serving as managing editor during the past year. He is a member of the debating team, president of the Law club, president of the governing board of Writers' Workshop, a member of Athenian, and was recently elected president of I.R.C. and vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta.

Hannah Duke, a junior biology major from Arlington, Texas, has been appointed managing editor for next year. She was chosen for this position by the new editor. Hannah has been on the ECHO staff for two years. She was recently elected to membership in the B.G. society, and this year was class sponsor for the junior class.

The other members of the staff for next year are as follows: rising juniors, Ruth Chandler, Madeline Cooke, Dorothy Dick, Thelma Richardson, Helen Marie Wilson; rising sophomores, Olinda Ahrens, Virginia Clabough, Tommy Parkinson, and John Poland.

The business manager of the ECHO for next year will be Mable Ruth Marshall, a senior chemistry major from Lenoir City, Tennessee, who served as an assistant for two years. Mable will be assisted by Marilyn Bryant and Miriam Wickham, who will act as senior and junior assistants, respectively.

The selections were made by the Publications Committee from the faculty, consisting of Dr. F. A. Griffitts, committee chairman, Miss Almira Bassett, Dr. Ralph T. Case, and Dr. Hill Shine; Professor E. R. Walker of the Student Business Managers Committee, who serves as auditor of business accounts, and Edward Gates, a member of the Publications Committee from the Student Council.

Theta Alpha Phi Choses Two

Dorothy Lehman and Thelma Richardson have been invited by the members of the Tennessee Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, to become members upon completition of the requirements being exacted during initiation week.

Other members of the organization are Mrs. Nita Eckles West, faculty advisor, Dorothy Harned, Ben Lynt, Mary Dawn Noblit, Nancy Russell and Georgia Meadows Woodward. Dr. Hunter and Miss Wright are honorary members of this chapter.

Dr. Morton To Speak at Banquet For Alumni, Grads

Tonight at 7:00 the Alumni Banquet will be held in Pearsons dining hall. The program will be as follows:

Rev. Floyd R. Watt, president, will preside over the banquet.

All alumni, students, faculty, and guests are invited. The price of admission wil be a dollar. All seniors may get tickets for fifty cents.

Seniors Make Library Gift

The class of 1944 will present an oak display bookcase to the library as their gift to the school. It will bear a plate with the numerals of the class of 1944.

Each year it is the custom of the graduating class if it is financially able to present a gift to the school.

Twelve Juniors In Daisy Chain

Junior girls chosen to make up the daisy chain for Commencement will gather the flowers for the chain on Saturday afternoon. They will go out in the college wagon. The chain will be made on Sunday afternoon.

The daisy chain is an old college tradition carried on by Maryville. The girls are selected by the vice-president of the junior class to escort the graduating class with the chain of flowers. The girls chosen to make up the chain this year are: Betsy Burleigh, Peggy Caldwell, Lula Calloway, Carol McCutcheon, Lisette Gessert, Jane Hays, Betty Hoagland, Hope Pleyl, Margaret Hunt, Dorothy Lehman, Jeanne McCain, and Winnie Sommers. They will wear pastel-colored net dresses and will lead the processional into the chapel. They will then file to the center of the campus and form a "MC" through which the seniors with their diplomas will march.

MR. W. R. WEBB TO DELIVER GRADUATION ADDRESS AT 125th COMMENCEMENT

MR. WEBB

The speaker at the graduation exercises held in connection with the 125th Annual Commencement of Maryville College will be Mr. William Robert Webb, Jr., Principal of the Webb School, Bell Buckle, Tennessee. This service will be held Monday, May 15, at 10:30 a.m.

Mr. Webb was born at Culleoka, Tennessee, on April 4, 1874, and was educated at the Webb School and Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts. He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1896 and took post graduate work at Harvard University and the University of Chicago. Mr. Webb was an instructor in English at the University of North Carolina for two years and a teacher at the Webb School from 1897 to 1908. He has been principal of this institution since the latter date.

While acting in this capacity Mr. Webb has also participated in many organizations in church, civic, and educational circles. He is a member of the advisory committee of the American Classical League; a member of the Classical Association, Middle West and South (president, southern section, 1923-24), Tennessee Philological Society, (president 1916), and Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Nu, Trustee Mountain School, Crossville, Tennessee, 1917.

In addition, Mr. Webb was chairman of the Board of Education of the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, 1910-21; and is a member of the State committee of the Y.M.C.A., as well as a member of the State committee of the Anti-Saloon League.

He was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1934 and to the Uniting Conference of the Methodist Church in 1939. In addition, Mr. Webb was president of the Mid-South Private School Association, 1934-35, and president of the Private School Association of the Central States, 1939-40.

Wednesday Chapel Honors Seniors

Juniors Exchange Seats With Seniors

The annual Senior Chapel exercises were held Wednesday, May 10, at 2:00 p.m. The senior class, in caps and gowns, marched into the chapel to the strains of the "Travelers Hymn," played by Peggy Fisher at the organ.

The service was opened by Hubert Rust, who led in prayer. Lenore Wise asked the audience to sing the "Travelers Hymn," by William Whiting, as a prayer for the boys who have gone from Maryville College into the armed services. Marion Stout read the scripture from Ephesians 6:10-24, "Put on the whole armor of God." Betty Jane Miller led in a prayer for guidance through the days ahead. Ruth Cathcart, accompanied by Jean Keen, sang "My Hero," from the "Chocolate Soldier." Dorothy Harned mentioned the importance of letters in campus life, especially now with friends away in the armed services, and she read from a group of war letters—a mother's letter to her son, a private's letter to his mather at home, a letter from a college girl to her sweetheart half a world away, a letter from a Marine, and one from a Navy wife to her husband. A violin solo, Fritz Kreisler's "Liebesfreud," was played by Estelle Farrow, accompanied by Ruth Cathcart.

Paul Smith, president of the graduating senior class, spoke a few words of appreciation for the opportunities offered by Maryville College to its students, and Hope Pleyl, vice president elect of the rising senior class, expressed the wish of next year's senior class to carry on with the Maryville traditions.

These followed the formal exchange of chapel seats, the rising seniors taking the places vacated by this year's senior class.

Malcolm Thompson lead the closing prayer, and the entire college joined in the Alma Mater song of Maryville.

Directors Meet

The annual spring meeting of the directors of Maryville College will be Monday morning at 8:30. The purpose of the meeting before Commencement is to vote upon degrees to be presented at that time. After the rather brief meeting the director will join the Commencement processional.

Students Get Refunds

All students are asked to call at the Treasurer's Office for refunds before May 16th. This includes those who wish to redeposit for Summer School or the fall semester. Bring bookstore and dormitory tickets.

SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1944

THAT'S ALL, FOLKS . . .

With last week's theoretical medals and Friday's actual awards, we would now pause a half a second to mention a few without whom this ECHO would not have progressed even as smoothly as it does. With each week's fear that the paper won't be published until "next week" comes the working together of the ECHO staff for the "little publication" which is read we hope by the entire student body. And various comments on the content or mechanics have proved that you do read it.

First, to the managing editor, Bob Huber, we owe gratitude for faithfulness beyond the line of duty. He has been helpful not only in contributing a weekly column but also in assisting in the actual make-up of the ECHO. Through his experience this year he has prepared himself for the position to which he has already been elected by the staff—that of editor-in-chief of next year's paper.

To the two senior staff editors, who have consistently written major news articles and features, we would show appreciation for providing an important amount of weekly copy. In this issue they too are writing their final journalistic efforts on this page.

"Pixie" has Talked of the Week nearly all this year. She has been one of the more dependable of those connected with the ECHO. And the art work has brought to light what would often have been a dull page.

The junior associate editors, sophomore reporters, and the freshman apprentices have all been fewer in number this year. Such a situation has forced more work on all concerned, whether they were prepared for it or not. Their copy has indicated much work in organizing and collecting facts.

To Dr. Griffitts should go the largest bouquet. His past experiences with the college paper have helped us several times to avoid similar mistakes. Also his faculty advice is a well-known stand-by for the ECHO and a necessary element through thick and thin.

And the business staff is perhaps even more commendable this year than ever before. By hard work and careful calculations, Marion Schanck has made a success of a publication about which last year was said, "I don't see how it can hold together next year." Her three assistants—Betty Jane, Mable Ruth and Marilyn—have worked well under her direction. It is to this business staff that we owe the ECHO's actual existence.

With lumps in the throat and remembrances of pleasures between the long hard hours before "putting the paper to bed" we wish to next year's editor and staff a successful year of journalism, with complete cooperation by all connected.

TWO LIVES

Reading from left to right, those two animals which you see slightly out of focus are a worry-bird and an ordinary domesticated feline, but they fascinate me none the less. The cat they say has nine lives; we, unfortunately have only one life, but we have many times. You know the worry-bird very well, he doesn't give a hang about where he's going, he only wants to see where he's been.

And that's about the composite of a senior with one foot precariously on the threshold of the great beyond; there is only one thing left to do, take a long backward look and a deep breath and plunge ahead.

In making the long backward look, some very interesting things come to mind which it has heretofore been impossible for me to mention either in private or in public print. But, since most of the parties concerned and myself will be gone in two days, there is nothing to loose. And, since there has been some agitation among the freshman and sophomore classes recently, these few words may do some good.

Now there have been rumors of fraternities and secret societies supposed to be in operation on the hill circulating since the first week of my matriculation to Maryville college, and I dare say that such rumors will not die with my passing, and even venture to wager that I shall hear of them even though I be several hundred miles and ages of thought from here from now on.

Of course such rumors are ungrounded, for as anyone can plainly see upon just once leafing through the college catalogue, there is a wide variety of opportunities for participation in athletics, musical organizations, forensics, dramatics, religious groups, student publications, literary and social societies and the other activities found at a long established college of Maryville's size and type; so the existence of such secret organizations are entirely unneccessary, and therefore entertaining the idea of the possibility of any such actually being at the college is absurd.

O course, the fact that I, and many others, have been victimized and openly threatened upon occasion, by organized pressure groups from among the student body, for no other reason than not subscribing to the idea of the "frat", should in no wise be taken as an indication that such an organization does or ever has existed.

Then, too, when little breakfasts are held in the woods, and early morning meetings in the Y.W. rooms and week-ends to the mountains, all participated in by the same persons, to the exclusion of all other interested and enquiring parties, one naturally wonders a little.

Recently, members of the present frosh class have been led to believe that failure to "go along" with the frat would mean absolute social ruin on the campus, for the frat, they were told, was a large and powerfully influential organization dealing out high offices to those whom it chose to honor, and keeping from office those whom it found offensive.

Actually, of course, such is not the case today, though it may very well have once been: "the" frat and friends today hardly number a double-dozen, and with one or two possible exceptions, none hold offices or positions of prominence on the campus, though here too, such was not always the case.

And so, if your popularity or position has been threatened by anyone purporting to represent a large and powerful secret organization, just ignore it. If the organization is permitted to grow and become strong again as it once was, then the quality of the student body at Maryville will have begun to go down: this is one matter which is entirely in the hands of the student body; a secret organization, brought out in the light has no power if the majority of non-members believe that it has not.

MARYVILLE AT WAR

The seniors who take their leave from Maryville College in a few days have the distinction, among other things, of graduating during one of the most unusual years in the history of the college. Although separated from many of the inconveniences of war-time living, we nevertheless have been decidedly conscious of the nature of general conditions throughout the country. Undoubtedly the most noticeable manifastation of "our country at war" was the presence of the men of the forty-second detachment. The absence of intercollegiate sports was evident to all sports-minded students, as well as such general indications as ration books, crowded travelling condition, and the scarcity of ice cream and candy in the Chatterbox. Despite these, and many other conditions, as well as numerous problems which have been soled by the administrative officials, Maryville College has maintained a program equal to its usual high standards. To the officers of administration, to the faculty, and to all others responsible for maintaining the status of Maryville College we offer our sincere thanks. All those who are to be graduated, as well as those who are looking forward to future years of study here, should be appreciative of the fact that during the past year, as in previous years, this institution carried out its dominant purpose, which is "to provide a college education of high academic quality, under conditions which develop Christian belief, character, and service ideals."—J.C.T.

GOOD WAY TO KEEP IN TOUCH WITH COLLEGE-MATES

By MADELINE COOKE

When the seniors trade their books and pencils for a sheepskin Monday, they will cease to be students and will become alumni. And during the summer the personnel office will perform the sad rite of transferring their record cards to the Alumni office.

The first awareness of the functions of the Alumni office comes before graduation, though, when Mr. Smith hands out the recommendation blanks. All job placements are handled through the Alumni office. For each student Mr. Smith keeps a confidential record of his scholastic grades, a report from Miss Henry's office on the student's responsibility in financial matters, recommendations from three faculty members of the student's choice, and a picture of the student. Then when the prospective employer writes for a recommendation, it's a simple matter to give it.

Along about the same time that the recommendation blanks are given out, information about the Living Endowment Fund is distributed. Alumni are invited to make pledges to the endowment fund which they will pay each year as long as they live. It is the task of the Alumi Office to let the pledgers know their pledge is due, and to acknowledge the pledge when it does come in.

To keep a record of the names and addresses of all Maryville boys in the service is something which the Alumni office has taken on since the war began. If you hear of someone who has gone into the service, either alumnus or undergraduate, let them know at the Alumni office so that a star can be put on the service flag for them and the Alumni magazine can be sent to them. If you know of a change of address, won't you turn that in, too, so that the fellows can get all their mail. Furthermore, some other alumnus may write in with a request for that classmate's address.

The Alumni Bulletins, while we're on the subject, are made possible by the alumni dues ($2 a year). They come out in October and May of each year and are sent to all alumni, seniors, and boys in service.

Names of the alumni are kept in three files. One is arranged alphabetically. Another is classified geographically. If you should happen to move to some new community, just write in to the Alumni office and they'll be glad to give you the names of any alumni in the vicinity. The third is a permanent file, which even keeps a card for those who are dead. As the seniors complete graduate work, marry, or do something else equally important, these facts are noted on their card in the permanent file. There is also a file of former faculty members, ministers, and others who are interested in the college and to whom bulletins and notices are sent from time to time.

All engraving plates from the Chilhoweans are kept in the Alumni office. There's nothing the ECHO editor likes better than to spend a whole morning hunting for the picture of some grad to put in the Service column.

It is the Alumni Association which has created the need for an Alumni office. President of the association is Rev. Mr. Floyd Watt, better known perhaps for his Parish Project work. Mr. Watt appoints an executive committee of 13 members which meets about once a month. The aforesaid Mr. Jimmy Smith is the executive secretary for the association. The Alumni association plans Homecoming, Founders' Day, and Alumni Day.

There is one service of the Alumni office which touches undergraduates. This is the Student News Bureau. Whenever a Student does something outstanding or is given some special honor, a clipping is sent to his hometown newspaper, pastor, and school paper, if he was on its staff.

Before Mr. Smith took over the pastorate of Graystone Presbyterian church in Knoxville, he worked full-time in the Alumni office. Now he just gets over on Monday afternoons. Mr. Smith is quite a versatile man. He takes all the college movies, sets up the public address system for May Day, and fixes the amplifiers atop Anderson so that Christmas carols can be broadcast. In fact, he's just so handy that the office used to be filled with broken sugar bowls, radios, and things with missing handles which people would bring in to have him fix. These things are gone now, but there's still lots to be done. If you don't believe it, ask Mary Fershee—she works there, too.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

DEMOCRATIC RESPONSIBILITY

The college graduate is still a member of society, and a leader of men, and as such he must be willing to assume his responsibilities of citizenship. He must vote, take an active interest in national and local affairs, and help to maintain democracy and democratic procedure at all times. If college graduates would all activate themselves in this respect we would have fewer social problems and fewer wars. With intelligent leaders to guide us our national life would be persued in a much more intelligent manner.

Then too, they have a very definite duty to society. They have learned how to get along with people, have learned consideration and respect and tolerance, and now they must apply this knowledge. And this too is important if we ever hope to improve our society and our standards of living.

In the field of education, college graduates must not allow their minds to stagnate, thinking that they have now learned all there is to know or that is worth knowing. But they must rather keep on learning and exercising their mental abilities and capacities. They must educate their children to love and respect education and to value it.

While at college our knowledge of Christian principles has been broadened and brought to a climax. Now we must apply all these principles and precepts to everything we do. Being a Christian carries with it a responsibility that cannot be fulfilled on Sunday only, but it is a full time job requiring constant effort and attention. The college graduate is better qualified to fulfill this responsibility, and surely, if he does not, we cannot expect those who have not been educated to do much along this line.

IMPORTANCE

The future of the world and of our society depends upon the people in it and how they get along with each other. A college education should prepare a person to live a better, fuller life, and certainly an education at Maryville College has done this. Maryville has given to all its graduates a background that can be duplicated by no other institution. The high scholastic standards, the low expenses, and the positive Christian emphasis have all had their effect for good in the lives of every one.

GRADUATES—THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES

Next Monday those students who are now members of the Senior class will be graduated from Maryville College after four years of college training and experience. They have lived a sheltered life here, learning of life and how to make the best use of it, and now they must apply what they have learned to their own lives.

But as they depart from this institution they carry with them certain definite responsibilities to themselves and to society. The average college graduate is expected to have more common sense than the average person and he is expected to take a leading part in the life and activities of his community. His college education should have given him the necessary training and judgment.

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

In chapel Friday morning, May 12, the announcements as to the fellows getting the highest point totals in the Intramural system for this year were made. Abbott Kemp, sophomore from Acworth, Georgia, accumulated the highest total, 264 points. Bill Buford, senior from Florence, Alabama, got 236 points to come in second; he was followed closely by Wally Easter, senior from Washington, D. C., who had a total of 234. Each of those three will receive an intramural key. They were supposed to be awarded at the end of school, but at present they have not arrived. The next ten highest men have received intramural emblems for their participation. The list of the entire group of fellows who entered the program and the points they obtained is as follows:

1. Kemp	264
2. Easter	236
3. Buford	234
4. Poland	223
5. Parkinson	216
6. Ferguson	202
7. Lester	200
8. Schieber	197
9. Seel	195
10. Cover	193
11. Dillener	183
12. M. Turner	182
13. Moehlman	176
14. Crowson	155
15. H. Henry	126
16. Kirstein	121
17. J. Turner	107
18. Burgreen	102
19. Brown	92
20. Ross	82
21. Kidder	78
22. Richard	75
23. Taylor	65
24. Huber	64
25. Cross	55
26. Smith	51
27. Riley	46
28. J. Henry	44
29. Anderson	42
30. Rust	42
31. Burchfield	41
32. Scott	39
33. Dockendorf	38
34. Brophy	31
35. Cross	28
36. Arnold	22
37. Foreman	22
38. Knaupp	22
39. Lynt	22
40. Streshley	22
41. Stegall	7
42. Eaken	7
43. McGarity	5

It should be noted that the scale of points for this year has been lower than that of previous years. If the usual system of points had been used in tabulating the totals this year, the totals would be about three and a half times as great as they are. And that would give Squire Kemp the highest total that has ever been attained in the history of the Intramural program. It was because of the fewer number of men this year and the fact that it made the record-keeping easier that the Intramural staff decided to use a smaller point system.

Also included in the awards for this year is the letter sweater Harold Huffman is to receive for the work he did as Intramural manager. And Bob Seel and Wally Easter are to get junior manager keys for the effort they put into the program as members of the Intramural staff.

On a whole the Intramural program this year, even with the difficulties of having so few men and the trouble of finding a time when civilians could use the athletic facilities, was a great success. The participation this year was greater than it has ever been, if one looks at it from a percentage basis—a total of 45 fellows of the 72 men in school took part. That includes both semesters. And most of those who particupated took part in all of the different sports.

The following is a list of the sports the Intramural program included in the year 1943-44:

Football, Speedball, Basketball, Volley Ball, Singles Tennis, Doubles Tennis, Singles Ping Pong, Doubes Ping Pong, Singles Horse Shoes, Doubles Horse Shoes, and Softball.

Pi Kappa Delta Elects Officers

Dr. Briggs Elected Honorary Member

The Tennessee Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Delta elected officers to serve for the next school year at their annual banquet held in the YW rooms Tuesday, May 2.

Dorothy Lehman, a junior English major from Beverly, Kentucky, was elected president to succeed herself. Dorothy has recently been elected to membership in Writers' Workshop and Theta Alpha Phi and two years ago won the T. T. Alexander oratorical prize contest.

Robert F. Huber, a junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, was elected vice-president. He has been on the staff of the HIGHLAND ECHO for three years, has served as managing editor and was recently elected editor for next year. He is president of I.R.C. and a member of Writers' Workshop.

Dorothy Dick was elected secretary-treasurer. Dorothy is a sophomore home economics major from Hanover, Pennsylvania, and has been on the staff of the ECHO for two years. She was recently elected to membership in Writers' Workshop.

Bette Lou McCoy was elected to fill the position of reporter. She is a junior Bible major from Cincinnatti.

The officers who served for the past year were Dorothy Lehman, president; Georgia Meadows Woodward, vice-president; Ben Lynt, secretary; Muriel Geisler, treasurer.

Dr. Davis H. Briggs, professor of psychology, was elected to honorary membership at the same meeting. He has served as the debate coach this past year and accompanied the team on their trips to Lincoln Memorial University, Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, and Berea College.

The debate team and Pi Kappa Delta plan to enter many more inter-collegiate debates and speech tournaments next year. Plans have already been formulated for the debate class to begin work early in September.

HMmmmmm, Good Idea!

"You say there's a bill collector downstairs?"

"Yes."

"Well, tell him to take that pile of bills that's on the table."

Huffman-Yadon Wedding To Be Sunday Afternoon

Ada Yadon, sophomore religious education major from Knoxville, and Harold Huffman, junior philosophy major from Rockford, Ohio, will be married at 3:15 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel on Sunday, May 14. The bride will wear a white gaberdine suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage will be of red roses. She will be given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Clyde Cole. Her maid of honor is to be Zenobia Bernardine. Harold Eaken will be the best man.

Music, furnished by Peg Fisher at the organ, will begin at 3:00 p.m. The ceremony, however, will start at 3:15 P.M. Dr. John A. Gates will perform the ceremony.

All students and faculty of the college are invited to attend the wedding. The ceremony is informal.

Ben Lynt To Be Married May 17

Benjamin A. Lynt, graduate of the class of '44, will marry Miss Betty Jones, graduate of Duke University's class of '42, on May 17, at 8:00 p.m. in the Sherwood Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C. Miss Jones is the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Claude Decatur Jones of Washington. She will be given in marriage by her father. Her attendants will be classmates and graduates of Duke. Her flower girls are Donna and Sharon Jones, nieces of the bride.

Ben is a graduate of the class of '44 and is a resident of Washington, D.C. His best man will be Robert Armstrong, M.D., a high school classmate of Ben's, also of Washington. Ushers are Lt. Tom Mattingly of Camp Lee, Virginia, and James Hall of Washington. Reverend Mr. Richard Mussen will perform the ceremony.

Music will be furnished by Margaret Becker, a high school classmate of the groom, and Frances Grosh, also a member of this year's graduating class at Maryville.

Sthreshley To Wed Maryville Graduate

Lawrence Streshley, of the graduating class of '44, will be married at 8:00 p.m. on May 18, in the West End Presbyterian Church at Hopewell, Virgina, to to Miss Josephine Jennings of Hilsville, Virginia. Josephine graduated from Maryville in the class of '43.

Her attendants will be Stella Harman of Roanoke, Virginia, and Aster Jennings, sister of the bride. The maid of honor is Miss Helen Stribling of Columbia, South Carolina and the flower girl is Miss Elizabeth Cloe Streshley. The bride will be given in marriage by her father, Mr. Chester A. Jennings.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Sthreshley Jr. Ushers are Private Paul A. Jamarik and Mr. Joe J. Dudley Jr. The best man is to be the groom's brother, Mr. Richard Streshley, who will also furnish music for the wedding.

The ceremony will be performed by the Reverend Mr. Will E. Hill Jr.

Year of Girls' Sports Reviewed

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Aside from tennis and a few dribbly games of golf, there has been no organized girls' sports on the hill. Point system ended some time in April, with it a year of friendly rivalry between the WACS and the WAVES.

Let's quickly review the season. The WACS won the soccer tournament; but the WAVES retaliated by winning the basketball; volleyball tournament, the second semester was a victory for the WACS. Still don't know whether a decision was ever reached over the softball. It was judged by runs, and an extra inning was played, or something complicated like that. This mixed things up so no statement was ever issued to the press saying who the winners were.

Johnnye Gudel beat freshman Ruth King Wood in a close tennis macth. In fact the whole season the scores were very close. The teams were well matched and enthusiasm ran high.

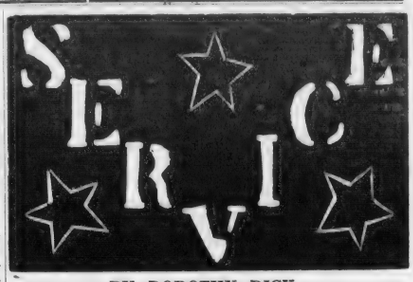
Next year with fewer boys, or shall I say one or two boys, sports among the girls ought to become even more important. Johnnye Gudel and Stevie Boretsky will be over at Clinton. Maybe they'll come over and referee a few games for us.

Alumni Magazine

No definite date can yet be announced for the publication of the spring issue of the Alumni Magazine compiled through the Public Relations Office. In this issue will be a list of all Maryville Alumni in the service. There will be accounts of the February Meetings and the special Easter services.

ALPHA SIG

William Cover, a freshman from Ohio, has been elected to head Alpha Sigma next year. The society held their last meeting of the year in the form of a banquet at Coulter's last week. The financial matters of the organization are being settled this week.



ATHENIAN

At the final meeting of Athenian, plans were discussed for next year. A committee on the continuation and management of the organization was appointed. John Shell, a freshman from Pine Bluff, Arkansas, was appointed chairman. Two members of the faculty will also serve on the committee. This committee will make it possible for the organization to meet the requirements in their constitution concerning officers, and for the club to continue no matter how small the number of men on the campus is next year.

Ministerials

Retiring President Lawrence Streshley installed the new officers of the Ministerial association in the amphitheater of the college woods Thursday, May 11, at 6:45 p.m. Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible, spoke.

Newly elected officers are: president, James Witherspon; 1st vice-president, Bob Dockendorf; second vice-president, Luke Cross; secretary-treasurer, Billy Robarts.

BY DOROTHY DICK

Second Lieutenant Ralph Cox, who attended Maryville during the year '41-'42, visited on the campus this week while on leave from the Marine Air Corps. A resident of Maryville, Tennessee, he received his wings a short time ago. He expects to return to New Orleans, Louisana, and then transfer to Chicago where he will be an instructor.

Pvt. John Williams, also a Maryville resident, was a freshman here at Maryville last semester. He was on the campus this week, during a furlough. He is in the Army.

Ensign E. B. Smith, who graduated in '40, is here visiting his home in Maryville, and spending some time on the campus. He is going to Norfolk from which place he expects to board a ship for sea duty.

Lieutenant Sam Yonger, who would have graduated this year, is stationed with the Army Air Corps overseas. His wife, the former Frances Marker who is a former member of this year's graduating class also, arrived on the campus this week with their infant son, Sam, Jr. Lieutenant Monger played football on the college team, and is from Sweetwater, Tennessee.

A letter was received from Cpl. Ted Pratt, last year's sport's editor of the ECHO. Ted is stationed with the 10th Training Battalion at Fort McClellan, Alabama. Ted was an outstanding student here on the campus, being active in the Y. M. and Intramural Sports. He played on the tennis team, was a member of Writers' Workshop and president of its governing board his senior year.

Major Julian Johnson, a former Maryville boy, was featured in Life magazine April 10, with General Joseph Stilwell. The picture showed them talking with a wounded Chinese soldier in an Army hospital. Major Johnson graduated from Maryville College in '26. After graduating from medical school, he practiced in an eastern city for sometime before entering the Army. He has been in India and China for the past year.

Joe D'antonio, a student at Maryville last year, is now attending the University of Maryland Medical schol in Baltimore, Maryland, under the Army training program.

Pvt. Bill Evans, a member of this year's graduating class, is here on the campus this week while on furlough from Camp Gordon, Georgia. He had expected to enter the A.S.T. Program in Civil Engineering, but the program was discontinued. He is now in the Army Infantry. Bill was an outstanding debater and member of Pi Kappa Delta. He was a participant in Intramurals, and a member of the Varsity team.

Ensign Dave Kidder, who is stationed at Neah Bay near Seattle, Washington, is home on leave with his wife, the former Mary Orr of Maryville. Both Dave and Mary are graduates of Maryville, Dave graduating in '42, and Mary in '41. Prior to coming to Maryville this week, Dave visited his home in Washington, D. C. Mary, who is the daughter of Dr. H. E. Orr, was married to Dave December 15 of last year.

INTERESTED MATRON ADVANCES STUDENT HELP PROGRAM

By OLINDE AHRENS

The Lord isn't the only one who helps those who help themselves. Maryville College does too! The answer? Student-Help. Students now doing Student-Help work at Maryville, in the College-Maid Shop, library, book store, post office, dining hall, print shop, as laboratory assistants, and in the offices, buildings and grounds of the college can tell you something about Student-Help today. But yesterday? Well, it started something like this . . .

Maryville College operating costs have always been held low, so that the "penny saved" might make it easier for some young person to get an education. The chief college expense is board. Just to make you wish you had attended Maryville in the "good old days," in the early days of the seminary and its farm, the cost of board was only $10 per year, or $1.00 per month! In 1871 board was offered at Baldwin Hall, but had gone up to $2.00 per week! This continued to be the rate until the Cooperative Club was formed. Convenient brick floored kitchens with cooking stoves and tables were provided free in the basement of Baldwin and Memorial, in which students could board themselves. For twenty years these kitchens were the chief boarding places of the students.

From the earliest days of the school, students earned part of their expenses by working about the college, but Student-Help found its guiding spirit in 1902 when Dr. Samuel T. Wilson, President of Maryville, asked Miss Margaret E. Henry, matron of Baldwin Hall and teacher in the college, to travel in the interests of the scholarship and student help fund that had been started on a small scale by Kin Takahashi, the public spirited Japanese student of Maryville. After considering a year, she consented to make the venture among strangers in the everywhere unwelcome task of seeking help from people already beleagured by beggars.

From the beginning of her work, however, she found friends for the college because of her enthusiasm for Maryville and because of her own heart-warming personality.

Margaret E. Henry was born at Little River, only a few miles from the mountains she always loved. Although her father died in the Civil War when she was seven years old, her mother managed to see that she had the advantage of a college education—at Maryville. The missionary spirit of the college was a contributing motive to her decision to enter the foreign mission field, and she sailed for Japan in 1882 as a missionary of the Presbyterian Church. During a storm at sea, she suffered a spinal injury, and, to her sorrow, it forced her to return to the United States a year later. In 1890 she accepted the duties of Matron of Baldwin Hall and assistant teacher in Maryville College, turning down an easier job with larger salary. What if she had accepted the easier position? Many hundreds of would-be students would never had reached college.

After accepting the position of Scholarship Secretary, her tours in behalf of the college attracted such attention that the Board of Presbyterian Church made repeated efforts to secure her as a field secretary. One of the Board members talked to Dr. Wilson, and told him they needed Miss Henry on the Board but he hesitated talking to her about it without first telling Dr. Wilson. At this, Dr. Wilson only smiled and told him to go right ahead and ask her—the Board would be welcome to her if they could persuade her to accept, for he knew what Maryville College had come to mean to her. Miss Henry only laughed when the offer was made to her, as she did at the other opportunities that came her way. Her uniform answer was: "I haven't time or desire to make money for my self ;what I want to do is to serve my dear old college and her boys and girls."

In the thirteen years that she was Scholarship Secretary, Miss Margaret Henry collected in cash $123,000. But how can one appraise the good she did the students—or Maryville College?

Miss Margaret Henry died unexpectedly in 1916. In 1918, two years later, our own Miss Clemmie J. Henry, cousin of Miss Margaret, took over the work of Secretary of Student-Help. She says that now, twenty-seven years after Miss Margaret's death, she still finds people who saw her only once and yet have remembered her radiant personality and devotion to Maryville College over a period of a quarter of a century.

Some friends of Margaret E. Henry suggested that a permanent fund for Student-Help would be the best kind of memorial for her, and gifts were made toward a $100,000 Memorial Fund. This fund is now within $4,000 of completion, and it is hoped that this fund will be completed by next fall for the 125th anniversary of Maryville College.

Miss Margaret Henry's life is but another illustration of the truth that "The great use of a life is to spend it for something that outlasts it." Student-help, and the lives of the students she helped are her real memorial.

President Lloyd Stresses The Fundamentals Of Education In Convocation Service Sermon

The 126th college year was officially begun with the annual convocation service Friday morning at eight in Voorhees Chapel. President Ralph W. Lloyd addressed the student body on "The Three R's at College". He presented the question which has been facing educational circles for some time. "What will become of the fundamentals of education?" and said there was a "growing conviction that the old fundamentals are fundamentals still."

Dr. Lloyd pictured these fundamentals as being, in general, the "three R's", reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. To these he wished to add two more: resolve and religion. To illustrate this last "R" he cited the example of a young airman who received a Bible and a book of poetry from a pilot friend.

Maryville College will always be noted for its program of liberal arts education. It is important that college students realize the value and significance of this totally unified program which presents the three R's for their benefit.

Freshman students started their career at Maryville College by presenting themselves in the chapel for the English Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, September 5. At the same time transfer students met in Anderson Hall. Following these meetings all new students were photographed for identification records. A meeting in the chapel at eight for new students ended their first day.

Registration began Wednesday for freshmen and returning upperclassmen. The College Community Sing provided the evening program. Ruth Broadhead, sophomore from New Jersey, and Owen McGairty, junior from Pennsylvania, were songleaders. Jack Houdeshel and Rush Lester presented several comic duets.

The first chapel service began the day Thursday with Associate Professor Lincoln Barker leading the devotions. All new students were required to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test at nine in the chapel. Only freshmen took the Reading Test in the afternoon. The Student Mixer was held in front of Thaw Hall Thursday evening under the direction of the Student Council. Rush Lester, sophomore from Birmingham, Alabama, was master of ceremonies. The program consisted of get-acquainted games, singing, and movies of campus activities over a period of several years. Refreshments were served. The Mixer was sponsored by the student council.

Dr. John A. Gates Will Be Vesper Speaker Sunday

Dr. John A. Gates will speak at the vesper service in the chapel Sunday evening Sept. 17 at 7:00 o'clock. Dr. Gates, who is associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, has been at Maryville since 1940 and has been a frequent and popular speaker at the college in the past. His topic has not been announced.

The choir will sing two numbers, directed by Mr. Richard W. Vine. These will be "Beautiful Savior," a choral arrangement of "Fairest Lord Jesus," by F. Melius Christiansen, and "Send Forth Thy Spirit," by Franze Joseph Schuelky.

DR. JOHN A. GATES

At the initial vespers of the year Dr. George E. Davies, who is the father of Miss Davies, spoke. Miss Davies is chairman of the division of Fine Arts here in Maryville, and her father was formerly pastor of several churches, in St. Paul, Minnesota, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Since his retirement he lives in Maryville and now serves a local church.

Professor Orr Loses Son In Burma Battle

William Orr, son of Professor H. Eugene Orr of the Maryville college faculty, was killed in combat in Burma, the War Department revealed about three weeks ago.

Pvt. Orr had been wounded in battle on July 27, and died on the 29th. He was in the infantry in General Stillwell's army. He has a brother and a sister who graduated from Maryville, and a sister, Mildred, is enrolled here as a freshman.

Faculty Undergoes Many Changes; Over 180 New Students Enrolled

College Training Detachment Left Maryville In June

Placque Presented To College; Now In Personnel Office

June 29, 1944, Maryvile bade goodbye to the 42nd College Training Detachment, our companion for sixteen months. Since March 1, 1943, over 1,100 men received specialized training here at Maryville. They stayed in our dorms, ate in our dining hall, exercised on our athletic field, and groaned under our professors.

The army prescribed a course of English, history, geography, math, and physics, with emphasis on the physics. In addition a goodly portion of physical education was required. The course lasted 21 weeks. During the last month the boys spent much of their time out at the airport learning to fly. For the first nine months of its stay here, the detachment took its flying work at the Knoxville Municipal Airport only 4 miles from here. Then the Navy took that field over, so our boys moved to the Island airport, a smaller field just beyond Knoxville.

Unlike the program in some schools, the cadets did not have classes with our students. They marched to and from classes and the dining hall. All of Carnegie except the fourth floor and nearly all of Bartlett was given over to the cadets. They ate in the so-called new dining hall—the rear wing of the hall—where they were served by girls from our own student body. Toward the latter part of their stay, they were given regular "open post" every night after supper till 7:15.

Captain Donald B. Ladd was commander of the detachment. He was assisted by 3 commissioned officers and 6 non-com. Another captain, Dr. Cheshire, was physician for the detachment. He and his four non-commissioned aids were in charge of the second floor of the infirmary. In time, a system of student government, you might call it, was worked out. A member of the graduating class was elected squadron commander. He had

YM Members Hold Pow-Wow in Woods

In accordance with the plans of the Y. M., the annual Pow-wow was held for the incoming Freshmen and other new students in the amphitheater in the college woods, last night, Friday, September 8th. The program for the evening included short skits and variety in that vein, along with the introduction of the president of the Y.M., and a report on Intra-mural sports by Tom Parkinson.

As an extra attraction watermelon was served to all present.

Over Four Hundred Students Enrolled For Fall Semester

Approximately 400 to 425 students will be enrolled at Maryville College for the fall term, 1944, according to the estimate given by the Personnel Office on Friday. The exact enrollment for this year has not yet been officially determined, since students are still in the process of paying fees at the treasurer's office.

Fifty men are enrolled as regular students in the college. Twenty-four of these are freshmen.

Definite enrollment figures will be announced when the tabulation is completed.

John Shell Will Be New Chatterbox Manager This Year

Chatterbox Opened Saturday Afternoon For The First Time

The Chatterbox, social center as well as refreshment center of Maryville College campus, opened on Saturday, immediately after dinner. This year the Chatterbox will be under the management of John Shell, sophomore economics major from Pine Bluff, Arkansas. Assistants in the Chatterbox will be Betsy Burliegh, biology major from Port Blakely, Washington, and Judy Turk, psychology major from Thomasville, Ga.

The definite hours for Chatterbox service have not yet been approved, but the tentative arrangement for Saturday is for the Chatterbox to be open after lunch, in the afternoon from 3:30 to 4:30 and immediately after supper. The regular schedule of Chatterbox hours will be announced next week.

The Chatterbox has been renovated during the summer, with roof repairs, plaster, and a fresh coat of paint.

The Chatterbox will handle the same line as last year—soft drinks, ice cream, candy, etc. Profits earned by the Chatterbox are divided by the YMCA and YWCA organizations.

Upperclassmen wishing to try out for positions on the Editorial Staff of the Highland Echo will report to the Echo office at 6:45 p.m., Sept. 29. There is one senior vacancy, three junior positions and four sophomore.

Freshman tryouts will be held through the English department and will be announced at a later date.

Societies Plan Rush Week For Freshman Girls

Caldwell, Messer Supervise Events For New Girls

Both Bainonian and Theta Epsilon societies have made plans for their rush weeks and drive for new members. The societies alternate yearly at to which organization has the first rush week. This year it will be Bainonian beginning the week of September 11.

Margaret Messer is the new president of Bainonian. Nancy Russell is in charge of the general plans of the week. On September 11, they had a watermelon feed and scavenger hunt at 3:45 p.m. On Thursday, the 14th, they are planning a surprise or mystery party in Bartlett at 4:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The formal opening and climax of the week will be in the gym at 8 o'clock on Friday night, at which time a good program will be given and refreshments served.

Theta rush week follows, starting September 18. The first event will be a tea on Tuesday afternoon from four to five thirty. Mary Dawn Noblit is making arrangements for the tea. On Thursday night at 7:30 the organization plans a splash party in the swimming pool. Betty Lou King is planning this. The highlight of the week will be their formal opening also in the gym at 8 o'clock, planned by Jane Hayes. Refreshments will be served. General supervisor is Peggy Caldwell, Theta president.

Both socities are sending individual invitations to prospective members giving more definite plans for the entertainments.

1945 Chilhowean Staff Announced

Thelma Richardson and Marinell Ross, editor and business manager respectively, recently announced the names of those who are to serve on the staff of this year's year book. Those appointed to help on the editorial staff are: June Gowanlock, Carol Titus, and Dorothy Toomey. Soapy Bernadini, Rebecca Davis, and Billy Ruth Wright, were chosen to work on the business staff.

The editor said that she wanted to make a plea that students pay for their Chilhoweans early this year.

Alumni Bulletin To Be Published Soon

The Fall issue of the Alumni Bulletin will go to the printers by the middle of September, and anyone having information about graduates or former students are requested to give the information to Miss Nancy Hunter.

Richard W. Vine Returns After Year's Absence; Others Added

President Lloyd today released the following information concerning changes in the faculty and staff for this semester: The officers, faculty, and staff will number approximately 70 full-time persons. Of these, 35 are teachers and librarians. The other 35 include officials, secretaries, supervisors, mechanics, farmers, cooks, and other necessary in a complex organization such as that of Maryville College.

Mr. Richard W. Vine returns to the Maryville faculty after a year's leave of absence as Assistant Professor of Music, teacher of voice, director of the choir and other musical organizations. Mr. Vine holds the B.Mus. degree from St. Olaf College and the Mus.M. degree from the MacPhail School of Music, Minneapolis. He also spent sometime in study in New York. Last year he was employed in the personnel division of one of the large contracting firms building the extensive Clinton war plants. Mr. Philip O. Jones, of Chicago, who filled Mr. Vine's position last year, has accepted a position as music teacher and director in the State of Washington.

RICHARD W. VINE

Miss Rachel L. Shobert, of DuBois, Pennsylvania, has been reported Instructor in Music and will teach piano, conduct the pre-school classes and handle other work. She holds the B. Mus. degree from the College of Wooster. During the past year she has been on the music faculty of the Grand Island Conservatory of Music, Grand Island, Nebraska. Mrs. Zimmermann, who had this work last year, is now in the West with her husband, who is in the armed services.

Miss Wine Recovering

Miss Alice Wine, who for the past seven years has been Head of McLain Memorial Hall, has been very critically ill following a serher work at this time. Miss Harious operation during the past summer and is unable to resume wood, who has been serving as Assistant to the Head of Balwin Hall, will serve this year as Head of Memorial Hall.

Miss Elizebeth Jackson, Assistant Professor of English, is to give full time this year as Assistant to the Director of Student-Help. Miss Almira E. Jewell, Assistant Professor of History, is unable to teach at the present time because of illness. The history classes which were formerly taught by her are being taught by Dean E. R. Hunter, Miss Jessie K. Johnson, and Dr. Ralph S. Collins.

Miss Hazel Beach, Supervisor and Teacher of Art in the Maryville City Schools, will teach the course in Materials and Methods of Art Instruction.

Coach Davis At Central

Mrs. George E. Brown, Assistant Professor of Biology, has been given a leave of absence to serve on the faculty of the Maryville High School and Mr. J. A. Davis, Assistant Professor of Physical Education, has been given a leave of ab-

Men's Societies To Make Change In Meeting Places

Mr. E. E. McCurry, proctor of the men's dormitory, called a meeting of all the college men Wednesday night, Sept. 6, in the lobby of Carnegie Hall. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss plans for the men's societies, Alpha Sigma and Athenian, for the coming year. Mr. McCurry gave some of the history of the two organizations for the benefit of the freshmen and told the group that this year for the first time the meeting rooms will be in Carnegie Hall rather than in Anderson. It was also indicated by Mr. McCurry that an extra incentive for the members of the respective societies in recruiting new members is that the larger group will get the larger meeting hall.

BULLETIN

Peggy Claypoole and Abner Richard became engaged this noon time, and the men of the college sereanaded them with "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The Fork I See Before Me The Handle Toward My Hand

By OLINDA AHERNS

'Please pass the glue." With these historic words another open (mouthed) season began at Pearson's dining hall. The occasion—breakfast, on the morning of September 6, 1944, and every weighty word just uttered can be explained. The "please" is because it's the first day when everybody still remembers manners from home and is trying to put his best foot forward. (Pardon, HER best foot, more than likely.) "Pass" was said because even that best boarding-house-reach can't quite (but almost) compass the length of the dining hall tables. And "glue", probably called "goo," is college English for that sweet sticky stuff we put on bread. And now that all is explained (and forgiven, we hope) let's go back to breakfast.

Where's the fire? There must have been one Wednesday morning At ten till seven crowds of people began pouring out of all dorms and hastening to the scene of the greatest hubbub — Pearson's lobby. Screams issued from out the crowd, but not the cries of the wounded or dying. The shrieks sounded more like, "Jane, oh Janie, how ARE you." "There's Miriam back. What have you done all summer, Miriam?" And bear hugs administered all around. Then suddenly the doors to the dining hall opened (or were they broken down) and the crowd flowed into the dining hall. Take a good look, one and all. You'll never see such a big crowd out to breakfast again (at least not with so few pajama legs showing beneath coats) till

Student Council To Make Plans

Jeanne Bellerjeau, president pro-tem, announces that there will be an important meeting of the Student Council Monday, Sept. 18, at 7 p.m. in Thaw 212. There are several matters which must come before the council at this meeting. Among these may be an election of officers. Permanent officers were not elected last year because of unsettled conditions in the college.

On Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 6, the Student Council had its first meeting of the year. It was a short meeting called to make arrangements for the student mixer, which a held Friday night.

Dr. Samuel Wilson, President Emeritus, Died During Summer; Buried In College Cemetery

Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, President Emeritus of Maryville College, died at the age of 86 on July 19 and was buried in the College Cemetery.

Dr. Wilson has not been known personally by the present generation of Maryville College students but all those who attended Maryville College prior to 1930 knew him and revered him. Dr. Wilson's picture has appeared in the Chilhoweans year by year and therefore all recent students knew him by his picture and have known some of the facts of his life.

He stands out as one of the great figures of Maryville College history. He was the fifth president of the institution for the 29 years between 1901 and 1930, when he retired and was elected President Emeritus. Prior to his service as President he was Professor of the English Language and Literature and the Spanish Language for 17 years, from 1884 to 1901, and for most of that period served also as Dean and Librarian.

Dr. Wilson was born in 1858 in Homs, Syria, where his father and mother were foreign missionaries of the Presbyterian Church. His parents brought him to the United States and to Tennessee when he was a very small boy. In 1873 he became a student in Maryville College where he graduated in 1878 and entered Lane Theological Seminary in Cincinnati. Upon his graduation from Seminary in 1882 he went as a foreign missionary to Mexico, where he served for two years but was forced to return to the United States because of illness. Later he became a member of the Maryville College faculty.

Dr. Wilson was connected with Maryville College as student, teacher, President, and President Emeritus for a total of 65 years. He was Professor and President for ta total of 46 years. It was during his presidency that the college made its greatest gains.

He was prominent in the field of higher education and in the Presbyterian Church, of which he was a minister for more than half a century. Maryville College owes more to him than to any other person, unless it be the founder himself.

Student Body Meeting Scheduled For Tomorrow To Vote On Town Night

Jeanne Bellerjeau, president pro tem of the student council, called a meeting of the student body to be held immediately after the chapel service tomorrow morning for the purpose of viting on the Town Nigh proposal. The action was taken this morning following the presentation of a petition asking for the meeting and signed by more than one hundred students.

As it now stands, Town Night privileges wil lnot go into effect this evening, but will be effective next week providing the student body votes to accept the responsibility at tomorrows's meeting.

Under the provisions of the Town Night proposal adopted last year by the student body, couples or girls in groups of three may go to town on Tuesday evenings from the time immediately following the evening meal until ten o'clock. Penalties will be imposed if they should arrive later than 10:15. In proceeding to and from town they may use College and Court streets only, and they are restricted to the business section of Maryville, and Harper street is the farthest boundry. Loitering on the campus or to and from town is prohibited.

Town Night cannot be held tonight because of the choir tryouts and physical examinations scheduled for this evening and because the entire student body has not approved the plan.

Approval is expected to be unanimous at the meeting tomorrow.

YW Sponsors Big-Little Sister Party

Maryville's annual Big and Little Sister Party was held Friday night on the lawn in front of Thaw Hall.

The party was sponsored by the Y.W. cabinet, and Mary Evelyn Jamison and Ethel Beal were in charge. Y.W. officers, Agnes Peterson, president; Dot Lehman, vice-president; Hope Pleyl, secretary; Jeanne Bellerjeau, treasurer; and Thelma Richardson, Nu Gamma chairman gave a skit.

There was singing, mizers, and a Travenger (Treasure-Scavenger hunt). Refreshments were served.

Published weekly during the school year, except at examination and holiday periods, by the students of Maryville College.

A WORD OF WELCOME

Hi there, or do you say hay. No matter what form of salutation a Maryville student may use the greeting is always friendly. In keeping with Maryville tradition of friendliness, freshmen and new students have been made to feel welcome and at home here, and it won't be very long until they know as much about the place as the upperclassmen.

This is what the welcoming committees of the YW and YM have been aiming for, and their efforts have contributed greatly towards making the campus one happy family and in creating a solid, friendly atmosphere.

We welcome the freshmen this year with continued faith and confidence in the traditional Maryville ideals despite war conditions. We know that Maryville College will this year, as it always has, maintain its high scholastic standards, its positive Christian emphasis, and its low expenses.

It is to a college of this type that the faculty and old students welcome the new ones. What finer traditions could they hope to inherit than these, and what finer spirit of friendliness and Christian brotherhood could be exhibited than that on the Maryville College campus.

ODds and enDS

By HANNAH DUKE

Three months have passed since most of us have had the experience of being at Maryville. For a few, who have been on the excellerated program, it's been a welcome relief from studies; but for others and probably most of us, our thoughts have centered around "our campus" anyway. It's a strange feeling but it's the deep impressioin that Maryville makes on the lives of its students that holds us to our school home. It's our school spirit. We are fortunate that we've been able to maintain this fine spirit during the present crisis. Many schools of equal size have beeen forced to close for the duration at least, and some finally. Our faculty, leaders, and students have been persistent in their efforts to assure us that the future of Maryville will be as stable as it has been in the past.

Now we are starting another new year. In many respects it will be quite different. That makes our task as students even more important. Each individual has a part in the success of campus activities. There are fewer of us but we are a determined group and of strong fortitude. Despite a lesser number enroled and a smaller faculty, we are not going to let this interfere with the Maryville tradition of wholesome fun, friendliness, and a big welcome to our new students.

The freshman class will be larger in proportion to other classes, especially with the male percentage. We can already see, as is evident, that they are ready to actively assume their roles in college life. We can't disappoint them. They must be allowed to purchase their chapel seats, see the college seal, and go snipe hunting in the woods. Upperclassmen, you are honor bound to assume your part of the role. It's the only way to keep alive our school spirit.

In all seriousness, let's make a success of this school year. We are among the lucky few to be able to be in school at all. There are sacrifices being made for us by others whose duty is more important to the nation than ours is at present. But our status is our duty too. It is for what we will be called upon at a later time that demands that we must not slack now. Let's make as much as we possibly can of our opportunities. And let's not merely make resolutions to do this. We will benefit most if we carry them out. It's up to us to succeed.

Barker, Taylor Graduate From Summer School

With the ending of the summer session at Maryville on June 30, two men, the first "all man" class in the history of the college since the Civil War, were graduated. Donald L. Barker and John C. Taylor both graduated with honors.

Donald Barker of Marysville, a philosophy major, graduated cum laude. He is the son of Mr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology and education. He was a member of Athenian society, president of the junior class, on the honor roll for all four years, and a member of the honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma. He was also secretary of the YMCA and was elected to Who Who's in American Universities and Colleges. He left Maryville to become a candidate for the ministry at Princeton Seminary.

John Taylor, a native of Philadelphia, majored in English having transferred from Temple University in his junior year. He was a senior staff member on the editorial staff of the Highland Echo, a member of Athenian society, vice-president of the Ministerial Association, and treasurer of Student Volunteers. He also won second prize in the annual T. T. Alexander Oratorical contest. A parish project worker and cabinet member of the YMCA, Taylor is also at Princeton Seminary preparing for the ministry.

The summer school enrollment numbered 42, the women being housed in Pearson Hall and the men in Carnegie. It was the third successive summer school at Maryville.

I.R.C. Plans Party For First Meeting

International Relations Club will start off its year's program with a get-acquainted party in three weeks. Dr. Hill Shine, faculty advisor of the club, and Bob Huber, president, will give a few words of welcome and an outline of the general purposes of the club. At the next meeting, two members of the club will speak on research work they did this summer. Plans will also be made to send representatives to the annual I.R.C. convention, which will be held later in the year.

Program chairman Bette Lou McCoy hopes to arrange for this year round table discussions and to secure for this year movies on world affairs and several outside speakers. Secretary Miriam Wickham and treasurer Olinde Aherns are the two other officers.

You Too?

Upperclassman: How many studies are you carrying?

College Maid Shop Supplies Navy Nurses With Uniforms

By MADELINE COOKE

Things down in the College Maid Shop really run according to system. That's the place down in the basement of Thaw, you know, where girls can make unforms to earn part of their expenses. Each month hundreds of uniforms—Navy and Veterans' nurses' uniforms, hooverettes for the Apex Hosiery Mill in Philly, and gym suits for dear old M.C.—are turned out at the Maid Shop.

Let's just suppose you're a Navy nurse and see just how your order is filled. A representative from the Maid Shop comes to your hospital and takes your measurements. These are put down on a permanent record card to be used for future orders. When the order reaches the Shop, Mrs. L. L. Wiliams (wife of our Dr. Williams) marks a sample pattern so that it exactly fits your measurements. The sample pattern is turned over to Imogene Everett, who cuts the material. All the uniforms in one order are cut at the same time. If you've ordered eight uniforms, Imogene arranges eight layers of cloth, lays on the pattern, and starts cutting. The cutter is automatic and has a revolving blade with a mean edge.

After the uniforms are cut out, they are placed together on a table. Then's when our little coeds come in. They take all the pieces that belong to one uniform and put them together. If she's had experience, she can do it in an hour. After all the seams are sewn, the uniform is sent to either Marky Cross or June Byrnes to have buttonholes and eyelets put in. That's no quick job, for there are 20 buttonholes on the Navy uniforms and 14 on the veterans'. Incidently, a set of pearl studs is furnished with every six uniforms. When the uniform is completed, it must be inspected and measuered. If it is put together correctly and the seams are finished in the approved maner, and the measurements are what they were cut out to be, the uniform is ready to be sent out to you. Each of the uniforms in your order may be sewn by a different girl, but no more than one girl works on any one uniform.

Navy uniforms are all the same style and the same material—white twill. Nurses in veterans' hospitals must have a uniform style but they may have their choice of materials. Uniforms for the hosiery mill are made in green, blue, orchid, and peach. The colors have something to do with the department they're to be worn in. Needless to say, the gym suits come in orange and garnet.

Hardest thing for new girls is to get used to the power machines which they use. There are some 35 of them at the Maid Shop, and they get into high speed in nothing flat. After the girls learn how to put the uniforms together, the job becomes an easy routine.

The Maid Shop has time for few side-lines nowadays. However, they do cover buttons and put in snappers and furnish scraps of material to be made into hard little Red Cross fracture pillows. Girls in the college can go down and sew on ordinary machines for ten cents an hour.

When a college maid finishes a uniform, she sticks in the pocket a little paper with her number on it. Just to show you the wonderful possibilities in the work, listen to this: this summer two girls got letters from two sailors recuperating in a California hospital. They had gotten hold of two of these bits of paper from some nurses and had begun their letters, "Dear Number So-and-so—!"

Head of the Maid Shop is Mrs. Kathryn R. McMurray. Her assistant, Mrs. McKelvey, is expected back soon after a two month's vacation. There are quite a number of old students who are working in the shop. Already seven new freshman girls have signed up for Maid Shop work. There's plenty to do for them and many more. You can spend as much or as little time at it as you wish and arrange your own schedule; so if you're at all interested, drop by and see Mrs. McMurray.

Spanish Club

Miss Ruth E. Cowdrick, assistant professor of Spanish, has agreed to be faculty advisor for the Spanish Club this year, president Louise Corbett has announced.

Spanish club is an active organization open to all students interested in Spanish and Spanish culture. Date for the first business meeting soon will be published. At that time a new treasurer will be elected. Other officers for this year are: Edelmira Pino, vice-president; and Mary Johnston, secretary.

Dr. Lloyd Elected President of Synod Of The Mid-South

The annual meeting of the Mid-South Synod of the Presbyterian in U.S.A. was held on Maryville College campus June 27-29. The Women Synodical Society met here at the same time. There were approximately 400 ministers, lay, men, and women, living in the dorms and even in Pearson's dining hall. Each day business sessions, conference classes, forums, and chapel meetings were held.

At the opening business meeting Ralph Waldo Lloyd was elected the new moderator. He presided at the meeting during the week.

Dr. Charles R. Erdman of Princeton held the Bible hour each day.

Evening speakers included Dr. Luther E. Stein of Philadelphia, and Dr. William B. Pugh, chairman of the General Commission on the Army-Navy chaplains.

The retiring moderator of the Synod was Dr. Joseph M. Broady, for 30 years pastor in Birmingham. He preached the opening sermon.

The retiring president of the Womens Synodical Society was Mrs. D. W. Proffitt, wife of the president of Proffitt's Store here in Maryville. TThe new Synodical president elected was Mrs. W. J. McPheron of Birmingham.

Those present represented 5 states: Tenn., N. C., Georgia, Ala., and Mississippi.

Cotton Club

Students from south of the Mason-Dixon line are advised to watch for the announcement of the opening meeting of Cotton club. This is a club designed to interest and entertain all students who call themselves Southerners. Freshmen and transfers are especially invited to the first meeting.

Painters Dress Maryville Campus For Opening Of Fall Semester

While the rest of us were still suffering under the warm summer sun of July and August, Maryville College was being measured and fitted for her new fall outfit. Painters, paperers, carpenters and piano tuners worked hard and long preparing the college for our return.

The first, and the most difficult job confronting the workers was the repairing and re-decorating of Voorhees Chapel. All evidences of the fire which ruined a portion of the fourth floor of the building last fall had to be destroyed, and all damaged properties re-placed. the entire building was scaffolded Immediately after summer school, with 4,000 ft. of lumber, and within four weeks the chapel had a new ceiling, new light fixtures, and a new coat of paint. Two thousand feet of soft pine formed a base to which the celotex ceiling was nailed. All walls, floors, and hallways were redecorated; the pianos in the fine arts studio and the parctice rooms were tuned and put in good condition.

Rooms on the second and third floors in the front wing of Baldwin were redecorated and the bathrooms were painted. Other rooms of the building will be gone over next summer.

The entire interior of Pearson's kitchen, including the back porch and the dish room was painted. Floors and hallways in the rest of the building were also re-done. Two new showers were installed on the fourth floor.

In Memorial the hallways and the bathrooms were painted and the lobby was papered.

Carnegie Hall, which for the most part had been turned over to the army last year, has been repaired. All the doors have been replaced, the plaster has been patched, and rooms in the basement and on first and second floors have been redecorated. A partition has been placed across one half of the building where two men are still busy with the decoration. All paths worn by the army have been dug up and re-sodded.

Hallways of science hall and first floor hallways of Anderson have been painted. Dr. Orr's classroom and Alpha Sigma hall have been replastered and painted also.

In That Hall Dr. Briggs' psychology labratory and office are newly painted. The Chatterbox, the book store, and the first floor of the hospital have been decorated.

One thousand gallons of paint, two barrels of turpentine, one barrel of linseed oil, dozens of paint brushes, ten painters, and four carpenters formed the combination which prepared Maryville College to welcome us home.

Touch Football To Start Fall Intramural Season

Intercollegiate sports at Maryville are definitely "out" for the duration of the war of course. But plans at present very emphatically call for intramural sports on this campus this year even with the shortage of manpower and other unfavorable circumstances. Steps have already been taken to get the touch football league started; the entry blank for all those who are interested was posted on the Carnegie Hall bulletin board last week, and the number of fellows who signed up for that sport was very promising.

Last spring, when the present "Y" Cabinet was appointed, conditions were very unsettled and the number of students who were to be back here was a small and indefinite figure. Even so, Tommy Parkinson was appointed chairman of the athletic committee with Bill Cover also on that committee. And this fall with an enrollment of something around 50 fellows those two are going ahead with big plans for an intramural program—a successful one.

As is customary the football is the men's dorm lately as to the of major sports, with the probability of a ping-pong tournament to serve as a minor sport as soon as ping-pong equipment is installed in the new play room in the basement of Carnegie Hall. There has been a good bit of talk around the men's dorm lately as the the possibility of mustering up enough able bodied men to perhaps get a scrimmage game or two with neighboring high school teams. There seems to be quite a bit of interest along that line among the men. According to as good a source as Coach Honaker, it is a "possibility." The plan was suggested by Coach that the touch football be used for the purpose of getting the "material" in shape and to get an idea whether or not there are enough fellows who are good enough to make any further steps. And that is the situation as it is just now.

Since the intramural staff did not know how many man would be in college this year,no definite plans could be made for the whole year; but the staff states that if it is at all possible, there is going to be a good program. Announcement of more definite plans will come later.

Soap or Male Shortage

One Freshman gal got a phone call from Carnegie Hall last week. A masculine voice asked: "What are you doing Saturday night?"

"Nothing." was the hopeful reply. "Then may I borrow your soap." he asked.

More Than Two Dozen Graduates And Former Students Take Vows Of Matrimony; Others Engaged

News of engagements and marriages seems to be an outsanding topic of conversation. More than two dozen former students of the college are now man and wife.

Marjorie Stokesberry and Paul Moehlman were united on August 27 in Thorntown, Indiana. Paul will enter McCormick Seminary this fall.

Bill Evans persuaded Teddie Cofer to be his bride on June 4 at her home in Millen, Georgia. Pvt. Evans is now awaiting overseas duty and his wife is attending school here.

Colleen Baugh of Kingston, Tennessee married Pvt. Ray Barnard of her hometown June 7 in her home church. This information was obtained through the kindness of the maid-of-honor, Betty Ballard.

Two roommates were married within a day of each other. Pfc. and Mrs. J. Edward Kidder '43 were married at Crossnore, N. C. on August 19. Mrs. Kidder was Cordelia Dellinger, '44.

Olson Pemberton '43, Ted's roommate, and Jean Patterson, '43, exchanged marriage vows on August 18. Olson is a third year student at Princeton Seminary.

Betty Burton and Cadet Tucker Penner are now man and wife. Tucker was formerly with the 42nd C.T.D. stationed here.

Nancy Russell just received a diamond from Cadet Raoul Lynn now in Mississippi.

Carol Titus received her engagement ring from India in August. Mr. Donald P. Hardy awaits her there where he is stationed with the Indian Civil Service.

Louise Corbett, junior from Jacksonville, Florida, is wearing a ring from First Lt. Eugene Garges, brother of her roommate, Rosalind.

Eva Mae Campbell, known to most as "Sunny", is engaged to Quartermaster John Martese, U.S. N. Students will remember him as the violinist who played in a college vesper service last year.

October 10 is thewedding date set by Jean Batchelor and Chaplain Murphy Williams, Lt. (j.g.) U.S.N. Her younger sister Mary will be her maid-of-honor.

May 19 was a wedding day for two Maryville couples. Guy Lambert, '43, and Dorothy Gessert, '42, had a candlelight wedding in Rosewell, N. M. with Margaret '44 and Lisette, '45 as attendants. Guy is now a third year student at Princeton Seminary and his wife is with him. Ed Sapp, '43, was married to Majorie McCaleb also on May 19 in Macon, Georgia. He is now a student at Columbia Seminary and Marjorie is a sophomore here.

In early summer Louise Warwick, sophomore from Knoxville, received a diamond from the Rev. Mr. Chalmers Mattern, assistant pastor of the Miles Avenue Church of Christ in Cleveland, Ohio.

Betty Dunn of Detroit, Michigan is wearing an engagement ring from Mr. Wililam Martin, also of Detroit, who is an engineer in the company by which Betty was formerly employed.

Annual Facutly Reception Held Last Saturday

The annual faculty reception was held on Saturday evening, September 9 in Lamar Memorial Library beginning at eight p.m. In the whole college year, this is the one opportunity for the student body to met all members of the faculty and staff at one time and vice versa.

The receiving line was headed by the presidents of YM and YW, Agnes Peterson and Joseph Brown, and President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd. Facutly members and their wives followed in alphabetical order.

Identification cards were presented to those attending in the front lobby of Thaw. Jeanne Heaps, Ruth Lloyd, Lottie Lavendar, Ethel Park, and Hannah Duke were at the table in charge of distributing the name cards.

Refreshments were served by the following girls: Florence Gobillot, Catherine Sisk, Betty Montgomery, Mary Batchelor, Elizabeth Proffitt, Katherine Payne, Angell Kincaid, Edna Watts, Marian Garvin, and Frances Bradshaw.

Student committees were in charge of arrangements. Jane Hays and Marion Schneeweiss represented the YW and Abner Richard and Robert Seel were delegated from YM. Approximately three hundred students attended with the majority belonging to the freshmen. The occasion was a formal one for the women attending.

College Presents 125th Anniversary Catalogue Issue

The Maryville College catalogue for 1944 is "The 125th Anniversary Issue." Instead of the standard gray cover which has been used for many years the cover is white with the college colors of orange and garnet in bands at the left. The printing on the cover is in garnet.

The catalog contains 129 printed pages and 4 pages of pictures. The general plan is similar to that of other recent years. On the inside of the front cover is a statement as to accreditment and affiliations and in the pages immediately following the pictures are the college calendar for 1944-1945, the list of Directors, and the list of committees. These pages are followed by sections under the headings Officers and Faculty, Visiting Speakers, Introductory Facts, History and Purpose, Expenses to the Student, Requirements for Admission, Requirements for Graduation, Courses of Instruction, Work in the Division of Fine Arts, General Information, Honors and Prizes, Degrees Conferred, and Register of Students.

Students may receive copies of the catalog by calling at the Personnel Office and they may leave requests for the catalog to be mailed. Maryville College follows the plan of giving out catalogs free although they cost the College, exclusive of handling and mailing, 21½c per copy. Because of this expense and the limited number, students are asked to take care of them.

With The Colors

this time next year. The boys patriotically distributed themselves out two or so (limit four) to a table, and everybody sat down.

And speaking of breakfast, sophomores like breakfast as well as anyone, but when unwary freshmen come in at six, rouse one sweetly wrapped in slumber (and a borrowed blanket) and state firmly, "That's the six o'clock rising bell—breakfast is served at seven—oh, oh—got the wrong gal," things are going too far. Public notice is herby served on freshman No. 219. Baldwin Hall, to take heed!

What's cookin', good lookin'" is our nomination for dining hall theme song. As one freshman said when he saw Miss Ware whisking thru the dining hall, "Um-yum"—and he wasn't speaking of the food either.

Of course we can't let ourselves be robbed of the favorite college indoor sport—crudding about the food —just because things taste good, so feel free to put your two cents worth about the coffee tasting like Aunt Sally's dishwater, while you're asking for a second cup.

Changes have been made in the dining hall, the biggest one being no cadets behind the lattice. That couldn't be the reason that there isn't such a scramble this year for seats facing east?

Well, step right inside and find your table, folks! Now you have one, now you don't. And you five fellows had better sign on the dotted line with that cute freshman hostess or someone else will!

Know what? I'm hungry. Wonder what's cooking for lunch?

several cadets assisting him. When his class graduated, he turned his office over to the newly appointed squadron commander of the rising graduating class. Each month a class of 60 would graduate and a new group would come in. There was nearly always a full quota of 300 men here.

Our cadets came from all over the country and represented various levels of education from some who had not finished grammar school to those who were university graduates. From Maryville the men went on to advanced training. In April there was some confusion in the program and several groups were sent back to their original branches of service. However the last groups to leave were sent on to advanced training as usual.

When the Army left they presented a placque to the college. It is in recognition of the service Maryville performed in assisting the Army in its specialized training program. The placque has been hung in the personnel office. In addition to this material reminder of their stay, the Army has left behind a feeling of cooperation and goodwill, memories of fun and romance, and an assurance that America will be safe in the hands of these soldiers.

Six Local Churches Welcome Students To Sunday Services

Maryville College students have a choice of six churches which they may attend Sunday by Sunday. They are all located in downtown Maryville within easy walking distance of the college. All the churches use the same schedule with Sunday School starting at 9:15 and church at 10:30.

The New Providence Presbyterian Church on the corner of Broadway and College Streets will have as its guest preacher, Dr. Clinton H. Gillingham. Dr. Gillingham is the former President of Tenant College Church in Philadelphia, a position he took after being head of the Bible department at Maryville College for several years.

The services at the First Methodist Church on East Broadway will be under the direction of their own minister, Dr. F. B. Shelton. Likewise, the services at the Broadway Methodist Church will be led by the local pastor, Rev. C. P. Hardin.

The First Baptist Church located near Ellis Avenue near College Street, will hear their own pastor, Dr. Çolvin L. Hammock, as will the congregation of the First Christian Church at the corner of College and Ellis. Their pastor is Dr. A. A. Hyde.

The services at the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church on W. Broadway will be directed by the Rector, Rev. Maurice Hopson. All of these churches extend a hearty welcome to college students to attend their services.

CHOIR TRYOUTS TO BE HELD THIS WEEK;

Choir tryouts will be held at 6:45 P.M. on September 11, 12, and 13, in the Fine Arts studio. Tenors and Basses tried out Monday night, Sopranos will tryout on Tuesday night, and Altos on Wednesday night. All men on the campus interested in singing were especially encouraged to attend the tryouts. The Maryville College Glee Club will meet at 7:00 P.M. on Thursday, Sept. 14, in the Fine Arts studio. Both old and new members are invited to attend.

Organization of an orchestra will begin Tuesday, September 12, at 3:30 P.M. in the Fine Arts studio. String players are expressly needed but all students who play instruments are essential.

VOLUME 30 MARYVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 25, 1944 NUMBER 2

Seel, Fershee Elected Senior Class Presidant, Treasurer

Senior class elections of Friday, September 8, resulted in the election of Robert Seel as president and Marion Fershee as treasurer. The student council members elected were Louise Henry, Robert F. Huber, and Jack Scott.

Dorothy Brown of Pennsylvania was elected secretary of the senior class at a special meeting last Saturday morning following the chapel service. The action was necessitated by the resignation of Shirley Scott, elected to the post last spring.

It was necessary to have new elections this fall due to the fact that last spring Peggy Caldwell and Louise Henry tied for the presidency. A new treasurer was necessary also because Phillis Irshay did not return.

Robert Seel

Bob Seel is a chemistry major from Bradenton, Fla. He is a member of the choir and the men's glee club, the Ministerial Association, and is an Athenian. Marion is a sociology and religious education major. Her home is in Alma, Michigan; she is a member of the parish project, and Y cabinet.

Freshman Girls Are Rushed By Bainonian Society

Rush Week Features Mystery Party And Gala Formal Opening

Last week the Bainonian society opened the Rush Week by a program of three special parties for freshmen girls. Nancy Russell and Shirley Scott were in charge of the Rush Week.

First scheduled event was the traditional Bainonian watermelon feed, a week ago Monday. The party was originally scheduled for the woods, but the practically traditional rain forced the feed to relocate itself in the Alumni gym. About 150 girls were on hand to join in the fun. After an opening game, Nancy Russell told a ghost story which ended in a scream. In order to work up a little appetite, the girls ran off some relays—walking, jumping, hopping, and running. The winning teams were allowed to be served first.

It has been the custom for the society to give a tea. However the committee decided to break tradition and plan something more interesting. A mystery party in Bartlett auditorium was the result. The mystery was solved when the curtain rose on a clever play about girls being rushed by two societies. "Love in the Bonds" was its name, and the cast included: Dotty Lehman, Shirley Scott, Nancy Russell, Mike Farrow, Bette Lou McCoy, and Miriam Bowditch. On the day before the play, Thelma Richardson consented to take over the part to have been playedby Rachael Galbreath, who was unable to attend the party. After the play, the girls were invited over to Bainonian Hall in Pearsons to see the room about which they had heard so much. There they were served punch and cookies.

Climax of Bainonian rush week came Saturday night at 8 p. m. with the formal opening in the gym. The gym was decorated with greeen and white streamers—Bainonian colors. This year's theme was "We Girls", and the entertainment showed different stages of a girl's life. For the chilhood scene, Shirley Scott, dressed as a little girl, recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb". Her musical training was represented by Fay Cameron's playing two selections on her violin. Thelma

Forty-five Make College Choir As Result of Tryouts

Members To Hold Picnic In Woods This Afternoon

Choir try-outs were held the week of September 11, in the Fine Arts Studio. A great number of music lovers attended these try-out, which were scheduled for the 11, 12 and 13th only; but because of the unusual nmber of good voices, Richard W. Vine found that an entire week was needed to choose the voices that now compose the Maryville College Choir. Said Mr. Vine, "I was surprised at the really fine voices we have on the campus. Of course, there were some of the better voices that didn't make the Choir. This is not necessarily due to lack of quality in their voices, but because I had to choose carefully the voices that I thought would best blend to make our choir the fine, well-known organization it has always been. I honestly appreciate the cooperation and patience shown by the students at the try-outs."

The Choir as it now stands is as follows: 1st. Sopranos, Marcia Kiern, Sibyl Tallent, Catherine Sisk, Peggy Howell, Gilolo Kell, Rosemary Fry; 2nd. Sopranos, Marion Schneeweiss, Ellen Pascoe, Carol Peake, Mary Robarts, Betty Ann Hall, Louise Warwick; 1st. Altos, Barbara Blair, Patricia Ames, Beth Leatherwood, Martha Scanlon, Ethel Parks, Florence Gobillot, Louise Henry; 2nd. Alto, Jane Hays, Kay Bonner, Betty Saint, Zenobia Bernadini, Betty Vineyard, Jenny Payne, Janet Rich, Joan Hart; 1st. tenors, Jack Scott, Owen McGarity, Bob DuBoise; 2nd. Tenors, Jack Houdearts, Merrill Grubb; 1st. Bass, Bob Hiking and Swimming are particiSeel, Bill Cover, Fred Wilson, Jay Bishop; 2nd. Basses, Carroll Stegall. Ed Gates, Byron Sprague, Tom Horst, Rush Lester, Jim Martin, Jim Leister.

Saturday, September 23, at 3:00 p. m. the Choir will hold a picnic at the college picnic grounds for the new and old members of the Choir. There will be a ball game followed by a hamburger supper.

Sibyl Tallent is in charge of the picnic with Ellen Pascoe helping her on the buying committee, Marion Schneeweiss, preparation; Jim Witherspoon, transportation; and Kay Bonner, entertainment.

Business Staff To Have Tryouts

Anyone wishing to try out for the positions on the business staff of The Highland Echo please hand their applications to Dr. F. A. Griffitts, within the next week.

1945 Chilhowean Photos This Week

The 1945 Chilhowean, which is published by the members of the Junior class and representatives of the Sophomore class, is progressing rapidly and will be ready for distribution the first week in May, says Thelma Richardson, editor. She further states that a photographer from S. H. George & Sons will be on the campus Sept. 27 to take all group and individual photographs for this year's yearbook. Announcements regarding this will be made later but Miss Richardson urges that all who wish to have their pictures in the Chilhowean must have them made at that time.

Marinell Ross, business manager, states that the majority of students have subscribed and paid in full for their yearbooks. All payments must be made to some member of the business staff by the last of November, said Miss Ross, and those who haven't subscribed and still want to must do so this week.

College Orchestra Organized; Plans Made for Year

An orchestra was organized on Tuesday, September 12, in the Fine Arts Studio. The following persons met at that time to comprise the orchestra: First Violin, Fay Cameron, Rosalind Garges, Louise Corbett, Sunny Campbell; Second Violin, Virginia Baier, Anna Sakaizawa, Esther Cornelius, Ruth Llyod; Cello, Miriam Bell; Oboe, Fay Gaddy, Viola, Miss Horne; String Bass, Jean Ladell, Charles Hoffman; Flutes, Helen Underwood, Martha Barnwell, Loucille Sitler, Constance Hawkins, Carol Gillette; Clarinet, Marion Weigel, Marion Swift, Emily Leety; Saxaphone, Emily Aimee; Cornet, Harriet McKean, Carleen Stevens, Nan Allison; French Horn, Mary Barnwell, Dorothy Vowter, Beth Huftalen; Trombone, Harold Hunter, Fred Wilson; Basson, Bill Cover; Piano, Ann Haygood, and tymphs, Mary Batchelor.

Life Is A Christian Mission Dr. Henry Little Declares In Thursday Chapel Address

"Life is the Christian mission—wherever we are!"

This was the conclusion voiced by Henry Little, Jr., D. D., Head of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, as he addressed Maryville students and faculty at chapel service Thursday morning, September 21.

Although "mission" is a word of war well-known in these times, Dr. Little explained it also as a word of peace: "The Christian Church is a mission. . . .; this is bigger than any danger, bigger than any peril." He pointed out that every Christian is to be a missionary in his daily life, even though he does not enter the foreign field.

After chapel service, the speaker remained on campus several hours for interviews with students interested in foreign mission work.

Dr. Little, whose station is in Chicago, Illinois was originally scheduled to speak September 20, but was delayed in Indianapolis. In his place, the Rev. C. E. Cathey of Nashville, Field Director of the Board of Christian Education, conducted the scripture reading and prayer on Wednesday morning.

Abner Richard Is Chosen Athenian Society President

John Shell, as chairman of the continuance, presided at the first meeting of the Athenian Society this year. It was held in Carnegie Hall 406 on September 16 for the purpose of electing officers. Officers for the first semester are as follows: Abner P. Richard, president; Owen McGarity, vice president; John Shell, secretary; and Robert Dockendorf, treasurer.

Hailing from Norristown, Pa., Abner Richard is a sociology major. Owen McGarity is from Croydon of the same state and majoring in Political Science. John Shell is an Arkansas boy, from Pine Bluff and he has chosen economics as his major. Robert Dockendorf is an English major from Hyattsville, Maryland.

The first big program of the year for that society is to be conducted in the auditorium of Bartlett Hall Saturday at 6:30. Plans for a good program have been made with John Houdeshel in charge. All men of the college are cordially invited to attend, and a special welcome is extended to the prospective members among the freshmen.

College Museum Given Gifts By Maryville Graduate

A new addition to the Maryville College museum has recently been received, in the form of several gifts from Mrs. R. F. Hill, of Felton, Delaware, who, was Mary Gaines Carnahan, received her B.A. from Maryville in 1899. After her graduation from Maryville she taught in Puerto Rico public schools from 1899 to 1906. From 1909-11 she lived in Cuzco, Peru, and it was in Peru that she obtained the articles now presented to museum.

The gift includes six small, daintily wrought silver spoons, bought in Cuzco, Peru, but imported Spanish workmanship; six small spoons of Italian workmanship; one spoon bought at Arequipa, Peru, of Indian workmanship; six regular-size teaspoons, made to order by a Cuzco silversmith; two tablespoons made to order and initialed; one curious spoon of native wood, carved by the Peru Indians, in which a carved human hand holds the bowl part of the spoon, a gift from a fellow teacher in the Colegio de Eduandas, Cuzco.

Perhaps the most interesting items of Mrs. Hill's gift are two silver pins. One large shawl pin is said to be the workmanship of the time of the Incas and to have considerable symbolism of the Sun cult. A peacock forms the crest of the pin, with other symbols carved beneath, and attached by a chain is a pendant in the form of a small silver plate. There are said to have been three pendants originally, the other two being a tiny silver knife and fork. The Indian women of Peru still pin their shawls with similar pins, which they call llicias. Another pin given is modern Indian work. This pin, a flying bird swooping downward, came from

Dorm Rules Are Presented At House Meetings

Revised dormitory rules were presented at the housemeetings held last week in each of the women's dormitories.

Rules have been relaxed in several instances. This year students are permitted to study in another person's room without asking permission of the matron. Study hall does not begin this year till 7:15 p.m., fifteen minutes later than last year.

The "central area of the campus", where couples may date in the daytime, has been enlarged to include the golf course and athletic field.

Students may accept Sunday dinner invitations in homes off campus with the permisisons of the head of the dormitory. Women students are also permitted to stay overnight off campus with written permission from home and the approval of the head of their dormitory.

The housemeeetings were conducted by the head of each dormitory—Mrs. Snyder in Pearson's, Miss Halleck in Baldwin, and Miss Harwood in Memorial.

Student Council Selects Louise Henry President; Three New Members Added

Louise Henry, senior English major, was elected president of the Student Council at a meeting of that organization on Monday night, September 18, held at 7:00 in room 212 Thaw Hall. Other officers elected at the same meeting are Edward Gates, also senior English major, who was chosen vice president; and Fay Cameron, sophomore, who was selected by acclamation for the office of secretary-treasurer.

According to a phrase in the Constiution of the Student Body of Maryville College, "The officers of the Student Council shall serve respectively as the officers of the Student Body." Therefore Miss Henry, who was recently re-elected to serve her third year on the Student Council, is now also president of the Student Body.

She is a true Maryvillian, having gone to high school here before her college days. Since entering college here, Miss Henry has accumulated the following record: sang in choir two years; been on YW Cabinet two years, now serving as a program chairman; made the honor roll last year; and served on the Student-Faculty Senate two years.

SCOTT, HUBER ELECTED

John Scott and Robert Huber were the two selected to fill senior vacancies in the Student Council by elections held by the senior class last week in Pearsons

Bust of Admiral Nimitz Exhibited In Lamar Library

Ike H. Boring Maryvillle Barber Sculptures As Hobby

From lumberman's son to barber, to precision-tool maker, to self-styled sculptor is the record of Ike H. Boring, local artist, who created the bust of Admiral Chester W. Nimitiz on display for the past week in Lamar Memorial Library.

Few of the MC Army cadets last year realized that the hands of the barber who trimmed their hair were able to fashion in bronze the features of such people as Babe Ruth, Connie Mack, or Nimitiz.

Begun last September, the figure of Admiral Nimitiz was completed in June and exhibited at a meeting of the Maryville-Alcoa Kiwanis Club. It is made of plaster of paris overlaid with bronze and was patterned from newspaper and magazine photographs of the Pacific fleet commander.

"I started sculpturing as a hobby about twelve years ago," Boring stated in a recent interview. His first piece of work was a snowman figure of Franklin Roosevelt which caused a great deal of attention.

A native Maryvillite and father of four sons, Boring lives at 709 Lee Street, and operates an electric shop on College Street. His wife, the former Ina Lovingood, attended MC for two years.

Boring spent the first sixteen years of his life in the Great Smoky Mountains where his father was a timber-man. During this time, he acquired a remarkable skill for pencil sketching.

Until two years ago, he made his home in Chattanooga, studying sculpturing in his spare time. In 1938, he fashioned papier-mache heads for the comical "mummer's" parade, part of the National Chickamauga celebration.

In the same year, he made figures of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, "Babe" Ruth, Connie Mack, and Clark Griffith, which , in connection with the Chattanooga Recreation Department, have been exhibited in various parts of the country.

A bust of the late George M. Cohen will be his next.

Student Help Employs 30 Assistants

Miss Clemmie J. Henry, Director of Student Help, released the following list of student assistants appointed by the Executive Council for 1944-45. In addition to those listed below there are 52 girls employed in Pearsons Dining Hall as waitreses.

Four girls are working in the college bookstore this year. They are Rebecca Davis and Pauline Lichteg, both of Kentucky, Hope Pleyl of Rhode Island, and Agnes Peterson, president of YW from Knoxville. Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of chemistry, is the faculty member in charge of the bookstore.

Lamar Memorial Library has working under the direction of twelve student assistants who are Miss M. Ruth Grierson, librarian, and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian. Mary Batchelor, Marian Garvin, MelbaHolder, Ada Huffman, Lottie Lavendar, Nell Louise Minear, Mary Ella Roberts, Jane Short, Louise Warwick, Dorothy Toomey, Robert Whitford, and Helen Marie Wilson comprise the assistants for the year '44-'45.

Working as biology lab assistants are four girls, Mary Agnes Dellinger from North Carolina, Mary Case of Maryville, Florence Gobillot of Connecticut and Phyllis Waring of Massachusetts.

Chemistry lab assistants are also of the fairer sex, namely: Jessie Lou Brunson of New York, Betty Lou King of Knoxville, Vera Ross of Maryville, and Doris Wright of Tennessee.

Four senior girls are working as assistants in the home economics department. They are Rachel Galbreath of Maryland, Lisette Gessert from New Mexico, Jane Hays of Pennsylvania, and Marian Schneeweiss of New Jersey.

Indian Pow-wow Ends Theta Rush Week Activities

Noblit In Charge Of Opening Event Held In Theta Hall

Theta Pow-wow at Wigwam Inn, usually known as the Alumni Gym, Friday evening, September 22, at eight p. m. climaxed Theta Epsilon's rush week avtivities. Jane Hays, senior home economics major from Beaver, Peensylvania, was in charge of the pow-wow with various Theta and Alpha Sigma members assisting her. Ellen Pascoe, senior from Perkasie, Pennsylvania, was the mistress of ceremonies.

"In the Land of the Sky-Blue Waters" sung by Sibyl Tallent opened the program. Her solo was followed by a reading given by Mary Dawn Noblit. Theta president, Peggy Caldwell, senior from Tallahassee, Florida, greeted the guests and introduced Bainonian officers.

"Ten Little Indians", a dance by ten Theta girls accompanied by Peggy Hale, officially opened the pow-wow. Big Chief Owen McGarity, his squaw Olinde Ahrens, Princess Ruth Lloyd, and Indian Brave, Abbott Kemp presented a skit with Bob Seel as curtain-puller.

"Begin the Beguine" sung by Mary Batchelor, Joanne Hart, and Peggy Howell, was accompanied by Betty Tufvander. Peggy Hale, freshman, played a "boogie" number. This was followed by Mary Batchelor playing her "bones". An Indian Dance by Rush Lester and Jack Houdeshel followed. Peggy Howell sang "the Waters of Minnetonka" after which the pow-wow was concluded with a dialogue by Rush and Jack with Kay Bonner as an Indian girl who went to the big city and got "hep".

Bea Hunter was in charge of refreshments, Becky Davis directed the decoration of the gym. Juanita Hinson and Anne Kerr planned the program. Invitations were made by Dot Justus.

Rush Week was begun with a "Falling-Leaf" Tea on Tuesday afternoon from four to five-thirty. Mary Dawn Noblit, senior dramatic art major from Tarpon Springs, Florida, was in charge of the tea with the following girls helping her: Lisette Gessert, decorations carrying out the Indian motif, Lois Yohe, refreshments which

Social Committee Plans Saturday Night Programs

Zenobia Bernardini, appointed as junior representative to the social committee, was elected last Thursday night to serve as chairman of this committee. Although associate business manager of this year's Chilhowean, "Soapie" still has an interest in things musical, and has been a member of the choir since her sophomore year.

Elected to serve with her as secretary-treasurer was Owen McGarity, a representative to the committee for the Student Council. Other members of the committee include Ed Gates and Hope Pleyl from the senior class, Rachel Galbreath as the other Student Council representative, Betty Lou King from the junior class, and Bob Docendorf representing the sopohomore class. Louise Henry, president of the Student Council, opened the first meeting last Thursday night, and presided until the chairman had been elected.

Sophie Bernardini

Plans for this Saturday night's program will be completed at the second meeting of the social committee which is to be held tonight. A moonlight hike around the loop was suggested as a possible program, but no decision has been made.

Campus social activities were given a good start last Saturday night with the open swim at the pool and the dormitory parties. A seem to promise original, intergreat many plans and new ideas esting programs for the coming Saturday nights. Details will be given each week concerning these programs.

Tattle Tale

By OLINDA AHERNS

New Course offered by the college of fine arts. Maryville has just streamlined the practice room of the home laundry division (required of all students now that the laundry service is practically discontinued) and offers course in turning a wringer handle in place of the older method of hand-wringing sheets and towels. Two new wringers have been installed now in Pearson's basement. Anyone interested in the course see Marky Cross for instructions (and an opportunity to chip in toward the price of said wringers). Credit is not at present offered for this course, but the B. A. of E.G. (Bachelor of Arts in Elbow Grease) will be awarded to those who successfully survive two or more years of the course.

Any Bees in your Bonnet? If so, kindly let Madeline Cook know, and in two shakes (or at least three gyrations) he'll be a zoological specimen. Cookie always gets her butterfly, and if it turns out to be a large fly instead that's all right too—Cookie says she always did have a fondness for the big-bugs. If you walk unwarily into the wrong room at Pearsons and—whish, find your head shrouded in the meshes of a butterfly net, you'll know you're in Cookie's room. That almost happened last week when Cookie's room was entered as she was verturning tables and chairs amid the shrieks of her dodging roommate. P| S. Cookie has the offending fly mounted!

Can you prove it? ..No mention will here be made of the rumored engagement of Bob Dockendorf and Eleanor Kelly, as the Echo refuses to print rumors!

WHO DUNNIT—Then there's the Baldwin gal who swears this is the only letter Uncle Sam has delivered at her door since she came to school this fall—and we quote (though why I don't know): "Dear Suzie: Just in case you don't know what I'm doing, I don't either. It's confuzzin' but amuzzin', isn't it? After you have finished reading this letter correct it and return the same to ditto but in case you don't get this letter let us know immediately and we will send you a duplicate copy by return mail one of the ants in our hat box heard that you were taking anatomy this year and wants to know if you will remove his appendix free of charge of course if you will please meet him behind the chatterbox at the stroke of twelve the day before yesterday this reminds me of a poem hickory dicory dock the mouse ran up the clock the clock struck one but the other one got away do you feel tired and discouraged does your headache and your liver feel sluggish if so take some gun powder and you will start life again with a bang in peace or pieces are you tired of flopping pancakes if so try some mugwumps mexican jumping bean flour it will flop with its own accord it may be a jumpy ride down but it will make it we hope thirty days hath september, april, june and nowonder all the rest have peanut butter except pasadena and it has the rosebowl mary mary quite contrary how ddes your garden grow with silver bells and cockle shells and one stinky little petunia you may think that this is the end well it it. jasper asbury p nobody." And we unquote. Though those who know jasper best are inclined to believe that this is a forgery, for the signature really looks suspiciously like the handwriting of Umbriago.

To your Health! Did you ever wake up (in the middle of a meal) with a dark brown taste in your mouth? Did you ever take a big gulp of milk (no, you shouldn't—let this be a lesson to you!) and realize suddenly that the cow who gave it must have recently dined on asafoetida and strychnine? Did you ever rush from the dining hall with said milk still in your mouth and meet people who greeted you and to whom you could not reply? And then, insult to injury, did you return to the dinig hall to warn friends about the milk today to discover said friends (?) placidly drinking theirs with no expressions of anything more violent than choking laughter? If you haven't just try sitting at table Number 4, left, as you enter the dining hall. Maybe malaria is lurking just around the corner, so step right up and take your quinine.

Habla Espanol? If so, you'll feel right at home when you drop in to visit Gladys Davis, Spanish major, and her roommate Nellie Cuellas, sociology major from Porto Rico. They have made a resolution to speak nly Spanish in their room.

Little Boy Blue? Does Umbriago room at Carnegie? Some people insist that he lives somewhere in the second floor wing from whence issue the strains of reveille in the morning. So far, none of the fellows have been able to get their eyes open far enough before breakfast to see what the mystery bugle player looks like. Music hath charms, but how about substituting a universal favorite like "Oh How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" for reveille?

Something old, sometihng new. Both old and new students were still returning to Maryville last week. New arrivals include Ann Anderson, from Woodbridge, N. J., and Martha Fraker of Chattanooga, who were Maryville students last year, and a new freshman, Max House, from Cato, N. Y.

Gambling on the Green. Well, they weren't all green, either. There was at least one sophomore with the freshmen who daintily picked up their yards of formal skirt and jumped the bushes on the way home from Bainonian formal opening last Saturday night. Names are being withheld, but Theta would like the Bainonian recipe for the punch that was served.

Tell me Why. Why is the editor of a certain college newspaper always late to meetings that begin before 7:16? Why does freshman 116, Baldwin get more mail than all the rest of the floor put together?

Sweet Dreams. All ye gals with rings on third finger, left hand, and especially gals who wish you had 'em, here's the formula to know your future. Take a piece of wedding cake (no fair nibbling now!) and put it in a sack with seven slips of paper. On five of the slips write the names of five eligibles; on one write "old maid", and on one "stranger". Then put the sack under your pillow and your head on top of said pillow and sweetly dream. Next morning draw one slip out of the sack. Repeat the performance for one week, and the slip withdrawn the 7th morning will reveal your fate. Crumbs of tested and approved (by Goodhousekeeping) wedding cake for sale or loan at room 117 Baldwin.

New Moon. All hint of romance has been expurgated from this week's column, bribes (and threats) of the interested parties having been sufficient unto the day. But beware the Ides of March!

ODds and enDS

By HANNAH DUKE

You gals on Maryvillle campus are awfully lucky,—did you know that? There are lots of good reasons but one of the most important is that this still isn't an "All-Women Campus". No sir, we've still an incentive to dress and look our best 'cause the men really do notice even though they like to pretend they're not interested. If "he" is in the srevice or elsewhere you still want to look your best and keep on your fashion "p's and q's" just to kee up the morale on the home front. "He" might drop in unexpectedly too sometime. Better you should just make it a hbait to always be ready for any occasion. That neccesitates a quick survey of what's new in fads and fashions and how the traditions still stand in the style parade.

Here we are in that "in between" season always wondering "What in the world can I wear?" The last rose of summer hasn't quite faded so that still leaves us room to remark on a few popular summer clothes. Hair-doschanged, as usual, to the fluffy, cooler three-inch bob. Or for those who preferred to keep the glamorous shoulder length bob, there were the wide velvet bandos and upsweeps to make it a trifle cooler. Flat tops add to the already present trends toward simplicity in coiffures. Sandals have reallly been in the spotlight. That was a "must" because the ration stamp was needed for the new low-cut dress pumps. Hats were so little they hardly need mentioning—just enough crown to cover a three inch circle on the back of the head. Frilly, cool dresses—tailored chambrics and ginghams prevailed over the hot months.

The new fall wardrobe is an entirely differents story. Dirty, sloppy saddles are on the black list for shoes as are unprssed skirts and straggly locks. For classes and sports skirts and sweaters are still No. 1 with a few variations. Kilted skirts are good; sweaters not too sloppy but still no "sweater girls". Well kept mocassions or loafers far surpass saddles now. To go with skirts are ever popular dickies and jackets and a new array of blouse designs. There's one for every affair from the most formal to a picnic in the woods. Ties instead of sport collars are awfullly good. An all-purpose suit is an essential. Dress it up for Sunday with a frilly blouse or wear it with a dickey or sweater for every-day wear. The trend is toward a "not quite so tailored appearance" with fancier buttons and yet, not long coats. Jumpers are in tremendous demand. The newest variation is to the broad-shoulder effect. They are good over light-weight sweaters and long sleeved blouses. Dress-up clothes make a hit provided you know where and when to dress up. Being appropriately dressed for various occasions is the key to being a well-dressed co-ed. Long sleeves are going out as three-quarter ones are more comfortable and look twice as nice. Don't be too fussy but simpler ones with a little sophisticated air have an appeal. We don't need to be reminded to be prepared for the occassional shower but just a word about what's in the limelight. There are still the trench coats, to be sure, and the newest is the rayon satin fnish. A cut little rain hat, sometimes a G. I., is quite popular. Too bad, but blue jeans should be reserved for only jobs in your room for well-tailored slacks have them outmoded. For your top coat casual Chesterfields lead the hnor roll. Since hte dresses are more or less simple, it seems accessories have gone to the extreme in hats. Big, off-the-face varieties are good if you dare to venture out in one. Small velveteen numbers are a growing favorite or little felts or feather hats. Draw-string purses and shoulder bags are essential when a purse is necessary but nothing will quite out-do the wallet for general use. A pair of pig skin gloves goes with most anything. Leading in the jewelry array without a doubt is "his" insignia or possibly a dog chain. Identification bracelets and naklets are quite well liked. To go with that sophisticated dress up number, try a pair of large and fancy earrings. A variety of the bow-knot is the leading costume pin. Frankly, engagement and wedding rings seem to out-rate anything else here on the M. C. campus.

Last, but not least, regardless of what's the fashion, just be yourself. If you're not the ruffle type, wear your tailored suit. Don't modify yourself to suit the fad; just modify the fashion to suit you.

TOWN NIGHT

Besides getting organized, the main business of the Student Council this year has been getting the Town Night Proposal again put into practice. A meeting of the whole student body, with the president pro-tem of the Council, Jeanne Bellerjeau, in charge, was was held on the morning of September 13. It was in that meeting that the Student Body signified their willingness to accept the responsibilities which go with the privilege. Then on Tuesday night, September 19, with members of the Student Council on duty, the first town night of the year was held. There is a possibility of a change, but at present the plan is for the town night privilege to be on Tuesday nights, rather than Tuesday or Friday nights, as it formerly was.

Weekly Music Classes Held For Pre-School

The music department of Maryville College is again holding pre-school music classes once a week. These classes are held for the purpose of beginning the musical education of children while they are between the ages of three and six. This age group composes the emotional or subjective age—the age at which a child's thoughts are most easily molded.

Miss Rachel Shobert, the new music teacher from Dubois, Pennsylvania, is conducting the classes this year.

Under her direction, five classes made up of some twenty-three the basic principles of music by the Louise Robyn method. This method is a servies of stories, pictures, and fairy tales which give children of pre-school age learn the musical terms active personalities. Reading, ear-training, and hand positions are stressed. At the end of their first year of study, each child had learned to play some simple piece of music by a process which is based on the background of musical knowledge gained during their lessons.

25 Report For Men's Glee Club

Monday night, September 18, twenty-five men of the campus met in the Fine Arts Studio to form a men's chorus. This chorus will be the backbone of the Messiah, and will combine with the girls' glee club for a spring concert. It is hoped that with a good turn-out for the girls' glee club, the two organizations will be able to present the four-act opera Orpheus in concert form. This is a very difficult piece of work with arias for soprano and contralto and some beautiful mixed choruses.

During the course of the year, the men's chorus hopes to work on the following numbers: "Landsighting"—Greig, "Drums"— Gibson, "De Animals Are Comin' "—Spiritual, "The Hundred Pipers" —Scotch, "British Children's Prayer"—Wolfe, "Army Air Corps Song", "Marine Hymn", "This is My Country", "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot", "A Mighty Fortress is our God", "Taps", Gibson, "I'll See You Again"—Coward, "Night and Day"— Porter, "Sylvia"—Speaks.

The girls' Glee Club plans to work on these songs: "Sympathy" —Friml, "Let my Song Fill Your Heart"—Charles, "A Star"—Rogers, "Allelujah"—Todd, "If I Could Tell You"— Firestone, "Send out thy Light"—Gounod, "The Lord's Prayer"— Mellote, "Panis Agelicus"—Franck.

Nature Club Meets

Nature Club, under the advisorship of Miss Susan A. Greeen, chairman of the Division of Science, will hold their first meeting October 2.

The purpose of the Nature Club is two-fold. It brings benefits to the participants in knowledge gained from practical experience; the college is benefited by the work done by members to beautify the campus. Each year the club plants one red bud tree at the north gate entrance as one of their projects.

Any student who is interested in any aspect of nature study is eligible for membership. Meetings are held the first and third Monday evenings of each month on the third floor of Science Hall.

The club has been left in the hands of Martha Jean Shaw, last year's president. Plans are being made for a picnic to be held in the College Woods. Details for the picnic will be announced at a later date.

I.R.C. To Sponsor Party For Frosh Monday Evening

Freshmen and new students will be the guests of the International Relations Club this evening, Monday, September 25, when the club will begin the year's activities with a party. The meeting is scheduled to begin at seven o'clock in the YW rooms.

Club officers and members of the executive committee met last Wednesday noon to make plans for the year's programs and to make definite arrangements for the initial meeting.

I.R.C. meets each Monday evening at seven and is open to students interested in current affairs and international relations.

Weenie Roast Held For Frosh

Young Men's Christian Association sponsored a weenie roast for the "Y" Frosh on Wednesday evening, September 20, in the College woods. After a hearty picnic supper, a skit was performed and the group sang songs.

Having consumed its quota of weenies, potato chips, apples and pop; Frosh heard Joe Brown, president, talk on "Campus-ology". This was followed by an amusing skit by Jay Bishop, freshman of Detroit, Michigan. The program was concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater.

It's A Bird! It's A Plane! It's A Butterfly Net!

By VIRGINIA CLABOUGH

It's a bird! It's a plane! It's a butterfly net! Yes, indeed, now is the time for all good butterflies to take their summer vacation in some distantclime. Swarming and swooping over the campus are at least a score or so of that rare species of humanity—the zoologist (And we might add here that they are not as rare as could be desired— by the incects, of course!)

Ah yes! 'tis indeed a sad plight when a foot loose and fancy free female finds her latest hair-do caught up—not in a snood—but in an insect net. . . . or even worse when she discovers her Chanel No. 5 is out-odored by a definitely not-to-faint aroma issuing from a "killing jar". Oh, for the life of an insect! They at least have wings!

From observation I have noticed quite a number of techniques (remember, I am speaking of catching insects—although it will not go unobserved that the same methods ars often used by another species of God's creatures.) At any rate, one well-known method is the subtle approach whereby one stands by looking very uninterested and nonchalant; then, with a sudden swoop of the net, comes banging down on the ground only to find that the insect wasn't quite as dumb as his would-be captive! Another method employed is the "go-and-get it" method. In this, the zoologist goes all out for his prey in a whole-hearted attempt to secure his specimen by pouncing on it with a whoop of joy. An even more successful way of collecting these 'varmints" is for the girl to let out a helpless scream. The nearest male will then come-a-running (she hopes) to pick up the bad ole bug who dared to bother the charming bit of femInity!

Well, one way or t'other, the bags (or do I mean bugs?) are being exterminated by the "ready, willing, and able" insecticidors. We should complain if our rooms are turned iside out, our light fixtued, broken, our mirrors cracked by some dear soul pursuing a beetle in the interest of science. There seems to be no escape from these intruders. I even found a dozen or so catching bugs by the night light "after hours". And I hear that more than one fair lady caught some interesting specimens last "town night".

A most fascinating picture was portrayed by a well-known sophomore who was found on all fours in the amphitheater crawling after a grasshopper! One brazen buzzy was brave enough to venture into the Carnegie territory where she fell flat while chasing a very elusive butterfly! (That's her excuse anyway— personally, we think she was falling for the men!)

We sit! We ponder! We moan! Can these be our sane(?), sensible(?) classmates! What strange power has possessed them—has urged them to these eccentricities—has filled them with a desire for conquest which has every six-legged critter within the radius of five miles singing "Show me the way to go home"!

For further information on the subject, listen to next week's thrilling chapter in the exciting life of "The Green Hornet". He may not answer your questions, but what's that got to do with the price of eggs in China!

Pre-Med Club

President Ethel Brocker asks all former Pre-Med club members to be present at the first business meeting of the year next Thursday in the second floor chemistry lecture room in 6:40. The purpose of the meeting will be to elect program chairmen. Members are urged to be thinking of candidates who will help this year's club be a strong one.

French Club

French Club held its first meeting of the year at 6:40 p. m. on September 14, in the Y.W. rooms. After a short business meeting, during which plans for the coming season were discussed, the group sang several French songs.

Nell Ousley, president, announced that newly elected members will be initiated at the forthcoming club picnic on Thursday, September 28, at 6:00 p. m. in the College Woods.

German Club

Becky Davis will call to order the first meeting of German club in Dr. Collin's classroom Monday evening at 6:45. All students of German are urged to be present to help organize a strong club for this year.

Ministerials

James C. Witherspoon,: President of the Ministerial Association, has announced that the first meeting of the fall semester will be held at 6:40 p. m., September 28, in Bartlett Auditorium. The speaker has not as yet been announced.

The meeting has been planned to give freshmen and other new students a clearer idea of the general aims and purposes of the Ministerial Association. Plans are being made for a social meeting on October 12, at which new members will be initiated.

Girls' Sports To Begin October 1 With Basketball

Soccer And Tennis Also Planned For Fall Program

Point system begins October 1, at Maryville College. All girls interested in athletics, whether it be all sports or one particuplar sport are encouraged to participate in the soccer and basketball which will be the main sports this season.

On Thursday, September 28, at 3:30 p. m. the girls who want to go out for point system this year will hold a meeting in Bartlett auditorium. Point system meets four afternoons a week. There will be two groups which will alternate meeting on Mondays and Wednesdays, and Tuesdays and Thursdays. The groups do combine, however, for the tournaments.

Point system was once for girls who made the college basketball team only. This originated when the colleges had inter-collegiate basketball games. Gradually these games were eliminated from college life and here at Maryville point system was installed in its place. This gave the girls a chance to participate in any sport that they were interested in.

The tennis tournament starts some time early in the fall. Anyone may enter, but the point system team girls are especially urged to enter as in this way they may accumulate extra points. Sports for point system in the fall semester are soccer and basketball; in the spring they are volleyball, aerial dart, soft ball, and track. Hiking and Swimming art participated in all the year around.

Three Weddings Highlight News of Former Students Others Visit MC Campus

Three weddings highlight news of former students' activities. Allene Mathews, ex-46, is now Mrs. Leonard Post. She was married in the Methodist Church in Laredo, Texas, on Sunday, August 20, to Lt. Post. Lt. Post's home is in Maryville, and he was formerly a student at the University of Tennessee. The couple are now living in Laredo.

Carolyn Mehaffey, ex '46, will become the bride of Mr. Donald S. Earl of Rochester, New York on September 26 in the St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Rochester. Mr. Earl is employed at the Clinton Project, and the bride and groom will make their home there.

Margaret Hunt, ex'45 became the bride of Midshipman Wayne Stevens, ex'45, Saturday September 16 the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago. The couple will live in an apartment near the dental school of the University of Illinois, where Wayne is enrolled.

Elizabeth Hoagland, ex'45, received a diamond from Pfc. Glenn Griffen in early June. Betty is working in a bank in New York City and plans to finish her education in one of the city colleges.

Various visitors, former students of Maryville College, have been on the campus recently. Barbara Burnett, ex'46, spent the week-end here visiting her former roommate, Dot Justus and other friends. Verne Feeback, cadet nurse at Vanderbilt, spent Sunday here.

Mary Dickinson, ex'45, spent a few days here this past week with her sister Marjorie who is a freshman. Mary was on her way to the University of Kentucky where she will major in bacteriology.

Harold Huffman, ex'45 arrived Thursday afternoon for a few days with his wife, the former Ada Yadon who is a junior here. Harold will report for induction in the armed forces on Monday, September 25 at Columbus, Ohio.

Peggy Claypoole arrived on the "Hill" Tuesday morning, September 12 and left Saturday the 16th. College men serenaded Peggy and Ab Richards Tuesday noon in honor of the new diamond Peggy is now wearing on the right finger. Peggy returned to her home in Woodbury, New Jersey to become an assistant in The Little School, a nursery school directed by Peggy's mother.

Harold Eaken '44 was on the campus the first week of school making a visit prior to his going back to Princeton Theological Seminary to continue his junior year, which he began this summer.

The first week-end of the year brought Charles Burgreen, '44, for a visit with his fiance, Rebecca Davis. Charlie is a junior studentdent here to visit his fiance was Ralph Parvin, '43, a middler student at Louisville Theological Seminary. Dorothy Lehman is his fiancee. Ralph left Tuesday morning after a week-end visit.

Many New Books Added To Library During Summer

"They Played the Game", "Kaiser Wakes the Doctors", "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn"—these are a few of the many varied and interesting books added to the Lamar Memorial Library. The librarians have attempted to increase the supply of good books open to the students and many really fine books obtained.

One of the outsanding new novels is a "Tree Grows in Brooklyn" the widely sought-after best-seller. Its story of Frances Nolan and the small world of Williamsburg, Brooklyn that made her should quickly make it popular among the college students.

Those with a liking for biography will be greatly pleased by the several new ones. "Persons and Places" by George Santayana is a fascinating autobiographical volume by the noted author of "The Lost Puritan" and brings together the threads of his background to give a picture of the persons and places that have made him the man he is.

"They Played The Game", the story of baseball greats by Harry Grayson will be in demand by fellows and girls alike because its not a record book of baseball's greatest players with pages of figures and tabulations. The heroes of the diamond are shown to be human kings with all their virtues, faults and follies. It is a book that will prove interesting reading even to those who claim no knowledge of baseball.

History books are usually shunned as reading material when possible. However, Stephen Vincent Benet's last book is a short history of the land he loved and is entitled simply "America". It is free from the superficial statistics that form the major part of most histories.

In this present turbulent war period with the peace problem so rapidly approaching, the greatest leaders and writers in the country are attempting to instruct the American public in the ways of world politics. Other books are being written about our present position in this war itself. One of the finest of these is "Lend-Lease, Weapon for Victory" by E. R. Stettinius who served as administrator of Lend-Lease until his appointment as under-secretary of state in September 1943.

"The Challenge of Listening" by McKinney and Anderson and "Approach to Music" by Lawrence Abbott are two new books that will appeal to anyone wishing a better understanding of music and a greater ease in appreciation of its

Intramural Football Teams To Break First Place Deadlock In Initial Meeting Tuesday

Eagles and Packers, the two leading teams of the intramural football league, are to meet at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, September 26, in a game which determine who is to have the lead in the league, and will also give a fairly good indication as to which team has the better chance to emerge victor from the whole season's playing. Both of these teams have the record to date of two victories and no defeats, and a close game is expected by all who have seen the two teams in action. The Eagles are led by Captain Rush Lester, who was also captain of the championship Y. Frosh team of last year. The Eagles are a well balanced team with speed and deception in the backfield, and weight in the line (chiefly Owen MWcGarity). The Packers are also captained by a member of last year's Y Frosh, Tommy Parkinson. Bill Cover is a standout for that team with his play at the center position.

The Packers and Eagles came to be tied for the lead by virtue of the victories over the freshman teams, the Orange and Garnet Frosh. But so far all of the games have been close, and the Frosh teams are not out of the running at all. The following is a brief account of the games played so far in the intramural competition:

Tuesday, September 19

At 3:30 the Eagles started the season off right by defeating the Garnet Frosh 13 to 6 in the first game of the year. Lester was the star, scoring two touchdowns on runs. Kemp scored one extra point on another running play. Mat Cardellla, captain of the Garnet Frosh, was also their best player, scoring their lone touchdown.

In the second game on Tuesday,, September 19, the Packers eked out a victory from the Orange Frosh by just about as narrow a margin as the rules allow. The regular game ended in a scoreless tie, and neither team could change the score in the three minute overtime period. Then each team was given the ball for a series of four downs, and the team advancing the ball the fartherest was to be the winner. The Packers gained only about one foot more ground than did the Frosh team, but that gave them the game—final score: 1 to 0. Grubbs and Heuser were outstanding throughout the game for the losers, who threatened to score several times. Parkinson and Cover were the defensive stars for the winners.

Thursday, September 21

The Eagles again came out victorious by a 13-6 score. This time the Orange Frosh were the victims. Houdeshel and Kemp scored the touchdowns, both on passes by Lester. Joe Brown was the one who got the extra point this time, also on a pass. Grubbs again shone for his team, this time he scored a six pointer, snagging a toss by Heuser.

In getting their second victory, the Packers also took a 13-6 game. Parkinson gathered the two touch downs on running plays, and Seel scored the one extra point on a pass from him. The star and scorer for the losers was Cardella. He got his T.D. on a pass interception.

Players for the teams are as follows:

Eagles	Packers
Lester (c)	Parkinson (c)
Brown	Cover
Richard	Henry
Houdeshel	Huber
Kemp	Stegall
McGarity	Seel
Scott	Kirstein

Orange Frosh	Garnet Frosh
Garland	Cardellla (c)
Asher	Chinault
Kinser	Thompson
Heuser	Benninati
Grubus (c)	Bishop
Wilson	Pribble
Hundemann	Leister
Smailer	Seymour

The Frosh teams meet in the first game of Tuesday, September 26. The remainder of the schedule is posted on the Carnegie Hall bulletin board.

There has also been an entry blank posted on that bulletin board for the singles tennis tournament, which will start next week.

Richardson marked her "first boy friend" stage with a reading entitled "The King of Boyville." A soda fountain was the setting of the high school scene. Lois Collett, Soapie Bernardini, Jean Messer and Kay Stout, did some typical high school jitterbugging. The next scene showed a college room in which girls were sitting, reading their letters. Katie Sisk sang, "I'll Walk Alone" and "I'll Be Seeing You." Her married life was shown through the eyes of the husband. Jack Houdeshel, Rush Lester, Owen McGarity, and Carroll Stegall put on a skit in which they imitated women. The final stage—old age—was presented in the song "Little Old Lady" sung by Louise Warwick.

Refreshments of raspberry sherbert and cookies were served. The favors were made of little marshmallow hats.

About 200 girls were present at the formal opening.

Miriam Wickham was master of ceremonies. Lois Collett was in charge of the decorations for Rush Week. Invitations were made under Betsy Burleigh's direction, and Rachael Galbreah had charge of refreshments. Ushers for the formal opening were Jack Scott, Joe Brown, and the four boys who were in the skit.

The Rush Week committee has finished its most strenuous work. However it has yet to take charge of the booths during the excitement of this week—pledge week, when the freshman girls will sign up for the socoety of their choice.

With The Colors

A glance at these names of Maryville men and women who are performing their duty to our country should serve as a reminder that there are some 2,000 stars in our flag and that Maryville students have friends in the service all over the world. The least we can do to support our men in the service is to see that they get their Christmas remembrances in time for the day they will all be anticipating.

Christmas parcels being sent overseas should be mailed before 15 October. They must not weigh more than five pounds and must not be larger than 15 inches long or 36 inches in length and girth combined. Remember to pack them well and with heavy corrugated cardboard, supported by strong string. They may have to stand some heavy handling and rough traveling.

Address them plainly as you usually do to your Service friend. Ship it off right away—any number of packages you wish—and see that your man in the service gets his Merry Christmas.

Mrs. Una E. Black

Una E. Black, of Nashville, recently enlisted in the WAVES following the induction of her husband, James E. Black who is a private in the Army at Fort McPherson, Georgia. Mrs. Black is a graduate of Loudon High School and attended Maryville College. Her husband taught school at Maryville High School.

Mrs. Black has a brother, Ronald E. Easter, who is in the Navy at Treasure Island, California.

Museum Gifts

Lima.

Mrs. Hill has been interested in Maryville College since she is an alumna herself, and her two sisters also graduated here, one in 1897 and the other in 1907.

Miss Mary M. Hallock, who is in charge of the college museum, announces that the new gifts will be put on display sometime next week. Attention of new students is called to the fact that the museum, located in the east wing of the library, is always open during library hours. The display on hand contains the nucleus of a recently fine museum, due to the gifts from friends in many parts of the world. A rifle on display, which was used in the Boxer Rebellion, is nearly as high as the ceiling. A crown of thorns from the Holy Land is one of the gifts of Samuel Tyndale Wilson, D.D., former president of the college. The museum also has on display $5.00 worth of gold dust. Replicas of the dress of India include a coolie hat presented by Carol Titus, which was worn in India in 1940. The collection of birds from Africa were given by Fred Hope, the missionary to whose support Maryville College students contribute each year. Also on file are various old programs and documents relating to Maryville College history. Most recent addition tothe display was the loving cup prepared last spring by Philip O. Jones, director of the choir in 1943-44, and presented to the winning baseball team at the choir picnic. It is constructed of an oil can, funnel, sieve, table spoons, and figures cut from a tin can, and is properly inscribed. This trophy is now on display in the main library.

Servicemen Learn Business ABC's

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) —Servicemen will be taught, by means of textbooks prepared for the Army, how to operate their own businesses.

The Commerce Department's Bureau of Foreign and oDmestic Commerce is compiling the texts, covering 20 fields of small business, with the aid of trade associations and trade papers. The Army hopes to have the first book available in October.

Deep concern has been felt over the high wartime mortality rate of small enterprises, due to scarcity of supplies, difficulty of making a profit or departure of owners into military service or war jobs.

The textbook project is seen as a powerful factor in encouragement of new business, provided government tax policies offer an incentive to start enterprises.

That homecoming veterans will be eager to get into new occupations is suggested by an OWI report showing job preferences of a large group of men in uniform. Only 25 per cent of discharged soldiers, sailors and marines said they would seek their old jobs. The rest, with newly acquired skills and ambition, are ready to try something different.

The handbooks, detailed and comprehensive, will be written in terms of the entrepreneur just starting out, and will be confined to management problems.

Some established business men have told the Department of Commerce they plan to set up postwar training courses for their salesmen, using the books.

Any serviceman, anywhere, may request any of the texts. His commanding officer must certify that study will "in no way interfere with performance of the soldier's duties." Then the request will go to Madison, Wis., headquarters of the U. S. Armed Forces Institute, or one of its overseas branches, whence the book will be mailed.

Disc Club Elects Committee Heads To Plan Meetings

A committee from Disc Club met on Wednesday night at 7:00 p. m. in Miss Davies' home to discuss plans for the semester, and to appoint officers. Those elected were chairman, Ruth Freeman; Tom Horst; Art chairman, Byron Sprague; music secretary, Jean Keen; assistant secretary, Florence Gobillot; announcer, John Kirstein.

The first meeting illustrates something new in the history of the Disc Club. The evening's music will be illustrated in story form. The audience will be asked to join in the program by building the story as the music is played. The meeting will be on Thursday night, October 5, 1944 at 6:45 p. m. Disc Club meetings are held each first and third Thursday at this same time. The commentator for the first meeting will be Ruth Freeman.

The following program will be a request program with Miss Davies as commentator. Boxes will be located on the campus in which requests may be placed.

Disc Club meetings are open to the entire student body. Students may come with or without dates.

M. C. To Celebrate Anniversary;

Frosh Elect Wilson President; Nicola Moscona To Appear Oct. 24

Orr, Cotton, Johnson To Serve As Other Officers

Sophomores, Juniors, Hold Special Elections To Fill Vacant Offices

Fred Wilson, from Fairview, Pa., was elected president of the freshman class in the election held Wednesday, October 4. Other officers selected by the first year class are as follows: Elsie Jean Cotton, of Pittsburgh, Pa., vice president; Mildred Orr, of Maryville, secretary; and Kitty Johnson, from Hopkinsville, Ky., treasurer.

Chosen to represent the class as Student Council members are Merrill Grubbs, Fairview, Pa., James Martin, Bloomington, Ill.; Anna Sakaizawa, Amache, Colorado; and Marian Lewis, Crete, Ill.

The newly elected president is a pre-theological student, a n Athenian, and a member of the choir. His opponent in the election was Thomas Horst, who is from Trenton, N. J.

Other freshmen who were running for office are Beeler Thompson, a nominee for the office of vice president; Leona Richardt, runner-up for the office of secretary; and Loretta Nunn, who was up for treasurer. Unsuccessful candidates for the Student Council were Nan Allison, Katherine Smith, Max House, and Bill Vogel.

Because of the fact that neither John Poland nor Mary Nan Reed returned to college here this year to fill the offices of treasurer and vice president respectively, it was necessary for the sophomore class to have an election last week also. Jean Messer, a biology major from White Pine, Tenn., was chosen vice president; and Judy Turk, who is a psychology major from Thomasville, Georgia, was selected to fill the position of treasurer.

Last week the junior class met to elect a Student Council representative. John Ross, an English major from Philadelphia, Pa., was elected. The junior vacancy came elected Abbott Kemp to the as a result of the class's having Council last spring while he was only a frest semester sophomore; he is still classified as a member of the sophomore class.

As was announced in the last issue of the ECHO, the seniors have elected Robert Seel, president; Dorothy Brown, srecetary; Marion Fershee treasurer; and Louise Henry, Robert Huber, and Jack Scott, Student Council members.

All of those elections were conducted by the Election Committee of the Student Council. That committee is composed of the following people: Edward Gates, chairman; Dorothy Lehman, John Scott, Helen Marie Wilson, Mildred Waring, Olinde Ahrens, and Robert Dockendorf.

Billye R. Braly Society Editor For Kansas Paper

Miss Billye Ruth Braly, editor of the Highland Echo for the year '43-'44, is now the society editor of the Fort Scott Tribune staff at Fort Scott, Kansas. In addition to being society editor, Miss Braly has written several feature articles for the Tribune.

Miss Braly came to Maryville College from Chattanooga, Tennessee. She was pledged to Theta Epsilon sorority, was a member of the Writers' Workshop, and worked as a chemistry lab assistant. She was also elected to the "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

Up to this time, Miss Braly says she has not run across a graduate of Maryville College at Fort Scott.

David Briggs, Jr. Killed In France

Pfc. David H. Briggs, Jr., son of Professor David H. Briggs of the Maryville College faculty, was killed in action on August 15, somewhere in France. Professor and Mrs. Briggs received word of their son's death from the War Deparment on September 27, following an earlier report of his having been missing in action.

Serving in the Infantry since March, 1943, Briggs received training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Ft. Meade, Md. He has been overseas since the middle of July.

David graduated from Maryville High School and entered Maryville College as a freshman in the fall of '42. During that season he played on the varsity football team. He has two brothers, John, enrolled at the Darlington School for Boys in Rome, Ga.,

WRITER'S WORK SHOP BEGINS YEAR

Writers' Workshop will open another year with its first meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon, October 11, at four o'clock in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Writers' Workshop is made up of students and faculty members who can and are interested in doing creative writing. The membership is limited to 25 members. Juniors, seniors, and members of the English facuty are eligible for membership.

Council Selects Student-Faculty Senate Members

Town Night Rules Discussed At Special Meeting

Louise Henry, president presided over a meeting of the Student Council held on Monday night, September 18. The main business of the evening was the election of the student members of the Student-Faculty Senate. Other business included the appointing of Student Council committees for the year and discussions on Town Night and a proposed plan to change the election system now in use on the campus.

The students who are to be on the Student-Faculty Senate this year are as follows: seniors—Louise Henry, Joe Brown, and Rachel Galbreath; juniors—Owen McGarity, Helen Marie Wilson and Catherine Sisk; sophomore—Robert Dockendorf.

The new committees are as follows:

Elections—Edward Gates, chairman, Dorothy Lehman, John Scott, Helen Marie Wilson, Mildred Waring, Bob Dockendorf, and Olinde Ahrens; Finance— Fay Cameron, John Goins, and Jeanne Bellejeau; Student Publications—Robert Huber, chairman, Tommy Parkinson, Helen Marie Wilson and Olinda Ahrens. The student personnel, which does not have to be exclusively from Student Council, members of the Social Committee was also announced at this meeting. It includes the following persons: Zenobia Bernardini, chairman; Rachel Galbreath, Owen McGarity, Edward Gates, Hope Plyle, Betty Lou King, and Bob Dockendorf.

The president of the council stated that with the addition of the freshman members to the council, revisions or additions to these committees may be necessary.

On Wednesday night at 7:15 in Thaw 212 the Student Council met in a special meeting to discuss some of the Town Night provisions.

Basso To Sing At First Artists Series Concert

Nicola Moscona, young Greek-born basso-baritone will give the initial Artist Series concert at Voorhees chapel on Tuesday evening, October 24, at 8:15.

Born in Athens, Greece, Moscona made his debut at the National Opera House of Athens in 1931. Almost immediately he was awarded a scholarship by the Greek government, which enabled him to study in Italy. It was there that Edward Johnson, manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company heard him and engaged him. He made his New York debut as Ramfis in AIDA in December, 1937, and has become one of the most versatile and valued members of the company.

Moscona has been chosen 12 times as soloist by the great Toscanini. He has been soloist in the Philharmonic Symphony Society performances in the Mozart Requiem, and has sung many times under the baton of Bruno Walter. This year alone he has had five leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera. This fall he was a magnificent success as Mephistopheles in C. L. Wagner's production of Faust.

Moscona has a tremendous repertoire of over 45 leading operatic roles and eleven orations, including some by Mozart, Beethoven, Handel, and Brahms. He has a mastery of five languages: French, English, German, Italian, and Greek.

Nocola Moscona's remarkable voice has been called "... flexible and of gorgeous timbre." "One of the major bass voices to be heard in this country." "... Powerful... of an exceptionally dark color... in his many, many enthusiastic press comments.

Moscona, besides his excellent mucianship and artistry, has a remarkably engaging personality which delights his audiences.

Mona Bradford, the beautiful contralto of the Chicago Opera Company will be presented on January 22, 1945 at the second of the Artists Series.

Egon Petri, master pianist, will appear here March 12. He will remain for two days as a guest of the college, during which time he plans to give informal talks and performances.

Profesosor George D. Howell is the chairman of the Artists Series committee. Last year the soprano, Eileen Farrell, Richard Korbel, pianist, and The Farbman String Symphony were presented on Campus.

Professor Walker To Give Lecture At Facutly Club

Professor E. R. Walker, associate professor of physics, will give a demonstrated lecture on, "The Development and Uses of Electricity from its Beginning up to Now" at the first Faculty Club meeting this year, to be held on Monday, October 9, at 7:30 in the Home Economics room.

Dr. H. E. Orr, head of the department of Bible and religion, is chairman of the program committee, and Miss Ruth Cowdrick, assistant professor of Spanish and French, is secretary of the organization.

The Faculty Club plans to meet five times this year, two of the meetings to be held before Christmas. Four of the five programs are to be given by members of the faculty, while an outside speaker will be brought in for the fifth.

The Club tries to hold its meetings on Monday nights. Fifty-five are expected to attend the first meeting.

Class Sponsors Elected At Special Meetings

Final Results To Be Made Public At Barnwarming

Wednesday morning after chapel classes met for the purpose of nominating sponsors. Chilhowean representatives presided at the respective meetings, Final results will not be made public until the barnwarming program.

Seniors met in the philosophy classroom in Thaw, nominating Winifred Sommers, psychology major of Chicago, and Dorothy Brown, biology major from Pennsylvania. Winnie, a Theta, is a member of the M club and was May Day attendant as a sophomore.

Juniors, meeting in the chemistry lecture room, selected Louise Corbett, Spanish mapor of Jacksonville, Fla., and Catherine Crothers, home economics major of Maryville. Louise, a member of the Spanish club and the Orchestra, is vice-president of the junior class. Catherine, a Bainonian, is chairman of the Artists' Series committee and a member of the Y.W. cabinet.

Sophomores met in Fayerweather 106 and chose Lynn Mathews, transfer from Stanford University, California, whose home is Wilmington, Del., and Jean Messer of White Pine, Tennessee.

Freshmen, meeting in the chapel nominated Lois Thomas of Russellville, Ala. and Jean Cobb of Gaffney, S. C.

For some time class sponsors were not announced until the Chilhowean was distributed. But for the past several years those chosen by the various classes have been presented publicly at the barnwarming program. The same procedure will be followed this year. Likewise this year they will be attendants of the queen of barnwarming.

In the year book the women chosen are given special recognition by virtue of the honor they have received.

Two Special Services To Be Held Sunday, Oct. 22

Dr. Roy E. Vale, General Assembly Moderator, To Be Principal Speaker

There will be two special College-Church-Community services in Elizabeth R. Voorhees Chapel on Sunday, October 22, in commeration of the 125th anniversary of the founding of Maryville College. It was on October 19, 1819, that the Presbyterian Synod of Tennessee, meeting in the New Providence Presbyterian Church at Maryville, passed the resolution which officially established the College.

At the morning service the principal speaker will be Rev. Dr. Roy E. Vale, of Indianapolis, Moderator o fthe General Assembly of erator of the General Assembly of U.S.A. .The principal speaker of the afternoon will be Rev. Dr. Charles L. King, of Houston, Texas, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern Presbyterian). Among other participants will be presidents of neighboring colleges and representatives of the Synods and Presbyteries.

Because of wartime travel conditions the observance is planned primarily with reference to the Church and community. The churches of Maryville have accepted the College's invitation to omit their own morning worship on Sunday, October 22, and unite with the College. An amplifier system and seats will be provided for any overflow attendance.

Special Music Planned

In addition to these two services there will be two other events of special interest. One is a special music and dramatic art program in the Chapel on the preceding night by three members of the Fine Arts faculty: Richard W. Vine, tenor, Rachel L. Shobert, pianist, and Mrs. Nita Eckles West, reader.

The other event is an Alumni Buffet Luncheon on the campus at one o'clock Sunday between the morning and afternoon services.

Cover Elected Alpha Sig Head

William Cover, sophomore from Youngstown, Ohio, was elected president of Alpha Sigma Society at the meeting which was held in Carnegie 402 on Saturday night, September 30. Other officers elected at that meeting are as follows: Joe Henry, vice-president; John Kirsein, secretary; and Leonard Schieber.

The newly elected president, who was very active in the society last year, having been appointed chairman of the committee of continuance last spring, announces that there are big plans in store for Alpha Sigma this year. There will be an important meeting Saturday night at 6:15 in Carnegie 402 for the purpose of initatiating the new members.

Mary C. Pearce Army Secretary Now In India

Mary Catherine Pearce, formerly employed by the 42nd College Training Detachment stationed at Maryville College, is now a new member of the American Red Cross division in India according to word received from the National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

YM, YW, To Hold Joint Meeting In College Woods

YW and YM will hold a joint meeting in the amphitheater of the college woods Sunday at 2 p.m. The meeting, whose theme will be the appreciation of nature, will be in charge of Becky Davis, Mary Fershee, and Louise Henry, program chairmen of YW.

Poetry and music will make up most of the program. Dorothy Lehman and Shirley Scott will read selected poems. Jay Bishop will sing a baritone solo and he and Bob DuBois will sing a duet.

Due to the fact that Mr. James Smith, pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church of Knoxville at the last minute was unable to speak, the YM meeting for last Sunday was turned into a song service.

On Sunday, October 15, Mrs. Hill Shine will speak to the YW on "Bible Characters in Literature" at 1:30 p. m. in the Y. rooms.

Dr. and Mrs. Davies Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. George E. Davies, parents of Miss Katherine Davies of the Maryville College faculty celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last week.

Faculty members and students participated in various parties given in their honor.

Movies And Square Dancing Planned For This Evenig

James R. Smith To Be Wednesday Chapel Speaker

Reverend James R. Smith, pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, will be the guest speaker at the regular Wednesday morning chapel, October 11th.

Mr. Smith is a familiar figure on the Maryville campus, having graduated from here in 1935. Since 1940 he has held the position of Public Relations Secretary and Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association of Maryville.

Social Activities To Begin At 7:30 In Gym, Bartlett

Movies in Bartlett auditorium and square dancing in the Alumni gymnasium will highlight this evening's program as planned by the student body's social committee. Scheduled to begin at 7:30, the movies will be re-shown at 8:40 for the first square dancing group.

A second square dance will begin at 8:40 for those who attended the initial showing of the movies.

Procured by BettyLou King from the University of Tennessee, the movies contain comedies, travels, and news-reels.

The square dancing program was planned as a forerunner of a large square dance to be held in the near future, Zenobia Bernardini, committee chairman, indicated yesterday.

Last week the social committee planned a moonlight hike, but weather conditions necessarily caused its cancellation. Instead, a program of games was held in the gym, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Gates, and Dr. F. A. Griffitts serving as faculty chaperones.

Oen Hundred One Students Make Spring Honor Roll

COLLEGE STUDENTS CAN VOTE

In this year of a national election many college students throughout the nation who are attending schools in states other than their own may find themselves in the unenviable position of being disenfranchised. Although a few states have absentee ballots for civilians the practice is far from universal.

However, students enrolled at Maryville College will be able to vote this year providing they meet the requirements for voting in Tennessee. Since many of them will be voting for the first time and are unfamiliar with the procedure required for registration and the casting of ballots, it seems advisable to explain the procedure and to enumerate all the legal qualifications.

To vote in Tennessee college students must meet the following requirments:

1. You must be 21 years of age on or before the election day, November 7.

2. You must have paid your poll tax 60 days or more previous to the election day unless you have become 21 since January 10, 1943 in which case no poll tax has been assessed against you.

3. You must be properly registered in the ward or district in which you reside.

4. You must have been a legal resident of the state 12 months or more previous to the election day. To be a legal resident, and college students can meet this requirement, you must have been here for at least 12 months and have called this your legal home during that period. Your going away in the summer does not affect your status. However, you cannot be a legal resident of two states, that is, you cannot be registered in another state for the election.

All those who meet the above requirements, and unfortunately new students and freshmen do not, will register for the election on October 16, 17, or 18 at the residence of Mrs. N. T. Maxey, 316 Indiana avenue.

It is the democratic obligation of all those who are qualified, to vote in the November election. The essential thing is not how you vote, but that you do vote.

By HANNAH DUKE

Turn on your radio for the maximum of thirty minutes on any station and see if you can escape a reminder of your part in the war effort. You'll find its practically an impossibility. Yet you are willing to overlook this fact and go on seemingly unconcerned as long as the daily headlines continue to give us optimistic reports from the war fronts. Have you stopped to think that good news means the sacrifice of thousands of American and allied lives for each new gain?

The trouble with the majority of us on the home front is that we don't like to look at bare facts. We don't like to realize that the war isn't over. What is more, the chances of its conclusion in the immediate future are lessened by our over-optimistic viewpoint. We don't have to be pessimistic but we do have to be realistic. We must face things as they stand and resolve to continue the fight until the very end is reached.

Only a few months ago the news of the invasion of France reached us. We began to celebrate as if we thought an armistice might have been signed. Then came the first warnings from high officials of the government that the American people must not become over-optimistic. The "D-Day" was not the end; it was merely the bginning of a long and bloody process that we pray will lead to an end. Still better news came. Rome was freed! Americans rejoiced again. Paris was liberated and even prematurely we Americans announced it joyfully and began worrying about how soon Paris fashions would again lead in New York. A second invasion of Europe was launched and fighting brought closer to German soil. Too many of us we're forced to admit we still have a long way to that was as good a victory in our ears but yet go before our duty is done. That is reality. We have to face it. Even though the possibility for an end in the European area seems not too far away, that doesn't mean that our worries are over. What about our soldiers? Many of them need medical care. What about the starving and homeless people of Europe? Who will rebuild the devastated towns? It is hard for us to even visualize how those people must feel. Our homes have not been touched. We have lost our own boys but we have not given up everything we have,—our homes, our incomes, our entire families, and everything else that is dear to us. It is true that the loss of American lives has effected us all. It has cast a shadow on America that will not be lifted for generations to come. With all of this we are economically superior to the devasted nations and it will fall our lot to care for them. How, then, can we so lightly treat our small part in the war effort?

Maybe we simply don't realize what we are doing here in the United States that is hampering the war effort. There is, first of all, the black market. And then there are still hoarders. The bulk of us may be cooperating with rationing but those who are not don't seem to know that they are prolonging this war because they are not willing to make small sacrifices here at home. It is the little things that amount up to those of great importance. There is the matter of obtaining a shoe stamp or a few meat points from an illegal source. We say to ourselves that one pair of shoes more or less, or one pound of steak, won't make any difference in the final out come, Suppose that 129,999,999 other people would be lost. The government is not trying to work out a scheme by which to deprive its citizens, but one by which everyone has an equal chance to obtain that which is available to civilian consumption. We surely cannot resent this.

There is just one thing that we need to do. That seems like an awfully simple way to do our part. That one thing is cooperation. Regardless of the handicap that may come to us, it's very small in comparison to what our men are going through overseas. Let's face reality. Let's do all we can now. Victory is still our nation's all-out business.

Many '44 Graduates NowIn Seminaries; Others Holding Teaching And War Jobs

Colleges, seminaries, high school class rooms, laboratories, and churches have claimed the graduates of 1944 as the fall term opens.

Thirteen members of the last graduating class are now enrolled in various theological seminaries. Princeton Theological Seminary claims the highest number of them, with Donald Barker, Harold Eaken, LeRoy Dillener, Duane Collins, John Taylor, and Marion Stout attending there. Marion is enrolled in the Princeton School of Religious Education. Hubert Rust, also at Princeton, is engaged in V-12 training.

Newly married Benjamin A. Lynt and Lawrence Sthreshley are both attending Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Virginia. Paul Smith joined Ed Sapp ('43) at Columbia Seminary in Decatur, Geogria. Paul is working in the library there. Malcolm Thompson is with other Maryville graduates at McCormick Seminary in Chicago. Ermina Fisher, better known as Peggy, is enrolled at the Union Seminary in New York City, where she is also studying at the School of Sacred Music. Charles Burgreen answers to the roll-call at the seminary at the University of the South in Sewanee, Tennessee.

Many of the graduates are pursuing a scientific career. Virginia Cain is employed by the Standard Oil Company in Elizabeth, N. J., in the field of petroleum engineering. She works in a division which has developed the catalytic cracking plant used to make 100 octane gas for the war. Meriam McGaha is junior chemist for the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Interior at Norris, Tennessee. One of her recent assignments was to analyze some red clay found near Alcoa for the several compounds present. Marion Schanck, business manager of '43-'44 Echo, is being trained for the position of assistant to chief clerk of the Metal and Thermit Corporation in Rahway, N. J. Her duties will consist of purchasing the necessary chemicals needed to operate the research laboratory. Jeane Eddleman is working here at home as a lab technician in the Doctor's Hospital of Maryville.

Making use of her biology major, Ruth Case is employed as research assistant at the Boyce Thompson Institute of Plant Research in Yonkers, N. Y. The Tennessee Eastman Corporation at Oak Ridge, Tennessee has laboratories. Johnnye Gudel, Donplaced five graduates in various nell Bailey, Margery Roth, Debecca Boggess, and Mary Evelyn Waisman (Shorty) are all employed in different labs of this corporation. Jordy Meadows Woodward, who is living with her husband's family in Jackson, Mississippi, is working as a technician in a doctor's office while Phil is in the Navy.

Graduate schools have made claims upon some spring graduates. Elizabeth McConell is interning in dietetics at Shadyside Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Her co-workers call her "Betty" now as they prepare diets together. Ruth McClure has just entered Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta, Georgia. Another aspirant to the degree of Doctor of Medicine is Aimee Wriggins who has enrolled in on, while with her husband in Women's Medical School at Philadelphia. Margaret McMillan Weld-Atlanta where he is attending dental school, is working as a dietician.

In the teaching profession may be found Betty Jane Miller who is teaching French and Spanish at Hiwassee, Tennessee. B. J., last year's Student Council president, was a visitor on the campus September 15. Douglas MacMartin faces high school students as teacher of social studies and music in Salem, South Dakota. Doug is also director of music in the Presbyterian Church in Salem and anticipates becoming church pianist soon. Others teaching are Estelle Farrow, who is instructing in Cape May, N. J., Kate Best, who is teaching in the Blount County schools, and Mary Jean Partridge, who has returned to her home in Florida to teach.

Helen Anderson is Assistant Director of Pleasant Ridge-Ferndale Youth Center in Ferndale, Michigan. Andy is making her home with Jane Metcalf ('43) in Ferndale. She is also taking graduate work in social science at Wayne University in Detroit. Jane is director of religious education in the Drayton Avenue Presbyterian Church of Ferndale.

Frances Grosh is working in the OPA office here in Maryville. Choir members welcomed her back into the choir a few Sundays ago for vespers.

Mrs. Clara Cate, New Matron, For Memorial Hall

Mrs. Clara Cate from Knoxville arrived last week to become assistant to the head of Memorial Hall. She takes the place of Mrs. Jessie H. Franklin, who is now working on the third floor of Baldwin.

Mrs. Cate, is a Maryville graduate. For several years she did special work with girls in Knoxville. Under the direction of the Junior League, she took charge of some 25 girls from the settlement section and taught them English, Home Economics, and other practical arts.

"I have a special fondness for girls," Mrs. Cate confessed. She has two married daughters. There are also two little grandsons, who seemed "a bit strange" after having only girls around for so many years.

R. J. Dollenmeyer, Chaplain, Honored

In recognition of the contribution of Maryville College, in providing a clergyman to serve as a chaplain in the United States Navy, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal has addressed a letter of appreciation to the college and dispatched it with a Certificate of Recognition for presentation on Sunday, October 8.

Chaplain Raymond F. Dollenmayer was at Maryville College at the time he entered the Navy. His name is enscribed on the Certificate of Recognition.

The Navy's appreciation is expressed by Secretary of the Navy Forrestal in the following letter:

"The United States Navy is most grateful to you for providing a spiritual leader to serve our country as a Navy Chaplain during the present world crisis.

"In recognition of this patriotice sacrifice on your part the Navy Department presents this Certificate of Service as permanent evidence of your contribution in behalf of the religious life of the men and women of our armed forces.

"We are all justly proud of the courageous, faithful, and noble record being established by our Chaplains as they serve all over the world in ships and on shore.

"It is a matter of deep personal satisfaction to me to be able thus to express the appreciation and thank of the Navy Department and myself."

Nature Club

Martha Jean Shaw was re-elected president of Nature club last Monday at 6:45 p.m. in the third floor biology lecture room of Fayerweather. These other officers were also elected: Betty Dunk, vice-president; Jean Messer, secretary-treasurer; Lucille Sitler and Sarah Enloe, program chairmen.

Members voted to plant another redbud tree on campus sometime this fall.

In addition to the business meeting there were three student speakers. Lucille Sitler discussed "The Use of Plants in the War." "Penecillen" was Mickey Deerman's topic. Jean Messer exploded some of the theories of "Nature Fakers."

On October 16 someone will review the honors work in insects done by Betty Lee Wild and Joyce Parham, two alumni.

Nell Cuellas To Speak At IRC Monday Evening

International Relations Club meeting this Monday night will have a Pan-American theme as Nell Cuellas, a junior from Porto Rico, speaks on the political condition in her native country.

Nell, a transfer student from the University of Porto Rico, is a sociology major. "My topic will include the politics of my country and the attitude of the people," she explained recently.

I.R.C. meetings are held on Monday evenings in the "Y" rooms at 7:00 o'clock.

At the meeting last Monday, committees were appointed to serve for the coming year, among them the war stamp group.

Class competition in war stamp sales on the campus is planned by Jane Craig, appointed chairman of the war stamp committee, who is assisted by Peggy Ann Case, and the club treasurer.

Campus sale of stamps has been handled by I.R.C. for the past three school years. This year they are scheduled to begin in the near future.

Also appointed to head committees were: Miriam Bowditch and Florenec Gwyn, social; Bob Huber and Bette Lou McCoy, programs.

Club officers previously elected are: president, Bob Huber; secretary, Miriam Wickham; treasurer, Olinda Ahearns. They will head the executive committee, aided by Miriam Bowditch, Marinell Ross, Peggy Ann Case, and Carroll Stegall.

Elected to the organization last Monday, the ten new members of I.R.C. are: Margaret Cross, Katherine Johnson, Lillian Conrad, Ethel Beal, Evelyn Anderson, Harriet McKean, Ada Huffman, Carolyn Ulrich, Eva Toro, Nellie Cuellas.

It has been planned, according to Bob Huber, that Congressman John Jennings, Jr., speak at the meeting on October 16, while a movie of South America wil be shown the following week.

LIBRARY LIBEL

Lost, Strayed or Stolen. One turtle, named Myrtle, formerly a resident fo Pistol Creek, latley of Maryville College fish pond, (through the courtesy of Beeler Thompson) has latley quit her pool, and for what reasons? We suspect her of political leanings, since she was last seen wearing a "Vote for Dewey" admonition in fresh paint. Those "fer" say she must be out campaigning, and those "agin" say she is hiding her head in shame till the paint wears off. But the question remains, where is Myrtle, the turtle? ? ?

Grass Widow? Jean's first husband is reputedly dead, but the mystery is what became of her second husband "Ed'ard." Some friends gathered on third floor Baldwin Tuesday night to hear the sad (?) tales of life with Ed'ard and hear his child Elviry recite. For details, contact Ed'ard's widow, 310 Baldwin.

Left Handed? As one of the matrons remarked about a gal whose hand is consistently being held at table. "How does that poor girl eat?" Well, how does she?

Censored

And this was the best snack of news I heard this week, too!

Breakfast in Bed. Jane Short appreciates the banana she discovered in bed with her the other morning—and how about supplying some toast and jam (butter-Miss Wright was explaining the library guides to keep up with side up, please) tomorrow?

Dirt. (It was finally swept out into the halls again as room inspection started this week.)

Abnormally Ripe. Nope, the freshman class isn't the traditional green at Maryville this year. On the contrary, the answers to their recent library questionnaires were amazingly correct, with two students making a perfect score. It's nice to be smart, but we sigh for the comedy of yesteryear when a freshman asked Miss Grierson for the book entitled Jesus on the War Path. (Christ of the Indian Road, to you!) Or shed a tear for the boy who asked for Oranges and Peaches and got only Origin of the Species. One freshman this year has his eye on the ball, though. When the government agencies he wanted to know if there was any tabulation which would keep us up to date on Eleanor!

Say Aaah! Or are LH and EP still feeding each other?

Make a Wish. Some of the student body found themselves singing "Happy Birthday to You" in front of Dr. Gates' door this past week. He blew out all the candles on the cake in one puff (there was one candle!), so we know his wish will come true. Many happy returns!

Wanta Study? If you feel a heavy exam coming on and would like a nice quiet place to study, see Bob Seel and JA or Bob Huber and CU for reservations at an end table in the library. (Only couples need apply!)

Dog Days. Happiest "Wolf" on the campus is Carroll's dog, now that Stegall is visiting Maryville.

And Speaking of Wolves—How many gals can a fellow date before he has attached to him the epithet of "wolf" is the problem of some freshmen men. A tip to fellows in such a quandry was given by an orientation instructor last week when he suggested that it wasn't too much out of order to be called a wolf as long as one didn't earn the ::big, bad—" to go with the title!

Send the Gleam Across the Way. Some poor fainting struggling seniors wondered more than a little when the lights along the shore of Pearsons flickered on and off the other night—two shorts and a long—now light in this wing, now in that. But if anyone asks for light on the subject, Mil can now tell 'em just where the right switch is.

Shades of the Departed. "Gee, it's so quiet around here," said one girl last week when pictures were being taken for the Chilhowean. "Too bad MacMartin isn't here." Which brings on the following info—Douglas MacMartin, B. A. 1944, is now teaching world history, American history, and sociology in the high school of Salem, South Dakota. He is also director of the boys' glee club and assistant director of the mixed chorus. In his spare itme (?) he is pianist and director of the First Presbyterian Church choir.

PLEASE NOTICE!

We, the officers of the Maryville College Young Men's Christian Association, herby notify all concerned that no one will have the authority to charge goods, service rendered, or the like, to the organization without a written order which must be signed by at least three of the four executive officers: namely, Joseph Brown, Edward Gates, Abner Richard, and Owen McGarity.

78 Girls Begin Point System With Soccer Practice

Seventy-eight girls signed up for Point system at the initial meeting a week ago Thursday. Mrs. Verton M. Queener was present to acquaint the new-comers with the rules and regulations of the system.

Ruth King Wood is in charge of Point system this year, and last Tuesday she opened the first regular session. Meetings will be scheduled each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for the rest of the semester. Two sessions will be held each afternoon—one at 3:30 and the other at 4:30.

The soccer season has already begun. Girls are busy practicing dribbling and other skills in preparation for the soccer tournament. All point system girls are also required to enter the tennis tournament now in progress. Although this year's tournament is not sponsored by Point System, points will be awarded to the system girls nevertheless.

After a rough soccer season the group will plunge into basketball. These are the only two sports which will be undertaken before Christmas.

In addition to the Tuesday and Thursday sessions, point system girls are on their honor to observe the following: among other things) one hour's outdoor exercise daily, at least two hours' swimming a month, completion of 42 miles of hiking, no cokes, in bed as soon as lights out, and a daily shower. And woe be on the unlucky girl who gets more than two light colds or one heavy one.

Incidentally the Wacs and the Waves have been disbanded—at least our detachments. Watch for news of what this year's teams are going to call themselves.

German Club

Florence Housch was elected president of German club at the first meeting of the semester last Monday at 6:45 p.m. in Dr. Collin's classroom. She will be supported by the following officers: vice-president Anne Rose Clinkman, secretary-treasurer Edith Metheney, and program chairman Dutchie Park. Carol Smith and Elizabeth Smith were also appointed members of the program committee.

The next meeting will be held on October 16 at Dr Collin's home. A light supper is being planned followed by an evening of folk games and singing.

who returns the pillow-case borrowed on the night of September 25, A. D. 1944. The owner gives the following description of the missing article: Touch your finger lightly to your nose, then stretch it at arm's length— that will give you the length. For width you take a yard, divide by 3-4, subtract a half inch for shrinkage, multiply by (oh well, it is about so wide.) The color is a shocking shade of white, but you know what laundry service is now!

Post-War Plans. Governments are not the only ones making post-war plans apparently. A Baldwin "exept" is tutoring inexperienced gals in the gentle art of how to kiss and be kissed—an art that should be passed on to the freshman generation before it dies out in the race. Anyone desiring lessons sign on the dorm bulleitn board. (Names are being witheld as ye gossiper prefers to live to a ripe old age!)

Playing Postoffice. Now don't think your post-cards will be read in the college post-office. They've sworn off, and here's one reason why. The other day a most peculiar specimen of post-card was noticed by one of the post-office staff. It appeared to be written in a foreign language, and since all code should be censored she tried to figure it out. It turned out to be a love-letter, written without any vowels, but love is love and is not dependent upon vowels after all. And then came curiosity—"I wonder who wrote this. Why it looks like the writing on this other envelope." "Yes, it does, doesn't it," said a voice over her shoulder, and there stood the gal who wrote it—another post-office assistant!

Tell Me Why: A certain blond freshman boy dates only the girls at his table. (Submitted by the cut kid at table No. 6, second from the left, and how about glancing her direction!)

BB arrived at gym class with that rip in her brand-new suit.

Kay Bonner wears the diamond "my aunt gave me for graduation" (Kay graduates next May, in case you're wondering) on the right hand and that class ring on the left? Maybe it has something to do with her being an expert on Platonic Love, since he report on that subject in philosophy class last week. Of course, the fact that she referred to Plato as Pluto couldn't have any bearing!

They say there's a red-cap shortage. We saw eight at one table in the dining hall last week.

Post-Mortem: Any resemblance in this "solyum" to persons living or dead on Maryville College campus is purely coincidental.

Abbott Kemp became winner of the Intramural tennis tournament by triumphing over Luther Cross, his roommate, in a three set match yesterday afternoon, October 6. Although the scores do not show it, there was some rather torrid tennis in each of the sets which Kemp took by the score of (6-0, 6-4, and 6-2).

"Squire", who had a total of six love seats to his credit in the course of the whole tourney, smashed through all his opposition in the earlier rounds with comparative ease. He gained his position in the finals in the following manner: In the semi-finals he outplayed Jay Bishop to the tune of 6-0 and 8-6. John Scott was completely outclassed by him in the quarterfinal round, Squire taking 12 straight games (6-0, 6-0). Likewise he outclassed Calvin Garland in the opening round; the scores were the same, (6-0, 6-0).

"Old Rugged" Cross had stiffer competition in earning his place in the final match. He defeated Tommy Parkinson in his semi-final match by the scores, (6-4, 6-1); and he eliminated Fred Wilson in the quarterfinal round, (6-3, and 6-3). He drew a bye in the first round.

There has been a consolation match arranged between Parkinson and Bishop; it is to be played at a later date and decide who is to get third place in the tourney. However that is unofficial; the Intramural tournament has been completed.

It is interesting to note that the same two players as this year, who were also roommates last year, were the finalists in last year's tourney. It was never finished because of bad weather.

Present standings in the Intramural football league show the Eagles well out in front with the record of five victories and no defeats. The Packers team, which is being disbanded, rates second place, having won three contests and lost only two. In third place is the Orange Frosh outfit, which has taken two encounters and dropped three. The Garnet Frosh bring up the rear, having come out second best in all five of their games.

But the addition of two players, Seel and Cover, from the Packers to the Garnet team is expected to put the teams on a much more equal standing. Kirstein of the Packers is to play with the Orange team, and Henry and Pribble are to be shifted to the roster of the Eagles. With the league now consisting of only three teams, it will only be possible to play two games a week instead of the usual four. The Packers had been having trouble in getting a full team out for their games since Carrol Stegall left school for a trip to Ft. Oglethorpe and Bob Huber dropped out of Intramural competition because of an injured knee. And now that their captains, Tommy Parkinson, is also having to withdraw from Intramural participation because of doctor's orders; the Intramural staff has decided that the other teams would be weakened too much by giving to players, the Packers and the only course is to disband the remainder of the team. The one game on each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon will begin immediately at 4:30.

The following is a summary of all games played since the last issue of the ECHO, competition which brought the teams to the respective positions they now hold in the standings.

Tuesday, September 26

At 3:30 the Orange Frosh team met the Garnet team in a game which turned out to be a touchdown parade for Captain Grubbs and company. The high scorer was Don Heuser who got a nice total of three touchdowns. The other two touchdowns were scored by House and Grubbs, with Grubbs and Hundemann each picking up an extra point to round out a total of 32. Captain Cardella scored the one lone marker for the losers, leaving a final score of 32 to 6.

In an important game at 4:30 the same day, the Eagles emerged victorious from a hard fought battle with the Packers. This was the game which was played to break the tie for first place and it was a close one. Abbott Kemp scored the only T. D. of the game in the last two minutes of play on a pass from Captain Rush Lester. Both teams reached this game with an undefeated record, and for most of the game it looked as if neither team was going to be able to score. But after the Packers holding them for three plays down inside their own ten yard line, the Eagles finally pushed over the winning tally.

Thursday, September 28

In the first game the Eagles won their fourth game of the season by defeating the Garnet Frosh by a score of 8-0. It was another game in which neither team showed much advantage until late in the game. It was another case of the pass combination of Lester to Kemp winning a game. The Eagle line broke through to block a punt toward the end of the game, and they picked up two points by virtue of a safety when the Garnet team recovered the ball in the end zone.

The Packers had their second defeat dealt to them by the Orange Frosh on that afternoon in the game started at 4:30. Heuser scored two touchdowns and an extra point, and Grubbs tallied one touchdown to run up a total of 19 points. They did that while holding the Packers scoreless. Final score 19-0.

Tuesday, October 3

In the first game on this date the Eagles again sent the Orange Frosh down in defeat. It was the same old story of the teams being equally matched, but just a little too much of the combination of Lester to Kemp. It was late in the second half when the winning play was executed by the Eagles, Kemp scoring, and the try for extra point was not successful. Grubbs and Heuser both played excellent games for the Frosh, but they were not able to score.

The Packers won what proved to be their last game of the season. The score was 13 to 0 in this game which was played at 4:30, and the victims were the Garnet Frosh. Parkinson scored on a run in the first half and passed to Cover for another score in the second half. Luke Cross scored the one extra point for the Packers, also on a pass from the Packers' captain. Cardella, captain, was outstanding for his team, the Garnet Frosh.

Maryville Churches Respond To Plea Of Clothing Drive

All churches in Maryville are now acting as receiving agencies in support of the Emergency Clothing Collection project carried on by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The approaching winter will find 20,000 people in liberated countries driven from their homes without possessing even the barest necessities. To partially supply one phase of this terrific need, the U.N.R.R.A. has asked all people to support their drive for good substantial clothing, either new or used, for winter or summer. All types of garments for men, women and children (with the exception of evening clothes) hose and gloves are drastically needed, especially infant garments and under clothing.

All citizens of Maryville are asked to respond to this call by donating as many articles of clothing as possible. They will find all Maryville churches ready to accept their donations and send them on to the proper authorities.

"Following Christ" Is Theme of Chapel Address Given by Dr. C. H. Gillingham

Speaker Is Former Professor of Bible And Registrar at M.C.

Addressing the student body at the regular Wednesday chapel service, October 4, Clinton H. Gillingham, D.D., presented the students with the thought of what a life of following Christ should mean to us now.

For his text Dr. Gillingham read the Gospel of St. Luke; 9:51-62. As those three young men whom Jesus met on his last trip to Jerusalem, we, too, must face problems and answer questions as we meet them. We must decide what to do with our lives if we are to follow the Christian way.

The first question we, as they, must face, is, "Where will it take me?" We must be able to answer with sincere conviction, "I shall follow wheresoever thou goest." "What will it cost me?" should be the next question we ask ourselves. It will cost something to be a Christian. However, Dr. Gillingham emphasized, one can carry on his duties of life, solve his problems adequately, and still be a Christian.

The last question to be asked by all is "When will it need me?" The Christian way of life "doesn't begin sometime in the future, but it begins when you face it; and if you do not face it, it does not begin . . ." The answer is NOW.

"Thus," concluded Dr. Gillingham, "it does not matter where it takes me; it does not matter what it will cost me; and it needs me now. And it needs you now. Are you ready?"

Dr. Gillingham is the President Emeritus of Tennent College of Christian Education, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He was graduated from Maryville College with the class of '05, was a member of the faculty from 1907 until 1929. During this time he served as head of the Department of Bible, Professor of Bible, and Registrar. Since he left, he has been welcomed back frequently as a speaker.

Spanish Club

Everyone joined in playing children's folk games at the first meeting of the Spanish club Thursday, September 28, at 6:45 p. m. in Miss Cowdrick's classroom.

Since this year's club has as one of its goals to be a Spanish-speaking club, an effort was made to speak Spanish as much as possible. The directions for the games were all given in Spanish, and the songs which accompanied the games were all sung in Spanish.

Program chairmen Ginger Clabough and Gladys David were in charge of the entertainment. They were assisted by Nellie Cuellas and Eva Toro.

There will be another "open meeting" of the club October 12. New members will be elected and plans for a picnic will be presented.

Evening Devotions Held Nightly In Girls' Dormitories

Evening Devotions in the women's dormitories began the week of September 25 under the direction of Margaret Messer and Eleanor Stout, devotions chairmen of the YWCA cabinet. These fifteen minutes of "quiet time" may be used in various ways with hymn-singing, poems, scripture-readings, and prayers as arranged by the girls in charge each evening. Girls meet Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings shortly before "lights out."

Girls appointed to supervise the evening devotions in the various dormitories are as follows: Pearsons floor leaders, Mildred Waring, Eleanor Stout, and Margaret Messer; Baldwin, Emily Leety, Eva Mae Campbell, and Ruth King Wood; Memorial, Eleanor Patterson, Marian Lewis, and Mary Smith; The girls rooming in the hospital have Virginia Wood as their leader.

Theta Holds Picnic In Woods Tonight For New Members

Theta Epsilon is planning a pic-college woods. All new officers ceremony in Theta Hall Saturday, September 30, at 6:15 p. m.

President Peggy Caldwell appointed the following girls to be in charge of the picnic: Audre Monteith, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the food committee with Jayne Shouse, Tennessee, and June Hamilton, Georgia, to assist her. Program chairmen Rebecca Davis and Ann Kerr have Betty Wells to help them with games and other events of the evening.

Theta's officers installed at the candlelight ceremony were president Peggy Caldwell of Tallahassee, Florida, vice-president, Betty Lou King, secretary Charlotte Proffitt, and treasurer Jane Callahan. Becky Davis and Ann Kerr were also installed as program chairmen. Each new member had a lighted candle from an old member as they all formed Theta Epsilon diamond and repeated Theta's pledge.

French Club

Ten new members were initiated into the French club at the club picnic Thursday, September 28, in the college woods, at 4:30 p.m. Essie Broom, Sarah Enloe, Edgar Potts, Vera Ross, B. A. Showalter, Mary Jane Tedford, Betty Tufvander, Barbara Wells, and Doris White are the recently elected members.

As part of the initation they were made to wear their hair in pig-tails tied with yellow bows, smear a cross of lipstick on their foreheads, recite French poetry with their mouths full of Kleenex, push tiny tomatoes along the ground with their noses, walk blindfolded and barefooted thru cooked macaroni, and other similar tortures.

About 25 French club members were present to enjoy hot dogs with all the trimmings, potato chips, marshmallows, donuts, and hot coffee.

Plans for the picnic and initation were worked out by Catherine Sisk, program chairman, and her assistant, Ruth Freeman.

Bainonian Girls To Get Acquainted At First Meeting

"Let's get acquainted," is the theme of Bainonian's first regular program of the fall semester scheduled for tonight at 6:15 in Bainonian Hall. Miriam Bowditch, senior from North Carolina, and Florence Gobillot, senior from Connecticut, program chairmen, have planned the program with the idea of old members getting to know new ones and vice versa. New talent will be used when Eva Toro and Nellie Cuellas, transfers from the University of Puerto Rico, will play and sing in Spanish. Peggy Hale, freshman jazz expert, will present some "Boogie" numbers. Group games will follow, and singing under the leadership of Jeanne Bellerjeau, will conclude the program.

Initiation of new members provided entertainment for old members at last week's program. New girls were blindfolded and led by old girls around the campus ending up in Bartlett gym where a series of odd noises, etc. succeeded in thoroughly initiating the Bainonian pledges.

Pre-Med Club

June Townsend and Dotty Brown were elected chairmen of Pre-Med club Thursday, September 28, at 6.40 p.m. The meeting was held in the second floor chesistry lecture room of Fayerweather.

Milly Cundiff, Jessie Lou Brunson, and Eleanor Kelly were appointed members of a special committee to investigate a suitable project for this year's club.

Dr. Lea Callaway will present motion pictures of interest to medically-minded students at the next meeeting, which will be held October 12.

Pi Gamma

At an election held last week, Miss Syble Tallent was selected as program chairman of Pi Gamma. At this time Miss Betty Ballard and Miss Pat Ames were elected as program co-chairmen. Miss Catherine Sisk, in an election held last spring, was selected as chairman of this year's Pi Gamma group.

The Pi Gamma group is a branch of the YWCA organized especially for the town girls.

SEES BETTER AUTO

The post-war amutomobile will be lighter, more attractive, more economical, according to Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board of Gerenal Motors. It will take GM four months to get production started after receiving the govenmen't OK, and six months to have production up to their prewar capacity level.

ARCHER BACK FROM SERVICE IN SO. PACIFIC

Mare Island, Calif.— Marine Private First Class A. R. (Bob) Archer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelso Archer, City 7, Maryville, has been transferred from this Marine Corps Base, to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, for further transfer under the V-12 program.

Private First Class Archer served with the Second Marine Division at Guadalcanal, and the Third Division at Bougainville.

He was graduated from the Everett High School in Maryville, in 1941, where he played football for four years, receiving three letters. He was active in dramatics and public speaking, and was a member of the debating team. He attended Maryville College.

Prior to enlistment in the Marine Corps October 27, 1942, at Knoxville, he was employed in and by the Aluminum Company of his father's garage at Maryville, America, at Alcoa.

He is interested in bowling, billiards, swimming, reading, and is a collector of old guns and stuffed animals.

Officers Elected For Pearsons Hall

Martha Dean, elected last spring president of Pearson's dormitory for this year, presided at the house meeting two weeks ago, when the rest of the house officers were elected. Chosen to serve with her were Dorothy Toomey, as vice-president, Lois Yohe, secretary-treasurer, Cathryn Crothers, second floor chairman, Lisette Gessert, third floor chairman, and June Gowanlock, fourth floor chairman.

The officers are elected on the most part for social purposes. The dues collected are used for the various picnics, parties, and teas given during the year.

The president of the house is always a senior, and is always elected in the spring to serve the following fall.

I.R.C. To Discuss Japan At Meeting Monday Evening

"What to do with Japan After the War" will be the topic of a round-table discussion at the next I.R.C. meeting, Monday evening, October 23, at 7:00. Marinell Ross, Ann Sakaizawa, Bob Seel, Carol Titus and Miriam Wickam will each give a five minute talk on phases of this subject to be followed by a group discussion.

At the last meeting, held October 16, the members were given the monthly news test from "Time" magazine to check up on their knowledge of curren' affairs. There was also a group discussion of international events centering around the results of the Dunbarton Oaks conference.

I.R.C. meets each Monday evening from 7:00 to 8:00 in the "Y" rooms. All students interested in current events and international affairs are welcome.

New Society For Folk-Lore Study Being Organized

Special Meeting Called For This Monday Afternoon

All students and faculty members interested in forming a Folk Lore Society are urged to attend the meeting being called by Dr. E. R. Hunter in his classroom, Monday, October 23 at 4:30. The purpose of the club will be twofold: to collect folk-lore from this region, including sayings, superstitions, dialectic peculiarities, archaic expressions and constructions, songs, ballads (words and tunes), tall tales, proverbs, riddles, etc.; and to awaken interest in this material, which is a part of our American culture.

If the members so desire, this group can be affiliated with the state Folk-lore society, and members may contribute to the Tennessee Folk-lore Society Bulletin.

Members of the State Society at Maryville include Dr. Hunter, who was formerly editor of the TFS Bulletin and who has recently been appointed chairman of a committee to study dialects; Miss Horne, present editor of the Bulletin; and Dr. Shine, Dr. Case, Miss Wright, Mrs. R. W. Lloyd, and Miss Jackson. (

Theta Alpha Phi Plans Plays For This Semester

Formal Opening Held Last Week In Bartlett Hall

Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic fraternity, held its formal opening Saturday evening, October 14, in Bartlett Auditorium with a reading by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art. A condensation of the novel Happy Land by McKinley Kantor was heard by those attending the program. Members of Theta Alpha Phi acted as hostesses, ushering and serving refreshments following the reading.

The Experimental Theatre will present several one-act plays each month during the school year which will be open to the student body and faculty of the college. This is required work for students in the dramatic art department. The plays will be under the supervision of Mrs. Eleanor Badgett.

Those students elected to membership in Theta Alpha Phi are Mary Dawn Noblit, Nancy Russell, Dorothy Lehman, and Thelma Richardson. Faculty members are Mrs. Nita Eckles West, Dean Edwin R. Hunter, Ph. D. Dean of curriculum, and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian.

I.R.C. Initiates War Stamps Sale, Senior Class Leads In First Week Purchases

Jane Craig Heads Committee, Other Workers Selected

"Don't let this shadow fall on them! Buy bonds and stamps." These words are found on the posters distributed about the campus by members of the publicity group of the I.R.C. War Stamp Committee before sales were begun last Wednesday at noon and evening in Pearsons Lobby. Printed in large white letters, they appear beneath a picture of three children-looking up fearfully toward something unseen which throws near them a swastika-like shadow.

The senior class led in percentage purchases of war stamps last Wednesday, according to Jane Craig, War Stamp Committe head, with 38% of the class members making purchases.

Next came the junior class with 28%, followed by the sophomores with a percentage purchase of 25%. The freshman class fell far below the others with an 8% total.

Members of the publicity committee are Ethel Beall, Ruth Broadhead, Eva Mae Campbell, Elsa Jean Cotton, Margy Dickinson, Martha Edgerton, Juanita Hinson, Ann Kerr, Betty Lou McCoy, Betty Saint, and Marion Schneiweiss.

Student Council representatives to the War Stamp Committee are Anna Sakaizawa and Tommy Parkinson. Sarah Enloe, Max House, Lynn Mathews, Tommy Parkinson, Joy Stewart, and Fred Wilson make up the Social Committee.

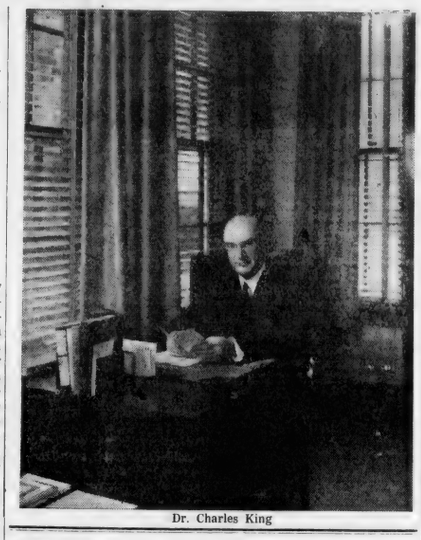
Finances are handled by Florence Gwyn.

Appointed by the respective class officers, the class selling committees are: Senior, Lois Collette, chairman, Peggy Caldwell, Martha Dean, and Lisette Gessert; Junior, June Townsend, chairman, Betty Proffitt, Kate Reaves, and Ann Thornton; Sophomore, Ruth Broadhead, chairman, Fay Cameron, Abbott Kemp, Louise Warwick; Freshman, Lois Thomas, chairman, Jean Almy, Max House, Bill Vogel.

Robert H. Wood To Be Wednesday Chapel Speaker

The Reverend Mr. Robert H. Wood, pastor of the Park City Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the speaker at the regular Wednesday morning chapel service, October 25, to be held in Voorhees Chapel at 8 a. .m.. His topic has not been announced.

Mr. Wood was graduated from Maryville College in 1927. Graduating from Princeton University, he held pastorates in Illinois and Humboldt, Tennessee, prior to his coming to Knoxville. For the past two years he has held the chairmanship of the committee in charge of Young Peoples' Conferences in this presbytery.



Debate Class Holds Meetings

John W. Bricker, Thomas A. Dewey, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, and Norman W. Thomas, the five candidates in the coming national election, were discussed last Thursday evening in the debate class at the home of David H. Briggs, professor of psychology.

The class, held on Wednesday afternoons and Thursday evenings, has about twenty-five members, five of whom are members Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic organization.

The members are: Dorothy Lehman, president; Bob Huber, vice-president; Betty Lou McCoy, reporter; Marinell Ross and Miriam Wickham.

Until the national question for the year is decided, MC Pi Kappa Delta is using the proposed question "Resolved: That the Federal Government should provide a fund in equalize education." Debates on this subject are planned for the near future.

Artists Series Concert Is Postponed To Nov. 15

Postponement of the Artist Series program originally scheduled for Tuesday evening, was requested in a telegram received by Professor George D. Howell, head of the faculty Artist Series committee, two days ago.

"Nicola Moscona's manager in New York requested that the singer's engagement here be postponed until later because he had been well received in Chicago and asked to remain over for several weeks," Professor Howell explains. "The date has been set for November 15th."

Moscona, Greek-born bass-baritone, has sung with the Metropolitan Opera for a number of years.

Seat reservations purchased may be held until the November date; however if cancellation is necessary, the committee will make refunds, Professor Howell stated.

President Lloyd Speaks In South During Past Week

Various speaking engagements necessitated a trip south for President Ralph Waldo Lloyd, D. D. Mrs. Lloyd accompanied him as he went from Atlanta, Georgia, to Florida cities and then home again. Dr. Lloyd presided at a Consultation Conference in Atlanta, October 5 and 6 of approximately 40 students, faculty members, and YM and YW secretaries. The primary purpose of the conference was to discuss the racial problem in connection with the conducting of summer conferences. Miriam Bowditch, senior religious education major, from North Carolina, attended the Consultation Conference and the meeting of the Southern Regional Council of which she is a member.

On Sunday, October 8, Dr. Lloyd spoke in the First Presbyterian Church of St. Petersburg, Florida. Sunday afternoon, he addressed those attending the community service celebrating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the YMCA in London.

A joint meeting of the Florida synods of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. and U.S. was held on October 10 and 11 in Daytona Beach with an address by Dr. Lloyd at one evening session. His topic was "Plan of Reunion", a discussion of the plan of uniting the two churches which has been developed by a committee of six on which Dr. Lloyd serves. The other evening meeting was addressed by Dr. Charles King, moderator of the Presbyterian Church U.S. who will be one of the two guest speakers at the 125th anniversary celebration of Maryville College on Sunday, October 22.

BARNWARMING QUEEN

A king and queen of Barnwarming will be elected next Wednesday morning, October 25, after Chapel. Only seniors may be elected for this honor and the outcome of the election will be kept secret until Barnwarming, November 23. All students are eligible to vote.

Chilhowean Proofs Must Be Returned By This Evening

The editorial staff of the Chilhowean is making arrangements for the return of proofs for individual pictures to appear in the yearbook. Proofs should be returned to the editor, Thelma Richardson, by Saturday night, October 21. Under special conditions arrangements may be made for retakes. A box has been placed in the lobby of Pearsons Hall for the purpose. Students whose proofs are unsatisfactory due to mechanical defect or unsuitable photography may place their names and this information in the box. A photographer will be on the campus Tuesday morning, October 24 and from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. of that day to make re-sittings. This representative is from S. H. George and Sons of Knoxville who will handle personal orders for additional individual photographs. Arrangements for extra glossy prints may be made through the editorial staff.

Business manager Marinell Ross reports that subscriptions have been made to four hundred Chilhoweans. The dead-line for the first down payment of $1.00 is today, October 21.

DUKE, SANTIAGO WED IN CHICAGO

Two former Maryville students of the class of '43, Sidney W. Duke and Aura Santiago, were married at the Lakeview Presbyterian Church, Chicago, on October 14. Rev. John Magill performed the candlelight ceremony in a small chapel of the church. Only close friends of the couple were present. Hal Lloyd, also a Maryville graduate of that year, was best man. The couple will make their home in Chicago where he is in A.S.T.P. at Northwestern Medical School in his junior year.

Services Scheduled For 10:45 and 3:00 Tomorrow

Assembly Moderators Vale, King To Deliver Principal Addresses

In celebration of its 125th anniversary, Maryville College will witness two special services tomorrow for college, churches and community in the Elizabeth Voorhees Chapel. At 10:30, Roy E. Vale, D. D., of Indianapolis, Indiana, will be the principal speaker, while Charles L. King, D.D., of Houston, Texas, will deliver the message at the 3:00 service. Among other participants will be presidents of neighboring colleges and representatives of the Synods and Presbyteries.

Nearly a century and a quarter ago, Isaac Anderson, founder and first president of Maryville College, brought into being the institution provided for in a resolution passed on October 19, 1819, by the Presbyterian Synod of Tennessee at the New Providence Church in Maryville.

The Morning Service

To commemorate the passing of this resolution and the subsequent founding of Maryville, Dr. Vale, Moderator of the 156th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., has chosen as his subject "Stars in the Night."

Pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church in Indianapolis, Dr. Vale has been a Director of Maryville College for the past twenty-five years. He is a graduate of Washington College, Tennessee, and Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, New Jersey. He was leader of the February meetings here in 1930 and 1934.

Churches of Maryville will omit their regular morning worship services tomorrow to unite with the college. An amplifier system and seats have been provided for any overflow.

The Program

The invocation will be given by Rev. Maurice H. Hopson, Rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, and the benediction, by Rev. F. B. Shelton, Pastor of the First Methodist Church in Maryville.

Dr. King, James D. Hoskins, LL.D., Litt.D., President of the University of Tennessee, and John McSween, D.D., President of Tusculum College, will express their greetings to Maryville College.

Also participating in the service for scripture reading and prayer respectively will be: Rev. C. P. Hardin, Pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, and Rev. Colvin L. Hammock, Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Maryville.

Dr. Roy E. Vale

"God Is a Spirit" by Jones and "Benedictus ' by Listz-Cain are the two selections to be sung by the MC choir.

There will be an Alumni Buffet Luncheon on

125 YEARS OF SERVICE

Tomorrow Maryville College will celebrate its 125th birthday. Few people realize just what import this event has, and what significance the existence of this institution holds.

A century and a quarter of service to the nation, community, and to the individual have made Maryville College one of the most influencial and respected institutions in this land. Its training of Christian men and women places it high among those institutions in America which have contributed greatly to the development of American culture and the American way of life.

Almost as old as the United States, Maryville College has exerted its positive Christian influence throughout Tennessee and the nation as a whole during the period of the growth of American democracy, and was instrumental in the evolution of our present state of society.

Maryville College in its 125 years of service has stood for those qualities that are lasting and hold the greatest good for right. It has been an institution of outstanding achievement and contribution, and it is no wonder that America's leaders in the fields of religion and education pay tribute to Maryville College.

What the future years have in store for a college of this type no one can predict, but a scanty glimpse ahead does indicate extended service and achievement.

Heads I Win, Tails You Lose: There's one junior who doesn't believe in taking any chances. In trying the wedding cake experiment suggested by Tattle Tale several weeks ago she feels fairly certain of the outcome. Her seven slips of paper contain the following names: Charles Lee Burgreen, Rev. C. L. Burgreen, Charlie Burgreen, Charles L. Burgreen, C. Lee Burgreen, Charles Burgreen, and Charlie L. Burgreen. Only two more nights of dreaming over the names and all the slips will have been drawn out, so the suspense is terrific. (P.S. She sorta hopes it comes out Charlie. She knows him better that the other fellows listed.)

Two Girls and TWO Sailors: Yes, Marky Cross and her roommate Mary Batchelor are both expecting sailors next week. So prepare to meet Bob Barker and Dave Seel on campus soon.

Sweet (Patootie) Sisters. Out-tooting the Campus Cut-Ups is the ambition of Wood and Winslow as they practice on their sweet potatoes over at the hospital. (Two bits that when one of 'em reads this she'll say "I nearly dropped my tooth.")

Mademoiselle and Esquire: What the well dressed college student will borrow: Shoes by Burleigh, grass skirt by Elaine Beahr (fresh from the South Pacific), and horse blanket (pardon, jacket) by Schieber.

Professor? Or did he just have more important things on his mind? Anyone could forget to pick up a whole aisle of dishes, but when he forgets it just for the pure pleasure of sweeping a part of the dining hall surely Bob Seel must have something beside a new broom on his mind???

Felix Cumpleanos: Senorita David's friends gave her a Spanish birthday party, with even the greeting on the cake icing in Espanol.

And while we're speaking Spanish, some students had a real test of their Spanish when they went to the rescue of a young man from Guatemala on his way to New York to study the latest methods in printing and linotyping. When his plane was grounded in Knoxville on Friday night he was really stranded as he couldn't speak enough English to order a meal. An SOS call to Maryville brought Eva Toro, Edelmira Pino, Nellie Cuellas, and Bob Seel to the rescue, and they helped him order supper at the G & F and get located for the night at a tourist home.

Epitaphs. The late Mr. Vine.

R. S. V. P. What dining hall dietitian planned an extra special dinner last Sunday in the expectation of entertaining a certain Home Ec teacher and then saw dinner time arrive but no guest—only to remember, after some pacing of the floor, that she had forgotten something—to invite the Home Ec. teacher.

Romance of the Week: Fossell (or Facile) and her beloved Walter.

The Missing Link: If you find a nickel you can keep it, but if you find the other half of the Nizpah coin Polly Lickteig wears around her neck, please report the wearer thereof to the Library Libeller.

Cradle Song: Have the sniffles? Maybe Betty Jo will lend you some Kleenex—but chances are she won't. Her daddy down New Mexico way ordered some Kleenex for her, the only catch being that when her roommate opened the package it turned out to be disposable baby diapers. Anyone with a disposal baby, see BJK and maybe you can work out an exchange.

Gentlemen Prefer? At least Max House seems to, judging from the cute blond he had out last Tuesday night.

Motto of Hospital Girls: "Anything can happen in a hospital, and gee how we wish it would!"

Psychoanalysis: It's a lie! Girls, you haven't made much impression on one of the species. According to the psychometer (lie detector to you) test in the psych class this week Joe Henry didn't register a degree of emotion when he was asked if he liked to kiss any of the five girls whose names he had listed. When the instructor in amazement asked if he didn't like to kiss at all the needle still didn't register. Maybe he's lost his heart already???

If you'd like to have your mind read, though, just hurry over to the psych lab for the word association test. MC when asked to respond to the word "Letter" popped out in nothing flat with "BOB."

Audre Monteith's expectations were confirmed by the psychometer. Dr. Briggs lined 'em up the way she wanted them—with the lucky boy at the head of her list!

Again? Cancel all earlier reports. Bob Dockendorf and Louise Henry are "pinned to each other." Well, shouldn't Student Council stick together?

For Comprehensives? Seniors don't think there is such a thing as too much wisdom. Carol McCutcheon is cutting not one but two wisdom teeth.

Patriotic. Passing the dates around is only sporting. This week's runners-up for the most generous guys are Jack Scott and Luther Cross.

Peter Piper Picked a Peck. If you ever decide to stammer, try not to pick a country like ancient Beotia to try it on. It might come out like it did in Greek the other day — B.O., B.O., Beo-o-tia! (Which brings to mind the oldie—What did one eye say to the other eye? "Don't look now, but there's something between us that smells.")

Swing Low. Give those gals who live at the hospital rope enough to hang themselves and—they make a swing out of it!

Famous Last Words: Goodnight, darling!

Ouch! (If the shoe fits, squeeze into it!) Reward for the apprehension of the author of this little missile (pardon, missive) left on a gossiper's desk.

PUBLICITY

Gossip shall not cramp my life.
Boldly through the world I'll walk.
I'd rather far be talked about
Than one of those who merely talk.

With our first Artist Series program so close at hand, it might be well for the benefit of the new students, and perhaps some of the old ones too, to think a little on "Concert Etiquette". Olin Downes wrote a feature for the "New York Times" on the subject and who are we to let their staff outdo the Echo. New York possibly has a fuller schedule of concerts and operas but Maryville Artist Series programs are not surpassed when it comes to quality rather than quantity.

We are indebted to the Y cabinets and Professor Howell, who heads arrangements for Artist Series programs, for the seasonal performances here on the campus of various opera singers, string symphonies, and famous musicians. It is customary to have three programs during the school year. College students are admitted to these excellent programs by presenting their "Student Activity Cards" at the time of sale of tickets and paying only the federal tax. Town people and out-of-town guests must pay an admission price plus this federal tax. Thus college students are privileged to take advantage of these programs at a very low price. After students have had sufficient opportunity and preference in buying seats, the remaning seats are sold to other than college people.

The dinner before an Artist Series program in the dining hall has been a formal one for many years. It is customary to dress formally for them and lighting is by candlelight. This custom was discontinued last year due to the cadets being in the dining hall at the same hour, but it is possible that dinners on these occasions may be formal again this year. If so, anouncements will be made to this effect.

The Y committees furnish ushers for the performances and programs are distributed at the door. Waiting for the performance to begin after once being seated is a test of patience. No less than a dozen times one thinks he can detect light and a widening crack in the door where the guest star is ready to make an exit to the stage. At last it really comes to pass and you gaze at the artists for the first time. There is always a moment of silence for a quick decision of the comparison of reality and expectation. But in graceful stage manner, the guest performer usually leads the audience in singing our national anthem after which the program proceeds. And by all means, watch your applause during the program. Don't let your ignorance be shown by applauding between some movements. Watch the conductor or the guest, as the case may be, and you'll avoid embarrassment.

The intermissions are for one purpose. That is for the benefit of those who are appearing on the program. If you go out for a breath of air, it's only courtesy to be back in your seat when the performance is resumed. To straggle in at the end of the next few numbers after the intermission breaks the continuity of the program and does not show proper respect to our guests.

The presentation by the performers depends a great deal upon the response of the audience. So, if one intends to try to persuade the guests to present more encore numbers, this rests on the attitudes and actions of the listeners.

Maryville College is indeed fortunate to be able to continue presentation of artists of such renown in the musical world in spite of present day difficulties. It is up to us to take advantage of such opportunities.

Isaac Anderson, Founder of Maryville, Honored Tomorrow

President Isaac Anderson

Among the tombstones in the New Providence Cemetery is an impressive looking marker inscribed with the words "In Memory of Rev. Isaac Anderson, D. D. Born in Rockbridge County, Va.,, March 26, 1780. . . ." This gravestone, by the brief biography related on its chisled surface, portrays a tale dear to every Maryville student since the founding of this college 125 years ago.

For Isaac Anderson left behind him far more than a mere tombstone in a church cemetery for others to remember him by. The date of his birth is not half so important in our mention of him as the year 1819, for in that year was begun an institution where his name has been hallowed for nearly a century and a quarter. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, President Emeritus of M. C., once stated: "Maryville's chief endowment is its character." We might well add to that ". . . . a heritage handed down from its founder and first president."

Isaac Anderson, short, stocky, Scotch-Irish, Virginian, recorded for himself in the hearts of others an inspiration of character which dominates, even to the present, the highest aims of Maryville. An out-growth of his Scotch-Irish lineage, Dr. Anderson's zeal for liberty played an important part in the way M. C. was set up.

In the foothills of the Blue Ridge and Alleghaney Mountains, he spent the first twenty-one years of his life. He studied theology at Liberty Hall Academy after attending a neighborhood subscription school, and his pastor instructed him for his ministerial training. In 1801 his parents moved to Knox County, Tennessee, and soon after, he was ordained and installed as minister of the Washington Church of that county.

The year 1812 found him in Maryville where he became pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. Here he spent seven years performing the usual duties of a preacher, augmented by those of teacher, educator, theologian, and pastor at large of the Synod of Tennessee.

A crying need for ministers launched him upon the next period of his life in 1819—the "supreme thirty years of his life," according to Dr. Wilson. In October of that year he began a modest institution which he called the Southern and Western Theological Seminary, now known as Maryville College.

This versatile, altruistic, "No surrender!" man named Anderson passed on in 1857; his body lies buried in the very cemetery where he himself for so many years laid with comforting words the dead of his New Providence congregation. On a stone over his grave are written the words:

"Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter the Master's joy."

Isaac Anderson died January 28, 1587, the inscription says, but he left behind him a living, ever growing monument of his endeavor.

This October commemmorates the 125th year since Maryville's establishment; perhaps Isaac Anderson would be surprised could he see the size and capacities of his Southern and Western Theological Seminary now.

"Chase A Star" Dr. Barbour Tells MC Students In Wednesday Chapel Sermon

Knoxville Pastor Stresses Changing World Conditions

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in Knoxville, was principal speaker at the Maryville College Wednesday morning chapel service, October 18, Dr. Barbour, a friend of the College of long-standing, one of its directors, and a leader on many occasions of its February meetings, is one of the outstanding speakers and preachers of the South.

Dr. Barbour in his address to the Maryville College student body stated that our present generation is witnessing "the most significent era of this world. "I am not necessarily thinking of war," he continued, "although war is a symptom of what is going on. We are watching either the death of culture or the birth of a new day, maybe both."

Dr. Barbour compared this world to a sick patient with a disease caused from his desire for physical achievement. He attains an almost unbelievable peak in the control of physical science but loses all spiritual desires and achievements.

Dr. Barbour stated that only after we have realized this cause and doctored accordingly would the "patient" be restored to lasting health. "We must chase a star", he said. "We must have a worthwhile purpose, free of trivia and nonsense. We must have a code of behavior to suit that kind of purpose. We must learn to get along with people and work together for the achievement of that which is good for all."

"These things gave America her birth", Dr. Barbour said, "and are necessary for her rebirth. They alone can give back to America her health and happiness."

B.G.'s Organize, Plan Breakfast

The B. G. organization has had a preliminary meeting for the purpose of beginning activities for this semester. The first function being planned for the group is a breakfast on Saturday morning, October 21. At this time, newly elected members will be honored. The three senior members serve as officers. They are: Hannah Duke, president; Peggy Caldwell business manager; and Kay Bonner, activities chairman. Other members are Betty Lou King and Zenobia Bernardini. Miss Susanna Ware is sponsor of the group and succeeded Mrs. Archibold Peiper.

B. G.'s were organized twelve years ago for the purpose of enabling dormitory students to be able to go on mountain and hiking trips. Last year, due to wartime transporation problems, the group was not as active as in past years. It is hoped that in spite of such handicaps that again this year they can resume normal activities. Most students will remember two of the former members, Mrs. Bonnie Brown and Mrs. John March, since they were both on the Maryville College faculty last year and are residents of Maryville.

Bainonians Plan Pageant Program

Mary Fershee is in charge of the Bainonian 125th anniversary program to be presented tonight at 6:15 p. m. in Bainonian hall. The program will be a pageant depicting typical campus scenes 125 years ago and on down through the years.

Assisting Mary with the plans are Ethel Beal and Soapie Bernardini.

ATHENIAN

The third floor Baldwin girls will present "The Turnip Patch" at the Athenian meeting tonight in the Fine Arts Studio at 6:15. The skit is "a horrible play in one act, one scene, and one spasm." The cast of characters will include: Jean Messer, Joy Stewart, Ruth Broadhead, Ginger Clabough, Jean McGill, and Catherine Stout.

This is the same skit the girls presented as part of the Bainonian program for last week.

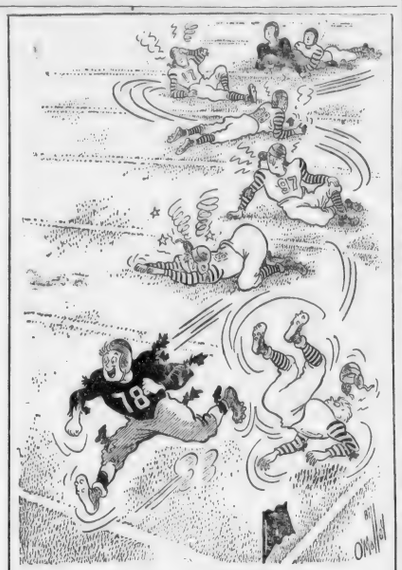
INITIAL ROUND OF GIRLS TENNIS TOURNAMENT COMPLETED WED.

"Chillie And "Howie" Chosen New Team Names

A successful season of girls' sports is well under way with the completion of the first round of the tennis tournament on Wednesday and the selection of team names for the Point System soccer teams.



"Chillie" and "Howie" are the new names selected for the 1944-45 Point System season. They were chosen last week in preference to the "Wacs" and the "Waves" which were last year's teams. The teams practicing from 3:30-4:30 are the "Chillies" and the girls practicing from 4:30-5:30 are the "Howies". Approximately 25 girls are on each team,

During the past week each team has been waging practice games among themselves. October 26 has been the date set for the soccor test which is required of all Point System girls.

The first round of the girls' tennis tournament ended October 18. Sixty-four girls participated in the first round. Of the remaining thirty-two, some have begun on the second round sets which will close October 25.

The girls in the Memorial-Baldwin tournament who have completed the first round successfully are Marion Henderson, Merle Henderson, May Short, Edith M. DeLaney, Lorraine Shoup, Barbara Blair, Elsie Jean Cotton, Lonnie Richardt, Lorretta Nunn, Lois Thomas, Evelyn Anderson, Janet Miller, Eva May Campbell, Lottie Lavender, Jean Balch, Gwen Greenlee, Mildred Jones, Ruth Williams, Mary Ellen Teagarden, Elizabeth Boell, Carol Fuller, and Joy Stewart.

Coming up to the second round in the Pearson tournament are: Betsy Burleigh, Carolyn Wallace, Martha Shaw, Betty Lou King, Peggy Stephenson, Rosalind Gorges, Nancy Russell, Hannah Duke, Ruth King Wood, and Kay Stout. The winners of the Memorial-Baldwin Tournament and the Pearson Tournament will compete for the campus championship.

ALPHA SIGMA

The weekly meeting of Alpha Sigma will be Saturday at 6:15 p. m. in Alpha Sigma hall. A musical program will be presented by Sibyl Tallent and Betty Tufvander. Numbers to be given on the program are two currents hits, "I'll Walk Alone" and "It Could Happen to You", as vocal solos, and a piano solo, "Sunshine Concerto".

Spring Graduates Enter Various Fields of Service

Many In Advanced Studies, Teaching; Others Marry

Post-graduate studies, teaching, and marriage claim various ones of the May 15 graduating class. Ann Horton, Flora Torbert and Margaret Gessert are all continuing their studies in home economics. Ann is at Florida State College for Women in Tallahassee; Flora attends Temple University in Philadelphia; and Margaret does her p.g. work at Erexel Institute of the same city.

Evelyn French is interning as a dietician in the hospital connected with the University of Maryland. She began her work October first. Freda Buller entered nurse's training at Western Reserve School of Nursing in Cleveland, Ohio. Jean Lehman, also a cadet nurse there, became the wife of Lt. John Dillener October 10 in Nebraska.

Jean Batchelor, ex'44, also chose October 10 for her wedding day. Jean was married to Lt. (j.g.) Murphy Williams, chaplain in the Navy, in Richmond, Virginia with Lt. Williams' father performing the ceremony. Mary Batchelor, junior here in Maryville, was her sister's maid-of-honor.

Katy Tomlinson is now Mrs. John Hoelzer and is making her home with him in Atlanta, Georgia where John, '42, is teaching mathematics in G.M.I. Katy is a hostess in a model house in an Atlanta department store.

Pat Howorth, Katy's roommate, serves 2000 meals a day as assistant dietician in the university eating place of the University of Pittsburgh.

Several graduates are facing school children five days a week. Lenore Wise is teaching home economics in Blair, Pennsylvania. Margaret Boretsky directs physical education in Clinton High School. Evelyn Gregory was married to Ensign Glenn Paul in August after he returned from an overseas assignment. She lived with him temporarily in Virginia, but has now returned to her home in Eton, Georgia to teach in the elementary grades since Glenn has received another assignment.

Sara Cameron is employed by the Army Transport Service at Fort Richardson in Anchorage, Alaska. Ruth Meineke, also employed by the government, is making use of her mathematics major by working in an engineering laboratory in Cincinnati, her home. Dupont Corporation in Louisville, Ky., is Nancy McClaskey's place of employment as she works in a laboratory. Kathryn Woodward Tipton is "white-collar girl" in an office in her home in Newport, Tennessee. Dorothy Gredig is teaching music in the Alcoa schools.

Eagles Drop First Game To Orange Frosh Team But Retain League Leadership

Intramural Head Announces New Ping-Pong Contest

By Tommy Parkinson

Standings in the Intramural Football League are the same as they have been since the beginning of the season; the only difference being the previously undefeated Eagles are undefeated no longer. On Tuesday afternoon, October 17, the Orange team became the first team to beat the Eagles by emerging victorious in a hard-fought game with a score of 12 to 0. That leaves the Eagles still in first place though with a record of six won and one lost, while the Orange team is in second place but gaining on the leader with a record of five won and three lost. The Garnet team is still playing close games but still has its first victory to attain. Now that Rush Lester, the captain and star, has left school and the Eagles will be performing without his valuable services, the race for first place promises to be a most interesting one; and one can be sure that each time the Orange team meets the Eagles there will be a battle royal.

The following is a brief record of all games played recently.

On October 10, a Tuesday, the only game played was between the Orange and the Garnet teams. The Garnets, with the additional players of Cover and Seel, played a very good game. They held the ever-threatening Oranges to one lone touchdown in the course of the whole game, but they were held scorless so they lost 6-0. Heuser scored the lone marker for the day.

The Garnets met the Eagles on Thursday, October 12, and they again came away beaten. Kemp tallied a T.D. on a pass and Pribble got another on a blocked punt for the Eagles to tell the tale of that encounter, another case was the Garnet team being unable to score, although their captain, Mat Cardella, made many valiant, though vain, efforts. Final score: Eagles 12, Garnets 0.

It was on the afternoon of October 17 at 4:30 that the Eagles met their first and only defeat. Heuser managed to be the player to score both winning touchdowns, both were in pass plays, with Captain Grubbs doing the tossing. McGarity took a pass over the center of the line to count the only time for the Eagles. This was a nip-and-tuck game all the way; the Orange team scored first and then got the second touchdown in the second half before the Eagles got around to getting their one. However the Eagles threatened to tie the score during the whole second half, twice scoring plays were executed only to be called back on account of penalities. The final score was 12 to 6.

Thursday afternoon, October 19, the Orange kept up their recent series of victories by again conquering the Garnet team. The passing combination of Grubbs and Heuser got hot and it seemed to work both ways. Heuser tossed a long one to Grubbs to get the first tally, and Grubbs threw a short pass to Heuser to score the second one. Hundemann got an extra point. And the game ended with that 13 to 0 score as the Garnets could not score.

Ping Pong Tourney

Next on the schedule of minor sports in the Intramural program is a singles ping pong tournament. The entrance blank has been posted for that sport since Thursday and the entries are due to close tonight. The competition will be held in the ping pong room in Carnegie. Activity is due to start next week, according to the Intramural manager.

Theta's To Act Out Love Story

Thetas from Memorial are to work out a love story called "Mellerdrammer" in pantomine at 6:15 tonight in Theta hall. Those participating are: Betty Ann Warren, Vivian Owens, Carol Jones, and Marjorie Dickenson.

Florence Housch and Virginia Payne will sing two duets: "Irish Lullaby" and "Desert Song." To top off the entertainment, Sue Cochrane will present a monologue "Dumb Dora at the Theater." Marian Monteith is in charge of arranging the program.

Tusculum College Celebrates 150th Anniversary

Maryville's neighbor Tusculum College at Greeneville, Tennessee, is this year celebrating its 150th anniversary, having been founded 25 years before Maryville College. It is to have three celebrations: the first was yesterday dealing with Tusculum's service to the Church; the second will be in the winter and the third at Commencement emphasizing respectively service to the Nation and to Education.

President Lloyd took part in yesterday's program and President McSween of Tusculum will take part at Maryville tomorrow. These two Presidents have cooperated in bringing the two Presbyterian Moderators to both colleges.

the campus at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon for the alumni and guests.

3:00 O'Clock Service

Judge Samuel O'Grady Houston, LL.D., chairman of the Directors of Maryville College, will preside over the afternoon service in the Elizabeth R. Voorhees Chapel.

With the invocation pronounced by Rev: Arthur A. Hyde, Pastor of the First Christian Church, the service will center around an address on "Our Debt to the Christian Colleges" by Dr. King.

Dr. King, a graduate of Davidson College, North Carolina, and Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, was elected Moderator of the 84th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. (Southern), last May.

Rev. R. Wilbur Cousar, Moderator of the Synod of Appalachia, Rev. Dr. John A. Gates, Moderator of the Presbytery of Union, Rev. Benjamin B. Lavender, President of Washington College, Rev. Chester F. Leonard, Vice-Moderator of the Synod of Mid-South, and Dr. Vale, will also take part in the service. Dr. E. Fay Campbell, Secretary of the Division of Higher Education and Director of the Department of Colleges, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will represent the Board and take part in the anniversary services.

The choir will sing "Sanctus" by Gounod and "Blessings of Peace" by Arkhangelsky.

Maryville's Record

Maryville College has advanced a long way from its meager freshman class of five young men in 1819. It has advanced a long way, too, from the first classrooms—Dr. Anderson's manse and what is referred to in documents as a "little brown house" nearby. Not until 1820 was separate property purchased for the college; this was a lot and a small two-story building on the spot where the New Providence Presbyterian Church now stands.

Here classes were taught by Dr. Anderson, assisted by older students who acted as tutors, for six years. Within two years of its founding, the college consisted of three departments: the Theological, closed in 1850; the Preparatory, closed in 1925; and the College, now the entire institution.

In 1825, the teaching staff was broadened to include two professors besides Dr. Anderson. Between that time and Dr. Anderson's death in 1857, there were three professors and one or two instructors or tutors and a financial agent.

The year 1829 saw the construction of another building on the New Providence lot to take care of the increasing enrollment, which had then reached the total of thirty-five students. A "Brick College" was erected on that site in the Fifties; this remained the nucleus of the college until the Civil War in 1861. This "campus" on Main Street remained in possession of the College until 1890, when it was given to the New Providence Church.

Years of Reconstruction

When the old bell was rung again on September 5, 1866, by Professor Thomas J. Lamar, thirteen students gathered for the reopening. As enrollment and faculty increased, plans for a larger campus were begun.

Professor Alexander Bartlett joined the faculty in 1867, and soon after, his brother, P. Mason Bartlett, D.D., came from New England. In 1871 the College, with the latter Bartlett as its third president, moved to the present campus, where three new buildings had been erected.

The first B.A. degree to be received by a woman from a Tennessee college was granted to a Maryville student in 1875. Other steps forward in Christian education were taken by Maryville College during this period also, with the establishment of such enterprises as the February Meetings in 1877, the YMCA in the same year, the YWCA in 1844, the Student Volunteers in 1894, and the organized Student-Help program during the Nineties.

In The Twentieth Century

When the college was 82 years old, Samuel Tyndale Wilson, D.D., who had been Professor of English and Spanish since 1884, was elected fifth president. In 1908, the Forward Fund added $277,000 to the resources of the College and in the ensuing decades even larger gifts came until at his retirement in 1930, Dr. Wilson had seen the financial assets multiply eight times.

Eight new buildings and the establishment of endowments for Bible, Religious Education, and Home Economics Departments were the outstanding achievements during this period, along with the completion of a Centennial Fund of $500,000.

At Dr. Wilson's retirement in 1930, he was elected President Emeritus, which office he held until his recent death.

A Decade Past

The story of Maryville since the presidency of Ralph Waldo Lloyd, D.D., L.L.D., began fourteen years ago is familiar. Maryville College has won for itself the distinctions of membership in the Association of American Universities, the American Association of University Women, and National Association of Schools of Music. Although this period is that of depression and war, Maryville College is steadily growing.

Maryville's 125th year finds the 320 acre campus containing over thirty buildings and over eighty faculty members and employees Attendance, temporarily affected by the war, promises to reach new heights soon.

President Lloyd states: "'We approach our 125th anniversary with gratitude to God for His unfailing providence and with renewed dedication to Him and the work He has for Maryville College to do in the years ahead."

A Freshman's Plea, Please. . . .

By Joan Liddell

I realize that fall has come,
The weather here is nice,
But everything's not settled yet,
I've stumbled once or twice,
For you see, I'm just a freshman
And I have my problems, too,
Going all the way from Bible
Coming right straight down to you.

Yes, you, The Upperclassmen,
(Of whom I'm in deadly fear)
Constitute my major problem,
The reason's I'll state here.
First of all, you know the "customs"
Of our good old Maryville,
But you never want to tell us,
"Let him learn. I did. He will."
You'd rather see him suffer
And laugh at him in glee,
Than to tip him off to something,
Or give HIM a chance to see.
But then, it only takes a while
And you know how to act,
So we'll forget this episode
And make the next attack:
Now, here's the second problem
That I seemed forced to face. . .
It's the language that you use here. . . .

I can't understand this place,
For I come from way above
That old Mason-Dixon line,
And still can't get used to saying
"Pardon me?" just ALL the time.

Well, you upperclassmen know 'em,
And you know what to expect,
But I haven't found a person
Who'll interpret for me yet. . .
And thirdly, comes the issue
Of the phrase "your way around". . . .
You all seem to understand that,
But a guide? Not to be found,
For you, the upperclassmen,
Have passed that "freshie" stage
You've no time now for that stuff,
So. . . . We just stay in our cage.
Now, I'm not ordinarily
What one could call "complaining"
But I do like a little help. . .
Freshman need a lot of training.
So listen, please, take heed
To words of a neophyte,
We like it here, we want to stay,
So help us see the light.

VOLUME 30 | MARYVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 31, 1944 | NUMBER 5

Halloween Parties To Be Held Tonight at 7:30; Senior Class To Be Guests

Frosh To Meet In Gym, Sophs and Juniors Off Hill

Tonight is the night of traditional spooks and goblins—to be found at any of the three class parties beginning at 7:30. Freshmen will meet in the alumni gym, sophomores in the junior room at the New Providence Church, and junior on the steps of Pearsons Hall.

Members of the senior class will be the guests of the various groups. The parties are to be non-costume.

Freshmen

A "Hall of Horrors", a fortune teller, and various booths for games are planned for the freshman party from 7:30 to 9:30 in the corn-stalk, pumpkin, and hay filled gym.

Tom Horst, Kate Smith, and Beeler Thompson head the Social Committee, while decoration will be handled by Joan Liddell, and refreshments by Marion Monteith.

Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. John A. Gates, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Miss Jessie K. Johnson, and Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Sisk.

Sophomores

High-lighted by an inner-sanctum, a seance, challange games, and a skit by Jessie Lou Brunson, Virginia Claybough, Eleanor Kelly the sophomore party will be from 7:30 to 10:00.

Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Griffitts, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Vine, and Miss Rachel Schobert will act as chaperones.

Committee chairmen, headed by Kay Stout, are as follows: decorations, Lottie Lavender; entertainment, Bob Dockendorf; publicity, Virginia Claybough; and refreshment, Martha Plemons.

Juniors

Secrecy is the theme of the junior party. Juniors will meet at Pearsons Hall to proceed, destination unknown, to the spot of their off-campus get-together.

Madeline Cooke, Margaret Cross and Catherine Sisk are in charge of the affair. Place and entertainment are not to be disclosed.

Lt. J. Clinkman Receives Honor

Lt. John D. Clinkman, '40, has recently received recognition for the "splendid efficiency, leadership and devotion to duty" exerted in his quartermaster section of a service team in the Ninth Air Force Service Command.

Prior to entering the Army in May 1941, Lt. Clinkman was employed by the C. B. Q Railroad, Chicago. He has been serving in the European theatre of operations for fifteen months.

Lt. Robert Moore Is Lost At Sea

Word has recently been received by Mrs. G. H. Traylor of Maryville that her brother, Lt. (j.g.) Robert Moore, '41, has been lost at sea in the disaster of the U. S. S. Warrington which was swamped by high seas during the recent hurricane off the east coast. Survivors described the storm as one of "unimaginable violence."

While at Maryville, Moore was business manager of The Highland Echo. His home is in Maryville.

A memorial service for Lt. Moore was held at the First Baptist Church, where he was a member, on Sunday morning, October 17.

NEXT ECHO NOVEMBER 11

The next issue of the Highland Echo will be published Saturday, November 11.

Sierra's "Cradle Song" To Be Given By Theta Alpha Phi On Saturday, November 11

Cradle Song, by Gregorio Martinez Sierra to be presented November 11 at eight p. m. in Voorhees Chapel, is the two-act play selected by Theta Alpha Phi as the first major dramatic production of the college year. The play will be directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art, assisted by Virginia Miller, sophomore from Kennett Square, Pennsylvania.

There is no defined lead in this play, but several of the characters play leading roles. Dorothy Lehman as the prioress, Nancy Russell the vicaress, Mary Dawn Noblit as Sister Joanna of the Cross, and Ellen Pascoe as Teresa are the girls whose parts fall in this classification.

The scene is laid in the cloister of a covent of Dominican nuns in Spain. As prioress of this Spanish convent, Dorothy Lehman plays one of the leading roles. Dot is a senior English major from Beverly, Kentucky. She has participated in Dark Victory, Lost Horizon, and plays given by the Experimental Theatre during her years here.

Nancy Russell makes sure that convent rules are strictly adhered to as the Vicaress. In charge of all young nuns is Dorothy Toomey as Mistress of Novices. Six nuns play their various parts as the story develops.

Ellen Pascoe, senior biology major from Perkasie, Pennsylvania, plays the part of Teresa, the abandoned girl-baby who spent her youth in the convent tenderly reared by the loving sisters. Ellen has had roles in Letters to Lucerne, In a House Like This, and plays given by the Experimental Theater. Her lover Antonio is Edward Gates though, of course, he may never enter the convent and thus must speak through a grilled opening.

Sister Joanna of the Cross who especially befriends Teresa is played by Mary Dawn Noblit. Sisters Maria of Jesus, Marcella,

Thomas Graham To Speak Tomorrow At Chapel Service

Scotch Native Spoke At Sunday Vesper Service

Guest speaker at tomorrow's chapel service will be the Reverend Mr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of the Pioneer Presbyterian Church of Marinette, Wisconsin. His topic has not been announced.

Mr. Graham is a native of Scotland and attended both elementary and high school there before coming to this country. He is a graduate of Carroll College and of McCormick Theological Seminary. He was in business a number of years before entering the ministry.

With his wife, Rev. Graham is visiting Tennessee. He preached at the Sunday morning service of the New Providence Presbyterian Church October 29, and also at the college Vesper services held Sunday evening in Voorhees Chapel.

Schneeweiss And Hays Make Plans For Barnwarming

"Barnwarming is one of the biggest, most gala affairs of the first semester," stated Marion Schneeweiss, who, with Jane Hays, is in charge of this year's traditional Thanksgiving night program held in the gym. A king and queen, seniors, selected by the student body, and class sponsors are always presented at Barnwarming.

The evening's program is planned to include a campus talent show, several booths, and a faculty skit. Chairman of the decoration, program, costume, and refreshment committees have not been chosen as yet.

The theme of Barnwarming this year has not yet been disclosed. Last year, world-wide relationships was the theme, "Mazda Days," the title, and "When the Lights Go on Again" was used as the theme song.

Mrs. Nita E. West Directs Year's First Major Play

The Ghosts And Goblins Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out

By MARY A. BEALS

Poets always welcome spring,
While winter leaves with scanty praise.
Yet give a thought to winter too.
At least it's full of holidays.

Yes, our winter calander is simply peppered with red-letter days—days that mean turkey and all the trimmings, presents and carols, "Auld Lang Syne" and confetti, parties and food and fun. But along toward the last of October there's something that tastes better than turkey, something that sounds more thrilling than carols, something that looks more exciting than confetti, something that makes the heart beat faster than a mysterious package. It's the lusciousness of bobbing apples, the meowing of a lonely black cat, the glimmer of a jack-o-lantern, and the hooting of an owl.

If those exciting evidences of the Hallowean season could talk to the Maryville College students this October 31, wonder what they'd say? Or would the apples still be willing just to please our tented just to see us chill at his weird song? Would the jack-o-lantern be heppy just smiling? Would the owl still be satisfied just to make our blood tingle? We wonder. Let's see. Suppose we, just this once, give them a chance to talk. Agreed? Alright, speak!

Apple: You bend, you splash,
you strain, you jump.
Just to get hold of me.
Now work that hard in life ahead,
And a sure success you'll be.

Black Cat: To have good luck
you like, no doubt.
Well, don't steer clear of me.
Just study hard, just stick it out
And the truth of this you'll see.

Jack-o-lantern: You wish to bring the joy to folks
That I bring to them in a
spooky game?
Well, I sacrifice myself for them.
Would you do just the same?

Owl: I don't talk much but I get results,
When I speak, I'm always heard.
You try my scheme; don't say so much,
And without a doubt you'll thank this bird.

125th Homecoming Celebration Held In College Chapel

WELL ATTENDED

General Assembly Moderators Deliver Principal Speeches

In celebration of the 125th anniversary of the College on Sunday, October 22, the two services held in Voorhees Chapel consisted of a morning service at 10:45, at which Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd presided, and an afternoon service at 3:00, presided over by Judge S. O. Houston, LL.D., of Knoxville. Six churches of Maryville suspended their own services to help in the celebration.

Roy E. Vale, D.D., Moderator of the Presbyterian (USA) General Assembly, and the principal speaker in the morning, gave his address on "Stars in the Night". He pointed out that in the moral and spiritual realm there are five stars: In the North, the Pole Star of the Word of the Scripture; in the South, the Star of the Holy Church; in the West, the Star of History; overhead, the Milky Way of the Saints; and in the West, the Stars of Tomorrow. "The work of Maryville College and all Christian colleges, is what places these stars of light in the spiritual sky", concluded Mr. Vale.

Others taking part in the morning service were Rev. Maurice H. Hopson, rector of the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Rev. C. P. Hardin, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, Rev. Colvin L. Hammock, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rev. John McSween, D. D., president of Tusculum College, and Rev. F. B. Shelton, D.D., pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Charles L. King, D.D., of Houston, Texas, Moderator of the Presbyterian (US) General Assembly, gave the principal address in the afternoon service, using as his theme, "What a Christian College Meant to Me". He brought out as his main points the close association with the faculty, the Christian atmosphere, the Christian teachers, and the guidance into the ministry as a life work. "As long as colleges do these things for their students, as Maryville College does, they will live and grow, and the Church must keep and support them," stated Dr. King.

Others taking part in the afternoon service were Rev. Arthur A. Hyde, pastor of the First Christian Church, Rev. E. Fay Campbell, D.D., Secretary of the Division of Higher Education, Rev. Benjamin B. Lavender, D.D., president of Washington College, Rev. John A. Gates, Ph.D., Moderator of the Presbytery of Union, and Rev. R. Wilbur Cousar, D.D., Moderator of the Synod of Appalachia. Dr. Lloyd read a message from James D. Hoskins, L.L.D., Litt. D., president of the University of Tennessee.

Officers of administration, professors, and associate professors, constituting less than half the total College faculty and staff of seventy, took part in the morning service processional, and were introduced together with the directors of the College, also on the platform.

SENIORS AGAIN LEAD IN SALE OF WAR STAMPS

The Senior Class again led in the War Stamp sale Wednesday, October 26, with 69% of the class purchasing $7.05 of stamps. Perhaps this increase in the number of those who bought stamps was due to the Publicity Committee. Each table in the dining hall had a reminder and two very unusual posters announced the sales. These posters were made by Eva Mae Campbell, and Elsa Jean Cotton.

Other class amounts were sophomores, 40% and $5.40; Juniors, 36% and $22.50; and Freshmen, 33% and $12.55.

All classes have shown improvement over last week. "Let's all strive to make it 100% class participation tomorrow" Jane Craig, chairman of the war stamp committee, said this week.

"Y" PLAN FOR SOCIAL CENTER IN BARTLETT APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Six Elected To Positions On ECHO Editorial Staff

Three Added To Business Staff

Six persons, who have been trying out for the editorial staff of the HIGHLAND ECHO since the beginning of this year, were recently elected to positions on the staff. The list includes one junior, Juanita Hinson; one sophomore, Mary Elizabeth Hunt; and four freshmen, Mary Annis Beals, Martha Alice Edgerton, Joan Liddell, and Leona Richardt.

These selections were made by a vote of the faculty committee on student publications, the student council committee on student publications, and the senior members of the ECHO staff in a meeting held in the chemistry lecture room of Fayerweather Hall Wednesday, October 25. At this same meeting three applications for the positions on business staff of the ECHO were also approved. The new freshmen apprentices on the business staff are Sandy Blanton, Katherine Smith, and Ruth Williams.

Juanita Hinson, the new junior associate editor of the ECHO, is a psychology major from St. Augustine, Florida. She has had no previous experience on a paper.

Mary Elizabeth Hunt, new sophomore reporter from Bryson City, N. C. has the journalistic experience of writing articles for her high school newspaper during her senior year.

One of the freshman apprentices, Mary Annis Beals, is a Maryville girl, having gone to Maryville High School and worked as a reporter for two years on the high school paper, THE RED AND BLACK. She also served as a reporter for the MARYVILLE TIMES during the past summer and still has a connection with that paper.

Martha Alice Edgerton hails from Wisconsin, where she did work on the PURPLE AND GOLD, her high school periodical, and on the ASHLAND DAILY PRESS for a year.

Joan Liddell, who now lives in Washington, D. C., went to school in Rockford, Ill. She was on the editorial staff of her high school paper for two years and also on the staff of the annual.

Leona Richardt, of Webster Groves, Missouri, was editor of her high school paper, editor of a Latin monthly, and co-society editor of the town paper for three months.

100 Y.W.C.A. Girls Hiked To Montvale Last Week End

Hike to Look Rock And Picnic Supper Follow Trip

Approximately one hundred girls made a trek to Montvale Springs last Saturday afternoon, October 28 on the annual fall YW hike. A special bus took them to the Springs, a distance of about eight miles. Their hike up to Look Rock in the afternoon gave sufficient appetites for the picnic supper enjoyed in the picnic grounds at the Springs. This was followed by a sing around the campfire which concluded the hike program. Nine p.m. found the girls on their way back to the college by means of the bus again.

The hike was sponsored by the YWCA under immediate direction of the athletics chairman on the cabinet, Peggy Caldwell, senior from Tallahassee. She appointed Matilda Housch as chairman of the food committee with Martha Jeane Shaw and Lois Yohe to work with her. Miss Rachel Shobert, instructor of music, and Mrs. Marie Cundiff, assistant in the alumni office, accompanied the group as chaperones.

Several of the girls who selected athletics in the "Finding Your Place in Y" program a few weeks ago were chosen to assist in planning the hike. Zenobia Bennardini and Elaine Beahr, Pearsons, with May Short in Memorial and Jean Messer in Baldwin collected the fee paid by each girl going on the hike.

College Carpenters Construct Dictionary Stands for Dorms

New dictionary stands of pine were made last week for each of the girls' dormitories. Ed Burns and Walter Morton of the college carpenter shop did the construction.

Together they worked out the design from a sketch. Mr. Burns, who is quite apt at using a turning lathe, shaped the legs. The stands are just the right height for use while standing, and the top has been beveled so that dictionary is at a convenient angle for reading.

Marvville Students Much Amused By Murder Trial of Mrs. Houser

By MARY E. HUNT

Maryville College students followed with interest the murder trial which took place at the Blount County Court House this past week. Several of the Sociology classes went down for various parts of this unusual trial. Others were seen dashing down Court Street between classes in an effort to discover the latest news concerning it.

Wednesday afternoon after long hours of waiting, the jury finally brought forth the verdict of "guilty of voluntary manslaughter with a maximum term of ten years" in the case of Mrs. Joe Houser of Maryville. Mrs. Houser's lawyers, John C. Crawford, Jr., and Homer A. Goddard requested a new trial, which was granted. It will be held at Madisonville, November 18.

Mrs. Houser was faced with the charge of murdering Graham (Jimmy) Haven last June 22, at the McGhee Tyson Airport. Eight days before he was shot, Mrs. Houser swore out a warrant for him, in the attempt to recover approximately $1,100 which she had loaned him over a period of about 20 years. In answering her statement at that time, Jimmy Haven said that Mrs. Houser had been getting his money for eight or nine years, and that she "owed him plenty". He also stated that he and Mrs. Houser had been quite intimate and that she had been in love with him. Mrs. Houser denied his statements, saying that they had been very good friends, and that she had tried to help him during his previous illness.

Roosevelt Haven, employee of Maryville College and brother of Jimmy, testified in court that Mrs. Houser had paid $100 to have Jimmy watched. He claimed that Mrs. Houser told him that it would be too bad if she saw his brother with another woman, and that she would kill him. On the night that Jimmy Haven was killed, he was accompanied by Mrs. Emma Clemmer.

Mrs. Houser and her husband had dinner at the Southern Cafe on the eventful night and were on their way to the airport to see

Faculty Committee Must Also Voice Approval of Plan

Plans for a college recreation center were put before the Student Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night, October 25. Joe Brown, who had collabroated with Ed Gates, Agnes Peterson, and others, presented to the council the proposal, which includes plans to have various games such as ping pong, volley ball, darts, and shuffleboard in Bartlett Hall. These activities would be for mixed groups.

The time for the center to be open was tentatively set at after classes in afternoons, after supper and before study hours, and all of Saturday afternoons. The responsibility of such a program would rest upon the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. Student Council, Social Committee, and M Club. A guiding or central committee would be formed by representatives of each of those organizations. The proposal also contained various regulations which would be necessary to make the paln workable in the event it is put into effect.

The Student Council voted unamiously to back some such proposal.

Other business at that meeting of the council consisted of the council fulfilling its duty in the support of the "Town Night" proposal by recommending penalities to be given by the Executive Committeee to certain students for violating some of the regulations. In one instance it was a case of girls getting back to their dormitory 18 minutes after 10 p.m. Another violation was girl's breaking a college rule by coming home from town on a Town Night in an automobile without permisison or without a faculty member.. The other two violations were couples loitering on campus after geting back from town. The standard penalty, which is the only penalty the council can recommend at present, for the violation of "Town Night" provisions is the suspension of the privlege for the remainder of the semester and two demerits.

HOSPITAL VISITING AND CLINIC HOURS ARE ANNOUNCED

Besides being matron to twelve freshman girls, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hall, nurse at the college hospital for the past sixteen years, is holding down her regular duties this year.

She explains that the services of the clinic in Lamar Memorial Hospital held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays between four and five in the afternoon, are free to the students unless there is need for additional care or medicine. The doctors from town who hold the clinics are Dr. A. M. Gamble on Mondays, Dr. L. C. Olin on Wednesdays, and Dr. G. D. Lequire on Fridays.

Although there has been comparatively little sickness on the campus this fall, two of the matrons, Mrs. Snyder from Pearsons and Miss Hallock from Baldwin, have been ill.

The visiting hours at the hospital are from 12:45 to 1:15, 3:00 to 4:00, and 6:30 to 7:00 each day. Mrs. Hall's daughter, Thelma, is also a nurse, and helps with the work at the hospital.

MARCIA KEIRN TO SING BEFORE MUSIC CLUB OF KNOXVILLE

Marcia Keirn, a music major from Alcoa, Tennessee, will sing at the regular meeting of the Music Study Club of Knoxville Wednesday morning, November 8. This is an organization composed of the professional musicians of Knoxville and vicinity. Miss Rachael Shobert will accompany her.

Published weekly during the school year, except at examination and holiday periods, by the students of Maryville College.

LIBRARY LIBEL. . . .

By Olinde Ahrens

Salute! This week's nomination for best looking First Lieutenant on campus is the one who asks for Mabel Mattox, please!

Fifteen-Love It was cold the other afternoon, so she put on a large size Maryville College sweater (could she help it if her gym suit didn't show?) and struck out for the tennis courts, racket in hand. They whistled as she sailed by, but Maryville men are always gentlemen, and so the first gentleman said to the second gentleman, "Nice looking tennis racket cover Jean's got there!"

Anniversaries. Pam Black got a phone call Sunday night to remind her of her first anniversary, and the corsage Velma Durbin was wearing Sunday was to mark the anniversary of that first date!

Dishpan Hands? Impossible! And it couldn't be housemaid's knee, either. But why does Kay Bonner wear those gloves in chapel choir?

Sticky Fingers? Well, then you just moved back into your bed on fourth floor Pearsons too soon. The painters have really had 'em rolling in the aisles (or halls) the last few nights.

Fall of the House of Usher? No, it wasn't the house of this usher that fell—just his garter. But his date saved the day and stowed the offending garter in her purse. Scene, Faculty Recital—Time, the critical moment last Saturday night—Cast, Carson and Haygood.

Famous Last Words. (After an impromptu open house.) "Oh well, we all wear 'em!"

Brother-in-Law? Well? I'll tell you all I know, and then you can make up your own mind. But Bob Dockendorf's brother has apparently decided to welcome Kelly to the family (with open arms!) In a letter of last week from the U. S. Naval Training School at Clarksville, Arkansas, Chick (the aforesaid and above-mentioned brother) writes a word of welcome to the family circle, and then feels it his solemn duty to inform Kelly of one (but only one) undesirable trait of Dock's. (I should hasten to add here that he previously goes thoroughly into Bob's better qualifications, mentioning such important items as that he washes behind his ears with but little persuasion, can wiggle his ears—you have to coax him though—has had good practice at changing baby's diapers, and even changes his socks every week, whether they need it or not.) His fault—his one blemish on an otherwise spotless character? He eats crackers in bed!

Don't you think Dock should tell his brother the first name of his fiance (or ex-fiance, if I can believe last week's column—and I certainly can't)? Because as it is, poor Chick had to address the letter

Kelly (I don't know her first name, but she pals around with Brunson—don't know her first name either.)
Maryville College
Maryville, Tenn.

(And we hereby wish to acknowledge our indebtedness to Dock and his girl friends for keeping this weakly column—unintentionally—in copy!)

Tch Tch Tch! And to tihnk that the managing editor of this illustrious sheet who writes those nice hints on how to keep well-groomed and tastefully dressed though at college should blossom out like Solomon—though we hear that some of that glory (and jewelry) is borrowed. For details, see any of the B.G.'s.

Special Delivery. When he told her to write a nice long letter he had no idea! Yes, there's one fellow in Corsica due to get a nice long letter from the states—to be specific, from a Maryville College lass, Ella Mae Thompson. The letter was a yard and a half long when last seen, and growing steadily. Ella Mae rounded up her friends (and that's a long list) to write a line or two apiece—and what an impression of Mayville he's bound to get from that! P. S. NA is writing one of the same destination unrevealed.

Trade? I'd be willing to offer this much space for a really good plug for a really good annual—the Chilhowean, of course—inexchange for a tasty tid-bit of gossip from its editor (or about her!)

Roll Out the Barrel! By their clothes ye shall know them—the Echo staff, I mean. One of the reporters was overheard to remark, "What! Another paper out this week! In a couple more days I'll be going to class in a barrel—I'd saved this week to wash

By HANNAH DUKE

The last issue of the "Reader's Digest" brought to my attention a subject that possibly many of us know little about although we are surrounded by its results. It is the T.V.A. It is astounding to find the accomplishments of the project.

Stuart Chase, in the article I refer to, compares Tennessee to Missouri when it comes to floods. Floods in Tennessee as a result of overflow of the Tennessee River have been tremendous. Missouri looks on Tennessee as an example to see what such a project has done in this valley. The Tennessee Valley Authority has, as the author says, "tamed a river which, with its four main tributaries, flows through seven southeastern states". We'll have to admit the T. V. A. has been a credit to the Roosevelt administration, whether we be Democrats or Republicans.

The T.V.A. has brought into this section thousands of workers. From personal contact in this area we have a little idea of the enormous number of employers for such an activity. The operations are numerous and far-reaching.

We may wonder what benefit the section has received from the Authority. Water power which heretofore was wasted has been put to good use. A large part of the river is now navigable and the water is dammed for power. The project tries to hold natural resources from further deterioration controlling soil eresion, and wild life. In addition to this it generates low-cost energy for industry, farms and homes, encourages low-cost water transportation, and develops new mineral deposits. In the eleven years of its operation the federal government has invested $700,000,000 in it. For the last two fiscal years T.V.A. has asked no appropriations, and has a surplus. It is estimated that the entire investment by the government can be repaid within sixty years if progress continues as it has in the past.

The Valley, as it is called, is a cooperative system. Although control is in Washington, powers are not dictated from there but decisions are made in the Valley. In 1942 there were 40,000 people working for T.V.A.,, mostly dam builders.

This vicinity is at present one of the most recently affected area by T.V.A. The results of its work are evident to us even after being in Maryville for only a few years and we are in contact with its large range of employment. In fact, the common answer expected upon inquiring where a person was employed was either "for T. V. A." or "at the aluminum plant" until more recently, and now "Clinton" is one of the more common answers to the inquiry. Although T. V. A. is a creation of the New Deal administration, it is not likely that a change in administration would hamper its activity. Perhaps its operation would be changed to some extent but the gain from such a project is continuous.

Although T.V.A. has been most outstanding as a water control system and we think of that in terms of water power, its other work is far from negligible. Seven million out of the 8,000,000 farm acres in the Valley had been damaged due to erosion. T.V.A.'s aim was to remedy this and its method was to help farmers control erosion. They were taught how to use new phosphate fertilizers and how to replace soil mining with a permanent agriculture. T. V. A. has 29 dams which control all the waater which comes down the Valley. It was essential that the farmers cooperate with saving the soil or else erosion would have continued and the channels and reservoirs of the project would again have become filled with silt. The soil has been made more fertile and also more beautiful in landscaping which stops erosion.

Briefly, according to Mr. Chase, T. V. A. has helped in these ways:

1. To hold natural resources from further deterioration.

2. To seek new prosperity and well-being.

4. To develop new techniques in human relations.

4. To create power for the war effort.

It is the future hope that under this Authority these results can be farther carried out and in peace time the T.V.A. will set a pattern for developing other rivers.

Don't Bump your Head. And her roommate—what did she have too much or, poor dear—sighed, "Gee, what a beautiful day—I could just sit out here under a bench all afternoon and watch the world go by."

Wings. She needed the wings if not the harp when she fell out of the top bunk in her Memorial sleeper the other night. Arrangements are being made to award Kitty Johnson the Purple Heart (to go with her purple knee.) Wounded in flight action!

Twins? Teddie Evans is reported to be getting $10 more allotment per month on account of her two dependents—her roommates!

Say "Ah". But don't draw a deep breath, or you may crack a rib too—Sue Cochran can tell you how it's done. Messages of sympathy (and flowers) may be addressed to Sue at any of her regular classes—she doesn't let a little thing like a cracked rib get her down!

7:15 Habit. When LC bids one of his Carnegie buddies goodby very tenderly and starts to his own room at 7:15, what's that a sign of?

Barber-Shop Harmony. Any suggestions for a new theme song for choral reading in the dining hall? "Happy hair-cut to you" is all that's keeping one fellow from visiting his barber now!

The World of Sports. New entrant in the second round of the girls' tennis tournament was Dr. Lloyd, who exchanged his role of spectator last Wednesday for a few real shots with the contestants.

Confidence? (But nobody tells me anything!)
It's not my many foolish crimes
That fill me with regret—
It's just that I've confided them
To friends who can't forget!

STUDENTS VOTE 60% FOR DEWEY

Student Opinion Poll Conducted By Highland Echo Shows Republican Candidate 2-1 Choice for President

Maryville Students voted overwhelmingly for Thomas E. Dewey as their choice for the next president of the United States in a student opinion vote conducted last Saturday morning after the regular chapel service by the Highland Echo.

Of the total of 384 valid votes cast, the Republican candidate received 60.5 per cent while Franklin Roosevelt, the Democratic fourth term candidate, received 35.9 per cent of the vote. Only 88 per cent of the 435 students enrolled for the fall semester cast ballots.

Richard W. Vine, director of the choir and associate professor of music, trailed Dewey by a total of 231 votes.

Norman Thomas, socialist candidate, received 12 votes while Gov. John Bricker of Ohio was given one vote.

Official taulations show the following results.

Dewey—232 or 60.5%
Roosevelt—138 or 35.9%
Thomas—12 or 3.5%
Bricker—1 or .25%
Vine—1 or .25%

Louis A. Black Gives History of Student Vols

Student Volunteers last Sunday night heard Louis Alexander Black tell about Maryville Student Volunteers of years gone by and the work that some of them are now doing in the world. Mr. Black, director of maintenance, is also faculty advisor for the Student Volunteer organization. Mary Barnwell provided music on the piano.

At the next meeting, Sunday, November 5, the life story of three world-famous missionaries will be told. Lynn Mathews will discuss the work of Frank Laubach in the Philippines; Ruth Anderson will speak about Albert Schweitzer of Africa; and Ann Anderson will tell of Ida Scudder and her work in India.

French Club Has Goblin Party

Crawling under card tables and being met by a witch clothed in black, members of the French Club arrived in the YW rooms for their Goblin Party, Thursday, October 26.

Ducking for apples placed in a tub full of water seemed to be the main feature of the evening's program supplemented by a paper-and-pencil game. Catherine Sisk and Ruth Freeman, program chairmen directed and planned the programs and decorations. Black cats, orange pumpkins and scrawny skeletons were clearly in evidence.

All attending were attired in old clothes, the men being especially requested to wear plaid shirts. Miss Catherine Wilkinson, faculty advisor of the club, was present at the meeting. Her nephew Harold Henry, a former member of French Club, attended the meeting as a member of the US Navy having just finished boot training

Robert Wood Speaks On "Making A Life" In Wed. Chapel Address

Knoxville Pastor Stresses Purpose, Prize, And Program.

"To make your life worthwhile," stated Robert H. Wood, pastor of the Park City Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, as he spoke on "Making a Life" at chapel service Wednesday, October 25, "you must keep in mind these three—a powerful purpose, a practical program, a priceless prize."

The greatest peril to the Christian is drifting, he pointed out. "Great men have all had dominating central purposes . . . from Julius Caesar to Robert Livingston; even so, each Christian of today must have a central purpose for his life. Furthered by a program of living which forgets the things of the past, both good and bad, achievements and failures, this purpose can drive him forward toward the priceless prize which has been stored above in Christ. "If ye then be risen with Christ," he charged, "seek the things which are above."

Chairman of the ommitte in charge of Young People's Conferences in this presbytery, Mr. Wood was graduated from Maryville College in 1927. He attended Princeton Theological Seminary. Princeton, New Jersey, and has since held pastorates in Illinois and Humboldt, Tennessee.

After chapel service Wednesday, he was guest of the college for the day.

Swimming classes will not begin until the opening of the second semester this year, it was announced by Mrs. Verton Queener. Beginning in January there will be classes for beginners, intermediates, and advanced swimmers. Girls with life-saving certificates will instruct the classes in the evening.

Pi Gamma Begins Year; Sisk Leads

Pi Gamma, a branch of the Y.W. C.A. organized to acquaint town girls with dormitory girls, has begun a new year. Their leaders have been elected and their semi-monthly luncheons have begun.

Leaders are the following: Chairman, Catherine Sisk; Social Chairmen, Betty Ballard and Pat Ames; Program Chairman, Mildred Cundiff and Sibyl Tallent. The Pi Gamma chairman is automatically made a member of the YWCA.

The approximately sixty members of Pi Gamma are divided into groups of about fifteen for a luncheon every two weeks. The girls may bring a guest from the dormitories if they so desire.

Ten New Members Join Spanish Club

Imitating persons of international fame, new members of Spanish club were initiated into the society at the last meeting Thursday, October 26. Louise Corbett, president, was in charge of the meeting.

After reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, Mary Johnston, the president turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Gladys David. New members were asked to demonstrate in pantomime, or by speaking in Spanish, the outsanding characteristics of the famous people assigned them.

Neophytes of the club are Eva Toro, Nellie Cuellas, Marion Swift, Eleanor Patterson, Dorothy Byrnes, Jane Callahan, Audrie Stinger, Bette Kuykendall, Rosalind Garges, and June Gowanlock.

The president appointed Audria Stinger to head a nominating committee for the purpose of electing a treasurer. Madeline Cooke and Nellie Cuellas were chosen to serve with her.

Miss Ruth E. Cowdrick, advisor of the society, was present at the meeting.

E.T.E.A. Meetings Attended By MC Professors

The East Tennessee Education Association convened at 9:00 Friday morning, October 27 at the University of Tennessee for the annual all-day session. Following the general meeting at 9:00 o'clock, specific classes were held, the E. T.E.A. members attending the ones which dealt particularly with their type of work.

Principal speakers at the meeting were Clyde R. Hoey, a former governor of North Carolina, who spoke on "America and World Peace"; Dean William F. Russell of Teachers' College, Columbia, South Carolina, who spoke on "Education in the Post-War World"; and David M. Nichol, a previous correspondent for the Chicago Daily News in Europe, who addressed the group on "Russia as I See It."

Mrs. Margaret Cummings, teacher of Bible and Religious Education here, spoke to the Bible division on "Suggestions for Bible Courses in High Schools." Dr. David Briggs, Maryville College professor of psychology and education, was vice-chairman of the psychology department at this E. T.E.A. session.

Rehearsals For Handel's Messiah Held On Sunday

Initial Messiah rehearsal was held last Sunday afternoon, October 29, in Voorhees Chapel. Richard W. Vine, who will conduct the Messiah this year has expressed hope that there will continue to be a large attendance at rehearsals. He says that the soloists and orchestra are especially good this year, and that he would like to have as many as possible in the production. Members of the choir, glee club, and orchestra are required to attend. Much interest and enthusiasm has been shown by both college students and town people in past years. Everyone who is interested and likes to sing is urged to be present at the next rehearsal, Sunday, November 5 at 2:30. This will be the twelfth annual presentation of the Messiah.

Many Alumni Visit Campus For Celebration

Thirty Members Of Class Of 1919 Here For Anniversary

By MADELINE COOKE

The class of 1919 was most conspicuous among the alumni who came last week-end to help celebrate the 125th anniversary of their Alma Mater. It was the 25th anniversary of the class which has the distinction of being the centennial class.

Ten of the 30 members of the class were here. They were: Robert W. Adams, Mrs. Marion Henry Bennett, Mrs. Maude Bowman, Dr. David H. Briggs, Mrs. Emma Miles Dyer, Mrs. Carrie Henry, J. H. Kiger, Miss Catherine Wilkinson, and Mrs. John K. Witherspoon.

The members of the class have gone into many fields—teaching, the ministry, business, and just plain homemaking. Perhaps the member who came the fartherest for the reunion was Ralph Smith. Mr. Smith traveled from Virginia, where he is working in an army camp. For some time Mr. Smith was a missionary in South America. He will be better known to some of us as the brother of Bob Smith, assistant professor of Spanish here till 1941. The others came from Maryville and other places in East Tennessee.

A bulletin of a record of the class for its 25th year was just off the presses last week-end and were given to the members. The class also decided to consider this an unofficial reunion and to hold a big 25th year anniversary reunion as soon after the war as travel will allow. Even although it may be several years from now, they will still celebrate it as their quarter century reunion.

There were alumni here Sunday representing classes all the way from 1943 to 1893. The member who has the distinction of graduating in the class of '93 is the Mrs. Osey Walker Welsh of Maryville.

About 200 alumni and friends thronged around the tables set up on the baseball field for the buffet dinner. Center of attraction was the huge birthday cake. Unofficial estimates describe it as a layer cake 24x16 inches in size. Green candles outlined the numbers 125. Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, as wife of the President, was asked to cut the cake and make the wish.

The alumni found a lot to talk over with old friends last Sunday. "Remember when—" and "What's become of—" were favorite topics of conversation. Some of the more familiar persons who would have much to tell were Mr. R. W. Post, who spoke in chapel last spring after returning from Thailand on the Gripsholm, and Dr. Gillingham, recent chapel speaker.

Disc Club Will Hear La Traviata

Richard W. Vine will be the commentator for Verdi's La Traviata at the next meeting of Disc club, Monday evening, November 6th.

At the last meeting, Sibyl Talent acted as commentator for the "Hit Parade" program, which featured records chosen by popular vote of the student body. Wagner, Tschaikowsky, and Strauss headed the list, but requests were for varied compositions. Following is a complete program:

Prelude to Die Meistersinger, Wagner.

Liebestod, Wagner.

Claire de lune, Debussy.

Afternoon of a Faun, Debussy.

Nutcracker Suite — selections, Tschaikowsky.

Rosenkavalier Waltzes, Strauss.

Disc club meets every other Thursday evening at 6:45 in the Fine Arts Studio. Everyone interested in recorded music is welcome.

Year Book Sales Pass 400 Mark

Over 400 copies of the 1945 CHILHOWEAN have been sold since the opening of school, Marinell Ross, business manager, announced this week. Since the covers have been ordered, no more subscriptions can be taken.

All of the individual pictures and most of the group shots have been taken. Athletic department and the pre-med club pictures will be taken at a later date.

Thelma Richardson, editor, has announced that there will be over 110 pages this year.

Eagles Lead By Slim Margin In Football

Garnets Defeat Eagles For First Victory of Year

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Although the Eagles are still in the leaders of the Intramural football league, the lead is not as large as it has been. The Orange team is seriously threatening to overtake them in these closing games of the season. The Eagles have accumulated a record of seven victories and two defeats. The Oranges have five wins and four losses, while the Garnets finally won a game last week to gain a record of one victory and eight unsuccessful encounters. In the only two games played last week upsets were scored.

On Tuesday, October 24, the last place Garnets surprised everyone by completely defeating the first place Eagles for their first winning effort of the season. This contest was held on the afternoon that the choir picture for the CHILHOWEAN was taken, and the loss of the singing personnel weakened both teams considerably. However Mat Cardella, captain of the Garnets, is not in the choir so he remained in the game the whole length of it and did enough running and pass-snagging to score the only touchdowns of the game. The Eagles surprised everyone by not being able to score and the game ended with the surprising score of Garnets 12, Eagles 0. It was definitely an upset.

Then on Thursday afternoon, October 26, the Eagles put an end to what was rapidly becoming a losing streak of their own, and an end to what had already become a winning streak for the Orange team by outscoring the Oranges 12 to 7. It was an extremely close game all the way with the Oranges scoring first on a run by Heuser and adding the extra point on a pass to Hundemann. But then the Eagles came back to garner two touchdowns in the second quarter to end the scoring. One of the winning T.D.'s was scored on a pass from Kemp to Houdeshell and a long run on the part of the latter. The other was a result of a running play by Abbott Kemp, who has been serving as captain of the Eagles since Rush Lester left school.

The situation as it now stands is that if the Eagles win one of their two remaining games (one with each other team), they cinch the championship. But if the Garnet team should happen to again conquer the first place team in their game and the Oranges should be able to do likewise in their last game with the leaders, first beating the Garnet once more, they will be the winning team. There is doubt as to whether or not these last three will be hard-fought games.

Ping Pong

The pairings have been made in the Intramural singles ping pong tourney, and several of the first round matches have already been completed. All first round matches are scheduled to be completed by the last day of this month, and the tournament should be completely finished in time to get the results in the next issue of the ECHO.

Plans are already being made to have some kind of a basketball program.

"M" Club Holds Overnight Hike

The first of the "M" Club's overnight hikes was held this past week-end, October 28-29. The members hiked in the mountains and Saturday night was spent in a cabin at Miller's cove.

The "M" Club is a group of athletic-minded girls. Anyone who earns 400 points through the Point System and who is approved by the members of the club is eligible for membership. The club meets on the first Monday of each month. Swimming, moonlight hikes, picnics, and the like are the main feature of each meeting. Each year the club sponsors a project. This year's project will be decided at the next meeting. It is the club's goal to promote health and recreation on the college campus. Two over-night hikes are held each year.

The officers of the "M" Club are: President, Agnes Peterson; Vice-President, Winnie Sommers; Treasurer, Betty Lou King; Secretary, Betsy Burleigh; Program co-chairmen, Jean Bellerjeau and Kay Stout. Other members of the club are Ruth King Wood, Dot Justice, Thelma Richardson, Carol Gillette, and Nancy Russell. Mrs. Verton Queener, Physical Education Director for girls, is the sponsor of the club.

Extra M Books Made Available

A considerable number of the 1944-45 volume of the Maryville College "M" Book is left over after all new students received copies. There are not enough to offer to all old students, so upper classmen will be given first chance to purchase copies.

The "M" Book, which is designated primarily to acquaint new students with the type of program Maryville College represents, was edited this year by Abner Richard and Marinell Ross. It is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. with certain people from these organizations placed in charge of its publication.

The business end of the yearbook was in the hands of Ann Anderson and Mable Marshall. It was completely financed through the cooperation and support of local businessmen and campus organizations. This year the business managers sold more advertisements than ever before, and although the business in its entirity has not been officially completed, a financial profit is anticipated.

H.A ROBERT BRUCE

Bob Bruce of the Marines writes from Oceanside, Calif., that he is "waiting to make a trip to Japan." He also inquired about the Spanish club, of which he was president his freshman year. Bob's home is in Brooklyn, N. Y., and he is an ex-'46.

PM 1-C MEL GAUGHIN

Word has come through that Pharmacists Mate 1-C Mel Gaughin, ex-'44, has been wounded a second time. The hospital ship on which he was recovering from an arm injury was hit, and he was hurt again. The extent of his injuries is not known. Mel is a Navy man serving with the Marines somewhere in the Pacific. He has been overseas since last summer.

T-S HENRY SCAPALOTTI

Harry Scapalotti is now with an anti-aircraft gun crew in the South Pacific. Scappi is an ex'44 from Bangor, Pa.

CORP. BOB HUNTER

Bob A. Hunter is mailman and moneychanger for his part of the Signal Corps in Luxembourg. He drives 95 miles a day in a jeep to get the mail. The boys there are paid in Belgian money. If a boy wants to send money home, he must send French currency, as the Belgian is not acceptable. That's where the money-changing part of Bob's job comes in. Bob was a member of the choir and the tennis team here and would have graduated in '45.

PVT. HOWARD McGILL

Word came this summer that Howard McGill of Maryville, was killed in action in France on June 12. Howard, who was on the basketball team, left for the army in '41.

PFC. DEAN STONE

Dean Stone, ex-'46, is now serving his Uncle Sam in Italy. The former member of the Maryville football squad writes "that we're having the rainy season now."

PVT. BILL BUZBY

Bill Buzby, ex-'46, from Wallington, Pa., is in the Netherlands East Indies with the 5th Air Force Service Command.

LIEUT. ELLIS BURCAW

Ellis Burcaw has been sent to Harvard by the army to study radar. Ellis, whose home is in Brewster, Ohio, is an ex'44.

LIEUT. R. LAUGHMILLER

Roy M. Laughmiller, who was married last spring to Polly Park, is now senior instructor pilot at Selma, Alabama. Roy is also ex'44.

MS. DAVID HALL

One of the many Navy boys who have visited us recently is Midshipman Dave Hall. Dave is a member of the Navy med school program at the University of Alabama, his home state.

Nu Gamma Group Has Breakfast In College Woods Monday

All Nu Gamma groups met together Monday morning for a breakfast and worship service at the college woods picnic grounds. The members met on Pearson's steps at 6:45 and from there proceeded as a group to the picnic grounds.

The worship program consisted of flute solo by Helen Underwood, an invocation by Ann Anderson, poetry reading by Mary Ruth Barber, and a group hymn service.

This meeting of all the Nu Gamma groups was planned especially for the new and transfer students, to acquaint them with the organization and its members.

Pre-Meds Meet

Not to be outdone by other societies, the Pre-Med club sponsored a picnic in the college woods Thursday, October 26.

Supper was served to those in attendance. Miss Susan A. Greene and Mrs. Marie Cundiff chaperoned the group.

According to Ethel Brocker, president of Pre-Med, Professor George Howell will speak to the group about post-war chemistry. As yet no date has ben set for this meeting.

Writers' Workshop

Writers Workshop held their weekly meeting Wednesday, October 25, at 4:20 in Dr. Hunter's class-room with Edward Gates presiding. Readers were Louise Henry and Robert Huber; critics were Evelyn Whitehead and Jean Bellerjeau. Miss Henry submitted two original essays entitled "Justice" and "The Mind of a Five Year Old Child". Mr. Huber read an original modern version of the biblical story, David and Goliath, written in journalistic style.

The Constitution of the Writers Workshop was read at the meeting for the purpose of acquainting new members with its contents.

Readers this week will be Dorothy Lehman and Miss Jessie Johnson.

German Club Meets

Creative Art will be the theme of the next meeting of Maryville's German club. This meeting will convene Monday, November 6 in Dr. Collin's class room.

A German story, told in English by selected members of the organization, will be the main part of the program. This program is the first in a series of its kind to be presented at other meetings of the society throughout the year. Ethel Park is chairman of the program committee for the club.

MURDER TRIAL

about making reservations for a trip for Mrs. Houser to see her brother in Texas. They were passed by Mr. Haven and Mrs. Clemmer; Mrs. Houser followed the couple to the airport where she went to Mr. Haven's car and asked, "Jimmy, why did you tell those lies?" (or words to that effect) referring to the reply he had made in court concerning the money.

Jimmy Haven then reached for the glove compartment and Mrs. Houser shot. She testified that she thought he was reaching for a gun and that she did not know just many times she shot. Then turning to Mrs. Clemmer, she said that she intended to beat her.

Throughout the trial, Mrs. Houser was very calm. When the verdict was delivered, she smiled slightly. Only twice did she show any signs of emotion. The first was concerning her relationships with the murdered man, and the second when she was questioned concerning her health. Her doctor had stated that she was not able to stand court charges, but she was later examined by local doctors who found that her condition was bad, but that she was able to testify.

All of the MC students who attended the trial found it to be very interesting and in many places amusing. May I recommend to you that if you want to see something interesting, pathetic, amusing, and educational, just go to a murder trial.

CRADLE SONG

Sagrario, Inez, and Tornera are portrayed by Betty Lou McCoy, Thelma Richardson, Esther Farrow, Margaret Cross, and Miriam Bowditch, respectively. The only other male role is that of Joseph Brown, the kind doctor who solicitously watches over Teresa and provides the humorous element in Cradle Song. The interlude between Acts I and II is supplied by the Poet, Shirley Scott, senior religious education major from Attoona Pennsylvania.

This play with a Spanish setting was translated into English by John Garrett Underhill. It was first performed at the Teatro Lara, Madrid in 1911. Since that time Cradle Song has been translated into all the major languages and has been produced in many different countries. Within the past decade it has taken its place as an international classic" says Mrs. West. Gregorio Martinez Sierra is considered one of the leading playwrights of Spain. Literature owes him much for his contribution through books, dramas, and various translations from the classics.

William Cover will act as stage manager for this production. Electrician in charge of lighting fixtures is to be Robert Seel who has acted in this capacity for previous dramatic performances. Mary Fershee is in charge of the costumes with Becky Davis and Shirley Scott handling the properties.

The business staff is headed by Olinde Ahrens, sophomore English major from Osborne, Kansas as business manager. Olinde played a major role in Letters to Lucerne last winter. She will be assisted by Lois Collett who will direct publicity for the play. Committees are ot be chosen by these chairmen.

Of the freshmen who are now on the business staff, Sandy Blanton has had but little experience in newspaper work. She is from Florida.

Katherine Smith is another freshman from Maryville High. She worked on the RED AND BLACK as a member of the business staff, and also did work on the APPALACHIAN, the high school yearbook.

Chattanooga is the home of Ruth Williams. She was a member of the business staff of the CENTRAL DIGEST, her high school paper,

Pi Kappa Delta Receives Debate Question of Year

Tennessee Alpha Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta at Maryville College has just received word that the question selected for debate this year by the national organization is ; "Resolved: that the national government should enact legislation requiring compulsory arbitrations of all labor disputes."

Students enrolled in Speech 207 are making speeches preparatory to tryouts for membership on the varsity debate squad. Thursday evening, October 26, four students presented aspects of the 1944 Presidential Campaign.

Debate classes are held twice a week in Dr. David H. Briggs' classroom in Thaw Hall. Members of the class next semester will be only those who are on the varsity debate team. Dorothy Lehman, senior majoring in English who is participating in her fourth year of college forensics, is president of the Maryville Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta. Participation in debate tournaments is anticipated for next semester, but no definite plans have been made.

Calls Gov't Plant Sales Unrealistic

If the government persists in "its present unrealistic policy"—regarding the sale of defense plants, "it won't dispose of one-half of one per cent of its plants in 20 years", according to Frederick C. Crawford, chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mr. Crawford, president of Thompson Products, Inc., of Cleveland, said the government wants more money for his corporation's defense plant, Thompson Aircraft Products Co., than it cost when new. He also criticized the government's formula for the sale of defense machinery, saying: "We have machines in that plant that are three years old, but they have been worked three shifts, seven days a week, and in terms of normal usage those machines are 12 years old."

FIRM'S "$" GOES LONG WAY

Thirty-five cents of each dollar that Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation made in 1943 went to its employees; 53 cents went to other companies for raw materials and finished parts; 9 cents for taxes; and less than one and one-fifth cents was available for returning the company's wartime plants to peacetime production.

"CRADLE SONG" PRESENTED TONIGHT IN CHAPEL

Funeral Services For Dr. William Stevenson Held Here Wednesday

Funeral services were held for Dr. William Patton Stevenson, College Pastor Emeritus, Wednesday morning, November 8, in Voorhees Chapel at 11:00 o'clock with President Ralph W. Lloyd officiating. Dr. W. T. Bartlett and Dr. William H. Crothers assisted in the services.

Dr. Stevenson, who was 83 years old, died at the home of his son in Middleburg, Virginia, at 7:10 p. m. Saturday, November 4. He had been in failing health for about two years.

Every attempt was made Wednesday morning to duplicate the funeral services of Dr. Stevenson's wife, who died five years ago. He had helped plan her service. The scripture, the music, and the pall bearers were the same, and Dr. Stevenson was laid to rest at the side of his wife in the College cemetery. Pall bearers were: Dr. H. E. Orr, Dr. E. R. Hunter of the faculty, Mr. J. C. Gamble, Mr. G. R. Swany of the community, and Mr. R. S. and Mr. H. B. McCampbell of the Shannondale Church, Knoxville. The faculty acted as honorary pall bearers.

The Guard of Honor, made up of Maryville College students, included: Olinde Ahrens, Ethel Beal, Jean Bellerjeau, Fay Cameron, Madeline Cook, Ruth Freeman, Margaret Messer, Carol Titus, Mildred Waring, Helen Marie Wilson, Joe Brown, Robert Dockendorf, John Goins, Robert Huber, Abbott Kemp, John Kirstein, Thomas Parkinson, Edgar Potts, Abner Richard, and John Shell.

Those helping with the flowers were: Betty Anne Ward, Hope Pleyl, Agnes Peterson, Thelma Richardson, Ruth Anderson, Rebecca Davis, Eleanor Struble, Polly Lichteig, Judy Turk, Doro-

Scottie, Ten Year Old MC Mascot Died Last Month

"Scottie", the ten year old Scottish terrier, mascot of the Maryville College football team, died after an extended illness at the home of Dr. E. L. Queener, veterinarian and cousin of Dr. Verton Queener, several weeks ago. During her five years as companion of the team, Scottie was a symbol—a daily reminder—of the sportsmanship and fighting spirit of the Highlanders.

The former Triangle Club began the idea of getting a Scottie dog for team mascot. It was finally secured from Dr. E. L. Queener. The dog stayed at the home of President Ralph Lloyd the first year; then Miss Jessie Heron, assistant professor of English, accepted the responsibility of caring for it.

Scottie always marched uptown with the band and out on the field between the halves of the football games. Whenever the band accompanied the team on trips to other colleges, Scottie went along to keep up the morale.

A plaid blanket composed the mascot's first wardrobe. After outgrowing that, it was made a new one, garnet with an orange border, by Mrs. McKelvey of the College Maid Shop.

There are two incidents which make all who knew Scottie smile when remembering them. Once, the little mascot was late, and another dog marched in its place without the truth being suspected by the majority of spectators. The other event occurred one Saturday when the band was ready to march uptown, and Miss Heron couldn't find Scottie. She frantically searched the dog's favorite haunts, the bookstore, and the personnel office, but it was nowhere to be found. Scottie was finally located in the student-help office, unknowingly having been locked up for the week-end by Mr. L. B. Black, director of maintenance.

Three years ago the Maryville College students had a Scottie Day. Little Scottie tags were sold during the morning and in the evening there was a Scottie Review in the gymnasium. About $30 was raised for the little dog's care.

Scottie always seeemed to know just what was expected of her. She is one of those Maryville traditions which all who knew her will cherish.

Lt. Vernon Lloyd Wed November 11 In Fort Worth

Lt. John Vernon Lloyd, older son of President and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, and Marvle Jean Woolard, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. W. Harlie Woolard, of Fort Worth, Texas, will be married on Saturday, November 11, at 8:30 p. m., in the Boulevard Christian Church of Fort Worth.

Lt. Lloyd graduated cum laude from Maryville College in the class of '41. He was a sociology major, and was active in athletics and music, a member of the track team and the college choir. Now a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, he enlisted immediately after Pearl Harbor, and received his wings and commission two years ago, in November, 1942.

The bride is a Fort Worth girl. Her father, Chaplain W. Harlie Woolard, is on Navy service in the south seas. He was formerly pastor of the Boulevard Christian Church of Fort Worth, where the wedding will take place.

The ceremony will be performed by Dr. Lloyd. The bride's only attendant will be her sister, Clarice Woolard, as bridesmaid. Hal Lloyd, brother of the groom, now at McCormick Seminary, will be best man. Louise Lloyd will play the wedding music on the piano.

The wedding is to be a doublering ceremony. "Because", "I Love You Truly", and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" will be sung before the ceremony. The bride will wear a white satin wedding dress, with pointed lace sleeves, and a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

After the wedding, there will be a reception at the home of the bride's mother. The young couple will make their home in Waco, Texas, where Lt Lloyd is attached to the Blackland Army Air Field.

All the Lloyd family will attend the wedding, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd, Ruth and Louise, of Maryville, and Hal of Chicago.

Sophomores Have Charge of YW Service Tomorrow

Sophomore members of YWCA are to have charge of the weekly worship service to be held in the Y rooms tomorrow afternoon. Their theme is to be appreciation of the arts: music, poetry, and art. Pauline Lichteig, sophomore from Louisville, Kentucky, will illustrate her talk on art by showing pictures. Ann Anderson, of Woodbridge, New Jersey, has poetry as her topic. Stories behind some of our hymns by Betty Anne Showalter of Chicago Heights, Illinois, will conclude the talks. Louise Warwick, from Knoxville, will sing a solo and the other parts of the program will be taken by sophomores also.

Moscona was scheduled to appear here last October 24, but due to popular demand was held over three weeks in Chicago where he was playing opera. He comes directly to Maryville from his Chicago engagement, giving his last performance there on the 14th.

Born in Athens, Greece, Moscona was given a scholarship by his government soon after his debut at the National Opera House of Athens. While he was studying in Milan, Edward Johnson manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, heard him and engaged him for that company.

He has been extremely successful in this country, having appeared as soloist under such names as Tosconini and Bruno Walter, and with the Philharmonic Symphony Society. He has had five major roles at the Metropolitan Opera this year alone.

He has an amazingly large repetoir including 45 leading operatic roles, and has mastered five languages.

Nicola Moscona has been widely acclaimed by critics and music lovers as having one of the major bass voices in this country. His immense popularity has upheld their most enthusiastic praise. His audiences appreciate, too, his delightfully engaging personality.

He will be accompanied by Edwin MacDonald.

YM Has Charge Of Vespers; Brown And Cross To Preach

Vesper services Sunday night, November 12, are to be in charge of the college Y.M.C.A. organization. The theme for the service will be "Living Religion", with Joe Brown and Luther Cross as speakers. The subject of Joe Brown's address will be "Religious, but Rotten". Brown, president of the YMCA, has long been active in YM—serving previously on the cabinet, as manager of the Chatterbox, and chairman of the Fellowship Committee. He was also president of the Student Volunteer organization last year, and is now serving his fourth semester on the Student Council. Brown is a senior history major

"Our Share of Calvary" will be the subject of Luther Cross' address. Cross is a senior history major from Brent, Alabama. He attended the summer session '44 at Princeton Seminary, and has been serving as a substitute preacher in several churches surrounding Maryville. He is this year chairman of the YM committee on jail visitation and is in charge of the Sunday services there.

Robert Dockendorf will read the scripture and lead in prayer. Dockendorf is a sophomore English major from Hyattsville, Md., member of Student Council, and college printer.

Vespers on Sunday, November 19, will be led by C. E. Cathey, of Nashville, Tennessee, a member of the Maryville College Board of Directors, and an alumnus of the college. Rev. Cathey is now Field Director for the Board of Christian Education in this synod. He will speak on "A Thing of Beauty."

IRC To Show Movie Monday

"Venezuela Moves Ahead" is the movie to be shown at the next IRC meeting Monday evening, November 13, at 7:00, on the second floor of Fayerweather Hall. Although this meeting is open to all students and faculty members who wish to attend, admission will be by the purchase of at least one war stamp.

The last meeting, in charge of Bob Huber, president of the club, was the election program at Bartlett Hall on Tuesday, November 7.

Chilhowean Dummy At Publishers

The 1944 Chilhowean is progressing rapidly, and the dummy is now being sent to the publishers, recently announced Thelma Richardson, editor. All retakes are now in the hands of the proper authorities. Extra glossy prints, ordered recently, are expected here witihn the next two weeks.

Broadway Pastor Addresses YM

Rev. C. P. Hardin, minister of the Broadway Methodist Church of Maryville, will address the weekly meeting of the YMCA Sunday, Novbemer 12. James Witherspoon is program chairman of the group and said the speech topic had not been announced.

Recent Election Holds Full Sway Over MC Students

Shouts And Groans Accompany Returns As Roosevelt Wins

By MARY A. BEALS

For all I know Fate goes ahead
Its own way, not regarding us—
Well, if I cannot change a thing
At least I'll make an awful fuss!

The spirit of politics at Maryville College has been riding high these past weeks astride a thundering elephant and a high-spirited donkey. The Martins and the Coys could be no more versus and vicious than the ardent supporters of Roosevelt and Dewey here on the campus. Service sweeties, lessons,, the approaching Christmas vacation—all were rudely shoved to the background as politics took the spotlight in classrooms, at mealtimes, and in afterlights-out whisperings. Even on dates a shy girl or a bashful boy need not worry about keeping up a conversation, for the natural trend was and remained the election. And why was this event so important? The reasons were as varied as the students who uttered them, all of them wrong but thine and mine, and even thine slightly wrong.

Then came the climax as the day of the election dawned. November 7 brought with it red-hot discussions which should certainly assure Dr. Briggs of excellent prospect debate material. A genuine prosecuting style was used on poor defenseless victims who were guilty of being on the wrong side of the fence. Radios were turned on full-blast, and along in the late afternoon some decisive figures began coming in. Roosevelt took an early lead amid mingled shouts and groans, praises and threats from supporters pro and con. But often the fast-rising number of votes for the incumbent President slackened; Governor

Theta Plans Gala Review For 50th Birthday

Theta Epsilon celebrates its fiftieth anniversary with a "Gay Nineties" Review, Saturday evening, November 18, at 8:00 in the Alumni Gym.

Theta was first organized in 1894, the middle of the nineties, and has been an active society since that date. Theta is the older of the two women's literary societies on the Hill.

Miss Kay Bonner is in charge of all arrangements for the production, which is a special event for Theta, and is in addition to their dramatic production to be presented next semester.

Unusual interest has been shown in the group this year, and all members were asked to take part in this new venture.

"There is to be an all-star cast, good music and three scenes depicting life as our fore-father's lived it in the days when youth was light-hearted and gaity was the vogue," says Miss Bonner. "So put on your old grey bonnet, jump on a bicycle built for two, and whether you get a yellow tulip or a big red rose, you'll have a hilarious evening at Theta's Jubilee Anniversary. Everyone is welcome," she said.

"Open Sesame" Announced As Title Of Barnwarming

King and Queen To Be Revealed Thanksgiving Day

"Open, Sesame", has been announced by Jane Hays and Marion Schneeweiss, in charge of planning Barnwarming, as the title of the 1944 Thanksgiving Day celebration. An annual Maryville College feature, Barnwarming will be presented in the alumni gym on the evening of November 30.

Always the biggest affair of the first semester, Barnwarming is sponsored by the YWCA, and carries out the name of the program by a definite theme.

Nominations for a king and queen to be presented at Barnwarming were made at a meeting of the student body several weeks ago in the chapel. Nominated for king were Joe Brown, Jack Scott, Jim Witherspoon, and Ed Gates. Nominated for queen were Marion Schneeweiss, Rose Wells, Louise Henry, Peggy Caldwell, and Mary Dawn Noblit. Results of the vote will be revealed only when the king and queen are presented.

Girls nominated for class sponsors were as follows: Dorothy Brown and Peggy Caldwell, seniors; Louise Corbett and Catherine Crothers, juniors; Lynn Matthews and Jean Messer, sophomores; and Jean Cobb and Lois Thomas, freshmen.

They Say . . . .

"They Say. . . . ", a feature column by Lonnie Richdart, to be published, beginning this issue, on page two of the Highland Echo, is a census of student opinion on current questions of interest. This week at least two members of each class answered the question, "How do you account for the outcome of the national election?"

Theta Alpha Phi Gives Year's First Major Performance

"The Cradle Song", a comedy in two acts by Gregorio and Maria Martinez Sierra, will be presented tonight by Theta Alpha Phi at eight in Voorhees Chapel as the first major dramatic production of the year.

Ellen Pascoe, senior sociology major from Perkasie, Pennsylvania, will play the part of Teresa, an orphan girl adopted by the Sisters of a Dominican Convent in Spain. Miss Pascoe last year interpreted one of the leading parts in the Theta Epsilon play "Letters to Lucerne" and has also been in "A House Like This" and plays given by the Experimental Theater. Dorothy Lehman, senior English major from Beverly, Kentucky, who will play the part of the Prioress of the Convent, appeared in Maryville's production of "Dark Victory" last year and is a member of Theta Alpha Phi dramatic fraternity. Sister Joanna of the Cross will be played by Mary Dawn Noblit, senior majoring in Spanish from Tarpon Springs, Florida. She has been prominent in Maryville dramatic productions and is also a member of Theta Alpha Phi.

Other members of the cast are Esther Farrow as Sister Sagrario; Thelma Richardson as Sister Marcella; Dorothy Toomey as the Mistress of Novices; Nancy Russell, the Vicaress; Miriam Bowditch as Sister Tornera; Margaret Cross as Sister Inez; Bette Lou McCoy as Sister Maria Jesus;

Messer, McClure Marry Tomorrow

Ceremony To Be Held In Methodist Church

The chapel of the Broadway Methodist Church will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Margaret Messer and Cpl. Maurice Scott McClure tomorrow afternoon at 4:30, it was announced Wednesday, November 8, by Miss Messer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Messer of White Pine, Tennessee.

C. P. Hardin, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, will officiate. Miss Jeanne Heaps will play the organ, while Miss Sibyll Tallent will sing "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer". Decoration of the church will be in charge of Mrs. Florence Gwyn.

Miss Messer, senior biology major, has chosen for her maid of honor her sister, Miss Jean Messer, sophomore biology major. She will have no bridesmaids.

Mr. McClure, former student at MC before entering the service, studied at Ohio State College, Columbus, Ohio, under ASTP., and is now a member of the Army Medical Corps.

Paul Smith, who graduated here in 1944 and is now a student at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Georgia, has been chosen best man.

John Scott and Joseph Brown, seniors here, will be ushers.

Miss Messer will wear a white ivory satin gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and a medium length train. The maid of honor will wear an orchid dress.

A surprise personal shower was given for Miss Messer last evening in the "Y" rooms by her roommates. Miss Betty Jane Meyer, and Miss Jean Bellerjeau.

Guests for the ceremony will be Mr. and Mrs. Messer, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McClure of Lebanon, Ohio, parents of the groom, and family friends.

Published weekly during the school year, except at examination and holiday periods, by the students of Maryville College.

IN MEMORIUM

Members of the college community were shocked and saddened this week by the news of the passing of Dr. William P. Stevenson, College Pastor Emeritus.

For almost a quarter of a century Dr. Stevenson had served as college pastor lending his influence, talents, and Christian leadership to the development of the college and Christian ideals.

Always interested in improvement and new fields of conquest, Dr. Stevenson will be remembered for having initiated the college vesper service and the Wednesday morning chapel service, both of which he conducted regularly for a period of twenty years.

Those of us who knew Dr. Stevenson will forget neither him nor his influence upon us. Always an interesting conversationalist, Dr. Stevenson gave you something to take with you each time he talked with you.

Although he has left many evidences of his great Christian work here, the measure of this man cannot be expressed in words or material things.

His death is a blow and shock that will be felt throughout the community.

CAN YOU SPARE A DIME

During the past month the International Relations Club, with the assistance of various other groups, has been sponsoring the sale of war stamps and bonds.

The results, as announced on page one of this issue, are not what could be expected of college students, and members of the freshmen class lagged far behind with less than one fourth of the class members participating.

Surely college students who flock to the Chatterbox after meals to fatten their well-filled frames could spare a dime or more at least once a week to buy a war stamp.

In the few weeks remaining in this semester let each of us take and abide by the following pledge: I hereby resolve to purchase at least one war stamp a week for the remainder of the semester even if it means going with out my usual ice cream cone or box of cookies.

LIBRARY..... LIBEL

By Olinde Ahrens

Angels? At least they've both sprouted a new pair of wings. Carolyn Leonard received hers from Francis Drexler, and Babs Wells says hers came from George Taylor. And how about that Cross of Lorraine June Townsend is wearing that just came from France?

Could You? "Do you think you could love an assistant truck driver?" Lottie could—especially if he turns out to be a first lieutenant as well!

Seasons Greetings. Only 36 more shopping days until Christmas. Santa, take note! The gals at 107 Baldwin believe in being prepared. October 28 found two hip-length red stockings hanging at their door, with appropriate notes to Santa.

Stop Me If You've Heard This One! And then there was the editor who was seen—(He stopped me!)

Between the Book Ends. He pinned the book cover advertising How Dear to My Heart to her PO box, but that wasn't the end of the story. Next morning he found it returned in his own box, with the penciled notation, "Doc, I didn't know you cared!" Score one for Pete.

If The Shoe Fits. Those shoes you saw dangling out of the chapel window last Sunday were occupied! But FC and MB needed that music to play for church, and where there's a will, there's bound to be at least a window.

Peculiar. But women are that way. When Al came to see her, Betty Wells wouldn't even say she was glad to see him—in fact she wouldn't say anything at all. (Laryngitis!)

Number, Please. Most popular sailor on campus last week was Carolyn Ulrich's brother, Bud. (And there's another girl beside his sister who has had a letter from him since he left!)

What's Her Last Name? A lot of the girls have had visits from their boy friends recently, but we're waiting to see Grubbs' girl friend, Sterling—the one whose name he wears inside his identification bracelet.

Use Shinola. At least some of the people at Lib's table didn't like the dye she used on her shoes, and made her take 'em off. And who was the meanie that walked off with them while she was having dessert?

Seven Come Eleven. (But I won't tell about that!) When Peggy Stevenson's boy friend was here, Mary Dawn entertained with a dinner party at the Y rooms which brought tears to some eyes. Could it have been the diced onions?

Orientation. Is this what they teach you in college? At least when one freshman girl discovered that her mid-term grades were being sent home she asked for the probable date of their arrival an dsent a box of candy which should reach home about the same time.

Absent. Dockendorf is conspicuous this week only by his absence in this column. (Or did we miss something?)

Something Borrowed! And something blue? No, it was pink—Jean's face I mean, when they sang "Congratulations to You." (P.S. The diamond has been returned to its rightful owner.)

Bosom Pals! Have they quarreled? We haven't heard the Tedford even mention her friend Louella's name the last day and a half.

Rip Van? At least it appears that JT has settled down to peaceful slumbers again in history class, now that the national election has been disposed of to his satisfaction.

Tell Me Why? Ruth was talking to one of her freshmen. "But why did your church help you out with money to come to school—oh, of course, because you're a ministerial!" "No, that's because I left home."

Carnegie Girls. JC and LDF insist it just "happens" that they were walking by. Could be!

Chorus. Soprano Tallent met Director Vine on the campus on her way back from home ec class and was observed to be handing him some edible morsels when an enterprising member of the faculty passed by and yelled, "Hey, Tallent, I did not know you were taking the bribe's course!"

"I'll Pay My Fine, If you hear someone greeting Thelma with "How's the dummy today?" don't think they're getting personal. As Rich says: "I'll be riding on the Dummy-Dummy Line till we get that Chilhowean proof off!"

Does She Use Ponds? Maybe not, but she's wearing Scott's sweetheart pin, and you know what that means! "But don't put that in the column," she said. And then when we offered to leave it out if she could think of a better item, she said, "Oh, I can't think of anything better than that!" O.K. Monty?

Till Saturday Night. If you hear someone talking to herself as she walks down the hall, or saying her beads on her way to Parish Project, it's probably just MB, making final preparations for Cradle Song.

Well? The senior fellow at the corner table who said that man's chief end is to run away from woman, should read the PO bulletin board which carries a notice carefully explaining that woman doesn't chase man (and in fine print at the bottom of the page—neither does a mousetrap chase a mouse!)

To tell or not to tell my news
That is the weekly toss-up.
I keep the best part to myself
It isn't nice to gossip.

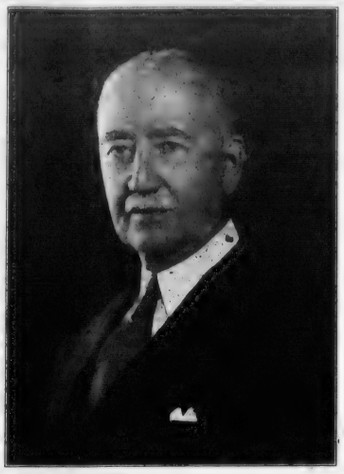
The time seems to be more than right to mention the little matter of the dining hall for consideration. Several times, in fact many times, the subject has been brought to mind, but there was still a faint flame of hope that conditions would improve without bringing it to the public eye.

We're not expected to act like shining examples of Emily Post's etiquette book in the dining hall, but at least we can act our own ages rather than in the manner of juveniles. Incidentally, Webster gives the meaning of the word juvenile as an adjective meaning "suitable for children". Stating it bluntly, we have been demonstrating this at the table, haven't we? We seem to have literally fallen for the old adage loosely translated, "When a little bit is good, a lot more is better". To illustrate, once upon a time 'way back in the spring of 1944, a senior at that time had a birthday and to commemorate the occasion, his table sang "Happy Birthday" to him. But we didn't let it go at that. On occasions we still celebrate that same birthday. Why can't we leave well enough alone?



To get more up to date, what is so positively fascinating about a new hair cut? The first time we had to sing for that occasion it did attract a little attention but there is such a thing as "running it into the ground."

Our guests in the dining hall don't get the full significance of the latest ditty, "Umbriago" so let's be considerate and reserve our songs for Saturday night programs and summer conferences. There is a time and place for everything, you know. The dining hall is neither the time nor the appropriate place.

It used to be customary to make announcements in the dining hall when it seemed necessary and concerned a large number of students. Now that is avoided when at all possible. Such announcements are given in chapel when it effects a large number of people. That plan has worked out well in most cases. It appears that such a plan for singing should be in pratctice. There are times when we do sing in the dining hall. Those occasions are singing hymns on Sunday, an occasional birthday (not meaning three times a day seven days of the week) and, to be sure, as long as the occasion for "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" doesn't arise very often, there could be no objection to that. Don't you agree that this singing of moderation would be a bit more collegiate? At least, it is food for thought.

As long as we have the dining hall on our minds, we have a lot to be thankful for. We don't show our appreciation sometimes but we are fortunate to be able to enjoy such good boarding facilities. If a comparison could be made with boarding in other colleges, we would find our dining hall far superior to other colleges, we would find our dining hall far superior to others under the prevailing conditions due to rationing. Miss Susanna Ware, dietician and manager, is doing an excellent job in obtaining as large a variety as we have in the selection of foods. Food prices have increased greatly and yet our expenses have not increased at all in comparison with this additional output for food costs. Miss Ware, with the assistance of capable waitresses, the cooks, and other employees, makes our meal time a pleasant relaxtaion in the day's routine.

Let's keep it pleasant by being more considerate in the use of good manners in good taste.

thy Toomey, Ann Anderson, Mary Ruth Barber, Elsie Jean Cotton, Lonnie Richardt, and Jean Magill.

Born in West Alexander, Pennsylvania, December 24, 1860, Dr. Stevenson was the son of a United Presbyterian minister, Rev. Josias Stevenson. He received his education at Westminister College, Union Theological Seminary, N. Y. and Western Theological Seminary, Pa. He was granted an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Syracuse University in 1902.

He married Elizabeth Cooper of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, June 1, 1887.

Dr. Stevenson came to Maryville College as College Pastor in 1917 and remained here in that capacity without salary for 23 years. During this time he preached twice a week at the Wednesday morning and Sunday evening chapel services, never using notes, even for the Scriptures. Dr. Lloyd said of him, quoting the Scriptures, that he, like Apollos, was "an eloquent man. . . and mighty in the Scriptures. . . . This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in Spirit, he spake and taught accurately the things concerning Jesus."

Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson always showed an intense interest in the college's welfare, and established an endowment for the college pastor's salary. A friend of Mrs. Stevenson gave the funds to build the "House in the Woods" as a memorial to her parents, and it is to be used as the college pastor's residence.

He is survived by a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Cooper Stevenson, one grand daughter, Mrs. Robinson McIlvaine, one grandson, William Walker Stevenson, and one great grandson, Stevenson McIlvaine, all of Middleburg, Virginia; also by two sisters, Mary Stevenson of Pittsburgh, and Caroline Stevenson Ford of Cloverport, Ky., and three brothers, John R. Stevenson of Philadelphia, Addison L. Stevenson of Pittsburgh, and Lee Stevenson of Miami, Florida.

They Say.....

By LONNIE RICHARDT

HOW DO YOU ACCOUNT FOR THE OUTCOME OF THE NATIONAL ELECTION?

Abbott Kemp, sophomore, 6:30 Pearsons Lobby. . .

"I would say that in his speeches Dewey didn't have a definite platform; all he did was criticize the present administration. Lots of people couldn't see a new president taking over now, or picture Dewey instead of Roosevelt at the peace table."

Thelma Richardson, senior, Second floor Pearsons. . .

"Labor!" in a none too mild tone.

Mary Batchelor, junior . . .

"I think the Republican party didn't have a chance because naturally they would have to adopt part of the Democratic ideas; this weakened their appeal. Then, with labor as it was. . . . well, there were a lot of heart-breaks."

Jean Almy, freshman, 7:00 Pearson's Lobby. . . .

"Wise voters! I thought Roosevelt was the better man. Where would America be if Dewey became one of the 'Big Four'? There was a lot of mud slinging in the campaigning. Although Dewey is a good man—has a lot of good ideas— the Republican party should get together on the statement of international and national relations."

Jane Craig, sophomore, 7:10 Pearsons Steps. . . .

"99½% of the American people must be morons!"

Max House, freshman, 8:00 Library . . . .

"The people were afraid to change during the war, of course—didn't trust an inexperienced executive. The Republican party could have had a better nominee, I think—Wilkie."

Jack Houdeshel, senior. . . .

"Simple! More people voted for Roosevelt than for Dewey. Now leave me alone. I'm busy doing Shakespeare."

Edgar Potts, junior. . . .

"It was the labor vote, undoubtedly, that gave Roosevelt the majority. Naturally the war had a great deal to do with it. My more heated thoughts on the subject can't be put into print."

Ruth Anderson, junior, 9:00 Fourth Floor Pearsons . . .

"I think that people voted for Roosevelt because they didn't want to change horses in the middle of the stream, as it were. Undoubtedly the labor vote had a great deal to do with it, too—"

All that the bally-hoo and campaigning, ballots and voting booths of Election Day ,1944, have left behind is a fourth term president and a once more defeated Republican party. Of course, there were such remarks as "The weather report in Washington Wednesday morning was 'Dewey Missed'" or "The new meaning of L.S.M.F.T. —Let's Start Making for a Fifth Term."

A weak Republican platform, the war, labor, campaign weaknesses—all these have been presented for the outcome of the election this time by MC students who voiced their opinions with "Don't quote me on this."

Perhaps the Republican party will be victorious next time, they say. . . .

Lush Letters Leave Lucky Little Ladies Longing For Love

By MARTHA EDGERTON

Male! Male! Male! Oops just a slight error! Who ever heard of such a thing at Maryville? We can dream, can't we? What we are looking for is MAIL. I guess that leaves us still just dreaming.

Eager eyes scan the horizon. One whoop if the mail carrier is approaching from the book store; two, if by the way of Baldwin. Ah, she is arriving on foot and with her arms heavily burdened. That means she has not been to Baldwin yet. Baldwin gets all the luck—and the mail.

"Girls, she's on first floor now," shrieks Sally Lou as she hangs precariously over the banister on third floor. I've got a letter! I can see my mother's handwriting. Oh, guess I was mistaken. She gave it to Jane down on first floor.

"Oh Betty, what do you keep hanging around for? You know you never get any mail."

"There is always a first time, you know."

A yelp comes from Betty Lou who is intently watching ever move of the mail carrier. "She is coming up to second floor—Now Alice, there is nothing for you, I'm sure. I can see from here and besides who would write to you? Didn't you know I am getting the mail tonight?"

"Ooh, a letter from Joe! Hey Mary, he has a week-end pass."

"Doesn't my roommate even get a post card?"

"Four letters for you, Kate! That is not fair. You will just have to share them with us."

Such are the cries that rise to the third floor as more and more mail is scattered throughout Memorial and as more and more disappointed girls turn empty handed back to their books and week old letters, already read and read and read some more until they looks like ancient manuscripts rescued from the ruins of an Egyptian pyramid.

Eagerly more heads peer over the wobbly bannister as the mail progresses slowly up towards the third floor.

"Why don't you move faster?"

"Oh you always start down at that end of the floor."

Plop! Well Shirley, at least, will be happy tonight. She got her newspaper from home.

"Any mail for 302? Are you sure? Please look again! Ooh good! It is from Andy. You're always trying to kid me. That makes two from him this week."

Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop!

"Say won't she ever stop?"

Plop! Plop!

"That is about all, isn't it?"

Plop!

"About time she quit. Mimi always gets more than anyone else. She even has trouble finding time to read all her mail."

"Well look at that. She sure breezes past our doors fast enough."

"I guess folks are getting used to not having me around. No mail again tonight."

"Hey, girls—I got a letter." (In spite of all the comments, Alice got a letter at last.)

"That's all for tonight girls—see you again tomorrow morning."

"Say you forgot me!" Sally Lou exclaims as the mail carrier quietly descends the stairs.

"No, it wasn't me that forgot you, Sally. It looks like HE was the one that did the forgetting this time."

Thus the harassed mail girl departs from Memorial, once more completing her rounds safely(?) in spite of the mobs of mail-hungry girls who throng her.

NOTICE—

Due to uncontrollable conditions in the printing office of the Maryville Enterprise, this week's issue of the Highland Echo is unavoidably late.

The next issue of the Highland Echo is scheduled for Saturday, November 25.

A freshman pledge at Kansas U. had to have a quick answer when she returned from a scavenger hunt on which she was ordered to bring back a small black kitten. The pledge bringing back an oversized tomcat, promptly announced, "He's had thyroid trouble."

Nancy Russell Wins Girls' Tennis Title By Defeating Evelyn Anderson In 3 of 5 Sets

Undefeated Howies Capture Girls' Soccer Championship From Chillies

Nancy Russell, winner of the Pearson tennis tournament, became girls' tennis champion for 1944 by defeating Evelyn Anderson, winner of the Memorial-Baldwin tournament, in a five set match held on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, November 7 and 8.

Tuesday afternoon the first set went to Miss Russell 7-5, but Miss Anderson tied it up by taking the next set 6-2. The third set played that afternoon gave Miss Russell the lead when she took it 6-2. Wednesday afternoon the two met on the Memorial courts to finish the tournament. Evelyn Anderson took the first set 6-4 and then Nancy Russell took the final set 8-6, thus giving her the majority of three out of the five sets.

Nancy Russell reached the finals by defeating Edith Methany in the first round, Dot Justus in the second round, Rosalind Garges in the third round, and Martha J. Shaw in the last round which made her the winner of the Pearson tournament. By defeating Mary Annis Beals in the first round, Evelyn Anderson came to the second round to defeat Lois Thomas. The third round brought defeat to Lonnie Richardt and in the fourth round she defeated Janet Miller. All of these girls are residents of Baldwin Hall. For the final round Miss Anderson of Baldwin met May Short of Memorial to become the winner of the Memorial-Baldwin tourney.

Nancy Russell is a member of the senior class to graduate in December. She has majored in Dramatic Arts and hopes to go into some branch of the professional field. During her eight years of grammar school, Miss Russell traveled a great deal. She was enrolled in thirteen schools in six states during this time. Miss Russell, always interested in sports, was the girls' tennis champion during her freshman year at Maryville College. She was runner up for the title in her sophomore and junior years when she was defeated by Johnnye Gudel.

Evelyn Anderson claims Philadelphia, Pa., as her home now. However eleven of her sixteen year shave been spent in Belguim Congo, Africa, where her parents are missionaries. She has been extremely interested in sports all her life because that was the only type of recreation available in Africa. Baseball and tennis are her favorites. Miss Anderson, a freshman, is better known as "Andy". She is majoring in biology since she plans to go into nurses' training.

The "Howies" became the soccer champions November 9, at the completion of Thursday afternoon's game by winning three of four games played with the "Chillies". The fifth game which was scheduled for November 13 will be played off at 4:30 in the gym even though the championship has already been decided.

The soccer season opened October 31 with the "Howies" defeating the "Chillies" 2-1. At the second meeting of the two teams November 2, the "Howies" prevented the "Chillies" from scoring and the game ended 4-0 in the "Howies" favor. A 3-3 tie marked the end of the third game held November 7.

The line-ups for the two teams for the first game is as follows:

Chillies
Forwards—Nancy Russell, Capt., May Short, Evelyn Anderson
Halfbacks—Catherine Stout, Mgr., Carol Fuller, Betty Thomas
Fullbacks— Marion Henderson, Edith DeLaney
Wings—Joy Stewart, Merle Henderson
Goalie—Anna Rose Clinkman
Howies
Forwards— Dot Justus, capt., Betsy Burleigh, Louise Corbett
Halfbacks—"Soapie" Bernardini, Mgr., Winnie Sommers, Lottie Lavender
Fullbacks—Lois Thomas, Caroline Wallace
Wings—Betty Lou King, Mildred Jones
Goalie—Carol Gillette

Both scores for the "Howies" in this game were made by Dot Justus. Evelyn Anderson made the score for the "Chillies" Balch, Cotton, Edgerton, Shoup, and Williams acted as subs for the "Howies" while no substitutions were made by the "Chillies".

Line-ups for the second game played November 2 is as follows:

Chillies
Forwards—Nancy Russell, capt. Evelyn Anderson, Kay Stout, mgr.
Fullbacks—Edith DeLaney, Marion Henderson
Halfbacks—Jean Balch, Betty Thomas, Carol Fuller
Wings—Joy Stewart, Merle Henderson
Goalie—Anna Rose Clinkman
Howies
Forwards—Dot Justus, capt., Betsy Burleigh, Louise Corbett
Fullbacks—Lois Thomas, Caroline Wallace
Halfbacks—Winnie Sommers, "Soapie" Bernardini, Mgr. Loretta Nunn
Wings—Betty Lou King, Mildred Jones
Goalie—Carol Gillette

In this game Betsy Burleigh scored two of the four points. Dot Justus and Louise Corbett each made one for a total score of four. Fouls were called on Elsie Jean Cotton, Carol Fuller, Lorraine Shoup, and Merle Henderson, all of whom are on the "Chillie" team. Acting as substitutes for the "Chillies" were Cotton, Shoup, Edgerton and Williams.

Line-ups for the third game played November 7 are:

Chillies
Forwards—Nancy Russell, capt. Kay Stout, Mgr., Evelyn Anderson
Fullbacks—Edith DeLaney May Short

Experimental Theater Presents Plays, Readings

Two one-act plays, a choral reading and a monalogue comprised the program presented by the Experimental Theater Saturday evening at eight in Bartlett Hall. Mrs. Martin Badgett of Maryville is director of the theater.

Their Husbands, concerned with the selection of a husband by a gypsy's prediction, had four participants. Shirley Scott, senior religious education major from Attoona, Pa., was the gypsy with Virginia Miller, sophomore dramatic art major from Kennet Square, Pennsylvania, as the young girl seeking advice. Marian Fershee, senior religious education major from Battle Creek, Michigan, and Virginia Clabough, of Chattanooga, were the mother and divorcee, respectively.

As an assignment for the class in advanced interpretation Thelma Richardson gave an original monologue of an elevator operator from the Bronx entitled "Watch your step!" Nancy Russell directed a group of girls from the 101 speech class in three choral readings: Whistle, Whistle! Pirate Don Durk of Dondee, and The Kitchen Clock. Those participating were Marie De Pue, Lois Thomas, Ella Mae Thompson, Mary Batchelor, Esther Farrow, Louise Cleveland, Kate Smith, Martha Edgerton, Helene Spaldo, Margaret Blanton.

At The Junction, a phantasy by Rachel Field, pictured a general store at the junction with an old station agent, Jack Scott, senior psychology major from Eddington, Pennsylvania, and store-keeper, Max House, freshman from Cato, New York. Rebecca Davis, junior sociology major from Sturgis, Ky., played the part of the girl and Charlotte Profitt was the girl ten years before she went to study in New York.

Lois Collette, Marietta Ball and Edith Earle, were stage managers for the plays.

Missionary Is Chapel Speaker

WED. CHAPEL SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. Commodore Fisher, missionaries to Iran, will arrive in Maryville early next week where Mr. Fisher will fill an engagement as speaker at the Maryville College chapel service Wednesday, November 15.

Both graduates of Maryville College, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left for Iran in 1920 where for the past 24 years they have been engaged in educational work at a school for children in Teheran. A chief sideline of their work was the entertainment in their home and school of men in the American armed forces stationed in that region.

Returning recently to America and making their headquarters in Nashville, the missionaries have been making a tour of the region, telling of their work and experiences. During their visit here, they will stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Murray on Indiana Avenue.

Eagles Capture Football Title

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Don Heuser, freshman from St. Louis, Mo., conquered Merrill Grubbs in three fast games of ping pong Thursday afternoon, November 9, in the Carnegie ping pong room to become the winner of the ping pong tournament. The scores were 21 to 6, 21 to 3, and 21 to 14. In attaining the championship, Heuser met his toughest opposition in his semi-final match with Squire Kemp. The scores in that close match were in favor of Heuser, (21-19, 22-20). Previously Heuser had beaten Bishop (21-18, 21-12) in the qarter finals, Wilson by the scores (21-8, 21-18), and Pribble (21-5, 21-4) to gain his place in the final match with Grubbs.

Grubbs had outplayed the following to earn his position in the finals: Garland in the quarter finals (21-15, 21-13), Cover (21-15, 21-15), and Schieber (21-10, 21-9).

The Intramural football league which has been going since the middle of September has now been completed. The Eagles finally won. They took one of the last three games which was all they had to do to cinch the championship.

That one game was with the Garnet team on the afternoon of November 2, and it was close as it could have been. The Garnet team outplayed the champs during the whole game, scoring a touchdown on a pass to Liester from Cardella early in the game and holding that six point lead until late in the last period. Then the Eagles tied the score when Kemp got loose on a long run to tie up the game. Time ran out with the score still standing 6-6, and neither team was able to change the score in a three minute over-time period. According to the Intramural rules the next procedure is to give the team with the ball four downs, then the other team gets four downs. The team which advances the ball fartherest, or loses the least, gets one point which wins the game for them. In this case the Eagles got the one point and not only won that game but also cinched the championship.

There were two other games last week but they didn't affect the standings at all. On October 31 Heuser of the Orange team ran wild to score three touchdowns and win the game over the Garnets, 18 to 0. Then the last game of the season, November 7, the Orange team had the honor of defeating the champions. The passing combination of Grubbs and Heuser netted two scores, and the final score read 12 to 0.

But the final standings show the Eagles on top. Orange second and Garnet third.

Team	Won	Lost
Eagles	8	3
Orange	7	4
Garnet	1	10

THANKSGIVING GAME

There has already been much interest shown in a big football game on Thanksgiving day, November 30. The Intramural Staff is dividing all worthwhile players into two powerful teams for that big day. Ruth Broadhead and some of the point system girls who have shown interest in the football program are being considered as officials.

The next major sport scheduled is basketball. The Intramural entrance blank for that sport is already posted on the Carnegie bulletin board and that program will be gotten under way in the near future.

Student Recital

Instrumental and vocal selections were heard by those attending the student recital Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in Voorhees Chapel. Rosalind Garges and Louise Corpett presented a violin duet with Concerto in D Minor by Bach. Rheinberger's organ arrangement Trio op. 49, no. 1 was played by Frances Ashby of Newport News, Va. Margaret Howell sang Robert Schumann's Du Bist Wie Eine Blume accompanied by Katherine Franklin.

Chopin's Prelude No. 1 for piano was rendered by Elizabeth Lilliard. Prelude Religioso by Kuhlan Marriage of Figaro by Mozart was was played by Sibyl Tallent at the organ. Non so piu, from the sung by Catherine Sisk who was accompanied by Frances Ashby. Mary Evelyn Jamison played Paridon's organ arrangement To a Lonely Flower. The recital was concluded by Bach's Bist Du Bie Mir as sung by Sibyl Tallent accompanied by Janet Rich.

These recitals are presented twice a month and attendance is required of all who are taking individual lessons. Faculty and other students are invited to come also.

Seniors Again Lead In Purchase of War Stamps and Bonds

The purchase of two bonds Friday, November 10, made the senior class stamp and bond sales total $60.40, the high mark for the semester. As usual, the senior class led the total sales with a 47% average, while the freshman class brought up the rear with a sale of $9.35 or 21%.

Ranking second, the junior class purchased $10.90 to total 35%, and the sophomore class purchased $20.65 with a 28% average.

Agnes Peterson and Hope Pleyl, seniors, and Sarah Enloe, sophomore, purchased bonds.

Sale of stamps in Pearsons Lobby was made Friday instead of Wednesday because of the funeral service held here on November 8 for Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor.

PRE-COLLEGE RECITAL

Friday afternoon at four-thirty in Voorheees Chapel twelve pre-college young people who are taking lessons from college music faculty presented a recital. Those participating were Elliot Fortescue, Anne Gates, George Johnson, Johnny Johnson, Eleanor Kenst, David McCroskey, Lew Norton, Jimmy McDonald, Sonia Shine, Vannie Traylor, Hamilton Traylor and Anne Yocum.

Election

Dewey's chance rose slightly, and the college Republicans' spirits shot sky-high.

Night fell. Bartlett Hall became the center of expentancy as student politicians, now feeling like veterans, gathered to applaud and cheer the man of their choice at the election night program sponsored by the I. R. C. Couples, sharply divided by poliitcs, had a tug-of-war to determine on which side they would sit. The radio blared, voices were lifted in song and cheers, and the battle raged.

But like all other evils necessary for an education, lights-out rolled around. Our ardent Democrats were in excellent spirits, slapping their rivals on the back and, excusably forgetting some rules of sportsmanship, yelling, "I told you so!" The other side of the fence, now sobered and saddened by life and its tribulations, turned to age-old proverbs to renew their fast-waning hope. "Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

But tomorrow came and brought with it assurance that horses had not been changed in the middle of the stream; Roosevelt had won another ticket to the White House. So with one's joyfulness and another's resignation, friendships were again renewed, worrying over lessons started once more.

WRITER'S WORKSHOP

Writer's Workshop met last Wednesday, November 8, at 4:30 in Dr. Hunter's classroom. The readers were Jeanne Bellerjeau, who read some character sketches, Madeline Cooke, who submitted a story entitled, "Twilight in 24 Pearsons", and Evelyn Whitehead, who read some translations of Portuguese poetry.

Cradle Song

Joseph Brown, the Doctor; and Edward Gates, Antonio.

An interlude will be read between the acts by the Poet, Shirley Scott, religious education major from Altoona, Pennsylvania.

Director of the play is Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art. She will be assisted by Virginia Miller, sophomore dramatic art major from Kennett Square, Penna. Olinde Ahrens, sophomore English major, has been chosen business manager with James Witherspoon as her assistant. Lois Collett, publicity manager, is aided by Carol Gillette, Kay Bonner, and Byron Sprague. Rebecca Davis and Shirley Scott have charge of properties and Marian Fershee handles the costumes.

William Cover, stage manager, has as his assistant, Robert Seel. The stage crew consists of Jean Almey, Jessie Lou Brunson, Edith Earle, Joe Henry, Leonard Schieber, and Willis Pribble. Owen McCarty is the electrician.

"Cradle Song" has had wide popularity in many countries since its translation into English by John Garrett Underhill, and also into other major languages. Within the last decade it has taken its place as an international classic, serene and enduring as the simple humanity and faith which lie at its heart.

Tickets will be on sale at the door before the performance begins.

French Club

Catherine Sisk, program chairman for French Club, presided as spelling master at the spelling bee held at the last meeting of the club Thursday, November 9, in Miss Catherine Wilkinson's classroom. Members were divided in two teams to alternate in spelling French words. Betty Tufvander, sophomore from W. Virginia, was the last to be left standing as Helen Marie Wilson was spelled down on the word "exercice".

Program chairman Catherine Sisk and Ruth Freeman presented plans for formal program to be held November 23 to which members of the language faculty and French students will be invited. Committees were appointed and a special meeting called for Monday, November 13 in Miss Wilkinson's room following lunch. Nell Ousley, president of the organization presided at the business meeting which preceded the spelling bee.

B. G.'s Initiate New Members

The B. G.'s recently initiated four members into the organization. Those enduring the four days of initiation were: Kay Bonner, Hannah Duke, Betty Lou King, and Zenobia Bernardini. Miss Susanna Ware, sponsor of the group, took the girls to Knoxville to the show as the first activity of the club. A formal initiation, and the final part, is being planned for the near future.

Pre-Med Club Sees Movie

"The Story of Steel", a technicolor film on the steel industry was shown at the last meeting of the pre-med club Thursday, November 9, at 6:45 p. m. in the chemistry lecture room in Fayerweather Hall. Filmed by Hollywood men, the scenes were taken in plants under actual working conditions.

Miss Dorothy Thompson, nurse at Doctor's Hospital in Maryville, will address the club members at their next meeting Thursday, November 23. Ethel Brocker, junior chemistry major from Springfield Gardens, New York, is president of the club.

Spanish Club

Spanish Club members heard a panel discussion in Spanish on Argentine-U. S. relations at the last meeting of the club Thursday, November 9. Betty Wells, chairman of the panel, presented the background information. Early developments were reviewed by Nellie Cuellas while recent progress was shown by Betty Jo Kuykendall. General discussion of the problem was then carried on by the members of the club.

Evelyn Whitehead, senior Spanish major from Erwin, Tennessee was elected treasurer of the club, The nominating committee consisted of Audria Stinger, Nellie Cuellas, and Madeline Cooke.

Annual Barnwarming Program To Be Presented In Alumni Gym Thanksgiving Evening, Nov. 30

Maryville's annual Barnwarming program will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. As is usual, the program for Barnwarming will be kept a mystery until the night of the 30th. The main feature will be the crowning of the king and queen of Barnwarming, and the presentation of the sponsors elected by each class.

The theme of Barnwarming this year will be "Open Sesame". Marion Schneeweiss and Jane Hays are co-chairmen of Barnwarming. Miss Schneeweiss is a home economics major from Pleasantville, New Jersey, and Miss Hays a home economics major from Beaver, Pa. Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, is in charge of the skit to be presented by the faculty—an annual feature of Barnwarming. The YMCA and Y WCA cabinets will also present a skit.

Program chairman for this year's Barnwarming is Carol McCutcheon, a mathematics major from Elizabeth, N. J. She will be assisted by Fred Wilson, Abbot Kemp, John Houdeshel, Leona Richardt, Julie Pancoast, Jessie Brunson, and Teddie Evans.

Zenobia Barnardini, biology major from Cincinnati, Ohio, will be in charge of booths. Other members of this committee are Bette Lou McCoy, Betsy Burleigh, Florence Housch, Kitty Johnson, Edith Metheney, Carol Smith, Jean Martin, William Robarts, and James Witherspoon.

Audre Monteith, biology major from Kingston, Pa., heads the decoration committee, assisted by Virginia Clabough, Jayne Shouse, Juanita Hinson, Joan Liddell, Pauline Lickteig, Bob Dockendorf, Fay Cameron, and Byron Sprague.

The publicity committee chairman is Marinell Ross, history major from Maryville. Other committee members are Margaret Cross, Ethel Park, Billie Ruth Wright, and June Gowanlock.

Catherine Payne, home economics major from Phenix City, Alabama, will be in charge of costumes.

Abner Richard, sociology major from Norristown, Pa., is managing the ticket sale. Tickets are 28c, including tax, and are now on sale at the bookstore as well as down town.

Barnwarming is sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA groups, and the proceeds will go to a charitable institution.

Louis Black Is Vesper Speaker Tomorrow Night

Louis A. Black, Director of Maintenance at Maryville College, will speak at the Vesper Service tomorrow evening in Voorhees Chapel on the topic "St. Paul's Endeavor."

Mr. Black's address will center around the theme that God has a definite work for each of us to do, "a separate plan or scheme of life." It is up to us as free and responsible people whether or not we will adjust ourselves to His plan.

As illustrations, Mr. Black will give brief summaries of the lives of three men who fulfilled their portion of the scheme by following distinctly Christian vocations —C. T. Studd, an Englishman who was the greatest amateur cricket player of his day and a foreign missionary who has been compared with the Apostle Paul; John R. Mott, world Y. M. C. A., missionary, and evangelical leader; Robert E. Speer, universally famous missionary and outstanding conference speaker of college students.

GERMAN CLUB

German club members enjoyed a social evening in the Y rooms on November 20. They played German parlor games. Refreshments of hot tea, sandwiches, and donuts were served.

George E. Brown Speaks Tomorrow At Student Vols

Club Votes To Give Hospital Donation As Next Project

"How I got through college without cracking a book" will be the topic of the Rev. Mr. George E. Brown as he addresses the members of the Student Volunteer organization tomorrow evening following vespers. Mr. Brown fulfills various speaking engagements each Sunday and the program chairmen are glad that he is free to come to the campus this Sunday. Former students of Biology 101 will remember the speaker's wife, Mrs. Bonnie Hudson Brown, as their teacher.

Student Volunteers selected their project at the last meeting November 19, as three girls presented suggested ones in short talks. A money gift will be sent to the Embudo Presbyterian Hospital in Embudo, N. M. which is building a new maternity wing. This winning project was presented by Ethel Brocker, junior chemistry major from Springfield Gardens, N. Y.

Evelyn Anderson, freshman biology major from Philadelphia, Penna., proposed the need for victrola records in missionary work in Africa. Margaret Cross, junior sociology major from Brent, Alabama, asked that Volunteers provide funds for scholarships for Latin American students. Of the three projects presented the first mentioned received the highest number of votes.

ANDREW O'CONNER ORDAINED PASTOR

Andrew F. O'Conner, Maryville '41, was ordained assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of York, Pennsylvania, on last September 19. After leaving Maryville Mr. O'Conner enrolled at Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J. He received his degree from Princeton in August.

Before assuming his pastoral duties, he came to Knoxville on September 12 to marry the former Clara Jane Baldock, Maryville '42. Mrs. O'Conner is now teaching kindergarten at York Collegiate Institute.

Fall Meeting of Directors Held Tuesday, Nov. 21

President Lloyd Makes Report On Past Year's Work

The fall meeting of the Board of Directors of Maryville College was held Tuesday, November 21, at the college. The business of the meeting consisted of reports by the Committee on Administration, by the Committee on Finance, by the President, and by the acting treasurer. A special committee read a minute concerning the death of Dr. William Patton Stevenson, college pastor emeritus.

The report of the President is made annually in two parts—one at the spring meeting concerning the appointment of faculty personnel, awarding of degrees, and general plans for the coming year, and the second more detailed report which is given at the fall meeting. President Lloyd's report on Tuesday included the following six sections:

I. A review of Maryville's 125th year.
II. Student enrollment details.
III. Financial and property details.
IV. Reports from the officers and committees of the faculty. This includes reports from the Dean of Students, Dean of Curriculum, Director of Maintenance, Director of Student Help, the Librarian, and all major faculty committees.
V. Review and record of the action taken at the spring meeting.
VI. Recommendations. Twelve specific recommendations were adopted at this meeting, among them the budget for the year. The Board of Directors also gave approval for the raising of a Samuel Tyndale Wilson Memorial Foundation Fund.

Judge Samuel O'Grady Houston, LL.D., of Knoxville, was re-

Nicola Moscona Well Received By M. C. Audience

Next Artists Series Concert Scheduled For January 22

Nicola Moscona, Metropolitan basso, sang before an appreciative Maryville audience in Voorhees Chapel, Thursday evening, November 16. Compositions from well-known musicians as Handel, Schubert, Gounod, and Verdi were among his repertoire. The young Greek born musician sang several folk songs of his native land. He prefaced each with a brief resume of the story behind the song. Some rather amusing, light pieces concluded his program.

Numerous encores were requested by an eager audience. Preceding the intermission, he sang the Grand Aria from the opera Simon Montenegro. Mozart's Don Juan's Serenade, Land of Degradation, and My Ideal, an Italian romance, were his final encores before he signified his desire to end the program.

Mr. Moscona arrived by train from Chicago Thursday afternoon. He was to leave on the "Tennessean" for New York City early Friday morning, November 17 to begin rehearsals for the winter season of the Metropolitan Opera Company. He has already sung five major roles in operas there this year.

Concert lovers may anticipate the appearance of Miss Mona Bradford, contralto, in Voorhees Chapel on January 22, 1945. Miss Bradford has been a member of the Chicago Opera Company since 1940 and comes highly recommended by critics and concert-goers. Her successor as an operatic and concert singer have provided for her large repertoire which is an assurance of a varied and appealing program.

PRE-MED CLUB

Miss Dorothy Thompson, R. N. from Doctor's Hospital, spoke to the members of Pre-Med club at their last meeting Thursday, November 23, at 6:45 p. m. in the chemistry lecture room about nursing. After her talk there was a question and answer period which which Miss Thompson attempted to answer the queries put to her by prospective students of nursing.

Semester Report Made By IRC War Stamp Committee

Sales For Month Amount To $200 As Seniors Lead

A complete report, giving the computed results of the sale of War Stamps and Bonds at Maryville College since the beginning of sales, October 18, through the week of November 15, has been announced by the finance committee. The seniors remain at the top of the list with a total for sales amounting to $77.00. The junior and sophomore classes came in for second and third places with $44.45 being the former's total and $44.05 the latter's. The freshman class, although at the bottom of the list, made a good showing with the purchase of stamps totaling $36.05. The complete total for all classes during the month amounts to $201.55. Although three War Bonds, amounting to $75.00 in actual cost, were sold, War Stamps comprised the majority of sales.

For the week ending November 15 the computing of sales found the freshman class for the first time heading the list in total amount of sales, but still lowest in percentage. The week's results are as follows:

Freshmen—$11.00—25%
Sophomores—$9.60—38%
Juniors—$6.60—26%
Seniors—$7.75—45%

Although all classes have been doing admirably well, they have fallen short of our expectations, say members of the committee. 100% is the goal set for the classes, and as yet none has reached it. There is still time in this semester to improve class percentages. Stamps and Bonds will continue to be on sale each week at a designated time in Pearson's lobby before and after meals until announced otherwise. The stamp committee urges all students to give stamp and bond presents this Christmas and purchase them during this present drive here on the campus, sponsored by the International Relations Club.

Dr. Ralph T. Case To Speak At IRC On World Peace

"World Peace" will be the topic of Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology, at the next meeting of IRC to be held Monday evening, November 27, at 7:00, in the YWCA rooms. This problem and its possible solutions have been discussed at the Presbyterian Church conference in Knoxville that Dr. Case has been attending.

Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, will speak at the following meeting, December 4, on "Basic Conditions for World Peace".

At the meeting November 20, Edward Gates was in charge of the News Review, a monthly quiz on current world news, was held and Peggy Ann Case reviewed the book "After the War. . . What?" by Preston Slosson, professor of Modern History at the University of Michigan.

Roy W. Peyton To Speak At Wednesday Chapel

At the Maryville College chapel service Wednesday morning, November 29, the principal speaker will be the Rev. Roy W. Peyton, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. Rev. Mr. Peyton, who came only recently to Knoxville from a pastorate in Sterling, Illinois, has in the short time since his arrival established himself as an invaluable asset to his church and community. This will be his initial visit as speaker at Maryville College. The topic of his address is unannounced.

Services To Be Held Feb. 7-15

Frank Hill Caldwell, Ph.D., D. D., president of Louisville Presbyterian Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky, will be the leader of the 69th series of February Meetings to be held February 7-15, 1945, it was revealed by President Ralph W. Lloyd this week.

DR. CALDWELL

Returning for the 23rd year as song leader for the meetings is Sidney E. Stringham, D.D., now pastor of the McKendrey Methodist Church, Jackson, Missouri.

Born in Corinth, Mississippi 42 years ago, Dr. Caldwell has risen to a place of prominence in the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

His college education was received at the U. S. Military Academy (West Point), University of Mississippi, and Centre College, Kentucky. His Bachelor of Divinity degree is from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. He took graduate work at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and holds the Ph.D. degree from that University. In 1936 Centre College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

He was a pastor in Kentucky and Mississippi for four years and was for a time on the faculty of Centre College. In 1928 he went to the faculty of Louisville Seminary as Professor of Homiletics, and in 1936 became President of the Seminary, now holding both of these positions.

"He is an excellent speaker," said Dr. Lloyd, "is a man of attractive and friendly personality, and is an earnest Christian."

Dr. Stringham, well known in Maryville for his famous "Cow story" of three years ago, was formerly pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis. He was at one time a pastor in Alcoa, Tennessee, having organized a church there more than a quarter of a century ago.

Y.W. To Present Pageant As Sunday Program

"My Country 'Tis", a good will pageant by Althea Osber Silverman, will be presented as the Thanksgiving program for those attending YW tomorrow afternoon in Bartlett Hall. Thelma Richardson is the reader with the following girls taking the parts of women from various nations: Zenobia Bernardini, Betsey Burleigh, Peggy Howell, Marcia Keirn, Dot Lehman, Edelmira Pino, Mary M. Roberts, Betty Saint, Shirley Scott, Catherine Sisk, Kay Stout, Sibyl Tallent, and Dorothy Toomey. The girls will be in the costume of the country which they represent. The time is from 1600 to the present day with the setting in the United States. Mary Dawn Noblit, senior Spanish major from Tarpon Springs, Florida, will read the scripture.

"Jesus, the Man" was the topic of the address given by John A. Gates, PhD. associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, at the regular meeting of the YW last Sunday afternoon, Betty Tufvander, junior from West Virginia played a piano solo for the special music.

Thanksgiving Day Program Includes Feast-No Classes

Although Tennessee is one of the eight states in the United States to celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the 30th of November, two of its cities, Knoxville and Maryville, observed this holiday November 23. However at Maryville College Thursday, November 30th will be the official Thanksgiving Day. The regular campus schedule will change completely on this date. Classes will be suspended for the day, and all students, either in groups or dates, will be allowed, upon signing out, to leave the campus for as long as they wish, providing they return in the evening in time to attend the Barnwarming.

Breakfast will be served at 8:00 o'clock, after which there will be a morning service sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. and held in Bartlett Auditorium. The exact time for this meeting will be announced later. The program committee composed of Mary Ferchee, Louise Henry, Jack Scott, Jim Witherspoon, Jack Houdeshel, and Becky Davis has secured Rev. C. P. Hardin, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, for the principal speaker. Special music is also being planned for the occasion.

Thanksgiving dinner will be served at 1:00 o'clock. The menu will consist of baked hen, dressing, gravy, cranberry sauce, celery, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, rolls, butter, mince meat pie, ice cream and coffee. Fruit will be available to take out of the dining hall. No evening meal will be served.

The event planned for Thanksgiving night is the annual Barnwarming, this year entitled "Open Sesame" to be held at 7:30 in the Next Echo

The next issue of the Highland Echo is scheduled for Saturday, December 2.

Mrs. Cummings To Speak at YMCA

Mrs. John Cummings is to be the speaker at the meeting of the YMCA tomorrow afternoon at one-thirty in the YW rooms. She has chosen as her topic "A Man for his Time", the story of Nehemiah. The special music will be provided by James Carson, sophomore chemistry major from Madisonville, Tennessee, who will present a piano solo.

Members of the YM heard Mrs. Robert Harvey, a sister of Chaplain Sam Franklin of Maryville, discuss various phases of her work with underprivileged youth of Chicago, last Sunday, November 19. She stressed particularly the work in neighborhood houses and summer camps. The group met in Theta Hall because of heating difficulties in Bartlett Hall.

Alpha Sigma Meets Tonight

Alpha Sigma will meet in the Bartlett auditorium tonight at 6:15. Besides a short business meeting there is to be a program which will consist of songs by Catherine Sisk and a few numbers by Mary Batchelor with her bones. Betty Tufvander will be the accompanist.

Refreshments will be served.

HERON AND WILKINSON HONORED FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' SERVICE

Jessie Sloane Heron, assistant professor of English, and Margaret Catherine Wilkinson, assistant professor of French, were welcomed into the Twenty-five Year Club at the meeting of the Maryville College Faculty Club on November 20. The Twenty-five Year Club members are faculty or staff who have served Maryville College for twenty-five years or more. President Ralph Waldo Lloyd welcomed Miss Heron and Miss Wilkinson to membership in the club and presented each with the traditional twenty-five roses.

Miss Heron became Instructor in Latin in the Preparatory Department of Maryville College in the fall of 1919, and after a year was appointed to the college English faculty on which she has now served for 24 years. Miss Heron is a graduate of Wooster College in Ohio, and before joining the Maryville faculty had a very successful experience as a high school principal and teacher. She has done graduate study at Wooster, Columbia, and Duke, and hold a Master's degree from Columbia. Dr. Lloyd in his statement of welcome said: "At Maryville she is known as a teacher with high standards and of sincere loyalty and varied interests. For example, her interest in football has been so genuine that the football squads year after year have claimed her as sort of an unofficial sponsor."

Miss Wilkinson also came to the Maryville College faculty in the fall of 1919. For four years she was Instructor of French and Latin in the Preparatory Department. For the past twenty-one years she has taught college French—and Army Geography. She is a native Tennessean, and received her B. A. degree from Maryville College in the spring of 1919. In 1925 she received her

MISS WILKINSON

Master's degree from Columbia University. In 1930 she was in Europe and studied at the Sorbonne in Paris. In 1935 and again in 1940 she did graduate study at Emory University. Dr. Lloyd, in introducing Miss Wilkinson to the Twenty-five Year Club said: "Miss Wilkinson brings to her work as a teacher both a Maryville College background and the influence of other institutions and places. Her faithfulness and efficiency make her one of the very valuable members of our faculty and one with whom all of us find it a pleasure to work."

Tell Your Fortune? And you don't need tea leaves either. Just see Lissette Gessert. She's fore-telling the future 100% these days. "I'll bet Sam calls me during my buffet supper at the practice house," she said. Sam called. "It would be just like him to call during the formal dinner too." He did. Somebody should warn that lad that she can read his mind, even at long distance.

Pennies From Heaven? Or was it just a guilty conscience that made JS drop her money in Ethics class just as they were discussing gambling and matching pennies?

The Artist Touch. Yes, you may touch her hand—the one Nicola Moscona kissed. Paging Sneezy!

The Smile of Beauty? At least LC appeared in Labor Problems Class last week with his tooth-brush and paste in hand. And by the way, that isn't one and the same girl you had out Sunday either. They're roommates!

Blackout. Diogenes wasn't the only one out with his lantern last Monday night when the lights did a fade-out. Did any of you gals with candles find an honest man?

Going Places? At least, when last seen, Dr. Griffitts was wearing an air mail sticker pointing east by nor'east.

Wishbone. Three girls who expect a real Thanksgiving are Durbin, Dunn, and Messer. Why? Three reasons—Harold, Bill, and Trevor.

Monsieur! Five non-members of the "Ex-Squire" club have allayed their unrequited affection by writing letters to the gentleman in question, but to date have received no reply. R.S.V.P. sil vous plait. And how was the home-made bread?

Sixty-four Dollar Question. Is Joe really engaged?

Echoes of Cradle Song. Overheard at rehearsal—Sister Marcella, as she picks up the basket with the mysterious gift: "GOSH, it's heavy!"

Is My Name Written There? Yes, and in alphabetical order too. If Bob doesn't know his book is due he can find his name right after Houdeshel's—Kendorf, Doc—on the book due list at the library.

Really? When a fellow gets down on his knees before a gal, what's the public to think? But Dock has an explanation, "I was just asking FC to forgive me." and I unquote!

Society. Miss JW Retonga, who is attending Maryville College, visited her parents over the week-end. We regret that the picture accompanying this item has been misplaced. (Deliberately???)

The Better To See You With. As one gal with a new pair of glasses says, "I can see things now that I've never seen before." Tell us, so we can look too.

A-Plus. The physics class was discussing liquid air. "Oh, simple," she cried. "Rain!"

Soup to Nuts. Here's hoping MG enjoyed the "cashier" nuts which friends contributed toward a happy birthday!

Honor Report. And then there's the town girl who received a phone call during church last Sunday, and the man's voice at the other end of the wire said, "Why aren't you at church?" After an involved explanation, the voice said, "Is this 632?" "No. this is 633." "Oh, I wanted Lulabelle!"

Last Seen With Five Blondes. When Blondie was trying to make a date with one MC freshman he said, "But surely you've heard of Law, the football star of U.T.?" "Heard of Law," she cooed in her sweetest molasses manner, "I haven't even heard of U. T.!"

Wanted: A Pilot, For Joan Hart's new model B-29 plane.

Penny Postcard. Dear Bill, The weather is here. Wish you were fine. Love (editorial insert). Ruth.

Orchids to You! The prettiest orchid worn on Maryville campus this week was the one decorating Barbara Blair's shoulder. Which just goes to prove John Herbert can pick flowers as well as women.

Here Lies MT. At least we hope he lies! Otherwise he's dead. This MC grad, '44, wrote back, "If anybody asks about me, tell them I died November 12."

We just asked. Where do we address the daisies?

Pastor's Assistants? (Or tongue twister?) Any-how one professor on the hill was telling his class last week about the Lazy Aid in a church he used to serve.

Want Ad Department: Have you entered your guess at the bookstore on the meaning of the big ad hanging just southeast of Polly's head? They would have us believe that it advertises Poster Cards, but students to date have had other ideas. Some read the ad like this: sticker cards, trunker cards, stumper cards, polar cards, logger cards, wooder cards, and firecracker cards. But don't turn up your nose at that car of uncertain but ancient vintage—it's a $3900 model, with a communication system so the back-seat driver can direct the front seat driver from the rear more conveniently.

It Could Happen to You. Did you hear what happened to Hope? She went to turn off the heat in the book store and the radiator! (A card of sympathy arrived next day from Pete's table.)

Predestined? What librarian wouldn't agree with the one who said, after spending a day sorting the papers and books accumulated in the college book store attic , "I am convinced of one thing—the Presbyterians print too much!"

Dedicated to YOU.

When two lovely lips are upturned to your own,

And there's no one to gossip about it,
Do you pray for endurance to leave them alone?
Maybe you do, but I doubt it!

Anniversary. Jim Martin's moustache celebrated its first monthly anniversary this week, with cake and candles at the dining hall and cards from interested friends.

Chatter: And then there's the stock phrase of the two gals who turn up late at the Chatterbox—"But the library lights are still on!"

First Aid: And CT didn't get that "shiner" after all—thanks to Shine.

Just so many things have changed with the times, the meaning of Thanksgiving seems to have changed to many of us. Thanksgiving Day was originally a day set aside for expressing to God appreciation for His goodness to us. Yet, how many of us think of it in this way? Do we stop to express our gratitude or do we merely jump to the idea of a holiday with more food to eat than usual?

Yes, it is true that we may wonder at times what we do have to be thankful for. The world is in such a turmoil that at times it is hard to stop to be thankful even for existence. We Do have many things to be thankful for—not just for the one day set aside to express gratitude, but at all times. We should observe a thanksgiving season the year around. That is not in the sense of observing a holiday, but in showing our appreciation at all times.

We don't like to have the picture brought to our minds of the starving people of the war-torn countries. It is unpleasant to think of and to visualize. But it is reality. How fortunate we are that we are not faced with such conditions! We have ample food, warm clothing, and security of shelter. It is the everyday and commonplace things like these that we overlook. Somebody is responsible for our security. It isn't just a "happen so't.

Thanksgiving brings to mind the "Four Freedoms"—freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom from fear, and freedom from want.

Just to be an American means that we worship according to our own desires and beliefs. No one says for us how we shall worship and to what extent. We are free to worship God according to our own hearts and minds and to read the Bible as our scripture instead of the life of some fanatical dictator.

We say what we like; we print what we like. America is a democracy and one person is at will to express his own opinion just as freely as another is. We decide by popular vote who shall lead us but it is our decision to chose our directors. How many other countries enjoy this same privilege?

Perhaps we do want trivial luxuries we can't enjoy because of the war. But how insignificant these wants are! We have far more than the necessities for living.

In a sense we do have fear. We fear in a different manner than do the people of other countries. They fear their rulers—their entire surroundings. It is a feeling of insecurity. They don't know at what moment life itself will be destroyed.

That is their fear, but because of our love for others we fear. We want assurance for their safety. That is impossible now but we can help to bring about their safety if we cooperate as we are asked to do. That is the method by which we can express our gratefulness to them. At this Thanksgiving season, let's stop to recall the true meaning of the word and not merely express those thanks on the day set aside for the purpose but 365 days of the year.

Student Council Revises Town Night Proposal

Revision of the "Town Night" Proposal has been the most important business of the Student Council recently. The changes made in the proposal were minor ones. They included a modification of the offenses and the penalties; that is, different offenses are to have different penalties now, rather than all having the same penalty as it has been previously. Along with this was a rewording of certain parts in order to make the meaning clearer.

This revised version of the proposal has already been passed by the Student Council, the Student Faculty Senate, the Executive Committeee of the faculty, and the Student body. Therefore it is now in effect. The revised proposal is as follows:

Preamble

"The proposal hereby submitted grows out of a need for a better rounded social program, the primary purpose of which is to promote a more normal campus life through the extension of social privileges. The plan provides for students to visit town and to attend worthwhile movies.

Plan

In a "Town Night" proposal the Student Council has suggested that special privileges be given to all members of the student body to visit specified areas in the City of Maryville on one night each week to be designated by the Student Council.

Responsibility

The Student Council is to assume the responsibility of carrying out the plan and enforcing the terms. These special privileges are to be effective only as long as the student body is willing to cooperate fully with the Student Council and Executive Council of the faculty. The student body is to signify its willingness to recognize the authority of the Student Council by a vote of approval of the plan.

Provisions

The suggested provisions of the proposal are as follows:

1. The special privileges are effective on Tuesday nights on which no all-campus function has been scheduled.
   It shall be the duty of the faculty committee on scheduling of activities to designate which Tuesday night activities are to be considered all-campus.
2. Couples and groups of three or more girls or mixed groups are eligible for the privilege, and must remain in such groups at all times.
3. Before going to town all girls must sign out in their dormitories, and sign in when they return.
4. The privilege goes into effect immediately after supper on the specified night. Ten o'clock is the time limit with penalty being applied at ten-fifteen. Aim at 10:00 p. m., not 10:15. The fifteen minute allowance should be thought of only as an emergency measure. Full penalty will be imposed after 10:15.
5. Definite boundaries and limits are to be observed:
   Court and College Streets are the only streets to be used going to and from town. Start out and remain on the same street until you reach Broadway.
   In town, the north and south limits are the bowling alley and the theaters. The east and west boundaries are Broadway and Harper Street (Bus Station.)
   Sanctioned restaurants and drug stores can be visited.
   Students must walk directly from their dormitories to town and back into the dormitories.
   There shall be no loitering whatsoever.
6. The usual rules of the college and restrictions of residential districts and campus areas are to be observed.

Penalties

It shall be the duty of the Student Council to recommend the following penalties:

A. Two demerits and the suspension of the privilege for the remainder of the semester for
   1. Being out of bounds,
   2. Failure to be in groups of the specified number at all times.
   3. Going to town when the privilege has been suspended.
B. One demerit and suspension of the privilege for the remainder of the semester for
   1. Overstaying the privilege,
   2. Loitering.
C. Suspension of the privilege for the remainder of the semester for breaking college rules and regulation.
D. Suspension of the privilege for four weeks for
   1. Failure to sign out,
   2. Failure to sign in.

The Executive Council may inflict more severe penalties at its discretion."

It is to be noted that this whole plan is as yet merely a "proposal", and it will not become a part of the college rules and regulations until the student body has satisfactorily demonstrated to the Executive Council that the plan will work successfully.

Girls End Soccer Season As Basketball Practice Takes The Spot Light

Basketball practice is the center of interest for the Point System girls at the present time. Having completed the soccor season, the girls will practice basketball for the two remaining weeks before Christmas vacation and for a short time after Christmas before any games will be scheduled between the "Chillies" and the "Howies".

The champion soccor team, "Howies", were defeated November 14 by the "Chillies" by the score of 3-1. This game does not affect the championship because the "Howies" had already won three out of four games.

The starting line-ups for the two teams for this game were as follows:

Forwards—Lorraine Shoup
Evelyn Anderson, Janet Stevenson
Halfbacks—Martha Edgerton, Elsie Jean Cotton, Kay Stout, Mgr.
Fullbacks—Nancy Russell, capt. May Short
Wings—Ruth Williams, Joy Stewart
Goalie—Anna Rose Clinkman
Howies
Forwards—Jerry Wimberley
Carol Gillette, "Soapie" Bernardini
Halfbacks—Rosalind Garges
Loretta Nunn, Betsy Burleigh
Fullbacks—Juanita Hinson, Hannah Duke
Wings—Gwen Greenlee, Mildred Jones
Goalie—Lillian Thinschmidt

Lorraine Shoup, scoring two points, and Evelyn Anderson, making one point, accounted for the three scores of the "Chillies". Carol Gillette kicked the ball across the goal line once for the credit of the "Howies".

Reserves who saw action for the "Chillies" were Merle Henderson, Carol Fuller, Edith DeLaney, and Marion Henderson. Louise Corbett and Carol Gillette were the substitutes for the "Howies."

Officials for the game were: referee, Ruth King Wood; umpire, Mrs. Verton Queener; time keeper, Lottie Lavender.

They Say.....

By LONNIE RICHARDT

Both "pro" and "con" sides to singing in the dining hall have been voiced most heatedly since the last issue of the Echo, in which appeared a feature article on conduct in the dining hall. To find out the general campus-wide feeling on the subject, we asked the following question of various students:

—What do you think of singing in the dining hall?

JACK SCOTT, senior — Some types of singing are all right, but when it goes to the extremes, I don't think we should have it.

EDITH EARLE, sophomore — Super! Variety is the spice of life.

FRED WILSON, freshman — Personally, I like it. I think it makes things friendlier, and it doesn't seem to bother anybody's digestion.

JANE HAYS, senior—I think it's all right as long as it isn't carried to extremes.

BOB DOCKENDORF, sophomore —There is a limit. I think some of the tables have gone too far.

MARTHA EDGERTON, freshman—I think it's a grand tradition, especially when the fellows sing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" when someone gets engaged.

BYRON SPRAGUE, senior — I approve of it. Singing aids the digestion. E. Stanley Jones says that when you're happy, your body functions adequately. Singing is a sign of happiness.

KAY STOUT, sophomore— A certain amount is all right, but this "mustache" stuff and "happy haircut" are ridiculous!

BILL ROBERTS, junior— Personally, I miss "Happy Birthday to Rusty," but as far as this "happy haircut" business is concerned . . . I think we ought to cut down on a lot of it; it seems more like a summer camp than a dining hall.

Conclusion? We suppose there can't be a definite one drawn, unless we are particularly fond of having our inquisitive head well bruised. We can tell you merely what "they say . . ."

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL TEAMS TO TANGLE THANKSGIVING MORNING

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Two all-star touch football teams are scheduled to meet in the football classic of the year (at Maryville) at 10:30 a. m. on November 30, our Thanksgiving holiday. These two teams have been organized from the players who participated in the Intramural football program, and the sole purpose in the dividing of the players into these two teams was to have two strong teams as equally balanced in power as possible. So a very close game is expected.

The squads have been named the Scotties and the Highlanders. Personnel of the squads is as follows:

"Scotties"	"Highlanders"
Grubbs	Kemp
House	Cardella
Parkinson	Heuser
Houdeshel	Brown
Cover	McGarity
Seel	Seymour
Wilson	Thompson
Henry	Asher
Kirstein	Leister

Leonard Schieber and John Benninati have been selected to do the refereeing and umpiring respectively. Due to serve as linesmen, timer, and scorer are Ruth Broadhead, Joy Stewart and Kay Stout.

The participants have cordially invited all who wish to be spectators at this inspiring game to come on out and see it.

Due to the end of this semester the Intramural staff has decided not to have the basketball schedule until after Christmas. However, there are plans for those interested in basketball to get Intramural points by practicing on certain scheduled afternoons.

Pumpkin . . . . Turkey . . (?) . . . Cranberry Sauce . . . . . Thanksgiving

by LONNIE RICHARDT

Pumpkin— turkey— cranberry sauce — Thanksgiving. Whether you celebrated that esteemed day this week or intend to be stubborn like the rest of us and celebrated it next, I suppose it's all the same as for as our earth-bound (joke) ancestors are concerned. Besides, they don't have much to say about it anyway.

You see, a long time ago—long before the Highland Echo . . . or even Maryville College, as far as that goes . . . was begun . . some fellows that history books refer to as Pilgrims set aside one day of the year as a special day of thanks for the harvests they harvested. (This was before the A. A.A.)

Pilgrim men, they say, were particularly fond of buckles; they wore buckles on their high crowned hats, buckles on their shoes, and . . . of all things . . . buckles on their belts. Pilgrim women, as I remember them from the time I was supposed to be one in a grammar school play, wore unusually uncomfortable bonnets and long, heavy skirts of the same characteristic.

On a long -awaited day in November, 1621, the men took their queer looking guns— they went hunting for the wild turkeys in the forests. That has always seemed like a waste of time, energy, and gunpowder to me; it seems as if it would have been much simpler to buy the turkeys from some New England turkey farm, doesn't it? But I guess the Pilgrims were poor or maybe they just like to hunt.

The women-folk stayed at home and cooked the dinner of such things as cranberires, sweeet potatoes, corn, squash, and other such materials. (At least, I suppose that's what they cooked, why else would we celebrate the day by having these edibles?) This was before women had professional careers, too, unbelieveable as that may seem. Imagine a gray-clad Pilgrim woman typing "Dear, Sir. Thou hast not completed thy order of November 24 . . ."!

My history books have always said that the Pilgrims invited Indians to the Thanksgiving feast. That is the silliest thing I've ever heard! Why should Pilgrims, who were supposedly very thrifty, invite guests who probably devour d as much or more than relatives?

Incidently, about this matter of Indians—they have always been a race of much concern to me. How their wives could stand them, I can't understand. When they were on the war path, they painted themselves so hideously that they probably scared a year's growth out of their children; it's a wonder Indian papooses ever grew into anything but scrawniness. On the other hand, when the Indians were in a peaceful mood, they stank up their wives' tents and probably got the lien tattle-tale gray with their horrible peace pipes which they continually smoked; without the modern improvements of tobacco, they could have done nothing else, of course.

Something that has always peeved me (I'm just full to the brim with gripes and peeves on this Thanksgiving supject, you see) is the fact that the "Horns of Plenty" on the tables are always pictured filled with oranges, bananas, figs, and such for this first Thanksgiving. I suppose tht the Pilgrim mothers sent their children on last minute errands to Florida or California or even to the Far East so that their tables would look like the painters were going to paint them.

But now all the Pilgrims are dead, I think, and they've left the celebration of this esteemed day pretty much to us. Since President Lincoln's time, the day has been proclaimed by each president usually as the last Thursday of November. On that day, a goodly portion of the American people stuff themselves with turkey and all the trimmings. (This fact accounts for the name some people give the day, I suppose—"Seltzer-giving") Seriously, though, this year, Thanksgiving wil find the world still in chaos and our brothers still overseas fighting for us. Let's make November 30 not only a day of thanks to God for the many blessings he has given us, but also a day of prayer to God for the sailors, soldiers, marines all over the world, for a hasty end to this war, for a lasting peace . . . this Thanksgiving.

C. E. Cathey Was College Vespers Speaker Nov. 19

Rev. C. E. Cathey of Nashville, Tennessee, was the speaker at Vespers Sunday, November 19. He is a member of the Board of Directors here and the Field Director for the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education in the Synod of the South.

A former Maryville Student, Mr. Cathey said that the spirit and standards of the institution were the same as they were during the time that he was here and that Maryville students were rendering a service throughout the places that he has been.

His topic was taken from Keats, and was, "A Thing of Beauty". He said that there is something challenging in the beauty of a painting, or in music. But still more important and more challanging is the beauty of a spiritual life. Paul told the Christians at Philippi that "Whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things be of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think of these things." of these things."

He said, "We need fixed standards in our lives. Those standards come only through one who said, 'I am the Truth'. Standards must be upheld. God gives us opportunities for development and turns the key over to us. Living the Christian life should help us to get along with ourselves and others."

The choir sang FROM GRIEF TO GLORY, part 2, by Christiansen, and MUSIC OF LIFE.

Theta Epsilon Postpones Gay Nineties Review

Theta Epsilon's "Gay Nineties Review", originally scheduled for Saturday, November 18, was postponed indefinitely because of the inability to heat the gymnasium where the program was to be held. The Review, to be presented sometime during 1944 in celebration of Theta's fiftieth anniversary, is under Kay Bonner, general chairman.

Theta's program committee is now selecting a play to be produced by the whole organization after the Christmas holidays. A committee was also selected to take orders for Theta pins, and white gabardine crew hats on which there is a Theta emblem.

PRE-MED CLUB

Dr. Susan A. Green, professor of biology, presented a paper on socialized medicine at Pre-Med club Thursday night, November 23. After her presentation of the purposes and plans of socialized medicine., Millie Cundiff and Mickie Deerman led a panel discussion on the matter. Miss Cundiff headed the "pro" side, while Miss Deerman took the "con". The panel discussion was then thrown open for general participation. The meeting was held in the chemistry lecture room in Fayerweather at 6:35.

Miss Dorothy Thompson, R. N. from Doctors' Hospital, was scheduled to speak to the group last Thursday, but her engagement had to be cancelled when she was assigned to a special case.

Find A Direction For Your Life
Dr. J. M. Cotton Tells MC Audience

"Save yourself from this untoward generation" from Peter's sermon on Pentecost was the central theme of the chapel address given last Wednesday by Jarvis M. Cotton, D.D. as he stressed the need of finding a direction for our lives. He deplored the running around in circles without direction. Rev. Dr. Cotton, formerly minister of the Waverley Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, is now Vice-president of Western Theological Seminary there. An alumnus of Maryville College, he spoke here last year.

The speaker made clear the fact that Christianity was not identified as such in the early church. Men were following the Way which distinguished itself by their forgiving one another, refusing to hate anyone and finding a love for their fellowmen. As he stated, "Their whole direction in life lay in a Way which they found in Jesus". Mr. Cotton found three points in early apostolic preaching which clarified their beliefs: all prophecies were fulfilled in the advent of Jesus, the setting forth of all belonging to Jesus' life, teachings, death and resurrection, and finally the power of forgiveness.

As encouragement, Mr. Cotton pointed out that the "mental climate has been changed in this war by Christianity" and that we are moving towards a "unity cemented by Christian friendships" and a "finer evangelism through which this damaged world can be healed by the one cure. . . . . Christ."

FACULTY

of welcome pointed out that when the Twenty-Five Year Club originated in December of 1940, there were eight members of the faculty or staff who had served Maryville College for twenty-five years or longer. They were, in order of their seniority: Mrs. West, Miss Green, Mr. Proffitt, Mr. Walker, Mr. Brown, Miss Jewell, Mr. Ellis, and Mrs. Wrinkle. Since that date, the club has lost from its fellowship Mr. Proffitt by death, Mr. Ellis by retirement, and this year Miss Jewell by illness.

Since that first public recognition of the attainment of twenty-five years of service to Maryville College, five more have passed the twenty-five year mark. They are Dr. Davis, who has now served twenty-eight years; Mr. Ralph W. Irwin, twenty-seven years; Mr. James I. Irwin, twenty-six years; Miss Henry, twenty-six years; and Dr. Hunter, twenty-six years.

In the entire 125 years of Maryville College history there are only twenty-five persons who have served on the faculty or staff as much as twenty-five years. This number includes Miss Caldwell who retired in 1936 after thirty-seven years of service, and Mr. Ellis who retired in 1943 after thirty years of service. Both hold Emeritus positions. The ten who are no longer living are: the founder and first president, Dr. Isaac Anderson; the second founder after the Civil War, Professor Lamar; and Dr. Barnes, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Snodgrass, Miss Clemens, Miss Coulter, Mr. Proffitt, Dr. Wilson, and Dr. Stevenson. Dr. Wilson's service of forty-six years is the longest. Mrs. West's service of forty years is now second in length.

Dr. Lloyd closed by pointing out the fine combination of energy and stability of Maryville College.

"Cradle Song" Presented By Theta Alpha Phi

"Cradle Song" was presented by Theta Alpha Phi Saturday, November 11, in Voorhees Chapel under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art. This was the first major dramatic production of the year. Tickets were sold to 342 persons bringing a profit of $35.92, and this money will be used to purchase additional stage equipment.

The cast of characters for "Cradle Song" was as follows: Sister Sagrario, Esther Farrow; Sister Marcella, Thelma Richardson; The Prioress, Dorothy Lehman; Sister Joanna of the Cross, Mary Dawn Noblit; the Mistress of Novices, Dorothy Toomey; the Vicaress, Nancy Russell; Sister Torneara, Miriam Bowditch; Sister Inez, Margaret Cross; Sister Maria Jesus, Bette Lou McCoy; the Doctor, Joseph Brown: Teresa, Ellen Pascoe; Antonio, Edward Gates. Acting as the poet during the interlude which marked a passing of 13 years was Shirley Scott.

Assistant to the director was Virginia Miller. William Cover, assisted by Robert Seel, was the stage manager. The stage crew consisted of Willis Pribble. Edith Earle, Joe Henry, and Leonard Schieber.

The business manager was Olinde Aherns, who was assisted by James Withrespoon. Lois Collett, publicity manager, had as her committee Carol Gillette, Kay Bonner, and Byron Sprague. Rebecca Davis and Shirley Scott were responsible for the properties. Marion Fershee had charge of the costumes and Owen McGarity was the electrician. John Houdeshel, Mary Evelyn Jamison, Robert Dockendorf, Jeanne Blanchard, Robert Whitford, and Betty Anne Showalter ushered at the program.

Writer's Workshop

Miss Jessie Johnson, assistant professor of English, Jane Short, and Ruth Freeman will be the readers at the regular meeting of the Writer's Workshop Wednesday, November 29 at 4:30 o'clock in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom. Miss Jessie Heron, assistant professor of English, June Gowenlock and Edelmira P. Pino are scheduled for critics.

In the Writer's Workshop meeting Wednesday, November 22, Dr. E. R. Hunter, professor of English, submitted an original story entitled "The Runaway" which was based on the old Biblical story of Jonah and written in modernistic style. Robert Whitford read five poems of Greek subject matter characterizing the styles of five modern poets. He also read another original poem. Edward Gates and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, were critics.

Miss Jessie Heron, June Gowenlock and E. Pino were readers at the Workshop meeting November 15. Miss Heron submitted an original story entitled "Week-end guest"; Miss Gowenlock read some Indian legends in poetic prose; Miss Pino gave a Spanish translation. Critics were Carol Titus, Betty Lou McCoy, and Dorothy Lehman.

EIGHT SENIORS ELECTED TO WHO'S WHO

I. R. C. Ends Semester's Work With Social

Horace Eugene Orr, D.D., Professor of Religion and Philosophy, will be the speaker at the meeting of the International Relations Club Monday night, December 4. His talk on Basic Conditions for World Peace will be followed by general discussion.

This will conclude a semester's consideration of post-war problems and world peace. The meeting on December 11, in charge of the social committee, will be the annual Christmas party.

Ralph Thomas Case, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Sociology, spoke to IRC members last Monday about the Presbyterian World Order Movement. The Presbyterian Church is participating in the program of the Federal Council of Churches, who hope to have peace interest reflected in the peace decisions that are made for the post-war world. Dr. Case outlined World Order Sunday on November 12, sixty conferences held throughout the country on how to promote world peace, one such conference to he held in Knoxville on December 13. In the spring there will be a series of study groups organized in communities through the churches, on the problems of the right world order, followed by a program of action to promote the principles decided upon.

Former Student Gains Fame, Recognition

Ralph Douglas Steakley of Jefferson, Ohio, captain in the Army Air Corps, and Maryville Graduate was cited and presented with the Distinguished Flying Cross. As pilot of the "Tokyo Rose", Steakley was the first man to fly a super-fortress over Tokyo.

Steakley made his debut on Maryville College campus in 1938 and distinguished himself in many ways during the four years that he attended the college, graduating May, 1941. For three years he was a member of the ECHO staff, and part of that time, served as sports editor. During his junior year, he edited the CHILHOWEAN. Active in athletics, he took part in track and basketball, was elected to the Hi-Trail, the Board of Athletic Control, and Sigma Delta Psi—national athletic fraternity. Steakley also was President of the Senior Class, a May-Day attendant when a sophomore, and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

When arrangements were made for college men to study aviation under the direction of the War Department, Steakley was one of the men from Maryville to study at the local airport. On October 31, 1941, he graduated as a cadet at Randolph Field, Texas, and about two months later, he received his wings at Victoria, Texas.

Then, on the first day of November, 1944, he and his crew successfully completed the mission necessary in order to obtain information for future raids. The citation stated: "The crew returned with photographs of enemy terrain and installations hitherto unobtainable and with weather observations and other technical information, thereby making a major contribution to the success of the war against Japan."

Miss Alice Wine Critically Ill

Miss Alice Wine, former head of McLain Memorial Hall, is still in critical condition following an operation performed last week at Mercy hospital in Denver, Colorado.

This is the third operation Miss Wine has undergone since June, when she first became ill. An operation at that time was necessary to remedy certain digestive disorders. The second operation in mid-July and the last one were brought on by complications following the first.

Since last May, Miss Wine has been living with her sister at her home in Denver.

Joint Y. Service Thanksgiving Day

Rev. C. P. Hardin, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, was the speaker at the Thanksgiving service held in Bartlett auditorium last Thursday morning. He used as his theme I Thessalonians 5:18, "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

William Robarts read the scripture and lead in prayer. Patricia Ames sang "We Gather Together." The singing was led by John Houdeshel, with Mary Evelyn Jamison at the piano.

This was the annual Thanksgiving service planned jointly by the YMCA and YWCA organizations.

Peggy Caldwell and Joe Brown Reign as King and Queen of Barnwarming

The significance of this year's Barnwarming theme, "Open Sesame", was revealed Thursday night, November 30, 1944, when, at 7:30 scores of guests poured through the doors of the Alumni Gymnasium into the Enchanted Forest of Never Never Land. The program was built around the adventures of two capricious little girls, Lottie Lavender and Ruth Lloyd, who had been tucked into bed by their unsuspecting mother, Thelma Richardson, only to be lured away to Fairy Land by the Pied Piper, who was represented by Max House. There they met old friends from their picture books as favorite old nursery rhymes came to life in a startling new manner. Miss Sibyl Talent, as the Fine Lady, sang "Zigeuner" at their request.

The presentation of the royal court was the high light of the evening. Miss Lois Thomas from Russelville, Ala., was the freshman class sponsor. The sophomore class was represented by Mrs. Lynn Mathews a religious education major from Wilmington, Dela. The junior class elected Miss Louise Corbett, a Spanish major from Jacksonville, Florida to represent them. Miss Dorothy Brown was presented as the senior class sponsor. She is a biology major and hails from Eddington, Pennsylvania.

Miss Peggy Caldwell who was chosen by the student body, was Queen of the Fairies, and Mr. Joseph Brown was elected King. Miss Caldwell, a sociology major, is from Tallahassee, Florida. Mr. Brown, who is a ministerial student, comes from Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania.

After paying homage to Their Majesties, the two eager children met Mary Quite Contrary, portrayed by Miss Shirley Scott. Jay Bishop as Peter Pumpkin Eater, bemoaning his lack of luck and love, sang "Paper Doll". Nan Wooster blew her horn in true Boy Blue fashion. Jane Short was an aging Bo Peep who wandered forlornly throughout the evening in search of her sheep.

Little Miss Muffet, alias Miss Jean Balsh, did a rhythmical tap dance. Winkum, Blinkum, and Nod, or Miss Peggy Howell, Miss Betty Hall, and Miss Joan Hart, dressed in appropriate costumes, sang "Night and Day" and "Goodnight Wherever You Are." Kay Stout was Lucy Locket on skates, and she skimmed around seemingly without concern over her locket.

"Milkman, Keep Those Bottles Quiet!" was sung by Miss Kay Bonner, the Pretty Milk Maid. Ruth Broadhead told her version of "The Old Woman in the Shoe" —a la Joisey. An impressive Old King Cole was Jim Martin as he commanded his three fiddlers, Fay Cameron, Sunny Campbell, and Ester Cornelius to play "The Day After Forever."

The "Y" cabinets presented a skit entitled "Lady Bluebird", who must have been a sister to Mr. Bluebeard. The scene opened as her third husband-victim, Edward Gates, was losing his head. Rebecca Davis took the title role and was supported by a cast including Jack Houdeschell, the fourth husband, Beanie Bellerjeau, Skippy Jamison, her little girl, Thelma Richardson, a lawyer (?), and John Kirstein, and By Sprague, the other bodyless husbands. The remainder of the Y.W. cabinet made up the curtain, which sang appropriate numbers as the drama unfolded.

The Three Men in a Tub were Squire Kemp, Owen MacGarity, and Tommie Parkinson, who sang a medley of Washday Blues. Miss Betty Tufvander played variations on the piano in honor of the Mary who once had a little lamb, but who is now in the Waves. Jack Spratt, Bob DuBois, accompanied by Mrs. Spratt, Josie Hall, swoon crooned through "Shoo Shoo, Baby", "This Love of Mine", and "I'll Be Seeing You" to the audible delight of the bobby sock crowd. The Henderson twins as a History 213, Latin American History, will be repeated in the second semester because of aroused current interest in inter-American relations, by Mr. J. H. Kiger.

Home Economics, 207, Home Handicraft, which offers materials and techniques of construction for various household and personal articles, consists of five units: knitting, crocheting, weaving, embroidery, and tapestry stitching, and lace-making, and will be taught by Miss G. E. Meiselwitz.

Mathematics 204e, Plane Surveying, open to freshmen who have had Plane Triginometry, is being offered after a lapse of one year by Dr. Augustus Sisk.

Registration For Spring Semester Begins This Week

Registration for the second semestere, 1944-1945, will begin on Monday, December 4. The schedule is as follows:

Seniors will register December 4, 5, and 6.

Juniors will register December 7, 8, and 9 until noon.

Sophomores will register December 14, 15 16 and 18.

Freshman schedule will usually be a continuation of the Registration.

Any necessary changes in schedule after registration will be made on January 22.

Before registering, seniors, juniors and sophomores should be made out tentative schedule cards for next semester, checking carefully with the requirements as listed in the Student's Record booklet which they should have. Subjects now being carried should be listed in the booklet. The Student's Record should be shown to their major advisors who will check and approve the tentative schedule. Schedule card and Student's Record should be returned to the Personnel Office during the time of registration listed above.

Freshman schedules will usually be a continuation of the first semester courses. Necessary changes will be made at the time of registration. Freshmen should call for their cards at the Personnel Office during the time indicated above.

Students must register at the Personnel Office within the time specified for their class, in order to avoid payment of the late registration fee of $2.50. A student who will change classification at mid-year should register within the period designated for the class in which he will be next semester.

Registration of all students now in attendance is required before the close of the first semester, according to the above schedule. Registration cards, after being filled out and approved are to be left at the Personnel Office. Those who wish to pay bills before the holiday vacation, may do so at the Treasurer's Office during regular student hours. The regular time for payment of bills at the Treasurer's Office will be from 9:00 to 11:30 each morning and from 3:30 to 4:30 each afternoon, January 17-19 (Wednesday through Friday) for those who did not register before the holiday vacation. Registration cards will be on file at the Treasurer's Office during

Handel's Messiah To Be Presented Sunday, Dec. 17

Richard W. Vine To Direct Chorus Of 175 Voices

Sunday, December 17 the twelfth annual college presentation of Handel's Messiah will be given in Voorhees Chapel beginning at three o'clock. Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music and director of the choir will be in charge.

The soloists will be announced in the next issue of the Highland Echo.

In addition to the soloists there will be a supporting chorus of approximately 175 voices, composed of the college choir, the men's and women's glee clubs, students of the college, and members of the faculty and community.

This year for the ninth time Miss Garnet Manges will play the piano accompaniment. For the sixth time the organist will be Miss Katherine C. Davies, professor of music. Miss Fay Cameron, sophomore from Detroit, will be concert mistress.

The oritorio ws first presented at Maryville in 1932 under the direction of Miss Frances Henry, then instructor in voice and director of the choir. In 1938 Ralph R. Colbert succeeded Miss Henry as director and was succeeded in turn in 1942 by Richard W. Vine who conducted the tenth anniversary presentation. Philip O. Jones directed the Messiah last year during Mr. Vine's absence.

About 65 per cent of the full oritorio will be given.

Is The 50 Percent Saved Worth It? Ask The Man Who's Tried It!

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

How many days until December 19? Are there any freshmen on the Hill who don't know? Or is that being fair . . . perhaps I should say find some one who doesn't. Inhabitants of second floor Pearsons have a daily guide on the door of room 10. The enterprising girls who live inside have a chart with removable dates to keep passersby informed that there are but seventeen more days until vacation begins and eighteen more for Christmas shopping.

When we're that near to going home, our minds although remembering the impending doom (?) of exams find some time to think about those vehicles of transportation which will take us home: namely, busses and trains. Let's go traveling!

"Circumstances beyond our control" find many of us bound for Mother's cooking by bus. We debate a choice of seats, if there be any to choose from. The gang travelling together must not be separated, for nobody is going to sleep on this bus tonight. (That's the way we feel now: our exams are behind us.) After the first half hour of songs and banter, it is quite a revelation to view the facial expressions of our fellow-passengers. Uncle Sam's men have joined in and seem glad to have some way of shortening their trip. That aristocratic couple across the aisle seem a bit annoyed, that is, she does. He looks rather amused. Let's listen to Mary. She is off again!

"Now, I don't mind sitting with strange men, but when it comes to creatures like those last two—well, me for the grandmothers."

"Why, what's the matter, didn't Grandpa suit?"

"Grandpa is right: he was only 97, bleary-eyed, tobacco-stained wearing a greasy old suit. What a specimen and so solicitous that I finally resorted to questions to keep him from my family history! An old widower, he decided he needed somebody to cook and clean for him, so he 'looked him up a woman he knew. Six months later "we were jined". But his successor—"

"Come now, Mary, we saw that sergeant admiring your ring."

"What a line. You'd think he thought I was dumb. Headed for a camp in the Ozarks, his strange philosophy was 'the best thing in Recognition Given To Brown, Bellerjeau, Gates, Henry, Keirn, Lehman, Peterson, And McClure

Eight members of the Maryville College senior class are included in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1944-1945, it has been announced by individual notes to selectees. They are Jeanne Bellerjeau, Joseph Brown, Edward Gates, Louise Henry, Marcia Keirn, Dorothy Lehman, Margaret McClure and Agnes Peterson.

Nearly fifteen years ago, the idea of creating a national basis of recognition for outstanding students, devoid of politics, iniation fees, and dues, was conceived. Two years of research, correspondence, travel, and interviews resulted in the first publication of the volume, entitled Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1934-1935.

The publication has a two-fold purpose: first, to serve as an outstanding honor in which a deserving student, after displaying merit in college and accomplishing his goals, would be given recognition without having to pay some fee; second, to establish a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of America's leading college students.

Character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society are the requisites for membership. Any senior, junior, or student in advanced work is eligible for the honor.

Colleges differ in their methods of selection of students for this honor. A committee under some college executive makes the nominations in most colleges. Other colleges employ a committee consisting of both students and faculty members.

Necessarily, a great many changes have become evident in the book in the past few years because of the war. Each college is allowed representatives on the percentage basis; Maryville College was allowed only eight members tihs year in contrast with the twelve of a few years ago.

JEANNE VOORHEES BELLERJEAU, Bible and religious education major from Haddon Heights, New Jersey, is president of Student Vols, treasurer of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, secretary of the governing board of Writers Workshop, vice-president of Bainonian, a student council representative, and a member of "M" Club. She was a member of Point System in her sophomore and junior years, and last year, a member of Writers Workshop, Student Council, Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, Student Vols Cabinet, and Bainonian program chairman.

JOSEPH MATTHEW BROWN, from Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania, is a pre-ministerial history major and will graduate this semester. Recently crowned Barnwarming King, Brown is Y.M.C.A. president, a member of the Student-Faculty Senate, Athenian, Ministerials, and Student Vols. An honor roll and Student Council member for the past three years, he had a part in Cradle Song this fall, which was presented by Theta Alpha Phi. He was Intramural Manager in his sophomore year, was a member of the Y.M.C.A. Cabinet in his second and third years; he was on the Student Vols Cabinet in his second year also; of which he became president last year. This past summer, Brown attended Juniata College in Huntingdon, Pennsylvania; he plans to enter Western Theological Seminary after graduation this month.

JOHN EDWARD GATES, English major from Maryville, Tennessee, vice-president of Student Council and secretary of Y.M.C.A., has been on the honor roll during his four years here. Gates is chairman of the Governing Board of Writers Workshop and a member of the choir and Student Volunteers. He was in the recent Cradle Song. Gates was president of the Student Council this summer and Editor of the "M" Book and Student Council representative last year. He has been a member of Writers Workshop for the past two years and was in French Club

JOHN SHELL ELECTED HEAD OF ATHENIAN

Officers for next semester were selected at the meeting of Athenian Saturday night, December 2, held in Bartlett Hall. Those elected to office are: John Shell, president; John Houdeshel, vice president; Tom Horst, secretary; and Tommy Parkinson, treasurer.

Shell is a sophomore economics major from Pine Bluff, Arkansas. He was an active member of the society last year, being appointed chairman of the committee of continuance. This semester he has fulfilled the office of secretary.

The newly elected vice-president, Houdeshel, has been a member of Athenian for three years, this semester serving as program chairman. He is a senior English major from Branchville, Maryland.

Horst, who was chosen to be secretary, is a freshman from Trenton, New Jersey.

Parkinson, who is a sophomore history major from Memphis, Tennessee, is the treasurer.

Other business at the meeting of Athenian consisted of a discussion of the play which is to be presented next semester with Bainonian. It was decided to approve of the play which the sister society has selected.

Workshop Meets

At the regular weekly meeting of the Writers' Workshop, stories were read by Jane Short, Ruth Freeman, and Miss Elizabeth Jackson. "A Ruse" was the name of the story read by Jane Short. Ruth Freeman read "Rendezvous", and "I Burst into Print" was read by Miss Jackson.

Who's Who Members

Eight of Maryville's outstanding senior students have been chosen to represent the college in this year's edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, and congratulations should be extended to them.

It is an honor to be elected to this national recognition of students, based on character, scholarship, leadership and extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society.

Although nine students were chosen last year for this honor, and more in previous years, the smaller number is proportional to enrollment, and this selectivity maintains the high quality of the selection.

Membership in Who's Who Among Students is an appropriate climax of a student's career, summing up all the other honors, scholastic and social, that he has attained, and we extend our best wishes for the future to those Maryville students elected this year.

WHAT ABOUT THAT? Expert? Or maybe it's just the "business manager" cropping out, but John Shell won not one, not two, not three, but FOUR games of Bingo at the party last Saturday night. (And just to hold up her side, his date brings in the last win for the Tigers' side!)

KNOCK-KNEED TOO? Smiles in the first-year Latin course when she translated "Boni Leges Caesaris" as "the bony legs of Caesar."

SO THERE TOO! Scene—Baldwin living room. Time—Sunday after lunch. Kate, to Jay: "Oh, sing the ROSARY." "But I don't know it." "So I'll just go upstairs and hear John Charles Thomas then!"

PASSING BY MARYVILLE. "They have a good looking lot of boys in that girls' seminary."

HOW TIMES DO CHANGE? The bookstore attic is now yielding up its secrets of days gone by—when men were men, and women were just 50% of the population. In the 1905 edition of "So To Speak" some budding artist penciled a boy and girl holding hands, with the caption "Moonshine." Heard it before?

ALSO GLEANED FROM THE COBWEBS: If you're weary of Milton, try reading the edition recovered from the bookstore attic. Milton says (and I quote) "Lord, what fool invented kissing!" Student says (and again I quote—this time from marginal notes) "Milton is a stuff!"

DID YOU EVER SEE A DREAM WALKING? Well—maybe I didn't see this dream walking, but I heard about it. And Peggy, you'll find tickets to Washington at the railroad station—not under the bed. All aboard for home!

DEFINITIONS: Jealousy—a fear that some other fellow has just as poor taste!

SAVE THE PIECES: Absence made both their hearts grow fonder (of somebody else), so the Maryville cadet of last year wrote to suggest that he'd like to have his picture back. He has it—though he may have thought it was confetti when bits of it sifted out of her letter into his hands. But as she explained sweetly (?) in her letter, "So sorry it wouldn't fit in the envelope as it was!"

BANG! Need a magician? MD can make a hydron generator disappear—and just by touching a match to the apparatus, too.

HOW COULD YOU? Carolyn, how could you stay for a whole week-end? When last seen, he was consoling himself for his lack of "sugar" by eating his sixth dixie cup of ice cream. Nomination for the campus' happiest man Sunday night—BH. Yes, she's back!

MAIL ORDER? "Where did you get that Christmas tree?" everyone is asking the postoffice crew these days. That's a long story—an hour and a half long by your watch. It seems that Dr. Griffitts got himself out on a limb and—Oh no, wasn't going to tell that one. Anyhow, I cannot tell a lie. He did it with his little hatchet. (Said hatchet now on display in the book store.)

ESQUIRE or MADEMOISELLE (Banned reading for all green-eyed blondes) (but you fellows who'd like to know how it's done, take notes from an expert.)

My own dearest, darling, sweetheart
(fill in blank at your own discretion.)

Why didn't you tell me before? Why didn't I know? I can't express my feelings, but only say that I have felt the same way towards you for fourteen long months and four days . . . Please don't think that I am "shooting you a line" (just because this letter is written with carbon paper—ed. note), because I never could feel the same about anyone else. You are the light of my life and . . .

When I hear you talking about someone else it seems that . . .

All my love,
(Signed, sealed, and—what is more remarkable—postagé stamped!)

P.S. As for "the table", they are all pretty nice??? But would like for you to always sit beside me. I will be dreaming of you till then, my . . .

(If you see five girls at one table trying to comply with his personal request and sit down by the same lad, you can identify the writer—no, make it four girls. Rich's letter was missent to Lyons View!)

HELP! Open letter to Marcella Manners. Dear Miss Manners: What can I give her for Christmas? Even her roommate can't tell me what she wants. All suggestions greatfully received. Address reply to P. O. Box No. 319—or just to editor this paper.

OPEN BOOK

I can't conceal my crimes
I'm really quite distressed
My life's an open book
That ought to be suppressed.

THE END. And so we close, before the editor's weekly statement, "The column is too long," echoes in our ears. It takes an editor to make a long story short!

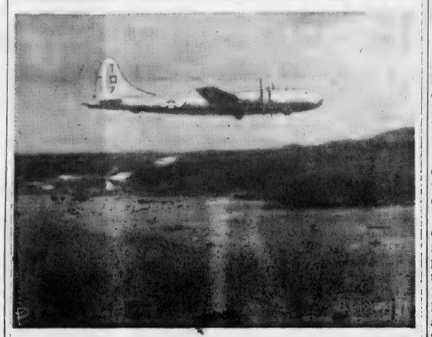
ODds and enDS

By HANNAH DUKE

The world hates a complainer. Are you guilty or doesn't this apply to you? Well, let's stop for a few minutes for self-analysis and see if we couldn't do something constructive to remedy the situation.

I suppose there'll always be something to complain about or some one who is out of harmony. That may be true but we can do something about it. Bringing this right to where it applies, are you a chronic "disagreer?" By this, we mean one of the group of students who doesn't like the rules, the courses offered, the food, the faculty members, or school in general.



It's only human nature that life just doesn't run on the smooth road to success always. Those little things that interfere make it worth struggling to attain something worthwhile. The curriculum wasn't patterned just for YOU. The program is one adapted to accomodate the needs for as large a group as possible but the majority rules in the final choices. Perhaps the courses offered don't meet your needs.. Then let's not be guity of condemning the entire schoool program just for selfish reasons. Don't make the lives of all those around us miserable because the courses don't suit you. If you can't adjust your program to that of the college, then perhaps you chose the wrong school for your educational pursuit.

The eternal question of the rules is forever of concern. It's true that we probably think they are of great inconvenience to us at times but we came to Maryville aware of its regulations and pledged our willingness to cooperate with those in charge. In recent years much progress has been made toward the assumpion of student self-government and more lenient measures are now in practice regarding social activities. When we face the facts, just how many of us would ever accomplish much in a constructive way if we didn't have some rules and regulations? Our chief purpose in coming to college is really along the academic line and not for social freedom. There are institutions that grant more privileges and those of us who can't live happily in this environment should have chosen a school of that type. The majority of students are very cooperative, so it's up to us to keep from being one of the exceptions who constantly complain.

It seems to me that if all of us would admit it, we're really not discontented at all. We realize that it is impossible for any school to maintain a normal program because conditions aren't norml. Maryville is well known for its wholesome, friendly atmosphere and we want to maintain that. Let's all do our part to make it pleasant for others by overcoming trivialities that make for unpleasantness.

After all, life is pretty much what we make it for ourselves. Search the colleges over and the chances are that the story of "Finding Happiness In Our Own Back Yards" would apply to all of us too.

Enrollment Is 436 Students For First Semester

Tennessee Leads With Pennsylvania And New Jersey Next

By MADELINE COOKE

A few statistics now and then are relished by the best of men—so here goes with a few facts and figures about ourselves.

In the first place, 36 of us have another member of the family here in school to keep an eye on us. Ruth Anderson has been introducing Maryville to her sister Evelyn this semester. Mary and Martha Barnwell are roommates in Baldwin. Marky and Luke Cross exchange letters from home, as do Kathryn and Martha Dean. Nancy Metcalf is another one of those girls who has a big sister here to show her the ropes, for she is Mary Fershee's "baby" sister. Marion and Merle Henderson have the distinction of being the only two of us who are twins. Incidentally they're the two who have that cute baby Austin car. And what would Margaret have done without Jean for her maid of honor? Audre and Marion Monteith are both busy with important correspondence. Billy and Mary Margaret Robarts try to out-sing each other in the choir, while Jane and May Short vie for grades. The Stout ranks are slimmer this year since only Eleanor and Kay are left. Beeler Thompson has Ella May to keep an eye on him. Don't look now while Phyllis Waring gives her big sister Mil some advice on the ways of the world. And not all of us are as lucky as Helen Marie, who can have a date with that big, blond brother Fred of hers every Sunday afternoon. Would it be stretching a point to call the Wright sisters and the Wood girls the long and the short of it? And of course we musn't leave out our team in the hospital—Arlene Barnes and Maxine Bel leau.

There are 436 of us here this semester. About 177 of us are greenies, 107 are yellow, 78 are golden juniors, while only 61 brown and careworn seniors have survived the years. (The sophomores may overlook the metephore. We know they're not cowardly.) As usual Tennessee can claim more of us as her children than any other state—147. Pennsylvania comes next with 60 native sons and daughters, while little New Jersey comes in third with 29. New York bring a cheer from 22 of us, although the response from Florida and North Carolina is nearly as great, for each of them is home to 21 of us. Kentucky, Georgia, Ohio, and Alabama come along in that order. The figures show that 35 states are represented this year and five foreign countries. Nellie Cuellas and Eva Toro come from Puerto Rico, and Edelmira Pino comes from Cuba not far away. Elizabeth Baird is an M.K. (missionary's kid) from Columbia. Carol Titus thinks of India as home, and Catherine Crothers grew up in Korea.

Seven of us can't get away with a thing since we have a fond parent on the faculty or staff: Mary Case, Millie Cundiff, Ed Gates, Peggy Howell, Ruth Lloyd, and Mildred Orr. Let's have a moment of silence for them.

This year we ought to add a new category to our list—those who have been able to get a permanent boy friend. Those lucky people are: Colleen Bernard, Ethel Beal, Arlene Barnes, Pam Black, Teddy Evans, Mary Fershee, Florence Gwynn, Ada Huffman, Lynn Mathews, Margaret McClure, and Edith Metheney.

This could go on indefinitely, although—

A few statistics now and then
Are relished by the best of men;
If I should rattle on some more,
I know I would become a bore.

Knoxville Pastor Speaks On Thanksgiving Theme

Roy W. Peyton, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, was the chapel speaker on Wednesday, November 29. His text was, "Bless the Lord", taken from the first verse of the 103 Psalm.

Mr. Peyton, a graduate of Tusculum and McCormick Seminary, was a pastor in Illinois before coming to Knoxville.

The 103 Psalm, he said, has a direct connection with Thanksgiving, for throughout the country, people are losing sight of the true significance of Thanksgiving. It has an origin of deep religious life in the individual. Today we are grateful for the same things that they were grateful for, but we have drifted from the faith they had. Even with two Thanksgiving Days, we are not able to truly bless the Lord.

He continued by saying that we should give thanks for the great spiritual blessings that we have received. We should spiritualize Thanksgiving as it is a great thing to remember God. Instead of saying "God Bless America" we should say, "America Bless God". The thing that has made our country great is the faith in God that our forefathers had. One hundred two of them with two ships of less than two tons had a hard voyage and a still worse winter in the new land. But not one of them were willing to turn back for they believed that God had a purpose for them. They took the Psalmist at his word—so should we.

"Not only should we thank God for the tangible gifts, but we should thank Him for the spiritual gifts. If we would stop to count them, we would discover that there are so many of them. The Psalmist thanked Him for redemption, for benefits, for healing, for crowning, and for satisfaction. Paul thanked Him for friends. There were three reasons for Paul's gratitude— enlightened hearts, rich inheritance, and adequate power."

Enlarging on these three things, he stated that many things of knowledge are still a mystery but that we know when we have faith and enthusiam and that two of the greatest drawbacks to the Christian way are spiritual dullness and illiteracy. In our soul we have so called vitamins which are enriched by faith just as we have bread enriched by vitamin B. We should give thanks for a Great Book, a Great God, a Great Salvation, and a Great Church.

"While we cannot create, we can appropriate that which we have ourselves received. These spiritual blessings should be a source of true gratitude which would make us able to say with the psalmist, 'Bless the Lord.'"

In Spite of Changing World Moderns Still Cling To Traditions

By MARY A. BEALS

Inventions add more speed to life:
Our words fly faster through the air,
And ships and trains and airplanes
All hurl us faster on—but where?

Yes, where? Modern inventions have speeded up this rolling ball of ours so much that old traditions and habits are sent whirling through space with modern ideas taking their places to keep in step with this changing world. Old conventionalties that countless generations have clung to and treasured because of their meanings and memories have undergone a complete metamorphosis in this modernistic age.

But through all this discarding and inventing several things have stood practically unchanged. Among these things are our holidays. Many say that it is only the weak who try to cling too long to any passing thing, that the strong are those who dare to do things new and different. But in the case of our holidays the majority are of the opinion that:

Although growth means constant change,
Those moderners who dare
To do things new and strange
Aren't getting anywhere.

Yes, here old times are best. For there's something about the habit forming traditions of our holidays that has a special place in our hearts which can't be filled by any new-fangled ideas. Take, for instance, the Thanksgiving Day just past—or should we say "days". Without committing myself to one side or the other, I can still truthfully say that with some eating turkey and cranberry sauce on the twenty-third and others on the thirtieth, an old tradition has been at least partially whirled away by the swiftness of this modern day.

But so be it. Let's take our Thanksgiving Day here on the campus clothed in its old traditions and compare it with an ultra-modern one robed in all the latest inventions. Well, first of all, instead of rising from our metal cots in frame dorms, here we'd be in plastic beds and solid glass dormitories. And everyone would be getting ready to go home for Thanksgiving Day instead of going to a big dinner in Pearson's dining hall. Skimming over the clouds with the propellers singing, we'd wing our way through the air in our snazzy helicopters. What dinners mothers would have waiting for us! Talking to our families over our individual sets, we'd tell them exactly what we wanted, and as we settled down on the roofs of our dear old homes, we could smell the wonderful food all ready for us. There'd be peanut loaf, vitamin pills, and beef that had been tenderized with violet ray. And for dessert we would each get a big slice of soybean pie. As we'd eat, every once in a while we'd stop long enough to bewail the generations before us who were so aged and slow, poor things. Why just think, the dietitions and cooks went to days of trouble buying and preparing, so that the students could have baked hen, dressing, gravy, celery, cranberry sauce, potatoes, peas, mince-meat pie and ice cream. Why, all our mothers had to do was order another bottle of vitamin pills, and think of all the time that was saved.

Does all this sound preposterous? So did dreams and imaginations fifty years ago that today have become common-place realities. Yes, this old world of ours is breaking age-old precedents as it whirls along. But let her whirl. Let old traditions slip away into space when we are sure the things that rise to take their places are definite improvements. If we aren't sure, let's be old fogies for a while longer, huh?

French Club Has Formal Program

Plans were drawn up and committees were appointed to arrange the French club formal program at the last business meeting on November 23 at 6:45 p.m. in the Y rooms. The entertainment is set for Thursday, December 7, in the Y rooms. All members of the language faculty, French club members, and students of French are invited. This will be the last French club activity for the semester.

Program chairmen Catherine Sisk and Ruth Freeman have appointed the following committees: decorations—Barbara Wells, chairman, Mary Jane Tedford, Betty Ballard, and Mary Ruth Barber; refreshments—Doris White, chairman, B. A. Showalter, Miss Wilkinson, and Jane Craig, invitations—Ruth Lloyd, chirman, Vera Ross, and Neysa Ferguson; hostesses—Nell Ousley and Vera Ross. Helen Marie Wilson will announce the program of music and drama. Miss Tedford and Betty Tufvander will each present a piano selection, while Marcia Keirn will sing in French. Five members of the club will enact an original skit. The plot revolves around the difficulties of an American soldier making himself understood in France. Joe Henry takes the part of the father. Catherine Sisk is Mimi, and Sarah Enloe is Celeste. Edgar Potts takes the part of the American soldier. The old man is played by Bob Whitford.

Saleslady: "Here's a card with a lovely bit of sentiment, "To the One and Only Girl."

Squire: "Fine! I'll take a dozen of them."

Houdeshel Scores On Pass From Parkinson In Final Minute

By ROBERT F. HUBER

Tommy Parkinson, Scottie captain, led his team to a 7-0 victory over the Highlanders in a game played Thanksgiving morning on Wilson field.

Cold weather held both teams scoreless until the last period when Parkinson raced 53 yards through the entire Highlander team to carry the ball to the three yard line. Cardella trailed Parkinson down the field, finally catching him on the three in a last second leap.

The only score of the game came on the next play as Captain Parkinson heaved the ball to Houdeshel in the end zone for 6 points. Parkinson skirted left end for the seventh marker.

Cheered on by an enthusiastic crowd, the two teams were composed of all stars from the intramural football teams.

FIRST PERIOD

The Highlanders kicked offf to the Scotties ten, Grubbs returning the ball to the 25. A pass to Kemp was incomplete, and on the following play Cardella snagged a Grubbs' pass on the 40. Two tries carried the ball to the Scotties 2 yard line, but Kemp failed to carry over for a score on the last down.

House lost one yard, and after two tries Grubbs kicked to the Scottie 12 yard marker. Three passes by the Highlanders were no good, and then Grubbs intercepted Kemp's pass, returning the ball to the Scotties 26. Two running plays and a fumble pushed the ball back to the Scotties nine yard marker as the first period ended with the Scotties in possession of the ball on their own nine.

SECOND PERIOD

Grubbs kicked on the fourth down to the Highlander 40, the ball being returned 22 yards to the Scotties 42. Heuser gained four around end, and after the next play the Scotties were penalized 15 yards for holding. Cardella passed to Heuser for six, and on last down the Highlanders kicked to the Scottie's 34. Parkinson gained five after fumbling. Grubbs moved the ball to the 28 where the Highlanders took over.

Kemp gained 14, and then Cover nailed Cardella for a five yard loss. Cardella kicked to the Scotties' 49. House passed to Parkinson for a 32 yard gain, moving the ball to the Highlander's 21. A pass was completed to Cover on the two yard line as the half ended with neither team having scored.

THIRD PERIOD

The Scotties kicked off to the Highlander's goal line with Cardella carrying the ball back to the 30. After three passes netted no gain, Cardella booted to mid field. A pass by Parkinson was good for 11 yards, and Grubbs picked up 8 more on an end run. With four yards to go on fourth down, Parkinson carried to the 28 for a first down. Grubbs ran around end for 16 yard gain, taking the ball to the Highlander's 14. Cover caught a pass on the 8 for another first down, and it looked as if the Scotties were headed for a TD. Grubbs gained two, and Heuser batted down a pass on the goal line. On last down Grubbs' pass to Parkinson was knocked down, and the Highlanders took over on their own 6.

A pass to Seymour netted three yards, and another pass to Kemp gained 7 more as the quarter ended with the Highlanders in possession of the ball on their own 10 yard stripe.

FOURTH PERIOD

Cardella tossed the ball to Heuser for a 27 yard gain, moving the ball to the Highlander's 37. Passes to Kemp and McGariety netted 10 yards, and then on third down Grubbs intercepted Cardella's pass to Kemp on the Highlander's 37.

Parkinson picked up five thru center, but Heuser intercepted Grubbs' pass on the Highlanders' 35. The Scotties took over again on their own 28 as Grubbs intercepted a pass after several plays had netted 20 more yards for the Highlanders.

Several running plays moved the ball to the Scotties 44, and then Parkinson took the ball and raced 53 yards to the Highlander's 3 yard line with Cardella making the save.

On the next play Parkinson flipped to Houdeshel in the end.

Kemp returned the kickoff to lead, 6-0. Parkinson raced around end for the extra point, and the score was 7-0 with less than a minute remaining.

Kemp returned the kickoff to the Scotties 49, and the game ended after two last minute passes were incomplete.

Outstanding for the Scotties were Parkinson and Grubbs, while Cardella starred for the losers. Cover played a sterling game at center for the Scotties.

Acting as cheerleaders for the Scotties were Mary A. Beals, Janet Miller, and Betty Saint. Julie Pancoast, Jessie Lou Brunson, and Barbara Blair cheered on the Highlanders.

Officials in the game were: Leonard Schieber, umpire; John Beninatti, refree; Ruth Broadhead, head linesman; Kay Stout, time keeper.

Debate Practice Continues

The third round of practice debates of the Maryville College Pi Kappa Delta begins next Wednesday, December 6, with John Shell and Bob Huber, affirmative speakers; Judy Turk and Olinde Ahern, negative. Debaters Thursday, December 7, will be Jayne Shouse and Dorothy Lehman on the affirmative, Martha Russell and Fay Cameron upholding the negative. The following Wednesday, December 13, the round will be concluded as Gladys David and Bette McCoy oppose Marion Wickham and Marinell Ross.

Dr. David Briggs, Professor of Psychology and Education and debate coach, has announced that the Maryville College Pi Kappa will participate in the state debate tournament held at the Tennessee Polytechnical Institute in Cookeville, Tennessee February 1 and 2. As many debaters as possible will be taken. Transportation arrangements have not yet been made. Dr. Briggs stated that by that time the debaters will have had at least five rounds of debate and will be prepared for the tournament.

With The Colors

RONALD EASTER

Ronald (Cotton) Easter, ex '45, was a winner in a recent handball contest held on Treasure Island, California. A member of the Navy, he is now stationed with a Seebee unit. The Masthead, paper published by his batallion says of him: "Ronald Easter, SP(A)1-C, claims Tennessee as his birthplace, attending Maryville College, raising plenty of fuss amongst the football circle. Ronny did some wrestling on the side, just to keep him busy. His present concern is the trampoline, where he is teaching the boys the do's and don'ts."

PVT. ROBERT MILLIGAN

Robert Milligan, ex '45, was wounded in action during the month of October. His leg was pierced by a bullet and the bone broken. Miligan was a Spanish major from Brentwood, Penn.

SGT. OSCAR PROFFITT

Oscar Proffitt, ex '45, is missing in action over Yugoslavia. Proffitt has been a gunner on a fortress in the Army Air Corps. He has been missing since the early part of November. Here, he was a member of the glee club.

PVT WILLIAM S. JARNAGIN

William Jarnagin, ex '45, arrived in England last month. He has been stationed with the ASTP in Texas. At Maryville, Jarnagin was a member of the ECHO staff and a physics major.

CPL. LIVY HISLOP

Livy Hislop, ex '45, has recently been promoted. Having been stationed in Porto Rico, he will be home for Christmas on a recuperation leave. At Maryville, Hislop was a member of the Men's Glee Club.

S I/C JIMMY WALKER

Jimmy Walker, '44, of the U. S. Maritime Commission, is now in Washington. He plans to spend his Christmas vacation in Brooklyn visiting Livy Hislop. At Maryville, Walker was active in the choir.

ENSIGN NEIL PROFFIT

Neil Proffitt, ex'44, an art major from Maryville, is stationed on a Navy Landing Craft (Infantry). Proffitt was a member of the football squad and a member of the college Choir.

CPL. WINTON ENLOE

Winton Enloe of the U. S. Marines has been transferred from Cherry Point, N. C. to a base outside Greenville, N. C. Enloe was a member of the class of '46.

PFC. ARTIE SPEARS

Artie Spears, who is stationed in Hawaii has just completed his jungle training. He recently visited nearby islands where he saw craters of volcanoes. Spears will be remembered by Maryvillians as outstanding on the football team. He was ex '46.

A/S RUSH LESTER

Rush Lester, ex '47, is now in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station taking boot training. Lester was president of his freshman class, treasurer of Athenian, treasurer of the Cotton Club and active in Iatramurals.

CPL. KENNETH ANDES

Kenneth Andes visited the campus some time ago. He was on his way from California to a station near Durham, N. C. He expects to be sent overseas soon. At Maryville, Andes was a member of the football squad and would have been a junior this year.

ROY CLONINGER

Roy Cloninger, ex '45 of Alcoa, and Janet Schmitt of Millburn, New Jersey were married November 2nd. He has been stationed overseas with the Naval Air Force and has returned only recently. Here at Maryville, Cloinger was a member of the football team.

ENSIGN FRED SMITH

Ensign Fred Smith, '43, landed in New York this week after eight months in Yugoslavia. His wife, Betty, has left school to go to New York to meet him. They will proceed together to Parris Island, S. C., where Fred will receive further training.

Folk Lore Club Being Organized

Anyone Interested May Attend Meetings

Plans for a combined campus and town folklore club were made on October 23 at a meeting for those interested in folklore called by Dr. E. R. Hunter, dean of curriculum. Another evening meeting is scheduled early in December and plans have been laid for a special folklore program to be given at that time to which the student body and townspeople will be invited.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, assistant professor of English, is in charge of publicity for the meeting, and Edward Gates, senior English major, is working out the program.

A callection of "tall" stories will be read by Miss Geneva Anderson, and Miss Daphne Harris will read material on dialect and proverbs. Miss Anderson, a Maryville alumna, is a teacher at Everett High School, while Miss Harris is librarian at the University of Tennessee.

There will also be two musical numbers presenting some type of folk music.

"We are disappointed that more students didn't come to the meeting on October 23," Dr. Hunter stated recently. "Perhaps we should make it clear that one doesn't have to know anything about folklore to take part in the meetings; he must merely be interested."

World's Worst Assignment (?) Is Daily Task

Food For Thought Is Taken To Heart By Most Students

By MARY E. HUNT

It is nine forty-five on a typical study night in one of the girls' dorms. All has been quiet—well, as quiet as they ever get until you are suddenly aroused from that job of getting that horrid assignment and sent on a dangerous mission. First of all, you are given a list of things to remember and several coins, a few bottles and then you're off—with the Chatterbox as your destination.

As you step inside the door and see the throngs of girls, you wonder how you will ever manage to get out by ten o'clock and you know that you must for the fellows would never cease to kid you if they could see that stringy hair and those horrid clothes that you have (or don't have) on, and that face minus the lipstick and plus the night cream.

Using your elbows as a weapon, you push vigorously for the drink box and scream as loudly as you can. "Hi, Jane, hand me a bottle of white milk, and a coke and . . . what did you say? No cokes. Well, hand me something for that dumb room-mate of mine."

Then wedging between two girls, you finally reach the counter and begin the incessant stream of chatter. "Will somebody please put a straw in my milk. Oh, Betsy, will you please fix me a cone of strawberry. I KNOW that I was here before she was, and she's already got hers. Will somebody please hurry and let me get waited on." Finally you start out with your arms overloaded balancing drinks with all the other food, screaming, "Will somebody please come get those things they sent me after? I'm already worn out and besides I have to go every night. You know that I have to finish that book tonight and I have almost a hundred pages to finish. Will you PLEASE hurry."

Finally, you get back to your desk and breathe a sigh of relief. Gee, but does that stuff taste good!

The tragedy of the flea is that he knows for certain al lhis children wil lgo to the dogs.

Spanish Club Plans Banquet

Plans for the Spanish club formal banquet were discussed at the regular meeting on November 23 and also at a special meeting called for 1 p.m. in Miss Cowdrick's classroom on Tuesday, November 28. Friday, December 8, has been set as the date for the banquet, which will also be the last meeting of the year. It is to be held at 8 p.m. in the Y rooms.

Nellie Cuellas, Eva Toro, and Gladys David are in charge of the cooking. The menu is to be as typically Spanish as possible—fruit cocktail punch, Puerto Rican potato salad, rice with chicken, red beans, and a cocoanut dessert. June Gowanlock is chairman of the decorations committee. Gladys David is in charge of the entertainment, which will be built around a Christmas theme.

NATURE CLUB

Nature club will hold its final meeting of the semester Monday, December 4, at 6:40 p.m. in the biology lecture room on the third floor of Fayerweather.

smooth Jack and a hep-cat Jill cut a mean rug. Kay Smith accompanied by Betty Tufvander told the story of Little Red Riding Hood by using song titles. Florence Housch, as the Ten O'Clock Scholar made a timely appearance to sing and "It Had to be You."

The faculty presented "Cinderella" co-starring Dr. Hill Shine as Cinderella and Dr. Ralph S. Collins as Prince Charming. Also in the cast were Dr. Case as the King; Dr. Griffiths as the Queen; Dr. Williams, the Fairy Godmother; Mr. E. C. Brown, the court attendant; Mr. R. N. Vine, and Dr. John A. Gates as the two mean sisters.

Miss Carol McCutcheon was the program chairman.

Before the program, the crowds visited the various booths in search of entertainment and refreshments. At the Cave fortunes were told by Florence Gobollot and Florence Gwyn.

The House that Jack built offered luaghs and fun as each person was sent through a wire maze. Jim Martin, Billy Robarts, and Bobby Whitford were in charge. At the Ginger Broad House ginger bread men and free cokes were to be had. Betsy Burleigh was in charge. Carroll Smith and Eadie Metheny were in charge of the House of the Seven Dwarfs, where the ydrew and gave away sketches and silhouettes of the patrons. They were assisted by Peggy Mulligan, Betty Saint, Jean Almy, and Mary Smith.

Soapy Bernardini was chairman of the booths.

The theme was followed in all phases of the decorations. There was an old wisihng well, and murals of wood-land scenes and castles covered the walls. Over all hung the branches of a huge old tree, from which hung festoons of Spanish moss. Miss Audry Monteith was chairman in charge of decorations.

Miss Catherine Payne had charge of costumes; pubyicity chairman was Marinell Ross; Tickets were handled by Abner Richards.

To Miss Jane Hays and Miss Marion Scheinweiss goes the credit for the managing of this year's Barnwarming.

Proceeds went to the World War Relief Fund.

Silence which seems rather normal for two a.m. put nearly everyone to sleep. A rest stop for twenty minutes drags out a few brave souls into the cold. Did you remember we are travelling in sections? Well, you found out trying to get back on your own bus! "Pardon me, mister, I thought this was my seat—" as you calmly deposit yourself in someones lap. (Now in a Pullman, there are possibilities of mistaking a sailor's berth for your own. It has been done.) But we were going home by bus, weren't we?

Does Sue have any of her carrots left? She had so many to start with. Carrot sticks, potato chips and cupcakes seem quite a well-balanced meal when you're hungry. What time is it? Why, it's tomorrow and we've gained an hour going north. Do you mean it was yesterday we were taking that Milton exam? I wonder who fed Wolf this morning. Well, we can forget those now, for in ten hours and thirty-five minutes we'll be home with only three more changes to make before we get there. Twenty-five days at home and we'll be on our way back. What. You're going by train? Sissy!

Messiah Presentation Set For Sunday; Soloists Announced

Ames, Blair, Talent, Keirn Bishop, DuBois, McGarity Selected To Sing Solo Parts

Sunday, December 17, 1944 the twelfth annual college presentation of "The Messiah" will be given in Voorhees Chapel, beginning promptly at 3:00 o'clock. The soloists selected by Director Richard W. Vine have been announced as follows: soprano, Marcia Keirn, and Sibyl Tallent; contralto, Patricia Ames and Barbara Blair; tenor, Owen McGarity, Jr. and Robert Du Bois; bass, Jay Bishop.

Miss Keirn, a music major from Alcoa, Tennessee, has been a member of the choir for four years. She has had solo parts in "The Messiah" for the past two years. Miss Tallent is a music major from Etowah, Tennessee. This is also her fourth year in the college choir. She sang some of the soprano solos in the 1942 production of "The Messiah". Miss Ames, a sophomore from Kenton, Ohio is majoring in music. She has sung in the choir two years. Miss Barbara Blair is a freshman music major from Knoxville, Tennessee, and a choir member.

McGarity, a ministerial student, is from Croydon, Pennsylvania. This is his third year as a member of the choir. Du Bois, a freshman, is a ministerial student from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and is in the choir. Bishop, another freshman, is a ministerial student from Detroit, Michigan and is a member of the choir.

There will be a supporting chorus of approximately 175 persons, composed of the College Choir, Glee Clubs, students of the college, and singers of the community. The College Symphony Orchestra, which has nearly fifty pieces will play.

The oratorio was first presented at Maryville in 1932 under the direction of Miss Francis Henry, then Instructor of Voice and Director of the Choir. In 1938 Ralph B. Colbert succeeded Miss Henry as director, and was succeeded in 1942 by Richard W. Vine, who conducted the tenth anniversary presentation. Phillip O. Jones directed "The Messiah" in 1943, during Mr. Vine's absence, but the production will be under Mr. Vine again this year.

This year, for the ninth time, Miss Garnet Manges will play the piano accompaniment. For the sixth time the organist is Miss Katherine C. Davies. Miss Fay Cameron will be the concert master. Except for the two years of 1934 and 1935, when the solo parts were sung by guest artists from Knoxville, the soloists have been students of the college or guests from the community.

The list of soloists of the preceding eleven years has been given as follows: Ruth Andrews, Mrs. Muriel Parette Angle, Harriet Barber, Lynn Birchfiel, Lillian Borgquist, Bernice Cathcart, Ruth Cathcart, Edward Chavannes, Samuel Cornelius, Robert Cusworth, Robert Faulkner, Edwin Goddard, Mrs. Lois Huber, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Kyle Jenkins, Alexander Jones, Margaret Law, Mrs. Lelia H. Leslie, Donnell McArthur, Louise Marshall, Mary Miles, Carl Miller, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, Calista Palmer, Carrie Pearson, Nancy Quinn, Ralph Reed, Calvin Schmidt, Doris Smith, Mrs. Mary S. Snelson, Dean Stiles, Richard Woodring, Ruth Woods, and Jack Scott.

George Frederick Handel, a German, wrote "The Messiah" for production in England about 200 years ago. It was enthusiastically received and has become the most popular oratorio ever written. The text is in the words of the Scriptures with music composed to emphasize the various moods and meanings. After the maestic chords of the Overture, there are three parts: I. the prophecy and the announcements of the Messiah's coming; II. his life, death, and resurrection; III. the meaning and results.

About 65 per cent of the full oratorio will be given.

Registration For Second Semester Ends Next Monday

Second semester registration at Maryville College, which includes approval of students' tentative schedule cards and the filling out and approval of their complete registration cards, reached the half-way mark as juniors completed their registration at noon Saturday, December 9. All seniors and juniors who have not yet registered will be required to pay the late fee of $2.50. The date set for sophomore registration is December 11 through 13, Freshmen December 14 through 18, in the Personnel Office. All sophomores and freshmen who do not register at the time designated will also have to pay the late registration fee of $2.50.

Registration cards, after being filled out and approved, are to be left at the Personnel Office. Registration according to announced schedule of all students now attending Maryville College is required before the close of this semester. However those wishing to add additional courses to their schedules and all who must make necessary changes can do so Monday, January 22.

Payment of bills will be made at the Treasurer's Office January 17-19 from 9:00 until 11:30 each morning and from 3:30 until 4:30 each afternoon. A fee of $5.00 will be charged those late in their payments. The Student-Help Office will be open for those wishing to make arrangements.

Mrs. West Reads, Choir Sings At Vesper Service

Sunday evening, December 10, a Christmas Vesper Service was held in Voorhees Chapel, featuring special choir and organ music. Mrs. Nita Eckles West gave a reading of Dicken's "A Christmas Carol". The organist was Miss Katharine C. Davies. Following is the complete program of the evening:

President Lloyd Attends Meeting Council Churches

Peace Plans Discussed By Church Leaders

On November 26, President Ralph W. Lloyd travelled by plane to Pittsburgh, Pa., where the Biennial Meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America was held at the William Penn Hotel.

From the 25 denominations which are members of the Council, 300 representatives were present. Dr. Lloyd was chairman of the group of 28 representing the Presbyterian Church in U.S.A. Included in the group were John M. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, Henry S. Coffin, president of Union Theological Seminary in New York, Roy E. Vale, Moderator, William B. Pugh, stated clerk of the general assembly, Jesse H. Baird of San Francisco, John Foster Dullis of New York, Joseph A. Vance of Detroit, Michigan, and Mrs. Rex Clements of Brwyn Mawr, Penn. The representatives were elected last May at the General Assembly.

Bishop Tucker, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, was the retiring president, who was succeeded by Bishop Oxman, bishop of the Methodist Church in New York City.

The Church and the war, a just and durable peace, improvement of race relations, ministry of the church to labor and the relation of labor to capital, work of the chaplains in the armed forces, service of the Church in war-torn countries of the world, relation to the World Council of Churches, and evangelism were some of the topics discussed. The speakers were leaders of the churches in the United States, Canada, and Great Britain.

In its actions taken, the council requested that the United States government should not decide about compulsory military training until after the war and should proceed with plans for a world organization. The Council proclaimed religious liberty in this country as well as in others; however, it issued a protestation against the authority of the Catholic Church exercised in government.

On the same trip, Dr. Lloyd met with the executive committee of the Presbyterian College Union, in Pittsburgh. This group represented the forty-five Presbyterian colleges in the United States. At this meeting, plans were made for the annual meeting to be held on January 9 in Atlantic City. During that same week, there will also be held in Atlantic City meetings of the Association of American Colleges and the Commission of Church Related Colleges, to both of which Maryville belongs. Dr. Lloyd plans to attend these meetings.

Seniors Lead In Sale of Stamps On December 6

Seniors Lead in Semester Sales, Sophomores Next

Seniors led in the War Stamp sale of Wednesday, December 6, with the highest percentage, 36.6%, in the class competition buying $4.60 in war stamps. Sophomores came second with 28% of the class buying $6.50 in stamps. Twenty-five percent of the junior class bought $4.50 worth, and the freshmen came in last with only 15% and $7.65.

Since the beginning of the school year, and average of 27.98% of the whole student body have purchased $242.20 in war stamps and bonds. In the totals for this semester, the seniors again lead with 41.35% and $93.95. Of the sophomore class 27.75% bought $67.70 in stamps and bonds to come in second place, while the juniors run third with 27.38% and $80.45, and the freshmen again are last with 15% and $55.10.

Two juniors and one senior have bought war bonds this semester, and three bonds have been purchased by faculty members.

Original Skit Presented At French Formal

Nearly 100 members of the faculty and student body were guests of the French Club at their formal entertainment at 8 p. m. in the Y rooms on Thursday, December 7.

Helen Marie Wilson as Master of Ceremonies introduced the numbers on the program, which were as follows:

"Le Cygne" or "The Swan"—Piano Solo by Mary Jane Tedford

"Ouvre Ton Coeur" or "Open they Heart"—Marcia Keirn accompanied by Betty Tufvander

"Michty Lak a Rose" and "Play Fiddle Play"—Piano solos by Betty Tufvander

"Ah, Pour une Brosse a Dents!" or "Oh, For a Toothbrush"—An original skit by Catherine Sisk and Ruth Freeman.

Father—Joe Henry
Mimi—Catherine Sisk
Celeste—Sarah Enloe
American soldier—Edgar Potts
Old Man—Bob Whitford
Suzanne—Ruth Freeman

Following the entertainment refreshments of grape punch and cookies were served buffet style.

At a special business meeting called Thursday at 1 p. m. in Miss Wilkinson's classroom, an election was conducted for the officers for next semester. The following students were elected: President—Imogene Everett; vice president—B. A. Showalter; secretary—Edgar Potts: treasurer—Catherine Sisk; program chairmen Barbara Wells and Sarah Enloe. Members of the nominating committee were Betty Ballard, Bob Whitford, and Marcia Keirn.

W. L. Imes Speaks At YM-YW

William Lloyd Imes, D. D., president of Knoxville College, spoke at a joint meeting of YM and YW yesterday afternoon at two p. m. in Bartlett Hall. An interracial meeting such as this is held twice a year under the general direction of Carol Titus, World Fellowship chairman on Y W cabinet, and William Robarts, Interracial Chairman for YM.

Tea for those attending followed in the YW rooms with Ethel Beall and Mary Evelyn Jamison, social chairmen for YW, making arrangements. Nellie Cuellas, junior sociology major from Puerto Rico, and Bette Lou McCoy, junior philosophy major, presided at the tea table.

I.R.C. Ends Year's Work With Social Program Tonight

A Christmas party will close the semester's work of the International Relations Club tonight in the "Y" rooms. Readings by Shirley Scott and Betty Lou McCoy, games and refershments comprise the program which will begin at seven o'clock. The program has been planned by the entertainment committee, Miriam Bowditch and Florence Gwyn.

At the last meeting of IRC Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, and chairman of the division of Bible and philosophy, was the principal speaker. His topic was "The Basis For the Future Peace."

Presbyterian Church Sponsors Peace Movement

Conference On World Order To Be Held In Knoxville Dec. 13

The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. is sponsoring a meeting on World Order next Wednesday, December 13, at the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. The speakers will be Rev. Cameron P. Hall of the Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, Dr. J. Harry Cotton, President of McCormick Seminary in Chicago, and Dr. E. J. Eberling, Professor of Economics at Vanderbilt University in Nashville. Topics to be discussed are "The United States and the Races", "The Local Church and Its Plan for the World", "Entering the House of Nations", "Shall We Pass by on the Other Side?", and "Let Us Care Enough to Act'

The meeting will be divided into three parts: morning, afternoon and evening services. All ministers of this area, especially all Presbyterian ministers, and members of the congregations are urged to attend.

The World Order of Conferences are just one of the activities of a campaign toward World Peace and Order. On November 12, World Order Sunday was observed. A four week period has been set aside from January 14 to February 14 as a time of special study on the subject. Sixty-one of these conferences are being held now in order to present the problems to the ministers, who should present the problems to the people. George W. McClelland of the University of Pennsylvania is chairman of this movement. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd and Dr. Ralph T. Case are serving on the committee for this area.

Witherspoon To Become New Y. M. President

James Witherspoon, senior English major, was selected to serve as president of the Y.M.C.A. next semester at a meeting of the Y.M.-C.A. Cabinet held in Bartlett Hall Wednesday night, November 29. The reason for electing a new president for next semester is that Joseph Brown, present president, is graduating this semester. At that same meeting of the cabinet William Robarts was chosen to succeed Abner Richard in the office of treasurer, since Richard will not return to school after this semester either.

The new president-elect is from Rio, Illinois. He came to Maryville last year from Blackburn Junior College in Illinois. This year he has been serving on the Y Cabinet as chairman of the worship committee. He is also the present president of the Ministerial Association.

Special Chapel Service To Honor Seniors Tomorrow

Ten Women, Three Men Comprise Fall Semester Graduating Class

Thirteen members of the Maryville College senior class will graduate December, 1944: Betty Ione Ballard, Laurel Jean English, Marian Metcalf Fershee, Marian Ruth Garvin, Margaret Messer McClure, Mary Dawn Noblit, Mable Ruth Marshall, Mary Ella Roberts, Caroline Ellen Pascoe, Nancy Towler Russell, Joseph Matthew Brown, John Hardison Scott, and Byron Herbert Sprague.

A recognition service conducted by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, President of Maryville College, will be held Tuesday morning at the time of the regular chapel service. Roll call of the graduates and individual remarks concerning them will be made by the president. Diplomas will not be presented as they have not yet been printed. They will arrive in the spring with those of the spring graduates and will probably not be presented publicly. Unless exempted by the required scholastic average, the December graduates will take their semester examinations at the time scheduled for the other students.

Betty Ione Ballard, a French major, is a town student, living at home every year except her Junior year when she stayed in Pearson's. She is a member of Theta Epsilon and is Pi Gamma social chairman. She was vice-president of the French Club her Junior year.

Laurel Jean English, from Victor, New York is a biology major. She is a Bainonian, a member of the Pre-Med Club and was a Freshman member of the former Triangle Club. She also belonged to the Glee Club.

Marian Metcalf Fershee is a sociology major from Battle Creek, Michigan. She transferred here in the middle of her college work from Alma College, Alma, Michigan. She was a junior staff member bf the Highland Echo, a member of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet her junior and senior years, and chairman of Y.W.C.A. in summer school this past summer.

Margaret Messer McClure, biology major, is from White Pine, Tennessee. She has made a high scholastic average, being on the honor roll for the past three years. During her sophomore, junior, and senior years she served on the Student Vols Cabinet and has been a member of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet for the past two years. This year she is president of Bainonian and one of the eight seniors elected this year to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities".

Mary Dawn Noblit, Spanish major from Tarpon Springs, Florida, has been active in dramatics at Maryville College all four years. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, the College Players, Spanish Club, Theta Epsilon, and secretary of the Cotton Club. She has had important roles in "Kind Lady", "Letters to Lucerne", and "Cradle Song". She has also done honors work in Spanish.

Mable Ruth Marshall is a chemistry major from Alcoa, Tenn. She came here in June of '42 and under the accelerated program will graduate this week. She was a drum majorette in the Maryville College band her freshman year. She is a member of the business staff of the Highland Echo, serving this year as business manager. She is also a member of the German Club, Theta Epsilon, and served this year as assistant business manager of the "M" Book.

Mary Ella Roberts is a sociology major from Maryville. She worked during her college years in the library and College Maid Shop.

Caroline Ellen Pascoe, a sociology major from Perkasie, Pennsylvania, has taken part in dramatics at Maryville College, being in the casts of three major dramatic productions, "In a House Like This",

Gift Suggestions: If BW's boy-friend doesn't know what to give her for Christmas, I could offer a suggestion. When she was asked if she would like a halo to go with his wings that she wears, she shook her head—"But I would like a circle!"

Raining Daffodils? No, it isn't raining just because you see Andy wearing that raincoat. Or maybe you didn't notice the insignia on her sleeve? She says it's from "an old friend of the family"—see what I mean!

Escalator. They might as well discard a couple of those steps leading to classrooms in Thaw. At least Dutchy doesn't need 'em. She touched about every third or fourth one on her way down the day before Thanksgiving. (Jim was waiting at the bottom!)

No Loitering, Please! Who was the good looking gentleman that spent the afternoon of November 29th standing on Baldwin's front steps? The sight of all those lonesome girls must have softened his heart—in fact, he finally just melted and ran away. (Question—Who made the snowman?)

Third Finger, Left Hand. And this time it's not borrowed! This is strictly from Trevor to Jean, and we do mean that new diamond. If it's excitement you crave, just try being parents to the Messer girls for a month!

Maybe They Prefer Coffee. And when his two dates had seen LS to the door of Carnegie after vespers he says, "Won't you come in for a cup of tea? I have some tea . . . bags!" (Don't hesitate when you say that!)

No Nerves. Miss (Corny) Muffett wasn't phased by the tarantula in her hat box (not even when it came from a gift shop and was planted by some interested friends!)

Major Cards: Are you really a biology major?

Vacation. And what are you going to do for Christmas? I'm going to cook for Ralph—My Ralph, I mean. (Quoting DL)

The Test is Positive! MB, librarian, is human, Lee. A cold shoulder that time of the morning may be as good a sign of a warm heart as cold hands are by moonlight.

He Says: Yes, he says that he just "forgot" to put it back on his finger, and she says, "It doesn't mean a thing." But AJ is still wearing GH's ring.

BJ—M.D. Suffering from a cold (or snakebite)? Stop by BJ's room and let her prescribe!

Paging Mr. Brown: Scene: Bainonian meeting. Time: Reunion 25 years from now. "Oh yes, Miss Payne, it used to be—and what is your married name?" "Uh--oh-er-Mrs. Brown!" (Does Lyle know about this?)

Reservations: Make your library reservations now for next semester. BH and CU have already staked their claim to the far east table and JH and MEJ to the far west table. Other attractive tables for study etc. still available.

Jangle Bells. EA's boy friend is going to be surprised when he unwraps that big Christmas package and finds his gift—a Yo-Yo! (At least it should convince him that the most precious gifts come in small packages.)

Hopeful. No promises are being made, but Miss Grierson usually marries off one of her librarians at the end of each semester. Interested applicants for Louise Warwick's place know what they can do about it.

We Miss You. Both this column and Dock's many girl friends are going into an early decline since his absence; but behold—this week a letter from George Q. Dockendorf himself, and addressed to none other than Miss Georgia (Louise) Henry, Best Dorm on the Hill—Because it's the Dining Hall, Maryville College. Dock didn't forget his friends at the postoffice either (or their ways); hence the following notes on the envelope. Pete: This can be censored. But don't blush!
Herc: Do I have any mail today?
Becky: See if you can't find me another package.
This letter is still Formal!
Hope: Please deliver this in one piece. Thanks.
Gee. wonder what was IN the letter???

Dear Bewildered J.P (?): Yes, Little Abner will marry Daisy Mae within a few weeks. He will probably sprain his ankle and she will be able to catch and hold him. RH.

Consider Their Ways and be Wise!

Behold the plight of Katy Kram,
With tests in English and in Bible
(Aside from doing the best she can
To catch the eye of an unclaimed man),
She must get her name in Library Libel.
Or
Mourn the fate of Bobby Breathless,
Striving to keep up with classes,
(Thinking Truth was something deathless!)
Striving, too, to please the lasses.
Poor lad: he'd made a fatal blunder—
These strains soon rent his mind asunder.

By HANNAH DUKE

Even though it may seem hard to believe, here we are completing another semester of our college work. For the freshmen, perhaps it has been almost an eternity. Being away from mom, pop, sis, and (?!?) for the first time is the only real sad part of going away from home to college. That feeling is soon forgotten as the work begins to stack up. Such little things as themes, term papers, outside reading, and weekly quizzes remedy that situation. Now we want to give the freshmen a pat on the back. Such a variety we've never seen nor a better group either. We've had representatives this time from the precious "mama's darling" type to the six foot "he man" type. They were exceptional this semester too when it comes to mentality. They took their share of being knocked around, buying chapel seats, and taking the traditional frosh pranks. They've well oriented themselves now so we can afford to tell them how we really feel about them. School wouldn't be the same without the freshmen as they still remain to be the life of the party. They can at least attract plenty of attention (either due to merit or ignorance!—It really doesn't matter which).

Now we as upperclassmen take it upon ourselves to prepare this select group for the future. The road through college is rough and rugged. Your first final exams will prove in a small sense this statement. Follow us as examples and learn how to study for the fatal exams. For your convenience the following list is considered a very helpful pattern for preparing for these "quizzes":

1. It is customary to begin studying early. Your professors assume you have been preparing for this test all semester.
2. If you haven't been reviewing for at least two weeks up to the present date, don't expect above an average or low grade on any exam.
3. Don't let such annoyances as packing and correspondence interfere with your studying.
4. Ignore "Town Night" privileges and other recreation. Glue your mind to your studies.
5. Don't let your vacation planning interfere with your work. Try to eradicate all thoughts of the coming holidays.

AND

6. (Don't take any advice from upper classmen. They are too excited to do much in a constructive way either.)

Seriously, freshmen, the upper classmen are about as eager to go home as you are. Maybe they didn't outwardly show much homesickness but the Christmas holidays are a welcome vacation to everyone—faculty and students alike.

Various rumors as to what is being planned for the vacation are in the air. For most of us, going home is first on the list of importance but it's to be wedding bells for some. Others will be "caught in the draft". To the graduates, we wish them lots of luck as they enter into their business careers. To the freshmen, we send them home with the hope that they won't make their college experiences sound too much more fanciful than they really are, and to everyone we wish a very happy holiday season.

Ruth Freeman Elected President Of Junior Class

Ruth Freeman was elected president of the Junior Class on a called election Wednesday, December 6, filling the vacancy left by the resignation of Madeline Cooke who is transferring to Ohio State next semester.

Miss Freeman, an English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is a member of the Writers' Workshop, assistant to Miss Davies, chairman of the music committee of the YWCA, co-chairman of the music committee of the YWCA, co-chairman of the program committee for French Club, assists in the Parish Project work at Forest Hill, and has been on the honor roll two years.

They Say.....

By LONNIE RICHARDT

THEY SAY—

Question: Do you like music to be played in the dining hall?

Lamar Memorial Library, Friday, December 8. . .

John Kierstein, junior—Yes, good music, either popular or classical. I like dinner music, and if we had it every night it would be all right with me.

Carolyn Leonard, sophomore—Yes! Something dreamy! We shouldn't have it all the itme, I guess; we'd get tired of it. It would be nice to have it one other night besides Saturday, though, since so many people go away over the week-ends.

Owen McGarity, sophomore—Yes, nice dinner music. It's good to have almost any type, I guess, as long as it's soothing to the digestion. Perhaps we could have it interspersed during the week.

Mary Evelyn Jamison, junior—Once in a while. Music in the dining hall suits me as long as it is something that can be recognized. Popular and some classical music are best, I think.

Mae Short, freshman— Surely! We should have it more often. A good selection and variety of really good music is nice at mealtime, as long as it isn't too loud.

Ann Haygood, sophomore— I like it! It would suit me at either lunch or supper a couple of nights a week, as long as it is varied.

Don Heuser, freshman—Yes, I like popular and some classical music. Maybe it would be a good idea to have it in the mornings to wake people up!

Marian Garvin, senior—Yes, if it's not too jazzy or loud. Music more on the classical side one or two nights a week would make meals much nicer.

Music! To have or not to have! Whether 'tis better in the dining hall to hear the bars and measures of the latest records, or by opposing, end them forever. To have them more, to have them less, ... or no more.

The general opinion seems to cling to the affirmative side of the question. We ought to have it—and more often—they say. . . .

Theta Gives Christmas Party

Theta Epsilon held a Christmas party Saturday night, December 9, at the regular meeting in Theta Hall. A special feature of the party was that each member of the society brought a gift, which is to be given to a poor child of this community for Christmas.

Included on the program were the reading of Christmas poetry and some Christmas songs by Barbara Blair, freshman from Knoxville.

Marilyn Bryant Elected Echo Business Manager

Marilyn Bryant, Maryville College senior from Flintville, Tennessee, was elected last week to the position of business manager of the Highland Echo to replace Mable Marshall who will graduate this month. The appointment was made by an authorized committee on business management of the Echo consisting of a committee from the Student Council, faculty committee on publications, and faculty committee on student business management. No other changes in the business staff will be made this year.

Negro Chorus

Student Volunteers held their weekly meeting last evening in Bartlett Auditorium after the Vespers Service. The Rev. Mr. L. W. Howard, pastor of the Mount Zion Methodist Church in Maryville, was the speaker. Thirty singers from the Mount Zion Choir furnished the Student Vols with special music.

Freshmen Pack For Christmas Vacation; Just Eight Days To Go–

by MARTHA EDGERTON

"Just eight days," Jane sighed as she sat with saddle-shoed feet dangling over the edge of the bed and stared at the calendar.

"Eight days until what?"

"Oh, Kate, you goon. Just eight days and I'll be heading for that heaven of broken alarm clocks, inner spring mattresses, baked potatoes and steaks, and no Spanish assignments."

"Me, too! Only I'm looking forward to having that new navy blue sweater I asked Santa for, and to seeing Trixie have kittens when I walked in the front door. Can't you hear him barking his lungs out? I can just see Mom trying to drag him away from the curtains, but somehow the curtains always come, too."

"What are we waiting for? Let's not get caught in the Christmas rush."

Jane dove under her bed, coming up with two dusty suitcases. "How can I get my clothes for a whole month in two little bags, when I take these for just a week end?"

"Hey, Jane, I can't take all these skirts. And where will I ever pack all my sweaters?"

Two tousled heads are bent over their respective suitcases. Two pairs of "three-months-since-the-last-manicure" hands cram blouses and skirts and jackets and dresses in every nook and cranny of the old suitcases.

"How will I ever get this cover down without taking out half of the clothes, Jane?" Kate moaned as she wearily plunked herself on the nearest empty square foot of bed space.

"Just have faith. That old suit case will hold everything. I never worry about the space. It is just deciding what to put into the space and what to leave at school here that bothers me."

"We surely won't need any formals this Christmas. Not with Jerry and Andy out flying over the Pacific somewhere."

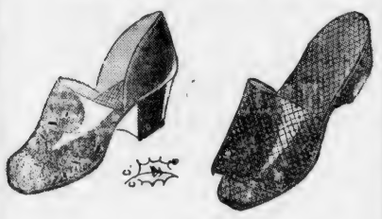
"I just had a brain storm—"

"Another one of those things! No wonder you have such a pained expression." A third party enters the room. Alice, the girl across the hall looks in on the tumult of clothes, suitcases, shoes, and empty clothes hangers with a befuddled stare. "What is this? The flight into Egypt?"

"Of course not. We're going home in two weeks. We're just not taking any chances on missing that train," came Jane's muffled retort from the depths of the closet.

"Oh, good!" Nan gleefully exclaimed. "Now Alice can help us. What would you like to do more than anything else in the world, Alice?"

"I'll bite, I'd just like to help you kids pack more than anything in this world, unless it would be to take a biology test."



"Swell, Alice", responded Kate, completely ignoring that ironical remark. "You can hand me the things that I ask for. The other stuff, just pile on the trunk. We're going to pack away most of the things until after Christmas."

After several long hours of packing and unpacking, sorting and resorting, and more packing, three tired, dusty, bedraggled girls could be seen trudging wearily across the dark campus in a throng of other hungry classmates.

"At least that will be one job that won't have to interfere with our exams", Jane and Kate sighed in unison.

Yes, truth is stranger than fiction. Two freshmen—you might know they were freshmen—started packing eight days before vacation begins. All that remained for them to do was to take their final exams and buy the tickets for home.

Henderson, Sommers Elected Girls' Basketball Captains

With basketball practice drawing to a close, captains and managers were elected by the "Chillies" and the "Howies" on December 7. Marion Henderson, as captain, and Elsie Jean Cotton, as manager, elected by the "Chillies", will announce their team members Tuesday afternoon at the last practice of the semester. "Howie" teammates will be selected by Winnie Sommers, captain, and Carol Gillette, manager. Basketball games will be scheduled between these two teams after the Christmas holidays.

Point System got under way on October 1, with seventy-eight girls out for the first soccor practice. Ruth King Wood, as the assistant in the physical education department, is the director of Point System.

"Chillies" and "Howies" were the names selected for the two soccor teams. Five games were scheduled between these teams starting October 31. Nancy Russell and Dot Justus were elected as captains of the "Chillies" and the "Howies", respectively. Kay Stout and "Soapie" Bernardini were selected as the managers of the two teams. The "Howies" captured the first two games, tied the third, and won the fourth to make them the season's champion's. The "Chillies" warmed up during the fifth game and defeated the "Howies" for the first time.

The tennis tournament brought out another phase of girls' sports. The tourney was played off during October and the first of November, with Nancy Russell, graduating senior and dramatic art major, copping the title of girls' tennis champion from Evelyn Anderson, freshman entry.

In addition to the regular Tuesday and Thursday sessions of Point System, hikes, swimming and daily exercise have been part of the schedule. Rigid health rules have been followed by all the Point System girls.

Swimming lessons will become a part of the spring semester sport program with classes for beginners, intermediates, nad advanced swimmers. Girls with life-saving certificates will instruct the classes.

Christmas Note To a Yank.... December, '44

by LONNIE RICHARDT

Dear Art—

Just an extra note to put in with this Christmas card—to make up for its inadequacy—to tell you more sincerely than words could say "A very merry Christmas, Art!"

That well-known "Christmas spirit" seems to be in the air here. Mother writes that it has been snowing at home. Already we're singing the familiar melodies of "Silent Night" or "O Come All Ye Faithful." "Santa Claus", with his blustery voice and hearty laugh, is on the radio at 5:00 every evening as usual. The store windows are filled with toys and colorful displays. Firs are stacked like members of a compressed forest, tree after tree, in front of grocery stores.

Of course, the fir trees are more expensive than usual and the toys are poorly made, but "Santa's" laugh is still as hearty and the carols are sung just as fervently.

It may seem tactless or cruel for me to mention all these things because I know they are the Christmas signs you must remember best. But, Art, if Christmas meant to us only Santa Claus and gifts and songs, it would be a mighty shallow season, wouldn't it?

I try to remember . . . especially this year. . . that it's Christmas everywhere—not only here. It's Christmas in that hell-hole of yours in New Guiena—it's Christmas in Cologne where other deep-in-the-flesh Yanks are putting up a good American fight—Christmas in the death-still streets of Lidice—in Warsaw—at Tarawa . . . the unavenged.

Thank God no gaily decorated trees—no packages wrapped in season style—no Santa Claus nor even beloved carols are necessary for the celebration of the real Christmas.

With Christian fellowship for the tree, love as your gifts, the Giver of every gift as the Santa Claus, with heart-songs as carols, this blessed season can be celebrated. . . anywhere. There is one Gift each of us shares, a lowly babe born the Redeemer of the world.

Please remember when you read this greeting card that all these thoughts are being sent with my "Merry Christmas" wish.

Love—

Me.

German club members met December 4 at 6:40 p.m. in Dr. Collins' classroom for an evening of singing German Christmas carols and folk songs. This was the last meeting of the semester.

MC Quartet To Sing Tonight At Knoxville 'Y' Club

Tonight a quartet including Pat Ames, Marcia Keirn, Jay Bishop and Bob DuBois are to take part in the entertainment of the "Y" Men's Club in Knoxville. They will present a program of special Christmas music. Besides the numbers by the quartet, there are to be solos by members of the group. Miss Rachael Shobert will be the accompanist.

Experimental Theatre Gives Christmas Plays

Three Christmas plays were presented by the Experimental Theatre Saturday evening, December 9 in Bartlett Hall under the general direction of Mrs. Martha Badgett of Maryville. Thelma Richardson, junior dramatic art major from Staten Island, N. Y., was mistress of ceremonies and announced the various plays.

As an advanced dramatic art student, Shirley Scott, junior religious education major from Altoona, Pa., directed a pantomime of the "Night Before Christmas" as she read the poem. John Scott and Mary Feeshee portrayed the man and wife with Ann Thorton and Evelyn Vaughn as their children. Jim Martin played the part of Santa Claus.

Two scenes from "The Bird's Christmas Carol" were presnted under the direction of Mrs. Martha Badgett. In the first scene Carol was played by Lois Collett who had Jim Martin for her uncle. Mrs. Ruggles, Esther Farrow, prepared her nine children for dinner at the Bird's in the second scene. Mary Batchelor, Martha Edgerton, Lois Thomas, Marietta Ball, Olinde Ahrens, Marion Swift, Edith Earle, Iris Perkins and Mrs. Badgett's young son were the children.

"Christmas Gift", the third one-act play, involved two scenes and five actors. Dorothy Toomey and Bette Lou McCoy played the part of two maiden ladies, Nancy and Hermoine. Nancy Russell and Sue Pressley were Belinda and Mary Brown with Owen McGarity as the one male role, Mr. Grey. Miriam Bowditch was stage manager for these plays.

Mable Marshall Echo Bus. Mgr. To Become Chemist

Mable Ruth Marshall, business manager of the Highland Echo, is one of the thirteen Maryville College students who will graduate this month. Miss Marshall, a chemistry major from Lenoir City, Tenn., came to Maryville College in June, 1942 with thirteen other freshmen. She is the only one finishing in the required time of the accelerated schedule. Excepting one year, she has been a regular occupant of Pearson's dormitory.

After graduation Miss Marshall plans to work as a chemist SP-6 in the chemical laboratory of the Bureau of Mines in Norris, Tennessee. She will begin work January 1.

Miss Marshall became a member of the business staff of the Highland Echo her freshman year at the college. She was elected business manager of the Echo this year, taking charge of all of its advertising and circulation. In addition to this responsible position, she has been active in other campus activities. She is a member of the German Club, Theta Epsilon, and was assistant manager of the Maryville College "M" Book. When a freshman she was drum majorette of the college band. After that year the organization was temporarily disbanded, but Miss Marshall continued her baton twirling, giving private lessons and working as coach to Maryville High School majorettes.

The program at this meeting consisted of members of the Greek mythology class relating the myths behind the constellations. Carol Titus took the myths of the stars found in the East, elaborating on the story of Orion. Helen Marie Wilson chose the stars of the northern horizon and stressed the stories of the Dippers and of Orpheus. Jack Ross enumerated in detail the story of Andromeda which is among the stars of the South and West.

Chilhowean Glossy Prints Have Arrived

Glossy prints of the pictures taken for the 1945 Chilohwean have arrived from the photographer, and were given out December 6 and 8 by members of the Chilhowean staff. These were the pictures taken in late September by S. H. George and Son of Knoxville.

Some of the club pictures have already been taken, but none of the informal shots. A camera is to be borrowed next semester for those. Thelma Richardson, editor of the yearbook.

SPANISH CLUB HAS BANQUET

About twenty members were present last Friday evening, December 8, for the Spanish club formal banquet in the Y rooms.

The room and table were decorated with Christmas greens and holly by decorations chairman June Gowanlock and her assistant Rosalind Garges. There were also individual place cards made like Christmas trees. The Spanish meal was prepared by Nellie Cuellas, Eva Toro, and Gladys David. Rice and chicken was the main course. A brief program of entertainment followed the meal. Miss Cuellas and Edelmira Pino presented a brief sketch of the Christmas celebrations in their countries of Puesto Rico and Cuba. Miss David led the group in some Spanish Christmas carols. Madeline Cooke was master of ceremonies.

This was the last meeting of the semester.

War Stamp Sales Will Be Resumed Next Wednesday

The weekly sale of war stamps on campus will be resumed Wednesday, January 31. Stamps will be sold in the lobby of Pearson Hall before and after dinner and supper each Wednesday for the rest of the semester.

The sale of war stamps for last semester totaled $321.50 for the entire school. The seniors led the other classes with a sale of $99.85 of stamps and with 45.7% of the class purchasing stamps. The Sophomores purchased $75.10 of stamps with 32% of their class participating. Thirty-one per cent of the Juniors aided in the purchasing of $84.80 of stamps. The Freshmen brought up the rear with 17.4% of the class purchasing $61.75 of stamps. Three bonds were purchased by the students during the past semester.

Three bonds were bought by faculty members which were not included in the total sales of stamps for the classes.

Last semester's war stamp sale chairman was Jane Craig. Ethel Beall was in charge of publicity. The stamp sales were under the auspices of the International Relations Club.

"Junior Miss" Has New York Setting

Try-outs have been completed for the annual Bainonian-Athenian production of Junior Miss. The cast of characters as announced by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art, is as follows: Harry Graves, Max House; Grace Graves, Esther Farrow; Hilda, Virginia Miller; Lois Graves, Thelma Richardson; Judy, Shirley Scott; Fuffy, Jean Messer; Ellen Curtis, Betty Lou McCoy; J. B. Curtis, James Martin; Willis Reynolds, Thomas Horst; Merrill Feurbach, Merrill Grubbs; Tommy Abuckle, Fred Wilson; Haskell Cummins, Kenneth Kribbs. Five parts for men remain unassigned as yet. They are the parts of Joe, Henry, Barlow, Sterling Brown, and Albert Kunody.

Robert Seel and William Cover have been selected as the stage managers. The remainder of the stage crew has not been announced. Students who have signed up to become members of the stage crew will report their preference of jobs to Mrs. West.

Junior Miss is a comedy in three acts written by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields. The play was based on the book by Sally Benson. Junior Miss is the story of a middle-class American family living in an apartment house in Manhattan. It tells the story of the trials of a teen-age girl who is growing up, and the tribulations of her suffering family.

"B.G." Election Fills Quota For Club Membesrhip

Lynn Mathews, Junior religious education major from Wilmington, Delaware, and sophomores, Carol Smith a psychology major who comes from Paducah, Kentucky, and Jessie Lou Brunson, a chemistry major from Pine City, New York have recently been elected into the B. G.'s. This brings the total membership of the group up to its quota of eight girls.

The new girls were welcomed into the club by a traditional breakfast given by the old members, Peggy Caldwell, Hannah Duke, Betty Lou King, Zenobia Bernardini, and Kay Bonner.

"Goat Week", initiation of the neophytes begins Monday, January 29, and is followed by a formal iniation program. A number of out-door activities are being planned by the group for the coming spring. Originally formed as a hiking club, the organization has since come to have more varied social interests.

T. T. Alexander Contest To Be Held This March

Only Women Students Eligible For This Year's Event

The T. T. Alexander Prize oratorical contest, conducted annually under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty, will be held in March. This year tht contest is open only to women of the college, in accordance with the plan of alternation used. In 1946, the participants will be men students.

The subjects chosen for the contest, which remain the same each year, are as follows: The Diety of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith.

Any women of the college desiring to enter this contest may do so, and the following rules are to be observed: Oration manuscripts are to be submitted in triplicate, typed in double space, and signed with a pen name. One copy of the manuscript should be accompanied by an envelope, on the outside of which is your pen name and on the inside of which is your real name. Manuscripts should be placed in Dr. Orr's box at the Personnel Office on or before Wednesday, March 14. Manuscripts should provide for an oration approximately ten minutes long.

Tentative dates for the preliminary and final contests to take place are Wednesday, March 21, for the preliminary hearing and Wednesday, March 28, for the final contest. Contestants will draw for places and order of speaking at the time of the contest. The preliminary contest will be judged by three of Maryville's faculty, and the final contest will be decided by outside judges. The prize money, income from a $2000 fund on deposit, usually amounts to $80, which is divided on the basis of 60% and 40% between the first and second prize winners in the final contest.

This prize fund was established by a generous friend of the College who prefers to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. Thomas Theron Alexander, for whom the prize is named, graduated from Maryville College in 1873, and served as a missionary in Japan for thirty-five years. Six of the Alexander family saw foreign service— Dr. and Mrs. Alexander, Emma, and Mav in Japan, Lois in Porto Rico, and Christine in Egypt. The Rev. Dr. Theron Alexander, who is now a member of the Maryville College Board of Directors, is a son of T. T. Alexander, and has served many years in the ministry here in the United States.

College Symphony To Be Presented At Chilhowee Club

The Maryville College Symphonic Orchestra will be featured by the Chilhowee Club during their Open House, Tuesday, January 30. A social program for the husbands of the club members will be given, and the orchestra will provide background music throughout the evening. Included in the score are the Overture from the "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, "Valse Triste" by Sibilius, and "Chason Triste" by Tschaikowsky.

Classes Elect Five To Fill Student Council Vacancies

Special class meetings were held Wednesday morning, January 24, for the purpose of electing Student Council members and transacting other class business.

In the senior class, John Houdeshell and John Kirstein were elected to fill the two senior vacancies of the Council. James Witherspoon and Luther Cross were also nominated. Jean Bellerjeau made an announcement concerning the graduation announcements, and Beverly Jackson announced that she would take orders for class rings. Hope Pleyl, vice-president of the class presided.

Louise Corbett, vice-president, called the junior class meeting to order, Bob Whitford won over Billy Robarts to fill the Student Council vacancy left when Owen McGarity became a senior.

Vice-president Jean Messer presided over the sophomore class meeting. Lynn Mathews was elected over Ann Anderson to fill the sophomore vacancy in the Student Council.

At the freshman class meeting, with president Fred Wilson in charge. Max House was elected over Tom Horst to the Student Council. The suggestion that there be a class social won unanimous approval, but no definite plans were made. The matter of a Saturday night program in charge of the freshman class was brought up for discussion, and all class members were asked to bring in ideas and suggestions for such a program. Kitty Johnson, class treasurer made a report of the finances.

Dr. Gillingham Is Vesper Speaker February 4th

Formerly President Of Tennent College In Philadelphia

The Rev. Dr. C. H. Gillingham will address those attending the college vepser service Sunday evening, February 4 in Voorhees Chapel with the topic: "A man who was not satisfied with himself." Dr. Gillingham was formerly president of Tennant College of Christian Education in Philadelphia before coming to live in Maryville. He is a graduate of Maryville and has taught at the college.

The Rev. Or. George E. Davies, of Maryville, spoke in the regular Sunday evening vesper service last night in Voorhees Chapel. He chose "Custom and Character" as his topic and described the influence which the former has upon the latter.

Dr. Davies has addressed the college students numerous other times. He was associated with the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. prior to his making his home here in Maryville. College students also know him as the father of Miss Katherine C. Davies, professor of music.

Speaking at the previous Sunday's vesper service was Rev. Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion. His sermon was centered round the theme of men of nom God need not be ashamed, his text being Hebrews 11:16. Dr. Orr is chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy, and Education of Maryville College and has been at the college since 1920. He is also a graduate of the college.

Students in the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes who wish to try out for positions on the editorial staff of the HIGHLAND ECHO are asked to report to the ECHO office in Thaw Hall on Monday, February 5 at 6:30 p. m. Tryouts will last two to three weeks

Miss Molly Caldwell Passes Away; College Services Are Held

Funeral services were held for Miss Mary E. (Molly) Caldwell, Dean of Women Emeritus, Saturday afternoon, January 20, in the Voorhees Chapel at 2:00 with President Ralph W. Lloyd officiating. Assisting in the services were Dr. William H. Crothers, and Dr. H. E. Orr.

MISS MARY E. CALDWELL

Miss Caldwell, who was 81 years old, died at her home Wednesday night, January 17, having been in bad health for some time.

Born in Texas on September 12, 1863, she was the third of nine children. Her father, William Caldwell was a teacher. Attending Maryville College as a student from 1881 to 1891, she was one of the first 23 women to graduate from this institution. Miss Caldwell then became the principal of the Maryville Schools, returning as a professor of Mathematics and Latin at the College in 1904.

For seven years, she was the President of Huntsville College, then returning to Maryville. where she remained an officer of the College until 1936, when she was retired and given the title of Dean of Women Emeritus. She was a matron in Baldwin Hall until 1914, and was made Dean of Women in 1913.

She was connected with three institutions for 45 years, thirty-seven of which she served at this College. Miss Caldwell was retired for nine years, and spent a total of 57 years as a student, teacher, and retired official.

Dr. Lloyd said of her: "Her loyalty to Dr. Wilson was a beautiful one. Her loyalty to me was as sincere and unfailing as to Dr. Wilson. Many of the College morals are a result of her labor. She had high standards and expected everyone else to have them also."

Members of the faculty served as pallbearers and a guard of honor was made up of students. The body lay in state during the hour preceding the service.

Miss Caldwell is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Worley and Mrs. Foster, and sixteen nieces and nephews.

Recreation Center To Be Located In Bartlett Hall; Operating Cnmmittee Named

Final plans for a recreation and social center in Bartlett Hall received the unanimous approval of the student body Saturday morning at a meeting following the chapel service. Previously the plan had been officially endorsed by the student council, the student-faculty senate, and the executive committee of the faculty at separate meetings last week.

Louise Henry, president of the student body, conducted the meeting. She explained that the plan would go into active use as soon as the operating committee could set the necessary machinery into motion, perhaps during the coming week.

The plan as approved would give the use of Bartlett Hall facilities to both the students and to members of the faculty and staff of the College. It will become a permanent part of the by-laws of the student body constitution.

Jean Bellerjeau Named Operating Committee Head

Jean Bellerjeau, Maryville College Bible and religious education major and one of the eight seniors elected this year to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities", has been appointed from the Student Council by Louise Henry, student council president, to be the head of the recreation center operating committee, it has recently been announced. This committee, composed of seven members, will have complete responsibility of the actual operation of the center. Other members of the committee are Ethel Beal, appointed by Agnes Peterson, Y. W. C. A. president, to represent that organization; Edgar Potts, chosen to the Y. M. C. A. by its president, James Witherspoon; Elsie Jean Cotton, the representative from the freshman student body; Jim Martin, sophomore class representative; Zenobia Bernardini, chairman of the social committee; and a faculty member who will be appointed soon by Dr. R. W. Lloyd, president of the college.

The operating committee will meet the first of this week to begin immediate plans for furnishing and opening the center. Rules and regulations, which must be observed by all students who go to the center, will be posted in the near future.

J. A. McDill Will Address Students On January 31

It has been announced that the Reverend Mr. James A. McDill of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will be chapel speaker this Wednesday, January 31. McDill, Director of the Department of Stewardship of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, has not yet announced his topic.

The recreation center plan, as drawn up and revised by Dr. John A. Gates, member of the student faculty senate, Edward Gates and Louise Henry, members of the student council, locates the responsibility in the student body but places ultimate control in the hands of the student council.

OPERATING SCHEDULE
Monday through Friday
12:55 to 1:30
3:30 to 5:30
6:25 to 7:05 (except on Wednesdays)
Saturday—1:00 to 5:00

The recreation center, located in Bartlett Hall, will specifically occupy the two lounge rooms, the two gymnasia, the balcony, and first floor YMCA office.

The operating committee shall delegate responsibility for the operation of the center during open hours to individuals called hosts and hostesses selected from the student body. Such games as ping pong, volley ball, darts, and shuffle board will be at the disposal of mixed groups at the hours stated above. The necessary equipment for such activities will be loaned or donated by individuals and campus organizations. Damage, loss, or destruction of equipment or other property shall be paid for by those responsible.

Any person accused of infractions of center regulations shall be judged by the student council. If he is found guilty, the council shall take from him temporarily the privilege of participating in center activities. If the infraction is more serious, more severe punishment will be decided upon by the executive council of the faculty.

This plan for a recreation center when put into effect, will be subject to change or amendment at all times if so desired by the student council, executive council of the faculty, and the student body.

MISS MARY E. CALDWELL

Although few students now in attendance at Maryville College had an active acquaintance with "Molly" Caldwell, dean of women emeritus, her passing last week was a blow felt severely by both students and members of the college community.

Her contributions to this institution and her service to her fellowman will remain a part of this college for generations. Hers was a life of Christian service and true devotion to high ideals.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS

Each year Maryville College students have the opportunity of attending a series of religious services known to us as the February Meetings. These meetings are held twice daily for a period of a week and provide the students with a rich religious experience.

This year's leader, Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, president of the Louisville Theological Seminary, may well become one of the most widely acclaimed and respected leaders of the meetings. His experience with young people qualifies him to bring to us a message of importance to our daily lives.

LIBRARY..... LIBEL

Rings on Their Fingers! Did you have a nice Christmas vacation? If she says YES, just glance at her third finger, left hand, and you'll know the reason why. Page Katie Smith, Monty Monteith, Nancy Metcalf, or Carolyn Wallace. Or if you'd rather look at two rings instead of one, see Sibyl (Tallent) Haney or Jean (Fox) Rawlings.

More Wedding Bells: Wedding cake was cut by other ex-students of Maryville during the past month too. Louise Warwick is now Mrs. Chalmers Mattern, Aldwyn Graham and John Taylor were married in the Princeton University Chapel on Christmas day, Spar Jean Smith and Ensign E. B. Smith, both formerly of Maryville, were married in Kenmore, New York, the day after Christmas (Jean wore her sister-in-law's wedding dress, while her sister-in-law wore the dress Jean had used as bridesmaid at her own wedding.) Maryville also dusts off the Welcome mat for Lois Graf, who has returned to school, now Mrs. Mac Wilson, Joe Suitor, formerly of Maryville, and now in Louisville Theological Seminary, was married January 25. His bride is a nurse.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP: And then as she was leaving Thaw late Wednesday afternoon, Miss Heron was asked if she had to stay in. "No, I've just been to Sweatshop!"

INTRODUCING: Good news, gals, there are now five new freshmen fellows on campus, and it's proper to be friendly to strangers. So please smile at George Robarts, Kenneth Kribbs, Earl Martin, Thomas Wheeler, and Paul Myers. Harold Kidder who is back may not be quite so available for general circulation, but his heart is in the right place!

Excuse It, Mary!

Carol has a little lamb
Its fleece is pink as roses
And since one leg's a triffle long
It dances on its toses.

This lamb has "personality"
Its name is Jed Q. Titus
It never speaks—has it a cold
Or maybe laryngitis?
(Now see what you've done, Glady)

The Better to see you with! "It isn't that French class reminds me of opera at all, but these opera glasses give the blackboard more of a come-hither look" says Mary Barnwell. May I borrow 'em sometime, Mary?

One Foot in the Grave? Yes, but we haven't noticed any gray hairs yet. You might check with EJ, Loretta, or Janet.

Happy Ending. Here's a Christmas trip they won't forget. Miss C. and Miss G. Maryville faculty, decided to be patriotic over the holidays and share a lower berth on the train from Knoxville to New York. The train was two and a half hours late in getting to Knoxville, so the ride (and this story) began at 1:30 a.m. (or reasonable facsimile thereof.) At 4:00 Miss C wakes up to realize that she has lost her diamond ring, and the search begins. "No ma'am", the porter knew nothing about it—"There was another porter on duty when you got on the train. He's sleeping now." The sleeping porter was roused and (here we suspect Miss C's fairy godmother of waving her wand over the spot) produced the ring. "Sure—found it about 1:30 this morning!"

Lonesome? If you find yourself feelin' lonely these mooonlight nights, get Dot Crowson to tell you about her great big "hunk 'o man."

Picturesque Speech. Miss Davies: "I've gotten sewed up in a rut."

Comedy of Errors: We don't know whether the basketball game was good or not, but the story of how they got there is. Ten girls had already arranged to go with a chaperon when AH and JH decided they'd like to go along. No sooner had they gone when two honest-to-goodness dates showed up to take the two girls to the game. When told the girls had gone with the crowd, they started off to the game to find them. No sooner had the fellows gone than the two gals returned to the dorm—just decided they'd not go to the game after all. But when they heard the fellows were meeting them there, they dashed off to the game—only to find that the two fellows had picked up two more fellows (AND four girls) en route. Are explanations in order? And from whom?

Sweet Thing: Jay opened the door for Mona Bradford, but it wasn't the first time they'd met, for he was a member of the chorus when she sang the role of Roberta. Could that explain her farewell, "Goodby, sweet thing!"

Could Be. Barbara Blair was introduced to Miss Bradford as the girl who sang the contralto solo in the Messiah. Miss Bradford, looking at BB: "Well, she's got what it takes!"

Just Like a Brother. And then there's the boy who calls up his sister to ask what she wants for Christmas (after the holidays) just so he can talk to her girl friend??? Jimmy, EJ's as cute as that picture you have, and Andy can tell you.

Knock and it shall be Opened. Only that system didn't work for Velma and Maybelle when they found themselves locked in the Maid Shop last Saturday night. The prospects of a weekend in Thaw must not have appealed to them, for when Dot and Annie Belle returned from a futile search for Ralph and the key, the two prisoners were gone.

Three's a Crowd. And was the library crowded on Monday night. The other two were Jack and MEJ.

Vacation: And what did you do for vacation? I'd tell you what Jim Witherspoon did if I knew how many i's to put in skiing. Doug MacMartin went with him. (Wonder if Doug is having chickenpox?)

POEM We're shy a closing poem this week. Will Dr. Shine please contribute the one he's rumored to be memorizing about a soldier?

By HANNAH DUKE

Recently, in fact at one of the first meetings of class this semester, a professor asked his class how many students had made New Year's resolutions to do better school work. A long, silent pause followed. Only one hand was raised; that of the professor. He looked quite amazed and searched for an explanation to accomplish more and to be more successful than in the previous semester. Contrary to his reasoning, that didn't seem to be the case. Several students said they had no ambition to do better, others said they thought they had been overworked previously, but the majority seemingly had given it little or no thought.

Well, perhaps the same thing is true of too many of us. It isn't always due to lack of ability to do well, but it's the lack of ambition or initiative to do so in too many cases. If only a few people took that attitude it might not make any noticeable difference, but when a group as large as an entire class openly admits they have no intention of trying to do better work, then it's time to think about the situation seriously.

There are possibly several reasons for the assumption of a nonchalant attitude at this time. We blame everything on "the times" though. We seem to be in a rut. It's true that very few things are normal. Living just can't be now. The college campus is certainly no exception. Being left with such a large majority of women students has somewhat changed our outlook. But the blame should be placed largely on us as individuals. Too many of us just don't care. Going to school serves merely as a pastime until "V Day". We too often forget that what we are doing as civilians, even here at a school, may hinder or hasten that day. For this reason, it behooves us all to try to be just twice as successful and ambitious as ever before. It is all the more reason that those of us who are fortunate enough to remain in school, should determine to take advantage of the opportunities offered us.

Think for a minute of the monotony the soldiers face. Whether they are on a South Sea Island, on the battle fronts, or still in training, they have to keep on. They have a duty and it is not for them to pass it aside and not put forth their best efforts.

We should try to pattern after them in this respect. No matter what our walk of life may be, let's put all in doing our best. Our duty for the present is gaining knowledge. But at the rate most of us apply ourselves in this effort, we're far from being "all out" in our desires for success.

No, it's not too late to make those New Year's resolutions. We're called upon to do more than ever before, but the nation as a whole is doing more than ever before. How can we then be content to work less?

Perhaps it was thoughtlessness that brought forth opinions as this class did, but let's determine to work harder and prove that we as students are not lagging in a crisis when we should be more than willing to resolve and do more than ever whenever and wherever we are called upon.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS LEADER

Singing will be led by Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the McKendree Methodist Church of Jackson, Mo., for his twenty-third year. Until last October, he was pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church, St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. Caldwell is in wide demand as a speaker in both the North and the South. His training and personality and speaking ability are said to make him a popular speaker in both churches and colleges. Although but 42, he is considered one of the foremost Christian leaders of America.

He was a member of a group of Christian scholars of varied denominations which recently wrote an outstanding article on "The Relation of the Church to the War in the Light of the Christian Faith."

A magazine of national circulation referred to it not long ago as "one of the greatest documents on this subject ever produced by a group of Christians."

"We are very grateful to Dr. Caldwell for giving us the long period of time and vast amount of work which the February Meetings require," President Lloyd recently stated. "I am confident that he will bring a series of messages of great power suitable to our needs at this particular time. I am sure the students will like him both as a preacher and as a friend."

I.R.C. Will Begin Semester With Program of News

IRC will have its first meeting of the new semester on Monday, January 29 at 7 p.m. in the YWCA rooms. A monthly quiz and discussion of the news will be the program held after the business meeting which will consist of semester reports by Olinde Aherns, treasurer, and Jane Craig, chairman of the War Stamps committee.

There will be no meeting held on February 5 due to the February Meetings.

WORK SHOP

Writers' Workshop held its first meeting of this year on Wednesday, January 25. John Houdeshel read an historical narration, "Towering O'er the Wrecks of Time," the story of a book written 400 A.D. Robert Whitford was the critic. Louise Corbett, second reader, presented a humorous character sketch, "My Little (?) Sister." which was criticized by Jeanne Bellerjeau.

President Lloyd Speaks On "Divine Imperative" In Wednesday Chapel

Emphasizes Vocation, Service, Daily Living

"There are two areas of life," said Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president, as he addressed students and faculty for the first time this semester last Wednesday morning. "They are the voluntary and the compulsory . . . . . The heart of the matter is finding a balance between them!"

There is a kind of compulsion men place on themselves, he stated; it comes from their convictions and ideals. They choose these higher things and then find that they must do these things to be true to themselves and to God.

"This was Jesus' way of life," he explained; "in his life there was a "Divine Imperative."

The "I must" which he used during his ministry signified how the "Divine Imperative" ruled his daily life. In Luke, these words were used several times.

Dr. Lloyd pointed out that Jesus said "I must be about my Father's business," indicating the sense of vocation which men should have. "No matter what the vocation," he said, "if it's done with a Divine Imeprative."

Likewise Jesus' words "I must preach the good tidings of the kingdom of God to the other cities also" should be a guide to man to a sense of world service, according to him.

"Courage to do the daily task no matter how hard or dangerous is found in Jesus' words, "I must go on my way today, and tomorrow and the day following!," Dr. Lloyd declared.

These, according to Dr. Lloyd outlined "The Divine Imperative" for life. "It's not how much education I have, but my purpose in using it", he said.

Quoting General George C. Marshall, who spoke at the Conference of World Educators in Atlantic City which Dr. Lloyd recently attended, the president continued, "War is a terrible and tragic business and it lays terrible and tragic burdens on the hearts of men. . . . . If you get your general policy right, the details will fall into line."

"We must bridge the gap between Christian ideals and the decisions and governments of the post-war world," Dr. Lloyd concluded. "We must go on our way, today, and tomorrow, and the day following. . . doing the daily task, following "The Divine Imperative!"

Chillies Defeat Howies To Begin Basketball Season For Point System Girls

To open the new sports year the Chillies defeated the Howies Thursday afternoon in the opening basketball game by the score of 33-16. Elsie Jean Cotton led the Chillies by scoring 17 points for her team. She was followed by Captain Marion Henderson who scored 10 points. Virginia Wible and Gillreath tied for scoring honors for the Howies with eight points each accounting for the entire score. The remaining six points earned by the Chillies were divided among Carol Short, two points, Ruth Williams, two points, and Marion Lewis, two points.

The following is the lineup for the game:

Chillies (33)	pos.	Howies (16)
M. Henderson(c)	F	D. Justice
C. Short	F	V. Wible
E. J. Cotton	F	B. L. King
C. Fuller	G	Sommers (c)
E. Anderson	G	V. Wood
Me. Henderson	G	L. Nunn

Substitutions: Chillies — DeLaney, Williams, Lewis, and Balch; Howies—Gillettee, Gillreath, and Greenlee.

Officials: Ruth King Wood, referee; Betty Lou Kuykendahl, scorekeeper; Kitty Johnson and Lonnie Richardt, time keepers.

Chilhowean Staff Seeks Snapshots For 1945 Annual

Snapshots to complete a feature page in this year's Chilhowean are requested by Thelma Richardson, editor. All students having glossy prints which they would like to have reproduced in the Chilhowean are asked to submit them as soon as possible to a member of the editorial staff.

Only a comparatively few students lack complete payment for their annuals, business manager, Marinell Ross, stated this week. These are asked to pay in full within the next two weeks to a member of the business staff.

Feature pictures for the Chilhowean were taken by Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of chemistry, before the close of last semester and during the Christmas holidays. No more can be made because the Chilhowean staff no longer has access to a camera. All activity group pictures have been taken except the "M" Club, point system groups, and informal pictures of scenes from this year's play productions. The dates when these will be taken will be announced in the near future.

The editor recently stated that the yearbook dummy which was first sent to the printing company in November has been approved and returned. Necessary corrections and additions were then made, and the dummy is once again in the hands of the publishers.

French Club

Program chairmen Sarah Enloe, of Georgia, and Barbara Wells, of Knoxville, directed a program of French games at the regular meeting of the French Club in the new semester. The business meeting was conducted by Imogene Everett, president-elect of the club.

Next To Home, There's No Place Like School!

By JOAN LIDDELL

This old world of ours is full of a million different kinds of people, all with their own ideas, thoughts, and desires, but among college students is found only one reaction to a long vacation from school; an eagerness to get home, away from books, themes, and lectures, but at the end of their rest, eagerness to get back to school, to the same books, but different (we hope) themes and lectures.

Vacation does a great deal toward making a student, particularly a freshman, realize just what a great and wonderful opportunity has been set before him. For the first time since he came to school, he finds time to think through and evaluate its real meaning, and he finds an almost ineffable satisfaction in the knowledge that he, too, will soon be prepared to take his place in the world. He anticipates going back to school. "On with this business of preparing ourselves for life," he thinks. "Forward on this path, no matter how steep or rocky, that leads us each to our own ultimate goal."

So, at last, vacation is over. Crowds of students pile on packed buses and trains all over the country, heading back to their respective loyalties.

Too many Christmas presents account for the extra packages that have to be carried, or sent by mail. Suitcases, loaded with "things" so necessary, and yet so unnecessary to the college student, are laboriously dragged through stations, from one means of transportation to another. Hatboxes, umbrellas, rubbers, books, and various other sundry items, most be gathered up into just one pile beore the destination is reached. But in spite of all his trouble, the prospective student finally arrives, tired but happy, if you discount that one corner of his heart that feels just a little sad at leaving his family and home, and with such eagerness.

It seems good to see all of his friends again, though. He hasn't known them very long, maybe, but at his school he finds the kind of a person he likes best; everyone, really, is "so nice".

There have been changes made among them. "Barbara has a beautiful new ring. Have you seen it?" "Mary Lou has cut her hair. Doesn't it look sweet?" "June has had Don's class ring all during vacation. What do you think about that?" "John is back from the Army. Doesn't he look good?" "Bill and Margie are still dating all the time. I wonder if that is serious?" Thus, the student tries to take up where he stopped when school closed before Christmas.

Still, he likes to bring in the things he has done, the people he has seen, and more particularly, the food he has had to eat during his vacation. "The Princess and the Pirate" was a wonderful movie; it was really great to see Sally again, and to talk over "old" times and school; but how could anyone forget that chocalate cake Mother had waiting for him when he got home. And eggs! He could have eggs every day at home. Mother fixed orange juice, and made all kinds of pie, just generally spoiling him for "school food". But he loved it. Home would certainly not have been the same without Mother's cooking.

But he's back! And it gives him a strange feeling of satisfaction to have biscuits for breakfast, soup on Saturday nights, and grits, creamed chicken, and greens during the week. He's "back in the old rut", and no matter how much he complains, or how many "gripes" he presents, he missed all this during vacation.

School is work! But it can be, and is, pleasantly satisfying, too. I'm glad to be back, aren't you?

Kemp Leads In Semester Standings Of Intramurals; Heuser Second

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Abbott Kemp, who won in the program last year, is well out in front in the Intramural sports progam again this year, having earned a total of 102 intramural points through participation last semester. However, since he has his orders to report for induction in the Army Air Forces on February 1, he did not re-enter college this semester, and that gives several of those fellows who were following him a good chance to win the race for the highest total of points this year.

Standing second in rank is Don Heuser, freshman from St. Louis, with 88. He is closely followed by Merrill Grubbs, John Houdeshel, Calvin Garland, and Bill Cover, in that order.

The following is a list of every student who earned points in intramural participation last semester and his standing:

1.	Kemp	102
2.	Heuser	88
3.	Grubbs	71
4.	Houdeshel	69
5.	Garland	67
6.	Cover	64
7.	Brown	60
8.	Cardella	59
9.	McGarity	59
10.	Hundemann	58
11.	Benninati	54
12.	Asher	52
13.	Seel	52
14.	Henry	52
15.	Pribble	51
16.	House	51
17.	Kirstein	50
18.	Lester	49
19.	Seymour	42
20.	Liester	40
21.	Chinault	40
22.	Bishop	38
23.	Scott	37
24.	Richard	33
25.	Thompson	33
26.	Cross	32
27.	Kinser	31
28.	Wilson	25
29.	Schieber	26
30.	Stegall	20
31	Huber	18
32.	Smailer	14
33.	Vogel	5
34.	Anderson	4
35.	Ross	4

Awards are presented at the end of the year to those who have accumulated the highest totals.

Plans

If the excellent interest in intramural sports continues through this semester—the percentage of students who participate has been higher this year than ever before—the following sports will be conducted: basketball, probably thru February; volleyball sometime in March or April; and softball when the weather is good enough, in April or May.

Plans are already being made to get intramural basketball started, and the intramural staff hopes to have the first game this week.

They Say.....

"No." "Definitely not!" "The farmer should be left to his own initiative!" "The government should keep its fingers out of individual problems."

These are some of the emphatic answers we received when we approached students with the question "SHOULD THE GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIZE AGRICULTURE IN THE POST-WAR WORLD?"

Yet . . . many of our national leaders support such ideas. Some years ago that very thing was done a few miles north of here in Montgomery County, Tennessee.

Is it that we are not far-sighted enough? Evidently the plan was very successful in that section of Tennessee. The farmers were given enough money to tide them over until fields had lain idle long enough to be in condition for crop rotation and the raising of something besides soil-destroying cotton or tobacco, which had been allowed to run down the land generation after generation.

Think!

We . . . you and I, . . . are the generation of tomorrow—we are the people! What about it?

This is your world that's being shaped and planned! It's easy to talk vaguely about it. . . . easy to say "no" when someone asks you about subsidization, for instance. You're going to have to earn your bread in the world of tomorrow . . . . you're going to have to live in this tomorrow Think about it. Talk about it.

Swimming To Be Taught At Night Classes

Popular demand for instruction in swimming has been great this year. As an accomodation to those students who wish to take lessons, several qualified instructors plan to begin giving lessons on February 15. The courses will terminate the last of April. Courses will be offered in Senior Life Saving, Intermediate and Beginner's Swimming. The following is the tenative schedule:

Monday and Thursday:

8:15-9:15 p. m.—Intermediate (Instructor, June Townsend)

Wednesday and Friday:

7:15-8:15 p. m.—Beginners (Instructor, Lois Collett)

8:15-9:15 p. m.—Life Saving (Instructor, Audrey Montieth)

This schedule may be changed slightly if the request is great enough. All students interested are invited to register for instruction. Announcement will be made in chapel as to the time and place for a meeting of all students who will take any course.

Albert Flowers Awarded Second Oak Leaf Cluster To Air Medal In Europe

Albert H. Flowers, ex '44, has been presented with the second Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement" while participating in Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on Nazi war industries and supporting ground forces battling in Germany.

Technical Sergeant Flowers is a radio operator and gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress of the 96th Bombing Group. He has been in the army since July, 1942 and has been overseas several months.

Flowers attended Maryville two years and was a music major taking an active part in the choir and glee club during that time.

LT. ARNOLD KRAMER

Arnold Kramer has been in the Pacific for over 15 months, and is now on Saipan. Prior to this time, he served in the North African Campaign. Kramer was a member of the football team, when he attended Maryville.

LIEUT. JACK KRAMER

Jack Kramer, ex '43, is now stationed on Saipan. While he was here, Kramer played football, and was a member of the Hi-Trail.

PFC. FRANK KRAMER

Frank Kramer is now in Belgium, after having been in Germany. Kramer has served overseas in the Field Artillery for over nine months. A member of the class of '46, he was a member of the football team.

CPL SCOTT McCLURE

Scott McClure left his camp for a port of Embarkation several weeks ago. McClure is with the Medical Division in the Infantry. While he was attending Maryville, McClure was a member of the glee club and a class officer.

S 2/C RUSH LESTER, ex '47. will visit the campus next week, having just completed his boot training at Great Lakes. He was president of his freshman class, active in intramurals, and an Athenian while here.

PFC ARTHUR BUSHING

Arthur Bushing is now on his way overseas with an infantry group. Prior to the time that he left his port of embarkation, he was stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia.

An English major, Bushing was active in the YMCA, president of the Senior Class of 1943, and elected to WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES.

LIEUT ROSS HONAKER

Ross Honaker, ex '43, has been assigned to combat duty as a P-51 Mustang pilot with a Fighter Group of the Army Air Forces. His duty is to escort bombers and troops over Germany and other occupied countries.

Lt. Honaker received his wings and was commissioned in May 1944, and was stationed in Tallahassee, Fla., prior to the time that he left for overseas duty.

Honaker was active in athletics, playing football, basketball, and baseball.

M.S. LLOYD TAYLOR

Lloyd Taylor, former pre-med student here is now with a V-12 unit at Duke University Medical School. He will finish his work there in March 1946. Taylor was co-captain of the football team as well as a member of the basketball and baseball teams and President of Hi-Trail.

LIEUT. JIMMY EVANS

Lt. Jimmy Evans is back after serving with the Air Force in England and France. He was forced to bail out in Free France two days after its liberation and has been made a member of the Caterpillar Club. While at Maryville, Evans, '44, took an active part in the choir and glee club.

1ST LT. DUDLEY MOORE

Dudley Moore, who has been stationed at Camp Barkley, Texas, was on the campus several days ago. Now in the medical corps, Moore was president of ' Alpha Sigma, a member of the band and drum major, and elected to WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES, prior to his graduation here in May, 1942.

PVT. DICK MOORE

Pvt. Dick Moore, ex '44, who is in the Air Corps near Columbia, S. C. visited the campus recently. Moore was a chemistry major here.

M. S. DAVE HALL

Dave Hall, '42, visited the campus last week before resuming his studies at the University of Alabama, where he is a sophomore in the Med School. Hall, who was a chemistry major, sang in the choir here.

Miranda ..... Hageman

Miss Bradford, a petite brunette, grew up in California where she began her studies under John Patton. She studied further under Anna Fitzu, the famous Metropolitan diva. In 1940 she began her career, making her debut as a member of the Chicago Opera Company with an all-star Metropolitan cast.

Miss Bradford arrived in Maryville Saturday afternoon. She stayed at the Guest House in the college woods, and was entertained by Mrs. Walker. Because her regular accompanist, William Teussig, was unable to be here, she spent several hours rehearsing with Miss Katherine Davies, the head of the Music Department, who accompanied her on the piano. Miss Davies said she enjoyed the association, and was impressed by her delightful personality. "She is a good musician, and an intelligent and systematic worker," Miss Davies said.

Miss Bradford played in Knoxville two years ago as "Sibyl" in the production of "Faust". Jay Bishop, freshman ministerial student was in the same cast with her in "Roberta" last summer in Detroit. She has been given screen tests recently by Hollywood studios, but she states that she aspires to opera rather than moving pictures.

Miss Bradford was well received in concert in Providence, Rhode Island, January 15, just before coming here. She has now returned to Chicago, where she is to resume her studies.

Professor George D. Howell, Chairman of the Artists Series, has announced that the next and final concert is scheduled for March 13, when Egon Petri, the pianist, will be presented. Mr. Petri is expected to arrive March 12 to visit the college and give informal talks and performances.

Nicola Moscona, popular young baritone was here last November in the initial concert of the series.

Improvements On Campus Made During Vacation

Redecorating and repairing were the jobs which occupied the Maintenance Department during the Christmas vacation, Louis A. Black, director of maintenance reported.

The biggest job of the vacation was the repair work done in the power plant. Several new tubes were installed in the boilers.

The redecorating on the campus is more visible to the returning students. The floors in the Lamar Memorial library were refinished. A new coat of paint was applied to the floor in the Chatterbox, and perhaps the most noticable job was the removal of the white wooden fire escape from the front of Anderson Hall.

Redecorating of Carnegie was another project. Desks, chairs, beds, and other pieces of furniture were refinished. Several rooms in Baldwin were painted. The floor of the little gym was reworked, and the big gym was cleaned. In general repairs were made in all the campus buildings wherever they were needed.

The latest project of the Maintenance department is sawing logs in the college woods for the general use in the workshops and on the college farm.

Sybil Tallent Weds

Sybil Tallent, Maryville College senior, and T/Sgt. L. R. Haney, gunner and radio operator who has recently returned from action in Italy, were married December 27, 1944 at the First Baptist church in Etowah, Tennessee, the home town of both the bride and groom.

The bride wore a wedding dress of ivory satin with a finger-tip veil. She carried white roses and orchids. Her bridesmaids were childhood chums. Richard Vine, assistant director of music, was soloist, and Miss Katherine Davies, director of music, was the pianist. The repertoire included the bride's favorite numbers.

The groom is now stationed temporarily at Monroe, Louisana. Mrs. Haney, a biology major at Maryville College, has been active in voice, organ and piano.

Margaret M. McClure Recently Elected To Alpha Gamma Sigma

6.5 Grade Average Is Requirement

Margaret Messer McClure, who graduated from Maryville College December, 1944, has been elected a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma, an honorary scholastic organization. This society was organized at Maryville College in 1934 for the purpose of encouraging high scholarship among students. Its requirements are equal to those of Phi Beta Kappa. Among them are a grade point ratio of 6.5 for the four years of college, leadership ability, and outstanding achievement in fields other than scholarship.

Mrs. McClure was elected to this honor at her graduation by members of the organization. She was elected this year to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities", was president of Bainonian, and was very active in Student Vols and Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. McClure is now living with her parents in White Pine, Tennessee but is planning in the near future to take the position of Religious Education Director at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. Her husband, Cpl. Maurice Scott McClure, is now serving overseas.

VICTORY SHIP HONORING M. C. TO BE LAUNCHED FEBRUARY 22,

Son of Former President To Be At Christening

The United States Maritime Commission has announced that Maryville has been chosen as one of the forty oldest institutions for which new Victory ships are to be named. This ship is now being built at the shipyards of California Shipbuilding Corporation and will be launched Thursday, February 22, at 9:00 p.m. The ships official name will be the S. S. Maryville Victory.

The commission has requested that nearby alumni take part in the ceremony, and Dr. Lloyd has appointed Lamar Wilson, class of '21, and son of the former President Wilson, to represent the college at the christening. Mr. Wilson is the manager of an engineering and construction company.

While this news came as a shock to the student body when announced in local and nearby papers, Dr. Lloyd stated that his office received the official notice on January 27, but at that time, was not allowed to release it to the press.

Saturday Program To Consist of Experimental Play

Zenobia Bernardini, chairman of the Social Committee, recently announced that the Experimental Theater will have charge of the Saturday night entertainment on February 17. Two short plays will be presented. There will also be some Valentine poetry read accompanied by music. The program will be held in Bartlett Hall.

Seven Members Added To Choir

Seven new members have been added this semester to the Maryville College choir, raising th total number to 45, recently stated Richard Vine, choir director. As a result of individual tryouts Kay Stout, sophomore, was added to the first alto section; Mildred Orr, freshman, and Frances Ashby, are the new second sopranos; the base section boasts the addition of Paul Myers, freshman; George Robarts, freshman; Harold Kidder, sophomore; John Kirstein.

Spanish Club Will See Movie On South America

Louise Corbet, president of the Spanish Club, has announced that a movie on South America will be shown at the next regular meeting of the club to be held Thursday, February 22. Louise is a Spanish major from Jacksonville, Florida.

All members and prospective members are invited to attend. The treasurer requests that all old members pay their dues.

Dr. Dawson To Address Pre-Meds

W. N. Dawson, M.D., director of the Public Health Service of Maryville, will speak to members of the Pre-Med Club at the next meeting, Thursday, February 22 in Fayerweather Hall. A short business meeting conducted by the president Ethel Brocker, junior chemistry major from New York, will precede the talk.

Beall, Ross, Gates To Be On I.R.C. Panel February 26

Compulsory Post-War Military Training To Be Discussed

A panel discussion with compulsory post-war military training as its theme will be presented at the next meeting of the International Relations Club, February 26 in the Y.W. rooms. Ethel Beall, senior biology major from New Jersey, and Marinell Ross, junior history major from Maryville, will support the affirmative side of the discussion. Edward Gates, senior majoring in English, also of Maryville, will give points pertaining to the negative side with the assistance of one other who has not as yet been selected.

Original Orations

Two orations were given at the last meeting, February 5 with Bette Lou McCoy, senior philosophy major, "Exposing the Anti-Semite" and John Shell, sophomore economics major, saying "Idealism Can Be Realism". These orations were written and presented at the state debated tournament which the varsity debate team attended last week in Cookeville.

"Time" current affairs tests were also distributed at the meeting by the president, Robert Huber.

Four Professors Represent College At State Meeting

Vanderbilt Site Of Philological Society Confab

Representing Maryville College at the annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological society scheduled for March 2 and 3 at Vanderbilt University will be four faculty members.

This meeting is a state get-together of college faculty members in the foreign language and English departments. Reading of literature and papers will be the main feature of the program.

Delegates from Maryville will be Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter and Dr. Hill Shine of the English department, and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian.

Meetings Continue With Dr. Caldwell Speaking On "The Mission of Christ"

Bond Rally Program Will Feature Crowning of Queen On Saturday, February 24, Class Queens To Be Selected At Meeting Friday

Crowning of the War Bond Queen will highlight the bond rally to be held in the Alumni Gymnasium Saturday, February 24. Class queens will be elected in class meetings on Friday, February 16. The queen to be crowned on Coronation Day will be the one whose class supports her through the purchase of war stamps on February 7, 14, and 21. The three runners-up for the title of War Bond Queen will comprise the queen's court.

A basketball game between the Maryville College team and the team of Everett High School will be another feature on the bond rally program. The men of the college faculty will challenge the intra-mural boys' team to a game of volley ball as part of the evening's entertainment. A short basketball game will be played by the girls' basketball teams which are sponsored by Point System.

Admission By Stamps

Admission to this evening of entertainment will be the purchasing of one war stamp—either a dime or quarter stamp — at th door of the gymnasium on the night of the bond rally. Refreshments, cakes and roasted peanuts, will be sold.

The relative position of the queens may be watched on the poster which is on display in the lobby of Pearson Hall. Each class is urged to support their queen by purchasing war stamps each Wednesday evening and making the class vote 100 per cent.

Mrs. West Names Production Crew For Junior Miss

Harold Kidder Appointed Business Manager For Play

Harold Kidder has been apointed Business Manager of the Bainonian-Athenian presentation of Junior Miss, Mrs. Nita Eckles West announced today. Other members of the production crew have also been announced. Robert Seel and Wiliam Cover are the stage managers. They will be assisted by Jeannette Miller, Lois Thomas, Eleanor Kelly, and Elsie Onifer, members of the stage crew. The publicity manager and committee are Luther Cross and Margaret Cross. Virginia Clabough is the properties manager. Costumes will be under the managership of Ann Thornton. Martha Edgerton will act as assistant to the director. Harriet McKeen, Martha Grace Brindley, and Marion Swift will aid in the production by serving on various committees, where ever their services are needed.

Three Parts Unfilled

The part of Barlow Adams will be portrayed by Thomas Wheeler and Jack Craig will play the part of Albert Kunody. Three boys parts remain to be filled. Max House, Esther Farrow, Virginia Miller, Thelma Richardson, Shirley Scott, Jean Messer, Betty Lou McCoy, James Martin, Thomas Horst, Merrill Grubbs, Fred Wilson, and Kenneth Kribbs constitute the remainder of the cast.

There are still openings for one person on the properties committée, one person to aid with the costumes, and several people to work on the stage crew.

The date of the presentation of Junior Miss will be announced in the next issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO.

NATURE CLUB

Present members of the Nature Club have decided to discontinue club meetings for the remainder of the semester. Plans are being made to stimulate interest in nature study so that the club may resume its programs in the fall semester.

Services Conclude With Final Sermon Thursday

YM To Hear Hopson Sunday

The Rev. Mr. Morris Hopson, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Maryville, will address the members of the Y.M.C.A. at the regular meeting on Sunday, February 16, in the Fine Arts Studio.

President James C. Witherspoon revealed last week that he expects to announce the membership of the new cabinet some time next week.

Student Vols Hear Dr. Caldwell

Dr. Caldwell was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Student Vols last Sunday evening, February 11.

On Sunday, February 4, Lib Baird, daughter of missionary parents, spoke of her like in Korea.

Pino, Waring, Will Read At Workshop

Edelmiro Pino, senior majoring in English from Cuba, wil read an original sketch entitled "Revenge" at the next meeting of Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon, February 14, in Thaw Hall. Reading with her will be Mildred Waring, junior sociology major from New Bedford, Massachusetts. The girls will have as their critics, Louise Corbett and Ruth Freeman.

At the last meeting on January 31, Betty Jane Meyer, senior Spanish major from New Jersey, read "Humbled", a character sketch, critic. "A Letter to Mary" was read by Wiliam Robarts, junior with Thelma Richardson as her English major from Florida, with Evelyn Whitehead as his critic.

Dr. Frank Caldwell, president of Louisville Seminary, and an outstanding minister of the South, began our services of the annual February meetings on Tuesday morning, February 7. Dr. Caldwell announced his general theme of all his morning sermons as "The Eight R's of the Mission of Christ". These eight R's, he explained, are to be developed:—"To Reveal the Truth, to Retrieve man in Moral Confusion, to Revolutionize Life's Objectives, to Redeem the Passions of Man, to Revise the Mathmatics of Religion, to Receive the Talents of Men, to Rectify the Loyalties of Life, and to Recall Runaways from God". While there is no set theme for the evening services, they are planned to tie in with his general topic of discussion.

"The Necessity of Putting Up Some Strong Religious Convictions" was the subject of Dr. Caldwell's first message. The text of this message was John 9, the well known story of a blind man whose sight is recovered by his strong faith which served as a basic foundation upon which to build. Dr. Caldwell stressed that in our lives, likewise, we should set down certain fundamental facts about which there is no uncertainty. "Build a super structure of religious conviction and moral faith," he said. In order to do this we must deal with the problem of sin, and consider man's responsibility for its presence. He emphasized the importance of the Bible in answer to how to gain salvation and for the revelation of Jesus Christ. He concluded after reading Thomas Carlyle's definition of religion with a forceful statement of the necessity of having something definite set down and being able to say "I know—" as a foundation.

Fraction Of Life

Dr. Caldwell's subject for the first evening service was "The Fraction of Life". Matthew 16:23-

Bartlett Hall Recreational Center Pronounced Success

Additional Games, Equipment Needed

Maryville College's new Recreation and Social Center in Bartlett Hall opened Monday afternoon, February 5, and already it has been termed, "A huge success" by both students and faculty alike.

According to Jeanne Bellerjeau, chairman of the Operating Committee, "The attendance has been excellent . . . The biggest crowds come in the evenings after supper." It is estimated that Monday night, the first night it was open, there were over 100 students to visit the Center. Miss Bellerjeau added, Everyone has cooperated wonderfully."

Ping Pong Popular

Of all the activities offered at the Center—parlor games, volley ball, shuffleboard, ping pong, and others—ping pong is the most popular game.

It has also pointed out by the Operation Committee that donations are still being accepted, and any information as to the whereabouts of an available chess set would be appreciated.

Regulations

The following is a list of rules and regulations posted by the Operation Committee for the Social Center:

1. All college rules will be in effect.
2. The hosts and hostesses will have full authority at the time of their serving.
3. Shorts will not be worn at any time.
4. There will be no eating inside the building.
5. Sign out slips must be filled out for all equipment used.
6. You are responsible for the equipment you are using.
7. There will be a signal given five minutes before closing time by the hosts and hostesses.
8. Only specified rooms are to be used.

Eight Interned..... Children,s Diseases Strike MC Students

Cases of measles, chicken pox, and colds have kept the hospital crew busy this semester. Since the beginning of the second semester eight of the college students have been interned under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hall, matron of the Lamar Memorial Hospital.

James Witherspoon opened the way when his case was diagnosed as chicken pox on January 24. He was released from the hospital on February 3, and is now back at school.

Five Have Measles

Five cases of the measles have broken out of the campus this semester. Virginia Miller and Bob Whitford have already been released from the hospital having recovered from the measles. Ann Kerr entered the hospital on February 6 with the measles. She was followed by Edith Earle on the seventh, and on February 8, Geraldine Wimberly broke out with the rash.

Betty Ann Showalter has been interned since February 2 with a severe cold.

German Club Plans For Reorganization

The German Club will call a brief meeting Monday, February 19. Florence Housch, president and a Biology major from Chickamauga Georgia, has anounced that the purpose of the meeting is to elect a secretary, treasurer, and program chairman.

A discussion concerning the change of time for future meetings will also be held.

Next issue of the Highland Echo will be published Feb. 26.

ECHO Survey Reveals Opinion Divided As To Compulsory Military Training

Opinion is divided equally at Maryville College on the question: "Do you favor a compulsory military training program in peace times?" Results of a survey made by the Highland Echo last week indicate that, taken as a whole---men, women, and faculty members---views are balanced. After questioning forty persons, tabulation of their answers showed that twenty favor some sort of plan to draft all young men, upon their reaching a certain age, for a year's military training and the other twenty oppose such a plan.

The majority of the girls approached with the question regard the plan as desirable; both the majority of the fellows and the majority of the faculty members questioned expressed themselves as being opposed to a peace time draft. Of 21 girls 15 were "pro" and six "con". There were four fellows for it and ten against. Four out of five faculty members were against the plan. And although no effort was made to interview an equal number of those who favor the plan and those who oppose it, the answers add up to show fifty percent on both sides of this strikingly conterversial question.

Many points were brought out as reasons for the opinions offered. In general thoese who think this nation should have some such a program said that the nation needs the protection and preparedness that it would afford, and that the men who would get the training would benefit from the discipline and the physical emphasis. It was also brought out that it would be educational and broadening.

Persons who view the plan with disfavor stated that it is unnecessary to resort to a draft and that peace should be attained by other methods. It was declared that rather than promoting peace the program of military training would promote a militaristic attitude in our young men. Opponents of the plan also maintain that a draft takes away too many of a man's personal liberties and therefore is undemocratic.

Various Views Offered

Marinell Ross comented, "I am definitely for it. It affords a wonderful opportunity to discipline and would give valuable experience to the trainees."

Ann Anderson said, "I think it is a very good idea."

Eleanor Kelley, when asked the question, replied, "Yes, a certain amount of discipline is helpful to a young man in learning to be more able to stand on his own. And a well equipped, ready youth will be a great help

Varsity Debate Team Wins Honors At State Tourney

Ross, Huber Win Impromptu, Extempore

Marinell Ross, junior history, major from Maryville, and Robert Huber, senior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, placed fist in impromptu and extempore speaking, respectively, in the extra events at the Tennessee State Pi Kappa Delta tournament held at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, on February 1 and 2.

Debating on the national question, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should enact legislation requiring the settlement of all labor disputes by compulsory arbitration when voluntary means have failed, constitutionally conced", three other colleges were entered in the meet under the direction of Herman Pinkrston, professor of history and political science at T. P. I. They were Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tennessee Polytechnic; and Tennessee Wesleyan.

Although results have not been officially announced, Maryville is credited with winning 13 debates out of 20, according to Dr. David H. Briggs, debate coach.

Three women's teams and one men's team were entered by Maryville. Dorothy Lehman and Marinell Ross debated both the affirmative and negative sides; Gladys David and Judy Turk were affirmative; Miriam Wickham and Bette Lou McCoy were negative; John Shell and Robert Huber debated both affirmative and negative.

Official results of the debates will be announced later, Dr. Briggs stated.

Dr. and Mrs. Shine Speak at Faculty Club Monday

Lecture On Authors And Articles From Quarterly Review

Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Hill Shine were the featured speakers at the monthly meeting of the Faculty Club Monday night, February 5, at 7:30. The meeting was held in Fayerweather Hall. The subject of the program was "English Periodical Literature."

According to Dr. Shine, assistant professor of English on the campus, the purpose of the talks was to give a background of literature as found in the magazine, Quarterly Review. Having made a cursory study of the essays in the magazine, he was able to inform the guests at to the spirit and nature of the magazine.

Authors' Lives

In order to further interpret the magazine, Mrs. Shine told about the lives of some of the authors who contributed to the magazine. Since most of the articles were unsigned, the task of proving authorship was her project. She included, in her talk various incidents of humor connected with the lives of the authors.

Freshmen home economics students under the direction of Miss Gertrude-Meiselwitz served salad and dessert to faculty guests.

The two remaining programs in the semester include a talk by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd and a visiting speaker who is an authority on libraries.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

THE SOCIAL CENTER

For over a week the recreational and social center in Bartlett Hall has been operating successfully. Both students and members of the faculty have commented favorably as to the plan. The daily attendance which has run over one hundred at times is a further indication that the plan will be a success.

But to be a real and lasting success the cooperation of each individual is necessary. It simply will not work if certain individuals take unfair advantage of some of the opportunities they have received or if some attempt to interpret the rules to fit the occasion.

The plan for a social center did not materialize out of thin air. Its completion has been a long process. But now that it has been put into actual operation, there are certain responsibilities that necessarily go along with the privileges.

Assumption of the responsibilities on the part of the students is a definite step toward greater and more effective student government. But let us always remember that responsibilities and previleges go together. You can't have one without the other.

V

LIBRARY . . . . .

LIBEL

By Joan Liddell

(In the absence of Olinde Aherns, Joan Liddell, freshman staff member of the Echo, will write Library Libel.)

Chicken pox or measles wouldn't do for Olinde. It took seven subjects to get her to rest. So if the libel of the library runs a little light this week, you'll realize what truth those soap opera announcers have in "Don't take a substitute. Insist on the real thing." She'll be back soon, we're sure, but while she's catching up on some much needed sleep, read recognizing the fact that a reasonable facsimile is just a facsimile.

The recreation center opened with a bang Monday as shuffleboard "pushers" and ping-pong paddles hit floors and tables. But you don't have to win every game, Heuser.

We were standing around the front hall debating as to where we should go first, when Hannah Duke came toward us from the first floor gym and asked innocently what kind of games they had downstairs.

And now exit the heroine with short, hurried steps to the right, reminding us all that Valentines Day is near. Red is the usual color, isn't it? For Valentine's Day, I mean. Not Hannah's face . . .

Speaking of Valentine's Day, if we were, let's throw a bouquet for the freshmen to catch in reward for the entertainment this week. We'll tell you what kind of flowers after Saturday night.

Birthdays come but once a year, which is sometimes good, but, if you're lucky enough to get five boxes of food like Carolyn Ulrich did last Monday, is sometimes rather sad. Poor B. A.! We were that adage read "Starve a fever; feed a cold." But then, she'd lose either way on that one. She'll have another one next year, B. A.

We were asked not too long ago as to the favorite topic of conversation in Memorial. What did you say it was, Marty? That is, aside from the question (or is it a question?) in the minds of all of us concerning the JC-JM setaup. Yes, we know, it's really none of our business, but . . .

Of the reserved tables in the library, the northeast corner holds by far the most interesting books . . . Books and peiodicals, I should say. Or did anyone else notice those three new magazines which approach life from that age-old outlook always intensely interesting to the newcomer . . . the domestic. But, like all good Christians, the discoverers passed the good news along, we noticed. Keep up with the times, we always say. Or was it the "American Home"?

Ralph must have some admirers on third floor Baldwin. But Jean, if you're going to call people sweet names, why pick on Ginger's room? Ralph might get all mixed up. . .

Speaking of the manpower shortage (and we were. You just don't know), Jeanne Heaps has the solution. Evidently it takes the very acceptable form of a sailor wishing the addresses of 20 girls. Sounds like a good deal to us. Granted he won't be able to take care of that many permanently, but it's fun while it lasts. And may the best gal win, Heaps.

And while on the subject of winning, we weren't just sure who was the victor, and real owner of that ring. But just to be sure no one was left out, we sang "Congratulations" to Lois in the dining hall Tuesday night. Don't feel bad. Somebody you'll have one of your own, Lois, and then we'll sing and really mean it . . .

Traversing from one ring to another, we were talking to Kate Smith the other day when Lonnie and her new haircut joined us. All Kate had to say was that it looked to her like Lonnie had been eating bullets . . . All those bangs.

But out of all that noise we obtained a bit (and I mean "a bit") of poetry. To escape all responsibility, I quote;

"There was an old miser named Clarence
Who simmonized both of his parents.
The initial expense, he remarked, is immense,
But I'll save it on waerance and tearance!"

Unquote . . .

And enough of that . . . On to the more cultured side of life . . . Take music, for example, and that record Billie Ruth Wright searched for in every nook and cranny of Knoxville. But all to no avail. . . Trugging wearily, dejectedly past the radio shop, of our own little Maryville, she decided to make one last attempt, however futile it might be. At least she would have done all in her power to bring back Bing Crosby's version of "Don't Fence Me In" for the mutual enjoyment of all those around her. And so, our heroine enters to find that at last . . . at last . . . she is granted her heart's desire. Ah rapture! Ah joy! Eyes reflecting her ecstacy, Billie Ruth trips lightly up the hill, hugging her treasure close to her all the way. Carefully up the steps, and down the hall to her room. Within a matter of seconds, the news has been spread, and an army of girls invades the room to hear the initial performance. The strains of the music waft gently through the halls, and the second time it's played, they penetrate into the innermost corners of Jan Callahan's room. Enter the villan! As Jane walks nonchalantly into the innocent's room, (the record has been oh so gently placed on the bed.) She kills three birds with one gesture as she sits down on the bed . . . and Bing Crosby . . . and the fence . . . all the same time. Such heartbreak has never been known.

We've heard of people who try to run away from reality, but a reality like measles, once you've got them, is a little hard to hide, even with pancake makeup. We know it's tough, Ann, but we do give you credit for the three days that the idea functioned without a flaw, except for maybe a roommate's objection every now and then. . . .

And here, we would like to ask Nite what she really is knitting that's so small and pink. . . .

But that, I think, is the cue for me to take the role of artist, and draw this thing to a close. . . So until next time, when we all hope Olinde will be back, the stage lights grow dim, and the curtain fells gently into place . . .

By HANNAH DUKE

Maryville is progressing both spiritually and socially. This may be a perplexing statement for people not associated with the college to believe, because many schools are going through a period of standstill due to the decreased enrollments, and the unbalance caused by the vast majority of women students.

But Maryville is practically going to opposite extremes in proving that this need not be the case. For the past 69 years, the February meetings have been held and have become a tradition of our school and one that has gained renown each year. This present season is no exception. We have indeed been fortunate in securing for this period of spiritual uplifting one of the most outstanding and well recognied speakers of this generation. Dr. Caldwell has for some years been quite prominent as a man with unusual preaching ability, and for his excellent leadership of young people. For these reasons, it is a very great privilege that we are able to have him as our speaker during these February meetings. Both those connected with Maryville and members of the community who are joining with us in our services, are receiving numerous benefits from this unusual spiritual guidance and awakening. The appreciation and interest of all is expressed in the attendance of the service.

Social conditions on the campus likewise have taken on new interests and are progressing. For the past several years, a movement has been rather strong among the students in an effort for student government. This effort is becoming more and more a reality. There is close coordination and cooperation between the students and faculty in the Student-Faculty Senate which has the best interests of the students in its operation.

The Student Council has been largely responsible for the creation of "Town Night" which began two years ago as a result of the need for a more extensive recreational program. The students seem to have responded well to the provisions of this privilege and this has made it possible for the establishment of the new "Social Center."

The need for a student center has been met by converting Bartlett Hall into a recreation building. The students have responded almost unanimously with their approval by making use of the facilities offered. While the usual opening hourse will not be the same during the February meetings, the eager response is expected to be continued after the regular hours are resumed next week. Thus far after supper hours have been exceptionally popular. There has been a mad rush from the dining hall in order to be first in line for equipment and to be certain of getting in on the games. It isn't half as interesting from the spectator's point of view so it seems we're going to have to adopt "Turn about is fair play" in order that everyone may participate.

It is the hope of the Student Council and others in charge of this new program that its operation will continue to be successful. This is another measure in an effort to enlarge upon student self-government and our ability to carry out these provision will again illustrate the eagerness of the students to be subjected to self-government.

Meetings Leaders Have Pet Peevs, Like Apples, And Tell "Cow Stories"

Dr. F. H. Caldwell Enjoys Fishing

By Mary Annis Beals

Standing erect and tall in the pulpit, a striking figure with a sense of humor, an appealing voice, and an amazing command of words—this is one's first impression of Dr. Frank Hill Caldwell, the leader of the 69th series of Maryville College February Meetings. But upon closer observation and after conversation with him, one finds a deeply sincere character with a responsive nature, ready wit, and pleasing personality which work together to make his listeners comfortable.

This man, who today is one of the foremost Christian leaders in America, was born in Corinth, Mississippi forty-three years ago. His basic education took place in his home town, after which he was appointed at West Point. This phase of his training lasted only a short time whereupon he enrolled in the University of Mississippi. There he remained for two years, then transferring to the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. Here, after working hard at "all I could say grace over", Dr. Chadwell received his B.D. degree and was awarded the Humphrey Fellowship.

Love At First Sight

But about this time books and all they contained were rapidly fading into the background of the mind of this promising young college student. For on a romantic evening as he was having a most enjoyable time with a "blind date," cupid decided to have some target practice. "It was love at first sight," sighed Dr. Caldwell and added with a smile, "and she's a blond at that."

"I have always been against blonde," he continued. "They are too fickle. But she spoiled my whole system of psychology. And now two of my children are strawberryblonds," he added so proudly that it guaranteed his changed viewpoint on this topic.

Dr. Caldwell now has three children — Frances Patricia, Anne Starling and John Beale Howard.

After graduating from the Louisville Seminary, the young Mr. Caldwell enrolled in Centre College, Kentucky at which institution he earned his A.B. degree. But school was not yet over for the college graduate and happy groom. For now in 1926 with his bride, he went abroad to do graduate work at the University of Edingburgh in Scotland. "This was our honeymoon, and I didn't learn much about books," Dr. Caldwell admitted. The couple made a brief trip to the Continent, visiting in particular Holland and Belgium.

Professor Of Bible

In 1927 Mr. Caldwell and his wife of one year returned to American where he accepted the position of acting professor of Bible at Centre College. 1928 found them relocated in McComb, Mississippi where the young minister became pastor of the J. J. White Memorial Presbyterian Church. He served in this capacity for two years, and then became professor of Homiletics, when only twenty-eight years of age, at the Louisville Seminary.

In 1934 the now thirty-two-year old seminary professor resolved to get his Ph.D. This meant obtaining a leave of absence from the Louisville Seminary and making another trip to Scotland and the University of Edinburgh, not as a groom this time but as a determined young man.

In answering an inquiry as to the presence of sea-sickness, Dr. Caldwell shuteered. "It was terrible," he said. "I wished at the time that I could die." Being the only minister on the vessel, he was the sole leader of the worship services aboard ship. Huge waves "as high as the ceiling" rose while the ship was at Devil's Hole, off the coast of Ireland, and the resulting heaving of the very planks under his feet made sea-sickness and insignificant matter indeed.

DR. F. H. CALDWELL

In that particular siuation, Dr. Caldwell chose for the Scripture in the worship service that day the 107th Psalm. "I remember reading about men who do business on the sea," he said, "and how the Scripture said that during a terrible storm they 'reeled to and fro staggered like a drunk man.' Then the Lord delivered them. I thought it very appropriate.

Gets Doctor's Degree

Soon completing the requirements for his Ph.D. at the University of Edinburgh, Dr. Caldwell cabled his wife to join him in Scotland. The couple then made another Trip of the Continent, traveling throughout Germany and being in the audience of the last showing, in 1934, of the Passion Play in Oberammergau, Bavaria.

In 1936 after Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell returned from Europe, Louisville Seminary made him its president, the position which he holds with ever increasing prominence today. In the same year Centre College conferred upon him an honorary D.D. degree, adding one more honor to his rapidly growing list.

Dr. Caldwell is today a member of the board of directors at Centre College and also a member of the American Association of Teachers of Speech.

Pet Peeve

While answering the conventional questions which are a part of every interview, Dr. Caldwell hesitated at the question, "What is your pet peeve?" "I'm afraid I'm going to have to manufacture one," the speaker admitted. "I can't think of anything which irritates me." Suddenly his period of contemplation was interrupted by the outburst of a deep trill coming with startling clearness from the throat of the president of our college who was standing nearby. This series of notes which were a cross between an operatic number and a modern rendition continued with such force that Dr. Caldwell came quickly out of his study with the words, "Now I have a pet peeve, and you may quote me."

"I am extremely fond of music," he said, very appropriately, "particularly selections from Wagner. I like the Russian style, heavy and somber."

Likes Juicy Apples

Two other outstanding "likes" of the prominent preacher are "good, hard, jucy apples" and "fishing." "Oh boy," he exclaimed "just to take a rod and reel out into one of these clear East Tennessee streams! I will fish at the slightest provocation," he admitted and added, smiling, "I never have decided whether or not fish bite better on Sunday."

When asked for his personal opinion of the bobby-socks brigade, Dr. Caldwell said that he was for them 100 per cent. "I can even tolerate their screaming at Frank Sinatra," he said. "There's hope for any group with a squeal in them like that."

"I have a weakness for red," Dr. Caldwell admitted shamelessly, "bright red! I often look at my batch of ties, see that I've got entirely too many red ones, and then go out and buy another."

When asked for a single statement which could be taken by a college student body for a mental foundation on which to build their spiritual future, Dr. Caldwell said without hesitation, "Be loyal to the royal within thyself. There is a far-reaching significance in this little quotation from a Victorian poet," he said. "We should underscore that and make it our theme."

Impressed With Maryville

Dr. Caldwell has visited Maryville and the College on several previous occasions. He has in former times been the Maryville College chapel speaker and has been a leader in young peoples' conferences held during past summers here on the campus.

"I am always favorably impressed with Maryville College," he submitted. "My opinion of it has been uniformly high, and I have always been impressed with the responsiveness and receptiveness of its students. I have no unhappy memories in this connection."

At the close of the February Meetings Thursday the 15th, Dr. Caldwell and President R. W. Lloyd, at whose home he is the guest during these meetings, will go to Atlanta, Georgia as members of the Committee of Cooperation and Unitization of the Presbyterian Churches of America. Dr. Caldwell plans to be in Kingsport, Tennessee during Holy Week to conduct services there.

Methodist Minister Leads Singing

By LONNIE RICHARDT

Most Maryville students recognize the slightly sandy-haired "little" man who stands so precariously near the edge of the platform to lead the singing for February Meetings as the same sandy-haired man who stood there so precariously last year. In fact, this is his twenty-third year at that task.

An encyclopedia might say of him: "Stringham, Sidney E.—Evangelist singer, minister, born in Ottumwa, Iowa. . ."

It might also say when the man was born, but this is not a publishable fact as far as the Highland Echo could find from Stringham himself. He almost let his age slip once, but clasped his hand over his mouth just in time to keep the eagerly awaited truth from escaping. All that can be released at this date is that he has passed his eighteenth birthday.

Alcoa Minister

While he was minister of the Methodist Church in Alcoa, Dr. Stringham led February Meeting singing for the first time. That was in 1922. He has performed this service every year since then with the exception of 1934.

DR. S. STRINGHAM

In 1931, he went to St. Louis and until last fall, he was pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church there. Since then he has organized a minister's quartet, among other things, in Jackson, Missouri, where his new pastorate is located. He chuckled a bit to himself as he noted that the quartet included, besides him, ministers of the Presbyterian, Baptist, and Evangelistical denominations.

His two daughters, Jean and Ruth, are married; Jean, a Home Economics major, graduated from Maryville in 1942.

He is a man who takes pleasure

District High School Basketball Tournament Scheduled For Alumni Gym Feb. 26, March 2,

Chilies Defeat Howies For Girls' Point System Basketball Championship

With a total of four wins and no losses to their credit, the Chillies wound up the point system basketball tournament last Tuesday with a 22-21 victory over the Howies.

A two-point lead shifted back and forth between the teams during the entire game, and victory for the Chillies came only after several 2-minute overtime rounds. A double foul, with Short successfully completing her free throw gave the Chillies their winning point.

Mae Short took high point honors with 13 points tallied, while Elsie Jean Cotton and Gillreath came next with 7 and 6 points respectively.

The lineups:

Chillies (22)		Howies (21)
Cotton	F	Justice
Lewis	F	Wible
Balch	F	Gillreath
Delaney	G	Wallace
Fuller	G	Bernadini
Henderson, M. G		Lavender

Substitutions: Chillies—Anderson, Short, and Fuller; Howies—Garges, Corbett, Wood and Gillette.

Officials were Ruth King Wood, referee, Lonnie Richardt, scorekeeper, and Kitty Johnson, timekeeper.

One more game is scheduled between the two teams; this will be an exhibition gam for the coming War Bond show.

Volleyball practices began Thursday for the two point system groups.

YW To Hear School Teacher

Miss Berell, who is connected with the county school system, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. next Sunday, February 18.

There was no meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last Sunday, February 11, because of the February meetgave a review of her work with ings. On February 4, Miss Edda Dilts the American Friends Service, and Red Cross.

There will be a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. on February 25.

THETA EPLISON

Lottie Lavander and Ruth Lloyd had charge of the program at the regular meeting of Theta Epsilon last Saturday, February 10. It was presented in the form of a skit.

On Saturday night, February 3, members were entertained with a reading by Sue Cochran. Barbara Blair, accompanied by Betty Hall, sang popular ballads. Virginia Winslow, a Bainonian Visitor, rendered several selections on the accordian. Kate Smith had charge of this program.

B. G. Club Has Formal Initiation

Miss Betty Lou King entertained the B. G. Club at its formal initiation program at her home in Knoxville, Friday evening, February 2. This meeting ended a period of more intensive and less formal initiation known as "Goat Week", making the neophytes fullfledged members. Present were Hannah Duke, Peggy Caldwell, Kay Bonner, Sophia Berardini, and new members Lynn Mathews, Carol Smith, and Jessie Lou Brunson. Miss Susan Ware, faculty advisor to the group also attended the meeting.

Building Fences Theme Of Sermon By J. A. McDill

RACIAL BARRIER GREATEST FORCE, SPEAKER DECLARES

"As Christian people we should set up walls of moral standards. . . see how strong we can make ourselves . . . and be happy within those walls." The above was the idea expressed by the Rev. Mr. James A. McDill, Director of the Department of Stewardship of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, as he addressed students in the Wednesday chapel service, January 31.

Announcing Building Fences as his theme, Mr. McDill described various types of fences, speaking literally and figuratively. Maintaining that all were employed as barriers of some kind, he undertook to define several of the barriers with which we are faced today.

Racial Barrier

The greatest fence is the barrier existing between the races of men. The pace to come following this war "must be Christian in order to be lasting—not a military armistice". The speaker presented certain points from Hutchinson's From Victory to Peace as he stated that a social cost will be among the prices to be paid for this war. "We must learn to live with those within our borders" to gain an understanding of the problems of other nations and their peoples.

Linked to this racial barrier is an educational fence involving a sense of intellectual superiority. Love for others will promote the disolving of this barrier between classes.

A fence enclosing moral standards and clean living "in the spirit of Christ is the means by which we can live happily within the laws of our society" while showing love for fellowmen.

Girls and Boys Tourneys Slated

Coach L. S. Honaker recently announced that the annual 18th District High School Basketball tournament is to be held at Maryville College this year. The games which are scheduled for the evenings of February 26, 27 and March 1 and 2, will be played in Alumni Gym.

The 18th district is composed of the nine high schools in Blount County and one from outside this county. The following ten schools will take part in the tournament: Maryville, Alcoa, Everett, Friendsville High School, Friendsville Academy, Townsend, Walland, Porter, Lanier, and Greenback.

There is to be both a boys' and girls' tournament. All play will alternate, first playing a girls' game and then a boys' game. Six games are to be played on both February 26 and 27, starting at 5:00 p.m. There will be four games on March 1 and the two final games March 2.

Admission for college students will be 20 cents.

FEB. MEETINGS

28, the story of Jesus's sufferings and the question raised by the disciples as to why He should suffer, was the text. He discussed Carlyle's outlook on the world and his doubt until he came to the Biblical chapter of the persona! God. Since man is essentially soul and demands spiritual satisfaction, Dr. Caldwell expressed the necessity of being able to find happiness and blessedness. This, he said, can be accomplished by decreasing our "denominators of life" or the demands we have a right to make; and increasing our "numerators of life" or our regard for our fellowmen. He closed by saying that we must take Jesus' life as a pattern for solving our life problem. We must heed His words, "Whosoever shall lose his life for My sake shall find it."

Bottle Necks Of Life

The specific topic to develop the "Second R of Christ's Mission" was "Bottle Necks of Life". Dr. Caldwell used as a text for this message Romans 7:18-8:10. Two factors in this "bottle neck" today are our blurred conception of moral goals and our moral importence or weak motivation, he explained. This confusion of moral goals was absent in Paul's case. Dr. Caldwell made a clear that we must find a remedy for this bottle neck of moral confusion. He gave two practical steps for doing this: to distinguish between minute and basic laws of ethics, and then to work out for ourselves as minute regulations as we care to after we know these basic laws. He emphasized that we should use charity in regard of others and it is not for us to judge minute morality of others. We should realize, as Paul did, the fight within our souls and become strongly allied spiritually with God through Jesus Christ.

Stock Piles

"Stock Piles and Crises" was the topic Dr. Caldwell considered at the Thursday evening meeting. He used as his text Psalm 112. Said Dr. Caldwell, "A man in tune with this universe shall not fear evil tidings." This was the theme of the sermon. He discussed the ways in which crises of human life were met in the Bible. The crisis of "unanticipated opportunity" for evangelism was met by Philip in the dessert when he came upon the Ethiopian eunuch, because he had the necessary reserve of knowledge. Stephen could face the cvrisis of being stoned to death. Paul passed the crisis of shipwreck safely. And Jesus could meet the crisis of mental torment at Gethsemane. Each of these crises was adequately met because each individual had at his command resources necessary to meet them—a stock pile of Christian grace, of unswerving faith in God, and of infinite courage. "Many of us have drunk the cup of anguish in these days of war," said the speaker, "and many more are likely to taste it." How can we make a stock pile on which to draw? Dr. Caldwell suggested in answer to this that we can build moral and spiritual resources by reading and studying the Bible; by sharing together in corporate worship in church; and by prayer in private. However, the prime requisite to meeting crisis is that we first meet God through Christ. In concluding, Dr. Caldwell stated: "Today is the day of crisis. Your will is yours, but it is your to make it His."

Priorities Of Life

In his discussion on "Priorities of Life", Dr. Caldwell brought out the significance of the third R—Revolutionizing Life's Objectives, at the Wednesday morning service. "The motto of American youth today . . . is dollars . . . But, man's life, Dr. Caldwell stated, "consists not of cash, but of character." Which is to take priority in your life — making a life or making a living? It is not necessary that every Christian be a preacher or missionary, or that he wear a "pious false face." But every true Christian loves the Lord and his neighbor as himself, and he advocates the petition, "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done." "Jesus was a radical; he was a revolutionist . . . When he said, 'Seek you first the kingdom of Heaven,' he was proposing something that would turn the world over." What man has and what man is, is one of the most fundamental and far-reaching of differences. "Jesus must be the center of a dynamical life, to which other things are added," concluded Dr. Caldwell.

Pioneer Of Life

Dr. Caldwell spoke on "The Pioneer of Life", Friday evening, using as his text Acts III; 15, which is translated in Moffets version "and killed the Pioneer of Life. . . . " Dr. Caldwell began by defining a pioneer as "one who enlarges the possible area of life." He mentioned briefly the outstanding pioneers of history and what their work has meant to mankind. "Jesus Christ is the pioneer of all pioneers of life." He stated, giving the following instances of His opening up the way for man. First He uniquely bridged the chasm between man and his fellow man. He treated the high and the low classes as one. He made no differenciations between those of various occupations. "Whatever progress has been made since, it was made because Jesus had the courage to bridge the gap." said Dr. Caldwell. In the second place, He bridged the gulf between sinful man and a holly God. There is a great yawning chasm between the sinner and God that was spanned by Jesus' own body, nailed to the cross. A great many people have failed to use that bridge because they thought they must first understand its structure. Theories concerning the crucification and its significance to man have a definite place in man's religion, but they are not necessary to salvation. And lastly, Jesus was a pioneer of Life in that he bridged the gap between time and eternity. Now there is an answer to the question of life after death. Thus Christianity can never be a retreat—it must always advance. "Safely first is . . . a poor creed for Christianity," concluded Dr. Caldwell.

The topic of Dr. Caldwell's Saturday morning message was "The Fellowship of a Passion". As text he used I Cor. 1:9 of Paul's letters. The key verse was "Ye were called into the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord". His subject was introduced by a discussion of companionship, fellowship of a common passion. He stressed that one cannot presume to exhaust the riches of fellowship with Jesus. Dr. Caldwell emphasized that there are three fellowships of His passion that we should share. The first was: "fellowship of His passion to do the will of God". There is no substitute for doing the will of God. It is first and basic to everything else, he stated. The second point was "to purify the quality and broaden the scope of love in action". In connection with this, he explained that God's will is negation only as an outgrowth or implication of some affirmation. Jesus found in the world when he came a limited love filled with lust; misdirected to unworthy goods, aims, and objects; cramped, narrow and restricted in its scope. Jesus' actions in setting about to redirect and purify that love by linking it with God's love was pointed out by Dr. Caldwell. Third, he said, "we must share fellowship of passion in being able to take the consequences whatever those may happen to be." As Jesus did, we must consider the consequences of the kind of lives that we lead. After considering the cost of living the kind of life He chose, no matter what the cost. In conclusion, he said, "we can begin to know that unconquerable fellowship by beginning right now to shore these three fellowships."

Cyclones Capture First Place In Intramural Basketball Tournament

By Tommy Parkinson

After the first round of play in this year's Intramural basketball program, the Cyclones rest in the top spot in the standings. They have won all three of their games. The other teams in the three team league are the Warriors, who have taken one and lost one game to stand second, and the Cardinals, who have played three times and are still seeking their first victory.

The following is a brief summary of each game played and the box scores:

Thursday, February 8

Although Wilburn Seymour scored 20 points for the Cardinals, the Cyclones came out on the heavy side of the 39 to 33 score. Captain House and Martin shared the scoring honors for the winning team, each getting 12.

The score was tied at 20 apiece at half time, but the Cyclones had forged ahead to lead 33 to 27 at the end of the third quarter.

Cyclones (39 pos. Cardinals (33)
Hundemann 8	F	Grubbs, 5
Cover, 6	F	Heuser, 6
Schieber, 1	C	Seymour, 20
Pribble	G	Cardella, 2
		Vogel

Substitute: Cyclones — Houser 12.

Tuesday, February 6

The Cyclones handed the Warriors their first defeat to the tune of 27 to 24. In this game the Warriors got off to a good start, leading 10 to 7 at the end of the first quarter, but the winners went ahead during the second quarter and stayed their the rest of the way. Captain Myers of the losing team was high point man, getting six field goals for 12 points. Martin's 10 was the highest individual total for the winners.

Cyclones (27	pos. Warriors (24)
Schieber 7	F	Chinault 3
Martin, 10	F	Myers, 12
Hundemann, 2	C	Robarts 7
Pribble	G	Seel, 2
Cover, 4	G	Garland, 4

Substitutes: Cyclones—House 4; Warriors—Wheeler.

Thursday, February 1

It was in this game that Captain Myers got hot for the Warriors and garnered 19 points, and Garland didn't do badly either, getting 12. Captain Heuser was high point man for the losers with 12.

Final score was 41 for the Warriors and 31 for the Cardinals. This game was another example of the Cardinal team leading through the first quarter only to be passed in the second and to remain second best throughout the contest. First quarter score was 8-4 for the Cardinals, but it read 18-27 for them at the half.

Warriors (41) pos. Cardinals (31)
Seel	F	Grubbs, 7
Chinault, 2	F	Cardella, 8
Myers, 19	C	Seymour, 6
Garland, 12	G	Vogel, 2
Robarts, 8	C	Heuser, 12

Tuesday, January 30

It was on this date that the first game of the season took place. In what has also the closest game of the season so far, the Cyclones edged out the Cardinals, 23 to 21. It was first one team ahead and then the other until right up to the end when one of the Cardinals was "fouled out" of the game, and the team had to finish the game with only four players. That was a large factor in determining which side would win. House led his team with 12 points, while Seymour got 10 for the losers.

Cyclones (23) pos. Cardinals (21)
Schieber, 4	F	Seymour, 10
Martin, 2	F	Cardella, 3
House, 12	C	Grubbs, 4
Pribble	G	Heuser
		Vogel, 4

Substitute: Cyclones—Cover 1.

Substitute: Cyclones — House

in embarrassing faculty members. Perhaps the reason some of them did not sing as much as he thought they should during the first few meetings was because they were afraid to. In previous years, the Missourian has embarrassed them considerably by having them come to the platform to sing solos, whether they were willing and prepared or no.

"Even though the faculty members complain bitterly about the whole procedure in public," he confides, "most of them have come to me privately and begged me to let them show off their talents."

"Cow Story"

Several years ago, Dr. Stringham told one of the classics of the time, his famous "Cow Story". Although he has not mentioned it this year, he still seems to have a dislike for milk, which fact might indicate that the story still lurks in his mind. It goes like this:

"The following was written to the Minister of Health by a little boy from London east side after his first trip to the country following his evacuation from the city during the air raids:

" 'The cow is a mammal. It has six sides, right side, left side, upper and lower, inside and outside. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this he sends flies away so they won't fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with and the mouth to moo with. Under the cow hangs milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, milk comes and there is never an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized, but it makes more and more.

" 'The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. That is the reason for fresh air in the country. A man cow is called an ox. The cow does not eat much, but what it eats it eats twice so it can get enough. When it is hungry it moos, and when it says nothing at all it is because its insides are full up with grass.' "

Likes Young People

"Seriously, though, it is a very high experience for me to come here and work with young people," he says. "I always look forward to it as one of the high spots of my year; I get far more out of it spiritually than I put into it."

He has planned to introduce several new choruses this year. They are:

The Searcher's Song

O God of Truth, at this New Dawn
We bring to thee a Searcher's Song.
We ask thy blessing as we go upon our way
To find our place in this New Day.

At Worship

Evening Skies! Sunrise!
Lakes and rushing water
Make all things unlovely
From my soul depart.
Purple mountains rising high,
Trees against the sky,
Life is beautiful because
God speaks within my heart.
Starry skies! Moon-rise!
Far, eternal heavens
Take away my smallness,
Make me pure to grow.
Vastness of the universe,
Timelessness of space,
Life is wonderful because
God speaks within my soul.

Peace

Peace I ask of Thee, O Saviour,
Peace, peace, peace.
When I learn to live serenely
Cares will cease.
From the hills I gather courage,
Vision of the day to be,
Strength to lead and faith to follow—

to America in any emergency."

Harold Kidder asserted, "No, from what I've seen, the moral degradation from the regimentation of a year or so would undermine the moral stability of America's youth and far overbalance any good which might be accomplished by such a plan. Anyway, in the event of another war, the men trained under such a program and recalled to duty after even a short period in civilian life would have to relearn almost everything, considering the present rapid change of military tactics and methods."

Dorothy Crowson testified that she favors the plan for young men who have not seriously begun their professions, but she thinks the boys in training should receive wages comparable to those paid civilians.

Nell Louise Minear thought that " . . . this country in promoting peace needs to emphasie more getting along with other nations and peoples rather than preparing for war. And therefore I do not favor the plan."

Edgar Potts—"No!"

Louise Henry—"It certainly has advantages, because it would certainly make America at least partially prepared in case of an emergency; however, the plan's disadvangtages outweigh its advantages."

Catherine McCaleb—"I think it is a good idea, and would really do some good."

Dr. Hill Shine—"No, I see no possible good that would come from such a plan. I think militarism is to be avoided and that the trend after the war will definitely be towards not being in the service."

Dr. L. L. Williams—"We should not seem to be preparing for another war. Such a plan would tend to have a bad effect on the minds and reasoning of the young men involved; it would make them militaristic."

Carolyn Ulrich—"Yes, it would be a good plan, it could be worked out whereas that would only be like another year's school for young men. That would benefit the men and prepare the nation."

Tom Horst—"No, sir! That's taking away too many of the personal liberties and would make people too 'war conscious' ".

Lonnie Richardt—"No, post war plans should be passed on peaceful measures. Military training training with the spirit of might making right is unChristian and . . . undemocratic."

Dr. Ralph Collins—"It depends on the peace we work out by cooperation with Russia and others. It should not be necessary."

Florence Gobillot—"Yes — but only for a year—look at what happened this time."

Luther Cross — "An adequate standing army should be maintained at all costs, if that necessitates conscription I favor it; otherwise I definitely am opposed to the plan."

Velma Durbin—"Yes, I do favor some such plan of a short period of training, because I not only think it would be best for preparing the country, but it would also be valuable education for each individual."

Edward Gates—"It seems to me to me that such a plan would not serve the intended military purposes enough to warrant the resulting dislocation—domestic, social, educational, and emotional. In Europe the plan has been an instrument of facism and could serve the same purpose here by a tendency to consider the individual subordinate to an abstract state. Such a move would indicate to other nations a disbelief by the United States that the peace being made would be effective in preventing future warse. There is also the ease with which a fully prepared nation abandons pacific methods and resorts to arms. Therefore my present opinion is unfavorable to a plan of peacetime military conscription."

Lillian Conrad—"It would be a good plan, if it could be worked in so as not to interfere too much with the lives of the young men—such as plans for college."

Jean Cobb—"Such a plan would disrupt the lives and educations of the trainees too much to be very advantageous in the long run."

Jane Callahan — "Both sides have definite points but probably the advantages of any such program outweigh the disadvantages."

Dr. David Briggs—"I think the good effects if the plan were set up to include moral and intellec- plan would have possibilities of tual training along with the military. The nature of the world organization which is set up after this war will determine largely whether or not the program is needed."

Dr. Ralph Case—"I believe it should be considered only in peace time. Passing it now or even talk about it would have adverse effect on plans or negotiations for peace.

Fay Cameron—"I would oppose putting the plan in now but think it should be instituted in case the plan for a world state fails to materialize."

Marjorie Dickinson—"Yes, being in the service has done lots of fellows good during this war; it would also be beneficial in peace times."

Don Heuser—"We have never lost a war without it, and the American people will want to get away from that kind of regimentation after the war."

Robert Seel—"The same ends could be achieved by some other methods such as vigorous physical training in schools and colleges. The plan of military smacks too much of militarism."

Peggy Case—"It is a good idea to consider after the war, but there is too much prejudice now. We do need to be prepared."

Audre Monteith—"It would be one of the best things that could happen to this country. It would be valuable experience and preparation for the boys."

Elizabeth DeFord—"I am not in favor of it. There should, or will, be a sufficiently large standing army, so why draft them?"

Max House—"We don't need it; that's not showing faith in the peace plan everyone is planning about that would include no more wars. That would be the first step towards another war."

Eleanor Stout—"It doesn't hurt the fellows and it could be worked out so as not to interfere with their plans. It would be broadening."

John Kirstein—"I favor the plan because it is good discipline for the boys and necessary preparation in case of another war."

Fred Wilson—"It sounds like a desirable idea for keeping the country better prepared to keep peace in the world."

John Houdeshel—"In general I oppose it for it would disrupt the plans for the fellows who want to further their education after high school."

Soapie Bernardini—"I favor the plan, because the nation needs it for preparation, and it would help the boys mentally and physically."

George Robarts—I definitely favor the plan for the nation needs it in order to be prepared.

Owen McGarity—"I am not in favor of it. I respresses a fellow's personal liberties too much and is opposed to the fundamental principles of democracy.

Second Semester Speaks Volumes To Frosh - - No Longer Greenies

By Martha Edgerton

The second semester — What does it mean to you, to me, to any student? According to Webster a semester is either of two periods of instruction, commonly eighteen weeks in length, into which the academic year is usually divided. The second semester must therefore mean that one semester had already gone before the present semster. It means we are beginning the second priod or step in a venture known as higher education.

The second semester speaks volumes. In the first place it spells accomplishments. One cannot go ahead without first accomplishing or mastering the first step. With the opening of the second semester it is taken for granted that the first semester has been mastered; the lessons wre learned; th problems, overcome. We have progressed from the first step to the second. We are climbing the ladder of knowledge, rung by rung. The second rung has now been reached.

The second semester spells the future. Before us lis a period of studying, working, learning, playing, and growing. The future is unknown to us, but in our work and play wee shape our future, day by day. We mold our lives into something big, mediocre, or insignificant.

The second semester of a school year may spell a number of other things depending upon the student involved. To the senior it is the final step before he undertakes the biggest responsibilty in his life—that of proving to the world, after all, is a wonderful place to be in, and that it is a wonderful place just because he is a part of the world.

To the junior and the sophomore it may not mean anything unusual or spectacular. New classes are undertaken. New goals are set for each progressive student. But the second semster does not mean quite so much to anyone as it does to the freshman.

What does the second semester mean to the freshman? The newness of college life has worn off, but the finish is not dulled. There is a new glitter—a knowing glitter. The freshman gains a title nobler than any royal title bestowed from the highest throne. The title "second-semester freshman" is one to b charished, for it was fought for, labored for, and nobly won. It is a title born with honor like a banner at the head of a parade.

Why does a freshman feel so about those two small words, second semester? I will tell you why. This freshman is no longer a "greenie". He is no longer the brunt of campus ranks. He does not need to ask incessant questions. He is not being misled by someone else's directions. In other words, he knows the ropes!

Just why does all this mean so much to a second-semester freshman? Everyone likes to be "it" at something in his or her life. Now is the time in the freshman's life when he is "it" and he is going to make the most of his chances. It is his turn to sell chapel seats to unknowing newcomers. It is his turn to tell the new student where the lecture will be held, where Chaucer may b found in the library, and which table is the most strtegically situated in the dining hall. Earl rising, irregular schedules, rules and regulations, and lights-out are all his to explain to the lowly first-semester freshman. A second - semester freshman knows all—hears all—and will tell all to whoever asks.

Fred Hope Drive Starts Wed. With Joseph McNeill Speaking At Chapel Services

"Fighting Mac," the missionary from Benito, West Africa, will arrive from Oxford, Mississippi, to open the Fred Hope Drive, at the regular Wednesday morning chapel service, February 28. The Rev. Joseph McNeill, who has worked in West Africa since 1919, has had a myraid of thrilling adventures and dangerous episodes during his hard life on the Dark Continent.

Much progress has been effected by Mr. McNeill in these 34 years, in material and spiritual values.

JOSEPH McNEIL

Where there was no traveling save by boat on the river or the coast, there is now a rough motor road into the interior and a mission truck. A new house of two rooms has taken the place of the one-room thatched hut that housed the missionary's family. A garden is producing.

Work of the Church

But of prime importance to this man with the pugnacious Irish spirit is the work of the church. Where the churches of the coast were lethargic and indifferent, they have now established several outposts; a station school and twelve village schools have been started; there is a native pastor and four trained evangelists at work.

Besides his address Wednesday morning, Mr. McNeill plans to show motion pictures concerning his work Wednesday evening at 7:15 in the chapel.

Fred Hope Fund

Fred Hope is also a missionary to West Africa. He is the Treasur.

Y.M., Y.W. Present Musical Program

Edward Gates, program chairman for Y. M., assisted by James Martin, was in charge of the monthly joint meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. held Sunday, February 25, in Voorhees Chapel.

The program included solos by: Miss Rachel Shobert, who played "Ballade" by Debussy on the piano; Fay Cameron, who gave a violin number, "Cavatina" by Rall; Nan Wooton on the trumpet, playing "The Holy City;" Catherine Sisk, singing "O Savior Hear Me." accompanied by Frances Ashby; and Bob DuBoise, who sang "The Twenty-third Psalm" by Mallottee. Shirley Scott and Thelma Richardson also offered several readings.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting next week is scheduled to be a panel discussion on World Construction.

Y. M. C. A. will begin a series of meetings on March 4 with the subject being "The Sources of Jesus' Courage." That will be the topic for three weeks.

$253.80 In War Stamps Purchased By Student Body

Freshmen Lead In Stamp Sales; Seniors Second

The freshman class leads in the total amount of war stamp and bond sales for the second semester. Members of the freshman class purchased $53.95 of stamps and two war bonds at $18.75, making a total of $91.45 for the first four weeks.

The senior class come in second with a total of $69.15 in stamps and bonds. $31.65 purchased in stamps and two $18.75 bonds comprise the total.

Coming in close behind the seniors is the sophomore class with a total of $61.15 in stamps and bonds. One $18.75 bond and a total of $42.40 in stamps make this total.

The Juniors purchased $32.05 in war stamps.

The total sales for the entire student body are $253.80.

Dr. Caldwell Ends 69th Series Of February Meetings

"A Futile Flight" Is Sermon Topic For Final Service

Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, president of Louisville Theological Seminary, ended the 69th series of Maryville College February Meetings with the morning service on Thursday, February 15 in Voorhees Chapel. The final service included a sermon which was on the last "R" in the eight "R's" in the mission of Christ; the sermon was entitled "To recall Runaways from God" with the more specific title, "A Futile Flight." The final service also included a short consecrecration service in which each member of the congregation was asked to write on a card something of what the Meetings had meant to him.

Summaries of the earlier sermons of the Meetings were published in the last issue of the Highland Echo. Following are the main points of the remainder of the discussions:

Companionship With Christ

Dr. Caldwell's topic at the Sunday service was "Companionship with Christ." The text was taken from Mathew 28:20. "I am with you alway." Loneliness is the most wide-spread and deepest hurt of mankind, and is the result of the struggle to find one's place in the world. Everyone has experienced gratifying human companionship, and in better friendship we have had a foretaste of what companionship with Christ would mean. But we all feel the need for a more transcending fellowship. With the intuition born of human experience we feel that life would be more zestful and more satisfying if we could find a more constant relationship with Christ. The possibility of such a companionship as Dr. Caldwell said, requires three things. First, congeniality, for while we don't have to be "full grown angels" to begin to share His fellowship, we must have somethings in common with Him. The more Christ's ideals become ours, the greater our companionship with Him can be. His is the stronger character and the stronger shall mold the weaker. Next, if the fellowship is to be alive and vital, a line of communication must be kept open. We can let Him talk to us through the reading of the Bible, and we can talk with him in prayer. "Many a friendship has lapsed because the line of communication has been broken," reflected Dr. Caldwell. And lastly, collaboration

Opera, "Orpheus And Euridice" To Be Given Here

SET FOR APRIL 14

Grosh, Sisk, And DuBois Selected For Solo Parts

Soloists for the opera "Orpheus and Euridice," to be given April 14 by the combined glee clubs and the choir, have been announced by Richard W. Vine, associate professor of music. They will be Robert Du Bois, Orpheus, Katherine Sisk, Euridice, and Frances Grosh, Amor. Mrs. Grosh is an alumna, student of Mr. Vine.

A chorus of over 100 voices will be accompanied by the 50 piece concert orchestra, twin pianos, and the organ.

Portraying in three acts the well-known Greek myth, "Orpheus and Euridice" was composed by Christopher Von Gluck. It centers about Orpheus, a Greek poet and musician, who descends to Hades when his wife, Euridice, dies.

Back to Earth

His music so pleases Pluto that the god of the underworld allows him to lead his loved wife back to earth on the condition that he should not look at her until they reach the upper world. As they journey earthward, however, she, knowing nothing of the condition laid upon him, is filled with grief and resentment at his apparent coldness. Not unwillingly, she returns to the shades of the underworld.

the sad words of the aria "She Is Gone, And Gone Forever." Amor, the God of Love, appears, however, and tells Orpheus that in reward for his faithfulness and constancy, the gods have decreed that Euridice should be restored to him once more.

Praise Of Love

Amor calls upon the vanished Euridice to awaken, and the opera closes with a chorus of thanks and a trio in praise of Love.

The opera, not to be given in full, will be presented in concert form.

Mary Jo White, president of Girls' Glee Club, is in charge of publicity, and Elsie Jean Cotton is head of the poster committee. Price of admission will be announced later by Mr. Vine.

Katherine Sisk Crowned War Bond Rally Queen

Service Man Writes Opinion On Peace Time Conscription

February 16, 1945

Editor
The Highland Echo
Maryville College
Maryville, Tennessee
Dear Bob,

There was a small item in this week's Echo that aroused my interest, and you know how I am. You had some very interesting comments on this proposition of a peace-time draft, and as these were all from ones with at least a present classification as a civilian, I would like to put in my two cent's worth as a service man.

In answer to that question I would say simply and emphatically, "No!" I challenge anyone to prove that imposing military training with its apparently necessary accompanying evils on the youth of any nation, particularly on the youth of around eighteen years, will not lower the prevelant moral standards to a dangerous degree. I feel that anyone who has served in this war or in the last one will bear me out in this. Furthermore, tactics change so rapidly that after a year had elapsed from the completion of such training it would be of practically no value. Certain basic fundamentals remain constant, that is true, but it is also true that these can be taught, with good leaders, almost as rapidly as they can be re-taught to someone who had them before and has had a chance to forget them by a return to civilian life.

These factors are so often overlooked by ones who have not themselves experienced military life, and to them there is something magic in the word "Army" which is supposed to cure anyone of any existing ills, mental or physical. You know, as does anyone who has been in the military service, that nothing could be farther from the truth. As a matter of emergency, it is necessary; however, only then should it be used.

I am not trying to dodge this issue that something will have to be done. My idea is to broaden the present set-up of reserve military training to include all high schools and colleges and enlarge our facilities for the training of officers with the establishment of other institutions like West Point and Annapolis. Germany, one of the most successful military nations in the world, long ago realized that with well-trained leaders a good army could be whipped into shape in very short order. This, too, can be done on a voluntary basis, which will achieve more than any means of conscription can ever hope to.

Well, Bob, that is the way I feel. Just for the fun it it I conducted a little poll of my own around the company and every answer was the same as mine. Some were very vivid in their expressions and quite a few added: "If those women are so sold on the idea of military training why don't they join the WACS?"

Perhaps I shouldn't feel too much about this thing but after all someone is going to have to decide and this may set a precendent that will affect us for the rest of our lives.

I couldn't help writing this and I hope some of your "public" will get a chance to see how some of the "other half" feel. Perhaps we are overly critical but someone has to take the other side and we feel that we know a little bit about it and just want the chance to present our arguments.

Everett Whips M. C. Basketball Team

Katherine Sisk, junior music major from Maryville, was crowned War Bond Queen at the Rally held last Saturday night, February 24 in the Alumni Gymnasium. Attendants to the Queen, nominated by each class, were Shirley Scott, senior; Jeanne Heaps, sophomore; and Jamie Pannell, freshman.

KATHERINE SISK

Sponsored by the IRC, Jane Craig, sophomore English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was chairman of the Rally, and chairman of the entertainment committee was Lynn Matthews, sophomore English major from Wilmington, Delaware. The preliminary part of the program consisted of a basketball game between the Chilies and the Howies, teams organized by the girls in Point System, and a volley ball game between a faculty team and a boys' intramural team. The principal game of the evening was one of basketball played between Everett High School and the College, and the main feature of the whole program was the coronation of the War Bond Queen made by Jim Martin, master of ceremonies, during the intermission at the half.

Purchases in war bonds and stamps for the evening totaled $44.05.

Maryville Team Loses

In the feature event of the evening the Maryville College Scotties lost a hard-fought basketball game to the Everett high school Bull dogs by a count of 32-26.

Preceding this was a volley-ball game between members of the faculty and a student body team. Ed-

S. S. Maryville Victory Launched Last Thursday

California witnessed a new launching Thursday, February 22, with the christening of the "S. S. Maryville Victory", named in honor of Maryville College. Mrs. Arch Anderson, wife of the Director of The California Bank in Los Angeles, having been appointed by the California Shipbuilding Cooperation, makers of the ship, christened the new vessel.

Lamar Wilson, class of '21 and son of the late president emeritus of Maryville College, Dr. Samuel T. Wilson, represented the college at the christening. Also present were graduates and former students of Maryville College who are now located in that area and who received invitations to the launching.

The "S. S. Maryville Victory", one in a group of forty ships which will be named in honor of the 40 oldest institutions of learning in the United States, does not have the word "College" in its name because of the restriction placed by the United States Maritime Commission on the length of names. These "victory" ships are designed to be an improvement over the already well-known "liberties."

Pope & Talbot, Inc., of the McCormick Division in San Francisco will operate the "S. S. Maryville Victory."

The next issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO is scheduled for Monday, March 5.

Recreation Center Has Ping-Pong, Other Activities

Attendance Average Sixty Students In Evening Periods

Ping pong is reported to be the most popular game at the recreation center, with badminton and volleyball running a close second. Other popular games are shuffle board, Chinese checkers, pick-up sticks, and Veda—the Magic Answer Man.

The recreation center, which was opened February 5, has furnished recreation for the college students and faculty members during their free hours.

An average attendance of 55 to 60 students swarm through the center during the evening period. Between 18 and 20 students frequent the center during the noon and afternoon periods.

Open Daily

The big gym in Bartlett hall is equipped with two ping pong tables and two shuffle board courts. The baleony in the gym also has two ping pong tables. Two parlors are equipped—one for table games—the other as a reading room and lounge. The upstairs gym is equipped for either volley ball or badminton.

The recreation center is open daily, Monday through Friday, from 12:55 to 1:20; 3:30 to 5:30; and 6:25 to 7:00, except on Wednesday when the center is not open during the evening period. Saturdays the center is open from 1:00 to 5:00. Students hosts and hostesses are on duty at all times.

Soldiers May Be Housed In Carnegie Hall

Army Air Corp men were being stationed in and around Maryville to fill the labor shortage of the aluminum plants in Alcoa.. In view of a possible housing problem, inquiry has been made of the college concerning the use of the vacant floors of Carnegie Hall as barracks for these men. As yet, no definite arrangements have been made. As soon as it is known what the situation is to be, Dr. Lloyd has said he will make a definite announcement in chapel, and the ECHO will carry a detailed story.

Dr. Gillingham Speaks At Vols

Dr. C. H. Gillingham, a graduate and former teacher at Maryville College, was the speaker at Student Vols last evening in Bartlett Auditorium. He addressed the group on the mission training school, Tennant College in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where he was president before coming to live in Maryville.

Sunday evening, February 18, Peggy Case and Marion Bowditch spoke to the Student Vols on "Home Mission Work."

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING

During the past few weeks opinion here and all over America has been focused on the plan to give every American youth a year of military training upon the completion of his high school education. A recent survey conducted by the Highland Echo revealed that half of the college students favored the plan. Most of those interviewed had some definite ideas on the subject which shows that most people are thinking about this problem.

The plan would provide the men with a basis for further military training when necessary. With such a plan in operation, they say, we would never be caught napping, for our lack of preparedness this time cost thousands of lives and the prolonging of the war.

They further assert that this plan of compulsory military training in peace time would provide the men with good physical training and discipline, and would raise the educational level of the nation.

Opponents of the measure believe that some other means must be found for attaining permanent peace. Such a program as this would tend to create a militaristic attitude in our young men and this would retard the attainment of world peace. Opponents of the plan also allege that it would take away too many of the rights and liberties of the individual.

Service men, too, have expressed their ideas on the subject. A typical example of a soldier's reaction is printed on page one. Those men now in uniform know what military training is and what implications a peace time draft would have.

It is up to all of us to view the situation realistically and to form for ourselves a concrete philosophy that can be supported rationally.

First, we must ask ourselves the question: Is military training in peace time ever justified? If the answer is yes, then we can proceed to determine under what circumstances it is. If it is no, then that is all to the problem providing the contentions can be supported logically.

Second, we must decide whether the proposed plan will produce the desired results in a democratic manner. If the answer is again yes, then the plan should be adopted under the circumstances stipulated.

We abhor war and militarism and all that they stand for. We want world peace; we want to live happy and secure lives. We must decide for ourselves whether a plan of compulsory military training in peace time would fit into these ideals.

A sensible view might be this: Compulsory military training in peace time is justified only when there is a dire need for it; only when plans for world peace have completely failed. Then, and only then, should it be used as a means of preparing this nation for war.

Certainly this plan should not be put into use at the present time when the united nations are striving toward some form of world organiation for the maintainence of peace. A system of military training here would show very little evidence of faith on our part in the efforts for world peace. It would, rather, tend to create a war psychosis.

Compulsory military training in peace time is not the solution to the problem of security. Such a plan as this should not be used while we are preparing a plan for world organiation. It will not be needed if that plan works. However, military training would seem advidable when and if world peace fails and war threatens again. But until that day, plans for compulsory military training in America should be discarded.

LIBEL

By Joan Liddell

Valentine's Day, not too long ago, was really a red letter day on our campus. Flowers and candy were common in Baldwin, and Kelley wasn't forgotten by her table, either. She, too, proclaimed St. Valentine's Day by her fact as they sang "Congratulations" to her at the table. As for what she received . . . ask her.

And those in Pearsons were well attended, one practice teacher in particular. Valentine's Day in the second grade calls for a huge, elaborately decorated box. The unusual thing was what the biggest Valentine in the box was for "Teacher". Not able to resist, she peeked inside, and above all the clamor of "Open it, Teacher", decided to wait until later at a more appropriate time, because it's not often you're given a song for a Valentine. In fact, it's not often you're given a song

Upperclassmen will remember that the Echo, in earlier years, carried a cut each week on the editorial parge called "Talk of the Week". Due to wartime shortages, both in artists and materials to use for this purpose, this feature of the paper has been omitted, so it seems it's up to someone on the staff to discuss the "Talk of the Week" since it isn't presented in picture form. Popular demand this week calls for the subject of campus chatter—the soldiers.

For the benefit of the freshmen who missed the experience of having had the Cadets on the campus last year and the previous year, we'll stop for a brief discription of what went on back in those days (as if you hadn't heard a thousand times before). Time was, in fact almost two years prior to this date, when our first quintile of cadets came to the campus. That day went down in college history. As was not exactly unusual for the vicinity, a heavy mist filled the air, but wind or rain, nothing kept the fair co-eds in the dormitories that memorable day. The cadets seemed positively as astounded as the entire student boday. First we stared; then they stared. But they orientated themselves readily and in a few days the cheery echo of their songs as they marched to and from classes and to Pearsons for meals was a familiar chant and the atmosphere of uniforms was an incentive to be a little neater and twice as friendly. The weeks of guarantine were over and "open campus" soon became the hour of the day. Incidentally, despite the fact that Army waitresses had to report to work at 6:30 a.m., there was a waiting line of no less than thirty co-eds to wait tables. Although the program didn't continue this year, as long as there are any students remaining in school who were here when the cadets were stationed here, thre'll always be news of their whereabouts because they had a way of becoming "attached", shall we say, to our school program.

As far as a look into the future, it is impossible at this point to say much concerning the possibility of having soldiers housed on the campus again. As has been announced, plans are rather indefinite. At any rate, various rumors are circulating and it is through no lack of interest on the part of the students. However, if such an arrangement is made, the program would compare very little in many respects to our first program including uniforms in our campus life.

First of all, we note from observation on the streets in Maryville that there are regular M. P.s' attached to this group. Via grapevine, these Military Police sent warning to our group on the hill that they would be entirely capable of looking out for the Army's interest in case some of the soldiers are quartered on the campus. In retaliation, we'd like to say that they won't have any occasion for such protection. In fact, we'll be the ones to establish our "G. P. System" if necessary. (G. P. for "Girl's Police".) We do know, in all seriousness, that if plans should be worked out to cooperate in helping to provide quarters for service men stationed to work in Alcoa, the school would have little connection with the program. They would not be connected in any way with our academic program and for that reason would not be closely associated to our college work. But, when all is said and done, just knowing that a few more young men are in the vicinity might possibly do a little to help up morale, both collegiate and otherwise.

And as an organ duet it can't be beat, can it, Skip?

That bouquet we threw for the freshmen to catch for their party was on of orchids. Will you ever enoy a Scotch song as much as you enjoyed Mr. Graham's? Or, above that, an Indian dance as much as Dr. Lloyd's?

And one more Valentine comment . . . because boxes of candy were next to impossible to buy, we were rather astonished to hear that one of the few Carnegie residents had acquired five of these precious things to send to girls back home. That wasn't too surprising, however, . . . the war, manpower shortage, and all that, you know . . . but the height of our amazement came at the point where he asked the only girl he's dated since he's been here to wrap them for him. How about that, Johnny?

He must have some technique, like Kidder in the Experimental Theater last week. There was a question as to whether he could see Katie out in the audience. But then, he loves Ella Mae best next to her Mother. Or at least, so he said.

Memorial continues to amaze us this week. It wasn't so long ago that Jimny Payne paid a visit to first-floor Baldwin. Seems she was interested in family histories, or something like that. At any rate, after a long, involved conference. Ella Mae let her have a snapshot. . .

Rainy weather we've been having lately, isn't it? They tell me the rainy season here lasts from February to January.

And while we're on thee subject of umbrellas, let's look at Corny's. It had quite an adventure not so long ago. Faithfully it sheltered Corny all the way from town to Baldwin, only to be left inconsiderately in the hall outside the door when Corny reached her room. Seeking revenge, it tempted "Bugs" to fill it with books and paper, and tie it inconveniently on the pipe in the hall right next to the transom of Corny's door. There it waited . . . and waited. Finally the right moment arrived. Corny, realiing what had happened, took a chair to the inside of the door, opened the transom, and most carefully cut the string that held the umbrella. Down it came! After replacing the chair and closing the transom, she opened the door to have the umbrella and the books put into her hands. Too amazed to speak, she stood with mouth open watching the matron's retreating figure. How small we do feel at times . . .

But we'd like to know more about Tom Wheeler's dating bureau, Janet. Where do we sign up? Line forms to the left? Oh, I see . . . Right behind Marty.

I guess E. J.'s name won't appear on that list. Look's like her interest lies in another direction. That's right . . . Schieber's taller.

But I make a motion, and I hear it seconde d, that this brief business conference come to a close. So until next time, the meeting is adjourned . . .

FEBRUARY MEETINGS SERMONS

is necessary to bring a greater realization of fellowship with Christ. We must work with him toward the same goal. If companionship with Christ is not real to you, that is a challenge to do the next thing to make it real.

Mathematics of Religion

"Mathematics of Religion" was the subject of Dr. Caldwell's address Monday morning. As text was John 15, specifically, "He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit." He illustrated the mathematics of personalities in examples of how sometimes subtraction of a personality, or some traits, from a home or a church may sometimes help the family or church. "Persons by their nature are dynamic and not static," he said. Qualitative measurements are important, true measures of a man which are expressed in personality factors. It was pointed out that personality reacts to personality, not only on human level, but on the divine level. Love in action is said to be an acid test of Christian life. "Laying down one's life for his friend means living for his fellow man". The interaction of human and divine transcend ordinary orthodox principlees of mathematics.

Master of Circumstance

"Master of Circumstance" was the subject of Dr. Caldwell's sermon at the Monday evening service. He used as his text Phillipians 4:13. "I can do all things through Christ, which strengthens me." This passage of scripture is regarded by Dr. Caldwell as a deliberate hyerbole used to emphasize a truth: the certainty of Christ of the '30's, there have always been three groups of people. The opportunists who stand by and wait for things to better themselves before they make a move; the pessimists, who think the situation is steadily growing worse and will soon lead to the end of the world; and in between these extremes there is a group who accepts adverse situations as a challnge to act. A challenge to change the situation if possible, and if not, to conquer their false pride and make adjustments within themselves, and to live in faith of God. "God intended man to become masters, not victims of circumstance," said the speaker. The great men of the Bible and of history were not men who were lucky enough to catch an upward trend of civilization, nor were they magically cared for. They were men who felt a challenge to realize in terms of their own experience the courage and power of rising above adverse and discouraging circumstances. "How and where can we get the moral and spiritual power to play the ball where it lies?" asked Dr. Caldwell. And he answered that there is no better answer than Paul's when he said, "I can do all things through Christ . . . " It's a matter of let go and let God, Dr. Caldwell concluded with a couplet by Ellen Heath, which he had used as a theme throughout the service:

"Kill me none may;
Conquer me none can;
I am God's soul
Fused in the soul of man."

Haves and Have Nots

On Tuesday morning, "The Haves and the Have-Nots" was the topic for discussion. Matthew 25:29, "For unto everyone that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away that which he hath,", was Dr. Caldwell's text. He explained how our first reaction to this is that it seems unfair, but Jesus is describing reality and we must deal with it. There are two prequisites to approach understanding to this. They are: to make up our minds to interpret the paradox against the parable which is a background, and to diligently guard against being misled with Jesus' use of money and interpreting that which is paradoxal. In this "Parable of the Talents", Jesus recognized the inequality of men. Jesus gave them the finest award:—the sense of self approval. The best awards in life, Dr. Caldwell expressed, consist of a sense of self approval, awareness of approval by another, and an opportunity to shoulder great responsibilities in life. "Fidelity, and not success, is the basis of reward in the Kingdom of God. Unfaithfulness is the basis of penalty in the Kingdom." In Divine Economy, all degrees of talents are essential. The important point is the use of the talents, and not merely how many. We need to confront the relationship between opportunity and responsibility. In concluding regarding opportunity, he said, "For unto everyone that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath."

Gamble Magnificent

"The Gamble Magnificent", using as its basis of discussion Matthew 16:13-20, was the topic of the message on Tuesday evening. Dr. Caldwell's purpose in using this subject was not merely to discuss the obvious demoralizing, psychological effects of gambling, but to prepare our hearts and minds that is the very essence of Christian faith. As one author said, "Religion is betting your life on God". Dr. Caldwell said that it makes little difference whether we deny God or ignore God. People must take the "Gamble Magnificent" and confess God as Peter did. But "religion is made up of people who are willing to make this gamble. But "religion is not meerely a gamble, a flip of the coin to whether Jesus Christ is our Saviour." There must be a certainly that no man can take away. At first there must be this daring risk, but Christ calls for a venture on our part involving "joy and sorrow, day and night, life and death, time and eternity". We as Christians must respond to His call.

Loyalty Of Love

Dr. Caldwell chose for his subject on Wednesday morning, February 14, "The Loyalty of Love". He used as his text the familiar hymn to love, I Cor. 13, specifically the words from the eighth verse "Love Never Faileth." Love is not a single emotion or trait. It has as its constituent elements for sane and balanced love: respect, value of human personality, appropriate affection, sentiment, and strength of loyalty. It must not be insane, unbalanced, or must not posses that weak link of the chain unloyalty. Loyalty in its rightful place in love strengthens. It stabilizes religious and moral life. Love must have strength of unswerving loyalty. This kind of love never faileth. Dr. Caldwell took three New Testament scenes to illustrate his point of the meaning of loyalty in love. They were the experiences between Christ and His disciples during the fatal time before His crucifixion and His reappearance. Peter, even though loving Jesus, denied Him. The disciples loved Jesus but Jesus' reappearance to them and His discussion with Peter emphasized His attempt to make them aware that loyalty is neecessary in love, not mere sentiment and affection. Loyalty of love is that love which never faileth.

Stumbling Blocks to Salvation

At the last evening service Wednesday night, Dr. Caldwell spoke on "Stumbling Blocks to Salvation." He read as his text Matthew 18:1-11. There are two misconceptions of salvation that are generally held by young people today according to Dr. Caldwell. One is the fork-in-the-road idea in which one chooses either the right way or the wrong. Many who have as good an education as their minister, feel that their judgement in discerning right from wrong is at least as good as his, and in their self sufficiency feel no need for a personal association with the church. However, there are values in the church that can not be found elsewhere. Another misconception is that salvation pertains to the condition of the soul in a future life, a "celestial fire escape" by means of which one may escape the flames of hell. But, he who has found salvation has eternal life right here and right now. There are, though, as Dr. Caldwell brought out, some common stumbling blocks to daily salvation. In enumerating these, he mentioned first the eye, as symbolic of vision of life, and of memory and imagination. Our mental concepts of what we see have tremendous power to influence what we do. We see an evil, think on that evil, and almost before we know it, we have committed a sin. The foot, suggestive of the walk of life, is another stumbling block. While it is not an infallible index, as Dr. Caldwell observed, we can usually guess what kind of character one has by noting the places he frequents. It is when they take us to the wrong places, that our feet prove stumbling blocks to our salvation. Another stumbling block is our hand as it suggests companionships and friendships of life. "Idleness is the devil's workshop," said the speaker, " . . . and bad companions his most helpful tools." Our worst falls come because of our association with questionable characters. What is Christ's method of overcoming stumbling blocks to salvation? The answer lacks not in the literal translation of Jesus' advice to amputate the offending physical part, but in the amputation of the sin itself. Thus the method of salvation is amputation, and the means of using this method is faith in the mission of Christ, to Recall look forward, for the faith exercised today does not save us from tempations that come tomorrow. Life is a constant battle with sin, and faith is our truest weapon. Dr. Caldwell concluded by comparing Christian salvation through Christ to a shaft that is sent down to a man caught helplessly in a cave. But this shaft never reaches us too late, and it extends all the way from Heaven to earth.

A Futile Flight

Explaining the significance of the last "R" in his eight "R's" in the misison of Christ, to Recall Runaways from God, Dr. Caldwell used as his specific topic, "A Futile Flight, for the final service of the meetings, as his text, he read Psalm 139:7 "Whither shall I go from they spirit or whether shall I flee from thy presence?" Throughout the Bible are accounts of men's flight from God and of God's constant search for man. Dr. Caldwell regarded the search of God for man, first as recorded by an ancient psalmist in the 139th Psalm, who began with the thought of God's complete knowledge of man, of his thoughts, wishes, and deeds. He trys to express the utter futility of flight from God. Then, the speaker turned to a modern psalmist's description of this search in Francis Thompson's "The Hound of Heaven," in which God is likened to hound and man to a hare. This man, in running from God, sunk deeper and deeper into porverty and immorality, found that when he finally stopped running, God was there. "Some necks must be almost broken," said Dr. Caldthe will of God." And, finally, the will of God." And, winally, he regarded God's search for man as told in the suffering, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Son of Man who came to seek and to save. Over and over He told in his parables that God is looking for us. There are those of us who are running from God. How much wiser and saner to stop where we are and say to God, "What wouldst thou have me do?" None can ask that question in the presence of God and not find an answer.

Consecration Service

After a brief season of silent prayer, and while the organ played the Benediction, dismissing were asked to write their personal evaluation of this year's February Meetings on cards which were provided for the purpose. The entire student body had an opportunity to go to the front of the chapel and shake hands with Dr. Caldwell, Dr. Stringham, and President Lloyd. When everyone had returned to his seat, Dr. Caldwell repeated the Benedictus, dismissing chapel for his last time. Dr. Stringham returned to his work at Jackson, Mississippi, immediately following the service, and Dr. Caldwell left for Louisville where he resumed his studies as president of the Louisville Seminary, Thursday evening.

Throughout the meetings music played a large part. The choir was present at each service, and they sang special numbers at the evening services. Dr. Stringham also sang several solos during the week, and he and Mr. Vine, choir director, presented a selection from "The Crucifixion" in duet.

High School Basketball Games Start At 5:00 p.m.

Howies Triumph In Point System Volley-ball Games

Swimming Classes Are Formed; Evening Practice Begun

Carolyn Wallace, Howie volley-ball captain, led her team to a smooth 31-20 victory over the Chillies last Thursday when the last of the three tournament games was captured by the fast playing Howies. The first two games, played Tuesday, February 20, were won with the scores of 28-9 and 31-17. This makes the Howies undefeated volleyball champions.

Although the Chillies came out first in the basketball tournament with a hard-working squad far surpassing the Howie team, the Howies seem to have the edge on them in the volleyball technique.

Andy Anderson is captain of the defeated Chillies, while Mae Short is manager. Louise Corbett is Howie manager.

Stunt Contest Thursday

Stunt practice will begin tomorrow with the annual stunt contest will be held this Thursday in Bartlett gym. Requirements include headstands, knee bends, etc. Elimination of contestants takes place as the stunts become more difficult. Next week aerial dart practice will begin.

On February 15, evening swimming lessons were begun, with Lois Collett, Audrey Monteith, Agnes Peterson, and June Townsend as instructors. After tests and classification, the swimmers were divided into five groups: beginners, swimmers, intermediates, unior life saving, senior life saving.

GERMAN CLUB

Helene Spaldo was elected secretary-treasurer at the last meeting of the German club. Marian Lewis and Janet Miller were elected co-chairman of the program committee. Florence Housch, president, announced that future meetings would be held fortnightly.

Coach Lombe Scot Honaker, head coach of the Maryville Scotties for the past 24 years, was headlined in a story in the Knoxville News Sentinel on Sunday, February 18, as " . . . Dean of Dixie Football Coaches." The writing of the feature by Harold Harris, News-Sentinel sports writer, was motivated by a recent release by the United Press which, upon the retirement of Georgia Tech's Bill Alexander, gave the title 'of dean of Dixie football coaches to P. V. (Putty) Overall of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute with 22 years service.

The writer stated that the honor of that title " . . . rightfully belons to grizled, amiable Lombe Scot Honaker, who is in his 24th year as head coach and athletic director at nearby Maryville College."

My Boys

The story went on to state, "While he likes to talk of past triumphs and many of 'my boys' who took their places among the top-most stars of the various fields of sports, Lombe would rather talk of the times ahead when Maryville College will return to collegiate athletic competition after a sports 'blackout' at the Blount County school."

The "greying" Honaker, continued the story, has been doing some part time coaching rather than sitting idle until the war is over and he can resume the full time duties at M. C. He gave J. D. Davis, his former assistant at Maryville, help in coaching the Knoxville Central High School Bobcat football team last fall. He also was in charge of the Tennessee Vols cage squad from a three-game Eastern road trip in the absence of their coach, Johnny Mauer, who went to the Rose Bowl game in California. Honaker led the underdog U. T. squad to two victories out of three contests, including wins over N. Y. U. and Ohio U.

Sons In Service

Other points of the article were brought out by an interview of Coach Honaker. He was quoted as saying the present-day T-Formation is not anything new to him. His teams used it regularly until "it got so old everybody else stopped using it;" then he stopped, too. Coach, when asked the question about his pick for the best coach of all time, asserted that, although Knute Rockne was in a class all by himself as a psychologist, Bob Zuppke, who retired at Illinois a few seasons back, gets his vote as the best football coach.

Also mentioned were Coach Honaker's two sons who are both lieutenants in the army now, but who were previously active in Maryville athletic activities under their dad.

Cyclones Remain On Top Of Intramural Cage Teams; Warriors Threaten Leaders

By Tommy Parkinson

Although the Warriors pulled into a tie for first place and stayed in that position for two days, the Cyclone team is one again in undisputed possession of the lead of the Intramural basketball program, leading by the slim margin of one half a game. Three games have been played since the last issue of the ECHO with the Warriors beating each of the other two teams once, the Cyclones bowing to the Warriors but conquering the Cardinals, and the Cardinals still losing to everybody. The standings are now as follows Cyclones, four wins and one loss; Warriors, three victories and one defeat; and the Cardinals, five unsuccessful encounters.

Following is a summary of the three games played since the last issue of the ECHO:

Cyclones Trounce Cardinals

On Wednesday afternoon, February 21, the Cyclone team lead by Captain Max House with 15 points and Bill Cover, who got 17, played a "heads up" basketball game to outclass the Cardinals—final score, 40 to 17. Heuser, captain, and Seymour did most of the scoring for the losers with 6 points each.

This game was another example of the Cyclones getting hot in the last half; the score only favored them by six points at half-time, 16-10.

Cyclones Lose Their First

The Warriors handed the leading Cyclones their first defeat in a wild and wooly affair Monday afternoon, February 19 in the Bartlett gym. Final score of this contest, which saw three of the Cyclone players go out of the game for excessive fouls, was 44 to 26.

The Warriors grabbed a nice lead early in the game; the score read 10-6 at the end of the first quarter. However with the entrance of House into the game, the Cyclones began to make a determined threat to catch up, but they were not able to do any good at that undertaking after their men started dropping out of the game around half-time. Myers and Garland both sifted 16 points through the basket, while Schieber was getting 10 to be high point man for the Cyclones.

By that victory the Warriors went into a tie for the first place position with the Cyclones, but the Cyclones surged ahead by a half game margin by winning their next game.

Warriors Whip Cardinals

The Warriors again sent the Cardinals down in defeat on the afternoon of Friday, February 16. Myers of the winning team was high point man with 16 points to his credit. Seymour turned in a good performance for the Cardinals, scoring 14 in this contest, which was a comparatively close one. Score at the end of the game read Warriors 37 and Cardinals 27.

Half-time score was 22-15 in favor of the Warriors.

No Games This Week

Because of the high school tournament being held in Alumni gym, there will be no intramural basketball games played this week.

Lanier and Greenback girls' basketball teams tangle this evening at 5 o'clock in the opening game of the annual seventh district high school basketball tournament, which is being held in Alumni Gym this year. There are a total of six games to be played tonight, including three contests in both the boys' and the girls' divisions. The tournament will consist of a total of 18 games, and play will continue through Friday night, March 2, when the finals are scheduled.

Seeded teams of the tournament were recently disclosed by Coach Lombe Honaker, who is the director of the whole tourney. In the boys' division Friendsville Academy is seeded first, Friendsville High second, Maryville High third, and Walland fourth. In the girls' division the Walland team is seeded first, Porter second, and Maryville third, and Lanier fourth.

Pairings Announced

Also announced were the pairings for the first round. In the boys' play Friendsville Academy meets Alcoa, Maryville takes on Townsend, Friendsville High encounters Greenback, Walland clashes with Porter, and Lanier battles Everett. The pairings for the girls is as follows: Walland vs. Friendsville Academy, Maryville vs. Alcoa, Porter vs. Friendsville High, Lanier s. Greenback, and Townsend vs. Everett.

Six preliminary games are scheduled for both Monday and Tuesday evenings. The semi-final games in both divisions will be played Thursday night, March 1, beginning at 6:00. And the championship game in each division will be played off the following night, starting at 7:00, to conclude the tournament.

College students will be admitted for twenty cents admission.

Four Represent M. C. At State Christian Confab

Carol Titus, the East Tennessee representative for the Tennessee State Student Christian Consultation held in Nashville, February 23, 24, and 25, led a discussion group in suggesting projects for the state organization. Miss Titus is a member of the Executive Committee of State Student Christian Conference.

Other representatives to attend the Consultation were Thomas Horst from YMCA, Mary Evelyn Jamison from YWCA, and Helen Marie Wilson from Student Volunteers.

The major portion of the time was spent in seminar groups working out organizational and program plans for church and Christian Association student groups, on a state-wide basis.

Bond Rally . . .

ged by a two point margin, the faculty put up a hard fight, finally losing, 21-19.

The evening's first event witnessed a girls' basketball game between the Chillies and the Howies, the latter team losing 16-12.

Committee Chairmen

Serving as committee chairmen were Sarah Enloe, publicity; Joe Stewart, Queen Committee; Jane Craig, refreshments; Fred Wilson, tickets; and Tommy Parkinson and Max House, arrangements for the games. Refreshments were sold before the program and during the intermission. Admission charge was one war stamp, promoting the sale of bonds and stamps in order to buy a jeep, the immediate goal of the committee.

M. C. 26, Everett 32

In the feature game of the evening, between the College team and Everett High School, the Everett boys jumped out to a good lead in the first few minutes of play and managed to stay in front throughout the contest, although the college outfit threatened to catch up several times. Max House was the high point man of the game, scoring 14 points for the losing team. Final score was 32 to 26.

The following men played for Maryville: Myers, Seymour, House, Cardella, Cover, Garland, G. Roberts, Martin, and Schieber. Parkinson refered the game.

Coming from behind in the last few minutes of the contest, the boy's intramural team were able to eek out a victory over the faculty team in the volley ball game. The faculty stayed in the lead most of the way and were well ahead with a total of 19 points when the student team staged the rally that won the game. The outstanding player of the affair was Dr. Ralph T. Case of the faculty. Other players on the faculty team were: D. L. L. Williams, Richard W. Vine, E. C. Brown, assisted by two students, Merrill Grubbs, and Max House, Players on the winning squad were: John Kirstein, John Houdeshel, Owen McGarity, Jim Leister, Tommy Parkinson, and Bob Seel.

Marion Henderson led the scoring in the girls' basketball game. She got 8 points for the Chillies; E. J. Cotton was second in scoring with 6 points for the same team. It was a closely contested, although low scoring, encounter.

Red Cross War Fund Drive To Begin March 4

Student Council Agrees To Sponsor Drive On Campus

The Maryville College Student Council has agreed to sponsor a Red Cross War Fund drive March 4 through 18 among the students on the campus. This drive will be carried on during these 14 days throughout Blount County. The quota to be reached is $30,000.

Every possible local agency in this vicinity has been contacted and asked by the committees in charge to cooperate to their fullest capacity. A soliciting program among the faculty and staff at the college has already been planned with Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chemistry professor, in charge. Committees will be appointed by the Student Council to handle the campaign among the students. Plans in this connection will be announced at a later date.

Bainonian And Athenian Plan Joint Meeting

Program Chairmen Promise Surprise Feature For Group

A surprise program has been planned for the combined Athenian-Bainonian meeting to be held this Saturday, March 3, it has been stated by Luther Cross. Athenian program chairman, and Jean Messer and Martha Jean Shaw, program chairmen for Bainonian.

In charge of the freshman class under the direction of Joan Liddell and Lonnie Richardt, last Saturday's Bainonian entertainment was a comic program. The audience was divided into sections, each of which made noises like a particular animal instead of applauding during the meeting. Six members were called on to fancy themselves as letters from various people, such as an unknown admirer, a lover, etc.; after a few minutes they recited what they thought they would contain. Betty Hall and Gelola Kell sang.

With a certificate for the narrator of the "corniest corny joke," a joke contest was held at Athenian last week.

Jean Balch gave a tap dance performance before the contest.

Ministerials Install Officers

The Ministerial Association held its first formal meeting of the semester Thursday evening, February 22. New members were accepted and those officers who were elected on January 25 were installed. They were Luther Cross, President; Jim Leister, First Vice President; Bill Vogle, Second Vice President; and Tom Horst, Secretary.

Dr. Gates was the speaker for the program. His topic was "Inventory."

Louise Warwick Weds Minister

Miss Laura Louise Warwick, sophomore here last semester, became the bride of the Reverend Mr. Chalmers A. Mattern at the Johnson Bible College Chapel, Kimberlin Heights, Tennessee, on Wednesday, January 17. The Reverend Asa C. Mattern, father of the groom, performed the ceremony.

Miss Warwick was attended by Miss Ruthada Mattern, of Kimberlin Heights, sister of the groom, maid of honor, and Miss Carolyn Ulrich, Aurora, Indiana, and Miss Betty Bell, Kimberlin Heights, bridesmaids.

Attired in an ivory satin gown and full length illusion veil cavalcading from a pearl tiara, the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tray W. Warwick of Knoxville, Tennessee, carried a small white Bible and an orchid-stephonitas bouquet.

Mr. Mattern, graduate of Johnson Bible College, is pastor of the Lyons Church of Christ in Lyons, Ohio, where Mr. and Mrs. Mattern are now making their home.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was given by the parents of the bride at the home of Robert M. Bell, president of Johnson Bible College.

Theta Epsilon Presents Skit

Theta met Saturday night at 6:15 in Theta Hall with Sue Cochran in charge of the program. The meeting was opened by group singing led by Peggy Howell, and followed by two skits. The first of the skits was entitled "Abe and Anna" and the cast was composed of Marie DePue, Frances Hanschka, and Marjorie Dickenson. An Alphabetical skit was given followed by a monalogue by Sue Cochran. The meeting was closed with a trick skit which was given by volunteers from the group.

I. R. C. Discusses Peacetime Draft

A panel discussion on compulsory peace time military training was featured as the last meeting of the International Relations Club, held Monday, February 19. Ethel Beall, Thomas Parkinson, and Edward Gates were the members of the panel. Following their speeches the meeting was open to group discussion. A review of current news was presented by Miriam Wickham.

er of the West Africa Missions of the Presbyterian Church and Superintendent of the Frank Jones Industrial School at Elat, Africa.

While he was a student at Maryville College, Hope originated the idea of appealing to the student body for financial gifts for missionaries.

He graduated in 1906, and in 1907, went to Africa as a missionary. His plan was continued and since he initiated it, the entire fund was turned directly over to him. This practice has been continued each year. Last year there were 204 pledges amounting to $552.90. The student body has always responded generously to this drive which is the only general plea made each year. Many things have been accomplished by the fund, among which was construction of the Maryville College chapel in use there.

Subscription cards will be distributed in chapel. Gifts may be either cash or pledges. Miss Clemmie J. Henry is the treasurer of the fund.

Fred Hope arrived with his daughter, Elizabeth, at Miami from Africa, January 16.

Fred Hope Drive Nets $677. In Pledges; Joseph McNeill Tells Of Missionary Life

Three hundred twenty-one pledge cards totaling in promised amounts the sum of $677, over $100 more than the pledges of last year, have been turned in at the Student Help Office, Miss Clemmie J. Henry, treasurer for the Fred Hope Fund, has announced. More pledge cards have been received since Saturday when this total was computed.

At the end of this year, when all of the pledges will have been filled, the money will be turned over to the fund set up by Frederick H. Hope, LL.D. class of 1906, when he was a student here.

Joseph McNeill Opens Drive

Pledge cards were distributed to students and faculty members Wednesday, February 28, the opening day of the drive, after the Chapel service conducted by the Reverend Mr. Joseph McNeill, missionary recently returned from Benito, West Africa, who spoke about his work and that of Fred Hope in the missionary field.

"Fighting Mac," a native of Pennsylvania, who is spending his missionary furlough in Oxford, Mississippi, told of his meetings with Fred Hope on the Dark Continent, of speaking to the African congregations there, of feeling a certain kinship to this college since he had addressed black men in the Maryville Chapel so far away.

Has Seen Many Changes

In his 34 years spent in the midst of the pagan civilization of Africa, he has seen many changes, he says. Where once there was only dense, practically impenetrable jungle, there are roads; there are boats to forge the rivers into the interior; there are native evangelists and preachers who preach Christ to their kinsmen; there is a new Christian civilization from the old.

"The old customs of life have given way to the new", he said, "since the missionaries have come. There was no happiness, only suffering, before; the natives have found at last a satisfying happiness."

One of the major accomplishments in African missionary work, he stated, was the opening of the hitherto untouched region of Spanish Guinea. Native evangelists are at work there now, he said.

Mr. McNeill told a rather interesting story concerning the work there. Spanish officials, instructed to give them oders to move out of the region immediately, after a lengthy and hearty consumption of tea and cookies at their missionary hut, reconsidered of their

Red Cross War Fund Drive Held Today And Friday

Student Council Agrees To Sponsor Drive On Campus

At a recent meeting of the Student Council that organization voted to sponsor the Red Cross War Fund Drive on this campus. A booth has been set up between the book store and Thaw Hall, and the voluntary drive will be conducted all day, both today and Friday, March 9. Robert Huber, chairman of the Red Cross Drive committee, reported that there will be no canvassing.

This drive is in connection with the National War Fund Drive of the Red Cross. It is to be carried on for a period of two weeks in Blount County where the quota is $30,000. Every possible local agency in this vicinity has been contacted and asked by the committees in charge to cooperate to their fullest capacity. A college committee has already bee organized with Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chemistry professor, in charge.

Other members besides Robert Huber, chairman, on the student committee are Mildred Waring, Merrill Grubbs, and Marion Lewis.

Rev. C. P. Hardin is the general chairman of the publicity committee of the drive for Blount County.

Purchase of Jeep Aim of Bond Drive

Jeep Costs $1165 Sales Total $682

Just $483 remain before a jeep will be purchased by the Maryville College student body. A jeep costs $1165; the stamps and bonds purchased by the students total $682.

The sophomore class led in the war stamp sales for the week of February 28, with thirty per cent of the class purchasing stamps. Their total was 28, with thirty per cent of the class purchasing stamps.. Their total was $9.60. The seniors followed close on the heels of the sophomores with 29 per cent purchasing a total of $40.70 in bonds and stamps. This included one $50 war bond. Twenty per cent of the junior class purchased $2.50 in war stamps. Eleven per cent of the freshman class purchased $7 in stamps. The total sales for this week were $59.80.

Egon Petri Presents Piano Recital In Voorhees Chapel

College Library Adds New Books

Psychology, Poetry, Novels Included

Among the new books which have been added to the library recently, are several on the Negro problem. The Characteristics of the American Negro and two volumes by Gunnar Myrad entitled An American Dilemma are especially interesting.

Mr. Myrad was a professor in the University of Stockholm and was brought to America by the Carnegie Corporation. Through him, the Carnegie Corporation became interested in the Negro problem and have begun the Negro Life Series.

The English Department has purchased a book which is the first autobiography written in English. The title of this book is The Book of Margery Kempe. It was written about 1436. The library has also purchased a book which was copyrighted in 1920. It is An Introduction to Psychoanalysis by Sigmund Freud.

The Poetical Works of Edward Taylor by Johnson may also be of much interest. They are the first printed poems written by a puritan minister in New England. Edward Taylor came to America in the 17th Century, but lived a very obscure life. His poetry was not found until 1938, when a scholar discovered it among manuscripts in Yale University. It was published at that time.

A few more new books are Jennifer's House by Christine Noble Govan; Green Dolphin Street by Goudge; Blessed are the Meek by Zobia Kossak; Papa was a Preacher by Porter; and Solution In Asia by Owen Lattimore.

Scheduled To Deliver Lectures Here On Friday

One of the master pianists of our day, Egon Petri, is to appear in concert in Voorhees Chapel, Saturday evening, March 17, at the last local Artist Series of the season. His program is to be selected by our music faculty out of the six he submitted, and will be announced at a later date.

Dr. Petri is expected to arrive at Maryville Friday morning. Taking advantage of the fact that he is a teacher as well as a performer, Professor Howell has arranged for him to give a series of informal talks to student body groups. Also the music teachers of the community and Knoxville will have an opportunity to hear him at a seminar to he held Friday morning at 10:00 in the chapel. Friday afternoon at 4:30 a student seminar will be held in the chapel. He is to take part in various music classes during his brief stay. This is the first time a program of such educational value has been attempted here.

Petri, A Dutchman

Born in Hanover, Germany, Dr. Petri is a citizen of the Netherlands. His family background offered much encouragement to his musical abilities. Henri Petri, his father, was a famous violinist and the leader of a string quartet which played all over Europe. Liszt admired his mother's singing. Their home was frequented by the great musicians of that day. Gatherings there included such immortals as Brahms, Tschaikowsky, Grieg, Reineche, Mahler,

Three Professors Return From State Meeting

Hunter, Collins, Shine Read Papers At Philological Confab

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, and Dr. R. S. Collins, associate professor of German and French, returned Saturday from Nashville, Tennessee, where they read papers at the annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological Association.

Dr. Hunter had as the subject of his paper "The Plot of Thomas Hardy's A Pair of Blue Eyes." Dr. Shine's subject was "A Study of Carlyle's Readings"; Dr. Collins', "Leitmotifs o fthe Joseph Novels."

Holds Regular Meetings

The Tennessee Philological Association is one of the oldest state philological organizations in the country. Meetings have been held regularly each year since its founding, except 1943, when the meeting was suspended. It is a state organization for teachers of English and languages. Anyone in the state interested is invited to become a member and to submit papers to be read.

In former years, the number of those attending and the number of papers submitted to be read was so great that a two day meeting was held. Often the members were divided into two sections in order that all the papers might be read. However, war-time travel conditions, among other things, have cut down the number attending; therefore the meeting is now held for only one day.

The members met this year on Friday, March 2 at Peabody College and Vanderbilt University in Nashville. The first meeting was held at two o'clock Friday afternoon; the second was held after dinner the same day. Dr. Hunter stated that the association had been invited to hold its meeting here next year, but that plans were not yet definite. The members have met here several times in the past, but not recently.

Curfew At Midnight . . . Not Only Here But All Over America

By Mary E. Hunt

"All night life must cease at midnight", says the United States Government and Maryville College has been avocating this idea for some time, the only differences being that Uncle Sam doesn't have the facilities for cutting off the lights at the first stroke of the hour while Maryville College does, and Uncle Sam sets the hour at midnight, while the college maintains that it should be earlier.

We do not yet know what the results of the law will be in regard to its effects upon those who prefer to do their visiting during the late hours. Will the United States be filled with night watchmen such as "our Ralph" who will constantly keep a keen eye open for lights which appear where they shouldn't?

Somehow, I wonder if people in general will get used to having a curfew law which will seek to limit their hours of special entertainment to midnight, and force them lest the "fairy godmother" should wave a magic wand, and all the prized possessions again be turned to rags. Or will it be the beginning of a situation similiar to that of the prohibition days in which people met in secret places to evade the laws?

Surely though, th law has many advantages. It may serve as a uniting force in many homes where many members of the family seldom meet due to the hours which they keep. It will touch everyone except the college student or the serviceman who is being well cared for already.

It will mean the saving of many K.W.H. of electricity which will in turn save coal, and other fuel. It will save many hours which are now lost by war workers as a result of being too sleepy after having helped so many people who are employed by such places will be able to take up some other type of work which is more essential to the war effort. As a result of the public places being closed after midnight, there will probably be less divorces, which will probably do more good than any law that the state legislation can pass by concerning lipstick.) Neighborhood relations should be helped if people can't come in from a party at the wee hours of the morn with all their friends.

But then, they tell me that such a law has its disadvantages, and I shouldn't be surprised. It would certainly be no fun to discontinue the midnight shows, and has to end all parties in time for all the guests to be in by midnight. Yes, lots of folk are complaining, but it will make them ever so ready to sing with us, "When the Lights go on again, all over the World."

It's Raining . . . It's Snowing . . . From 30 To 74 . . . Tennessee Weather

By Juanita Hinson

No matter where you are, or when, it's always there. But especially in East Tennessee. What? Weather? Maryville has certainly been getting ample servings for the past weeks, and in a variety of courses. Overhanging clouds and wind for breakfast; sun and blue skies with lunch; and dismal, driving, drenching rain at dinner. Confused coeds are in a continued dilemma as to what to wear. Linings are ripped in and out of coats, and some have been sufficiently tempted by the mild weather to wear crisp cotton dresses. So rapidly are conditions changed, that you must wait until the bell has rung to dress for class, and even then it may or may not be as you had anticipated. If you are to be gone for more than fifteen minutes, prepare for reverses in weather, which always means rain. The one cheerful note amid the numerous downpour are the gay raincoats coeds are won't to wear to ward off the tears of Mother Nature. What matter if hair drools and feet are soaked.

Spring Weather

It has been interesting to observe that radio reports, predicting conglomarations quite as outlandish as the weatherman dreams up, usually call the wrong numbers. Which, we murmur sympathetically, is quite understandable. The mercury rose from 31 last Friday night to the "high" of the week, 74, Saturday.

And all is not rain. At "lights out" when the sleep-inducing sound of showers would be welcomed, the tempo changes to the allegro double forte of a boisterous, premature March wind that rattles the windows, and beats the shades, all the while wailing like a banshee serenade.

Out of the mud and bedlam, spring is showing herself. Birds twitter happily and robins are seen. And the campus has begun to take on a green tinge. Rather bilious as yet, but still green. Redbudded maples against blue and white skies give further evidence of the clemency of the season.

In spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of you-know-what. No one has ever been able to fathom a young girl's thoughts then. But, with you all, I leave this tender message:

Spring is sprung,
The grass is riz;
I wonder where
The flowers is.

INDIVIDUAL INIATIVE ..

College students live an easy life. Here in the section of the Tennessee hills we feel little of the stress of life; we see less of the hardships of war.

But life will not always be this simple. We will have troubles galore. We will be heckled by bill collectors and will feel, then, the actual presses of a normal existence.

And many of us may be submerged under the wave of worry that will accompany our efforts unless we are prepared.

Perhaps one of the greatest benefits a college student could glean from his four years, "education" is the development of individual intiative.

Individual initiative is that quality of personality which enables a person to keep driving, makes him think for himself, helps him to relp upon his own resources rather than on those of other people.

Possessing this qaulity will add much to the chances for success and will tend to make each individual a better person with a more rounded personality. His life will be more constructive and of greater value to society.

We need more people who possess this magic quality of individual initiative. College is perhaps the best place in which to develop it. We have an opportunity that many others do not have, so let's make the most of it. How about showing some individual initiative!

LIBRARY . . . . . LIBEL

By Joan Liddell

"Titration, acids, solutions, bases, ratios . . . " Oh, sorry! It's the after effects of those two chemistry tests last week. Only one person in the room was able to pass them . . . Dr. Griffitts. But then, what's an "F" on a six-weeks exam. Isn't that what you say, Messer?

Well, already we've decided to set up a complaint department. In the first place, we're sorry we confused the details of Johnny's candy last week. It seems that there were six boxes instead of five. and that Joyce, seeing him struggling in the Book Store, offered to help him. He didn't ask her, as we had thought. Please excuse the error, if you will. We're sorry.

And, too, Marty Edgerton doesn't want to talk to us anymore about Memorial. We won't let them hurt you, Marty, honest!

But enough complaining, and on to something pleasant. For example, we really did enjoy the War Bond Rally a week ago last Saturday night. The candidates for Queen really looked like queens. (Well, almost.) Everything looked nice. Even (or I should say especially) those playing volley ball. For exampe, and he's always a good one, take "Waltzing" Williams. That nickname, incidentally, came from a comment he once made at the time Thaw Hall was being built as to how nice the part designed for the library would be for a dance.

We can understand, then, the reason for the name "Waltzing". But now, if possible, maybe someone can tell us the story behind "Clinging" Vine. How about that . . .

Another thing of current interest is the incident that they tell us happened sometime on that trip to Nashville. Have you wondered how it felt to be married? Suppose you tell us, Tom? Or would you rather Helen Marie do it? Now, if Jack had been able to go . . .

Speaking of marriages, in a sense, we'd like to congratulate Beverly Jackson and Dave McDaniels, and Velma Durbin and Harold Eakin. Good luck and happiness always is everyone's wish for you. (And we are a little jealous.)

We are glad to head that Duane Collins, Leroy Dilliner, and Hubert Rust were on campus Friday to visit. Incidentally, to all the freshmen. Hubert Rust is the "Rusty" that has a birthday whenever anyone else does. Hadn't you wondered who he was?

Thursday night brought more mail to Baldwin than had been there for a long time. The reason? Becky was in a most generous mood. She left for Sewanee Friday, and we hope she has a good time. But you'll hear more about it when she comes home.

ODds and enDS

By HANNAH DUKE

Curfews and more curfews! That is the general topic of conversation in the government, both national and state this week. Some of these curfews are regarded as entirely essential and necessary but it does seem as if there would be some limits as to what will be within the realm of government regulation. It does have a limit as to its extent of control, and when it begins to tread upon the inalienable rights of women, then it's time to take heed and act. Perhaps you aren't aware of the situation that prompts the choice of such a subject for discussion. If not, by all means, you are entitled to be informed as to the latest developments in Congressional events at Nashville.

The news is that a certain congressman introduced a bill into the House which, if passed, would prohibit women in the state of Tennessee to wear lipstick. Please note that there is no written basis for assuming that this bill was formally introduced, but, at least, it must have been under consideration in some circles to prompt such a story to be repeated and reach this locality. We try to remain unbiased in our attitudes and criticisms of local and county papers, but after searching diligently we were unable up to the time of this publication to find any account of the introduction of this bill in any congressional reports, "Capitol Capers" or similar articles. Perhaps some reporters, possibly masculine gender, did not consider the matter as important as we the women regard it.

The grounds for introducing such a bill, we understand, are that lipstick is a source of unhappiness in many homes. It is reported that in some cases it has led to broken homes. This seems to be giving such an insignificant object as artificial coloring a very important place in maintaining family happiness and congeniality. It appears to us that the weight of importance should be shifted more to personal responsibility and obligation rather than attributing the growing divorce rate to "make-up" which may have proven to be rather unstable and easily transferable due to war-time circumstances.

A subtle hint to the cosmetic manufacturers would be to expend a greater effort in producing a more durable product.

There are, we'll admit, certain groups of professional women, more mature people, and a few co-eds, who would willingly condescend to an ordinance prohibiting the use of lipstick. The majority of us, however, would be rather violent in our attacks on such a matter.

Consider for a moment the mere demoralizing effect that would result from seeing over four hundred young girls walking around on the campus looking as if they were victims of pernicious anemia. That, of course, would not be conducive to the most wholesome attitude toward school work or social life on the campus. That "well groomed" and healthy appearance we strive for doesn't come with natural health alone. We obviously admit to "color added". Our argument is that we intend to continue our former practices in its use and believe the "personal liberty laws" do not provide for government intervention in this matter.

and probably the rest of the semester. The Book store knows!

And still on the subject of home-making, Lottie Lavender was the only on in Dr. Gates' parish project class of all girls to volunteer for a program on "Homee-making". "Be prepared" is the Girl Scout motto, and there's no law against hoping, is there, Lottie?

Yes, optomistic people seem to flourish around here. Especially as far as food is concerned. You might think psychology majors could understand their own advisor, but Fay and Judy sat a long time in Dr. Briggs' house before they realized that they hadn't been asked for dinner. The real embarassment came when their stomachs started objecting to this ill-treatment . . . and loudly, too. Next time they're going to be sure of food somewhere before they miss a meal.

And there was an interesting comment made to Beth Huffalen in systematics last week. It seems a loose, free neck makes for a better presentation. Ar you going to put that one into practice, Beth?

That reminds us of another unusual incident that happened not too long ago. The story begins with Kenneth Kribbs asking Lela for a date, and now, in these times of shortages of all kinds, she refused! We suggested to Kenneth that he had the wrong one but he came back with a fresh, green reply that no girl was the wrong girl until she had slapped his face. Father Time will no doubt point out a good many who " . . . just weren't meant" for him. Give him a little time . . . But no encouragement . . .

Another individual who needs no encouragement is the one who emitted that blood-chilling scream long after lights were out at Memorial one night last week. Every door was open within the minute after it happened. Someone was certainly in Death's clutches! Peggy Harrison, too, was looking up and down the hall through her green glasses, discussing the incident with the rest of second floor, when someone reprimanded her with, "Why, Peggy, you've been up all this time!" Her eyes opened wide behind her glasses. "How did you know?"

Speaking of things lacking, has anyone seen "Sank's" picture lately? The last place Mary Katherine saw it was the Baldwin bulletin board. Not that we blame you for keeping it—He is good looking—but Miss Stidham firmly believes it fits with the color scheme in her room better than anyone else's. If you don't agree, take it to 103 and see.

But the candle burns low, and the room grows dark. With one last feeble attempt, it brightens long enough for me to write " . . . Until next time" . . . then it's gone.

PETRI PERFORMS SATURDAY

Nikisch and D'Albert.

First a pupil of his father on the violin, Egon Petri was taught also by the great Teresa Careno and later by Feroccio Busoni, who as a pianist and a composer was famous in his own right. Petri has his degree of Music D. from Manchester University, England.

Toured Europe and the U. S.

Egon Petri made his debut as a concert pianist in Holland in 1942. Since that year he has toured Europe and the United States. He was the first non-Russian to have a concert tour in Russia after the Revolution, and his annual appearance there until the outbreak of the war were dominately successful. He has appeared as soloist with many leading orchestras of the world.

Prior to 1940, Petri made his home in Kakopane, Poland. Now he is Pianist in Residence at Cornell University with the rank of professor. He has previously taught in Berlin, at Manchester College, England, in Kakopane, Poland, and in Colorado Springs, Los Angeles, Washington, D. C., Boston, and New York City in this country.

Internationally known for his phenomenal repertoire, Egon Petri holds himself in constant readiness to play at any time any of the concertos of Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Liszt, and Mozart. Familiar with music from Bach through the Romantic school, he enjoys playing the music of Debussy, Raveland and other modern composers. He takes his music seriously, a real patrician in the musical world.

Tall and distinguished, this master musician commands the attention of his audiences from the moment he appears on the stage. His bearing, as his playing, shows artistry, sincerity and simple dignity. It has been said of Egon Petri that he combines that rarest of gifts of being beloved by all who hear him with being a musician's musician as well. He is considered as a brilant addition to any concert course.

Press Comments

Egon Petri has been given especially favorable press comments by the leading papers in the county. "His art is four-square Dutch to the core, sturdy and honest"—New Work Times. " . . . Mr. Petri is the peer of anyone playing today . . . . There are oaring artistry . . . mighty sweep . . . poise and meaning and substance to everything he performs"—The New York World-Telegram.

Mr. Petri has a wide variety of interests in the musical world. for besides his mastery of the piano, he plays the violin. He was chosen by Busoni to write the piano score for his Indian Fantasy, and he has done a number of other compositions. He is a well-loved teacher. In collaboration with Busoni, he edited the Complete Works of J. S. Bach.

own accord; the Christians there have not been hampered in their work since then.

Showed Motion Pictures

On Wednesday evening, the rather short, dark-haired, Irish-blooded missionary showed motion pictures concerning his work, in Voorhees Chapel. He returned to Oxford on Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Hope, who, with his daughter, Elizabeth, has been in the missionary field in Africa at Elat, Cameroun, arrived in Miami on January 16, it was announced some time ago.

A director of Maryville College, class of '46, Dr. Hope became a missionary in 1907. Money from his fund has been used in his work in the Cameroun; the Maryville Chapel there, mentioned by Mr. McNeill, was erected in dedication to this college for its support.

"Unhand Her, Villain" Theme Of Society Skit

"Unhand Her, Villain" was the name of that funny skit given by the faculty last Saturday night at the combined meeting of Bainonian and Athenian. The actors, and actress, were Mr. George Howell, Dr. F. A. Griffitts, and Mrs. Margaret Cummings.

The program was in charge of Jean Messer and Martha Jean Shaw, program chairman for Bainonian, and Luther Cross, program chairman for Athenian. Pat Ames was in charge of the trio of girls who sang. John Houdeshel, Robert Seel, Owen McGarity, and Harold Kidder sang as a quartette. A skit from Junior Miss was also presented.

Plans for the Athenian meeting to be held on March 10 have not yet been made. Neither have definite plans been made for the Bainonian meeting to be held that night.

Eighth Naval Group Converts, Repair Ships

Rear Admiral A. C. Bennett, Commandant of the Eighth Naval District in New Orleans stated recently, that at the present time, 17,279 Naval Vessels could trace their origin to one of the 25 shipbuilding concerns of the Eighth Naval District. These ships range in size from 17,500-ton attack transports and attack cargo ships down to 100-pound rubber landing craft. At the present time, there are 2,034 in the process of being built which will join these others.

Either these ships were built originally for the Navy, or taken over from the Maritime Commission, and converted by Navy Specifications. They are varied in type, and at the present time are fighting fiercely and successfully in many types of duties. Three of these ships are APLS, which furnish quarters for ship repair crews.

All these vessels were built between January 1, 1940 and November 1, 1944. Some of these ships have been built up the river and are floated down to New Orleans for fitting out. There are no Naval Yards in the districts, but do only ship repairing and conversions. All work that cannot be done at the building yard is done here. Changing battle conditions require substitution of armament, and many high masts cannot be adjusted until the ship has reached the ocean lest it collide with a bridge on the way. Each month, they have adjustments similar to these to do for at least 85, and sometimes as many as 130 ships.

Perhaps one of the most colorful stories that can be told about the work of these shipbuilders is that of Andrew J. Higgins, head of Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans. One day the Navy called him and asked him about a steel tank lighter. He said that he could show them a sample in three days. They refused to believe it until they arrived three days later to see the first completed tank lighter and a 36-foot landing boat afloat on Lake Pontchartrain. He then built nine of them in 12 days. Since his shop wasn't big enough, he simply roped off the street and placed armed guards around it to keep away the curious. On the twelfth day, the nine tanks were on their way to Norfolk, with workmen still aboard them painting them. Twelve bridges had to be removed or changed on the way, but that was just a little chore to Higgins.

Henry, Gates Are Workshop Readers

Louise Henry and Edward Gates, both senior English majors from Maryville, were the readers at the meeting of Writer's Workshops Wednesday, February 28 in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Miss Henry read a character sketch entitled "Kaiser of the Kitchen" and had as her critic Mildred Waring. Gates read a dialogue concerning student government with Miss Nathalia Wright for his critic.

From Pennsylvania we hear that one of the professors on the Dickinson College campus owns a dog to whom the students pledge their undying gratitude because he knaws off and chews gum that has beeen parked under class room seats.

The Student Council shall be responsible for the operation of the Center, shall provide for its administration and supervision as hereinafter specified, and shall take disciplinary action against students who violate either the regulations of the Center, or College regulations while engaged in the activities of the Center.

SECTION 2. Responsibility for the actual operation of the Center shall be delegated by the Student Council to an Operating Committee;

a. This Committee shall consist of a member of the Student Council who shall be appointed by the President of the Student Council; a faculty member appointed by the President of the College; the Chairman of the Social Committee; a representative of the Y. M. C. A. appointed by the Y. M. C. A. President; a representative of the Y. W. C. A. appointed by the Y. W. C. A. President; and two students appointed by the President of the Student Council from the Sophomore and Freshman Classes.

b. The representative of the Student Council shall be Chairman of the Operating Committee; the Committee shall elect a Secretary and a Treasurer from its own membership.

c. The Operating Committee shall be responsible for procurement and maintenance of equipment, cleaning of the rooms, checking out and in of equipment, collection of fines, and reporting of infractions to the Student Council.

d. The Operating Committee shall set up, subject to the right of review and approval by the Student Council and the Executive Council of the Faculty, such organization, legislation, and schedules as shall be necessary to promote the ends of the Recreation Center and to provide for its orderly and efficient operation.

SECTION 3. The Operating Committee shall delegate responsibility for the operation of the Center during open hours to individuals selected from the Student body; these are referred to hereinafter as hosts and hostesses.

a. Hosts and hostesses shall be be on duty in the Center according to a regular weekly schedule posted by the Operating Committee. In case any host or hostess is unable to serve he shall notify the Chairman of the Operating Committee twenty-four hours in advance of the time of his scheduled service, in order that a substitute may be appointed.

b. At least one person, host or hostess, shall be responsible for checking out and in equipment; at least one other person shall act as host and monitor.

c. The host and hostess shall report all infractions of Center or College regulations, all damage to equipment or property, and all payment of fines to the Chairman of the Operation Committee.

d. The host and hostess shall be empowered to collect fines as provided for in the regulations below, shall issue a receipt of which a carbon duplicate shall be kept, and shall turn over all money collected to the Treasurer of the Operating Committee.

Article II. Equipment And Finance

SECTION 1. Equipment used in the Center will be loaned or donated by individuals and campus organizations, including the Social Committee, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., and others, or provided by the College.

a. Equipment donated shall become the property of the Center, to be maintained and administered by the Operating Committee.

b. Equipment loaned shall be repaired or replaced if damaged or destroyed, and shall be returned to the owner or owners on request.

SECTION 2. All money collected from fines shall be turned over to the Treasurer of the Operating Committee, who shall hold such money until directed to expend it by the Chairman of the Operating Committee for the repair and replacement of equipment.

a. The Treasurer shall keep a careful record of all money received and expended, and shall make an itemized report to the Operating Committee when called upon to do so.

b. The Treasurer and the Operating Committee shall report to the Faculty Committee on Student Business Management on blanks provided for the purpose, when requested to do so by the Chairman of that Committee; at the end of the college year, he shall make a final report to the Student Business Management Committee, and shall turn over all accounts to the Chairman of that Committee for audit.

c. Any funds remaining in the Treasurer's hands at the end of the college year shall be placed on deposit with the Chairman of the Committee on Student Business Management to be turned over to the new Treasurer at the beginning of the following year.

d. Any deficit remaining at the end of the year shall be shared equitably by the contributing organizations as determined by the Student Council.

Article III. Operation

SECTION 1. The location, equipment, and arrangement of the Center shall be approved by the Executive Council of the Faculty.

SECTION 2. The Center shall be open according to a schedule adopted by the Operating Committee and approved by a committee consisting of the Dean of Curriculum of the College, the Supervisor of Women's Residence, and the Supervisor of Men's Residence.

a. The Center shall not be open while scheduled activities are going on in the building, if Center activities would seriously interfere with such schedule activities.

b. The Center shall not be open during hours of scheduled all-campus activities.

SECTION 3. A member of the College student body, faculty, or staff who desires to check out game equipment shall obtain it by presenting a slip provided for the purpose.

a. Tabulations of the number of people using each game and the number using all equipment shall be made from the slips.

b. The slip shall be returned to the signer as a receipt when he returns the equipment.

c. All equipment shall be returned by closing time; equipment not returned by then shall be considered lost.

d. The person who signs out for equipment shall be considered responsible for that equipment.

Article IV. Fines and Discipline

SECTION 1. Damage, loss, or destruction of equipment or other property shall be paid for by the individual or individuals responsible.

a. Payment of fines shall be to placement, according to a list the extent of repair or reposted by the Operating Committee.

b. The return of lost equipment within three days shall excuse the responsible person from full payment; partial payment shall be according to the list posted by the Operating Committee.

c. Fines shall be paid to the host or hostess on duty or to the Treasurer of the Operating Committee.

d. Fines shall be paid within one week of their assessment; failure to do so shall be considered an infraction of the rules.

e. A person while indebted to the Center for a fine may not participate in the activities of the Center.

SECTION 2. The Operating Committee shall meet at least twice a month to receive from the hosts and hostesses through its Chairman all reports of infractions:

a. The Committee shall consider all reported infractions and shall report the facts in each case to the Student Council.

b. The Committee shall post the names of those temporarily barred from the Center because of such infractions.

SECTION 3. The Student Council shall consider reported infractions, shall pass upon guilt or innocence, and shall take the following actions in cases adjudged guilty.

a. In all cases adjudged guilty the Council shall suspend the privilege of participating in the activities of the Center for a specified length of time.

b. Penalties for infractions of Center regulations, involving no infraction of College rules, shall be imposed by the Student Council, and need not be reviewed by the Executive Council of the Faculty unless the Student Council recommends a penaty more severe than suspension of the privilege.

c. Cases involving infraction of College regulations or deserving in the judgment of the Student Council more serious penalties than suspension of the privilege, shall be reported to the Executive Council of the Faculty through its discipline Committee, with a full description of the alleged infraction and a recommendation as to penalty.

Article V. Ratification and Amendment

SECTION 1. This plan shall go into effect after approval by the Student Council, the Executive Council of the Faculty, and the Student Body.

SECTION 2. The plan may be amended similarly by vote of the Student Council, the Executive Council of the Faculty, and the Student Body.

SECTION 3. The plan may be terminated by vote of the Executive Council of the Faculty or by vote of the Student Council.

Intramural Cage Program Slated To Be Resumed

Action To Begin In Doubles Ping-Pong Tourney This Week

By Tommy Parkinson

Activity is to be resumed this week in the Intramural basketball program after a week's lay-off due to the high school tournament being held in Alumni Gym. Today at 4:30 the Warriors are scheduled to meet the Cyclones in a battle which will at least temporarily decide who is the leader of the three team league. At present the Cyclones are ahead by one-half a game in the standings.

One more week of play will end the basketball season. The schedule for the remaining games is as follows: Wednesday, March 7, the Cyclones meet the Cardinals; Friday, March 9, the Warriors play the Cardinals; and on Monday, March 12, the Warriors engage the Cyclones in the final game.

Ping Pong

Play is also scheduled to begin in an Intramural doubles ping pong tournament this week. Entries for the tourney have already been submitted. According to the Intramural manager, interest in this event is high.

Plans

A short program of volley ball is to be the next major sport in Intramurals. That is to follow immediately the basketball activity. And that in turn is slated to be followed by softball. Also included in Intramural plans is a doubles tennis tournament when the weather permits.

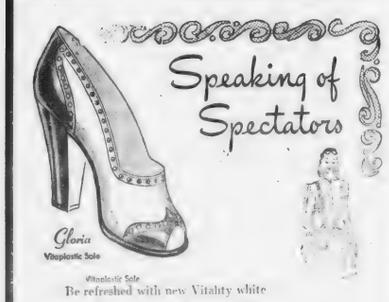
FRIENDSVILLE HIGH WHIPS ACADEMY; WALLAND GIRLS WIN TO TAKE CHAMPIONSHIPS



Huge Crowd Sees Basketball Games In Alumni Gym

Friday night, March 2, the final night of the Seventh District high school basketball tourney, saw one of the biggest crowds in many months in Alumni gym. That crowd, which packed the gym to capacity and more too, witnessed two exciting contests. The Friendsville Academy team was upset in the final game by a fighting Friendsville High team, 24 to 16. In the finals of the girls division, played immediately before the boys game, the Walland squad conquered the Everett sextet by a 26 to 21 score.

Friendsville High had previously defeated Walland and Greenback to gain its position in the finals. The Academy had conquered Maryville and Greenback in earlier rounds of tournament play.

The Walland girls team was the favorite in the tourney. They were successful in keeping intact their amazing reecord which does not include a defeat in the past four years. In the tournament they outscored the Academy girls team Maryville High before playing Everett in the finals. Everett had beaten Lanier Porter, and Townsend to gain their place in the finals.

All star squads were selected following the playing of the finals. Boys were: Clark, Maryville; T. Gregg, F. Academy; H. Hamil, Friendsville, Womack, F. Academy; H. Coulter, Townsend; Reynolds, Alcoa; Shepard, Maryville; Beale, Friendsville; and Burns, Walland.

Dizzy Dame Dodges Duties During Silly, Sterling Study Periods

By LONNIE RICHARDT

'Way back in the old days . . . you know—when Maryville was just Isaac's institution—or your father headed his class with a 9.9 average . . . conditions must have been more conducive to study than they are now, I think. (At least that's what I'm going to write home when my parents ask me to explain that 1.2 average I came up with this spring!) I even have points to back up this statement, rash as it is.

You see, the circumstances of my daily life inhibit my studying and making ingenious progress in the field of book-learning. (Of course that doesn't mean that I'm not ingenious. Wise people are the ones who don't let anybody know about it—that's my philosophy . . . it says here.)

First of all, there is the war. If I can't find any other excuse for almost anything that goes wrong, there is always the war, you know.

Of course, past wars were all different than the one going on now; they never caused war nerves . . . or even jitters, for that matter. But modern war caused divorces and juvenile delinquency and shortages and labor disputes—didn't you know? Why not blame "F's" on it, too?

Letters to Write

Then, too, there are always letters to write. I make it a rule to start answering letters when my mail piles begin to overflow on the floor. This lessens the possibilities of my rating, the usual black marks on room inspection. I suppose you know all about this business of letter-writing letters have a certain something about them that appeals to the imagination much more easily than mediocre looking books.

My mind is caught unawares and deceitfully lured away from the printed page by various other objects of comparative interest about the room, too. For instance, there are mirrors. What girl isn't susceptible to the enticement of one of those things on a wall that caused Snow-White step-mother to pursue poor little Snow-White with a poisoned apple? Always in the mood to try out a new hair style or assorted clothes combinations, she parades up and down in front of her mirror mimicing what she thinks the best New York model would do. (A girl, that is . . . not Snow-White's stepmother.) "Vanity . . . pure vanity," as somebody I can't remember would say.

"True Story"

An assortment of magazines ranging from the "True Story" type to "Batman" comics and back again is next on the list.

Most annoying of all, however . . . and I say with gritted teeth and cleenched fists . . . is that bane device commonly called a radio! That such an evil instrument has been hailed as of infinite good to mankind has always puzzled me.

Oh, now don't misunderstand. I know very well that it has brought education and world understanding, that it keeps me informed as to whether Patton is pursuing or being pursued, and all that rot! People have been telling me that for years now.

But if I had the least bit of backbone, I think I'd say "fooey!" right in their faces when they began their discourses on such tripe. You see, I'm the agnostic as far as any benefits of the radio are concerned. I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me . . . and maybe I still won't believe you.

Radio A Habit

This thing called a radio—I rate it in the same class with liquor, opium and chewing tobacco! It's an evil habit forming indulgence.

I want to study. I want to learn why sodium peroxide has some kind of an effect on whatever that is I can't pronounce. I want to be able to translate that French assignment when I'm called on in class. (You don't believe me?) I have ambition and initiative . . . honest!

But when Henry Aldrich or Red Skelton comes on—I say to myself "Come on now, you have to study!" . . . oh, but my resistance is so low! Soon I discover myself deep in—not my history assignment—but the discharge of that vile mechanism, the radio.

Turn it off, you say? That does not work by any manner of means. I find that this is even more treacherous than leaving it on and attempting a semblance of study. When the radio is off, my mind is occupied with wondering how Henry Aldrich is going to get himself out of the mess he's gotten himself into this week.

Radio Causes Failure

Why turn it on at all? Hearing several other radios broadcasting a particular program up and down the hall and not being able to distinguish quite all of what is said is neve-wracking, and incentive enough for me.

There was a time when I could plausibly tell myself that one could listen to a radio and study at the same time . . . that was before this spring. Now I'm convinced that the radio is the prime cause of my failure, and I am the innocent victim of circumstances. (Can't you understand, Mother? I'm not at all at fault.) Students in the old days were not confronted with such problems as I am.

Why don't other students have the same difficulty as I do? Well . . . ah . . . maybe they're not as sensitive as I am. How's that?

You realize, of course, that all I've said is pure and simple fallacious rationalization. (If you don't know what that is, look it up in the dictionary.) This is not a defeatist attitude. I am confined, restrained, inspirited (or is the word inebriated?), and overjoyed . . . amen.

Now turn that dingbusted radio on! I don't want to miss Bob Hope.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES PLANNED; CHOIR TO PRESENT CANTATA

Chapel Services Part of Holy Week Meetings

"Meditations Upon The Seven Words From The Cross" will be the topic for the special Good Friday service to be held in the chapel on Friday morning, March 30. Three faculty members, who have not yet been chosen, will conduct the service, while the choir will present a special number.

A series of Holy Week meetings, sponsored by the Ministerial Association, has been planned to center about the theme "The Matchless Christ" during the week March 26-31. The services, to be held in the Y.W.C.A. rooms every day after lunch, 1:00-1:15, have been scheduled in the following order: "The Greatest Gift," "The Greatest Example," "The Greatest Sacrifice," "The Greatest Triumph," "The Greatest Comfort." and "The Greatest Hope."

The list of speakers, members of the Ministerial Association, has not yet been completed. There will be special music presented by students also.

Holy Week Chapel Services

Special Holy Week chapel services will include: Tuesday, Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy; Wednesday, President Lloyd (dedication of the gold star for the college service flag); Thursday, Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology; and Saturday, Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and religious education.

Good Friday Meeting in Town

A meditation service on Good Friday from 12:00-3:00 will be held at the First Methodist Church in Maryville, in which the choir and President Lloyd will take part. This service will be non-denominational and all town churches are to be represented in it.

Egon Petri Gives Final Concert Of Artists Series

Egon Petri, world-famous pianist, was presented in concert Saturday evening, March 17 in Voorhees Chapel by the Maryville College Artist Series as the last of this season's guest artists. His complete program for the evening was as follows:

Chromatic Fantasy and Fuge ..... Bach
Sonata in C minor ..... Beethoven Op. 111
Prelude, Chorale and Fugue ..... Franck
Two Fairy Tales, Op. 20 .. Mettner
Prelude in C minor ..... Profofieff
Gavotte in F Sharp minor ..... Profofieff
Prelude in G major ..... Rachmaninoff
Prelude in G minor ..... Rachmaninoff

Dr. Petri arrived at Maryville Friday morning to conduct a Seminar for the Music Teacher's of Maryville and the surrounding vicinity at 10:00 o'clock in Voorhees Chapel. Another seminar, for music students and others interested in music, was held in the chapel Friday afternoon at 4:30. This was the first time such a program emphasizing the educational aspect of music has been attempted by the Artist Series. Besides being a concert pianist of international renown, Petri is a well-loved teacher. He is now Pianist in Residence with the rank of professor at Cornell University.

Nicola Moscona, the young Greek-born basso-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company presented the first recital of this season's Artists Series on November 16. Mona Bradford, vivacious, young contralto was heard January 23. Professor George D. Howell is the chairman of the local Artist Series commiitee.

Lincoln Barker Receives Doctor's Degree From NYU

Ph.D. Conferred On Associate Professor Of Psychology

Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology and education at Maryville College since 1941, was, on February 26, awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy by New York University. The president's office released the announcement today.

Dr. Barker has done work in New York University, School of Education, division of higher education, in the field of philosophy and psychology, for a number of years. He went to New York for final examinations for the doctorate in January of this year. His doctor's dissertation is in the field of historical research and is entitled "History of the State Junior Colleges of Utah."

From 1934 to 1941, Dr. Barker was dean professor of psychology and philosophy at Westminster College in Salt Lake City and thus had an opportunity for research in the field covered by his dissertation.

A graduate of Westminster College, Fulton, Missouri, where Mrs. Barker's father is the dean, Dr. Barker has done graduate work also at Washington University, St. Louis, and Princeton. Before going to Salt Lake City, he taught at his alma mater in Missouri and at Arkansas College where he was also dean and professor of psychology and philosophy.

"It gives me considerable satisfaction to have completed this work and to have passed this milestone," stated Dr. Barker. "But," he added, "my greatest satisfaction lies in whatever benefits my students and the college may realize."

Sunrise Service Scheduled For Easter Morning

Easter Sunrise Service in the Ampitheatre of the College Woods and the choir presentation of an Easter Cantata at evening vespers will climax Holy Week observances at Maryville College on Easter, April 1.

The Ampitheater Service, to be begun at 6:22, official sunrise time, will include selections by both the choir and the band formed especially for this occasion. President Ralph W. Lloyd will act as minister in conducting the service.

Breakfast will be served to members of the band, choir, faculty and staff, and to town pastors, directors of the college, and members of the Maryville Kiwanis Club before the service at the home of President and Mrs. Lloyd.

The band will play on campus before the service while people are gathering.

Evening Vespers

"The Seven Last Words of Christ," an Easter cantata by Thomas DuBois, will be given, under the direction of Richard W. Vine, associate professor of music, at Easter vesper service. Soloist will be Marcia Kern, Richard W. Vine, John Houdeshel, and Owen McGarity. The theme of the cantata is taken from the seven last words of Christ spoken from the cross.

Dating Privileges

On Easter afternoon, there will be no meetings of the Y.M.C.A. or the Y.W.C.A., and students are to be given open privileges for dating on campus. This is traditional.

Regular Easter church services will be held at the town churches.

George K. Neff Is Wednesday Chapel Speaker

The Rev. Mr. George K. Neff will be the chapel speaker Wednesdya, March 21. He is pastor of the Kirkwood Presbyterian Church in Knoxville.

Mr. Neff graduated from Maryville College in the class of 1925 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1928.

DR. RALPH COLLINS RECEIVES APPOINTMENT AS VICE CONSUL

GERMAN PROFESSOR EXPECTS FOREIGN ASSIGNMENT WITH STATE DEPARTMENT

Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate Professor of German and French in Maryville College, left Wednesday night, March 7, to report for government work in Washington. He had been notified by the State Department of the United States Government of his appointment as a Vice Consul in the Foreign Service Auxiliary, and was granted a release by Maryville College. He expects to remain in Washington for a training period of approximately five weeks before assignment abroad.

He was given farewell parties by each of his classes, both the first and second year German classes surprising him by having refreshments prepared before he arrived.

Dr. Collins admitted that his proficiency in speaking German has not always proved an asset. He told of an incident which occured when he and Mrs. Collins first came to Maryville. It was one summer evening when Hitler was giving a speech which was broadcasted to America and a neighbor happened to pass by the Collins apartment just as Hitler was becoming most emphatic. The neighbor hastily called another woman and demanded to know "what in the world that man say saying to his wife."

The French class serenaded the Collins family with French songs at their home Tuesday night. They presented Dr. Collins with an identification bracelet and requested that he have toujours amour engraved on it.

Hopes To Return

Dr. Collins expressed the hope of being in Germany immediately after the fighting ceases. Before his departure he said, "After having spent ten years in Maryville I feel as if it is my home and shall always think of it as such. I hope to return when the duties are finished."

His work for the remainder of this semester will be carried in part by other members of the Faculty and in part by Mrs. Collins, who is to remain in Maryville.

Dr. Collins received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of North Carolina and his Ph.D. degree form Johns Hopkins University. He spent a year at the University of Munich in Germany.

College Choir Featured In Palm Sunday Service

Special music by the vesper choir will be a feature in the regular vesper service, Sunday evening, March 25 which is Palm Sunday. President Ralph Waldo Lloyd, D.D. will preach a brief sermon following the musical numbers.

Under the direction of Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, the choir will sing four numbers: "The Palms," by Faure. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." "Sanctus" by Gounod, and "Benedictus" by Lizst.

Pi Kappa Delta Sponsors Triangle Debate Tourney

Lincoln Memorial, Carson-Newman To Meet Here March 30

Varsity debate teams will meet Lincoln Memorial University and Carson-Newman for a triangle debate tourney here March 30. Dorothy Lehman and Marinell Ross, Gladys David and Judy Turk, Robert Huber and John Shell, and Miriam Wickam and Betty Lou McCoy, varsity debaters, will partipate. The question under consideration is, "Resolved: That the federal government should enact legislation requiring the settlement of all labor disputes by compulsory arbitration when voluntafy means of settlement have failed, constitutionality conceded." The time and place of the debate will be announced later.

A meeting of the freshman debaters and the Maryville High School team is being planned for the near future. Those on the freshman team included Joan Liddell, Jamie Pannell, Marian Lewis, Kate Smith, Joan Russell, Marietta Ball, Irene Caudill, William Asher, J. T. Anderson, and Kenneth Kribbs. Freshman debate meets every Monday afternoon in Dr. Briggs classroom. All freshmen interested in debate have still an opportunity to make the team.

April 5 and 6 the varsity teams will participate in the Grand Eastern Phi Kappa Debate Tournament which will be held in Charlotte, North Carolina. Each member from Maryville will enter one or more contest other than debate.

Esther Farrow' Jean Messer, Shirley Scott, Max House To Portray Leading Roles

MRS. WEST

Mrs. West Directs Three Act Comedy

BEGINS AT 8:15

Athenian-Bainonian Societies Give Play

Junior Miss, a three act comedy hit by Sally Benson, is to be presented Thursday evening, March 22, at 8:15 in Voorhees Chapel by Athenian and Bainonian societies. Under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art, Junior Miss, with a cast of seventeen, features in the leading roles Shirley Scott, senior from Altoona, Penn.; Esther Farrow, senior from Montclair, New Jersey; Jean Messer, sophomore from White Pine, Tenn.; Max House, freshman from Cato, New York.

The complete cast of Junior Miss is as follows: Harry Graves, Max House; Grace Graves, Esther Farrow; Hilda, Virginia Miller; Lois Graves, Thelma Richardson; Judy, Shirley Scott; Fluffy, Jean Messer; Ellen Curtis, Betty Lou McCoy; J. B. Curtis, James Martin; Willis Reynolds, Thomas Horst; Merrill Feurbach, Merrill Grubbs; Tommy Abuckle, Fred Wilson; Haskell Cummins, Kenneth Kribbs; Joe, Calvin Garland; Henry, James Leister; Barlow Adams, Thomas Wheeler; Sterling Brown, William Vogle; Albert Kunody, Jack Craig.

Expect Large Crowd

Five committees make up the back-stage workers in connection with the production of Junior Miss. Harold Kidder, assisted by Kenneth Kribbs, handles the business end of the play. "Thanks to the splendid help of so many people, our work is running smoothly," said Mr. Kidder. He added that 500 tickets have been printed with the expectation of a large attendance. The programs have been worked out and printed, he stated.

Robert Seel as stage mannager has an assisting crew consisting of William Cover, Willis Pribble, Leonard Sheiber, Becky Davis, Jesse Lou Brunson, Elsie Onifer and Jean Almy. "We're all set for the big night," asserted the stage manager. "The curtain is going up Thursday night on a great play."

The publicity committee is headed by Luther and Margaret Cross. Aiding them by making posters and assisting in other forms of advertising are the following people:

Billy Ruth Wright, Martha Jean Shaw, Zenobia Bernardini, Eleanor Stout, Miriam Wickham, Ada Huffman, Peggy Case, Betty Proffitt, Elaine Woods, Agnes Peterson, Angeal Kincaid, Jane Craig, June Burns, Melba Holder, Sarah Enloe, Jack Houdeshel, Becky Davis, Ethel Beal, Robert Seel, Mary Elizabeth McKnight, Carol Fuller, Joan Hart, Betty Saint, Anna Sakaizawa, Peggy Milliken, Alice Hoenig, Jean Martin, Betty Lou McCoy, Mary Annis Beals, Jean Bellerjeau, Louise Henry, Mildred Orr, Elizabeth Crawford, Kenneth Kribbs, and Dora Lynn Smith.

Striking Posters

The publicity committee, among other things, is responsible for the original and striking posters which have been placed at conspicious spots over the campus. The teen-age theme, complete with bobby-socks, sloppy sweaters, and pig-tails, so evident in these posters, protray the basic idea of Junior Miss.

Property manager Virginia Clabough is assisted by Janet Miller. The necessary articles which must be found before the night of the play include such difficult stage equipment as Cape Cod barometer, ice skates, a peppermint candy cane, and a Christmas tree.

The costumes for the cast of Junior Miss are handled by Ann Thorton and Carol Gilette.

175 Contribute $105.45 To Red Cross War Fund

"One hundred and seventy-five students donated a total of $105.45 to the Red Cross," stated Mildred Waring, chairman of the Red Cross drive made here on the campus last week. Backed by the Student Council, Marion Lewis and Merrill Grubbs, freshmen council members, served as the committee, and volunteers from the student body took charge of the booth set up in the lobbies of Thaw and Pearson's Hall.

The Reverend Mr. C. P. Hardin, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, who is publicity chairman for the drive held in Maryville, presented Red Cross movies at the College on Wednesday, March 7.

A recent bulletin sent out by the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C. to the universities and colleges all over the country, states:

"With the advent of peace the Red Cross will face new tasks. In the meantime, however, the Red Cross needs $200,000,000. Last year thousands of dollars were contributed by American college and university students. This year will be no exception. Give generously to the 1945 Red Cross Fund."

WAR CLAIMS 21 M. C. SERVICE MEN

Gold Stars To Be Dedicated At Special Chapel Service

By MARY E. HUNT
(ECHO Service News Editor)

On Wednesday morning, March 28, the gold stars on the service flags will be dedicated at the chapel service, President Lloyd announced today. Sixteen will be added to the five already there making a total of twenty-one stars. Additional blue stars are being placed in the chapel in time for the service.

Twenty-one Maryville men, graduates and former students, have given their lives in service to their country. A few facts about each of these gold star heroes are presented below so that the students may know something about each one.

FRANK L. MILLER, 1944. Colonel (Chaplain) Frank L. Miller was one of fourteen army officers killed in an airplane crash in Iceland. He was serving as chief of Plans and Training in the office of the Chief of Chaplains at that time. Miller was an outstanding man on the campus, serving as president of the Senior class of '14, a member of the track team, and basketball squad, on the staff of the Monthly, active in the YMCA, and Athenian. He served as photographic Editor of the Chilhowean.

EDWARD B. McGILL, ex '39. He was killed in action in France, June 12, 1944, having been in the service since August, 1943. He played basketball, when he attended Maryville.

ROY SPARKS, ex '43. Sparks died on January 19, 1945 of wounds received in action in Belgium. Leaving here in '40, he attended Nashville Aircraft School, and worked for Glenn L. Martin in Baltimore. He had been in the service seven months, and overseas one, when he was killed.

JOHN J. BALENGER, 1941. John Balenger was killed in an airplane crash off the coast of California during February. An Economics major from Hartford, Conn., Balenger was a member of Alpha Sigma, manager of the swimming team, and a member of the band.

GERO PIPER, ex '45. Piper was "deceased" according to a letter which was returned to Miss Heron by his commanding officer. He was an amunition bearer in either Belgium or Germany at that time. Piper was born in Germany, and came to the United States with his parents, who were anti-Nazi. After attending Maryville one year, he transferred to Davidson College in North Carolina.

AUGUSTIN L. BRUNSEN, ex '44. Brunsen was killed in the Palau Island invasion last September. He attended Maryville in '40-'41, and was planning to study law. At the close of that year, he enlisted and trained at Parris Island, S. C. Brunsen, who lived in Elmira, New York, was a machine gunner and had been overseas two years. His sister, Jessie Lou, is a member of the present sophomore class.

RICHARD K. ORR, 1934. While serving as a chaplain in the Southwest Pacific, Orr contracted a blood disease, and was flown to the states where he died, December 19, 1944. He was a member of the staff of the Highland Echo, on the student council, member of the YMCA cabinet, and Writers' Workshop.

CHARLES EDWARDS, ex '45, of Rochester, Pennsylvania was killed February 26, over Lyons, France. Edwards received his commission at Perry Field, Texas, April 1944 and was stationed at Westover Field, Mass., before leaving for overseas duty. A B-24 pilot with the army, he was a member of the football squad, and the nature club here.

WELDON BAIRD, 1939. He was killed at sea, April 1, 1942, and his body never recovered. He was the business manager of the '38 Chilhowean, treasurer of Athenian, president of the sophomore class and YWCA, member of the track team, and listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

JACK HARWOOD, 1941. Jack Harwood was in the group of flying fortresses which made the first raid on Germany over Bremen, on April 17, 1943, and did not return. He was a history major from Cornell, Pa., and member of Alpha Sigma.

PATRICK DAVIS, JR., ex '43. Davis was killed in an airplane crash in Hiwaii, February 16, 1945. He was from Rogersville, Tenn. and attended the college in '40, entering the air corps in April, 1942.

HARRY DRIVER, ex '39. Driver was killed in Australia, November 13, 1942, while serving as pilot to General MacArthur.

ROBERT DOWNES, 1936. Downes was one of 750 prisoners to die when a Japanese Prisoner of War ship was sunk by mistake, Sept. 7, 1944. He was active in the choir and glee club, YMCA secretary, member of Theta Alpha Phi, and Greek major. He went from here to Princeton Seminary, and then became a pilot, stationed in the Pacific.

JAMES ROBINSON, ex '45. Robinson was killed in action over Germany Thanksgiving Day, November 23, 1944. He entered the service in April, 1942.

DAVID BRIGGS, JR., ex '46. Briggs was killed August 15, 1944 in France. He had previously been reported missing.

RED, BLUE, AND GOLD

Nothing in life is more difficult for peace-loving people to bear than war with all its grim horror, its unending trail of sorrow, its disruption of homes, and its utter waste of life and property. Yet the people of this nation are in the third year of the world's most horrible war.

Each day more blue service stars turn to gold ones as this son, that brother or friend falls on some distant, unknown battlefield. Twenty-one of Maryville's men have died for their country in this war.

Hundreds of grievously wounded men are carried back to hospitals every day. Thousands, even millions, of American men in uniform are tired beyond belief and suffer from deep feelings of nostalgia. Most of us would be only willing to do all we could to ease the pain of the injured or still the homesickness of those who still fight on.

Many of us have helped them through our contributions to the War Fund Drive of the American Red Cross. Over one hundred seventy-five students contributed their aid.

Our support shows that we are vitally interested in the wellfare of our soldiers and do appreciate the work of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross is at the front keeping alive the atmosphere of home for the men who are fighting; the Red Cross is in the hospitals cheering the wounded and sending messages to fearful and anxious relatives; the Red Cross is sending blood plasma and surgical dressings to save the lives of American youth; the Red Cross is here at home to aid families in distress.

This is our Red Cross. By supporting its work we can aid considerably our blue star heroes in carrying on the work for which their gold star buddies died.

LIBEL

By OLINDE AHRENS

ANNIVERSARY. Ada will celebrate her first wedding anniversary most appropriately—by taking her final test in Marriage and Family. Harold thinks she'll pass.

HELP WANTED: Do you want a job for the summer? Then get on the business staff of the ECHO. (Paid Adv.) At least Kate manages to get the offer of a job during vacation from most of the places where she sells ECHO ads.

ANCHORS AWEIGH! Did you see that cute sailor on campus the other day? Second glance at the face under that natty cap makes one think of Marky. (Any resemblance is not coincidental either.)

IGNORANCE IS BLISS. Dr. Orr: "What does John Locke say about matter?"
Student: "I don't know."
Dr. Orr: "That's exactly what Locke said."
—or—
Miss Wilkinson (in first year French): "How do the French pronounce W?"
Deep silence.
Miss Wilkinson: "That's right—they don't pronounce it."

"WE WISH WE COULD KISS YOU—we're sorry you're going away." And Footsie is hereby nominated as chairman of the committee on arrangements—faculty clientele preferred!

SECOND FIDDLE? I should say not. Carol Smith's b. f. doesn't play second fiddle in the college orchestra when he visits—nor anywhere else, Carol can tell you.

SPECIAL PERMISSION. Don't think what you thought when you saw Jim wandering to town last week with another gal. Cobbie said he could do it.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DEAR RUSTY! And this time he was really here to stand up and make his bow in person. If Rusty didn't remember all the people who pumped his hand and were "Glad to see you back again" he shouldn't be distressed. You really didn't know her. Rusty, but you should!

COME HIGH WATER. "Leander swam the Hellespont, and I will swim this here." Well, maybe not, but at least Dave didn't let anything like a little flood keep him from visiting Janet. And you might ask her what time it is—she'll be looking at her watch anyhow!

PIE IN THE SKY. If there is, we know Fred will get a front row seat in heaven—with Pribble right behind him.

SPRING. Even the trees are coming out. Some ping blooms, some have white, and the cedar at the corner has blossomed out with a mop in its upper branches. (Chatterbox, take note of spring.)

SIX GESTURES. And all in one minute, too, in Dramatic Art class. "And Peace descended like a bird."

TROONERVILLE TROLLEY? No, but she'll meeet all the trains on March 30. Don is due to get off one of them. Eleanor says, "Sure you can come along to meet him—if you don't mind being ignored."

FRAME UP? Yes indeed, and there's a good-looking picture in the frame too, worth the $5.00 air mail rate from Porto Rico. The sentiment is in Spanish, but Eva can translate for you if you want to know how they say it in Porto Rico!

"HOME FOR THE WEEK-END." Of course, her home is in Texas, and she got only as far as Oklahoma, but maybe Hannah realized that home is where the heart is when she said that. (We think Bill would approve.)

CONGRATULATIONS! Most serenaded boy on campus last week was Kate's Clayton. That new pair of wings has them both in the clouds.

"I'VE NEVER SEEN A PURPLE COW," or purple teeth, for that matter, until Monty tried swallowing some of the permanganate she was drawing through a pipette.

IDENTIFICATION TAGS. After Pino, Eva, and Nelle spoke to the Spanish class at Everett High, the fellows were commenting (and favorably) "Now take that cute one . . . " "Which on do you mean?" "Well, you know, there was the one that played the piano, the little one, and the pretty one." Now you guess. (We know what Seymour would say!)

TRANSPORTATION DELUXE. Yes, several friends envied Marty her sprained ankle when they saw how she got over to Pearsons for lunch.

YOU CALL 'EM. There are all kinds of ways to get a nickname. One is by having a big sister in the same Theory Class, as "Junior" Barnwell can tell you.

QUOTATIONS: Aunt Carolyn: "Mine's come, where's yours?" Answer. "Mine's circling the field for a landing."

NAVY, 6' 4". Curtis is one man Bealsie will always have to look up to.

SURPRISE. The soldier's serenade at Baldwin may have been unrehearsed, but his attendance at the formal tea was surely unpremediated (by all his hostesses, anyhow.)

WASTED EFFORT. Kitty needn't have tiptoed in after the last UT concert, really. Noise in her room wouldn't have disturbed May a bit that night.

TELL US MORE. Tedford's secret passion? It isn't vollyball that counts—just one of the people that play it.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED. The cradle song of the new college band was gayly tooted out last Wednesday. Wheen will we be invited to the christening?

FIRST AID. (or, I Want a Letter!) And then there's the girl at 115 Baldwin who dropped her mother a card, "Dear Mom, Surely hope you haven't broken your arm and can write again soon."

DOUBLE DATE. There's one MC fellow who has a new definition for a double date—a date with two girls in one night, half an evening per each. (Definition accepted, due to manpower shortage.)

BARGAIN. And true to our promise, we're not saying anything about that phone call Merrill received.

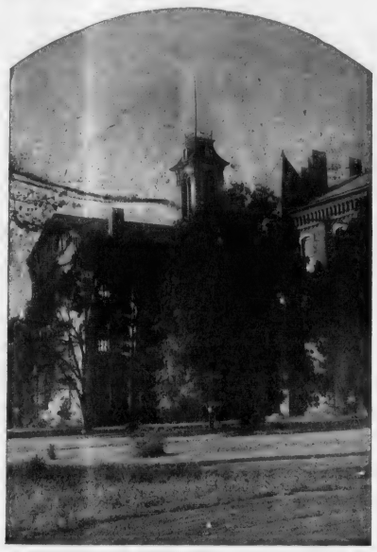
"Put On Your Easter Bonnet With All The Ribons On It" and join the Easter parade. Now don't think we're rushing the season because, even though it's hard to realize, spring is practically here. With the first day of spring only a few days away, Maryville campus has blossomed in full bloom. The campus is without doubt prettier than it has been in a number of years. The early yellow daffodils and forsythia certainly seem to have benefitted from the early spring rains. Everywhere you cast your eye there is either a dash of yellow, white, or green. And the old axiom is true as ever, "In spring a young man's fancy turns to love." The same is true of the fairer sex but the majority of us have adopted for our themes, "Memories."



The Easter parade will be as colorful as usual though, and possibly more so, for there'll be over half a dozen gaily dressed co-eds to every fellow. (You lucky boys!) For contrast, if you can manage to get your eyes wide enough for close observation at the Sunrise Service, just take a close look at the winter coats and turbans and then look at the same group about four hours later. Such a drastic change you'll never witness elsewhere. It's like a leap from the midst of winter to a day in middle June. Much as we like (?) Tennessee weather, we've found the freshness of the early morning air just doesn't help the crispness of an Easter bonnet. An encouraging prediction, based on the last two years' experience, is that even though the prospects for a beautiful day may not be very promising at 5:30 a.m., things look quite different by the time to join the Easter parade. Plan now to don your spring clothes and join the parade on Court Street on Sunday morning, April 1. ("Fifth Avenue" of Maryville.)

During the last week, some questions have been asked concerning the various traditions on the campus during past years. It seems some of the upperclassmen have been informing or misinforming the freshmen concerning all those things we "used to do" here. They must be referring to such things as freshman gags, Homecoming, football games, etc. Somehow though, facts and fiction have been confused and it was suggested that possibly a column in the ECHO on some of these traditions might be helpful. We will be glad to attempt to do this if there are any specific questions some of the freshmen would like to have answered. In the event that there are any, please place them in the wire basket in the ECHO office in Thaw hall by March 26 or hand them to some member of the staff who will in turn give them to me. We do not intend to take the place of such persons as Dorothy Dix, Emily Post, Kaltenborn, or Dr. Anthony, so don't send in your personal problems. We will be concerned ONLY with campus activities.

Note to freshmen: Dating on the campus on Easter afternoon is a tradition of the college and will be quite acceptable this year too. (This is no April 1 gag even if Easter does fall on April Fool's day this year.)

—KNOW YOUR COLLEGE—

Over Seventy-Five Years At The Top Of The Hill

ANDERSON HALL

(Beginning with this issue, the Echo will publish a series of feature articles by Lonnie Richardt on the general theme of "Know Your College." The first of these deals with the history of Anderson Hall. Subsequent articles will be devoted to Bartlett Hall, Voorhees Chapel, Thaw Hall, etc.)

By LONNIE RICHARDT

Anderson Hall
Erected 1869
Named in Memory of
Rev. Isaac Anderson, D.D.

1780-1857
Founder and First President of Maryville College
Who Lies Buried in the College Cemetery

Weather-worn bricks, an impressive tower . . . these are the outstanding features of the Phoenix-like brick landmark which stands at the peak of College Hill. They have come to symbolize the college itself—these characteristics of Anderson Hall.

Like a well-fed, drowsy cat, the old three-story building yawns, nods, and settles itself more deeply into the ground on which it has stood for three-quarters of a century. Day after day, the bell in its tower rings at twenty-after and half-past the hour; day after day motley groups of students crowd through its doorways, tramp through its halls, wear down its staircases a little more, sit in its classrooms.

Occasionally someone stops to read the plaque next to the Alumni Office, looks at the name, the date, then continues on his way. In themselves, the words of that plaque tell little of the story of the hall called Anderson.

The years following 1864 were hard ones all over the South. Ravaged homes had to be rebuilt, and barren fields replanted. Maryville was no exception. When Professor Thomas J. Lamar stood at the intersection of Main and College streets in the town of Maryville in 1865, the ruin and wreckage was quite evident. The old Court House showed signs of the gunshot and shellfire of Wheeler's men. In cinders, the business section, too, bore witness that Wheeler's raid had come. The inn which in now Blount Hotel carried the marks of war.

Served As Barracks

After serving both armies as barracks and stables for four years, the "College" was in the last stages of dilapidation. All that remained of the six-room brick house acquired in 1820 for the Seminary Division was a mass of useless bricks scattered about and several Dutch ovens; the Federal troops had torn it down to make ovens for their mess shanties when they used the half-acre "campus" for a camping ground.

Little more could be said of the main building than that it was standing. Samuel T. Wilson, late president of the college, once termed it "a disreputable old hulk." Door-frames and window-frames had been torn out and used for fuel. Gun-marks had left their wounds on the carefully planned building which had not been completed at the beginning of the war. Worse still, the building had been sold for taxes during the war.

Miraculous was it that a year later, on September 5, 1866, Professor Lamar himself rang the bell which, for years before, had summoned students to their tasks. The year 1869 saw a new building rising on the hill east of town; this "college edifice," considered spacious and a thing of grandeur as compared with its prototype on Main Street, cost the amazing sum of $25,000. Small wonder that Professor Lamar is called the second founder of Maryville. Without his unsalaried work there might have been no Maryville College.

Rapid Development

Development was rapid after the construction of Anderson. The following year Baldwin and Memorial Halls were erected. Soon the campus was expanded and other buildings shared the Hill with these three landmarks.

In 1877, the first February Meeting was held in the chapel, then located in Anderson. Nearly doubling the size of the building, an annex to Anderson was added in 1892 to help accomodate the growing classes. A few years ago, in 1937, the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art Gallery was established on the second floor of that building. The college has come a long way since the days when it was called the Southern and Western Theological Seminary.

The original campus is the site of the New Providence Presbyterian Church; the bricks which were left after the war from the wrecks of the early buildings can be seen in the old brick walk of the J. A. Duncan home in town; the bell which Professor Lamar rang in 1866 is on display in the library which bears his name.

Bell Has History

Interesting thing about that bell ... in 1887, the story goes, five mischievous fellows mounted the steps to Anderson's belfry, determined to let the countryside hear the bell. Locking themselves in the room, they began ringing the innocent instrument. For two hours they took turns calmly tolling the bell, while outside the locked door, a score of perturbed officials and professors tried in vain to stop the seemingly perpetual clanging. In desperation, they finally broke down the door, only to see the figures of the boys making fast retreat out the other door. The tale states that the only evidence as to the identity of the rascals was a hat and bit of hair snatched from the unfortunate one who was last to leave. The hat was identified as belonging to a student who had been with the professors outside the room; the owner of the hair never made an attempt to claim his loss. The remainder of the career of the bell, cast in Pennsylvania in 1853 and broken April 6, 1938, was comparatively mild.

The old campus, the building, the bell—is not completely gone or forgotten, but the new has taken its place. Re-creation and growth far surpassing the old have been seen by the dignified building at the top of College Hill.

Top of The Hill

From a decayed and desolate college left with the other privations of civil war, a new building, symbolizing a new Maryville, reared itself. Its tower stands for the courage and fortitude of its second founder . . . for the spirit that has become a part of life at the "top o' the Hill."

The bell awakens students to activity at "twenty-after;" they classes,trudging up stairs, talking as they go. At "half-past" all becomes quiet again. Anderson . . . and Maryville . . . live on.

Irate Guest: "There's an awful odor in this room."

Manager: "Why don't you open the door?"

I. G.: "What? And let my pet goat out?"

Helen Anderson, John Kerr, Wed; Margaret Witt Marries

Helen Louise Anderson, '44, became the bride of Lt. John A. Kerr, '44 Saturday afternoon, Mar. 17, at 4:30 in New Providence Presbyterian Church of Maryville. The Rev. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

Miss Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Anderson of Rockford. Lt. Kerr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Kerr of Greenback, Tennessee.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. George Burchfield of Maryville at the organ and several vocal selections. Mrs. Wm. Grosh, (Frances Haris '44) sang "Because" and "Oh, Promise Me." "At Dawning" was sung by Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music at the college. White gladoili and ferns decorated the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an off-white satin gown with beaded sweetheart neckline and full-gathered skirt. A fingertip veil fell from a crown of ruching and orange blossoms. Her bouquet consisted of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Miss Anderson chose Mrs. Joe H. Miser, of Knoxville, to be her matron-of-honor. Her college roommate, Virginia Cain, '44, was maid-of-honor , having come from Elizabeth, N. J. for the wedding. The bride's sister, Caroline, and Lillian Kerr, of Greenback, Tenn. and sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. The four attendants all wore identical dresses of blue taffeta. Mrs. Miser and Miss Cain carried red roses. The two bridesmaids each had carnations in ecru and salmon shades.

Lt. Kerr asked his cousin, Pfc. Frank L. Kerr, Jr. to act as best man with Lt. John Van Horn, stationed at Columbia, S. C., A. R. McCamon and Lawrence Lowe, both of Maryville, as ushers.

Mrs. Anderson, the bride's mother, wore a rose evening gown with a gardenia corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Kerr, was gowned in light blue with a corsage of gardenias.

Small Reception

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom received wedding guests as they left the church. A small reception was held at the home of the bride in Rockford after which the couple left for a short wedding trip. Lt. and Mrs. Kerr will be at home in Columbia, S. C. where Lt. Kerr is stationed at the army air base.

Mrs. Kerr was prominent in college activities while a student here. She was president of the YWCA in the spring semester of 1944 and secretary of the student council 1943-44. Lt. Kerr majored in economics while in college and worked during his last two and one-half years of school at the aluminum plant in Alcoa.

Miss Margaret Witt, who attended Maryville College in 1942-43 and 1943-44, became the bride of Mr. Woodrow W. Lay on March 17 at 4:30 at her home in Knoxville, Tennessee. A. A. Cooper of Trinity Methodist Church officiated in the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Witt of Knoxville, wore a suit of light blue gaberdine with white accessories. She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book.

Miss Witt was attended by her aunt, Miss Dorothy Witt.

Mr. Lay, formerly of Atlanta, is now employed by the Knoxville News-Sentinel.

Miss Kay Bonner, a senior history major at Maryville, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Believe Me of All Those Endearing Young Charms," as a part of the special music.

Two Former MC Students Killed

Piper and Hanna Die in Europe

News has reached the campus of the death of two more Maryville men who were serving in the armed services. They are Gero Piper, ex '45, and Kermit Alto Hanna, ex '38.

Piper was "deceased" according to a letter returned to Miss Jessie Heron by his commanding officer. No details have been received thus far, but it is believed that he died in December in either Germany or Belgium. At the time prior to his death, he was an ammunition bearer.

Born in Germany, Piper came to the United States several years ago with his family, in order to escape the Nazi regime. He attended Maryville one year, and transferred to Davidson College in North Carolina.

Hanna entered the service March 12, 1942, and was killed in action on December 22, 1944, in Belgium.

Associate Editors To Edit ECHO

Two junior associate editors of the editorial staff of the Highland Echo will edit the Echo beginning with the issue of April 2. Juanita Hinson will have complete charge of that issue, and Helen Marie Wilson will be the editor for the issue of April 16.

This is in keeping with the annual custom of allowing the junior staff members to have complete charge of editing one issue each of the Echo.

Their duties will include the assigning of news, copy reading, head writing, make-up and page proof.

Heuser and Bishop Become Ping Pong Champs; Cage Title Goes To Cyclones

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Don Heuser and Jay Bishop defeated Merrill Grubbs and Fred Wilson in three games of fast ping pong in the final match Saturday afternoon, March 10, to become the winners of the Intramural doubles ping pong tournament. Scores of the final match were 21-13, and 21-18.

Heuser and Bishop had previously outplayed Kribbs and Kidder in the semifinals and Cardella and Myers in an opening round match to gain their position in the finals. Grubbs and Wilson had beaten out House and Parkinson in the semifinals and Hundemann and Anderson in their first round match to enter the championship match.

A total of twenty-four fellows, twelve teams, entered this tournament in which the rules of alternating doubles were used.

Last year the event was won by Huber and Poland.

Cyclones Win Cage Crown

Going into the final game of the season trailing the Warriors by one half game in the standings, the Cyclones outscored the Warriors in that final game on Friday afternoon, March 16, to the tune of 24 to 19. That victory won for them the 1945 Intramural basketball championship. They came through the season with six victories against two defeats. The Warriors followed right on their tails with a record of five wins and two losses. Someone had to lose, and this year it was the Cardinals. They ended in third place. Maybe they will win a game next year, if they do it will be their first.

There has been only one game played in the Intramural program since the last issue of the ECHO besides that championship tilt. The Cyclones gave the Cardinals their last thumping with a score of 47 to 18. In that game on Friday, March 9, the Cardinals were playing with the disadvantage of having only four players show up to play against five Cyclones.

In the only other game scheduled last week the Cardinals failed to appear in sufficient numbers for a game. So on Monday, March 12 the Warriors took a forfeit game of 1 to 0 from the Cardinals.

Cover Shines in Victory

Bill Cover led the way for the Cyclones in the important final victory. He was high point man with 12. Cal Garland was outstanding for the losers, getting 10 points. The Warriors made a mighty interesting scrap out of the game despite their handicap in numbers. At game time there were only four Warriors available to oppose the team of five which the Cyclones used. The Cyclones went into an early lead which they never lost; they led 6 to 4 at the end of the first quarter. And the victors had gone farther ahead by half time, score reading 14-7. However the Warriors made a determined rally in the third quarter, and at the end of that quarter they were within one point of catching up with the Cyclones, 16-15. The Cyclones put on added steam in the last quarter and the score read 24 to 19 at the end of the game.

Following is a box score of the final game.

Cyclones (24)	po.	Warriors (19)
Cover 12	F	Myers 7
Hundemann 2	F	Chinault
Schieber 8	C	Robarts 2
Martin	G	Garland 10
Pribble	G

Dr. Ralph T. Case Speaks At I.R.C.

Dr. Ralph Thomas Case, associate professor of Sociology and acting chairman of the division of social sciences, was the speaker at the I. R. C. meeting to be held last evening at 6:45 in the YWCA rooms. His topic is "Postwar Economic Problems." Judy Turk, physcology major from Thomasville, Ga., gave the weekly news review.

Miss Peggy Caldwell was the speaker at the meeting of I. R. C. which was held March 12. She gave the history and progress of the I. R. C. organization in the world. "Compass of the World" by Weigert and Stefesson was the book which she selected from the I. R. C. library to review. The news review was given by Robert Huber, president of I.R.C.

Personnel Office Lists Lost And Found Articles

The Personnel office announced this week that it has in the lost and found department the following articles:

2 pairs mittens, 2 pairs gloves, 6 scarfs, 4 handkerchiefs, 3 pocketbooks, 4 pairs glasses, 5 bracelets, 11 fountain pens, 5 eversharp pencils, keys of various kinds, 1 compact, 1 pin, and 2 combs.

Four Freshmen Added To Echo Editorial Staff

Four freshman apprentices were added to the editorial staff of the Highland Echo the past week. The list includes Constance Hawkins from Canton, North Carolina, Elsie Onifer from Maybeury, West Virginia, Nancy Poteat from Black Mountain, North Carolina, and Lorraine Swift from Tulsa, Oklahoma. These appointments to the Echo staff were made official at a meeting of the Committees on Student Publication last Wednesday following a three weeks period of tryouts.

Members of the faculty committee on student publications are F. A. Griffitts, chairman, Miss Almira Bassett, Ralph T. Case and Hill Shine. Included on the student council committee are Robert Whitford, chairman, Max House, and John Kirstein. Robert F. Huber, editor of the Echo, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. West Speaks At Joint YM-YW Service Sunday

Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director of dramatics at Maryville College, will be the speaker at a joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. Sunday afternoon, March 25, in Bartlett auditorium. Mrs. West will give a reading which is an arrangement of the play, Family Portraits. This is the story of the lives of the family of Jesus and traces this little Nazareth group up to the time of the Crucifixion.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church in Maryville, was the guest speaker at the Y.W.C.A. meeting yesterday afternoon. Mr. Graham used as his theme, "There Still Are Stars," the same subject on which he spoke to the Y.M.C.A. the previous Sunday.

The speaker at Y.W.C.A. Sunday, March 11, was Mrs. George C. Davies of Maryville, mother of Miss Katherine C. Davies, professor of music at the college. Mrs. Davies spoke in connection with her work with the Chinese in California.

Anderson Wins Dart Contest

Point System Softball Tourney Begins April 3

Evelyn "Andy" Anderson, freshman member of the Chillies, point system group, was victorious last week over Dorothy Justius, junior representative of the Howie group, to capture the aerial dart championship. Each was winner of the previous contests in her own group.

Last year's title was won by Ruth King Wood, who is sophomore physical education assistant to Mrs. Evelyn Norton Queener, assistant professor of physical education for women. She was victorious over Johnnye Gudel, physical education major from Hixon, Tennessee, who graduated last June.

At the close of the dart tournament, softball practice was begun by the point system members; practice will continue until the first Tuesday of April, when captains and teams from the two groups will be chosen to begin the annual softball tournament.

Funeral Services For Mrs. L. A. Black Held Saturday

Mrs. Rose Probst Black, wife of Maryville College Maintenance Director Louis A. Black, died at the Little Creek Sanitorium Thursday night, March 15, 1945. Mrs. Black's health had been failing for over two years, but became especially bad during the last three months.

At the death of her parents, Mrs. Black, then Rose Probst, came to America from her birthplace in Switzerland. She lived with an aunt and uncle in western New York until their death. She then took courses in Christian work at Auburn Theological Seminary in New York, and then at Hartford Seminary in New England. Having finished her courses she accepted a position as director and counsellor of the Girl's Club, a Christian Association, at Marietta College, Ohio. A number of years after this, she accepted an appointment under the American Board of Missions of the Congregational Church and went to Honolulu, where she worked for several years as dietitian and instructor at a school for girls. In 1922 she married Louis A. Black and when in 1931, he became associated with Maryville College, she became an active worker in the community where they made their home.

Funeral services were held at the McCammon-Ammons Funeral Home Saturday, March 17 at 2:00 p. m. The Reverend Thomas A. Graham officiated, with President Ralph W. Lloyd assisting. Pallbearers were Mr. Ernest C. Brown, Dr. E. R. Hunter, and Dr. E. W. Davis from the College, and Mr. H. B. Henry, Judge John C. Crawford, and Mr. A. B. Waggoner from the New Providence Presbyterian Church. The body was buried at the Magnolia Cemetery in Maryville.

Mrs. Black is survived by her husband, L. A. Black of Maryville; a son, Alexander Black, of the United States Army; two daughters, Miss Marion Black, Alaska, and Mrs. Lois Black Carr, Medford, Mass.

Dr. Briggs received the official notice of his death, Sept. 27. He had been in the infantry since March '43, and trained at Ft. McClellan, Ala., Ft. Bragg, N. C., and Ft. Meade, Md. He had been overseas less than two months. Briggs entered the college in '42, and played foodball.

HERBERT I. TURNER, ex '41. Turner was killed when his plane crashed into an English hill, Sept. '43. He was returning in a damaged plane after having made a raid on Germany.

FLEMMING GRIFFITHS, ex '43. Flemming Griffiths was killed while aboard a bomber in the South Pacific, and his body has not been recovered. He graduated from Pensacola Naval Air School in May, '43, and left for the Pacific in August. He was a political science major, and a member of Alpha Sigma.

ROBERT MOORE, 1941. Robert Moore from Greeneville, Tenn., went down with the U. S. S. Warrington, September 14, 1945. He was a French major, and business manager of the ECHO.

WILLIAM C. (JACK) DUNN, ex '39. Jack Dunn, a Maryville boy, was killed when the plane where he was training struck an air pocket, and collided with the hanger, May 16, 1944.

F. A. GREENE, JR., ex '46. An accident at camp took the life of Greene, on September 16, 1943. He only attended the college one year.

KERMIT ALTO HANNA, ex '38. Hanna was killed in action December 22, 1944, in Belgium. He had been in the service since March 12, 1942.

Each of these men has sacrificed his life for the ideals that we all cherish. Their actions and the principals for which they died will long hold an important and honored place in the history of this institution.

Missionary To China Speaks At Student Vols

Miss Elizabeth Turner, a missionary sent out by the National Student Volunteer Movement, spoke on her work as a missionary in China at Student Vols Sunday, March 18. She is at present the Traveling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

Miss Turner was born in St. Albans, West Virginia, and attended the West Virginia University. She is a graduate of the Moody Institute of Chicago, took her Chinese at the Yencheng College of Chinese Studies in Peking and attended the Biblical Seminary in New York while she was on furlough. Before going to China she taught Physical Education in the public schools of St. Albans.

Miss Turner had many interesting experiences with the Japanese after they tok over her home town. At one time she and some missionary friends cared for 5,000 children after the Japanese had taken over.

She came to the campus Saturday morning.

Seniors Purchase Announcements

Seniors placed orders for graduation announcements last week with Jeanne Bellerjeau, senior Bible major from Haddon Heights, N. J. taking orders for the various types. The Dutch fold type contains an engraved announcement of the 126th commencement on May 21. Those wishing to order booklets were given a choice between leather and cardboard. Included in these booklets are an engraved announcement, pictures of the campus, list of senior class officers and members of the student council. Following a program of Commencement week activities is a list of the candidates for degrees in May 1945 plus a list of those graduated in December 1944. The Alma Mater concludes the booklet.

"JUNIOR MISS" TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY

sistant to the director. Harriet McKeen, Martha Grace Brindley, and Marion Swift were appointed aides in the play's production by serving in various capacities whenever they are needed.

Has New York Setting

The scene for Junior Miss is laid in a middle-class apartment in New York City. The time is Christmas; the action from beginning to end takes place in only a few days and in only one room, the parlor of the New York City apartment. The plot revolves around the tribulations of a teen-age girl and all the growing pains involved. Then there are the suffering parents who often find themselves standing idly by. The story as a whole contains romance, laughs, and a spicy touch of mystery.

Mrs. West, the director of Junior Miss, has and exhibits great skill and an invaluable sense of humor as she interprets the lines and rehearses the actions of the characters. Coming to Maryville College at the end of the last century, Mrs. West directed the first play ever produced at the college. The demand for her work increased rapidly.

Throughout these years, she has injected into her many casts the spirit of enthusiasm and sincerity which are key facts in making protrayels outstanding.

Extremely Proud

"Junior Miss is in fine shape," said Mrs. West. "I'm extremely proud of the cast, and we are expecting a crowded house."

Dress rehearsal for Junior Miss will be held Wednesday evening in Voorhees Chapel. At this time all the properties, the necessary scenery, and the complete costumes will be used.

STAMP SALES TOTAL $769

According to Lynn Matthews, chairman of the war stamp committee, Maryville college students have purchased a total of $769 dollars worth of stamps, thus going beyond the half-way point in the sum necessary to purchase a jeep in the name of the college.

Since the war bond rally, the individual class totals have shown a considerable decrease. The junior class continues to keep its first-place berth in the race with a percentage of 29 for a total of $4.60.

Runner-up is the senior class averaging 25 per cent with a total of $5.19. Next in line is the sophomore class netting $6.40 but with a percentage of only 19. Although at the bottom of the percentage scale, the freshman class has forged ahead in the amount column with the sum of $9.30.

THETA EPSILON

At the last meeting of Theta Epsilon, Carol Peake had charge of the program. Peggy Howell sang two numbers, "My Hero" from The Chocolate Soldier and "Will You Remember" from "Sweethearts." Katherine Franklin was her accompanist. Marion Weiler played "Daybreak" and "Deep Purple."

Easter Sunrise Service Held In College Woods

Choir Presents Cantata Sunday At Vesper Service

Easter Sunrise Service, beginning at 6:22 Sunday morning, April 1, was held in the Amphitheatre of the College Woods, with President Ralph W. Lloyd officiating. Special music was sung by the college Vesper Choir directed by Richard W. Vine. The service consisted of appropriate scriptural readings, responsive readings, and the following selections by the choir:

Christ is Arisen ..... Hirsch
Solo by Robert DuBois
Alleluia! The Striff Is O'er ..... Palestrina
Alleluia! Christ Is Risen ..... Kopolyoff
Easter Bells ..... Christiansen
Solo by Marcia Keirn
Praise to the Lord .... Christiansen

The service ended with a prayer by Dr. Lloyd and the Sevenfold Amen sung by the choir.

The college band, formed especially for this occasion, played in front of the Bookstore from 5:00 a.m., marching to the amphitheatre to play before the service.

Vesper Service

Easter vesper service was the presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ," an Easter cantata by Thomas DuBois. Mr. Vine directed the Vesper Choir. Marcia Keirn, Richard W. Vine, John Houdeshel, and Owen McGarity sang the solo parts. The theme of the cantata is taken from the seven last words spoken by Christ from the Cross.

Special Service Held Good Friday

Faculty Members Lead in Meditation

The Good Friday service highlighted the morning chapel services which have followed the themes as recorded in the Biblical story of "Passion Week." This service was impressive with its atmosphere of meditation and appropriate music as a background to the meditations upon the "Seven Words From The Cross."

President Ralph W. Lloyd presided at the service, reading an account from the Scriptures after a hymn. This was followed by the choir's anthem, "O Sacred Head" by Christiansen.

Miss Clemmie J. Henry used for her meditation the First Three Words. She described the Cross as it was for Christ,—repulsive, an instrument of torment. The Cross of Calvary served as a place of undying love of an undying victim. Although His enemies thought it was the end, He could not be destroyed because the Eternal is never defeated. On the Cross, Christ prayed "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." He released men from sin even until the very last. At that time, God and Man went to share the blessings of Paradise.—"Verily I say unto thee, Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise."

Sophs To Present Variety Talent Show Saturday

Catherine Stout, chairman of the sophomore social committee, recently announced that the Saturday night entertainement for the evening of April 7, which is to be put on by the sophomore class, is going to be a variety talent show.

Robert Dockendorf is to be the master of ceremonies. The program will consist of various songs, musical numbers, and readings. An added attraction will be a short game of "Truth or Consequences," which will be patterned after the radio show of that name.

The program is scheduled to be held in Voorhees Chapel at 7:30.

MINISTERIALS CONDUCT HOLY WEEK SERVICES

The Ministerial Association of the College sponsored a series of noon services each day of Holy Week, March 26-31 in the YW rooms. President Luther Cross appointed Fred Wilson, William Robarts, and James Witherspoon to make necessary plans for the services.

Seven members of the association presented brief meditations based on the happenings of Holy Week, the last seven days of Jesus' life on this earth. Edward Gates, senior English major of Maryville, spoke on the "Greatest Gift" on Monday. Helen Marie Wilson led the devotions with Mary E. Jamison giving the special music.

"The Greatest Example" was described by John Houdeshel, also a senior majoring in English, from Maryland. Patricia Ames sang, "My Task" preceeded by scripture reading, and prayer by Lynn Matthews.

Wednesday Robert DuBois, freshman ministerial from Philadelphia, spoke of the "Greatest Sacrifice" with Fay Cameron playing a violin solo and Rebecca Davis leading the devotions.

Luther Cross, senior history major from Brent, Alabama and president of thee Ministerials, presented the "Greatest Triumph" on Thursday. Agnes Peterson read the scripture and led in prayer which was by followed by a soprano solo by Catherine Sisk.

"The Greatest Comfort" was depicted by Robert Dockendorf, sophomore English major from Maryland, with a girls' trio for special music and Martha Jeane Shaw leading the devotions.

John Ross, junior majoring in English from Philadelphia, talked of "The Greatest Hope." Anna Sakaizawa presented a violin solo and Mildred Waring led the devotions on Saturday.

Music Students Must Take Tests

April 6 has been chosen as the day on which the Seashore Musical Talent Test will be given. At 4:30 in Voorhees Chapel all students enrolled in applied music courses and music organizations, such as the choir and orchestra, will be required to take the test.

Bachelor, McCoy Hold Top Places For Orations

Final Winner To Be Chosen At Wednesday Chapel

Finalists in the T. T. Alexander oratorical contest will present their orations at the regular Wednesday chapel service on April 11 with outside judges determining the winner of first and second place. The names of these judges will be kept secret until after the decision.

Preliminary eliminating contest was held Wednesday, March 21 when Mary Batchelor, junior religious education major from Richmond, Va. and Bette Lou McCoy, a senior majoring in philosophy from Dayton, Ohio, were named highest after they had competed with others in presenting orations. Judges then were H. E. Orr, D. D., John A. Gates, Ph.D., and Mrs. John Cummings of the college Bible faculty.

This contest with its prize fund was established anonymously and named in honor of a former Maryville student and missionary to Japan, Thomas Theron Alexander. The income from the fund, usually amounting to approximately $100 is divided between the two winners. Entrance in the contest this year was limited to women of the college. A plan of alternation is used whereby the men will participate in 1946.

Those entering this year were Mary Batchelor, Rebecca Davis, Margaret Brooder, Bette Lou McCoy, Martha Jeane Shaw, and Helen Marie Wilson.

$66 More and MC Can Buy A Jeep

Mrs. Lynn Matthews, chairman of the war stamp committee, announced that a total of $1109.25 worth of stamps and bonds have been purchased by the students.

The junior class holds first place for last week with a percentage of 48 for a total of $8.25. Runnerup is the senior class with a 34 per cent average totaling $4.32. Next in line is th sophomore class with $6.70 and 16 per cent average. Eleven per cent of the freshman class participated, making their class total $7.20.

Bonds have been purchased by members of the freshman and sophomore classes.

The immediate goal of the committee is the purchase of a jeep such as the one was parked in front of Pearsons Wednesday. The price of a jeep is $1165.00.

Helen Marie Wilson will edit the next Echo, April 16; Miriam Wickham will act as business manager.

Editor this week, Juanita Hinson.

Echo Staff Holds Annual Banquet In Knoxville

Group Visits Knoxville Journal

Editorial and business staff members of the Highland Echo were entertained at the annual Echo banquet held in the banquet rooms of the S. & W. cafeteria in Knoxville, Saturday evening, March 24.

After dinner, the group visited the Knoxville Journal building. Those present were Robert Huber, editor; Juanita Hinson and Helen Marie Wilson, junior associate editors; Mary Elizabeth Hunt and Thomas Parkinson, sophomore reporters; Martha Edgerton, Elsie Onifer, Nancy Ruth Poteat, Lonnie Richardt, and Lorraine Swift, freshmen apprentices, of the editorial staff; Marilyn Bryant, business manager; Mabel Marshall, business manager of last year's paper; Margaret Blanton and Ruth Williams, freshmen apprentices, of the business and advertising staff; Dr. F. A. Griffiths, faculty advisor to the Echo, and Dr. Ralph T. Case, member of the faculty committee on publications.

At the close of the meal, each member was asked to make an impromptu, after-dinner speech on an assigned topic.

In the Knoxville Journal offices, the group had an opportunity to observe the processes involved in making up a large, city paper with Mr. John Goforth, Journal staff photographer, as a guide, they were shown through the various divisions, allowed to ask questions, and were able to watch the men at work under the actual conditions of the news world. They saw late reports coming in over the teletype from New York City and other news centers; the operations necessary to printing pictures were demonstrated and explained, they watched the screamin presses, which print 92,000 copies of the paper daily, they saw linotypists at work, and men making lead castings from mats; editors mumbling into phones, and boys hurriedly assembling the Sunday papers. When the group left the circulation room, their last stop, at 9:30, there were head-high stacks of the early morning pepers ready for delivery.

Vine Will Direct Opera "Orpheus And Euridice"

Grosh, Sisk, And DuBois Sing Leading Roles

"Orpheus and Euridice," an opera by Christopher Gluck, will be presented April 14 in Voorhees Chapel under the auspices of the fine arts. It will be directed by Richard W. Vine, associate professor of music. The Girls' Glee Club, the Vesper Choir, and the College Symphony Orchestra will present the opera. Miss Rachel Shobert, organist, and Mary Evelyn Jamison, pianist, will accompany them. The opera will be presented in concert form.

Soloists for the evening will be Frances Grosh, Katherine Sisk, and Robert DuBois. Frances Grosh, mezzo soprano, will sing the part of Amor, the God of Love. Frances graduated from Maryville College in 1944. She was an English major, a member of Writers' Workshop, and a member of the choir. She lives in Maryville.

Katherine Sisk, soprano, will take the part of Euridice. She is a junior music major from Maryville, a member of the choir.

Robert DuBois, tenor, will sing the part of Orpheus. He is a freshman ministerial student from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and a choir member. He sang the tenor solos in the production of "The Messiah" last December.

Lonnie Richardt is in charge of the publicity. Posters are under the supervision of Elsie Jean Cotton.

Harold Martin To Lead Chapel

The Rev. Dr. Harold R. Martin, pastor of the 2nd Presbyterian church in Bloomington, Illinois, will be the speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service, April 11.

Dr. Martin attended Wabash College in Indiana and McCormick Seminary. He has been a pastor in Bloomington during the last fifteen years.

Y.W.C.A. To Be In Charge of Vesper Service Sunday

"Thre Three Friends of Jesus: Peter, James and John," will be the topic for the Vesper service held by the Y.W.C.A. April, 1. Fay Cameron, Ethel Beals, and Jeanne Bellerjeal are the speakers. Agnes Peterson and Hope Pleyl will participate in the worship service. The program is in charge of Becky Davis and Louise Henry.

Two children will be supplied.

Production staff and stage crew are yet to be selected.

District Holds Music Festival In College Chapel

Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs held five music festivals in various parts of the state on Saturday, March 24. The Maryville district held its program in Voorhees Chapel with the following serving as judges: Mr. Walter Ihrkie of Peabody College in Nashville, Rachel Shobert, instructor in piano and Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, both of the faculty of Maryville College.

Katherine C. Davies, professor of music, and Dorothy D. Horne, associate professor of music at Maryville, were judges at the music festival held in Johnson City also on March 24.

Group Will Play Part In Annual Commencement

Louise Corbett, vice-president of the junior class, has announced the names of the fourteen junior girls chosen for this year's Daisy Chain.

Jane Callahan, an English major from Erwin, Tenn., was treasurer of Theta Epsilon last semester, and is a member of Spanish club.

Louise Corbett, a Spanish major, comes from Jacksonville, Fla. She is the vice president of the junior class, a member of Writers' Workshop and orchestra, and president of Spanish club.

Catherine Crothers, who is a home economics major, lives in Maryville. She is a member of Y.W.C.A. Cabinet.

Ruth Freeman, English major from Philadelphia, Penna., is president of the junior class, a member of "Y" Cabinet, chairman of Disc Club, and a member of Writers' Workshop.

June Gowanlock, a Spanish major from Manatee, Fla., belongs to Writers' Workshop and is a member of the "Y" Cabinet.

Jean Keen, majoring in music, is from Buckhorn, Ky. She is secretary of Disc Club.

Angel Kincaid, who is an education major, comes from Joy, N. C.

Betty Lou King, a Spanish major from Knoxville, Tenn., was vice president of Theta last semester and is a member of the B. G.'s.

Mary Elizabeth McKnight, an education major, hails from Kingstree, S. C. She belongs to Baironian, and is active in Parish Project work.

Katherine Payne, a home economics major, is from Phoenix City, Alabama. She was Home Coming Queen her sophomore year, and is is a member of Bainonian.

Thelma Richardson, dramatic art major from Staten Island, N. Y., is the editor of the 1945 Chilhowean, Bainonian vice-president last semester, member of Thata Alpha Phi, Writers' Workshop, and "Y" Cabinet, and was vice-president of her class last year.

Marinell Ross, who is a political science major from Maryville, is business manager of the 1945 Chilhowean, and a member of Varsity Debate.

Eleanor Stout is a psychology major from Brooklyn, N. Y. She is a member of the "Y" Cabinet, and was Bainonian secretary last semester.

Carole Titus, an English major lives in Athens, Tenn. She transferred from Isabella Thoburn College in Lucknow, India last year. She is a member of "Y" Cabinet and program chairman of Student Vols.

This group will play a traditional part in the graduation exercises in May. Dressed in pastel gowns and bearing a chain of white and yellow field daisies, they will form two lines to lead the processional into chapel, where they stand on either side of the aisle while the seniors march between them. After the service, the seniors with their diplomas will walk down the aisle between them again, and the Chain will follow the processional out to the middle of the campus and form a large M. C.

The girls are chosen by the junior class vice president.

Keirn Wins State Music Award

Marcia Keirn, senior from Alcoa, majoring in voice, was awarded first place at a student music contest sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs. Miss Keirn attended the state contest at Chattanooga in March and was asked to go to the southern district contest held in Jackson, Miss. on March 31. Because of the Easter music program here at the college, she was unable to attend.

Maryvillian Hunts The Gowk, Or No School For Today, Kids

The first of April, some do say
Is set apart for All Fools' Day;
But why the people call it so,
Nor I, nor they themselves. do know.

—"Poor Robin's Almanac"

Nor anyone on Maryville campus. They just do; that's all. Because the dictionary failed to list April-Fool, it was decided that the definition of the two separate words would be sufficient. April is the fourth month, Let's see—January, February, March, April—yes, they're right. April is pronounced with the a as a long e. Try it once. That's right; just like you did as a first-grader.

Now for FOOL. Although all of you have your own definition well in mind the dictionary says that a fool is a "person lacking in understanding, judgment, or common sense; a simpleton." Put the two definitions together and you have—well, it was an idea, anyway.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says that the origin of the custom is disputed. Some people think that India is the originator. They have a feast of Hüli the last day of which is March 31. On that day their chief amusement is sending people on fruitless errands.

It seems that Great Britain has long observed April 1 as a general festival, but it did not become a common custom until the beginning of the 18th century. In Scotland they "hunt the gowk." In our language, the gowk is a cuckoo, and in Scotland the cuckoo is held in contempt. A person who is the victim of a trick in France is known as "Poisson d'avril." For you students who aren't French experts the translation is "an April fish."

So much for that. Americans do not care about the origin; we have the fun. A member of the junior class—no names mentioned because the paper goes to her home—told a good one about her father. On April-Fool's day he jokingly told a group of school children that no school was being held that day. He must have told is convincingly, for they believed him. Result? Well—it was a rather embarrassed man who went from house to house informing children that school was being held after all.

Easter Brings Rainbow Regardless Of Weather

"Put on your Easter bonnet with all the frills upon it" is one of those all-powerful Easter "musts." And it was a suggestion followed to the letter this Easter by that dominating group of feminity on our college campus.

The college awoke Sunday morning to greet an array of colors as varied as a rainbow and just as pleasing to the eyes. Certain of these colors—attached of course to their owners—were singled out by the campus Romeos as they stepped out of the dorms. And each of the looks which greeted them from their waiting escorts was saying "I'll be the proudest fellow in the Easter Parade."

Oh, sigh! There's nothing quite like Easter! It is reward enough for those nightly masks of cold cream and those uncomfortable curlers.

Emily Post might not agree, but those estatic sisterly remarks which accompany each new frock with varied tones of approval and criticism are given advantageously for displaying that new frock and focusing a critical eye on all surrounding ones than that familiar church pew.

The service, of course, includes the typical Easter music which begins with almost unanimous support. But, sadly enough, minds have a disgusting habit of wandering.

"'The strife is o'er, the battle done' . . . Hey, Jane, Anne certainly looks snazzy today, doesn't she? Honestly, I'd hardly recognize her! . . . 'The vic-to-ry of life is won' . . . Jane, will you please note Sue's hat. Don't you think that style for a face like hers is strictly taboo? . . . 'The song of —' . . . Wonder what Martha's dress looks like from the front? . . . 'tri-umph has be-gun' . . . Jane, don't you think Carol would look better in blue than in that bright shade of green? . . . 'Al-le-lu-ia!'"

Yes, there's no day quite like Easter. And that long walk back to the campus with those lucky, lucky owners exposing fragrant shoulder flower-gardens to the noon-day sun. And could they help but be aware of the sidewalk Casanovas whose familiar whistles speak volumes?

But there's something about Easter that you can't explain with ribbon, lace, feathers, and bright colors. It's something that a new

No, they weren't beginning a victory garden—the gang you saw on the tennis courts with rakes and rollers and garden hose.

Inquiries had been made by tennis enthusiasts as to when the courts would be repaired for use. In former years this work has been done by men students, through the Student-Help offices. This year, for obvious reasons, no such arrangements have been made.

But they wanted to play tennis. So with little encouragement, much criticism, and no pay, the group has done the job themselves. Their forces augmented by girls from Memorial, Baldwin and Pearsons, and fellows from Carnegie, some of whom do not even play, they raked and drug and rolled, and accomplished their goal. In spite of aching backs and blistered blisters, they should enjoy their matches. They have certainly earned the right.

If such things can be done by very loosely organized cooperation, working together in the organized groups of the campus apparently has infinite possibilities.

In Junior Miss the integration and combined efforts of the committees and individuals gave inspiring evidence of the spirit of cooperation.

The Operation Committee has gratifying proof of achievement in the recently opened Recreation Center. Without the cooperation of Council members and "Y" Cabinets with faculty and administrating committees, it could not have been affected.

All of us belong to one organization—Maryville College. Through cooperation as a student body groups we can achieve the goals of this institution—our goals.

LIBRARY . . . . .
LIBEL

By Olinde Ahrens

Mystery. Who is Pootsie? The answer will arrive any day now.

Easter Bonnets. If Blair wears the little number she was modeling around Baldwin the other night, she'll be the target of all eyes (and tongues).

But when two girls buy an Easter hat cooperatively the question arises as to who will wear it Easter morning—Mary who saw it first, or Pat who had this brilliant idea? Or do they get their heads together Easter morning so they can both wear it?

First Tenor, 1963: James Duckstad Vine.

Safetypin Shortage? No sir. At least she finds some to pin up her PJs while waiting on evening customers in the Chatterbox.

Swoon, Swoon. She almost did on the day she received three letters and his picture. But what Corny didn't know about was the sign interested friends posted on the back of her library chair, "Do not disturb—Cupid at work."

We Heard You the First Time. "And Mother, I want you to meet Lois Wilson—I mean Lois Wilson Thomas."

New Student. We are happy to welcome Thomas Aquinas Oplinger to Maryville library facilities. We've heard of people who thought they were Napoleon, but when she signs her name "Thomas Aquinas" on the library card, what does that indicate?

Speak for Yourself. JT thinks just because Kinzer's hair is mussed his girl friend has been in his hair again.

Don't Misunderstood. When our Junior Blond and her girl friends were talking to Rev. Graham about the man shortage on campus, she didn't mean it when she said they all need petting. She just meant they all needed petting—you know!

Music in the Air. Most interesting songs of the week are those heard at the dining hall. Could there be a reason for singing "Congratulations to You" in Lisette's direction? But surely there's a more appropriate song than "Happy Birthday to You" for T. W. Rumor has it that he and she are secretly engaged . . . but what am I saying? Happy Birthday, Lonnie—I mean Tom.

Wartime Emergency. We can't think of a better reason to take off your stockings in church than the one SO had Palm Sunday. After all, synthetic rubber garters do have their weaknesses.

A New Leaf in Order? What little girl is burning her bridges behind her? And where there's smoke there's not always fire.

Flowers that Bloom in the Spring, Tra-La. B.V. (after picking flowers for the femmes on Parish Project): "One of those clinging vines was sure poison ivy to me!"

Among My Souvenirs. D.C. will be glad to return K.K.'s calling card he hasn't another to put on his door in Carnegie. However, if he can replace it, she'd be happy to keep this one for a souvenir.

Popular. Most entertaining fellow at Carnegie last Tuesday was L.S. And that bandaged head was the cause of the visit, not the result!

Sweet Dreams. It was even sweeter than the dream it interrupted—Marilyn's call from Texas at 1:30 a.m., I mean.

Coney Island. What's Coney Island (or Palm Beach, for that matter) got that Baldwin's back lawn doesn't have on sunny days—except sand of course.

Yes, a Freshman Said It. "Where's your letter from?" "He's in New Hampshire now." "Oh, New Hampshire, Connecticut?"

Aasterisk. Gus says he studies in the dark at the library because the light hurts his eyes.

Round Trip: Then there's one Junior Miss who walked home from the play party three times. That's one way of keeping three boys happy!

For the Smile of Beauty. Pinky can tell you all about a new toothpaste formula—equal parts of tooth powder and Super Suds (formula developed by Jean and Jeanne).

Has the Mail Come? "I'm going to sit right down and write myself a letter." But J.C. and J.M. don't have to resort to that. They solve the problem by writing each other a letter—and every day, too.

Tell Us More. "And then my latest husband, Reggie, said to me . . . " Yes, Bugs????

Mistaken Identity. June's b.f. is in that group picture, but do you all have to rave about the wrong fellow?

Handsome Is as Handsome Does? And speaking of pictures, ask C.W. about the four she has from "Lovely Yours"—or do you know more about it already than she does?

Pre-Easter Parade. (guests preferred): Lois and Mac, Martha Jeanne and Stan, Catherine and Jim, Anna and George, Beverly and Dave, Eleanor and Don, Becky and Charlie, Sunny and Johnny, Alice and Al, Mary Annis and Blondie, Jo and Herb—and this just a preview of Easter.

Nursemaid. If you want a job taking care of—no, not children, cocoons—see Betsy. When she can't watch them herself she palms them off on interested friends, so that nothing will emerge unobserved. Time and a half paid for night-watch.

Question: Why did they call it a "pop" concert? Answer: 'Cause Mr. Vine is a pop.

Echoes from the Echo Banquet: Impromptu speeches were the order of the day, but when Lonnie drew the topic "The effect of love on a student" did she have to talk about her roommate?

One result of the banquet was a sell-out of the next morning's edition of the Knoxville Journal. (Everyone wanted to see the picture of that good looking Echo staff, of course.)

Sidelights: The Echo staff kept waiting up a blind alley till the photographer was ready to back them up against a wall and shoot them . . . One member of the party insisting on ordering crab flakes.

Only one more week until April 10, and the important day of the month rolls around again. To about half of the student body, this is a significant day and needs no further explanation. The tenth of the month means another pay day.

The Student Help program operating here on Maryville campus has existed since the beginning of the institution although the characteristics of the program have been modified considerably to meet the changing needs of the students. The present program was largely instituted by Miss Margaret Henry who began working in the interest of the scholarship and student help fund that had been started on a small scale in the days of Kin Takahashi, a brilliant Japanese student. She began her career at that time as Scholarship Secretary and became outstanding everywhere she went. In her thirteen years of service she collected for the use of Maryville students $122,692.91. Her success cannot be measured by mere dollars and cents, but by the tremendous benefits she has secured for the college students. Miss Henry died July 7, 1916. Since her death several funds have been contributed by her friends as a memorial to her. These amount to $94,000 and the annual incomes from these investments are used for student loans and in the student work program.

Miss Clemmie J. Henry, whom all of the students know, is the present director of Student Help. She, too, has become quite outstanding as director of this program because of her capability in directing financial affairs and her cooperative spirit in dealing with the students.

The program may be divided into three divisions according to the benefits to the students:

1. Low expenses which are shared by all Maryville students.
2. Limited number of scholarships.
3. Loans and employment.

Each year many students are employed by the college. In normal times approximately two-thirds of the students have part-time employment. Last year there were 293 students employed. There were 336 individuals in the entire program which includes scholarships, work, and loans. The average sum earned per student last year was $83. Twenty-four students earned less than $500 each, so this means that a number earned considerably above $83 to bring the average to this sum. This year there are 252 students on the payroll. They are employed in the dining hall, on the grounds, in janitor positions, in the College Maid Shop, and as typists and other assistants in offices, laboratories, and in the library.

The self-help program is regarded as a very novel one in that it aids such a large percentage of college students. As stated in the Maryville catalog, "the opportunity to earn at the College, at the place and time of the students' needs, and at the convenience of his college schedule, is in fact a favor granted to the student by the college, even through the student employed renders satisfactory and valuable service." To be able to become a part of the program requires satisfactory grades, attitudes, and performance. Thus far, students have been quite cooperative and the Student Help program has become an essential part of the college activities.

Faculty Makes Plans For Post-War Curriculum

Some time ago President Lloyd appointed five committee chairmen and divided the faculty into five committees for the systematic study of post-war plans for the college. The chairmen are: Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, general chairman, also chairman of the division of languages and literature; Miss Katharine C. Davies, chairman of the division of fine arts; Miss Susan Green, chairman of the division of science; Dr. Ralph T. Case, acting chairman of the division of social sciences; and Dr. H. E. Orr, chairman of the division of bible, philosophy, and education. These, with Miss Viola Lightfoot as secretary, and President Lloyd, ex-officio, constitute the steering committee for the study groups.

The five committees meet seperately to discuss the action of other colleges in this regard, Maryville's curriculum, and possible changes that might prove beneficial. The study is centered around the question, "What curriculum for this kind of college?" Each group draws up recommendations, which are compared and discussed at a meeting of the chairmen and combined into one list. This is turned over to the President's office. One such list of recommendations has been submitted, after final approval, they will go to the board of directors for consideration.

Long Time Planning

"This is to be long-time planning," emphasized Dr. Lloyd. "The results will not greatly affect Maryville for some years: Goals will not be immediate ones. But the faculty and administration are studying pertinent facts and examining the present organization of the institution in the light of post-war needs."

Provisions for War Veterans

Immediate plans for returning veterans are also being considered. The faculty has approved the general recommendations of the American Council on Education concerning the admission of returning veterans, courses offered in liberal arts colleges, and credits allowed for training in the forces. Maryville will cooperate fully with the government and the U. S. Veteran Administration in this respect. The president's office is at present preparing a special bulletin on "Opportunities for Veterans at Maryville College."

MC Pays Respect To School's Gold Star Heroes

A dedication service of the twenty-one gold stars on the service flag was held at the Wednesday morning chapel, March 28, led by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

Dr. Lloyd gave a general statement concerning the flag. At the end of the first World War there were in the chapel two service flags with 658 stars. Twenty-one of these stars were gold. Again there are two service flags for the second World War. A thousand stars on these flags are representative of the 1057 Maryville students and faculty members who are in service. Sometime later the remaining fifty-seven stars will be placed on the flag.

"It is a singular coincidence," number of gold stars now in this war is exactly the same as the total at the end of the first war."

The scripture lessons read by Dr. Lloyd included passages from the Psalm 46, Isaiah 40, Revelation 7, and Romans 8. The choir sang as their anthem, "Sanctus" by Goundod with Robert DuBois as the soloist. "I know that My Redeemer Liveth" by Handel was sung by Marcia Keirn.

The gold star roll as called by Dr. Lloyd included the following twenty-one person: Weldon A. Baird, Frank L. Miller, F. A. Greene Jr., Herbert I. Turner, F. ing P. Griffith, Harry E. Driver, Augustin L. Brunson, Jack Craig Harwood, Robert Dove Downes, James Lindsay Robison, Richard K. Orr, Kermit A. Hanna, Patrick H. Davis, Jr., William (Jack) Dunn, Howard B. McGill, David H. Briggs Jr., Robert B. Moore, Gero K. Piper, Roy Sparks, Charles H. Edwards and John J. Ballinger, listed in order of their deaths.

The last Echo ran a detaild account of the gold star roll, giving pertinent facts about each man.

Chillies Are Victors In First Games Of Softball

DeLaney, King Head Point System Teams

With the scores of 17-7, the Chillies, headed by Edith DeLaney, freshman from Maryville, have taken the first two games of the softball tournament which began last Tuesday, March 27.

The first game was clinched for the Chillies in the fourth inning when DeLaney walked with the bases loaded. Succeeding hits by Anderson, Short and Cotton made the total runs for the inning 6, which brought the Chillies to a 10-3 lead. The remainder of the fourth and the fifth innings saw little gain made by the Howies, who scored 1 and 2 runs respectively as compared with 6 and 7 for the Chillies. At the end of the five inning game, the Howies, piloted by Betty Lou King, junior from Knoxville, Tennessee, were still 11 points behind.

Last Thursday's game chalked up another victory for May Short, Chillie pitcher, who held the Howies scoreless until the third inning. A home run by Dot Wible in their half of that inning started the Chillies on the drive that netted 4 more runs for the inning and brought the total to 9; the next inning saw 4 more runs added to the score-board, to bring the total to 13. With 3 runs scored by Wood, Gargas, and Hinson in the third inning, the Howies added 4 more to their score in the first half of the fifth, when hits by Bernardini and Nunn brought in four runners. The Chillies were held hitless by Nita Hinson, Howie pitcher, during the remainder of the fifth inning, with the final score being 13-7.

Line-up for both games is as follows:

Chillies	Howies
C. Cotton	King
P. Short	Hinson
1B Wible	Sommers
2B. Williams	Wallace
3B. Henderson, Me.	Justus
R.S. Balch	Nunn
L.S. Thomas	Bernardini
R.F. Henderson	Lavender
L.F. Anderson	Wood
C.F. DeLaney	Garges

Substitutes in Thursday's game were Chillies: Lewis; Howies: Jones, Greenlee.

Officials were: Umpires, Ruth King Wood, Mrs. Evelyn Qnčener, Lonnie Richardt.

Carson-Newman L.M.U. And M.C. Debate Here

Lehman and Ross Chosen to Debate At Tournament

Maryville College debaters were hosts to Lincoln Memorial University and Carson-Newman College in four rounds of non-decision debates which took place Friday, March 30, in Thaw Hall. The tri-college debate was sponsored by the Tennessee Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, whose members are Dorothy Lehman, president, Robert Huber, vice-president, and Miriam Wickham, Marinell Ross, and Betty Lou McCoy.

LMU debaters arrived Thursday night from Harrigate, Tennessee, while those from Carson-Newman travelled from Johnson City Friday morning. The dabates began at 9:30 a.m. and lasted until 3:30 Friday afternoon.

LMU brought one affirmative and one negative team. Edith Varner and Margie Sargent presented the affirmative case, and the negative case was debated by Bernard Stallard and Dorothy Hurt. Professor Hood, Carson-Newman debate coach, also brought one affirmative and one negative team. Those on the affirmative were Gene Cole and Reese Bayless, while Herbert Gilmore and Madison Scott debated the negative case.

Under the direction of Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, Maryville College debaters taking part in the tournament were Mary Annis Beals and Miriam Wickman, negative; Judy Turk and Gladys David, affirmative; Marinell Ross and Dorothy Lehman, and John Shell and Robert Huber, both affirmative and negative.

Maryville College will send two delegates to the Grand Eastern Debate Tournament to be held in Charlotte, North Carolina, on April 5th and 6th. Chosen to represent the College were Dorothy Lehman and Marinell Ross.

Choir Sings In Union Service

The Vesper Choir of Maryville College participated in the union service held from twelve to three on Good Friday, March 30, in the First Methodist Church of Maryville. "Were You There?" a negro spiritual arranged by Burleigh and T. T. Noble's "Go To Dark Gethsemane" were the numbers selected by Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music and director of the choir.

Several college students took part in a presentation of Sir John Stainer's Crucifixion by the Chancel Choir of New Providence Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening, March 27. Robert DuBois, freshman ministerial student from Philadelphia, sang tenor solos and Mr. Vine, director of the choir, took the baritone parts.

Dr. Charles Magill Dies In Japanese Internment Camp

Served Forty Years As Missionary In Philippines

Rev. Charles M. Magill, D.D., class of 1899, died in a Japanese Internment Camp in Los Banos, February 19, 1945, four days before the Liberation of the camp by the Army, Navy, and Air Corps. The news came to his relatives here in a letter from Rev. and Mrs. J. Y. Crothers, parents of Miss Catherine Crothers, who were interned in the same camp prior to their release several weeks ago. This message has been confirmed by the Presbyterian Board of Missions, with whom Dr. Magill was associated.

Mrs. Magill died May, 1943 in the St. Joseph Hospital in Manila. Until her illness, she and her husband were in the Santo Tomas Internment Camp, located on the campus of the Santo Tomas University in Manila. The Japanese allowed him to accompany his wife to the hospital, and remain there until she died.

Dr. Magill was an outstanding missionary, and had served 40 years in the Philippines. During this time, he translated the Bible and did other notable work.

His family is represented on the campus by two nieces, Miss Jessie Johnson, and Miss Cecilia Jones.

No word has been received concerning Alexander Christie, '36, who was also a missionary to the Phillippines, and had been interned. It is believed that he was rescued however. His wife is now in New York.

Two other Maryville graduates, Ernest J. Frei, and Dr. Luther B. Bewley were in the Philippines at the time of the Japanese occupation. Frei was not interned as he is a Swiss citizen. At the time of the invasion, he was on the Island of Leyte. Dr. Bewley was in charge of the Education system of the Islands for 15 years, and was interned for a time, but released prior to the liberation. He graduated in 1901.

Bellerjeau, Hunter Read At Writers' Workshop Meeting

Jeannne Bellerjeau, senior English major, and Dr. E. R. Hunter, professor of English, read at the meeting of Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon, March 14 in Dr. Hunter's classroom. "Charlie's Uncle Will" was the title of Miss Bellerjeau's paper, which was critized by Miss Jessie Heron. Dr. Hunter read a discussion of the architechtonics of the plot of Thomas Hardy's A Pair of Blue Eyes, and had as his critic, Jack Houdeshel.

Next week's readers will be Miss Nathalia Wright and Bob Whitford, with Olinde Aherns and Dr. Hunter respectively acting as

New Examinations For Civil Service Jobs Announced

The Civil Service Commission has announced a new examination to secure applicants for Junior Professional Assistant positions with the Government. The positions pay $2,433 a year including the amount for overtime.

For this examination either appropriate education or experience, or a combination of the two, is qualifying. Persons are especially needed for positions in the fields of business analysis, economics, editing, fiscal analysis, information, personnel administration, public administration, statistics, home economics, tests and measurements, and technical agriculture.

Applicants who have successfully completed a full 4-year course leading to a bachelor's degree in a college or university may qualify for entrance to this examination. Senior students may also apply but they cannot enter on duty until after their graduation. In order to qualify with experience, applicants must have had at least 3 years of experience which will show clearly their ability to perform the duties of a Junior Professional Assistant in one of the fields mentioned.

Applicants will be given a written test consisting of questions to test their aptitude for learning and adjusting to the duties of the positions. No closing date is set for receipt of applications. They will be accepted by the Civil Service Commission until further notice.

Information and application forms are available at first- and second-class post offices, from the Commission's regional offices, or direct from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Appointments to Federal positions are made in accordance with War Manpower Commission policies and employment stabilization

The Public Relations office has additional information. Interested seniors may make inquires there.

Comprehensives And Sophomore Tests Set For April 18-19

Senior comprehensives and Sophomore cooperative tests will be held on the afternoons of April 18 and 19, beginning at 1:30. Senior comprehensives will be arranged with major advisors and will last from three to four hours. Sophomore cooperatives are to be held in Voorhees chapel and last from 1:30 to 3:30. The sophomore cooperative tests are of a different nature this year, consisting of a General Culture Test and one on Contemporary Affairs.

All afternoon classes will be suspended on these two days. Morning classes will be held as usual. Seniors taking comprehensives will be excused from all classes during the tests.

PELICANS, CROWS PLAY VOLLEY BALL

Chilhoweans May Be Distributed By First of May

The 1945 Chilhoweans are scheduled to be ready for distribution May 1, recently stated Thelma Richardson, editor. The proofs are now in the hands of the publishers, Benson Printing Company in Nashville, Tennessee, and the final form will be sent to the annual staff for approval in the near future, added Miss Richardson. "All we can do now is wait," she said. "Wait for the best annual yet."

About 410 copies of this year's yearbook have been sold," said Marinell Ross, business manager. "Practically all final payments have been made," Miss Ross asserted. The few people who have yet not paid are asked to see a member of the business staff at once and complete payments.

$82.60 Cleared On Junior Miss

Societies Will Divide Receipts

Harold Kidder, business manager for Junior Miss, announced that the total sum of $82.60 was cleared from the 1945 production of Athenian and Bainonian societies, which, under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art, was presented in Voorhees Chapel, Thursday evening, March 22. 540 tickets were sold which brought in a total of $242.10. The expenses included a $50.00 royalty and the prices of the play books. The amount cleared will be divided between the Athenian and the Bainonian societies.

"I attribute the success of the business end of Junior Miss to the excellent cooperation of the staff, with special credit due the publicity committee headed by Margaret Cross," said Kidder.

Junior Miss, with a cast of seventeen, starred Shirley Scott as Judy, Jean Messer as Fuffy, Esthr Farrow as Graec Graves, and Max House as Harry Graves.

Mrs. West, director, stated that Junior Miss was a favorable contrast to The Cradle Song, the production of Theta Alpha Phi which was presented November 16. "We are aiming for varied, well-rounded play-production, said Mrs. West. "I have been thoroughly pleased with the acting in both plays. All will be valuable with the start they have made."

Mrs. West has definite post-war plans. "We want to produce Much Ado About Nothing, just as soon as the boys come back," she said emphatically. "That will be our first play after the war." Practice for this Shakespearian play was started in 1943, but because of the war, had to be discontinued.

Seel, Pribble Lead Intramural Teams

By Tommy Parkinson

Volley ball is the Intramural activity in progress at present. Only two teams were organized, the Pelicans with Bob Seel serving as captain, and the Crows, who have Willis Pribble for captain. At this writing each team has won one match. The teams play with six men, with each match consisting of the best two out of three games of 21 points.

On Tuesday, March 27, the Crows started of the series with a victory. They outscored the Pelicans in the first game 21 to 16, dropped the second, however, 10 to 21; then they came back in the "rubber" game to take it by the same score as the first game, 21 to 16.

The Pelicans took two straight games in the second match of the series played in Bartlett Hall on Thursday, March 29. The scores of this match, which put the teams on an even standing, were 21-12 and 21-14.

The following is a list of the players: Crows—Pribble, captain; Garland, House, Ross, Heuser, Seymour, Chinault, and Schieber; Pelicans—Seel, captain; Cover, Cardella, Hundemann, Grubbs, Parkinson, Kribbs, and Anderson.

The volley ball program is to consist of a series of four out of seven matches; when one of the team takes four matches they will have won the series and volley ball will end. Softball will be started immediately upon the ending of the volley ball program.

I'm a little rushed today,
More homework than I've had in ages.
I tried to find more time to write,
But managed only fifteen pages.

GOOD FRIDAY

Christ's mother stood at the foot of the Cross. Jesus remembered to make provision for His mother in the hands of His faithful disciple, John. His words then were, "Woman, behold thy son! . . . Behold thy mother."

"My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?", Dr. Lincoln Barker said, were borrowed from the 22nd Psalm. He explained that it was a strange complaint for our Lord to utter. God forsake Him and there was no delivery of Him from His suffering. Yet Jesus called God even though forsaken. As foretold in the Scriptures, Jesus said "I thirst," and instead of being given water for his parched lips, was given vinegar soaked into a sponge. He was given no cup to refresh Himself.

"It is finished," Miss Jessie Johnson explained, meant that His agony was ended and with His ending the many wonderful deeds He had performed in His ministry on Earth. The dark hours in Gethsemane, the scourging mob, and the torture was over. The ninth hour Jesus uttered His last words, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my Spirit." With that He gave up the ghost. His last earthly mission was accomplished. After three days in the tomb, Jesus was to rise and be with God our Father. His work was to be carried on by His faithful disciples and Man. Yet after 1900 years, how many of us have still to hear and heed His call?

Silent prayer and choral responses followed each of these short meditations. The choir sang the second anthem, "Were You There?" as arranged by Burleigh. After the singing of a hymn, Dr. Lloyd pronounced the benediction which was followed by a short postlude of organ chimes.

EASTER RAINBOW

pair of shoes and that dream of a pocket-book have nothing to do with. It's not a new dress; it's a feeling—a feeling that goes further than skin deep. It's a wonderful feeling that rebuilds those crumbling castles you'd built in the air. It's an Easter morning that makes you realize what a privilege it is to be breathing. It's an Easter morning that drains the aches caused from candle light and a chemistry book and inspires you to attack the coming problems like a victorious hero.

Easter comes only once a year. Perhaps that helps to make us value it. At any rate, eit's a day to remember, the secondary glamour and the primary inspiration make it a day to truly be thankful for.

Those representing the college were Mary Annis Beals, Marinell Ross, Gladys David, Judy Turk, Dorothy Lehman, Miriam Wickham, and Dr. Briggs.

Student Service Fund Collects Needed Clothing

First Week in May Chosen For Campus Drive

A clothing collection will be held on the campus the first week of May. It is sponsored by the World Student Service Fund and colleges all over the country are participating. There is an urgent need for clothes of all types. Although the clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it.

In a report to Congress on participation in operations of UNRRA President Roosevelt said, "Millions of people do not have enough clothes to keep them warm . . . in occupied Europe almost as many people have died from exposure due to lack of adequate clothing as have died from starvation."

In an article released by the World Student Service Fund on March 10, it was stated that "In Europe more than 30,000,000 persons are "statistically naked" and 125,000,000 are in desperate need of clothing, shoes and bedding. In Belgium one family of seven shares one shirt. Crude shoes for children in Holland deform the feet permanently. In Poland, four families, living in a single, unheated, window-less room, pool clothing when one has to sally forth. In Paris 3.000 students in the most bitter winter in years are without rooms, beds and blankets. Only 156 out of 1022 students in Honan University in China (evacuated for the sixth time in May 1944 (penniless and ill-clad) have bedding."

The appeal is for good serviceable clothing which will enable the innocent sufferers in the war-ravaged areas in reconstruction.

The garments that will be collected in this drive will be shipped to the war-devastated countries on the basis of the greatest immediate need and available shipping space. The Far East will be included if conditions permit such distributions.

Saturday Program Is One Act Play

Experimental theater is to be in charge of the Saturday night program next Saturday, April 21. The program is to consist of a one act play entitled FAMILY with Betty Lou McCoy in the leading role.

The experimental feature of the program is to be a "Commedia del' Arte." That is a play put on by a group after heavigg had only five minutes of preparation. The plot is outlined to the actors only five minutes before they go on the stage. Naturally the lines are impromptu. Advanced dramatic art students are to be the participants.

The program is scheduled for Bartlett Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Events In History Choose April Five Wars Begun In Fourth Month

By ELSIE ONIFER

I'm beginning to see the light. I've just discovered which is the outstanding month in the history of the United States. You get three guesses. No. I'm sorry, it's not June or August. I suppose I'll have to tell you: it's April.

Beginning with 1775 I shall tell you a few important things that have happened in April. On April 18, 1775 Paul Revere made his famous ride and on the following day the Battle of Lexington and Concord was fought between the Minute Men of Massachusetts and the Redcoats. This was the first time that America challenged the might of England.

Louisiana was purchased from France on April 30 1803. Just after this purchase Napoleon made his spectacular rise to a short rule of Europe.

In 1846 war broke out between the United States and Mexico. This was caused by the annexation of Texas in 1845.

It is very interesting to find that the Civil War both began and ended in April. On April 12, 1961 Fort Sumter in Charleston harbor was fired on. Then, on April 9, 1865, General Lee surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox. Five days later Abraham Lincoln, then president of the United States was shot by J. Wilkes Booth.

Next came a 15 week war with Spain, the Spanish American War. In April, 1898 by the recommendation of President William McKinley, Congress declared war.

The last war that was declared in April was the First World War. This was on April 6, 1917.

It is also very interesting to find that the two of our presidents were born in April. They were Thomas Jefferson, our third president, and James Monroe, the president who set forth the Monroe Doctrine.

Even though so many wars were declared in April, it is a pretty good month. Just think! May follows April and this is the month of graduation for a few happy seniors. Freshmen advance to the Sophomore Class and Sophomores to the Junior Class and the lucky Juniors move up to take the place of the more lucky seniors.

With May only 14 days off, my story ends.

Batchelor Takes First Place In Alexander Contest

Runnerup Position Goes To McCoy In Speech Competition

Mary Batchelor was announced the winner of first place in the T. T. Alexander Oratorical contest immediately after she and Bettye Lou McCoy, runnerup, delivered their orations Wednesday morning, April 11, at the regular chapel service. Both participants, chosen from a number of students who entered the preliminary contest, will receive awards on Award Day during commencement.

A junior religious education major from Richmond, Virginia, Mary Batchelor is a member of the College Smyphony Orchestra and the college band. She belongs to Cotton Club and Theta Epsilon, and is active in the Student Volunteer Movement. Her subject was "The Diety of Jesus Christ". "Christ is Christianity, Christianity is Christ" she stated. She summed up with a quqotation from Fairchild, "The indispensable core of Christian faith is that Jesus Christ was, simultaneously but without confusion of the two natures, complete man and complete God; that God assumed human flesh to reveal to us what God is."

Bettye Lou McCoy is a senior philosophy major from Dayton, Ohio. She is a member of Pi Kappa Delta and Writer's Workshop. Last year she won first place in a speaking contest on Latin-American Relations.

She has appeared on the Maryville stage several times, and had a supporting role in the recently produced, "Junior Miss." The title of her oration was "The Ressurrection." She brought out that in rising from the grave Jesus did two things. He demonstrated the triumph of right over wrong, and he gave the man of passionate goodness not only the hope of victory over death, but the eternal chance of being better. "He did not come to prove that the dead live again, but that living men never die."

Acting as judges were Mrs. Joe Foster, the Director of Religious Education at the First Methodist Church of Maryville; Mrs. Sam Franklin, whose husband won the contest when he was in school here; and Mrs. Sara Traylor, who was once a participant in the contest; all of Maryville.

This contest was made possible by a friend of the college who wishes to remain anonymous, and who had the endowment named for a missionary from Maryville College. The provisions allow for prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places of the contest, which is conducted under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty.

The plan provides for an alteration of men and women participants. Next year only men will be eligible. Last year the winners Lyle Knapp and John Taylor.

Catholicism And Judaism To Be Discussed By YW

Elsie Onifer and Shirley Scott will be the speakers at the regular meeting of the YWCA next Sunday, April 22. Their topics will be "Catholicism" and "Judaism".

Last Sunday was freshman Sunday and three freshman girls spoke on the topic of "Dangerous Opportunities." Those who spoke were Mary Annis Beals, English major from Maryville. Marian Lewis, from Chicago, whose major is Philosophy, and Elsie Jean Cotton, also an English major, whose home is in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Disc Club Closes Eighth Year Thursday Evening

Dorothy Lehman To Lead Senior Request Program

The Disc Club will complete its eighth year at the meeting Thursday night, April 19, when an outdoor Senior Request Program will be held with Dorothy Lehman, English major from Kentucky, as the leader. Boxes will be placed for the seniors to give their requests.

The Disc Club was organized November 24, 1936, when a group of student met at the home of Miss Katherine C. Davies, Professor of Music and Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts. The club committee members chosen were Miss Davies, Dr. Ralph Collins, Calista Palmer, chairman, Dorothy Armstrong, secretary, and Bill Kurukus, librarian. It was decided that the meetings would be held every first and third Friday of each month at 4:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Studio.

This year the Club has met every first and third Thursday of each month, either in the Fine Arts Studio or in the Chapel at 6:45 p.m. It is held for all who love music and there are no membership requirements. This semester the club presented the following program:

Feb. 1—Franck Symphony in D Minor, Commentators.

Feb. 15—Mozart Piano Concerto in D Minor, Jean Keen.

March 1—Debussy, La Mer (The Sea), Clair de lune, Girl with the Flaxen Hair, John Kirstein.

March 15—Strauss, Death and Transfiguration, Jack Houdeshel.

April 5—Brahms, Symphony No. 3 in F Major, Lynn Matthews.

April 19—Senior Request Program, Dorothy Lehman.

The Committee members for September, 1944, May 1945, are Ruth Freeman, chairman, Jean Keen, music secretary, John Kirstein, announcer, Florence Gobillot, assistant secretary, Tom Horst, publicity chairman, and Byron Sprague, art chairman.

Former MC Grad Now In Philippines

Through a letter received from an army officer in the Philippines information concerning the activities of Ernest Frei, graduate of the class of 1928, has been made known. Frei is treasurer of the Presbyterian Mission there and requested the aid of U. S. Army to clear debris remaining after the bombing of the church and school area during the recent fighting.

Social Life Shunned By Seniors; Frosh, Juniors Anticipate Holiday

If your friends have been avoiding you lately and you're lonesome all day it doesn't mean that you should change your brand of toothpaste, or that your cold cream has lost its potency; so put down that ad. We have recent reports from an anonymous, but well-informed little bird that it's because of the "Comps." If those friends belong to that dignified and exclusive clique of much-envied-up-'til -now Seniors, they just might be occupied with culling from huge volumes of forgotten lore and masses of notes, old tests, and outlines the accumulated facts to which they have been exposed for the past four years. They are still listing and classifying this great bulk of info, and filming the same in those little grey cells that lie between their ears for not too distant future reference. Namely, come Wednesday. For Wednesday is the day that ogre whose initials are Senior Comprehensive Examinations, commands the campus. Yes, Thursday, too, if there are any living seniors still around. Some influence that monster wields over would-be graduates. They turn down tennis dates. They remain oblivious to enthusiastic suggestions for a movie. Two-hour cat-sessions are strictly taboo. After-dinner strolls are no longer in their line of duty. All they want to do is cram. Those faint, faint circles under drooping eyes come not from the kind of dissapation that the riotious night life of Maryville offers, but from slaving over a hot pencil 'way into the a.m. These seniors are even more industrious than they are apprehensive. Which is very.

It's nice, isn't it, Juniors, that this is the last year that comps are to be given. (Of course it's just a rumor; but where have you ever heard a more welcome or delectable rumor! Not a worry to mar the beauty of spring).

We must not forget to extend our sympathies to those of the sophomore class who have been staying up nights to study for the sophomore cooperatives which are also to be given Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Our only gripe about the matter at present is the fact that those of us who are not so fortunate as to have an opportunity to take these tests, will not be allowed to attend our afternoon classes. In fact we may even be forced to spend the entire afternoon taking sun-baths behind Baldwin, or seeing a movie.

To all you lucky people, we proffer our sincerest wishes for success. May you all make A's and the ninetieth percentile. Next month, we know, while we are slavishly preparing for finals, you will be coming around to play tennis or bask in the sun or spend a couple of idley gossipy hours. Such, my friends, is life.

Dr. E. W. Davis Elected Elder

Dr. E. W. Davis, professor of Greek and Latin, was recently elected to serve his fourth term as an elder of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. The church uses the plan of electing four elders each year to serve for a three year term. After having held any office for one term, a year must have passed before the ex-officer can again be elected, to serve.

Dr. Davis first joined the church in Illinois, but moved his letter to a Presbyterian church in Marshall, Missouri, where he was attending college. He again transferred his membership when he came to Maryville in 1915. He was elected an elder for the first time in 1930 and served under Dr. W. H. Crothers, who was minister of the church at the time.

Semi-Month'y Student Recital Tuesday Afternoon

Semi-monthly student recital for Maryville College music students will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the chapel auditorium. Students of Miss Katherine Davies, Miss Dorothy Horne, Miss Rachel Shobert, and Mrs. Carl Alette will participate. The program will be announced by Ruth Freeman, junior assistant of Miss Davies.

An adult-beginners recital was held Friday, April 13 at 4:30 o'clock in the Fine Arts Studio.

The semi-monthly student recital of April 3 in Voorhees Chapel included the following program. Marian Weiler played Debussy's "Dance de Puck". Carolyn Winfrey played "Gigue from First Partita by Bach and "Elfin Dance" by Grieg, Jeanne Heaps interpreted "Song in the Night" by Spinney.

Witherspoon To Lead YMCA Sun.

President James C. Witherspoon, senior English major from Rio, Illinois, is to be the speaker for the regular worship service of the Y.M.C.A. next Sunday afternoon, April 22. He has chosen for his subject, "Christ and Personal Morality."

Ethel Beall, senior biology major from North Long Branch, N. J., was elected by the senior class as the May queen for the annual May Day celebration held in the college amphitheater. Juanita Hinson, and William Robarts, junior attendants, Ann Anderson and Robert Dockendorf, sophomore attendants, and Betty Hall and Merrill Grubbs, freshman attendants, were elected by their respective classes in class meetings held Friday morning, April 13. Each attendant will choose some one to be his partner for the ceremony. The queen will choose two attendants from the senior class. She will be crowned by the senior class president, Robert Seel.

Ethel Beall is the Bainonian president, a member of the YWCA cabinet and a member of the Pre-Med Club. As a member of IRC, Mrs. Beall is publicity chairman for the War Stamp Sales committee. Mrs. Beall came to Maryville College from Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa., at the end of her freshman year.

Juanita Hinson is a junior psychology major from St. Augustine, Fla. She is a junior associate editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO, nd a member of Theta Epsilon.

William Robarts is an English major from Lake City, Fla. He is the treasurer for YMCA and a member of Ministerial Association and Writers' Workshop. Mr. Robarts is on the Student Council and is a member of the choir and Student Vols.

Ann Anderson, a sophomore English major, is from Woodbridge, N. J. She was a member of the choir for one semester and she participated in Point System her first yeaer. Miss Anderson was a Nu Gamma leader and is a member of Disc Club.

Robert Dickendorf is a sophomore English major from Hyattsville, Md. He is a member of the Student Council and a member of the Student-Faculty Senate. He is on the social committeee. Mr. Dockindorf is a member of Athenians and the Ministerial Association. Recently he was elected the president of YWCA for the year 1945-46.

Betty Hall is a freshman music major from Byrson City, N. C. She is a member of the choir and Bainonian. Miss Hall also works at the Home Avenue Mission one day each week.

Merrill Grubbs, a freshman Mathematics major, is from Fairview, Pa. He has taken an active part in the intramural sports and was cast in JUNIOR MISS. Mr. Grubbs is a member of Athenian and the Frnech Club. As a member of YMCA he is a member of the Y Retreat Committee.

Dr. Hunter To Be Speaker at YM-YW Retreat, April 28

Old and new cabinets of YWCA and YMCA will hold their annual retreat all day Saturday, April 28, at Peck's Memorial Church. The theme will be "Laborers of His Harvest", and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, is to speak at the evening program.

Planned by the old and new presidents and one member from each cabinet, the steering committee includes James Witherspoon, chairman, Robert Dockendorf, Rebecca Davis, Agnes Peterson, Fred Wilson, and Louise Henry.

Business meetings will be held in the morning, recreation in the afternoon, and a banquet and program, with Dr. Hunter as the main speaker, have beeen planned for the evening.

Bainonians Portray Comic Characters

The Bainonians met at their usual time on Saturday, April 14. Sarah Enloe was in charge of the program. She directed several students in some skits taken from famous cartoons. The participants were chosen from the group that was present.

The next meeting will be Saturday, April 21.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1945

Called by the student body immediately after receiving the news of his sudden death, a brief season of prayer was held for the late president of the United States Thursday evening opposite the hospital. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd led the prayers, making special petitions for the comfort and solace of the president's family; for the well-being of the people of this country during the present crisis; and for courage, wisdom, and strength to be granted to the new president as he takes on his new responsibilities.

EDITORIAL

Few individuals come to college with anything but a vague idea as to the subject they will choose as their major. Curriculum planners at Maryville have made it possible for students to use their freshman year as a testing ground—a point of departure—after examination of the various subject fields. Many schools postpone selection of a major until the junior year. The chief advantage of making early choice is quickly seen to be that of leaving three years for courses in the major field and others relating to it. A comprehensive study thus spaced results in a balanced college program.

At present there are twenty-one fields in which a student may major. Due to the war and subsequent revision of courses offered, several majors have been dropped. These, however, will probably be resumed in the future.

Most freshmen are anticipating the handing in of major cards. Their decisions are tempered by various factors. A tendency to choose a major because one's friends selected it is not often noticed. But too often a student is influenced toward a certain major because his parents have had definite ambitions for him and his career.

The break from home to college is characterized by many decisions. This is perhaps the first important one. It should not be made without careful thinking and planning for the future following college. Each freshman has a faculty advisor well-qualified to discuss major choice on the basis of personal or professional experience. Too often we fail to remember this service.

The personnel office has made career monographs available for the use of anyone who is interested in discovering his aptitude for a particular vocation. These tests may be taken at any time and may offer further evidence for the choice of a major.

An acquaintance with the requirements of various fields of graduate study will also prove helpful in choosing a major. The decision which has so much influence on the college course of a student should not be made lightly or thoughtlessly.

Now that you've escaped the Ides of March, beware the Idles of April. Finals come with the flowers in May.

GREETINGS! Jim to Mary Ruth, "Hello, Roommate."

SYRUPY. Waltzing W. to Velma, as she came into chapel the other morning. "Don't you find these seats kinds sticky?"

Velma: "No. Why?"

"Isn't this the K-Row?"

IS HE CRAZY? Or what is EJ's skirt doing in his room? (Yes, we know where SC's shoes are too, but we're not allowed to tell.)

SURPRISE. Carol didn't seem to care much for cereal the other morning. Was the shock too much for her, or was she just too busy looking at Charles?

DOMESTIC. Yes, we think George would do as a husband. He wipes glasses with a professional polish. Maybe it's because he likes the way Angell washes them.

RINGS: The sparkle isn't all in her eyes—part of it is on her finger now. Yes, Maxine's ring came from him.

And while we're on the subject, the German class must have had good reasons for singing Congratulations to Marion. You'll see the reason on her finger.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY. Dr. Griffitts said he did not know any news this week. Maybe he forgot about his birthday, but the post-office gang didn't. Chocolate ice cream cones and peanuts were served at the party (even though he didn't attend), and rumor has it that the new bow tie came from his Quant class.

ODds and enDS

By HANNAH DUKE

Regardless of how much effort we seniors make to try to forget the inevitable, it can't be done. Yes, comprehensives are no longer the unpleasant dreams we used to picture three or four years ago. They are reality and try as we may, there's no getting around the facts any longer. This is the one and only time that seniors would give almost anything to borrow Aladdin's lamp to push back time until we were freshmen again. There was a time when resolutions were made to start studying for those exams the summer before, or anyway during the Christmas vacation, but resolutions were only made to be broken. And some of you wonder just how important Comprehensive are? For your information, here's the exposition on the subject as taken from the most recent Maryville Bulletin:

"Comprehensive examinations are given each senior as a part of his required procedure in qualifying for the degree. These examinations deal with subject matter of the student's major field and the prescribed related subjects. The design of these examinations is (1) to encourage and develop retentiveness throughout the student's entire college course, and (2) to test the student's ability to integrate he subject matter of his field of major interest.

A grade-point equivalent is established for each grade level on these examinations, and the student's performance on them is counted as a fixed proportion of his total record. The quality average of his course grades and of his comprehensive examinations must aggregate a standing of C or above on all hours completed. This total is arrived at by taking the total of grade points on all of his courses together with the grade-point valuation assigned to the grade he made on his comprehensive examinations."

This statement is complete with the exception as to the method of arriving at a grade point equivalent. This is done considering that a C is average and adds or deducts no grade points. Each grade above or below this letter adds or deducts 20 points. For example, C- deducts 20 points while C+ adds 20, B- adds 40, etc. As the rule now stands, failure to pass these examinations does not necessarily mean failure to graduate but it serves a rather strong indication of readiness to graduate.

Possibly, or we should say probably, many sophomore students have been warned by upper classmen that they should be cramming in every inkling of knowledge they can in order to be ready for the Cooperative tests. o doubt, most of them have found out by this date that they aren't expected to do speciric studying for these tests. They are simply a means by which sophomores at Maryville can be compared to those of other colleges the nation over. They are sponsored by the American Council on Education among the colleges of the entire country. The results of these tests will be determined after the national norm has been obtained. These results will be available before the termination of this semester.

In past years, the sophomore tests have included a cooperative English examination .but this test will not be administered this year as it has been decided that the results of the freshman English Placement Tests are conclusive of the student's development. Two tests will be given this year. One is a General Culture Test and the second is a test on contemporary affairs. The former of these two is being given for the first time.

We're certain that the fatal dates are well in mind. They are April 18 and 19 at 1:30 p.m. Here's wishing the junior and freshman classes pleasant holidays on those afternoons and our most sincere hopes and anxiety to the seniors. And to the sophomores go our wishes that they will maintain our high standards in comparison to other colleges.

NO MAIL. Wes doesn't write to Dot any more. But she bears up bravely as long as those cablegrams keep on coming from the best Merchant Marine in Russia."

BLANKETED: He was just returning borrowed property when his eyes and hers fell on the little item included by mistake. "Hmm, blue plaid, aren't they?" remarks Jo with her usual tact.

ROOMMATES. Jean and Gene have broken up housekeeping at 116 Baldwin, since Jean has joined the Army. We miss you, Jean.

FAREWELL TO ARMS. Or words to that effect, when both your b.f. and your brother leave the same day. Right, EMT?

APPLIED PSYCH. But no psychoanalysis is needed to discover why Bob gazes so soulfully at her pictures during class.

FLAT TIRE? Ralph counted four before the evening was over. Whodunnit?

PLAY, FIDDLE, PLAY. Johnny and his violin were welcome guests at Chapel. And Sunny's third finger, left hand, will remind her of the visit, too.

MORE MAIL. Bugs reports (no, her friends reported it really) hearing from her first husband again this week.

SENIOR PROM. They're having one in Carteret and Tiny can tell you all about it after her jaunt to New Jersey next week-end.

WHAT'S FLORIDA GOT? Sunny H. could give you an idea or two (or more), and Lois agrees that Florida is worth a visit about this time of year. However, Dot thinks Florida will be at its best about the time school is out . . . while Kelley wouldn't trade Alabama for everything in Florida.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT: How did he do, Lib? Just to make that good impression MH practiced kissing at the table before that last date. (And then he wanted to know if Evening in Paris is something you wear on the lips. Do you?)

HOLIDAY FOR STRINGS. Or maybe Ann and Charley spent their evening together talking about the bass fiddle?

FAMILY AFFAIR. And it was only last week that Kidder realized a long-standing ambition—to have a date with his sister Cordy.

ANOTHER QUESTION. And someone else has suggested that Brocker tell us why Doc teases her about JT. Well?

WANTED: A cure for poison ivy (beside the admonition to stay out of the woods): Mesdames Stout and Pancoast.

BETTER GARDENS: Four of the petunias planted by the Student Council are up at this writing. More are expected momentarily. Blossoms are hoped for by daisy chain time!

KNOW YOUR COLLEGE

By LONNIE RICHARDT

Were you to look through the Commencement issue of "College Days", 1895, you would probably find one of the pages a couplet to this effect:

T stands for Takahashi, a Japanese youth,
Who's against woman's suffrage in deed and in truth. Woman sufferage . . . the Nicaragua Canal Bill . . . football, an innovation . . . 300,000 bricks . . . $1,000: these were the by-words of the class of fifty years ago and of the little mustached fellow with a shock of black hair who was responsible for the construction of Bartlett Hall.

Kin Takahashi is the name which cannot be separated from the history of Bartlett; "Christ Our Cornerstone," which is inscribed on that building, the idea that was so closely bound to Kin Takahashi that he dared to be alone in a strange country, dared to attempt all things for Christ, dared to build a Bartlett.

An amazing story, this story of Kin and Bartlett—this story of soliciting $10,000 and making 300,000 bricks—for, you see, Kin Takahashi was born in Yamoguchi, Japan. How he got to Maryville is a tale in itself.

Alone in a New Land

Son of a wealthy merchant, he was sent to San Francisco at the age of fourteen to study for a commercial career. He was to learn English and then return to his native land. However, two years in San Francisco found a Japanese youth with a new outlook, for the young Shintoist had found the new Way of life. When he wrote to his parents about his conversion, they indignantly denounced him, cut off his generous allowance, and wanted no more of him.

Alone in a strange country and among strangers, penniless, Kin found help and understanding in the Methodist church which had led him to Christianity. He was advised to come to Maryville for the education he so desired, and soon after, he entered the preparatory school here.

The Sprinkling Incident

Soon he became very popular . . . not only with the boys. One of the stories his classmates liked to tell about him was connected with his fondness for girls. It seems that they learned that when he was in San Francisco, not able to speak over a few words and phrases in English, he was watering a lawn one day when two rather attractive young ladies walked by. Naturally, Kin's eyes followed them, and without his realizing it, so did the hose. Before he became aware of it, the girls were well sprinkled and the embarrassed Kin was at a loss as to what was the custom in such circumstances. With all the finesse that he could muster, he ran from behind the hedge, bowed gallantly, and repeated the only English expression he could remember at the time. Passers-by must have been amazed to see the red-faced little fellow bending low and saying in his best English, "Thank you, thank you!"

Student Help

Every cent of his expense during the seven years he was here—three years in preparatory school, four in the college proper—was earned by him. Seeing that some of his fellows were having nearly as hard a time as he, he organized the self-help program, which has grown into the Student-Help of today. For their first project, the students secured a garden plot, which they tilled and planted.

The Coming of Football

Football was another of Kin's contributions to Maryville. Many pictures can be found in old files of a brawny looking squad in 1890 dress with a short black-haired Japanese standing proudly with them. Kin's study table in the dormitory was the scene of many mock football games, for he industriously planned formations for the Maryville team with grains of corn by night.

The Reverend Mr. Howard M. Welsh, retired Presbyterian minister who lives in Maryville, remembers his classmate of commencement, 1895. "He was a fine fellow," he says of the 5'2" Kin. "He played quarterback on the team with Mose Gamble (now judge of the county court) at center."

"Mose was a big fellow," he recalls. "Kin would inch the ball along between his legs, and the other team couldn't get to him."

"Kentucky Hossie," as Kin was affectionately dubbed by his teammates, was the Waterloo of opposing teams, and soon they began to spread tre story abroad. "Watch out for that Jap!" was their warning.

"He used to buck his opponents in the stomach and knock the wind out of them with the top of head," Mr. Welsh said; then he noted with a chuckle, " . . . and sometimes he complained the next day that his head hurt."

Editor of College Magazine

Active in Y.M.C.A. and Student Volunteer work, Kin also had a nose for news; he was in charge of the college column for one of the Maryville papers, and, in his junior and senior years, was on the publication staff of "College Days", magazine published twice yearly. In 1895, he and F. A. Penland were editors.

Plans for Bartlett Hall

By far Kin's most outstanding work was the planning of Bartlett Hall. On April 18, 1895, records show that a mass meeting for students was called by Kin, at which discussion of a Y.M.C.A. building was initiated. "We have met here today to begin a march," said one of the speakers, "at the end of which we expect to see, standing on yonder hill, a Y.M.C.A. and gymnasium building."

The Japanese youth presented his plan, the blue-print which had been prepared by him. After a long speech about the interior of the building as planned, he added slyly, "One of the greatest advantages—one that we should appreciate—is the parlor, which will be large enough for the young men to receive the young ladies every Saturday afternoon, instead of going to Baldwin Hall every Saturday afternoon, and we assure you . . . that there will be no such strict rules as are now enforced by our much respected matron!"

Students Build Bartlett

Three huge brick kilns were erected on the campus during the summer of 1895, and the students began the hard struggle toward a finished Bartlett. Neighboring farmers furnished wood, and by the end of the summer 300,000 bricks had been manufactured. Kin began his soliciting trips soon after, and enough subscriptions and solicitations had been obtained by the next summer for the foundation of the building to be laid. The following spring, through the constant efforts of Kin, who had stayed on at Maryville after his graduation, the building was well on the way to completion.

Kin Returns To Japan

After Kin had seen the walls erected and the building almost finished, he felt his task here was done. His thoughts turned to his native land and the home of his childhood. In the fall of 1897, he became acting General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Tokyo Mission, and he returned as a missionary to the land of the Sunrise. His efforts there were successful and soon a flourishing mission school was established. A fatal disease struck him, however, and after a short retirement to less active work at Hirao, Kin died in 1902, mourned by all who knew him. His work in Hirao lives on and Bartlett still stands on "the Hill".

It was 50 years ago this spring that Kin Takahashi graduated from Maryville — this man who dared to dream and to dream his dreams into reality. For nearly half a century Bartlett has stood on College Hill, a symbol of triumph for Christ and the Christian way.

Always there will be "Kins" to dream and plan—and always Bartlett Halls to mark the way the "Kins" have trod.

Intramural Teams Clash for Volley Ball Championship

Pelicans and Crows Meet Tomorrow In Determining Match

By TOMMY PARKINSON

With the score of matches standing at three victories a piece the Pelican team is to meet the Crow team in the final match of the volley ball series to decide the championship. The two teams captained by Bob Seel and Willis Pribble respectively clash this afternoon, April 17, at 4:30 on the outdoor court behind Thaw Hall.

In the most recent match played, on April 12, the Crows were victorious in two out of three games to win the match and gain a chance to win the series Tuesday. At the time the Pelicans were leading in the series by a score of three matches to the Crows' two. The scores of that match were 21 to 9, 17 to 21, and 21 to 10.

Previously the Pelicans have taken a match of two straight games on April 10; the Crows had taken a match of two out of three games on April 5; the Pelicans had won the close match of April 3; and both teams won one of the first two matches as was reported in the last issue of the ECHO. That record accounts for the standing at present of three matches a piece.

Both teams are expecting a close contest tomorrow, and it is a toss-up as to which team will emerge as champions.

Softball

The entrance blanks for the Intramural softball programs have already been posted, and that is scheduled to be the next, and final, sport in the Intramural program this year. The teams are being organized, the Lions under Jay Bishop and the Panthers with Bill Cover as captain; the first game is scheduled for this Thursday afternoon.

Doubles Tennis

Also scheduled to be held this week in Intramurals is the annual tennis tournament. This is to be the last minor sports tournament for the year.

MC Senate Declare Meetings Open

At a recent meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate it was decided that the meetings of that body are to be considered open meetings. In the event that any students desire to sit in on the meetings of the Senate which meets regularly in the president's office the first Fridays of each month at 4:30 p.m., it is permissible. The question had previously been raised in the Student Council.

MC French Club Initiates Members

The French Club initiated newly elected members at the meeting in the Y.W.C.A. rooms Thursday night, April 12. The initiation began for some of the members at 6:00 a.m. Thursday. They all had to wear a "fleur de lys" on their back in addition to other assignments. The program of initiation was planned by Sarah Erloe and Barbara Wells, program chairmen of the organization.

Theta, Alpha Sig To Have Picnic

Because of the conflict with other campus programs, the joint Theta-Alph Sig picnic which was planned for last Saturday has been postponed until next Saturday evening. The party will meet in front of Pearsons at 5:30 to go to the picnic grounds in the college woods. All members of the two societies are invited to come.

When asked why she didn't get married, the woman replied, "I have a dog that growls, a parrot that swears, a fireplace that smokes, and a cat that stays out all night. Now, really, what do I need with a husband?"

Point System Track Contests Start Thursday

Thursday, April 19, will begin the annual track contests for Point System girls, with the following to be judged: high-jump, broad-jump, shot-put, baseball throw, softball throw, and the 150 yard dash.

Last week practice periods were devoted to improvement for the contests.

Chillies Win Tourney

Chalking up another tourney victory for themselves, the Chillies took the last game of the baseball tournament on April 5 by a score of 20-10 over the Howies. The game, played inside because of bad weather, was in the bag after the first inning, in which the Chillies scored a total of 13 runs, as against 6 for the Howies.

Three of the four games were captured by the winning team; the third game of the series was won on April 5 by the Howies by a score of 14-8. An early talley of 13 runs in the second inning was harly appreciably challanged by the Chillies. Five inning games were played during the contest because of limit to time.

Officials were: Umpires, Ruth King Wood, and Mrs. Evelyn Queener, gym instructor; Scorer, Lonnie Richardt.

Miss America Choice To Win Scholarship For Any College

Arthur S. Chenoweth, president of the Miss America Pageant which is held each September in Atlantic City, N. J., recently announced that Miss America 1945 will be awarded a $5,000 scholarship to attend any college she wishes, or for special training in any field. The fund is to be under the supervision of a committee of five alumnae from various well-known colleges and universities. National Counselor to the Scholarship Committee will be Dr. Guy E. Smavely, who said when he accepted the appointment that the committee in charge of the Pageant should be recommended for their foresight in arranging for the scholarship and that he hoped a young lady ambitious for college or university training, or for a Master's degree would receive the scholarship.

Tuition, room and board, books, and all incidental expenses necessary for good college work will be provided by the Fund. Girls between the ages of 18 and 28 who are not married and have never been married are eligible for competition in local contests which will be held by Junior Chambers of Commerce, theatre chains, radio stations, newspapers, and other sponsors. In addition to beauty of face and form, poise, personality, intelligence and talent enter into the judges decision. Talent exhibitions will include dramatic readings, dancing, singing, playing of a musical instrument, sketching and painting, or a three minute discussion of the subject the candidate wishes to major in at college. This same method will be used in judging the contestants in the National Finals at Atlantic City.

All college students interested may apply for details of local contests at National Headquarters in Atlantic, N. J.

Dollenmayers Have Son

A son, David Bristol, was born to Chaplain and Mrs. Raymond J. Dollenmayer on April 5 at the Doctors' Hospital.

Chaplain Dollenmayer was Associate Professor of Bible, and Religious Education at Maryville from 1937 until September 1943. At this time he was given a leave of absence to enter the Armed Forces.

At present Chaplain Dollenmayer is stationed with the Navy in Hawaii.

Naval Ordinance Plant Appeals For More Workers

An appeal for more laborers who are needed to speed up the completion of the large U. S. Naval Ordinance Plant, five miles from Camden, Arkansas, comes from the Eighth Naval District Headquarters. Various types of rockets are to be manufactured in this plant. This industry is vital since rockets are a number one item on the entire Navy production program. At the plant at Camden rockets will be manufactured for the Army as well as the Navy.

Supervisor H. M. Shobert, who is directing field recruiting, explains the living conditions in the area. Each worker will be offered free transportation from his home community to the project at Camden, Ark.

Each worker is provided with clean and comfortable sleeping accomodations and the food is plentiful and well prepared. The entire cost for room and board is $1.00 a day. Entertainment is provided for every evening of the week. The recreational facilities include a recreation center where boxing and games of various kinds may be participating. Motion pictures are shown twice a week. Amateur programs are presented by the workers themselves. Outstanding boxing and wrestling matches are scheduled for Saturday evenings. There are church facilities for Protestants and Catholics.

Medical care and first-aid are at hand for all workers. Police protection is furnished for all personnel residing at the plant.

All workers desiring to respond to this appeal from the Navy are urged to report to their nearest United States Employment Office.

Olson Pemberton Ordained By Union Presbytery

Olson Pemberton, Jr., graduate of the class of '43 and senior in Princeton Theological Seminary, was ordained into the Presbyterian ministry Wednesday evening, April 11, at New Providence Presbyterian church in Maryville.

A philosophy major while in college, Pemberton plans to spend a year in graduate study in English Bible at Princeton. He and Mrs. Pemberton, the former Jean Patterson, '43, plan to become foreign missionaries to Latin America.

With Acts 4:13 as his text, Rev. Mr. Thomas A. Graham preached the sermon at the ordination service at which the Rev. Mr. George Neff presided. Mr. Neff, a graduate of Maryville College, is moderator of Union Presbytery and minister of the Kirkwood Presbyterian church in Knoxville.

Huber Announces IRC Day On April 20

Plans as recently announced by Robert Huber, president of the IRC, include an international relations day on Friday, April 20, to be sponsored by this club. The climax of the day will be an evening program in Bartlett at 8:00, in which Dr. Horace E. Orr will speak on "America's Post War Obligation."

There will be an attempt to stress the idea of international relations in all lectures on this day. The program Friday night will include skits and songs by members of the French, German, and Spanish clubs. Everyone is invited, with special invitations extended to all other clubs to meet with the IRC this night.

Officers for next year were nominated at the meeting on Monday, April 16, and the election will be held April 30. Present officers of the club are Robert Huber, president; Miriam Wickham, secretary; and Jean Martin, treasurer; Jane Craig and Ethel Beal have been in charge of the war bond and stamp sale, which was sponsored by the IRC, the Social Committee includes Florence Gwenn and Miriam Bowditch.

The program for April 16, under Miriam Wickman, included a news review by Kitty Johnson, and three talks on the development of the world situation since the beginning of 1945. Ada Huffman reviewed "The Developments", and there was a talk given on "The International Developments of 1945". A discussion followed the talks.

There will be no meeting of the club on Monday, April 24.

College Announces Increase In Rates To Begin Fall, '45

The Faculty and Directors of Maryville College are announcing in the 1945 Catalog the following increases in charges, effective with the Fall Semester: Tuition increased from $65 to $75 per semester; room and board merged into one total for students who room and board on the campus and increased from range of $105, $110 to that of $115, $125 (depending on the room occupied); private lessons in music and dramatic art increased from $20 to $25 a semester.

The new charges will average approximately $200 a semester, exclusive of text books, for students rooming and boarding on the campus, and $80 for those living at home. The charge at Maryville continue to be probably the lowest in the United States among colleges on the accredited list of the Association of American Universities with the exception of Berea College, Kentucky, which is not open to general enrolment. The charges at most colleges of Maryville's type and academic standing are fifty to one hundred per cent higher than those at Maryville. Maryville College also has one of the most extensive and best known college student-help programs in America.

Musical Talent Test Given Here

Seashore Measures of Musical Talent, a test to determine musical talent, was given to approximately seventy music students Friday, April 6, in the Fine Arts Studio. The test was given by Miss Dorothy Horne, music professor, to all students taking private music lessons and all members of the choir and orchestra.

The test was divided into six parts, namely pitch, loudness, rhythm, time timbre, and tonal memory. Results will be given by asking Miss Katherine Davies at a later date.

D. Dick Weds Army Lieutenant In Md. March 24

Miss Dorothy Dick, former Maryville student, now a junior at the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland, became the bride of Lt. S. B. Friddle on Saturday, March 24, at 7:00 p.m. in the Episcopal church at College Park.

Dr. Verton M. Queener, former professor of history and political science and head of the division of Social Science here, now on leave of absence while with the Department of Agriculture in Washington, gave the bride in marriage, her father, the Reverend Mr. R. H. Dick officiating at the ceremony.

Choir, Glee Club Present "Orpheus" In Concert Form

DuBois, Grosh, Sisk Have Solo Parts In Production

With the words of the powerful chorus, "The god of love has prevailed and is triumphant; let us all his alters adorn," the 80 voices of the combined glee clubs and choir, augmented by the college Symphony Orchestra, closed the opera "Orpheus and Euridice" last Saturday evening, April 14.

Scenery composed of drapes and Greek columns formed the background for the formally arrayed singers, who were accompanied by Miss Rachel Shobert, music instructor, at the organ, and Mary Evelyn Jamison, junior from McAlisterville, Pa., at the piano.

Robert DuBois, tenor, Frances Grosh, mezzo soprano, and Catherine Sisk, soprano, had the solo parts..

The part of Orpheus was sung by Mr. DuBois, freshman ministerial student from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, a member of the choir.

Amor, the god of love, was played by Mrs. Grosh, student of Mr. Vine, who was graduated from Maryville last May. She was an English major, a member of the choir, and a member of Writers' Workshop.

Catherine Sisk, junior music major, was Euridice.

Centered about the struggle of Orpheus to win back his dead wife Euridice from the underworld, the opera opened upon sorrowing friends of Orpheus weeping over Euridice's grave. After Orpheus dismissed them with the sad recitative, "My friends, lamentations but add to my affliction, the action of the opera started. "In the ensuing choruses and solos, the story of Orpheus' winning his wife, only to lose her again because of her distrust, was unfolded. His deep grief was expressed in the solo "She is gone and gone forever."

When at length the god of love brought the news to Orpheus that once more Euridice would be given to him, his joy was unbounded, and solos by him, the happy Euridice, and Amor, were climaxed in the magnificent final chorus.

The four-act opera, presented in concert form by the singers and orchestra, under the direction of Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, was written in 1760 by the German composer, Christopher Von Gluck. First presented in Vienna, it is still a permanent part of presnt day repertoire. At one time, Gluck was pensioned by the famed empress Marie Antoinette for his artistry in "Orpheus."

Publicity was in charge of Mary Jo White and Lonnie Richardt, while Robert Seel, Evelyn Anderson, and Robert Whitford worked under Elsie Jean Cotton on posters.

The Bacteriological Ball

A gay Bacillus, to gain her glory,
Once gave a ball in a laboratory.
The fete took place on a cover page
Where vulgar germs could not harass.
None but the cultured were invited.
For microbe chicks are well united.
They closely shut the ballroom doors
To all the germs containing spores.
The Stophylococci first arrived.
To stand in groups they all contrived.
The Diplococci came in view
A trifle late and two by two.
The Streptococci took great pains
To seat themselves in graceful chains.
The Pnoumococci stern and haughty
Declared the Gonococci naughty
And said they would not come at all
If the Gonna's were present at the ball.
The fete began, the mirth ran high,
With not a fear of danger nigh.
Each germ enjoyed himself, that night
Without the fear of phagocyte.
'Twas getting late and some were loaded
When BANG! the formaldehyde exploded
And drenched the happy dancing mass
That swarmed that feted cover glass.
Not one survived, but perished all
At the Bacteriological Ball.

Exams, Term Papers, Lie Ahead Remaining Days Total 35

By MARY E. HUNT

Just five more weeks of school. It hardly seems possible that this semester has flown by so quickly, for it seeems only yesterday that we were returning from Christmas vacation.

On all parts of the campus, we see some of the seniors dashing around reviewing for comprehensives. Everywhere we hear strains of, "Are you coming back next year?" and from the freshmen, such remarks as, "Have you gotten your major card filled out yet?" I did, and you should se all the things that I have to take."

The tennis courts have become the central feature of the campus almost overnight. Little did we dream that they could become such a whirlpool of action. Another favorite place for the girls to gather is that strip between Baldwin and the hedge—and we do mean strip.

Then some of us are constantly reminded of al lthat lies ahead in these five weeks exams, term papers, outside reading, and graduation to those that have earned it. These thoughts are enough to make us wince. It's such a pity to find ourselves tied down with a dull book when we'd give anything to be out in the wonderful sunshine getting a tan.

The Theta-Alpha Sigma play is a bright thought of the future. But to many of us, this is a symbol of much more hard work that is to take place during this time.

Tickets to buy, trunks to be packed, summer clothes to be altered or made, registration for next semester, library books to be returned, chemistry experiments to be performed.

I wish that I might tell you the method of getting all of these things done in the remaining days—35, in case you're counting them. I wish that someone could devise a system for getting all those letters written, or that studying done, or one of those other tasks which take so much time. Then we might have more time to spend on the tennis courts, or "rec" hall, or in those vitally needed sun-baths. But unfortunately, no one has devised this method yet.

Looking back we find the February meeting, the Bainonian-Athenian play, the concerts, and all that pile of studying, week-end trips, club meetings, and about a million other things and somehow they were all done, so I guess we'll manage in five weeks.

And then, after those five weeks are over. Most everyone, in spite of their plans for the summer has decided to take a short vacation immediately after school is out. Then maybe we can find time for all those things that we've been wanting to do. And after a taste of that good home cooking of our mothers, and a couple nights sleep in our favorite bed, and perhaps several trips around to our old ahunts, we'll forget all about being tired, and having lots to do.

With such thoughts as these, I grab my books, take one last look out the window, and trudge wearily toward the library for an afternoon.

Commodore Fisher Announced As New Member to Faculty

ALUMNUS CHOSEN

Will Teach History, Political Science Next Semester

Commodore B. Fisher, worker in the field of education and international relations, has been appointed as Associate Professor in the division of social sciences at Maryville College, it has been announced by President Ralph W. Lloyd.

Mr. Fisher, who received his B. A. degree at Maryville, 1916, and his M. A. at the University of Kentucky in 1920, will teach courses in history and political science. He did work toward his Ph.D degree at Peabody in 1926-1927 and at Vanderbuilt in 1935-36. His residence is now at Nashville, where he has continued his work on his doctor's degree at Vanderbuilt during the present year.

After his graduation from Maryville, the professor-elect spent three years teaching, first at Chapel Hill, Tennessee, and then at Lewisburg, Tennessee, his home community.

Dispatched by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, Mr. Fisher became a teacher in India. He taught at Woodstock College, Missori there, and then at the high school in Allahabad. Next he became principal of the Community School in Teheran. He was in Teheran at the time of the Big Three Conference between Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin.

Mr. Fisher, who has spent one out of each seven years in the United States, usually in the study of the social sciences which he taught in Iran schools, has spoken widely in this country on inter-

'45-'46 Curriculum Changes Made By Dean Hunter

Economics Courses Added; Freshman Bible Reorganized

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, has anounced the following changes in curriculum for 1945:

Freshman Bible courses have been reorganized into two one-semester courses: 104, Study of the Old Testament; 105, Study of the New Testament. These courses, to be broader than the present 102 and 103 schedules, will be taught by Mrs. Margaret M. Cummings, Instructor in Bible and religious Education, and Dr. John A. Gates, Associate Professor of Bible and religious education.

The Economics Division will offer, in addition to the 201 course called Economic Principles, the following: 205, The Development of Economic Thought; 306, Money and Banking; and 315, Elementary Accounting.

Several course members in the Division of History will be changed. Course 213, Latin American History, will become course 307; Medieval History, 201, will be 315; Europe, 1815-1870, course 313, will become course 317.

Home Handicraft, Home Economics course 207, will not be offered the second semester of next year; two sections will be formed next semester.

Music Appreciation 313, for nonmajors in music, will be offered both semesters.

Philosophy 315, Logic, will be taught the first semester.

In the Division of Physics, there will be two changes in course numbers. General Physics, 201, will be classed as a 101 course. Advanced Heat, 301, will be course 205.

Two advanced courses in Spanish will be offered: 311, The Renaissance and Golden Age, and 315.

These changes will be posted on schedule bulletins to be distributed within a few days.

America Must Preserve World Peace, Democracy, Dr. H. F. Orr Challanges

Dr. Horace F. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, and chairman of the division of Bible, philosophy and education, spoke at the evening meeting of the IRC International Day on the topic "America's Post-War Obligations." The obligations of the United States as pointed out by Dr. Orr are to help secure world peace and the obligation to preserve democracy.

The address was given at a meeting sponsored by the International Relations Club in connection with its International Relations day in Bartlett Hall, Friday, April 20.. Robert F. Huber, IRC president, presided at the meeting.

"The first we share with the rest of the world," Dr. Orr stated. "We cannot preserve world peace by ourselves." The second obligation—that of preserving democracy—is one which we can discharge ourselves. "In doing it," Dr. Orr says, "we can provide an example for the rest of mankind of a democratic society strong enough to endure and free enough to providee a full rounded human development."

"Europe or Asia can destroy the peace of the world," Dr. Orr continued "and so plunge us along with the rest into war and we may not be able to avoid it. But if democracy fails among us, we shall be guilty of destroying it ourselves.

Realistic Appraisal

Dr. Orr, in the discusion, pointed out obligations in the peace. Our first obligation toward preserving world peace is "that a realistic appraisal of the situation which actually exists in the world is required of us."

"Such a realistic appraisal will mean for one thing that we must recognize the fact of chaos and of hate as the main social climate of the world today. . .But being realistic means also, for a second thing, recognizing the fact that this general hate unleashed in the world may tend to focus on us in the United States." Dr. Orr pointed out that "no matter how virtuous and unselfish we appear to ourselves

Alpha Gamma SIGMA MEMBERS TO BE HONORED

Six new members of Alpha Gamma Sigma, an honorary scholarship society, will be recognized at the regular chapel service Wednesday morning, May 2. The names of those elected are being witheld until that time. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, who is a member of the society, has been asked by the other members to deliver the address. Mrs Hueh R. Crawford. Jr., '35 President and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Secretary, will take part in the program. Requirements for membership include a high moral standing, work at Maryville college for at least three semesters, and a scholastic average of at least 8.5. Not more than ten percent of the senior class may be elected, and only those graduating with a Bachelor of Arts degree are eligible.

CONFERENCE ON WORLD ORDER AT CHURCH

MEETINGS INCLUDE TALKS AND ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS

A World Order Conference sponsored by the New Providence Presbyterian Church began last Wednesday evening, April 25, with Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd speaking on "The Role of the Church in the Making of the Peace."

The meetings will continue through the next two Wednesday evenings, May 2 and May 9. Discussion groups meet at 7:30 each evening and are followed by a devotional service and an address at 8:30.

The discussion groups are "New Responsibilities for Order in Asia," Mrs. S. H. Franklin, Jr., leader; "Geography and the Peace," Dr. John A. Gates, leader; and "Problems of a New World Order," Dr. E. R. Hunter, leader.

The following addresses are to be given at the future meetings: May 2, "Realistic Obstacles to the Making of the Peace," Dr. Ruth Stephens.

May 9, "Let the Churches Lead," Rev. Thomas A. Graham.

Church Cooperation

The Federal Council of Churches of Christian America has been taking the lead in behalf of the Protestant churches in this matter of world organization and has urged the churches to cooperate! The Presbyterian Department of Social Education and Action of the Board of Christian Education organized last year a whole series of studies, recommending to churches all over the country that they set up classes for study.

In line with this general purpose, Wednesday, April 25, was designated as a day of prayer for the United Nations Conference now meeting in San Francisco, and on that day Maryville College students heard Dr. Joseph A. Vance, former Moderator of General Assembly, speak on this general subject.

Students who wish to attend any of the World Order conferences scheduled at New Providence Church may do so by signing out of the dormitories in the usual way.

College Orchestra Presents Concert Saturday Evening

BEGINS AT 8:00

Jean Keen To Be Featured Soloist; Vine Conducts

Jean Keen, junior music major, will be the soloist with the College Symphony Orchestra in its annual concert to be given Saturday night, May 5, at 8:00 in the Chapel. Miss Keen's solo, coming immediately after the intermission, will be Mozart's Concerto for Piano in D Minor. Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, will conduct, and Fay Cameron, sophomore physchology major from Detroit, Michigan, will be concert mistress.

The program will be as follows:

Valse Triste ..... Sibelius

Overture to the "Bartered Bride" ..... Smetana

The College Orchestra

Concerto for Piano in D Minor ..... Mozart

Allegro
Romanza
Rondo

Miss Keen

Monday, May 7, Mrs. Francis Harris Grosh, soprano, and Mrs. Florence Barber Alette, pianist, both Maryville graduates, will give a joint concert in the Chapel at 8:00 p. m. The program will be announced later.

Clothing For War Relief Will Be Collected May 7-19

May 7-19 are the dates which have been designated for a campus collection of clothes for European War Relief in response to an appeal by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration or UNRRA. This drive is being sponsored on Maryville campus by the World Fellowship chairmen of YW CA. Margaret Cross, junior sociology major from Brent, Ala., and newly appointed chairman for 1945-46, is in charge of the collection.

Students are urged to contribute as generously as possible since this is the only united drive for overseas war relief to be held this year. Any garment which is wearable will be accepted.

Pi Kappa Delta Elects Three To Membership

David, Shell, And Turk To Be Initiated At Special Service

Pi Kappa Delta has recently elected three new members, Gladys David, John Shell, and Judy Turk. Gladys David, a sophomore Spanish major from Jacksonville Fla., is the program chairman of the Spanish club, and was a member of the college choir last year. John Shell is an economics major from Pine Bluff, Arkansas. He is president of the sophomore class, a member of the YMCA cabinet, and the president of Athenian. Judy Turk is a psychology major and comes from Thomasville, Georgia. She is treasurer of the sophomore class, a Bainonian, and a member of I. R. C. and the YWCA cabinet.

Neophytes are now in the process of an informal service which will take place during the latter part of May. At this program an election will be held for next year's officers.

The Society is planning a picnic to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. David H. Briggs, May 4. Invited to attend are Pi Kappa Delta members, Gladys David, Robert Huber, Dorothy Lehman, Bette Lou McCoy, John Shell, Judy Turk, Miriam Wickam, and Natalie Yelton, a Pi Kappa Delta member of the class of 1943; members of the faculty committee on forensics and their wives Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Case and Miss Katherine Johnson; Dr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Hunter, and Mary Annis Beals, who has debated with the team this year.

Hinson, Wickham To Edit And Manage Echo

Helen Marie Wilson Is Managing Editor For Next Year

Juanita Hinson, junior psychology major from St. Augustine, Fla., was elected the 1945-1946 editor of the Highland Echo by the paper's editorial staff at a meeting held Thursday evening, April 26.

Miriam Wickam, junior psychology major from Spokane, Wash., was appointed next year's business manager of the Echo by the faculty committee on student publications and student business management and by student council committee members.

Helen Marie Wilson, junior from Fairview, Penna., was named managing editor for next year by the editor elect.

Miss Hinson served this year as junior associate editor on the Echo staff having first been appointed last September. She takes an active part in girls' college athletics and is a member of Theta Epsilon and the YWCA. She was recently chosen to be a junior attendant at the May Day festival.

Miss Wickam has, during her three years at Maryville College, been active in debate, International Relations Club, Bainonian, YWCA, parish project and the Student Volunteers. She is at present working as assistant in the psychology department.

Business Staff Appointments

Martha Scanlon, religious education major from Oreland, Penna., was appointed to the business staff as junior assistant. Returning as sophomore members of the business staff are Margaret Blanton, Katherine Smith, and Ruth Williams.

The faculty committee on student publications consists of Dr. F. A. Griffitts, Miss Almira Bassett, Dr. R. T. Case, and Dr. Hill Shine. The student council committee is composed of Robert Whitford, John Kierstein, and Max House.

Mr. E. R. Walker is the student business management representative.

May Day Festival Connotes Flowers, Dewdrops and Love

Going A-Maying Favorite Pastime Of Merrie England

By Helen Marie Wilson

"Ever on the first of May did magic walk—the legends say—
Maidens rose at early dawn to find a dew-ensequined lawn.
And she who humbly bathed her face in dewdrops in the magic place,
She, they say, need never fear the curse of freckles for a year,
And, did she add a certain rune—
lo! she would have a lover soon!"

The poet offers some advice for young seekers after beauty. However this dew-facial must be applied from the dew of May-Day morning. Evidently Mrs. Pepys recognized the value in this when she went out early on May Day, according to her husbands diary.

Bathing in the dew is but one of many customs which are associated with the first of May. Probably all can find their beginning with the Roman celebration of Floralia, or floral games, which began April 28 and lasted several days.

Going A-Maying

Flowers seem to be the chief ingredient for the proper observance of the day. City and country folk of "merrie England" were accustomed to making early morning expeditions on the first of May to bring home hawthorn branches and

Promotions Go To Twelve Echo Staff Members

Twelve members of the editorial staff of the Highland Echo have received promotions to serve on next year's staff. Olinde Ahrens, Juanita Hinson, and Helen Marie Wilson were promoted to senior staff editors. Two present sophomores, Mary Elizabeth Hunt and Tommy Parkinson are to serve as junior associate editors. Those elected to positions as sophomore reporters are Mary Annis Beals, Martha Edgerton, Constance Hawkins, Joan Liddell, Lonnie Richardt, Lorraine Swift, and Elsie Onifer.

Promotions were made at a meeting of the faculty committee on student publications held last Wednesday morning, April 25, upon the recommendations of the editor of the Highland Echo. Members of the student council committee and senior staff editors of the Echo also attended the meetings at which Robert F. Huber presided.

Olinde Ahrens, a junior from Osborne, Kansas, has served on the Echo staff for the past two years and has written "Library Libel" during the present year. Juanita Hinson, a junior from St. Augustine, Florida, has completed one year's service on the Echo staff, and Helen Marie Wilson, from Fairview, Penn., has served for three years on the Echo staff.

Mary E. Hunt, sophomore from Bryson City, N. C., has served one year and has edited the service column this year. Tommy Parkinson, a native of Memphis, has completed two years on the editorial staff. He has been copy editor during the past year and has also served as sports editor.

YM-YW Cabinets Hold Retreat At Peck's Chapel

Dr. E. R. Hunter Talks On "Reaping The Harvest"

Joint retreat for members of YM and YW cainets and Nu Gamma leaders was held Saturday, April 28 at Peck's Chapel. Old and new cabinets held a series of worship services centered around the theme "Laborers in the Harvest". The steering committees responsible for the day's program consisted of Agnes Peterson, Rebecca Davis, James Witherspoon, Bob Dockendorf, retiring and newly-elected presidents, Louise Henry and Fred Wilson, representatives from the two cabinets.

Owen McGarity, senior political science major from Croyden, Pa., spoke at the morning worship service preceding the business meetings using as his topic "Calling to Harvest". Dorothy Lehman, senior English major from Beverly, Ky., led the group as she talked on "Laboring in the Harvest."

Dr. Hunter Speaks

The closing worship service immediately followed the banquet at which Thomas Horst presided as toastmaster. Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English and dean of curriculum, addressed those present with the theme "Reaping the Harvest". An installation service for the newly-elected officers of YMCA concluded the day's program.

Faculty advisors present were Dr. Ralph T. Case, Miss Katherine Davies, Dr. H. E. Orr, Mrs. V. M. Queener, Miss Rachel Shobert and Mrs. L. L. Wililams.

NOTICE

Advance Deposits ($10.00) for the fall semester may be made at the Treasurer's Office beginning May 15th.

Ethel Beall Is May Day Queen

SET FOR 2:30

YWCA Sponsors Annual Festival

The 1945 May Day Festival entitled "Spring Fete" wil be presented tomorrow, May 1, at 2:30 p. m. in the College Woods Ampitheatre. This program is sponsored by the YWCA and is under the general direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art.

The Fete, whose general theme is love and sweethearts, will be opened by the processional of the Queen and her court. Ethel Beall, senior biology major from North Long Branch, New Jersey was elected this year's May Day Queen by her class in a special meeting held April 13. The King is the senior class president, Robert Seel. Two attendants from each of the other classes were also elected at the same time by special meetings of the respective classes. Each of the attendants chose as a partner for the ceremony a classmate. Freshmen atendants are Betty Hall of North Carolina and Merril Grubbs of Pennsylvania, Leona Richardt of Missouri and Robert DuBois of Pennsylvania; sophomore attendants are Ann Anderson of New Jersey and James Leister of Pennsylvania, Eleanor Kelly of New York and Robert Dockendorf of Maryland; the junior class is represented by Juanita Hinson of Florida and John Ross of Pennsylvania, Mildred Waring of Massachusetts and Wililam Robarts of Florida. Senior attendants to the Queen as chosen by Mrs. Beall are Winifred Sommers and Hannah Duke. Judy Dollenmayer, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. R. J. Dollenmayer, will be flower girl; John C. rr, III, grandson of Mr. Louis Black of the college administration staff, will be the crown bearer.

Herald Of Spring

The Herald of Spring played by Louise Henry and her handmaids who are Bernell Crowder, Jackie Odell, Mary Batchelor, Katherine Smith, Marietta Ball, and Marian Swift will welcome the queen and her court and summon those who are to entertain the royal group.

The program will be presented by three groups; the choral readers directed by Mrs. West, the dancers coached by Mrs. Verton Queener, physical education director, and the band under the direction of Mr. Richard Vine, associate professor of music.

Twelve girls who make up Mrs. Queener's interpretative dancing class will present four dances in costume. The girls are Marian Betll, Zenoba Bernardini, Marilyn Bryant, Betsy Burleigh, Lois Collett, Margaret Cross, Betty Lou King, Agnes Peterson, Hope Pleyl, Kay Bonner, Carolyn Wallace, and Lottie Lavendar. In low drindles of contrasting colors and hearts on their dresses the dancers will perform a difficult dance routine called the heart polka.

Next will be a sweetheart dance using the basic waltz step to the music of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Half of the dancers will be dressed as men and the other half will wear old-fashioned, formal dresses of dotted material.

Hat-Box Dance

The hat-box dance to the music of Humoresque centers around the theme of spring hats and lovely ladies. The dancers will perform with hat boxes and modernistic creations of flowers, veils, and ribbon.

The fourth dance which takes place just before the recessional is the traditional Maypole Dance. The Maypole streamers will be of two pastel shades and a new weave called the cross weave wil be used.

There will be two groups of choral readings as rendered by the following college students: Marian Swift, Lois Thomas, Bernell Crow-

HEADACHES OF AN EDITOR

The editorial staff of the Highland Echo last Thursday evening elected Juanita Hinson to serve as editor for the school year 1945-46. That the editor-elect has the requisite qualifications is a fact that will stand her in good stead throughout the coming trials of her editorship.

Miss Hinson will need not only the devoted co-operation of the editorial staff but will also rely heavily upon the cooperation of students and student organizations.

Few people realize the headaches with which an editor is confronted. Getting the news is perhaps one of the most difficult to surmount, for too often the reporters face the brick wall of that "come-back-later" or "go-see-so-and-so" attitude.

Editing and re-writing news stories, writing headlines that will tell the proper facts and fit into the correct number of spaces is a tedious duty that requires much more work than the average student realizes. If you think it's an easy task just try writing a head for a news story. Maybe by the time you have thrown together an acceptabe head your paper will be covered with candle wax, too.

The make-up of a college publication is one problem that takes time, effort, and much planning on the part of the editor and receives little consideration by the average reader. Making dummies for four pages, getting the right stories in their proper places, placing a correct evaluation on the news, and generally producing a paper that is balanced and pleasing to the eye is a task that takes training, skill, and hard work.

Not the least of an editor's worries these days is involved in the printing of the paper. "Will the paper come out on schedule?" is an unpredictable question. Labor problems and other unavoidable difficulties in the printing office leave this phase of publication a doubtful one.

The job of an editor is a big one, a headache. If an editor expects to produce a paper that gives information and details and that will form a record of college life, then he must have the full cooperation of all students and student organizations.

Our congratulations and best wishes for next year go with the newly elected editor and with those staff members who received promotions this week.

LIBRARY..... LIBEL

By Olinde Ahrens

NO THEY DON'T. Tennesseans do not go barefoot. The gal (HS) you saw struggling up college hill from church last Saunday sans shoes was from New Jersey. So there, too!

ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME. No, it wasn't a slumber party. If you had to take 3 1-2 hour long tests in those hard chapel seats you'd carry a pillow the second day too, just like the "smarter set" of Sophs did last week.

PINK IS FOR GIRLS. Is that why he wore a pink ribbon to Miss Henry's Student Help breakfast? Otherwise what does Doc want with a beau (sp.)?

BRITISH INFLUENCE? Don't tell a soul, but Corney has a 'art to Art talk every night.

GOOD EXCUSES. MP blames that chemistry test grade on Pete. "After all, he's coming, and I can't get my mind of formulas." While JS thought Roy's letter would account for her grade—Well, what did he say?

SWING YOUR PARTNER. The first floor of Baldwin was not alone in G-burg last weekend. For particulars of the weekend, ask any (or all) of the faculty.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE! MDP: "I just don't care for boys." MH, appearing on the scene just about that time. "Well, how about men?"

LONG DISTANCE. "Oh, you're so swee-e-t!" KS's friends didn't really need to carry her out after that call—it was just moral support she needed. Pink Cloud affects her that way.

DINNER CONVERSATION: And then PM interrupted to say, "But I know a fellow who was almost one of the guard of honor at the President's funeral. He and his three sailor buddies were all ready to go when they decided to take coast guards instead." Respectful silence. "Just think, you can tell your grandchildren, 'I knew a fellow who was almost one of President Roosevelt's guards of honor.'" RL: "Why that will be almost as good as the story we like to hear Mrs. Walker tell about the time President Lincoln kissed her." LL: "Gee, did she used to go with him?"

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS

During the past year the Student Council has worked hard and has accomplished considerable for the student body. This has been due partly to the capable leadership of President Louise Henry and partly to the ability and cooperation of the Student Council representatives. Many of them aided to a great degree the progressive work of the Council.

Not the least of its accomplishments has been the opening of the sicial and recreational center in Bartlett Hall. The planning and preparation of this plan was done mainly by Student Council members.

Town Night rules have been revised and the penalties arranged on a definite scale. The Student Council has shown its responsibility in the operation of the Town Night proposal.

Perhaps of greatest importance is the fact that the Student Council is the one organization on the Hill that has demonstrated an effective leadership in campus affairs.

But some of the members of the Student Council are just dead wood and have contributed nothing to its work. They have failed to attiend meetings, have failed to produce any constructive ideas, and have not participated in discussion.

If the Student Council is to continue its effective work next year, then the membership of that organization must be strengthened and leaders with ideas must be elected to the Council.

The primary elections for class officers and Student Council representatives is to be this Friday morning, May 4. The final election will be one week later.

Consideration and deliberation should procede the nomination of anyone for such position as these. If the members of the various classes would do a little thinking before hand and consider the qualifications of different class members before nominations are made, then it would be more probable that leaders more willing to devote their time and energy and more interested in the work would be nominated and elected.

The importance of this cannot be stressed too much. Student Council representatives have a responsibility which they cannot very well neglect. Those who are elected for next year must be qualified and willing to do something constructive, for the future of the Student Council and the possibility of student government deponds a great deal upon the membership of the Council. .....

CALLING CARNEGIE! Wonder what KB and MK found to talk about that kept 'em folded up in that phone booth for thirty minutes? Ask the party at the other end of the line!

RUMOR? When we asked BLMc's friends about the KK angle, they said "You can believe everything you hear—if not what you see." She has a weakness for red hair maybe?

FACULTY (AND GARDENS). "I'd like to lie right down in the middle of my garden and enjoy it." Well, it is a nice garden!

Then there's another faculty member who was absent from prayer meeting this week on account of eating too many green onions.

STUDENT COUNCIL (AND GARDENS). The petunias are doing nicely, thank you. In a statement for the press, the President of the Student Council assured, "There are MULTITUDES of petunias sprouted now."

ORCHIDS to Miss Ware—and Prof. Walker too, in exchange for the flowers we've all been enjoying in the dining hall.

HOW TAN YOU ARE! The mass evacuation of the Baldwin bathing beach last Thursday was caused not by high tides but roof repairs.

IF THE SHOE FITS—Keep it on! That's Joyce's philosophy since losing a loafer in a mountain stream last Sunday. (Anybody have an extra ration stamp?)

PHILOSOPHY MAJORS (or anyone with some time to listen.) Ask Betty Wells about her philisiphy of life. You might learn something!

ALOHA. ME's box came all the way from Hawaii. Maybe you can persuade her to model what Ray cent.

DOES CHARLES KNOW ABOUT THIS? Somebody should tell the boy what he's in for with CF taking home ec instruction in how to prepare left-over cereals. De hear she burned her fingers though—maybe that will put a stop to it.

WHAT'S IN A NAME. Why do they call Jean Balsh G.D.?

THE CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE. Maybe you'd just better use candles—you can buy a lot of them for .$14.

ROOMS FOR RENT. No, it isn't a traveling salesman knocking on all the doors—just some poor kids trying to work their way through college, and get the best possible dorm room for next year. But keep smiling—they are having as hard a time investigating as you are being investigated. Yours isn't the first closet door they've opened "to see how big it is" to have everything tumble out on their heads!

PAPER SHORTAGE. And in view of that fact, wasn't it a bit unpatriotic to toss such a scarce item about on Memorial living room floor?

WE RECOMMEND. For good cooks, interview Schieber and Pribble. They finally admitted they had shared their waffle recipe with Aunt Jemima. After a run around the circle drive their guests were ready for another round of waffles. The record for the evening was seven waffles, plus the pie (that doesn't count).

ALL WET. Some friends would be interested to know why Kidder and Seel got in so late from the dinner for missionary children. But of course—they got caught in the rain!

OH! No wonder JS wasn't worried when Nan was seen walking the circle drive with another fellow. Can't a girl walk around with her brother when he visits her?

TAKE A BACK SEAT. To Melba and Winnie: "All you women sitting down in the front row with your Easter hats! How do you expect a man to concentrate on his sermon?"

ASSOCIATED PRESS. Jane's recent interest in the newspapers (especially the BALTIMORE SUN) just might have some connection with the interview an AP correspondent had with Ray, just after the crossing of the Rhine.

KNOW YOUR COLLEGE

By Lonnie Richardt

Racing—roaring—reckless years—those "twenties" of fame—and noteriety—when Maryville was at one of her all-time peaks: the huskies of Honaker's football squad trampling team after team toward league victory . . . cheerleaders performing their antics before crowds of yelling students . . moonshining, pastime, by-word . . frequent visits to the "house in the woods" with its charming owners . . . an athletic fund drive agitated by spiritful students who saw an alumni gym and athletic field at the end of their struggles . . . "Coolidge!" printed in huge type at the top of "Extras" . . . an overflow of students returned from the Great War, crowding class-rooms to their capacities—and then some. All this was the spirit of the age—a spirit that is gone, but, as surely as an end to this war shall come, shall return again.

Post-War Problem

After the last war, the simultaneous increase in students and the limit of thirty students to a class-room lifted a challenge to Maryville, whether she would grow as other schools were growing, or would fail to meet the crisis before her. More class-rooms were needed, more dormitory space, a large dining hall.

That crisis, that challenge, was met quietly and simply by an unprepossessing gracious white-haired lady, widow of the man who had given and given again to Maryville and colleges like it. Mary Copley Thaw was her name, and Thaw Hall, her answer.

Most of the $154,000 spent in the construction of the magnificent building which stands so proudly on College Hill was contributed by this Pittsburgh woman, whose husband had been responsible, along with several other wealthy men, for the rebuilding of Maryville after the Civil War.

Original Plans

Original plans were to house 800 boarders on the first floor of the building, with seventeen class-rooms on the second. Soon after, however, as the need for a dining hall to replace the meagre kitchens in the basements of Baldwin and Memorial and Carnegie, where the students kept "batch" with not too much emphasis on correct diet, became more obvious, it was planned that a dining hall to feed 1,000 students at a time, to prepare 3,000 meals a day, would be established on the first floor.

Dr. Edgar A. Elmore, chairman of the Directors of Maryville College, compared the "one-story, wooden building, unpainted, weather beaten, uninviting—furnished with pine table and benches for seats . . ." of 1868 with the dining hall to be in the new building, at the dedication ceremony on October 12, 1922.

The first floor of Thaw was never used for either of these purposes however, for early in 1923, the library was moved from the Lamar Memorial to its present ample and commodious quarters. (Ample and commodious, indeed . . . for its size moved one of the faculty members, whose nickname has been "Waltzing" ever since, to remark what a nice ball-room it would make!)

William and Mary Thaw

When Thaw Hall was named for its originated and dedicated, as William Thaw would have wanted it, it was dedicated to the "cause of Christian education and to the service of those successive generations who will attend this college in the future." In this ideal live the highest thoughts of the two who made Thaw Hall possible.

The volume "Who's Who in America" lists William Thaw as "capitalist philanthropist of Pittsburgh" whose fortune totaled between eight and twelve million dollars. Not only is his life connected with canal lines, railroads, steamship lines, banking, but it is associated with charities, churches, individuals whose careers he financed, and schools which he endowed. Over average in height, an unusual combination of mental and physical powers, of great force of character, he was known for his wide interests and philanthropic activities, although he avoided publicity and ostentation.

His wife, member of one of the outstanding families of Pennsylvania, born at Appleby Manor, carried on his donations and encouragements to others after his death in 1889.

Inside Thaw

The majestic, pillared brick building spreads itself on its 19,388 square feet, the largest, newest building on the campus, and it has a right to be proud. Besides its library of over 40,000 books, which has a yearly income of $6,000, and its classrooms, it contains offices for the Highland Echo, the Chilhowean, and the debate teams; there are also a museum, the faculty reading room, and the College Maid Shop. Its annex contains the Y. W. C. A. rooms and the practice house. An unfinished attic, now used for storage, will probably be used for classes at some later time.

Maryville's crisis of a quarter of a century ago was met by a woman of altruistic courage and determination, who presented Thaw Hall as a symbol of Christian generosity and ideals for the future.

"Let us dedicate it," said Dr. Elmore, on that day in October, 1922, "with the hope that it may help to make men and women of the same breadth of view and of the same spirit of philanthropy and abiding interest in Christian education as the donors possessed."

In Days To Come

Another crisis marches on, and these men and women to whom Thaw has meant these things, shall rise to the dawn of this new day.

To the men and women of breadth of view and philanthropy and interest in Christian education is allotted the task of making sure that Maryville shall play well its part in the lives of the citizens of all the tomorrows to be.

spring flowers to lend their homes a festive air. Going a-maying' was not alone reserved for those of the humbler classes; however Chaucer's "Court of Love" tells how early on May Day "forth goeth all the court, both most and least, to fetch the flowers fresh."

Perhaps beauty contests may find their historical background in the choosing of the May Queen. The fairest maid in all the village was honored by being crowned Queen of the May. The young ruler for a day did not join her subjects in their lighthearted revelries but remained proudly aloof—an object for admiration.

Coming to America the May Day observances lost all the ritual and symbolism characteristic of Old World celebrations. Girls in schools and colleges have made of May Day an occasion for a merry springtime fete. Often Robin Hood plays and field sports are a part of the May Day program. If there is any sort of celebration, there is always a May Queen. With a king and attendants to make up her court, the chosen one presides over the festivities—including the May Pole Dance.

Maryville College is one of the institutions holding to the tradition of observing May Day. The day would not be complete here on the Hill without the stately processional down the path in the amphitheatre of the college woods.

The May Pole

All the youth of the village then danced and sang around the green. The May Pole was not erected anew each year but was as much a part of the village as was the parish church. Often as tall as the mast of a ship and garlanded with flowers on May Day, the pole became the center of the folk dances which continued all day.

Pre-Med Elects Betty Dunk Head

Officers for the year 1945-46 were elected at the meeting of the Pre-Med Club on Wednesday, April 26. Betty Dunk was elected president, Martha Scanlon, secretary, and Ethel Brocker, treasurer. Lucy Sitler and Jean Tarwater tied for the vice-presidency. No program chairman was elected, but this will be done at the first of next year. The club also heard Miss Virginia Elrod, public health nurse at the Health Center in Maryville, speak on the topic "The Nursing Profession."

Point System Awards Presented April 26

Four Attain Top Honors

Sommers, Anderson Short, Cotton Lead

With the presentation of awards last Thursday, April 26th, the year for Point System officially closed. Awarded by Ruth King Wood, student assistant to Mrs. Evelyn N. Queener, assistant professor of physical education for women, the honors were distributed as follows.

A major letter and sweater and membership in the "M" Club were won by four girls whose earned points topped the 500 mark. Winnie Sommors earned 572 points, Evelyn Anderson, 560, Mae Short, 555, and Elsie Jean Cotton, 500.

Fifteen girls who earned over 400 points received a major letter and membership in the "M" Club. They are Marian Henderson, 488, Edith Delaney, 482, Lois Thomas, 479, Loretta Nunn, 468, Rosalind Gargas, 465, Merle Henderson, 448, Zenobia Bernardini, 440, Juanita Hinson, 439, Dorothy Justus, 438, Jean Balch, 427, Bety Lou King, 418, Caroyln Wallace, 413, Louise Corbett, 411, Hannah Duke, 411, and Ruth Williams, 406.

With more than 300 points, six girls earned monograms; they are Carol Fuller, 384, Lottie Lavendar, 370, Mildred Jones, 348, Virginia Wood, 348, and Gwendolyn Greenlee, 331.

Soccer, basketball, volleyball, stunts, aerial darts, softball, track, swimming, and tennis have been the activities in which the girls have been able to earn their points for the year. The two Point System groups were named Chillies and Howies at the beginning of the fall term, and have competed as teams during the year.

The first tourney, soccer, found the Howies victors, with Dorothy Justus captain, and Nancy Russell captain of the defeated Chillies last October.

Marian Henderson as captain of the Chillie basketball team, led her group to victory over the Howies in the basketball tournament which was started before Christmas and which ended in January. Winnie Sommers was Howie captain.

The Howie team came back in the volleyball tournament to capture the title from the Chillies with Louise Corbett heading them. Evelyn Anderson was captain of the Chillie team.

Individual stunts came next on the schedule, with the individual aerial dart contest following. Evelyn Anderson captured the first honor in the dart contest, with Dorothy Justus runner-up.

Again victorious, the Chillies, with Edith Delaney as their captain, made off with the soft-ball title last month. Betty Lou King was Howie captain.

Individual track contests ended with tests last Tuesday. The Point System work this year has ben in charge of Ruth King Wood, with

Dr. Joseph Vance Addresses Chapel On World Order

Dr. Joseph A. Vance, acting pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bristol, Virginia, and pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of Detroit, Mich., delivered the weekly Chapel address on Wednesday April 25. His subject was the World Conference which was convening in San Francisco. He set forth the principles and aims of the conference and tried to show us our duty as college students and as citizens with the task of making a better world.

This program was in accordance with the request of the Presbyterian church that all local churches take notice of the conference and that the members of the churches try to acquaint themselvese with the purpose of the meetings in San Francisco.

B. G. CLUB HOLDS PICNIC IN WOODS

The monthly social of the B. G. Club was held in the college woods Thursday, April 26. Miss Susan Ware, sponsor of the club, gave the club members a picnic.

New members of the B. G. Club will be taken in in the near future. Out-going members are Hannah Duke, Peggy Caldwell, and Kay Bonner.

Betty Dunn Weds William H. Martin

Church Ceremony Held In Detroit

Miss Betty Dunn, who completed her sophomore year her at the end of last semester, became the bride of Mr. William Henry Martin, of Pittsburgh, at the Scovel Presbyterian church, Detroit, Michigan, on April 21. The Reverend Mr. George D. Jeffry officiated.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dunn of Detroit, Miss Dunn had as her attendants, her sisters, Mrs. Lucille McDowell, matron of honor, and Miss Ada Dunn, maid of honor. Thomas James McDowell, young nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The bride, gowned in ivory satin, wore a finger-tip veil which was fastened by a Juliet cap trimmed with orange blossoms.

Mrs. Louise Mattern, (Louise Warwick, who also was a member of the sophomore class last semester), soloist, sang "Where're You Walk," "All For You", and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with standards of white gladioli and St. Candelabra, and palms.

After a reception at the church following the ceremony, the couple spent a week in Maryland. Their home is now at Mt. Lebanon, Pennsylvania, where Mr. Martin is employed by the government.

The groom, a graduate of Kalamazoo College, attended the University of Chicago and Michigan State College.

Experimental Theater Gives One-Act Plays

Experimental Theater presented "Family," a one-act play depicting racial prejudice, by Bessie F. White, Saturday evening, April 21. Betty Lou McCoy, Thelma Richardson, and Martha Grace Brindley portrayed the leading characters, and were supported by a cast composed of Marietta Ball, Marion Swift, Ann Thornton, Jay Bishop, and Kenneth Kribbs. Mrs. Frank Badgett, teacher of English and Speech at the Maryville high school, and director of Experimental Theater, was in charge. Kenneth Kribbs did the stage setting.

As an experiment, the advanced students of dramatic art presented a skit after the style of the Commedia dell' Arte of the Italian stage of the nineteenth century. A simple plot, "A Soldier comes home on furlough and goes to see his girl," was given the group five minutes before they appeared on the stage. In this brief time, the action, characters, costumes, and dialogue were planned. All elaborations were made as the various members of the cast performed before the audience.

During the brief intermission, Francis Hanshka played piano selections.

YW Cabinet And Officers Installed

Candlelight Service Held Sunday Night

At the candlelight service held last night in the YWCA rooms after vesper service, the YWCA cabinet and officers were installed. Members of the retiring cabinet, bearing lighted candles, and members of the 1945-46 cabinet, holding unlighted candles, were seated in the balcony overlooking the rooms.

To begin the service, the eleven Nu Gamma leaders conducted a brief worship service. Patricia Ames sang.

After the worship program the cabinet members marched down and formed two groups, the old at one side, the new at the other. Agnes Peterson, retiring president, gave the challenge to the new group from the old cabinet, with all the members of next year's group answering the challenge. When the challenge had been given and accepted, the significant ceremony of lighting the candles of the new members from those of the old was performed.

Cabinet Announced

New officers, elected April 10, include Rebecca Davis, president, Mary Evelyn Jamison, vice-president, Thelma Richardson, secretary, Judy Turk, treasurer, and Jean Messer, Nu Gamma chairman.

Retiring officers are Agnes Peterson, president, Dorothy Lehman, vice-president, Hope Pleyl, secretary, Jeanne Bellerjeau, treasurer, and Thelma Richardson, Nu Gamma chairman.

Robert B. Payne Army Psychologist Receive Promotion

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30 — Promotion to First Lieutenant is announced by the War Department for Lt. Robert B. Payne, the son of George M. Payne, 426 East South St. Winchester, Indiana. The officer is now on duty with the psychological section, Fourth Air Force Headquarters.

Prior to entering the Army October 2, 1941, he was instructor in psychology at Indiana University, Indianapolis Division. Lt. Payne received his AB in general psychology, Maryville, Tenn., in 1936; AM in psychology at the Indiana University and Ph.D. from the same university in 1941.

He is married and resides at 218 Garces Drive, Parkmerced, San Francisco, Calif.

Lieut. Payne was active as a member of the Chilhowean staff, serving as the business manager during his junior year. He was editor of the '36 Highland Echo, president of Athenian Society, and manager of the tennis team. He topped his work here by doing honors work in psychology.

Cross And Kidder Capture Double Tennis Title

Lions Take Two Softball Games

By TOMMY PARKINSON

In the final match of this year's doubles tennis tournament, Luke Cross and Harold Kidder sent the team of Toms Wheeler and Parkinson down in defeat in three sets to become the champions. On the afternoon of Saturday, April 21, Cross and Kidder made a good start in the championship match by winning two sets, 6-2 and 6-4, and the third set went to a 5-5 score before darkness caused a halt in play off of the match which consisted of the best three out of five sets. Then on Tuesday afternoon, April 24, the third set was started over and Cross and Kidder took it by another 6-4 score.

The winning team met and disposed of Grubbs and Wilson in the semi-final round. Scores for that match were 6-3, and 6-2. They had beaten Seymour and Myers 6-1, 6-0 in the opening round of play.

Wheeler and Parkinson defeated Heuser and Bishop in their semi-final match 6-4, 6-3 to gain their place in the final match. Their opponents in the opening round were House and E. Martin, whom they outscored in two sets of 6-3.

Softball

The intramural softball series between the Lions and the Panthers has begun and at present the score stands with the Lions in front, having won two of the three games played. The series is to consist of the best four out of seven games, ending when one team takes its fourth game—set up just as the World Series. The outcome of the series is still a toss-up between the two teams; however, the Lions have shown the most improvement since the start of the season. It has been mentioned by some that the quality of play is still somewhat inferior to that of the aforementioned World Series.

The Panthers, captained by Bill Cover, emerged victors in the first game of the season played on Thursday, April 19. Max House pitched for the winners and held the Lions to 2 runs while he and his mates were picking up 6.

Jay Bishop, who serves both as captain and pitcher for the Lions, guided his team to a win in the second game Tuesday, April 24. Several errors were included in this contest which ended with a score of 11 to 6 in favor of the Lions. Feature of this wame was a home run by Heuser with bases loaded in the second inning.

The Panthers blew up completely in the game played Thursday afternoon, April 26. With the aid of a great many errors the Lions were able to accumulate 14 runs, the Panthers getting only 3. Bishop again did the pitching for the winners and Garland and E. Martin did the tossing for the Panthers.

Games are scheduled for each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:30 until the series is over. This is to be the last intramural activity of the year.

May Day

der, Katherine Smith, Susan Cochran, Martha Edgerton, LaVonne Heard, Jackie Odell, Mary Bachelor, Ella Mae Thompson, Jean Almy, Marietta Ball. The first group of choral readings will be modernistic spring poems: "Spring Blew Open the Door" by Griffitts and "Spring in the South" by Van Dyke. The readers will be in modern-day costumes. The second group will be traditional airs and poems: "Johnny's So Long at the Fair", "It Was a Lover and His Lass" and "Spring." For these readings the choral group will be dressed in vivid peasant costumes.

Orchestra Plays

The Maryville College band will be transformed into a small country-town band, and its twenty-five members will be dressed in the mode of the early twentieth century. Their portion of the May Day program will center around the song from Oklahoma, "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top." There will be the town prima donna, the local Frank Sinatra, and a typical barber-shop quartet.

During the entire program there will be a huge red heart to the left of the royal court. This will be formed by sixty-five girls from one of Mrs. Queener's physical education classes. The girls forming the red part of the heart will wear red dresses with red paper in their heads. An edging of white will be formed by white doilies on the heads of the girls forming the rim of the heart. A shining shaft of gold will pierce the heart.

The May Day program will conclude with the traditional recessional of the Queen and her court.

Flower Committee

The social committee of the YWCA composed of Joy Stewart, Mary Ruth Barber, Evelyn Jamison and Ethel Beall are in charge of the work committees of the May Day Festival. The flower committee is headed by Lynn Matthews and made up of Miss Margaret Ware, Florence Gwyn, Louise Henry, Gladys David, Mirian Bowditch, Anna Sakaizawa, Thelma Durbin, Jean Almy, Joanne Hart, Ruth Lloyd and Bett Ann Showaiter. The flowers, blending with the dresses of the Queen and her attendants and arranged in colonial bouquets, will be donated by Maryvillians.

The property committee is composed of Loretta Nunn and Elizabeth Crawford; the costumes are handled by Peggy Milliken and Marian Montieth.

Dr. Hunter To Be Vespers Speaker

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter will speak at the May 6 vesper service held in Voorhees Chapel at 7:00 p. m. His topic will be "Noah's Ark and Others." Dr. Hunter is the professor of English, chairman of the division of Languages and Literature, and Dean of curriculum. He has been at Maryville College since 1918.

Lt. James Miller Completes Sixty Bombing Missions

A Ninth Air Force Bomber Base, France—"I'm certainly getting a nice birthday present," said First Lieutenant James H. Miller, 26, of Surgoinsville, Tenn., as he prepared to leave his base in France for the United States after flying more than 60 operational combat missions against German targets. An A-26 Invader medium bomber pilot, Lieutenant Miller, who wears the Air Medal with twelve Oak Leaf Clusters, departed with others on April 3, his birthday.

Lieutenant Miller is a member of the "Famous 416th" Bomb Group which was the first to fly the Invader, the Army's fastest and most versatile bomber, in the European Theatre of Operations. He has participated in bombing and strafing attacks against enemy railroad yards, rail and road bridges, communications, gun emplacements, motor transport, road junctions, ammunition and supply depots, train, tanks, troops, and other vital objectives. As a result of these missions, the "Famous 416th" has helped to cut off German supply routes to their troops and to disrupt their communications. These and other accomplishments have aided greatly in accelerating the advance of Allied ground troops, enabling them to capture town after town in rapid succession.

A graduate of Surgoinsville high school, Lieutenant Miller attended Maryville College two years and was employed in the laboratory of the Tennessee Eastman Corporation before entering the armed forces February 18, 1941. He was commissioned a second lieutenant with a pilot's rating in July, 1943, and has been overseas since March 30, 1944.

Lieutenant Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam P. Miller, Sr., of Surgoinsville. His wife, Mrs. Charlotte D. Miller, lives at 501 Granada Court, Kingsport.

DR. ORR CHALLANGES YOUTH

as we think of our relation to this war, we may not appear that way to other peoples." But others looking at their starvation, disaster and disease, may fail to see these virtues ecause we still appear to have in comparison to themsilves —abundance of everything.

Active Cooperation

Our second obligation to world peace is the "active cooperation to that end on our part." This co-operation means, as Dr. Orr states, "some real sacrificing for others." Our sacrificing means giving up some of the things we need—or we think we need—so that others may have food and work. "We must face the fact that markets cannot be kept open across the world," Dr. Orr states "beyond the extent to which others too, in their countries, are able to find work—to produce and sell goods. The economy of scarcity has given place to an economy of abundance for which the nations were unprepared."

Cooperation wil also require our willingness to help rebuild and police the world for a time. "This we shall dislike to do," Dr. Orr points out. "There is no other way. The fact that Europe and Asia are destroyed, their cities in ashes, their transportation a twisted ruin, their field battle grounds sown with mines, must mean to us in part the same thing as if our cities too were destroyed." When the war is over we will want our sons back, but this, Dr. Orr say, cannot be so. "Lawlessness does not yield to law without the stern and forceful hand of some kind of established authority, and chaos does not yield to order without a guide. And make no mistake about this," Dr. Orr continues, "the alternative to restoration of law and order in the world is War War III."

Preserving Democracy

"The first obvious thing to say about preserving democracy," Dr. Orr points out, "is that we want to preserve it. We feel that preserving democracy is our special national task. No other achievement in our history seems so important to us as the achievement of a workable democracy. . .We also know that the future of democracy is in our hands. No people is strong enough to impose their will on us. If democracy continues as a form of political state we shall have preserved it; if it fails that failure will be because we did not will to keep it."

"How shall we preserve democracy?" is the next question discussed by Dr. Orr. In the first place he points out that we cannot do it by resisting all change of every kind. In addition he points out that "when we must choose between a large measure of freedom of activity for the individual and the largest possible economic justice, we must chose freedom of activity and endure the economic maladjustments that may result. We may—and we must sacrifice certain areas of freedom in order for security but we may not—and we must not—sacrifice freedom itself for security."

"We must recognize that mere majority rule is not the democracy we seek." We must have faith in the people and believe that as individuals and groups we can tolerate any situation that seems to the majority so desirable that they are unwilling to see it changed. "But that does not mean—it must never mean—that we relax our efforts to bring desirable changes about." Dr. Orr pointed out, "simply on account of the fact that the majority is not in favor of them."

More Control

The fourth point which Dr. Orr brings out in preserving our democracy is that "we must tolerate a large control over industry by the government, but we must control the government by and enlightened and determined citizenship."

In conclusion Dr. Orr states, "We must not fall into mere defeatism and pessimism. We must retain our faith in the people, and in the ability of the right to prevail. We must be able to look about us and see that, measurably, it is prevailing."

The remainder of the evening program was put on by the language clubs. Florence Housch, president of the German Club, lead the group in singing several German song. Representing the Spanish club Nellie Cuellas and Eva Toro sang several Spanish songs. Miss Cuellas did a Spanish dance while Miss Toro accompanied her at the piano. Marcia Kiern of the French club sang a French song. The program was closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Alpha Gamma Sigma Elects Gates, Lehman, McClure, Meyer, Peterson, Shaw

New Members Gain Recognition At Chapel Service

Recognition was paid the six new members of Alpha Gamma Sigma honor scholarship society of Maryville college, at the regular chapel service Wednesday morning, May 2. Those newly elected are Edward Gates, Dorothy Lehman, Margaret Messer McClure, Betty Jane Meyer, Agnes Peterson, and Martha Jean Shaw. President Ralph W. Lloyd delivered the message, Dr. Edwin Hunter, secretary of the society, lead the service.

Liberal Arts Education

"What Does Liberal Arts Education Mean?" was the topic that Dr. Lloyd developed. He stated that American education is concerned with three facts: its basis on Christianity; its stressing of democracy, which in turn depends on Christianity; and the liberal education necessary for a democracy. Realms of personal development that are achieved by a liberal arts education are an acquaintance with great fields of knowledge, intellectual discipline, vocational preparation, and appreciation of people, nature, literature and music. "There really isn't the conflict between liberal arts education and specialized training that people often think," he declared.

Roommate And Color Wheel Reel At Reactions

By JOAN LIDDELL

"Red . . ." Pause. "Bull," I say exaltingly. A frown. "Blue . . ." Another pause. "Sky?" I ask hopefully. "Fine." I am relieved. "Green . . ." And another pause. "Envy," I beam. Another frown. Thus my roomate tests my reactions to colors. For some reason we never did finish those tests. I have a sneaking suspicion that I discouraged her, but I don't know just why.

Take for example, red. I suppose some people associate it with riding hoods. Perhaps to some it suggests danger, or blood, or fire. But my earliest connection with the color red comes with bulls. Not real ones, mind you, for I've never been on a farm. But don't let that for you. I'm well acquainted with Ferdinand, the flower fiend, and the Elsie's husband, to whom I was introduced by a Mr. Borden. Oh yes, I'm well acquainted with bulls. I've heard the people have regular fights with bulls in Spain and Mexico, but then, you know how emotional and unstable those Iberrians are. They do have courage, though. Personally, and to get back to my subject, I don't think I should like to bother to fight a bull, or even get close to one, for that matter. In the first place they, allegedly, become disconsolate at the sight of red. This fact would probably introduce a rift. I like red very much. But bulls dislike the color so wholeheartedly that they immediately, and violently attack the hated object and all of its component parts. That object, incidentally, would, in all probability, be me. As a very direct result, I don't go near bulls, and I am even careful of what I wear when I'm reading magazines. It must not be red you know. What if I should come upon Clarence?

Green isn't nearly as frightful. Various tested reactions to the word might include grass, trees, blotters, or moss. They are all very acceptable. Can I help it if I grew up in a period in which people constantly said, "Green with envy" about their best friends and relatives to the other members of their family, who were saying the same thing in return? Now I ask you, can I help it? No, of course not. My sister often came home green with envy because someone's

Theta, Alpha Sig To Present Plays At Commencement

Three One-Act Productions Will Be Given May 18

May 18 is the date set for the presentation of the three one-act plays, under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West. The plays are the annual production of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma. "Overtones" by Alice Gerstenberg, "A Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton" by Thornton Wilder, and "The Hour Glass", a morality play by W. B. Yeats, are the three plays to be presented.

William Cover and Robert Seel will be the stage managers for the three plays. Their crew will include Betty Lou King, Jane Hays, Dorothy Justus, Audre Monteith, and Virginia Thomas. Ann Kerr is the business manager. She will be assisted by Winifred Somers. The publicity is in the hands of Juanita Hinson, who is assisted by Margaret Caldwell. Lois Yohe Marion Scheeweiss, and Rose Wells are in charge of the costumes. Carolyn Wallace, Hannah Duke, and Melba Holder are in charge of the properties.

The cast for "Overtones" includes Ruth Lloyd, Marie DePue, Charlotte Proffitt, and Jane Shouse. Leonard Schieber, Rebecca Davis, Wilborn Seymore, Lottie Lavender, Edgar Potts, and Kitty Johnson make up the cast for "A Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton." Included in the cast of "The Hour Glass" are Susan Cochran, Katherine Smith, Elsie Jean Cotton, Nancy Poteat, Florence Housch, Edith Earle, Mary Batchelor, Alice Hoenig, Marjorie Simpson and Ann Thornton.

Army Chaplain Speaks at YM

Chaplain L. M. Marker of the United States Army Air Corps spoke at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday, May 6 in Bartlett Hall. His subject was "Army Chaplains".

Marcia Kiern sang a special number. The rest of the special music was in charge of Robert DuBois.

Plans for the next meeting have not yet been announced.

YEAR-BOOK DELAYED

Due to delays in printing and engraving, it is unlikely that the Chilhowean will come out before the close of school. Therefore it is imperative that all those who have arranged for copies of the yearbook leave their exact address for the mailing list.

Classes Meet To Nominate Next Year's Officers

The freshman, sophomore, and junior classes held class meetings Friday morning, May 4, after the regular chapel service for the purpose of nominating class offices for the school year of 1945-1046. The primary election was held following the nominations and the final election will be held Friday, May 11th.

The fresman nominations are as follows: Student Council—Fred Wilson, Merrill Grubbs, Thomas Horst, Bill Vogel, Helen Sorenson, Elsie Jean Cotton, Anna Sakiazawa and Betty Saint. Max House and Robert DuBois have been nominated for the presidency. Joan Liddell and Janet Rich are the nominees for vice-president. Nominees for secretary are Marion Lewis and Evelyn Crawford. Mildren Orr and Elaine Kern have been nominated for treasurer.

The sophomore nominations for the Student Council include Ann Anderson, Polly Lickteig, Betty Ann Showalter, Martha Scanlon, Jessie Lou Brunson, Ruth Broadhead, Tommy Parkinson, John Shell and William Cover. Leonard Sheiber and Judy Turk have been nominated for president. Nominees for vice-president are Jean Messer, and Virginia Miller. Eleanor Kelley and Mary Margaret Robarts are the nominees for secretary. Virginia Thomas and Mary Ruth Barber have been nominated for treasurer.

The sophomore class has nominated Marinell Ross, Katherine Sisk, Ruth Freeman and Olinda Aherns for Student Council representatives. Jack Ross and Edgar Potts have been elected to the Student Council by acclamation. Eleanor Stout and Louise Corbett have been nominated for president of the Class of '46. Vice-president nominees are Margaret Cross and Zenobia Bernardini. Betty Wells and Dorothy Justus are the nominees for secretary. The nominations for treasurer are Nell Louise Minear and Audria Stinger.

Notice To Seniors

All seniors who have not finished filling out their recommendation forms are urgently asked by Mrs. Marie Cundiff, of the Public Relations Office, to do so as soon as possible.

Dr. C. C. Sherrod Will Speak At Commencement Exercise

Registration From May 7 to May 18

Spring Registration will be held from Tuesday, May 7, through Friday, May 18. Registration of all students now enrolled will be completed during this period. Students who do not return their schedule cards, properly signed by the major adviser, to the Personnel Office on or before Friday, May 18, will be required to pay the late registration fee of $2.50.

The following instructions have been issued by the Personnel Office:

1. Make out a tentative schedule, listing subjects in this order: (1) general requirements, (2) major or related subjects, (3) elective subjects. Include also lessons in Fine Arts, Choir, Orchestra, Parish Project, Debate, etc.

2. Please see that you have the pre-requisites for all subjects scheduled, as indicated in the catalog. Sophomores should note that they may not take "300" subjects, except courses in foreign language for which they are prepared.

3. If you should wish to carry six subjects next fall, and think you will have the required C average this semester, you should place the extra subject last on the schedule card, disregarding the order requested above. If you do not have the required standing, the extra subject will be crossed off your schedule. General requirements, however, must be met first.

4. No extra subjects will be permitted, other than as indicated in the previous paragraph, except to seniors, and then only by permission of the Faculty Committee on Entrance and Advanced Standing, upon written request made in advance through the Personnel Office.

5. Take you schedule card and

Kidder Heads Athenian Society

Harold Kidder, sophomore major from Maryland, was elected president of Athenian at a meeting held Saturday evening in the lobby of Carnegie. New vice-president is Fred Wilson, a freshman from Pennsylvania. Merrill Grubbs, freshman, also from Pennsylvania was chosen as treasurer. Secretary is Thomas Horst, freshman from New Jersey.

Library Has New Reserve System

"Reserve books whose cards have a blue star on them may now be taken from the library for a period of three days," announced Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian. "The reserve book card must be signed, and the card and book pocket stamped before leaving the library. These books may be withdrawn any time during the day. They are due at 9:30 a. m. on the third day from that on which they were taken, excluding Sunday."

The fine for failure to return a three day book at this hour is the regular fine for reserve books: twenty-five cents for each twelve hours, or fraction of that time. Books whose cards have no stars on them circulate as usual for overnight.

This system started about two weeks ago at the proposal and vote of the faculty. Mr. Gilbert E. Gouan, librarian of the University of Chattanooga, suggested this idea in his talk to the faculty club on March 5th, on the theory that certain books lose some of their value if not read through as a unit. This applies particularly to the language books.

Debate Society will Initiate Neophytes, Elect Officers

Pi Kappa Delta meets tonight at 8:00 in the Y rooms to formally initiate the neophytes and to elect officers for the coming year.

Each of the neophytes will be required to make an extemporaneous five-minute speech on the given subject. Senior members are also to make five minute speeches. Robert Huber will talk on "The Use of Speech in the Past;" Bette Lou McCoy's topic is "The Use of Speech in the Present;" and Dorothy Lehman will discuss "The Use of Speech in the Future."

Alumni Magazine

The spring addition of the Maryville College Alumni Magazine are expected to return from the printers soon. The magazines were scheduled to be distributed in April, but unavoidable hold-ups at the printing company has detained their completion indefinitely.

College President Was M. C. Student

Dr. Charles Chester Sherrod, president of the East Tennessee State Teachers College, Johnson City, Tennessee, has accepted the invitation to be the speaker at the annual commencement exercise on May 21.

Dr. Sherrod, who now holds an A. B. and an LL.B. from Varparaiso University, an M. A. and Ph. D. from George Peabody College for Teachers, attended Maryville College as a student in 1901-02. He has long been active in the field of education, acting as a high school instructor, principal and superintendent of schools in various parts of Tennessee, college professor, and now college president.

Several times he has been a member of different committees on education. At present he is a member of the board of trustees of Hiawassee College and of Pi Delta Kappa.

Church work has also attracted Dr. Sherrod, who is a member of the Methodist Church South. He was a delegate to the General Conference in 1930, in 1934, and again in 1938. As a delegate he also attended the Uniting Conference in Kansas City in 1939, and the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Atlantic City in 1940. He has been a member of the Board of Christian Education, Holston Conference, since 1931.

As many other educators before him, Dr. Sherrod is also an author. He had published in 1921 "Administrational Practices in Tennessee High Schools", and in 1925, "Administration of State Teachers Colleges". He has written numerous educational articles since that time.

8 New Members Are Elected To Writers' Workshop

Eight new members elected to Writers' Workshop at the meeting Monday afternoon, April 30 are Zenobia Bernardini, Jane Craig, Nell Cuellas, Juanita Hinson, Thomas Parkinson, Betty Ann Showalter, Jean Tarwater, and Betty Wells. These additions bring the membership of the group up to its quota of twenty-five.

Writers' Workshop, which was organized for the purpose of promoting creative writing among the students and faculty of the college and of providing a medium for criticism of their writings, meets once a week. Each member is required to present one production each semester. Articles may be stories, plays, poems, essays, translations, or critical articles.

Members are chosen from the junior and senior classes. If any student expresses a desire to belong to the group, his name is considered when elections are held.

Old members of Workshop include Olinde Aherns, Jeanne Bellerjeau, Louise Corbett, Ruth Freeman, Edward Gates, June Gowanlock, Louise Henry, Jessie Herron, Jack Houdeshel, Dr. E. R. Hunter, Elizabeth Jackson, Katherine Johnson, Dorothy Lehman, Betty Jane Meyer, Bette Lou McCoy, Elmiro Pino, William Robarts, Thelma Richardson, Jane Short, Carol Titus, and Mildred Waring.

College Orchestra Presents Concert

The Maryville College Symphony Orchestra held a concert Saturday evening, May 5, in Voorhees Chapel as part of the Music Week activities. The orchestra was under the direction of Richard W. Vine, associate professor of music. Fay Cameron was concert-master and the soloist at the piano was Jean Keen.

Students Prefer Various States For Summer Months

By Lorraine Swift

It won't be long now! Just a few more days and various states in the Union will have an addition of residents for the summer months. Maryville students will be going in all directions. Some will go to the state of Washington and others to southern Florida. None prefers any state but their own, and all students can give good arguments for their home states. After hearing them all it is impossible to say anything but "Three cheers for the forty-eight states."

Mildred Jones didn't hesitate to give a good reason in favor of Alabama. She threw up her hands and exclaimed. "Oh law—cotton!"

Betty Ann Ward and Sandy Blanton, who hail from Florida, said that they were looking forward to the weather.

Jim Witherspoon insists that Illinois has something that no other state can boast—his home. Of course, it has Chicago, too.

One person actually said that she liked Tennessee so much that she is going to stay here. Could it be that her home is in Tenessee? How about it, Ella Mae?

Fay Gaddy says that in Iowa the corn grows taller than the oats. Wonder what she means by that?

Josie Hale said, "I like Kentucky because of its fast horses and beautiful women, and don't get that mixed up."

Wisconsin has a natural beauty, Ann Kalous says.

Bill Cover emphatically stated, "Ohio? Just the best state—that's all. It has everything!"

Yea, Oklahoma! Loretta Nunn wants to see the wide open spaces where you can see where you are going.

Ann Anderson says that New Jersey is so beautiful that she thinks it is even worth the sacrifice of a few pints of blood to the mosquitoes.

Mary Smith is certain of one thing. Without any special reason she likes Pennsylvania.

Jenny Payne gave a short answer about North Carolina. "De mountains."

Kitty Stidham says that at least Mississippi has sunshine.

Two Georgia girls love their state for different reasons. Pinky McCaleb said, "Men in Macon—especially one!" Claire Bailey just wants to see Lefty pitch another baseball game.

Everyone is counting the days until he leaves. Home cooking will be delicious and that inner-spring mattress will be out-of-this-world. Next August? Oh—everyone will be more than ready to see the Maryville campus again.

POST WAR RESPONSIBILITIES

With the end of the war comes the beginning, not the end, of our civilian problems. In the fighting we at home have had very little to say or do; we have beeen the "lucky" ones of our generation. Never having to face the deprivations of the teenaged in France or the terror of the young students in China, we have lived in comparative peace and plenty.

Now the war of horror is closing. But there is yet another war to fight, and we shall be the contestants. A war of skillful remolding of warped minds and bodies; of bringing something good from th destruction of the world, of meeting with unprejudiced clarity the conflicts and crises of the world order.

Education is our chief weapon. Not only of the "poor, mislead fools" of Europe, not only the rising generation at home, but of ourselves.

No one will ever arrive at a solution of "What world order?" purely by insight. The trial and error process has been continuing since the beginning of time and will continue. Only by thinking, reading, studying, is the ideal approached. This every student at Maryville can do. We have a good library. Brilliant, up-to-the-minute speakers are brought. Forums and discussions are held by various groups. Conferences sponsored by our church are made available to Maryville students.

But there has been little response to the encouragement to attend these discussions. One wonders that the students lack interest in a subject so pertinent. Or is it a sense of responsibility that is lacking. We shall be responsible to an enormous extent for the condition of the world for the next twenty-five years,, and if the college student shirks this responsibility, who will catch it up and with what result? We constitute the trained portion of the world, and should contribute to the leaders and thinkers. And this must be accomplished consciously with grit and determination.

LIBRARY..... LIBEL

By Olinde Ahrens

SHADES AND SHADOWS OF Y RETREAT: Dr. Hunter, after viewing the "animals" downstairs thinking maybe Darwin was correct, and later in the evening deciding he had absolutely understated the case . . . Kribbs, the missing link . . .Pete explaining that while some people came to college to pursue learning, Becky had succeeded mainly in learning pursuing—her success being due to her "wo-maneuvers."

SAY IT WITH CARDS. If you get a birthday card from your matron, of course the thing to do is to thank her for it. But if she doesn't know anything about it—well, Lois thinks maybe some of her other friends do!

AFTER THE MAY DAY PROGRAM: Carolyn: "Will you carry my blanket back to the dorm, please? Bob and I are going room hunting." A blank look, and she hastily added "—for his mother."

YOUR DATE IS WAITING! When John walked into Pearsons and asked for the girl in No. 57, it sounded like No. 47 to Sunny—and so Jane flew into her glad rags in a jiffy to meet her unexpected boy friend. The shock of walking into the parlor to see a perfect stranger in uniform didn't phase Jane—"Were you waiting for someone?" she asked helpfully. "Yes, the girl in No. 57. Someone has already called her." (Bet he thinks it took Nell a while to get ready!)

KISSPROOF PREFERRED. For instance, there's the letter from New York with the perfect cupid bow kissed on the seal which Schieber tried so hard to ignore at the dining table. (The fact that Kribbs picked up his mail that day could have no bearing on this story, surely!)

Or, if you prefer lipstick on the shirt to lipstick on the letter, take a glance at Seel's left shoulder. Jean has "nothing to say" about the fact that it isn't her shade, but Bob insists that if this story is printed something be said about the limited laundry facilities now available!

Neophytes: They're the gals with the orange and garnet hair bows, the swish, (paper slips account for that—and they're not named "slips" for nothing . . . some of 'em did!), the books in pillow cases. They're also the darners of socks and washers of windows for M Clubbers, and the obeyers of the new Ten Commandments, except for number seven, "Thou shalt not date," which is illegal anyhow—the Constitution of these United States prohibiting cruel and unusual punishments!

BUGGY WITH THE FRINGE ON TOP. And what made Marion blush when McGarity insisted in the library the other night that he never said anything to anyone anywhere that he didn't mean?

ARE THERE ANY MORE AT HOME LIKE YOU? Footsie hopes so, and on the off chance that there are, is writing to Ronny, Matilda's B. F.'s brother. Her inner circle girl friends think he writes the sweetest letters—"even if he is English!"

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS OF 1945: That was the year of heaven's gift to freshmen—remember—Kay and Marcia!

HE'S REAL CUTE! So the girls all say. If you fellows want to know his secret, ask Mecky, Nancy's turtle, who just arrived from California.

USED FURNITURE. If Mary Jane is really in the market for a new dresser . . . but why not just apply a fresh coat of paint?

A LETTER A DAY. No wonder Peggy C's friends think she must be hoarding all the mail from Texas!

GO WEST, YOUNG MAN! "What are you going to do this summer?" Tommy: "I'm planning to take a trip to the west—northwest, really."

"Oh, Oregon or Washington?"

Tommy: "No—Chicago."

(Maybe somebody should tell him Jo won't be home just right away. We hear she's going home via Memphis!)

MEMORIES. That dreamy look in Lililan's eyes isn't for you at all. It just might be that she's remembering the fun she and T. A. had a few days ago when he visited campus.

SURRENDER: Marty Edgerton wasn't at all surprised to hear that the war is over in Italy. "Why not—And is in Italy now!"

And Ginger's letter from Carroll says that the Germany he visited several years ago is now reduced to a shambles.

THE VOICE IS FAMILIAR. Roomate: "Peggy, whoever have you been talking to long distance in Florida all this time?"

Millikan: "I can't be sure, but I sorta think I recognized Earl's voice."

YE OLDE APPELLE POLISHE. They learn young nowadays, and Melba is a good teacher. When those high school boys asked Librarian Melba for a series of magazines listed in "Readers Guide," she explained that they'd have to make out yellow slips for each magazine. "We sorta thought maybe you'd do that for us," grinned one of the fellows, pulling a candy bar out of his pocket. (She says it was good candy, too!)

FROM A MULTI-MILLIONNAIRE TO AN EARLE'S DAUGHTER: When Edie got that shell purse from a Lt. Colonel in the Marines, she didn't know what to think, but the letter explained. The purse was from Major Winthrop Rockefeller, in the same company as Edie's Captain brother. Looks like Edie's brother may have told him of her childhood ambition to grow up and marry into the Rockefeller family!

LAST MINUTE QUESTIONS: Why has Pribble forsaken Carnegie in favor of U. T. so many times lately? . . . Why did Huber stop raising the proposed beard? . . . Is J. T. really going to Wooster? . . .shall Lottie and Kay set up that proposed dress shop on Madison or Fifth Avenue?

Scotch Broth

By Helen Marie Wilson

Let's be honest with ourselves now—how many who attended chapel a fortnight ago really listened to the speaker who challenged youth to give their time and attention to problems confronting our peace-planners? Did we listen or did we let our minds "wool-gather" and day-dream?

Everyone is ready with an answer when faced with a stern, inquiring voice demanding reason for our negligence and indifference. "We can't do anything now. Most of us aren't old enough to vote. We aren't enough schooled to be politicians and hold office. What use is there in getting all aroused?"

We are always being told that we are the "youth of tomorrow" and must be the ones who will build a better world and keep the peace. Have we heard those phrases so often that they fall on deadened, insensitive ears? Perhaps the sentences seem hackneyed and trite. However, they are, nevertheless, undeniably true and cannot with clear conscience be ignored. We are the ones whose ideas and efforts will shape the destinies of tomorrow's world. We are the potential leaders of our nation and by our attention now will prove ourselves in days to come.

What can we do? In the first place, we can devote more of our time and thought to matters of national and international importance. How can we expect to give qualified leadership if we are ignorant of the problems of government and their solutions? A careful reading of periodicals pertaining to current affairs will give us insight which will surely be an asset when we begin to take our part in world affairs. Newspapers and radio broadcasts provide their share of citizen-education, too.

Now, you say, that is just taking in. How can we get any practice giving out—doing something to test our capacities? The answer to that is fundamentally simple. An active, alert, and cooperative interest in campus affairs provides excellent proving ground. Voting in class elections may seem amateurish compared to the selection of a president for a democracy. But if in the choice of a class officer, his qualifications for leadership take precedence over popularity and promises to be fulfilled, then it is reasonable to expect a wise and thoughtful voter-citizen.

Interest in inter-collegiate organizations and relations, with a genuine desire to cement friendships across campus boundaries will provide lessons in cooperative association with other nations. We have learned how impossible it is to think that we can live in isolation. Therefore, it behooves us to further our understanding of peoples in other countries: their governments, customs, and needs. In this same vein, we must seek to erase any feeling of superiority or patrionizing attitude towards those not living under the stars and stripes. Attempts at cooperative activity are handicapped wrom the start when such an idea prevails.

Just as soon as we, the "youth of tomorrow", see the need of an understanding of problems facing our world and resolve to do something about them, that soon will our effectiveness as world leaders be strengthened.

Sweepers Hope For Rain In Mornings To Insure Sleep And Higher Wages

By Tommy Parkingson

Maryville College's student help program is no doubt a great thing. However it does have some bad points just as do all great plans(does that sound like a Republican prefacing a few remarks?) For example of the bad points, perhaps you, as we, have heard the waitresses complaining of the early hours that are necessitated by their breakfast duties. And we do sympathize with the hard working gals who have to rise early enough to be at Pearson Hall (and the fact that it has to be downstairs bothers some few waitresses) at 6:45 a. m. That is terribly early to be up and about these delightful spring mornings. But our real and true sympathies lie in still another direction.

There are sweeping jobs at Maryville, and then there are sweeping jobs (same school, different jobs). Now most sweeping jobs can be done in the afternoons when classes are over—classrooms, labs, etc., but the poor dopes who really need the sympathy are the ones who sweep the walks. Yep! the walks on our campus are swept (every day supposedly), and what is worse they are to be done in the mornings! Before breakfast! There is where your hearts should really go out in pity or something; that is where our true sympathy lies. It's bad enough on the poor fellow who has to crawl out every morning to ring the 6:00 a. m. bell, but he can go back to bed when that simple task is completed and sleep for a good 43 minutes between that and the 6:45 bell. Can you imagine anything worse than going to bed each night with the knowledge that you are going to have to get up during the middle of the night—6 o'clock I mean, no later—and knowing that you are going to have to stay up and awake until your job is done—stay up and awake, in fact, at least until that first class period (or did you know that sleeping in chapel is definitely against our principles, bad morals and manners, and definitely frowned upon?) We admit that does sound horrible and preposterous. But that is actually the situation that faces the broken down, hard working sweepers of-the-walks.

It is not exactly the work that makes the job bad at all, it is not entirely the hours, but what really makes it tough is when times happen. It happens to be cold in the winter, the leaves happen to fall in prodigous amounts in the fall (according to an authenic estimate 75% of all the falling leaves on this whole campus fall on the sidewalks). Yes, things like that happen, and things like that make it tough for jobs like that. But they are to be expected, and therefore are both understandable and bearable. What gets the sweepers-of-the-walks (yes, there are two of them) is when they see people at that unholy hour of the day (more commonly referred to as night). For instance when a twosome or a foursome—and this has happened—are seen up at that hour for no betterreason than to play tennis, or perhaps to take a walk, that really gives our heroes a turn; it's downright shocking and hard on one's constitution. And the poor suckers could just as well be in bed peacefully sleeping—beautiful thought—they get up and play tennis. Oh well, we just can't understand some people, might as well stop trying. The thought that really hurts is, "Why can't people like that have the invigorating chore like that sweeping-the-walks job?"

Maybe we have painted too dark a picture (although it is dark at that hour during the winter months). Perhaps we did not mention the fact that nature is not only a bit unkind (cold) in the winter, but it is also very kind, and quite frequently in this section of the country, all the year round. In other words, Mrs. Butcher doesn't expect us to sweep the mornings that the walks are wet. You can see what a boon that is—especially at Maryville. The farmer isn't the only one who goes in at nights hoping for rain. Bet you didn't know that there were two people on this campus who wake up each morning hoping to see it raining. It is worth the trouble of the job just to have that hopeful outlook on rain on the campus. Payday brings the same renumeration wet months as the dry months, too—that is, if you could say that we have "dry" months at Maryville.

And the tenth does roll around each month.

Color Reactions

"new skirt was so atractive," or someone else's sweater was "just exactly what I've been looking for." I used to stare at her as hard as I could, much to her very evident displeasure, but she never looked particularly green to me, and I associated the word "envy" with "environment" (a big word which I had been told meant "home"), I could never understand the relation between green, home and somebody's skirt. When I asked her, she would just look pained in a rather disgusted way, and plead, "Oh, mother, take her away."

To blue I had my one normal reaction. My answer was "sky". I asked others, though, and people answer "sea," "pajamas," "grass", (a Kentuckian), and "eyes." I guess my reaction is really reflexive, or reflective, I don't know which, because Mother used to sing a litle song, how did it go? Oh, yes.

"The sky is blue,
The sea is, too,
'Cause I love you ,
You love me, too."

For a long, long time, I didn't know more than the first line.

Thus, to the question of "What do you think of first when I say blue?" my answer is, "sky!"

I had trouble with yellow. I saw all sorts of things. Corn, baby chicks, a teddy bear, flowers, dirty yellow dogs, dresses, and several other oddities. Then I hit upon the real thing, the thing I knew I associated with the color yellow. It was "sick". It seems I always look a little on the yellow side when I'm sick, and the rest of the family all lok a little yellow when they're sick, and so I associate "sick" with "yellow." My roommate told me it wasn't a normal reaction, but then my brother is that way, too.

For "white?" my answer was "Eggs!" "Eggs?" Yes isn't that all right?" I was worried.

"Uh. . yes, I guess so! But didn't it suggest purity, or snow, or summer clothes, or something like that?" "No. Only eggs!" She looked discouraged. " "All right," she sighed, "but I certainly do wonder why."

I wonder too, Maybe if I lived on a farm the reason would be clearer. But I don't! So it isn't! You might think I would be reminded of "Pure as the driven snow!" or "whose fleece was white as snow." or Snow White and that septette of diminutive human beings that followed her around. But I didn't. According to Webster, I merely thought of "the reproductive body produced by birds and many reptiles, especially, in comon usage, that of the domestic hen.

At this point, my roommate stopped asking me questions. I apoligized for my reactiins. She said it was all right, but then, for some unexplainable reason, she patted my head gently and heaved a long sigh. From somewhere I've obtained an implication that psychol ogically, my reactions to colors are not normal. I don't understand it, though, do you?

Annual Alumni Banquet Will Be Held May 19

C. B. Fisher To Speak; Rev. Brown Will Preside

The annual dinner and business meeting of the Maryville College Alumni Association will be held Saturday evening, May 19, in Pearsons dining hall. All college alumni, seniors, and their out-of-town guests are invited to attend.

Commodore B. Fisher, who will begin duties next fall as associate professor of social sciences at the college, will be the speaker at the banquet. Rev. George E. Brown, local pastor and vice president of the Alumni Association, will preside at the business meeting in the absence of the organization's president, Mrs. F. L. Proffitt, also of Maryville. An annual report of the Alumni Association will be given at the meeting by the Rev. Mr. James R. Smith, its executive secretary and pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian church in Knoxville. Mr. Harwell Park, local businessman and member of the alumni executive committee, will serve as toastmaster.

Approximately two hundred guests are expected at this annual commencement-week event, said Miss Nancy Hunter, secretary to the president. This meeting will honor in particular the 1895 or fifty-year Maryville College graduating class, although only about four or five of that class will be able to attend, Miss Hunter stated.

Local alumni and seniors are asked to secure their tickets as soon as possible from the alumni office.

Bainonian Lists Officer Nominees

New officers were nominated at the last meeting of Bainonian Saturday, May 5. Nominating committee composed of Lois Collett, Jeanne Bellerjeau, Shirley Scott and Martha Jeane Shaw presented the following girls to run for these offices: for president Catherine Sisk and Thelma Richardson; for vice-president Ruth Freeman, Martha Scanlon, and Eleanor Stout; for secretary Jean Messer, Zenobia Bernardini, and Lucile Sitler; and treasurer Jessie Lou Brunson and Patricia Ames.

Running for program chairman are the following pairs: Jane Witt and Ruth Broadhead: Sara Enloe and Margaret Cross; Virginia Miller and Joy Stewart; Marian Lewis and Alice Newhouse. Nominations for interior decorations are Eleanor Kelley and Leona Richardt; Mary Ruth Barber and Ann Anderson. Sergeant-at-arms nominees are Phoebe Oplinger, Marineil Ross, and Donna Smalley.

The evening's program consisted of songs and games led by Jean Messer, sophomore biology major from White Pine, Tennessee.

Gay 90's Is Theme Of May Day Fete

Ethel Beall, senior biology major from North Long Branch, N. J., was crowned Queen of May by Robert Seel, senior class president, on Tuesday afternoon, May 1, at the annual May Day Fete held in college ampitheatre. Dedicated to Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, matron of Lamar Memorial Hospital, and centered about a "Gay 90's" theme, the traditional affair is sponsored and financed by the Y. W. C. A.

Attendants for the program included Hannah Duke, Winnifred Sommers, senior maids of honor; Juanita Hinson and John Ross, William Robarts and Mildred Waring, junior attendants; Ann Anderson and James Liester, Robert Dockendorf and Eleanor Kelley, sophomores; Betty Hall and Merrill Grubs, Robert Dubois and Leona Richardt, freshmen. Crown bearer was John C. Carr, III, young grandson of Mr. Louis A. Black, director of maintenance, and flower girl was Judy Dollenmayer, young daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. R. J. Dolenmayer.

The program, initiated by the Herald of Spring, Louise Henry and her handmaids, was as follows:

Processional

"It Was a Lover and His Lass"—from "As You Like It"-Shakespeare
"Spring" written in 1660 Nash
Hat Box Dance Humoresque
A Concert in the Park
Dance Cross Weave May Pole
Recessional

The Queen, who carried a large bouquet of pink carnations, was dressed in a white satin gown with a marquisette skirt which culminated in a full train.

The gowns of the girls in her court were in rainbow colors, and each girl carried a colonial bouquet of roses or snapdragons to bled with her dress. The bouquets, made by a group of girls under the direction of Joy Stewart, Ethel Beall, Mary Ruth Barber and Mary Evelyn Jamison, were bought by the Y. W. C. A.

Directors of the program were Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art; Mrs. Evelyn Norton Queener, assistant professor of physical education for women; and Mr. Richard W. Vine, instructor of music.

Lions Outplay Panthers To Win Softball Game

By Tommy Parkinson

Tuesday, May 1, saw the only intramural sports activity of last week. That activity was a softball game which the Lions won by the score of 9 to 4. Bishop was again the winning pitcher, and House was doing the twirling for the losing Panthers. This victory put the Lions within one game of winning the series; the score now standing 3 to 1 in games, favoring the Lions.

The contest Tuesday had fewer errors than the previous games, but the Lions had the necessary ability at bat to win.

Mr. Thomas Graham was the head umpire of the game.

The following is the linup of the teams that has been used in most of the games:

Stamp Sales Total $1,249

Mrs. Lynn Matthews, social chairman of the war stamp committee, announced yesterday that the college has bought a total of $1249.95 in bonds and stamps. She adds, however, that the sales have dropped considerably since the buying of the jeep. Last week the juniors led with 20% of the class participating and $40.25, and were followed by the seniors who had 18%, and $2.10. The freshmen had 8% participating and $4.50, while the sophomores had 4%, and $3.35.

The stamp and bond sales wil be concluded with the buying next Wednesday, May 2.

Miss Jane Craig, chairman of the committee, said that she has been very pleased with the total sales for the year.

Pre-Med Club

The Pre-Med Club will have a picnic in the college woods Thursday evening, May 10. They will meet on Pearsons steps at 5:00 p. m.

Everyone who wishes to attend is to sign a paper which will be posted on each dormitory bulletin board.

M CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

In the election for officers held at the annual "M" club hike at Sunshine last week-end, Betty Lou King was chosen as president. Other new officers are Dorothy Justus, vice-president; Sophia Bernardini, secretary; Ruth King Wood, treasurer; and Evelyn Anderson, program chairman.

At the formal initiation of new members Saturday night, fifteen new members were initiated into "M" club, after having served a week as neophytes. Each of them was under the orders of two older members, for whom she worked during the week. The neophytes could be recognized by the orange and garnet ribbons they wore in their hair. On Wednesday, they wore petticoats made of newspapers; on Thursday, they carired their books to all classes in pillow cases; on Friday, they wore their hair parted in the middle and plastered down. Consolation for this last was the fact that they were allowed the use of two bobby pins. Duties imposed upon them ranged from darning socks to scrubbing floors or running errandds.

The initiation committee consisted of Betty Lou King, Dorothy Justus, and Betsy Burleigh.

After the election of ofifcers and the initiation of new members, the retiring president was traditionally buried in a grave dug by the neophytes, while old members chanted over her "body."

Old members of the club are Betty Jean Bellerjeau, Carol Gillette, Dorothy Justus, Betty Lou King, Agnes Peterson, Mrs. Evelyn Norton Queener, Thelma Richardson, Winnie Sommers, Katherine Stout, and Ruth King Wood.

New members include: Evelyn Anderson, Jean Balch, Zenobia Bernardini, Elsie Jean Cotton, Louise Corbett, Edith Delaney, Rosalind Gargas, Juanita Hinson, Marian Henderson, Merle Henderson, Loretta Nunn, Mae Short, Lois Thomas, Carolyn Wallace, and Ruth Wililams.

Theta Epsilon

Nominations for officers were made at the meeting of Theta Epsilon Saturday evening, May 5 in the Y rooms. Those put up for the presidency are Mary Bachelor and Betty Lou King. Nominees for vice-president are Tucky Thomas and Carole Peake. Secretary nominees are Audre Monteith and Jane Callahan. Ruth Lloyd and Kitty Johnson were nominated for treasurer. Other nominees are: program chairman, Nancy Poteat, Florence Housch, Joan Hart, and Helen Sorenson; Sgt.-at-arms, Mary Estes and Wanda Neal; and pianist, Kathleen Glymph. Vice-president, Edie Earle presided at the business meeting.

Jay Bishop sang "Until," "Chloe," and "Without a Song." He was accompanied by Janet Rich. Frances Hanchka, at the piano, played "Warsaw Concerto," "Scarf Dance," and "The Man I Love."

McCartney-Lord Wedding Thursday

On Thursday afternon, May 3, Miss Rosemary McCartney, class of '43, became the bride of Cpl. Robert Gale Lord, class of '42. Miss McCartney, daughter of Mrs. M. Cawood McCartney, Indiana Avenue, Maryville, was married at home, with the Reverend Thomas A. Graham officiating. Cpl. Lord is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett B. Lord of Worcester, Mass.

Wearing a white satin wedding gown and modiste veil, Miss McCartney had four attendants, one of whom was Mrs. Frances Grosh, class of '44.

Cpl. Lord's brother served as best man. The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and roses.

With Oliver Ruth Stribling at the piano, Peggy Howell, freshman music major here from Maryville, sang Greig's "I Love You" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Richard W. Vine, professor of music, sang "At Dawning." Rosalind Gargas and Louise Corbett, juniors, played two violin duets: "Ave Maria" and "Evening Star."

After the ceremony, performed in the parlor, decorated with magnolia leaves and candelabra, a wedding reception was held at the McCartney home.

The couple will spend ten days in the mountains before Cpl. Lord reports for duty.

Alvin Goddard Now Stationed In Casablanca

ATC Air Base, Casablanca—Cpl. Alvin B. Goddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Goddard, 102 Cumberland Ave., Maryville, Tenn., is a sheet metal worker assigned to Cazes Air Base, Casablanca, in the North African Division of the Air Transport Command.

Cazes Air Base, under the command of Colonel Alexis B. McMullen, is known as "the Hub" because of its direct routes to Europe, Russia, the Middle and Far East. Aircraft from five continents land there daily. Repairing damaged parts and effecting plane modifications is Corporal Goddard's job.

Overseas nine months, Corporal Goddard is stationed within a five minute drive of Casablanca, European resort city on Africa's north coast where Roosevelt and Churchill once conferred.

Having studied airplane mechanics at Gulfport Field, Miss., at the Douglas Factory School, Long Beach, Calif., and at the transitional training school, Gravelly Point, Washington, D. C., Corporal Goddard qualified as a flight engineer at Reno Army Air Base, Nev. As a flight engineer he served at Newcastle Army Air Base, Wilmington, Del., before being assigned overseas.

A graduate of Everett high school, Maryville, Corporal Goddard attended Maryville College in 1941 and was employed by the Aluminum Company of America, Alcoa, Tenn., before entering the service in January, 1943.

With The Colors

Captain Michael P. Testa, 1934, has been awarded the gold star medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations during the time between June 1, 1944 and March 14, 1945.

Prior to his entry to the service, he was the pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Edgewood, R. I. He entered the service in Jan. 1943.

The citation read in part, "Captain Testa distinguished himself by his outstanding performance of duty. His cheerful personal example under danger and hardships his enthusiam, inspiring ministration, and loyal, untiring devotion to duty reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Testa was a history major here. He took an active part in the activities of the school and was a member of Alpha Sigma, Theta Alpha Phi, Glee Club, Spanish Club, French Club, student volunteers, YMCA cabinet, and college plays. He served as an officer in many of the student organizations.

LIEUT. BOB LOCKWOOD

Bob Lockwood, '43, has been moved to Algiers. Prior to this time, he has been stationed in French West Africa.

At Maryville, Lockwood was a chemistry major, and took an active part in intramurals and track, as well as serving as a chemistry and physics assistant.

CPL. BERNARD BOYATT

Bernard Boyatt, ex'37, has recently been transferred to France where he serves at an emergency landing field and repair depot of the Eighth Air Force. He is serving with the finance department of the Army.

Boyatt entered Maryville in 1933 but transferred to U. T. before graduation. Prior to his entry to the service in December, 1942, he was employed at the Bank of Maryville.

LT. COL. WILLIAM DELANEY

Lieut. Col. William M. Delaney, ex '28, of Maryville, is the Batt. Commander of a group stationed on Luzon. He has recently been awarded the bronze star for meritorious achievement against the enemy.

Delaney has been overseas for thirty-one months. Before entering the service, he was employed at Alcoa, and served as an officer in the Tennessee State Guard. His daughter, Edith, is a freshman on the campus this year.

LIEUT. ROY TAYLOR

Lieut. Roy A. Taylor, 1931, is an executive officer on an L. S. T. in the Pacific Area.

Taylor was a political science major. He attended Buncombe County Junior College during his first two years, and then transferred to Maryville. He was said to have been the best all-around student of his day, taking part in debate, and being elected to Pi Kappa Delta. He was president of Athenian, a member of the law club, president of the Carolina club, winner of the French medal, a library assistant, and member of the track team.

Alpha Gamma

1934, the society was given official approval as the honor scholarship society of the institution. Its purpose is to encourage thorough scholarship and cultural interest. Though closely comparable to Phi Beta Kappa, it is not directly related to any other honor society. There are three types of members: active members, chosen from those of the senior class who meet its requirements; members of the faculty and staff who are members of Phi Beta Kappa, or who meet other certain conditions; and graduates of Maryville College who have won special distinction along lines of literary, scientific, educational or social activity. Not more than ten per cent of the graduating seniors receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts may be elected. To be eligible to membership in the Alpha Gamma Sigma society, a regularly enrolled student must have good moral character; must be a candidate for the B. A. degree; must have attained the standing of a senior at the beginning of the second semester; must have had at least one and one-half years in residence; must have a 6.5 average point-hour ration in all courses completed; must be carrying courses that give assurance of completion, by graduation, of at least one hundred and eight semester hours in purely liberal arts studies.

New Members

Edward Gates, an English major from Maryville, has been the Secretary of YMCA for the past year. He is the vice-president of the student council and a member of the social committee. He is also a member of Student Vols, Writers' Workshop, the choir, and French club. Gates has been active in Parrish Project work, and was elected to Who's Who of American Colleges and Universities. He edited the recent edition of the M Book, and was in the cast of the Theta Alpha Phi production, "Cradle Song."

Dorothy Lehman, from Beverly, Kentucky, is an English major. The President of Pi Kappa Delta, she is also a member of Theta Alpha Phi. She was the vice-president of her sophomore class, and won first prize in the T. T. Alexander contest that year. She edited the Chilhowean and was in the Daisy Chain. She is a member of the Writers' Workshop, and Bainonian, and is vice-president of the YWCA cabinet. Recently she was elected to Who's Who.

Margaret McClure, biology major from White Pine, Tennessee, who graduated last Christmas, was unable to attend the service. She was president of Bainonian, secretary of Student Vols, a member of Y cabinet, and elected to Who's Who. She is now the religious education director at the Fifth Presbyterian Church in Knoxville.

Betty Jane Meyer, a Spanish major from Cranbury, New Jersey, is a member of Writer's Workshop, and Student Vols. She was treasurer of Spanish club last year and is the co-program chairman of Bainonian.

Agnes Peterson has served as president of Y cabinet and was Nu Gamma chairman her junior year. She was also vice-president of the junior class and a member of the editorial staff of the 1944 Cholhowean. Miss Peterson is a member of the Student Vol cabinet, treasurer of Bainonian, and was elected to Who's Who.

Martha Jean Shaw, a biology major from Norristown, Pennsylvania, was president of Nature club two years and has also served as its program chairman.

Writers' Workshop

Dorothy Lehman read a character sketch entitled "Aunt Becky" at the last meeting of Writers' Workshop Monday afternoon, April 30. Betty Lou McCoy read a production, "Titus After Empedocles." They were criticized by Carol Titus and June Gowanlock, respectively. At this meeting the group voted to select the five best productions of the semester. Those whose works were named as having the highest qualities were Olinde Aherns, June Gowanlock, Carol Titus, Robert Whitford, and Nathalia Wright.

French Club

The French Club will elect officers at the meeting Thursday, May 10. The meeting will be held in the Y.W.C.A. rooms at 6:45 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Wells, junior majoring in Spanish from Cranberry, N. J., has recently been elected to membership in Writers' Workshop and has been a member of the Spanish club since her entrance in Maryville College three years ago. She is also an active member of Theta Epsilon.

Audria Stinger, senior transfer from York Junior College in York, Pennsylvania, has recently been chosen Nu Gamma leader for incoming transfer students and will be doing Honors work in sociology next year.

Council Names Ross Secretary

Special Election Held Saturday

Mildred Waring was elected to the position of president of the Student Council for next year and thereby president of the student body, in the election of the newly elected student council held at 1:00 p.m. in 212 Thaw Hall Saturday afternoon, May 12. Others elected to serve as Student Council and student body officers are Olinde Aherns, vice president; and Marinell Ross, secretary-treasurer. All three will be seniors next year.

Miss Waring who is a sociology major from New Bedford, Mass. has been an active member of the council this year and also served on the Student-Faculty Senate. She is secretary to the supervisor of women's residence and head of Pearsons Hall, is a member Writers' Workshop and of the Spanish Club; and she was a May Day attendant this year.

Olinde Aherns, who was chosen to be vice president, is a philosophy major of Osborne, Kansas. She has previously served on the council for one semester. Miss Aherns is also a member of Writers' Workshop, the Highland Echo staff, and of Parish Project.

The secretary-treasurer for next year, Marinell Ross, will be on the council for her first time next fall, having been elected to the council for next year in the sprng elections. She is a history major of Maryville. Miss Ross has been active in forensics; she is the new president of Pi Kappa Delta, a member of the state championship debating team, and first place winner of the state impromtu speech contest. She was also the business manager of this year's Chilhowean.

The retiring president of the student council, Louise Henry, presided at this meeting, which was for the sole purpose of electing next year's officers. She gave a brief talk emphasizing the importanee of the Student Council membership, charging the newlq elected members to execute their offices conscientiously.

The elections throughout were closely contested. There was one tie ballot in the election of the president and a total of five tie ballots in the lengthy process of electing the secretary-treasurer.

SHOUSE AND MONTEITH TO EDIT AND MANAGE CHILHOWEAN FOR 1946

Jayne Shouse and Audre Monteith were chosen by the rising junior class to head the 1946 Chilhowean staff on May 11, it has been announced. Miss Shouse will be editor, and Miss Monteith will serve as business manager, to succeed Thelma Richardson and Marinell Ross, who have held those positions this year.

A history major from Cleve- Tennessee, Miss Shouse was editor of the 1943 "Coeean", annual of Bradley hieh school, Cleveland. She was secretary of Theta Epsilon this semeseter, and has made the honor roll consistently.

Miss Monteith, from Pottsville, Pennsylvania, is a biology major. She was on her high school publication, and has been on the honor roll regularly at Maryville.

This will be the fortieth publication of the Chilhowean, sponsored by Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of chemistry, who also sponsors the Highland Echo.

Announcement was made in chapel on Saturday that the 1945 Chilhowean will not be ready for distribution, according to Benson and Company, printers, until June 10. All subscribers are requested to turn in their names and addresses to the Chilhowean staff so that copies may be mailed to them during the summer.

FINAL SCHOOL WEEK CRAMMED WITH GRADUATION ACTIVITIES

Commencement Plays Set For Friday Evening

Theta, Alpha Sigma Will Stage Three One Act Plays

The red velvet curtain in Voorhees Chapel will rise at 8:00 Friday evening for the annual production of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma. This year the two societies will present, under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, three one-act plays, chosen from among the world's best and most popular short dramas; "Overtures," by Alice Gerstenberg; "A Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton" by Thorton Wilder, and "The Hour Glass," by W. B. Yeats. Two of these are comedies; the other a mortality play.

"Overtones" is the portrayal of two cultured women as they meet. Their "overtones" or primitive selves appear with them. While the women are cordial, the primitive selves tell the truth. The part of Harriet, a cultured woman, is taken by Ruth Lloyd; Hettie, her primitive self, is Marie DePue; Margaret, a cultured woman, Charlotte Proffit; and Maggie, her primitive self, Jayne Shouse.

"Happy Journey"

The scene of "Happy Journey" is in a not-too-new family automobile on the road from Samden to Trenton. The mother is partrayed by Rebecca Davis, the father, by Leonard Schieber, the two children, by Lottie Lavendar and Wilbern Seymore. Other characters are played by Kitty Johnson and Edgar Potts.

"The Hour Glass"

"The Hour Glass" is a Faust-like mortality play, and in a more serious vein. There is an all-woman cast. The part of the wise man is taken by Susan Cochran; the fool, Kate Smith; the angel, Mary Batchelor; also in the cast are Elsie Jean Cotten, Edith Earle, Alice Hoenig, Florence Housch, Nancy Poteat, Marjorie Simpson and Ann Thornton.

Contemporary Works

Each of these plays is the work of a contemporary author, and they are all widely known. They reveal some of the trends of modern drama. "Overtones" is written by Alice Gerstenberg, a well-known dramatist who was discovered by the famous 47 Workshop. "Happy Journey" was chosen by Thorton Wilder, one of our popular American playwrights, as his best work. "The Hour Glass" is by the famous Irish writer, W. B. Yeats, and is considered by many critics as his best production.

"Friday night you may look forward to an altogether different evening," stated the director, Mrs. West. "We are working hard, the plays are fine, and the casts are doing good work. The casts, which are new and just starting in theatrical activities at Maryville, reveal some fine talent. New, striking costumes have been made. And there will be some startling surprises."

Dr. Rudolf Schilz Speaks At Vespers

Rev. Dr. Rudolph G. Schilz, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran Church in Knoxville was the vesper speaker for Sunday, May 13. Before coming to Knoxville, Dr. Schilz was the president of Carthage College in Illinois.

Awards Will Be Made At Friday Chapel Service

Annual prizes, scholastic and athletic, will be awarded at the chapel service this Friday morning, May 18, at 8:00 a. m.

The Alexander English Prize, consisting of the income from a fund of one thousand dollars, provided by Dr. and Mrs. John McKnitt Alexander, will be awarded to the student with the best four-year record in English work.

Presentation of the Bible and Religious Education Prize, the income of a foundation of two thousand dollars given by the Rev. William H. Bates, D.D., of Greeley, Colo., known as the Bates Bible Prize, will be for proficiency attained in Bible study.

Seniors Attend Breakfast At President's Home

President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd gave a breakfast at 7:30 Friday morning, May 11, for the fifty-six members of the senior class. All seniors were excused that morning from chapel and their first period class to attend the breakfast.

Small tables in the front rooms of the Lloyd home constituted the seating arrangement. The decorations were spring flowers.

An annual breakfast at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd was previously a college custom, but because of war conditions it had been suspended until this year.

The traditional Daisy Chain composed of fourteeen junior girls bearing a chain of white and yellow field daisies will lead the processional into the Chapel and stand on either side of the aisle while the seniors march between them. After the seniors have received their diplomas, they will march out between the chain, which will follow the recessional out to the middle of the campus and form a large MC. Members of the Junior class also serve as ushers for the service.

The Graduates

As in other years, the seniors plan to do a variety of things after they graduate. Mrs. Ethel Beall, from North Long Brance, New Jersey, plans to enter nurses training at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania, until June, when she will enter John Hopkins in Baltimore. Jeanne Bellerjeau, Haddon, New Jersey, plans to do religious education work. Mrs. Mary Black is going to work with the Tennessee Valley Authority in Chattanooga, her home town, as draftsman engineer assistant. Katherine Bonner, Fullerton, Pennsylvania, expects to teach next fall. Miriam Bowditch, Tuecane, North Carolina, plans to enter Assembly's Training School for religious education. Grace Bowers, Steelton, Penn., is going to do organization work under the Wartime Service Commission in Carlisle Presbytery.

Marilyn Bryant, Flintville, Tenn. plans to work with TVA in Chattanooga as a Cartograph-Engineering Aide Trainee.

Margaret Caldwell, Tallahassee, Fla., plans to do Young People's work in the Highland Presbyterian Church in Louisville, Kentucky. Peggy Case, Spartanburg, South Carolina, plans to attend medical school next fall. Helen Cassile, Bristol, Penn., is attending a language school in Jerusalem. THE PAST AND FUTURE

Fifty- six seniors will graduate from Maryville College next Monday after four years of study. Their college careers have been spent in one of the greatest eras in the history of the world.

As college students we saw the beginning of American participation in the war. We were just green freshmen when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. Since that time we have witnessed the invasion of North Africa, the invasion of Italy, and then D-Day. In a short period of eleven months we prayed for Allied troops as they freed France and swept across Europe. The unconditional surrender of Nazi Germany came in the last few weeks of our college life.

In addition to MacArthur's return to the Philippines our college career's have witnessed various international conferences at Casablanca, Teheran, Cairo, and Yalta. The death of three world figures, Hitler, Mussolini, and Roosevelt came while we were still in college.

Truly the past four years have been frought with world-shaking events that will influence the future of everyone of us.

But as we finish our college work we are thinking more of the future. As college graduates we have certain duties that cannot very well be neglected. We must be the leaders in our community and must contribute something to civilization according to our abilities.

But in the light of the events that have transpired in the past four years we have other obligations. As Dr. H. E. Orr has put is, it is our duty to preserve democracy at home and to maintain world peace. It will be largely through our efforts that this can be accomplished.

As college graduates our obligations in this world of fast changing history cannot be pushed aside.

LIBRARY..... LIBEL

Little Known Facts About Well Known People. Did you know that: Miss Grierson cut her first tooth on the Trans-Siberian railway . . . Dr. Briggs was in the first robed choir at Maryville College . . . Coach Honaker was very bashful (note the past tense) . . . Miss Hallock has eaten Christmas dinner in eight states . . . Prof. Walker points out that a hen is the only one who can pay the national debt by just laying around . . . Miss Harwood has been associated with girls in six defferent school and has lived to tell this story . . . Miss Johnson was in the May Day procession of 1921—the year that the custom was started of having the senior class president King of the May, (a precedent that will be broken next year—the senior president being a little too feminine to make a good king!)

Miss Muffett. (Alias B. A.) Her stance on the desk must have been good—and so was her aim with the book. Yes, she killed the spider before neighbors could run to her hescue after the shriek.

Stop! Bill Vogel must have pulled out his compact (as per chapel instructions)—at least Mr. Kiger obligingly backed up the few inches he had proceeded past the Stop sign and set the style for campus driving, 1945 season.

The Name is Familiar? Monty, your future father-in-law spells his name H-E-A-T-O-N.

MMMMMMh—"M" Club! At last the neophytes realiezd the reward of initiation rigors—the M Club Hike. Few casualties resulted, unless you count the "Grin and bear it" collaborators who were run through the paddling line twice . . . or Mae, who was locked in and almost left in the house . . .but if it's latest styles you're interested in, ask Hannah, Marion, Winnie, or Dot to model the bathing suits they exhibited on the hike.

Anticipation. We hear Babs is eagerly awaiting Julius' picture. May we look too?

Riddle. But there are some people who insist that if Max doesn't start eating more, Jane is going to get thin.

Eau de Cologne? Maybe, although it looked more like ink. At any rate, it colors bath water a lovely shade of blue.

First Things First! When Lorraine was told to show Elise the ropes over at the post office, she knew exactly what to do. Elise's first instructions were on the best method of cleaning out the post office sink.

Lucky Fall? At least one Merchant Marine became interested in Kitty on account of her plunge from the top of a double decker bed. He thinks she should have lessons in parachuting.

Singular Case. The petunia which we suspect friends of the Student Council of smuggling into the garden is now in bloom. They have met their deadline—blossoms by Commencement.

Ye Gods! All of them were present at Writers Workshop—from Jupiter on down to Cerberus, the three-headed dog. There was "Mars" Parkinson, obeying a command to find out if the guests wished sandwiches and returning with an untouched sandwich platter, "I found out. They said they'd like some . . .Well, you didn't tell me to give 'em any; you just said to find out if they wanted some." Or one of the big-wigs demanding service of a neophyte goddess, "Well, what's holding you up?" And "Diana" Miller murmuring "Safety pins!" . . . Or the little lady without arms, better known as "Venus" Bernardini insisting that "My beginning was simple." . . . Crippled Vulcan pointing out that it wasn't his fall that hurt him at all—just the terrible shock of his too sudden stop! . . .And, oh yes! the refreshment served from Bacchus' bottle.

Faculty Remarks (Mostly expurgated by a merciful censor): "The gods don't have very good looking knees, do they?"

Dangerous Curves on Campus. If you don't believe it, see some of Doc's special pictures of the May Day festival!

Reverberation! Dr. Williams has just figured out why he always gets his school paper late—"Maybe it's because it's an Echo!"

Emergency Exit. Billy may have been Jupiter himself a few minutes before, but even a god might hesitate to be installed as president of the Ministerial Association draped in only a sheet. Hence the SOS signal to Witherspoon who obligingly stepped outside during the installation while his trousers graced the new president-elect.

Celebrity. Though some people who think they know have hinted it's Lois behind those dark glasses. Another poison ivy victim.

Wouldn't You? It isn't that Margie usually rushes straight from the Baldwin Beach into the reception room in her bathing togs, but when a friend (?) calls out the window "Phone call for you." how are you to know that it's Jimmy back in person instead?

Bye now!

Caps and gowns! For four years now we've been looking forward to that thrilling day when sheepskins are placed in our hands. For four long years we've worked and slaved (???) in our pursuit of a B. A. or B. S. degree. Graduation day from high school was exciting, but then to be finishing college seemed more like a dream of something that would never come to pass.

But, strange though it may seem, when we realize that long anticipated day is almost here; well, we have a little different attitude. For the majority of us, we'll confess we're rather enthusiastic about the idea of being through school, without the worries of term papers, exams, and reports; but, we'll miss many things too. Perhaps it's a little difficult to realize this now. We've become so accustomed to living in our school home that we merely take everything for granted. As we look back upon our college days at Maryville, they will be filled with many pleasant memories.—

There was that first day you arrived on campus a little lowly freshman. You were petrified but so thrilled at the idea at entering college. All through high school you had pictured yourself as the future co-ed. Perhaps your fantasies came down to earth after the "deglamoriing" routine of registration, physical exams and placement tests, but it was still wonderful. Being a freshman was fun. For the girls it was nice to be new because new material provided for extra special attention from Carnegie Hall. And Pearsons turned green with envy!

Oh, to be a sophomore again. That was the chance we'd been waiting for. No longer were we the gullible little fishes, but now came our opportunity to fish for new suckers. And didn't it sound much more important back home to be in your second year of college? By then even the faculty expected us to have a little common sense. We had decided upon our majors and life vocations to a large extent. (A few changes in majors were to be expected, of course. The best of us can make mistakes,—even seniors.)

The junior year began our history as "upper classmen". There is an air of dignity about that, you must admit. For the girls it meant fifteen minutes more to stay outside after supper. That too was before the cadets came along and revolutionized the rules even for the underclassmen. In those days there were a few more extra privileges in being in the last two years of pursuit of a college education.

And, to those who look forward to becming seniors, there is more to think about than just getting out of school. Perhaps entering the business and professional world won't be such carfree days after all.

There is something that is intangible and inexpressable about being in Maryville, and I suppose is true of any college in which a student spends his entire college career. You become very closely associated to it and quite attached to its customs and traditions. Friendships are made that will never be broken. Through our relationships with others we develop our characters and are molded into the kind of men and women we are to become. Our college is largely responsible for this, and we owe it a debt that can never be repaid in dollars and cents. It is impossible to say just how much Maryville has meant to us, but I'm sure if we could all be given an opportunity to try to show our appreciation, it would be impossible to do so. It has meant something immeasurable to us and we shall never forget our experiences here.

The actual experience of the Commencement program is important too. Due to present traveling conditions and the lack of normal enrollment, fewer visitors are expected to be present for Commencement. However, all students are encouraged to remain over for these exercises if it is at all possible for them to do so. This occasion comes to us only once in a lifetime and we want it to be truly something to remember.

TWENTY - NINE YEARS COMPLETE!

THE HIGH LAND ECHO—An ECHO Of College Life at Crests and Deeps

"May all the news of Maryville College find an 'echo' in it"—this was the thought expressed in the first editorial of the Highland Echo . . . publication date, November 4, 1915.

Few students realize what lies behind this publication date and this editorial, written by J. Charles Walker, first editor of the Highland Echo, who, with his staff, formed the organization that has published a Maryville College paper every year since then.

The predecessor of this peper, a monthly—and sometimes a semester—booklet called vaoriusly "College Days," "Maryville College Monthly," and other names, had not seemed to satisfy the needs of a college so fast-growing as the College on the Hill in 1915. The world was changing . . . quickly and completely. Abroad there was trouble brewing; at home there was prosperity . . . which reached Maryville in the guise of larger freshman classes each year, more funds to build class-halls, more spirit and enthusiasm which reached a new hieght with every year and every month. Education was taking on a new form . . . morestreamlined and broader. This was the world . . . a demanding world . . . that faced Maryville College in 1915. Things were happening . . . and, not to be left behind in the rush, the monthly assumed the pretentious title of newspeper.

With J. Edward Kidder as athletic editor and Pat Quinn (now Blount County judge) as business manager, Walker's first attempt dated November 5 was followed by others . . . nineteen, to be exact . . . which could be classed anything but unsuccessful. The last issue of the year on June 16, 1916, announced that the staff had published as many issues of the paper in one year as the monthly would have produced in five years.

Interesting to note that "David H. Briggs, otherwise known as "Sheenie", was elected president of the freshman class . . . "; the swimming pool was opened for the first time; "Ralph Lloyd, '15, has a fine position as professor in Westminster College, Salt Lake City."

In the ensuing years, many interesting headlines appeared in the paper . . . a mirror of the Highlanders in the 19-teens. Among them are such as—1916: "100 Freshman Enroll at MC; Largest Class on Record"; 1917: "HEAR BRYAN! William Jennings Bryan To Speak in Voorhees Chapel on April 11"; Voluntary Military Training For College Students;" "New Carnegie Dedicated"; "Wm. P. Steevenson New College Pastor"; 1918: "Spanish Flu Epidemic! College Is Placede Under Quarantine"; "Peace Declared; Military Unit Disbands;" "Lt. Howard Wilson Returns."

Then came the twenties . . . football, wrestling, progress of scolastic achievement, bigger classes, more buildings, new victories. "HOOVER!" in huge type on a special pink-colored edition. No headlines about a crash . . . but a reflection . . . falling enrollment, less extravagance. Discussion groups on income tax and national rehabilitation.

Gloom still as the middle of the thirties approached: Years not so free and unthinking as they might have been. Forebodings of war again. The draft. Fewer men students. Features on a "man shortage."

We all remember the rest. Exciting news in the early forties about cadets! Carnegie made ready. The next year . . . the sound of marching, drilling. Cadets! . . . an article last fall about their departure. Now V-E Day, the Echo still reflecting the news of Maryville and the world. What next?

A mirror . . . an echo . . . a voice in life at Maryville. The motto of the 1916 paper stands out as a goal of all time for the College on the Hill: "For a Bigger and Better Maryville!" The Echo has grown and diminished as the times have ordered. It has been happy . . . carefree in the happy twenties . . . it has been sad . . . in the hard thirties . . . it must be hopeful . . . in these forties that will shape the world.

Staffs have come and gone . . . have lived and died . . . serving the aging publication that shall enter its thirtieth year next fall—older than those who edit it.

To a staff that feils humbled before the age and dignity of its publication . . . that feels challenged to do it justice . . . there will be still the admonition "For a Bigger and Better Maryville!" This paper . . . four sheets filled with print that has been eked from the strained vocabularies of its staff . . . "may all the news of Maryville College find an echo in it."

War Stamp Sales Total $1683.95

Purchase of Jeep Was Goal For Year

The war bond and stamp sales totaled $962.45 for the second semester, it was announced by Mrs. Lyn Mathews, chairman of the war for the year $1683.95. The increase of $240.95 over the $721.50 which was the total of the first semester sales, making the total for the year $1683.95. The purchasing of a jeep was the goal of the stamp committee. A jeep costs $1165, so the goal was reached and exceded by the students. Sales were concluded May 2.

A bond rally was the highlight of the semester's war stamp program. A queen and her court was selected from the four classes. Cathrine Sisk, a member of the junior class, was the queen. Shirley Scott, senior, Jeanne Heaps, sophomore, and Janie Pannell, freshman, made up Miss Sisk's court. The Bond Rally netted $46.80 towards the purchasing of the jeep.

The war stamp and bond sales are carried on under the auspices of the International Relations Club. Jane Craig was the chairman of the war stamp committee, Working under Miss Craig were Mrs. Ethel Beall, publicity chairman and Mrs. Lyn Mathews, sales chairman. Members of the classes cooperated in selling the stamps each week and making posters to advertize the sales.

Home Economics Style Show Held Friday, May 11

New spring and summer fashions were modeled, and various handmade articles were exhibited at the annual Home Economics Style and Craft Show held in the Home Economics lecture room in Fayerweather Friday evening, May 11.

A low round platform placed before a back drop of yellow checked drapes was used as a stage by the models, most of whom were wearing their own creations.

Sixty-five garments were shown, including a dress from feed sacks, made-over suits and dresses, a trousseau dress of white eyelet, and a preview of the Daisy Chain gowns. Miss Ruby Lane, instructor of Home Economics, and Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of Home Economics, each modeled a dress she had made.

Commentators during the evening were Mary Ruth Barber, Grace Bowers, and Katherine Payne.

After the show, an exhibit of articles made in the hand-craft courses was held on display in the kitchen. Displays of weaving, knitting, crocheting, lace-making and tatting were arranged and demonstrated by members of these classes.

Refreshments were in charge Woodworth. All Home Economics students helped in the various committees.

Scott, Farrow, Richardson In Chapel Comedy

"Give me my robe . . .put on my crown . . .I have immortal longings in me." These are the words of invalid turned Cleopatra, Mrs. Bartholomew, in the Musical and Dramatic program to be presented at the chapel service on Saturday morning, May 19, Alumni Day. The play, "The Purple Door Knob," a one-act comedy by Walter Eaton, centers about an elderly invalid who wants excitement, Mrs. Bartholomew, played by Shirley Scott, of Altoona, Pennsylvania.

In the unwinding of the plot, a purple door-knob, a comical housekeeper-companion, and an actress provide the excitement and the humor as the elderly lady fancies herself an actress in the famed role of Cleopatra in Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Esther Farrow of Montclair, New Jersey will play Amanda Dunbar, the house-keeper and Thelma Richardson of Staten Island, New York will be the actress, Viola Colo.

Virginia Miller, Kennet Square, Pennsylvania, wil be stage manager of the play, to be directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art.

Workshop Neophytes Initiated May 10

Writer's Workshop Neophytes were initiated at the annual picnic of the organization held Thursday, May 10 in front of Thaw Hall between four-thirty and seven. "Picnic on Parnassus" was the name dubbed by the initiation committee: Dorothy Lehman, Thelma Richardson and Robert Whitford.

All new members were required to garb themselves as Greek and Roman gods and goddesses according to their respective assignments.

The following were neophytes: Olinde Ahrens, Zenobia Bernardini, Louise Corbett, Jane Craig, Nellie Cuellas, Junita Hinson, John Houdeshel, Betty Jane Meyer, Tom Parkinson, William Robarts, Betty Anne Showalter, Jean Tarwater, Mildred Waring and Betty Wells.

Dean Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, and Misses Elizabeth H. Jackson, Jessie S. Heron, and Jessie K. Johnson, assistant professors of English, were the faculty members present. Those students planning and preparing the "mythological" food were headed by Carol Titus with Ruth Freeman anu Edelmira Pino to assist. The Workshop members were served by neophytes who recited original poems as part of their initiation.

Robert Peters At Pearl Harbor

Pearl Harbor, T. H.— Funneling supplies to the vast Pacific Fleet is the important task of the Naval Supply Depot here.

One of the Navy men engaged in this supply program is Robert M. Peters, storekeeper second class, USNR, of Friendsville, Tennessee, and was employed as a cost clerk prior to enlisting in the Navy on September 13, 1943. He enlisted at Chattanooga, Tennessee, and was attending a service school before being transferred here.

The importance of the Supply Depot's work was emphasized by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, USN, Commander in Chief Pacific Ocean Areas, when he said that this war is a conflict of "beans, bullets, and oil", all problems of logistics handled by the Naval Supply Depot is the most important Pacific link in the chain of supply for the mighty fleet now battering at the doors of Tokyo.

PRESIDENT LLOYD STRESSES ATTITUDE IN FIRST ADDRESS

The annual convocation service held last Friday morning at 8:00 in Voorhees Chapel officially opened the 127th college year. President Ralph W. Lloyd addressed the student body on "The Most Important Thing You Bring to College."

Dr. Lloyd stressed the fact that background, recommendations, preparation, personality, character, and religious attitudes are all important, but the vital element of a successful college career is none of these. "The most important thing you bring to college this fall—it seems to me—is your attitude," he said, and he emphasized that one cannot always predict a person's future actions on the basis of past performances, because from year to year the person usually changes.

"Let me commend first of all a friendly attitude," Dr. Lloyd said, stating further that a friendly attitude holds a key to a great deal of happiness in the future. He especially pointed out to the freshmen students that they would soon discover a friendly warmth in the town of Maryville as well as on the college campus.

Quite surprisingly, Dr. Lloyd said that a large percent of the records of applicants to Maryville bear one of two faults and sometimes both, which are timidity and the inclination to criticize. "A person who has a friendly spirit does not have time to be either timid or critical."

Dr. Lloyd stated that every person should hold an attitude of interest, and he humorously added the interest should be beyond love, athletics and cosmetics. "You have an opportunity here far greater than any trip abroad," he said. He advised all students, however, to observe extra-curricular activities only in as much as they have the time and ability.

The third attitude designated by Dr. Lloyd was that of reverence, which he considers essential to one's character. He says that "a person who does not have an attitude of reverence is never very courteous."

He concluded his address by telling of four chaplains, two Protestant, one Jewish, and one Catholic, who stood arm in arm as they went down with a torpedoed ship, so that four other servicemen might be saved. They were a symbol of "how people of God can stay together in the world."

Girls in Carnegie Temporary Change

Girls in Carnegie! With victory just two weeks old at the opening of school, the male population at Maryville is far from normal, and the feminine majority has increased to such a point that it is no longer possible to house all the women in their regular dormitories. Foreseeing that entire floors of Carnegie would still be unoccupied by men students, and that Memorial would have far too few rooms to accommodate the many girls, the administration has effected the obvious change, moving the men across the street to Memorial, and turning Carnegie over to the women.

Memorial was originally a men's dorm and served as such for forty-five years. It will be returned to the male students permanently when the new women's dormitories which are as yet still in the blue print stage, have been constructed.

How long this adjustment will be necessary is not known, acording to information from President Lloyd's office. In view of the change in the method of discharging men from the armed services, veterans will be returning to school sooner than was formerly anticipated. In the advent of an increased number of men, many late applications from women were not accepted by the college, and the number of girls in Carnegie has been limited so that only two and one-half floors are occupied.

Local Churches Welcome Students to Sunday Services

Six local churches, all in downtown Maryville, will open their doors each Sunday especially to Maryville college students. These churches are within easy walking distance of the college and use the same morning worship schedule, Sunday School starting at 9:15 and church at 10:30.

Pastor of New Providence Presbyterian Church on the corner of Broadway and College streets is Rev. Mr. Thomas A. Graham.

The First Methodist and Broadway Methodist churches are located on Broadway. Their pastors are Rev. Mr. E. E. Wiley, Jr. and Rev. Mr. C. P. Hardin, respectively.

The First Baptist Church on Ellis avenue which crosses College street two blocks from the campus has as its minister Rev. Mr. Calvin L. Hammock.

The First Christian Church is located at the corner of College and Ellis. The pastor is Rev. Mr. Floyd Clark.

Rector of the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church on West Broadway is Rev. Mr. Maurice Hopson.

These Maryville churches and their pastors welcome college students to Sunday services.

M. C. Faculty Sees Many Changes

4 of Staff Leave; Dr. Shine Is With Army in France

Four members of the Maryville college faculty, who have accepted either permanent or temporary positions elsewhere, are not returning to the campus this fall.

Dr. Hill Shine is on leave of absence to teach English in an army education program being conducted for soldiers who must remain in Europe. He is assigned to teach in the army group at Fontainebleau, France. Dr. Shine sold his home in Maryville. His family is remaining in the United States.

Dr. John A. Gates has gone to Fairfield, Iowa, to become a member of the faculty of Parsons college, his alma mater. He is to serve as dean of the college and as professor of Bible and Philosophy. Dr. Gates came to the Maryville college faculty in 1940 from the College of the Ozarks, Arkansas, where he was dean and teacher.

Miss Rachel Shobert, instructor of Music, resigned during the summer to accept a teaching position at her alma mater, the Conservatory of Music of Wooster college, Ohio.

Mrs. Marie Cundiff, who was in the Alumni and Public Relations office has gone with her daughter, Mildred, to Hawaii to join other members of the family, and expect to accept a position there.

Two Southerners Receive Honorary Degrees From M.C.

Two honorary degrees were conferred by the Directors of Maryville College at the final graduation exercises held on May 21, 1945. The first was the degree of Doctor of Science to William Houston Keeble, Professor of Physics at Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Virginia. The second, the degree of Doctor of Divinity, was conferred upon George Julius Cresswell, pastor of the Second Methodist Church in Knoxville.

Born ten miles from the Maryville College campus, Mr. Keeble in due time enrolled in the preparatory department of this college. He obtained his schooling through hard work over several years. After finishing at Maryville college, William Keeble attended the University of Tennessee where in 1903 he received the degree of the university. He continued his studies at the graduate school of the University of Chicago, but was forced to give up his studies because of bad health. In his later studies at Columbia and other universities, he decided to take subjects that would better fit him for teaching than those which would lead to the Ph.D. From 1907 to 1919, he was Professor of Physics at William and Mary college in Williamsburg, Virginia; in 1919 he took the position of Professor of Physics at Randolph-Macon. Several summers have been spent teaching at New York University and other places. He is a member of the American Physical Society, American Association of Physics Teachers, American Astronomical Society, Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, and is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

George J. Creswell was born in Dandridge, Tennessee. He attended Maury Academy at Dandridge, Murphy college in Sevierville, and the University of Chattanooga, where in 1915 he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In 1920 he received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity at the Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston, Illinois. He obtained local preacher's license in 1910, became a member of the Holston Conference in 1911, became a Deacon in 1915, and was ordained an Elder in 1920. Also in 1920 he was appointed pastor of the Second Methodist Church in Knoxville, where he has served ever since. The honorary degree was conferred on him, recognition of his "loyalty and effectiveness as a minister of Christ and a builder of His church."

CHOIR, ORCHESTRA TRYOUTS TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Tryouts for positions in the vesper choir will be held this week as announced by Mr. Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, Monday, September 3 at 6:30 p.m. Soprano and alto voices will be tested downstairs in Voorhees Chapel. College men may try for tenor and bass positions on Tuesday, September 4 also at 6:30.

Thirty of the 1944-45 choir members have returned this year. However, they, too, will be asked to try out for positions. Mr. Vine urges those interested in becoming members of the choir to try out.

Names of new members will be posted shortly after closing the tryouts. Plans are being made for a choir party to be held in the near future.

Any students who play instruments are reminded that tryouts for the college symphony orchestra will take place this week. Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 those playing stringed instruments may be interviewed in the fine arts studio. Places for woodwind and brass instruments will be awarded Thursday at 3:30 p.m. also in the fine arts studio.

Announcement will be made later concerning the organizaiton of the band.

YM YW Year Begins With Welcome Tags

On Sunday, September 9, Rebecca Davis, YWCA president, accompanied by three other YM members, will be the guest of the YMCA and will speak on the theme of her group, "Laborers in His Harvest," while, on the same day, Robert Dockendorf, YWCA president, will be guest of the YWCA, along with three of his group, to speak on the YMCA theme, "Servants of Christ." Miss Davis, a sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky, and Mr. Dockendorf, English major from Hyattsville, Maryland, were elected to their offices last spring, when the themes of their organizations were also chosen.

Accompanying Miss Davis, Ruth Anderson will introduce the YW party, Ethel Brocker wil lread the scripture, and Catherine Sisk will sing a solo. Jim Leister will introduce the YM delegation with Mr. Dockendorf; Fred Wilson will read the scripture, and Robert DuBois will sing.

With the welcoming committees at train and bus stations Monday and Tuesday, August 27 and 28, the campus "Y" began its 1945-46 curriculum. The committees, made up of YM members, in charge of Thomas Parkinson, and YW cabinet members and Nu Gamma leaders under Miss Davis, met all incoming trains and buses, welcoming new students, taking care of their baggage, and directing them to "the Hill."

Next on the "Y" list were the "big sister-little sister" party and the "big brotner-little brotner watermelon pow-wow last Friday.

Over all plans for the semester include the traditional mountain hikes in October and a project, to be decided later.

For their first session of the year, the YW and YM groups met Sunday, September 2. Nu Gamma groups, organized to help freshmen girls become acquainted with each other and with the campus, began functioning then, also, according to Jean Messer, Nu Gamma chairman.

Wednesday prayer meetings will begin Wednesday, September 5, announces Helen Marie Wilson, devotions chairman for YW, and dormittory evening devotions will begin soon also.

BULLETIN FROM DEAN HUNTER'S OFFICE

All persons planning private parties must contact Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder at least five days before the scheduled date of the affair.

All those interested in reserving a date for all-college events should see Dr. Hunter as early as possible. The college calendar of events will be posted outside Dr. Hunter's office soon.

Ten New Members Increase Several Department Staffs

Ten new teachers have been added this semester to the Maryville college faculty staff to replace vacancies and enlarge the staff, President Ralph W. Lloyd has announced.

DR. C. H. GILLINGHAM

CLINTON HANCOCK GILLINGHAM, B.A., M.A., B.D., D.D., Visiting Professor of Bible, is to carry this year four of the courses left uncared for by the departure of Dr. Gates. Dr. Gillingham was formerly on the Maryville college faculty for twenty-two years, during eighteen of which he was head of the Department of Bible and Religious Education and Registrar. In 1929 he became president of the Philadelphia School for Christian Workers, which in 1931 became College of Christian Education. He served there until 1943 when Tennent became part of Princeton Theological Seminary. Dr. Gillingham became President Emeritus. He has purchased a home in Maryville and has consented to teach during this year.

COMMODORE BASCOM FISHER, B.A., M.A., Associate Professor of Social Science. Mr. Fisher is a native of Tennessee, a graduate of Maryville college as is Mrs. Fisher also, and holds the Master's degree from Vanderbilt University. He was for many years in educational work in Iran, both as teacher and as administrator. Until about a year ago he was head of a junior college and preparatory school in Teheran, being there at the time of the Roosevelt Churchill-Stalin conference. During the past year Mr. Fisher has been doing graduate study in history, economics and political science at Vanderbilt and making speaking trips to various parts of the country. He is teaching courses in freshman history, economic principles, and international relations.

HOLMES WILHELM, B.A., M.A., Assistant Professor of Spanish and German. A native of North Carolina his Bachelor's degree is from Guilford college, North Carolina, and his Master's from the University of North Carolina. In 1943 and again this past summer he has studied in Laval University Quebec. He comes to Maryville from the faculty of the College of Augusta, Georgia, with previous experience in high school teaching and on the factulty of Bridgewater college, Virginia.

WESLEY EUGENE WILSON, B.A., M.A., Assistant Professor of Social Science. Born and reared on a plantation owned by his family since the days of George Washington, near Montgomery, Alabama, Mr. Wilson holds the Master's degree from the University of Alabama. He has done graduate work also at Drake University and the University of North Carolina. He has taught the Social Sciences at Alabama State college, at Berry college, Georgia, and also at Blue Ridge Military school, North Carolina, and New Mexico Military Institute. He was a captain in the army of World War I and still holds his commission in the Officers Reserve Corps. He is at present teaching three advanced courses in history and two in economics.

GRACE WELLER, B.A., Mus.M., Instructor in Music, lives in Lexington, Kentucky, is a graduate with a major in music from Georgetown college and holds the Master of Music degree from Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She has done high school teaching and last year taught at Cincinnati Conservatory. She takes the place made vacant by the resignation of Miss Shobert and will teach piano and conduct the classes for pre-school age children.

WILLIAM CURTIS HUGHES, B.M.Ed., Instructor in Music, is a graduate of Murray State college of Kentucky, in the music department of which the head is Mr. Price Doyle who has visited Maryville twice as examiner for the National Association of Schools of Music. He has had experience teaching private pupils in piano, organ, and voice, and as baritone soloist in his college chorus and church choirs, and as an organist.

Graduate Echo Members Hold Interesting Jobs

News has been received of the activities of those of the Echo staff who graduated last May.

Robert F. Huber, who was editor of The Highland Echo last year, has been a reporter on the staff of the Morning Call in Patterson, New Jersey during the summer. At the present his plans are indefinite as to whether he will remain with the Call or continue his school work at graduate school.

Miss Hannah Duke, managing editor of last year's staff, and Miss Marilyn Bryant, who was business manager last semester, are both working as trainees in cartography for T.V.A. in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Ruth Freeman New Bainonian President

Ruth Freeman, senior English major from Philadelphia, became president of Bainonian Society while Catherine Sisk, senior music major from Maryville, was elected vice-president to succeed Miss Freeman last Saturday, September 1, at a brief meeting after chapel service, when it was officially announced that Thelma Richardson, elected president last spring, had resigned to attend another school.

According to rules of order, Miss Freeman, elected vice-president, became president automatically, while a new vice-president was chosen.

The nominating committee, made up of Zenobia Bernardini, secretary Jessie Lou Brunson, treasurer, and Jean Messer and Lonnie Richardt, representatives of the junior and sophomore classes, respectively, presented nominations at the meeting; after additional nominations from the floor, a secret ballot vote was taken.

Shakespeare vs. Van Johnson As the Intellect Returns

By Mary Annis Beals

Maryville college students, old and new, obeyed the back-to-school campaigners this year amid the most momentous occasion in world history. In spite of transportation difficulties, the lure of high wages and quick employment, and the knowledge that the shiploads of returning servicemen would include that special someone, our campus dormitories are filled to overflowing.

The slackened war effort has only hightened the school effort. Minus pullman reservations, but with promised nylon hose, and chocolate bars, college boys free temporarily from draft dangers or discharged from service and girls no longer feeling compelled to continue that year round swing shift are taking up that postponed college education where they left off.

Even those college students not personally connected with the war except through ration coupons and ice cream shortages should be thrown laurels for returning to school this fall. Leisurely afternoons of idleness, long evenings of social gaiety, delicious mornings in bed free from the ringing of alarm clocks have been forfeited, as students learn to be governed by bells instead of personal preferences, thrill to Shakespeare instead of Van Johnson, eat three full meals a day instead of mincing a dozen.

Yes, back to school is certainly the vogue. Sloppy sweaters and dangling shirt-tails are the styles. Chemistry, English, and French are the books-of-the-month. And reading the hit parade tunes is the "tintinnabulation" of the school-bells.

Theta Begins Rushing Tomorrow; Bainonian Parties Next Week

Theta Epsilon and Mainonian, rival societies for girls on campus, are planning their rush parties for the weeks of September 3 to 9 and September 11 to 15, respectively. Theta will open rushing this year in acordance with the traditional practice of altering the order each year. Betty Lou King is in charge for the Theta Epsilon group, and Joy Stewart and Virginia Miller are chairmen of Bainonian.

Kitty Johnson and Helen Sorenson are planning a tea to be held in the YWCA rooms for the Thetas and their guests on Tuesday, September 4. Thursday, September 6, Mary Batchelor will be in charge of the annual "splash" party. The climax of the week will come on Saturday night, September 8, when the Thetas will have their big formal party. For this event, Joanne Hart will be in charge of the decoration committee, Lottie Lavender in charge of refreshment. Dot Justus in charge of ushers, and Betty Lou King in charge of both invitations and the program.

The following week, Joan Liddell will start the Bainonian rush week as chairman of their tea in the YWCA rooms on Tuesday, September 11. Jean Messer will have charge of the watermelon party Thursday, September 13, and Saturday, September 15 will be the night of the big Bainonian formal. Lonnie Richardt and Janet Miller are serving as chairmen for this event, and have appointed the following chairmen: Jean Almy, decorations; Ella Mae Thompson, refreshments; and Marilyn Hartpence entertainment. Boys of Athenian, brother society of Bainonian, will serve as ushers with Fred Wilson as chairman.

Each societies' rush week is intended to acquaint the new girls with the members of the society in order that they might be better able to choose which society they wish to join.

WORLD AT PEACE

For the first time in years the doors of Maryville college opened this fall on a world at peace. History-making event hit an all time high during the summer months, and now we must about-face to meet squarely the problems of a continued peace.

—V—

WELCOME AND WELCOME BACK

Hello everybody! And welcome freshmen! Yours is a lucky lot. You'll have a college career that's back on a pre-war basis, lavish with nylons and chocolate bars, hamburgers and dates. Here's to your wise and thoughtful use of these and all your opportunities.

—V—

WE PUSH FOWARD

Progress, the keynote of the century, shall be the by-word of our generation. With this first issue we are dedicating the efforts and services to this publication to the support of all progressive movements f our world. Progress of thought and action. Thought always precedes action, and without it is singularly ineffective. It is in school that progressive thinking is encouraged. Your chance for acting may not come until later. As we believe there can be not such thing as a consistent level of attainment, we think an organization constantly improve or impairs itself. Maryville will be a better or a worse college at the end of this year. There is no doubt about the fact that long strides were made last year. For this term let the same be doubly true.

LIBRARY ..... LIBEL

By Elinde Aherns

Notice to Freshmen: Be sure to buy your chapel seat early this year and avoid the rush. Some of this year's sophomores will be glad to sell you the seats that were sold to them last fall about this time!

The Masculine Viewpoint. New freshmen fellow (name withheld), gazing dramatically across campus: "Gee, this is what a college ought to be—forty or fifty boys and four hundred girls."

New Jewelry on Campus, with most interest concentrated on rings, or "his" pin. New engagements over the summer include Carolyn Ulrich and Bob Huber, Judy Turk and Bob Schwannbeck, Fay Faddy and Chet Ellyson (her ring came from Cairo), while Catherine Crothers has two rings instead of one—her new name is Hodge. And while we're speaking of rings, we thing Maryanna's favorite ring looks a little large for any of her fingers!

Nostalgia. At the Wednesday night Community Sing someone in the Freshman section knew what was wanted when request numbers were asked for—"I Want to Go Back to Where I Came From."

Summer Jobs. Shirley enjoyed hers at the post-office selling stamps 'n such. "Single stamps were the usual three cents," she explained, "but we sometimes sold 'em in wholesale lots—like two for six cents, and our Monday special of three for nine cents!" Andy can tell you more about her summer job, but you might ask her about the Carolina Inn. Or ask Harriet about her summer—she was flying high—everything but solo. And Marky has a new Indian name given her by the Dakotas with whom she worked during the summer—she'll have to pronounce it herself.

Sophomore Response: When that soph girl was asked is she had seen anything cute happening round campus lately she said, "I've already seen too many cute things—these new freshmen girls. Oh, well, I always did want to sit back and study my sophomore year!"

Registration (a la Kidder): "As if it wasn't enough putting up fellows in the girls' dorm, now they make us go around carrying these pink slips."

Music Appreciation. Two Junior girls:

"Who's that?"

"Oh, that's Mr. Hughes, the new music instructor."

"That reminds me, I must take up music where I left it off."

(We understand the music enrollment is going to reach a new high this semester!)

C. O. D.? "Any news items?" we asked a soph. "I'll say, my trunk arrived on time this year!"

And speaking of trunks, EJ's got here on time, too—mailed in July. The only trouble was locating said trunk which finally turned up in the college book store just in time to keep EJ from having to resort to those flannel sheets!

Community King. Quoting Rev. Graham: "The only time I've seen Joan and Tommy separately hasn't happened yet."

Whoooooooo? That isn't a question. It's probably just one of the screech owl that survived the summer conferences. They really made their mark on Doc Griffitts, Mrs. Butcher and the night watchman before the shotgun dispersed of most of them.

Postoffice. The busiest spot on campus has been the post office and book store, but true to tradition they still find time to read the outside inscriptions on letters, as for instance the one arriving with a sketch on a colt minus its tail and marked "Details Inside."

But when it comes to packages you'll have to hand it to Doc to see that delivery is made. There's the story of Lillian Conrad's box which arrived last year. Becky picked up her discarded box and after visiting Pete asked her to mail some of her things home in it. The box started off, still with its old address and arrival at Maryville College Post office during the summer, addressed to Lillian Conrad. Doc dutifully mails notice to Lillian in New Orleans that if she'll send 28c she can have a package. Surprise for Lillian when she opens the package—so she mails notice back to Doc that the stuff isn't hers, and the only clue is a partially finished sweater with "Becky" stitched on it. If anybody should know who Becky is, Doc is that man, so he does his duty, and Becky finally gets her package in Sturgis, Kentucky, via New Orleans. How's the sweater coming, Becky?

Double Trouble? At least there are some who think Pat would make a perfect stand-in for Blair.

Interior Decorators. If it's drapes you want hung, call Fred and Earl. They are responsible for those in the chapel—though Skip and Becky could tell you more about that.

Student Mixer. Or was it student mix-up? Anyhow the stores in Maryville close on Thursday afternoons. Come on, tell us, where did you get the ingredients for that punch?

We'll be seeing you at the library!

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Welcome tags on lapels—baggage checks—a room in Carnegie—your meal ticket—tests—standing in line, all this and more, too as Maryville college begins its 127th year. Back from war-jobs, summer schools, victory gardens, and mousework come these aspirants of higher education to spend nine months on the "hill."

We come back with hearts gladdened by peace and minds inspired toward the building of a new world order. We realize we cannot easily forget the sacrifices and suffering caused by the war. Gold stars on service flags are but mute evidence of vacant places at home and school. Those left behind are charged with he responsibility of preventing another conflict and of making and preserving a peace.

There is much to be done and we have been told often that is is our task. Life on a college campus can serve as a proving-ground for days ahead. Allowing ourselves to think continually of home and friends there until we are all ready to board the next train will only make us lonely and unhappy. The friends we make, the clubs we join, the activities in which we participate—all help to identify us as individuals determined to make the most of college.

A decision to study has remarkable effect on both students and faculty. "D A R's " will be identified and discussed, but no one is ever ashamed to be one! A well-informed and educated people is the foundation of democratic working and thinking.

Books, activities, friends and ambitions seem to be the characteristics of a well-rounded college student. Let us strive to make this year one worthy of those looking ahead towards a world of brotherhood and peace.

GIRLS

I think that I shall never see
A girl refuse a meal that's free,
A girl who looks at boys all day,
And dosen't lead them all astray;
A dame who may in summer wear
A plate of vegetables in her hair,
Girls are dated by fools like me,
But only God, please, let things be.

She—"I consider, John, that sheep are the stupidest creatures living."

He (absent-mindedly)—"Yes, my lamb."

Patient (calling on family doctor): "Doctor, my son has scralet fever and the worst part about it is that he admits kissing the house maid."

Doctor (soothingly) — "Young people will do thoughtless things."

Patient: "But don't you see, doctor, to be plain with you, I've kissed that girl myself."

Doctor—"By jove, that's too bad."

Patient—"And to make matters worse, as I've kissed my wife every morning and night, I'm afraid that she too——"

Doctor (wildly)—"Good heavens, I will have it too!"

TOO TOO TWAIN

A little old woman walked up to the conductor on her train to inquire how long they were to stop at the next station.

"From two to two, to two-two," said he.

"My goodness," cried the little woman, "he thinks he's the whistle."

Old lady: "Are you a little boy or a little girl?"

Child: "Sure, what the heck else could I be?"

Mary, Mary, quite contrary,
How does your garden grow?
Why, by simple mitotic cellular division to normal biochemical and biophysical growth and development through the utilization of soluble terrestial minerals, atmospheric carbon dioxide, legume-derived nitrogen, photosynthetic energy, and the inherent proper ties of life, of course, silly.

Onward, oh, onward,
Please, time, in thy flight.
Lord make the bell ring
Before I have to recite.

All the king's men and all the king's horses

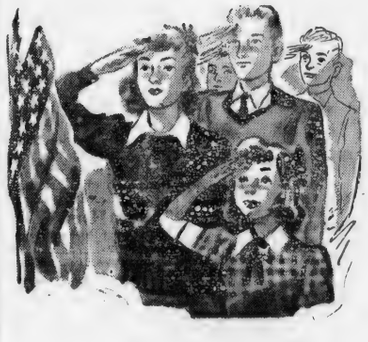
Four Summer Conferences Held on Campus

A delegation from the Presbyterian church, United States, opened the summer conference season at Maryville college on June 4 through 9 with 142 delegates and leaders attending. The second conference, totaling 129, also from the Southern church, met June 11 through 15. Two conferences representing the Presbyterian church, United States of America, met on the Maryville campus June 25-30 and July 27. The first delegation numbered 121, the second 152.

Usually the Synod of Mid-South holds a summer conference at Maryville, but due to travel restrictions, they were able to hold only a meeting of the oficers of the Synod on June 25-30.



The general program followed at all the conferences included classes in the morning, recreation in the afternoon, and vespers in Voorhees Chapel. One public meeting was held in the chapel by the Synod Group.

Max House Manager of Intramural Sports Program

Max House, sophomore English major from Cato, New York, is manager of the intramural sports program this year. Wilburn Seymour is the assistant manager. Plans have already been made for a full program of sports among the fellows this semester, and it is hoped by the Intramural Staff that by next semester there will be a large enough increase in the men on campus that still bigger and better plans can be carried out then—and possibly even some inter-collegiate sports.

The major sport this fall is to be six man touch football. The entry blank has already been posted in the men's dormitory and interest is reported to be good. The entry blank for an intramural tennis tournament this fall has already been posted also.

All fellows are eligible to take part in intramurals and those who are intersted are urged to participate. The whole program is an activity of the YMCA. A record of participation is kept by the intra mural staff and at the end of the year awards are made to those who accumulate the best records.

Durbin-Eakin Wedding Sunday

Sunday, September 9th, has been set as the date for the wedding of Velma Durbin, ex '47, and Harold Eakin, class of '44. The ceremony, which is to be informal, will be held in Velma's home church, the First Baptist, in Warsaw, Indiana.

The bride-to-be plans to wear a simple blue dress with dark brown accessories, and a corsage of white rosebuds.

After the wedding and few days spent with Velma's family, the couple plans to visit the Eakins in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, for several days, and then go to Princeton, where Harold is in school.

Mrs. Evans Passes Away During Commencement Week

Mrs. Stella M. Evans, who had worked with Maryville college girls as a dormitory matron since 1938, died of heart trouble last May 17 in the college infirmary just as the commencement plays were being presented in Voorhees chapel. She had the first attack May 8, and was found in her room by some of her girls after the V-E Day chapel service. A brief service was conducted in chapel on May 18, and her body was taken to her home state, New York, for burial.

Mrs. Evans had taught in schools in New York for thirty years before she came to Maryville in 1938 as assitant to the head of Baldwin Hall. For two years she was head of the "college cottage" while it was being used as a woman's dormitory.

In speaking of her, President Lloyd has said, "Her sincerity and friendliness has been recognized and appreciated by college girls for almost two college generations."

Student Council Sponsors Annual "Mixer" Program

The Student Mixer, which has become an annual affair for the opening of school, was in charge of the Student Council this year. It was held Thursday night, August 30 at 8 p.m. in front of Thaw Hall. The Student Council committee in charge consisted of John Shell, chairman, Jessie Lou Brunson, and Elsie Jean Cotton.

The program began with John Ross leading some songs, including a group of rounds. The feature of the evening came when the students grouped according to their home states and gave impromptu presentations of various types concerning the states.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program.

Record Outlay for Postwar Business

American manufacturers and businessmen are planning to spend a record-breaking $4,500,000,000 for plants, equipment and alterations during the year starting July 1.

This estimate is made by the Commerce Dept., after a survey in which nearly 7,000 companies outlined plans.

Such a volume of private capital expenditure would be nearly three times the prewar average—1937 to mid-1940—and should provide millions of jobs.

Nearly 30 per cent of the planned expenditures is for new plants. Largest gains over prewar figures are in the paper and printing, textiles, apparel and leather groups.

Paint, Partitions and Plaster Improve Campus Appearance

As most of the old students have noticed, much work has been done on the campus since last May. Practically all the buildings have had some redecoration.

The Chapel had on room soundproofed. This room, number 113, was formerly the library and instrument room, but will be the recording room now.

Carnegie was given a general cleaning and every room and bath had at least one coat of paint. Partitions were put in to separate the part of the building which is not in use from that part which is. Since the boys are now in Memorial, the furniture from Carnegie was moved to Memorial and the Memorial furniture was moved to Carnegie. All of the study tables were cleaned and redecorated in Carnegie.

Memorial and that part of Baldwin which was not finished last summer have new coats of paint.

In Pearsons twenty-six rooms were painted and many have new wallpaper. The dining hall and all floors in Pearsons were also done.

In Bartlett a great many improvements were made. New plaster was put on the upstairs and downstairs halls. The auditorium, reading, and game rooms were painted.

The president's home and the house in the woods were were also given outside coats of paint.

M. C. Honors It's 50-Year Class At Commencement

Six of the eleven graduates of the class of 1895, the class to which Kin Takahashi belonged, were present to receive their fifty-year certificates at the annual commencement program last spring. Three were dead at that time, and two were unable to come. Mr. Ralph G. Levering, who spoke for the class at the alumni banquet and received his certificate on commencement Monday, died just one week later.

Those who attended the fifty-year reunion included Mrs. J. P. Baldwin of Hebron, Nebraska, who was before her marriage Miss Lydia Franklin; Mr. Isaac A. Gaine from Webster Groves, Missouri; Mr. Ralph G. Levering from Ararat, Virginia; Mr. Francis A. Penland of Weaverville, North Carolina; Mr. P. Rule, who lives in Rockford, Tennessee; and the Rev. N. M. Welsh of Wilson Avenue, Maryville, Tenniessee.

Unable to attend with their class, were Mr. James L. Ritchie who is in California, and Mr. P. A. Wallace of Washington, D. C.

Kin Takahashi, who has been one of the most notable figures of Maryville college history, was a young Japanese student, the moving spirit in building Bartlett Hall, and the organizer of Maryville's first football team.

With The Colors

PVT. CARROLL STEGALL

Pvt. Carroll Stegall, Ex. '47, of the First Army was on campus last week. He returned from Europe on the Queen Mary August 2, and has spent "thirty days riding the railroad rods."

Stegall, who left Maryville college last September for the Army, wears the Presidential Unit Citation and the Combat Infantryman's badge, and three battle stars. He is to report to Ft. Benning, Georgia, for redeployment to Japan.

PVT. JOHN POLAND

Pvt. John Poland is on Luzon and hopes to be back by next year. Poland, a member of the class of '47, was the Spanish Club president and a member of the Echo staff while attending school at Maryville.

PH. M. 3/C RUSH LESTER

Ph. M. 3/C Rush Lester, class of '47, is in St. Alban's hospital, Long Island, New York. Lester went to the Navy last fall.

H A 2/C BEELER THOMPSON

H A 2/C Beeler Thompson, Ex. '48, is working in a hospital at Pensacola, Florida. He was home recently.

ENSIGN BOB BARKER

Ensign Bob Barker received his commission from Columbia University, August 30. He was sent to Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater, Oklahoma for further training. Coincidentally, he is enrolled for Oriental languages, the field in which Anna Sakiazawa's father teaches at that college.

PH M 3/C LLOYD ANDERSON and ARM 3/C JAMES ANDERSON

Ph M 3/C Lloyd Anderson, who would have been a graduate of '45, is still stationed at the dispensary in Hollywood, Florida. His brother, James, is in California for further training before overseas assignment.

LT. BILL LONG

Lt. Bill Long is in Florida now for thirty days, recuperating from a serious injury received in an automobile accident at Richmond, Virginia.

SGT. W. WINTON ENLOE

Sgt. W. Winton Enloe is now stationed with the Marines in the Marianas. Enloe, class of '46, played on the Maryville football team and was a member of the choir.

CPL. HARRY SCAPELLANTI and JIM FOUCHNER

Cpl. Harry Scapellanti and Jim Fouchner are stationed on Biak. They write of basketball games they have been playing.

PFC. HAROLD HUFFMAN

Pfc. Harold Huffman, Ex '45, is now stationed with the Marines on Guam. He is rapidly recovering from a leg infection contracted when he was stationed on Okinawa.

While at Maryville, Huffman participated in intromurals and the Parish Project.

PVT. SQUIRE KEMP

Pvt. Squire Kemp, Ex '47, is in the hospital at Santa Anna, California, because of a minor eye trouble. He will return to the Air Field at Las Vegas, Nevada, in about a month.

LT. ROBERT BAYLES, U. S. N.

News was received today from Dr. Dollenmeyer, that Robert Bayles was injured in an airplane crash over the Hawaiian Islands, and is at present in a hospital on one of the islands. Details about the extent of his injuries have not been received.

S 2/C CALVIN GARLAND

Calvin ("Crazy") Garland arrived on campus today for a one-day visit before going to O. G. U. in the Great Lakes. "Crazy" has been home on a nine day leave.

HAZEL LEONA EDDINS, B.A., Instructor in Physical Education for women and Assistant to Mrs. Worley, Head of Carnegie Hall. Miss Eddins came to Maryville college from Birmingham, Alabama, and graduated in 1939 with a major in Psychology. As a student she served as Mrs. Queener's assistant in physical education. Since graduation she has taken courses in physical education, social games and activities, and the dance, at Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville and at Birmingham Southern college. For three years she was employed by the National Youth Administration in Alabama for duties which included supervision and conducting physical education and recreation. During the war she has been employed by the Vultee Aircraft Corporation, recently as an Employee Counsellor.

GRACE PROFFITT McARTHUR, B.A., M.R.E., part-time Instructor in Religious Education. Mrs. McArthur graduated at Maryville in 1935, received her Master's degree from Biblical Seminary, New York, and for some time before her marriage was Director of Religious Education in one of the leading churches of Philadelphia. She is a daughter of Mr Fred L. Proffitt, long Treasurer o. Maryville college. Her husband is a naval officer and is now at sea.

EMMA LEE WORLEY, Head of Carnegie Hall. Mrs. Worley is returning to service at the college after an absence of eight years. She was Head of Memorial or Baldwin Hall for sixteen years, resigning to live with her sister, Miss Mary E. Caldwell, former Dean of Women at Maryville who died last year.

BARBARA GLEW HAYTHORN, Assistant in the Treasurer's Office. Mrs. Haythorn is a native of Iowa and is in Maryville because her husband is an official of the American Air Lines at the local airport. Her business experience includes two years in the business offices of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., Des Moines, Iowa, and one year with the American Air Lines in Washington, D. C.

Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, a member of the English faculty, who was on leave of absence from teaching last year to give her full time to administrative work in the Student Help office, is now resuming teaching. Besides conducting three of the classes left by Dr. Hill Shine, she is to give part of her time yet to the Student Help office.

DR. CASE WILL SPEAK AT SUNDAY VESPERS

Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology, will be the speaker at the regular Sunday evening vesper service on September 9. His topic is "Glorify God."

The vesper choir will sing "Sunbeam Out of Heaven," by Christiansen and Angelski's "O Gladsome Light."

Last Sunday's vesper service was addressed by Dr. H. E. Orr, who choose to speak on "The Vision of God." The choir, under the direction of Mr. Richard Vine, assistant professor of music, sang Marryot's Hosanna, "Blessed Is He." Peggy Howell, sophomore from Maryville, sang "I Will Sing of Thy Great Mercies," from Mendelssohn's oratorio St. Paul.

INTRODUCING 'V-1' CAR IN BRITAIN

BRITISH MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT W. D. Kendall is shown (top) with his new car which costs about $400. The auto uses exhaust gases to drive a flywheel as a reaction motor based on the principle of the German V-1 rocket projectile—the creation of forward motion by the reaction to exploding gas streaming back at high speed. Kendall is shown (bottom) looking over the motor, located in the back of the new automobile. The gas, instead of directly pushing the car forward, spins the flywheel which activates the vehicle's motor. (International)

No Profit on Atomic Bomb

Atomic bomb plants for the government were built by American industry without profit, and with the agreement that the government must retain patent rights on the revolutionary explosive.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours threw its resources into the race to develop an atomic bomb despite the fact that the experiment was foreign to the company's experience and a drain on already burdened personnel, Walter S. Carpenter, Jr. president, recently told stockholders.

The du Pont contract, Mr. Carpenter declares, established a fixed fee of one dollar, with the government agreeing to pay all costs by direct reimbursement or through allowances.

Vesper Choir Has Forty-Nine Voices

Seventeen New Members Selected From Tryouts

Twenty-nine girls and twenty boys were selected from over 100 contestants for membership in the college Vesper Choir following tryouts September 3, 4 and 6.

Seventeen of the forty-nine choir members are new, having been chosen from approximately seventy new prospects.

The complete choir personnel this year, as announced by the choir director Richard Vine, are as follows:

Sopranos

1st—Catherine Sisk, Sr.; Peggy Housch, So.; Francis Ashbey, Jr.; Alice Newhouse, So.; Mary Robarts Jr.; Gellolo Kell, So.; Mildred Orr, So.

2nd—Betty Hall So.; Florence Housch, So.; Francis Ashley, Jr.; Jane Martenis, Fr.; Mariam Bell, So.; Fay Gaddy, So.; Rosemary Barber, Fr.

Altos

1st—Anne Childress, Fr.; Ann Anderson, Jr.; Martha Scanlon, Jr.; Ruth Lloyd, Jr.; Marilyn Hartpence, So.; Kay Stout, Jr.; Carol Fuller, So.

2nd—Barbara Blair, So.; Betty Vineyard, Sr.; Katherine Franklin, Jr.; Jessie Lou Brunson, Jr.; Zonobia Bernadinin, Sr.; Joan Hart, So.; Betty Saint, So.; Janet Rich, So.

Tenors

1st—Bob DuBois, So.; Jack Ross, Sr.; Harold Hunter, Fr.; Merrill Grubbs, So.

2nd—Tom Wheeler, Fr.; Bill Roberts, Sr.; Paul Meyers, So.; Ed Anthony, Fr.

Basses

1st—Tom Horst, So.; Fred Wilson, So.; Bill Cover, Jr.; Charles Hoffman, Fr.; Rob Robinson, Fr.

2nd—Harold Kidder, Jr.; Jim Martin, So.; Jim Leister, So.; Earl Martin, So.; Bill Houdeshel, Fr.; Robert Barlow, Fr.; Carl Lazenby, Fr.

The total number in this year's Vesper Choir is equal to last year's number, but the distribution of parts is more balanced, Prof. Vine said. The women's sections are not so heavy, and there are more tenor and bass voices, he stated.

Choir plans for this semester will include more intensive concentration on concert numbers than has been previously the case, the director asserted. This is made possible by the All-Girl choir which will take over some of the Vesper Choir duties.

Special services scheduled this semester at which times the Vesper Choir will sing include Founders Day and Homecoming services on October 27, 28, Christmas Vesper Music program December 9, and the annual Messiah presentation December 16.

A choir party, planned to be a combination ball game and hay ride, is scheduled for Friday, September 21.

Nu Gamma Groups Tour Campus. Plan Seven-Mile Hike

A hike around the loop and a visit to the farm are but a few of the activities planned for Nu Gamma groups by their leaders. A Nu Gamma Breakfast in the woods is to be the fineal. Most Nu Gamma leaders have taken their girls to the woods to show them the picnic grounds, brook, cemetery, Mrs. Walker's house, and the Guest House. Mrs. Walker invited one Nu Gamma group to tour "Morningside" and listen to records; others went through the Guest House; some groups waded in the brook unmindful of chiggers or leeches.

Nu Gamma Sigma, the name of which is derived from the Greek language and means New Girl, is affiliated with the Young Women's Christian Association. The purpose of Nu Gamma is to acquaint new girls with the campus life of Maryville college. Leaders for this year are the following girls: Elsie Jean Cotton, Edith Merle DeLaney, Katherine Johnson, Marion Lewis, Joan Liddell, Janet Miller, Mildred Orr, Lonnie Richardt, Betty Saint, Audria Stringer who is in charge of all transfers, and Lois Thomas.

More Students at Maryville This Fall

Four hundred fifty-six students are enrolled at Maryville college according to the figures recently released by Miss Viola Lightfoot of the Personnel Office. This is a slight increase over last year's 425.

The divisions by classes are as follows: seniors, 60 women and 4 men; juniors, 60 women and 8 men; sophomores, 101 women and 17 men; returning freshmen, 6 women and 3 men; freshmen, 160 women and 35 men; and special students, 2 women. Last year there were 175 freshmen as compared to this year's figure of 195. There are 17 more men on the campus this fall.

Pictures for the 1946 Chilhowean were made by photographers from S. H. George & Son's Studio, Knoxville, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week in the Theta rooms.

Girls from the freshmen class wore white blouses, sophomores wore sweaters and white collars, juniors wore sweaters and pearls and the seniors voted to wear caps and gowns for the first time. This is the first time that any attempt for uniformity in dress has been made.

Jayne Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean, expressed her appreciation for the cooperation of students in having their pictures taken. She said that proofs were expected back in approximately two weeks.

Plans are being made to enlarge the feature section. Definite announcements will be made later about club and group pictures, but it is thought that they will be made some time in October. A camera has been borrowed and all photographs which must be made with a flash bulb will have to be made before the date for the camera to be returned. For this reason many pictures will be taken early this year. The election of Barnwarming sponsors will have to be held soon, too, in order to get pictures of the sponsors before the camera is returned. Also as many of teh Barnwarming scenes as can be set up will be photographed.

Audre Monteith, business manager of the Chilhowean, has stated that the Chilhowean will definitely be out on time this year. She said that the sales are exceptionally good. Miss Monteith will be glad to have subscriptions at any time. Her room number is 412 Pearsons.

Sue Cochran Reads For Athenians

The annual Athenian initiation of new members will be held Saturday night, September 22, in Bartlett Hall, Kenneth Kribbs, program chairman, has announced. A minimum of 25 new members are expected to be taken into the organization at that time, old Athenians state.

Featured on the Athenian program at its weekly meeting last Saturday night was Sue Cochran who gave a group of humorous readings.

At the pervious Saturday night meeting, September 8, a special performance for the freshmen entitled "Man from Saturn" was given by Merrill Grubbs and Fred Wilson. Forty-five Athenians and prospective members were present.

Nu Gamma Has Y.W.C.A. Service

Jean Messer, chairman of the Nu Gamma group spoke at Y.W.C.A. Sunday, September 16. Her topic was "The Way." All Nu Gamma leaders took part in the devotional program. Special music was provided by Ann Anderson at the piano.

Next Sunday, September 23, the subject will be "Finding Your Place in Y," and each member of the "Y" cabinet will sneak briefly of her work in the "Y" program. All new students are urged to come to these meetings held each Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the "Y" rooms.

Bainonian Formal Ends Two Weeks "Rushing" Parties

With the theme "Nautical But Nice" for a New Orleans to New York cruise on the S.S. Bainonian, Bainonian society brought to a close its rush week last Saturday evening. Both Bainonian and Theta Epsilon officers, as well as old Bainonian members, Athenians and freshmen rushers, were present for the affair, which revolved about a Captain's Ball, traditional on the last night aboard ship.

Decorating, in charge of Jean Almy created the ship atmosphere with a gangplank entrance and railing around the gym. Ushers, in charge of Fred Wilson, were dressed as naval officers, were Athenians and Bainonians, dressed as seamen, as mess-boys. Mr. Wilson and Marilyn Hratpence, entertainment chairman, introduced rushees as they arrived.

Recalling his first cruise, the captain, Tom Horst, told of his stopping in various countries around the world. Entertainment consisted of a re-enacting of these scenes.

Refreshments, in charge of Ella Mae Thompson, were served by the officers and seamen.

Bill Cover, Leonard Schieber, and Willis Pribble handled lighting effects. Janet Miller and Lonnie Richardt were in charge of the affair.

On Thursday afternoon, the traditional watermelon feast was held in the gym, in charge of Jean Messer and Jean Heaps. Joan Liddell and Virginia Clagough piloted the airplane trip, theme of the Bainonian tea, on Tuesday afternoon in the "Y" rooms.

Alpha Sigma Postpones Election

Jay Bishop, John Briggs, Ronald Reagan, Jim Evans, and Paul Ayers were elected into Alpha Sigma at the organization's meeting last Saturday night, the managing committee composed of Edgar Potts, Bill Cover, and Leonard Schieber has announced.

The election of the 1945-46 Alpha Sigma officers, scheduled at that meeting, was postponed until next Saturday night. More new members will be taken in at that time, the committeemen stated.

Social Committee Starts Big Plans

Robert Whitford

The Social Committee met Thursday, Sept. 14, to draw up plans for the forthcoming semester.

Robert Whitford is chairman of the new committee. Other members incdlude the following: Zenobia Bernardini, Ruth Broadhead, Marian Monteith, Jim Martin, Cathryn Sisk and Bob Dockendorf.

Nothing definite has been released by the committee as yet, but a big year ahead has been promised.

Rev. C. P. Hardin Is Chapel Speaker

The Rev. C. P. Hardin, minister of the Broadway Methodist Church, was the speaker in chapel for Wednesday, September 12. Rev. Hardin is president of the Maryville Ministerial Association and also president of the Blount County Ministerial Association. A graduate of Emory and Henry college and Emory University, Mr. Hardin has been in Maryville for the past three years.

Rev. Hardin based his sermon on the book of Esther and compared the privileges of Esther to free the Jewish people from death to the privileges we have today.

He said that we have the privilege of taking a crisis as an opportunity. He pointed out here that there is a difference in physical courage and the moral courage to stand for right.

"The privileges of a great dedication," said Rev. Hardin, "calls for not only college students, but everybody, to give the best and the highest to the Kingdom of God."

The third privilege which the speaker brought out was that of self-denial. In stressing this point Rev. Hardin said that education in a Christian college meant a better and stronger self to give in self-denial.

He ended by saying that this generation is the one which holds the key to the future. "Perhaps we, like Esther, have been put in a place of opportunity for such a times as this."

Any freshman interested in trying out fo the editorial staff of the Highland Ech may come to the Echo office in Thaw for a brief meeting Wednesday evening at 6:45. There are several places to be filled.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTS FOUR MEMBERS TO SENATE

Ahrens, Parkinson, Shell, Wilson Fill Vacancies

Vacancies in the Student-Faculty Senate were filled at the regular Student Council meeting Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Thaw Hall. Olinde Ahrens was chosen to fill the one open position for the senior class, John Shell and Tommy Parkinson were elected to the Senate to represent the junior class, and Fred Wilson was selected from the sophomore class.

Election of the student members of the Senate is done by ballot, always at the second meeting of the Student Council in the fall. There were three "hold overs" from last year, Mildred Waring, Helen Marie Wilson and Robert Dockendorf; that makes a total of seven student members of that body, which meets at least once a month with seven faculty members selected by the president of the college. According to the constitution of the Student Body, "It shall be the duty of the Senate to consider problems and proposals (he proposals often coming from the Student Council) and to adopt from time to time such regulations and such changes in existing regulations of the college as may be deemed wise and necessary."

Other important business at the Council meeting was the discussion of the possibility and advantages of Student Government at Maryville and the discussion of certain proposed changes in the regulations of the college that are to be presented to the Student-Faculty Senate.

The following committees were named: Committee on Student Government, Olinde Ahrens, chairman, Edgar Potts, John Ross, Jessie Lou Brunson and Ruth Lloyd; committee to work on the proposals to the Senate, Tommy Parkinson, chairman, Marinell Ross, Robert Whitford and John Shell.

Mildred Waring, president of the Council, presided at the meeting.

All-Girl Choir Has Membership of 46

Forty-six girls have been chosen to make up the temporary personnel of the All-Girl choir following try-outs last Tuesday evening, the director, Curtis Hughes, has announced. Mary Evelyn Jamison was chosen the choir accompanist.

This new musical feature will function both as a choir and glee club, including in its repertoire sacred and secular music. Its duties will include some Vesper and chapel singing, planned to lighten the load of the college choir, and special musical programs. Practices are scheduled on Monday and Friday afternoons.

Thirty-five black and white robes are available for the All-Girl choir, Mrs. Hughes stated. The permanent number of choir members will depend upon the number of additional robes which can be secured. "I hope for 50 robed singers in the All-Girl choir if stage space and finances permit," Mr. Hughes said.

Recreation Center Now Open for Students' Use

Approximately 150 students attended the opening of the college Recreational and Social Center Monday evening after supper, September 10. The Center in Bartlett Hall, which was instituted only last year, is a special project of the Student Council. The regular features of volley ball, ping poing, shuffleboard, and various parlor games were the attractions.

The operating committee, consisting of Edgar Potts, chairman; Robert Whitford, Zenobia Bernardini, Elsie Jean Cotton, and William Houdeshel, has announced that the schedule for the Center is the same as it was last year. It will be open after lunch, during the afternoon after classes, after supper, and on Town Night if there is demand for it then.

Theta Epsilon Gives Tea For All New Girls

All freshmen and transfer girls were entertained by Theta Epsilon with a tea in the Y. Rooms, Tuesday, September 4, from 3:30 to 5:30. Helen Sorenson and Kitty Johnson were in charge. Decorations were managed by Marion Monteith and Lillian Conrad. Head of the refreshment committee were Charlotte Proffitt and Jayne Shouse.

Color was added to the setting by the hostess and those who served were dressed as pirates.

The annual Splash Party was held on Thursday, September 6. Mary Batchelor was in charge of the program. Exhibition swimmers were Marion Henderson, Merle Henderson, Edith Merle Delaney, Jean Almy, Elizabeth Baird, Audre Monteith, Virginia Thomas and June Townsend. Marcia Kiern did exhibitio ndiving. Jean Balch did a dance number. The mistress of ceremonies was Lottie Lavender.

The theme for the party was Hawaiian and each guest was given a crepe paper lei as a souvenir.

Forensic Society Plans for Year; Open for Try-Outs

Dr. David H. Briggs, faculty advisor to, and instructor of the debate squad, has announced that plans for debate have already begun. The question of debate will be the one of the following three which is chosen by the National Forensic Society, Pi Kappa Delta: Resolved: the United States should work toward a policy of world-free trade; Resolved: the United States should institute a plan of peace-time military conscription; Resolved: that treaties should be ratified by a majority vote of both houses of congress.

The group plans to send representatives to attend the State meet, the Grand Eastern met a Charlotte, North Carolina, and the Pi Kappa Delta Provincial, also held in Charlotte. There is a possibility of dual meets with Berea, L. M. U., and Carson Newman during the school term. The first speeches will be held Wednesday afternoon at 6:30 at the regular meeting. There has been a large amount of interest shown among the freshmen and there is still an opportunity for others to try out, Dr. Briggs stated.

The following are on the debate squad: Audria Stringer and Miriam Wickham, seniors; June Garland, Lilybel Gunn, and Judy Turk, junior members; J. T. Anderson, Mary Annis Beals, and Katherine Johnson, sophomores; Patricia Bolton, Dave Campbell, Janet Campbell, Ann Cook, Ruthellen Crews, Eleanor Hawley, Sara Jo Kiger, M. G. Merlanti, Mary Mitchell Wooldridge, June Montgomery, Janet Nisbet, Shirley Ophanea, and Regnal Osborn, freshmen try-outs.

Students Select Disc Club Program

Disc Club will hold its initial meeting of the year Thursday evening, September 20, at 6:45 in Voorhees Chapel. Records played will be request numbers ranging from classical recordings to current popular hits. Disc commentator will be Ruth Freeman. Club sponsor is Katherine Davies, professor of music.

On Disc Club signs to be placed at various spots on the campus, students planning to attend the Disc Club request program are asked to write their individual requests to be played Thursday night.

All college students are eligible for Disc Club membership if they attend the semi-monthly meetings, scheduled the first and third Thursdays of every month.

The Disc Club committee, in a special meeting this evening, will discuss plans for the new year. Committee members are Ruth Freeman, Tom Horst, Jean Keen, Phillip Watts, Bob DuBois, and Gelolo Kell.

Two record rooms in the chapel basement are now open every Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., on Saturdays from 1:30 until 3:00, and on Mondays, Thursday and Friday nights from 6:30 until 7:30 to all students who wish to use them. College students have free access to records in the listening rooms or they may bring their own recordings.

Mr. Black Speaks at Y.M.C.A. Sunday

Mr. Louis Black was the speaker at the Y.M.C.A. services in Bartlett Hall on Sunday, September 16. His topic was "Witnessing for Christ." Mr. Black is the Director of Maintenance for the college.

Last week Becky Davis, president of the Y.W.C.A. spoke on "Laborers in the Harvest."

MOVIE DIRECTOR WILL FILM SHOTS OF M. C. CAMPUS, COEDS

"The Church-Related College" is the name of the script of movie takes which Mr. Hamilton MacFadden, former Hollywood producer and professional moving picture director, has arranged to be enacted on the campus of Maryville college and four other Presbyterian colleges. MacFadden, who was introduced to students and faculty over a week ago in chapel, will return September 23 and 24 to take the pictures which were planned.

According to present plans, Mr. MacFadden will speak at a special chapel service on Monday morning, September 23. It is expected that his topic will be on some phase of his professional work.

He is now at the other colleges in consideration, arranging for scenes and equipment as he did here.

Engaged by the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education to make a moving-picture dealing with the history, life, and work of colleges related to the church, MacFadden will bring with him a crew of cameramen and professional people when he returns to shoot several scenes on the Maryville college campus. Other scenes are to be taken at various colleges in the East and North and organized into one complete film. The sound picture, President Lloyd has announced, will be used in churches, schools, and other such groups.

A director for Fox Studios in New York and Hollywood until about five years ago, the dark-haired MacFadden has worked with such people as Jeannette MacDonald and Shirley Temple. "He has many interesting experiences to relate about his Hollywood work," Dr. Lloyd states.

The college maintenance department and the dramatic art students will help in the construction of scenery and the makeup of those to be in front of the lights. Various students, to be selected, and college directors and professors will take part in the pictures. Some scenes will be historical and some will show present day college life. There will also be shots of the chapel, Thaw Hall, and parts of the campus.

Mr. MacFadden has arranged for a shell-shaped set to be erected on the football field, where most of the indoor scenes will take place. This is done, Dr. Lloyd explains, so that the full use of the sunlight can be made. The set is to be built with the front in direct line with the course of the sun during the day.

Further announcements and explanations will be made in chapel. Students will have opportunity to see how such pictures are made and will be asked to cooperate in various ways.

It's Smart to Be Smart

We walked rather leisurely up to Thaw the other morning with one of our favorite professors, and talked of this and that and the Highland Echo of 1945-46. "Wish you would have someone write a feature entitled, "It's Smart to be Smart at Maryville," he remarked. We murmured, "As where isn't it?" But on thinking the matter over, we feel we have a glimmer of his meaning, and it makes for some profound thinking.

—V—

It's Fun to Have Fun

Hoards of Freshmen enter college with the firm conviction that "book-learning" and the subsequent degree are not all that can be gained from four years of higher education. So far, just fine. Learning just how far you can go safely in teasing your roommate about his new girl will never be garnered from the pages of a history text. Finding out why people don't seem to like you as well as they do Mary cannot be solved along with a physics problem. There are thousands of new experiences on campus that have nothing to do with a chemistry lab. You want to do things, have fun. You want to make a name for yourself, and no one will try to tell you that striving for a magna cum laude is the easiest way to do it.

—V—

Don't Listen to Them

There are some rather wierd characters on most campuses who circulate with the idea that it is better to be clever than to make grades. The point is, you can be clever any place, so why take up room on a crowded college campus? Grades are not the most important things in college, but what those grades stand for are. The academic side of student life is stressed at Maryville. If you have been misinformed, or misguided about that, you should be making tracks toward some institution that has what you want.

The gay guys who are eager to convince you that it's not particularly savior faire to make above a 3.0 average are mainly those who never have. They try to sound as though your efforts at studying were in a way, an unloyalty to them. After all, they aren't trying to raise the class average, and you lower their grade by raising you own. Misery still has that ole yearning for company. No one really thinks it's collegiate or sophisticated to be faithful to a vow never to crack a book. We all are happiest withour best marks. Among those who choose to spend their time in extracurricular activities to the detriment of their studies, there is wailing and gnashing of molars. They may speak scornfully of greasy grinds, and sneer conemptously at D.A.R.'s, but this sour grapes attitude cannot be recognized as anything but envy and in ill-concealed attempt to justify their own lack of industry and ability.

It's Good to Make Good

The correlation of I. Q. points with grade points is very high indeed. The brightest students make the best grades. They are also the ones chosen to fill a large majority of the responsible offices. Professors have a maddening way of viewing indolence as indolence, and not as a sign of hidden genius.

If you come to school with a feeling of entering a sort of voluntary servitude, you will not make the most of your academic opportunities. If you come to school with a clear, definite ideal of the purpose of your being here, of what you want from your four years, don't worry about what the fellow across the hall is going to say when your name appears on the honor roll. And we hope it will!

THE PARTY LINE
Lorraine Swift

Once we wandered weak and weary;
of all this campus some were cheery;
Never so many a quaint and curious people we had seen before.
While we watched, nearly snooping, behind eyelids half drooping.
We saw . . . . . .
. . . . A bewildered freshman girl racing down the dimly lit Carnegie halls at 10:31 P. M. and pounding on Miss Worley's bedroom door. "Miss Worley," she gasped, "something's happened to the lights, they're all gone out!" . . . Another freshman girl (don't worry, frosh. There will be other freshmen jokes next year), who sits near Sarah Enloe in the dining hall. We rather think that she didn't quite understand Sarah's full name; however, our only basis for such a statement is the fact that she innocently mentioned "Sarah 'Outlaw,' a dining hall waitress" . . . . . A puzzling noon hour scene. We have always suffered under the apparent illusion that people become aged before they enter their second childhood. But, as we said, that is apparently an illusion, for what other explanation could we give for Miss Weller's and Mr. Hughes, blowing soap bubbules in Voorhees one noon hour last week.

It's really nothing new, for Kenneth Kribbs had a burr haircut last year, but Bob DuBois says that this time when the barber set the gage on the clippers, he forgot about bumps.

Though we never hear much about it, there is such a thing as being caught with your hair up. Jean Almy knows. She attended her morning classes with a bright blue bandanna headdress and gracefully told everyone that "Bob is coming this afternoon." Indeed Bob was coming, but Bob somehow succeeded in making Monday afternoon come terribly early. He found his way to second floor Anderson and had a bit of practice at his old bell ringing job, and, as of old, his eyes watched the stairs above, knowing Jean would soon be down. Jean saw him—Jean screamed, and Bob—well, Bob Seel just kept right on ringing that bell.

Does anyone have a pair of pearls to lend to Jim Martin? Poor Jim, classed as a junior, learned that juniors were to wear sweaters and pearls for Chilhowean pictures. It might not be too late, so anyone have a pair of pearls to lend Jim Martin?

The subject was "cats." Mae Short and Mildred Jones knew all there was to know, for "haven't we lived with a couple of them for the last two years?" How about that Kitty Johnson and Kitty Stidham?

Helen Marie Wilson was noticeably slow in replacing library books on the shelves last Monday. We wonder if perhaps the ex-soldier she was talking with had anything to do with it.

Just call them the "elite," or if you prefer, the "dripping hair crowd." We are speaking of E. J. Cotton, Lois Thomas, Loretta Nunn, Carol Fuller, M. G. Merlanti, Virginia Wood, Jack Ross, and Tom Wheeler, who all decided to take a morning swim before breakfast last Monday. Don't ask us how they got through all the red tape. One of them must be a friend of someone's friend.

We wandered over to the Recreation Hall the other night, and found that more and more students are discovering it and the fun and exercise that is to be had there. For instance, the four card sharks, Betty Lou King, Audre Monteith, Bob Whitford, and Jay Bishop were having a wonderful time exercising their minds at a game of bridge. Laura Crawford and Dale Motsinger were active, too. They kept the magazines in the parlor busy. But seriously it's a grand place for grand fun. After watching Becky Davis, Skippy Jamison, Harold Hunter and Bill Houdeshel at a game of ping pong, we're certain they can give any information on how to make a ping pong ball bounce on the floor. For volley ball information ask old experienced hands such as Eva Toro, Martha Scanlon, Max House, and new-comer Mary Jane Mackay.

The first town night went over with a bang! Freshmen J. Nesbet, Betty Wyrick, and Janet Lindsey saw the best "shoot-em-up, kill-em" picture in town, but at least they found their way back to school. We still cannot understand why a few freshmen boys were standing on a corner in town asking some passing girls if they knew the way to go to Maryville college.

Not that it matters in the least, but have you too been amazed by, wondered about, or noticed: Broadhead's unique ability to laugh at all times . . . Bill Dinges telling girls what color lipstick they should wear . . . . Isomerism . . . . Dr. Barker saying, "Our family, all six of us—" . . . . Josie's ease while she tickles the ivories . . . . the cute little sign on Margaret Brooder's door . . . . the way some campus foreigners pronounce "Hi" as if it were spelled with a long a . . . . Bill Vogel's loud, loud, loud socks . . . Tom Horst's unforgiveably high grade point average . . . . Doc Griffitt's bow tie . . . . Marge Dickinson's hairdoes . . . . Miss Heron's unforgetable explanation of the meanings of the words eager and anxious . . . Rusty's numerous birthdays . . . . Seymour's changing of dining room tables . . . . the nearing end of this column . . . . Adios.

Scotch Broth
By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Do you mean we can only go into Maryville one night a week? Why must there be three people before we go to town Tuesday nights? Why should so much? And why should we be required to attend chapel and make out honor reports? Do they call this stuff food?

Does any of the above sound even vaguely familiar? Have we heard it or could it be that we ourselves voiced these sentiments? Two weeks of school have paseed—two weeks in which "crudding" (a favorite Maryville sport) has had ample opportunity to blossom again. Its fruits are exemplified by this column's opening sentences and all their relatives.

A reminder now and then helps. Seniors can remember the college minus its Town Night privischool have passed—two weeks in which "crudding" the whole year open for a jaunt into Maryville. We can easily realize that the Recreation Center is less than a year old. Reporting as host on time is just as important a form of cooperation as is reporting a broken ping pong ball.

This cooperation angle finds itself evidenced in dorm life as well. Answering buzzers on your floor even if it probably won't be for you, keeping your radio turned down during study hours, remembering what the library is for—all these add up to the one word COOPERATION.

You know, the verb cooperate and its noun cooperate are often talked about, but much less often practiced. Webster says to cooperate is to act jointly with another or others or to concur in actin, effrt of effect. Where there is letermined cooperation, the time or place for "crudding" disappears. What do you say? O.K. Let's!

Who Lieth Here
By Bettye Lou McCoy

I see it still, the old abandoned house
That settles slowly, lopsided in the earth
As if it seeks more comfortable posture
To hold throughout its years of vigilance.
It has long since worn out that fine apparel,
A white coat of paint;
Which clothes its sides and gave the adjective called "stylish"
Its pride, long gone enough too, to be forgot,
Ne'er caused it to rebel at pauper's state;
But silently it acquiesces, caring not.
From far away, across the stretching, rolling meadowland
The long green blades of grass steal up on sandal-padded windfeet
And snuggle close around the gray foundation.
And lilacs, top-heavy, giant lilacs, old friends,
Caress the walls affectionately
Like kittens purring 'gainst a door.
And then they lean together, rememb'ring things in hushed discussion,
While one tall member stands tiptoe,
Whispering to two red-winged blackbirds,
Newcomers,
In their nest beneath the eaves,
That they might share the tale.
Here and there on undried drop of dew, a quiet tear,
Stands glistening on the petals in the sun.
An orchid-plumed sister,
Self-appointed sentry, stationed near the gate
Bends now and then across the picket fence
To better view the road,
Not hopefully—
But just to make sure.
The others, sighing knowingly
Speak comfort to the house,
And one steps back a bit to let the blackbirds see
A stone,
Whose whiteness, changed to green
By tight-clinging moss
Bears these few words:
"Meliesse
Who lieth here to wait."

Anonymous (and You Can See Why) Letter Is to the Frosh

Dear Freshie:

"When the frost is on the punkin,
An' the fodder's in the shock—
Don't—like us—just be getting'
All your studies outa hock . . . .
That's the well-worn warning—
It's been comin' down for years,
So since we're 'upped-classmen bound.'
We'll pass it to your ears.
You've prob'ly heard our other tales
O chapel seats an' college seals . . .

But, mark our words, this is one you're supposed to believe! (If you don't believe it, just try it sometimes.) (Official quote from Professors' Manual, chemistry section.)

Now, Maryville, as you have undoubtedly guessed, may have queer sounding cats and dogs, and Maryville may be one hundred behind as far as the "four freedoms" are concerned . . . but one thing you'll have to give it credit for—there's a professor in every class! (Or had you noticed?) We feel it our big-brotherly—or sisterly, as the case may be—obligation to inform you of this dubiously pleasant fact, because . . . well, just because, that's all! We are the survivors . . . the souls that sailed the furious seas and washed upon the shores to warn you, the other sailors of the currents and the shoals. (For the rest of this quotation, in case you are interested, please consult the June issue of "Drown." Wet . . .)

Now, in our quick-drawn breath (please be kind enough to picture us struggling on some tide-swept shore), we have a forty-nine point speech to deliver to you. But a good speech should have only one main point or idea (you'll learn next year . . . you hope) . . . and seeing no main point to this, we'll just not have points, but paragraphs.

Warning: Do not take notes in any of your classes. When exam time comes, you'll find that you're missing out on all the fun of last-minute cramming and post-mortem wishing, if you do.

Advice: Plan to take various letters . . to either be read or written . . . to all classes but gym. It's surprizing how much you can get done that way, really! And the perfessors do love it, you know; inwardly it hurts them to think that they're taking up so much of your time—and money—with such trivial things as classes.

Counsel: Get the most good out of your allowable cuts. In dollars and cents it only costs you $2.00 an hour . . . and think: it's worth that much just catching up on all that class-work—challenges the better self!

Information: Lecture periods were introduced for two main purposes: first, to provide the prof with a comparatively pleasant way of letting off steam about his subject without bothering any one too much; second, to furnish the student with a comfortable dozing place and a potent sleeping powder.

Command: Learn the following ditty so well that it can be repeated without error thirty times a minute:

If you can learn just what the "chapel rats" are—
And who drives when there's a grin behind the wheel;
If you can take biology and not go "buggy"—
If you can be on time for every meal;
If you're not too blind to find out what the score is—
And why you're here in college anyway;
If you let not only Pearsons broaden you . . .
By gum, you'll be a sophomore some day!

"The race by vigor, not by vaunts is won," somebody once said; if you can fit that in here, you're one after our own thinking. If you don't "catch on" to what we're tallkin' about, you will, freshie . . . you will! If you happen to come out on top, thank no one but yourself . . . not even

The Anonymous.

"MA" QUEENER'S GIRLS BEGIN POINT SYSTEM

The program for the 1945-46 point system year was opened Wednesday, September 12, in Bartlett auditorium. The enrollemnt figures are not yet ready for release.

Point system was begun at Maryville when intercollegiate contests were discontinued. Its purpose is to provide athletic opportunities for girls desiring to participate. Girls need take part in only one sport, but it is felt that geater benefits may be derived from participation in the full program.

Meetings are held twice a week for each team. One team meets at 3:30, the other at 4:30. The program for first semester includes soccer, aerial darts, tennis, volley ball and hiking, Basketball, stunts, swimming tests, softball and track are included in the second semester program of sports. During the whole year health rules are observed, one hour of exercises is taken daily, and swimming is required twice a month.

Participation in any sport earns a certain number of points. Additional points are awarded for sportsmanship, membership on a squad, managing a team, and perfect attendance. Observance of health rules earns more points, and high scholarship adds a percentage of the total.

A monogram M C is awarded to girls with 300 points or over, a small M to those with 400 or over and a large M and sweater to those with 500 or over. Those with more than 400 points also earn membership in the M club. The membership carries with it the very special privilege of calling Mrs. Verton Queener, director of the program, "Ma," and Miss Hazel Eddins, asistant to Mrs. Queener, "Auntie."

Dorothy Gredig Weds Thursday

Dorothy Gredig, '44, became the bride of Corporal Albert Dockter, ex '44, Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock in a double ring ceremony in the First Methodist church of Maryville. The Rev. E. E. Wiley officiated.

The church was decorated with banks of evergreen and magnolia and yellow candelabra. Miss Katherine Davies played the organ as a part of the special music.

The bride wore a white princess style gown of still white brocade with a long, full train, and a long white veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white orchid and a white prayer book.

She was attended by Miss Ellen Keeble, who was her maid of honor, and by Mrs. Edna Everson and Miss Nell Maribel. They were dressed in identical yellow gowns, and carried boquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Corporal Docktor chose as his best man Warren Everson. Ushers were Walter Barton, Robert Brown, Thomas Smith, and William Robarts.

After the ceremony, a reception was held for the couple in the home of her parents.

Mrs. Dockter, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gredig of Sevierville Pike, Maryville, graduated from Maryville college with honors in music. Corporal Docter, who is from Albany, New York, attended Maryville before entering the services. He is in the Army Air Force. back on furlough from Alaska.

City's Ministers Welcome Students

For the past week the various ministers from Maryville have been invited to hold the morning devotions in chapel in order to acquaint the new students with the different churches in Maryville.

On Friday, September 7, The Rev. Thomas A. Graham spoke. Mr. Graham is minister of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Calvin L. Hammock of the First Baptist Church spoke Saturday. The speaker for Tuesday, September 11, was the Rev. E. E. Wiley, Jr., from the First Methodist Church. Rev. C. P. Hardin was the Wednesday chapel speaker. He is from the Broadway Methodist Church. The leader of devotions on Friday was The Rev. Maurice H. Hopson of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Floyd E. Clark of the First Christian Church was leader Saturday, September 15.

Post-war Sports Is Current Topic of Much Speculation

By Tommy Parkinson and Ken Kribbs

Anybody: "Now that the war is over, what do we want on campus?"

Everybody: "More men."

Anybody: "What for?"

Everybody: "That means the return of inter-collegiate sports . . . among other important things."

"Maryville College Trounces Carson Newman 32-0"

Sound funny? That possibly could be the sounding echo on campus by next fall, if the present picture keeps the same appearance.

With the beginning of the Intramural football season this year there was much discussion on the question, "When are we going to have inter - collegiate football again?" There were a great many fellows who were interested in getting that under way this year. College authorities decided that impossible. BUT words have been passed from ear to ear that come next spring footballs will once again begin to fill the sky each afternoon out on Wilson Field as Coach Lombe Honaker gives his post-war material a looking-over. If and when the coach gives the go-ahead sign, a full schedule will be attempted for next year.

From this view . . . looking at the prospective material . . . it's encouraging! There are enough willing and slightly experienced players who will be returning, along with new students and veterans, ground which to build a fighting team. A formidable backfield could be built out of four fellows who are here at present. Mat Cardella would be an offensive threat at tailback, Max House would be strong in the fullback position, Bill Stewart might fit well in the quarterback slot, and Merrill Grubbs could round out the backfield in the wingback position.

The situation on the line appears to be that good or better. A good, heavy line could be built around Bill Cover, who would play either center or tackle. Fellows like Roy Smith, who scales something over 200 pounds and has played football, and Bob Barlow, returned army man who stretches out something in the neighborhood of 6 ft. 4, along with Bill Dinges and Hubby Doyle, who are both fast enough to carry the ball or better yet, lead the interference from a guard position.

Will Lenoir and Bob Hill look like excellent end prospects; they know how to snag that ball.

All this is extremely tentative of course; there are several other fellows at school this year who are interested and have played football in high school and who could probably give the aforementioned fellows a run for their money in getting the starting positions on any team. Some such fellows are: Bob Robinson, Fred Richardett, Willie Pribble, Earl Martin, Paul Myers, Wilbern Seymour, Bill Mackey, Carl Lazenby, and Lloyd Chandler.

Like the idea of football returning to M C?

INTRAMURIAL SPORTS

Six-man touch football again is in the sports spotlight on Wilson field. With the opening week of play finished and two teams with a win behind them, the fight for the championship has begun. Two games have been played as this goes to press. Bill Cover's "Big Six" pushed over one touchdown to win over Paul Myers' "Parrots" in the first game of this year Tuesday, September 11. The other game played with equal spirit, was taken by the "Slamming Six" captained by Merrell Grubbs; they scored 13 points against Leonard Schieber's "Flying Six" on Thursday, September 13.

The afternoon of the first game beautiful weather and a group of M C coeds were on hand to witness the contest. The kick-off at 4:30 showed that both teams were ready to play. Earl Martin, taking the ball on his own 35 yard line returned it to enemy soil at the 45. That was the beginning of a real tussle.

The Parrots lost the ball on downs. And on the first play Bill Cover running around right end was first down bound when the whistle sounded because of Parrots' being off-side. Everyone stopped except Cover with the ball, who slowed down and then continued on down the field 60 yards for the only score of the game. There was a good deal of argument about that play, but the Big Six team chose to acept the play rather than the offside penaly.

Mateo Cardella did some spectacular and extremely accurate passing for the Parrots during the remainder of the game in a valiant but vain attempt to even up the score. No less than five times he hurled long passes down the field for what should have been a score each time, but the receivers were unable to hold on to the pigskin which five times dropped to the ground, dead as General Custer.

Besides the features of Cover's touchdown and Cardella's passing there was some neat foot work by Earl Martin and Hubby Doyle and effective blocking by Bob Barlow and Lloyd Chandler.

The starting lineup is as follows:

Big Six (6)	pos.	Parrots
Seymour	l.e.	E. Martin
K. Kribbs	c.	Ayers
Richardett	r.e.	Robinson
Chandler	l.h.	Myers
Doyle	r.h.	Barlow
Cover	f.b.	Cardella
Reagan	sub

A wet field and a steady drizzle seemed to be what the Slamming Six wanted as they held the Flying Six to a "goose-egg" and rolled up 13 points for themselves to take their opening game of the season.

Passing was the deciding factor in this game. In the first quarter Grubbs of the Slammers put that team in scoring position with a pass to House. Another pass, this time to Bob Hill, counted six points and the extra point came on still another of Grubbs' pass—to Hunter.

The second quarter was again scoring time for the Slamming Six. It was a pass from Grubbs to Hill after a good run back of a punt by House.

The Slammers made an interception of a Flyers' pass to end the loser's only scoring threat of the game. Likewise Bill Stewart intercepted a would-be-touchdown pass of the winners' in the final minutes of the game to hold the score down.

Lineup:

Slam. Six (13)	pos.	Flying Six
Pribble	l.e.	Lenoir
Hunter	c.	Tolerico
Wilson	r.e.	Houdshel
House	l.h.	Mackey
Hill	r.h.	Stewart
Grubbs	f.b.	Schieber
Dinges	sub.	Lazenby

Music Notes—

SEASHORE TESTS

Seashore tests to determine musical aptitude wil lbe given in the Fine Arts studio within the next two weeks to all college music students and choir, orchestra, and glee-club members who have not previously taken the tests, Miss Dorothy Horne, assistant professor of music, has announced. Specific date for the tests will be announcer soon.

All students not studying music who wish to take the music aptitude tests may do so at the time designated, Miss Horne stated.

1945 marks the tenth year the Seashore tests have been given at Maryville college. These tests are timed to require fifty minutes and are in a six-group series, dealing with pitch, loudness, time, rhythm, and tonal memory.

STUDENT RECITAL

The first student recital of the new school year will be given September 25 in Voorhees chapel. Twelve pupils of the college music professors will participate in the program. Names of participants have not yet been disclosed.

Student recitals are given semi-monthly by college music students studying for credit and are under the direction of Mr. Richard Vine, assistant professor of music.

LAUGHING MATTER

Mary Elizabeth Hunt

The five year old daughter of the minister had eaten too much ice cream and her mother thought it best to put her to bed immediately after supper. The little girl did not like this, for she missed her usual romp with her father.

Finally she appeared at the head of the steps and called:

"Mother, I would like to see father."

"He's busy writing his sermon and you can't disturb him now," her mother answered.

She asked again and was refused.

Finally she said, "Mother, I am a very sick woman and must see my pastor at once."

One night in the Civil war, a soldier was standing on guard when someone approached.

"Halt! Who goes there?" asked the guard.

"Friend with a bottle," was the answer.

"Pass friend, halt, bottle," replied the guard.

A Sunday School teacher was teaching her class about kindness to animals.

"Now, if you saw a bad boy cutting off a cat's tail, what would you say from the Bible to convince him that he is doing wrong?" she concluded.

One of the little boys answered, "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

The Reverend Doctor Luther E. Stein of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, secretary of the division of Church Relations of the Board of Christian Education will deliver the address at the weekly College Vesper service on Sunday, September 23. Dr. Stein will be at Maryville in connection with the motion pictures to be made here soon, and the Vesper address will be made during his stay here.

The address on Sunday, September 16 was delivered by Dr. W. H. Crothers, of Maryville.

Students Approve Town Nite Change

Proposed changes in the Town Night plan were put in effect by the unanimous approval of the student body at the meeting of the student body on Tuesday morning, September 4. The meeting was presided over by Mildred Waring, president of the student body.

The changes dealt with the penalties. There were some changes in wording in other parts to clarify or specify a more exact meaning, but in the main this revision was made to put Town Night more entirely in the hands of students. Five Town Night violations that were previously punishable by demerits are only punihesd by the Student Council's taking away of the Town Night privilege for a specified length of time.

These changes had been drawn up by the Student Council last spring before vacation. The revision was passed by the Council on May 17, and by the student faculty Senate and the executive council, but it was impossible to present it to the student body until this fall

Theta Rush Week

The building was decorated wtih crepe paper, magnolia leaves and ivy.

The food committee was as follows: Dot Justus, chairman; Melba Holder and Mae Short.

The formal opening of Theta Epsilon which was held in the gym at 8:00 Saturday, had as its theme a Garden Party. Becky Davis, mistress of ceremonies, introduced Betty Lou King, president of Theta, who in turn introduced the officers of Bainonian. She welcomed the freshmen, read letters from former presidents, and introduced the other Theta officers also. These other oficers are Virginia Thomas, vice-president; Jane Callahan, secretary; Ruth Lloyd, treasurer; Joan Hart and Helen Sorenson, program chairmen; and Mary Estes, sergeant at arms.

Edith Delaney, supposedly the hostess of a past garden party, had as her guests Kitty Johnson, Merle and Marion Henderson, Betty Vineyard and Dot Justus.

On her program of entertainment Mary Batchelor played the bones. Gus Hundeman played a selection on the piano and Mr. Curtis Hughes, accompanied by Miss Weller, sang "Without a Song." Marcia Keirn sang "One Alone" and "Sweethearts." Kathryn Franklin was her accompanist.

A style show was given, with the idea of what a young girl should wear to college. Models for the style show were Audrie Monteith, Marge Dickinson, Nita Hinson, E. J. Cotton and Lillian Conrad.

The gym was decorated with magnolia leaves on the posts and crepe paper flowers. Butterflies were tied in various places around the flowers. The basketball baskets were made into flower baskets and on the stage was a white trellis covered with ivy and flowers.

Lottie Lavender was in charge of refreshments.

Club Activities

"M" CLUB

"M" club members in a special meeting last Wednesday morning began plans for an overnight hike scheduled September 29, Bette Lou King, president, announced. Specific plans and destination of the trekkers were not decided upon at the club's called session.

Hike chaperons for the 20 "M" clubbers will be Mrs. Verton Queener, assistant professor of physical education, and Miss Hazel Eddins, new physical education instructor.

The date for regular "M" club meetings has not yet been chosen, the president stated.

I.R.C.

Mariam Wickham and Judy Turk will be speakers at International Relations club's first regular meeting of the school year tonight in the Y.W.C.A. rooms. The program includes 45 minutes of news reviews covering the past weeks and current events summaries.

New sponsor for I.R.C. is Mr. Commodore Fisher, associate professor of social science.

In a special meeting of I.R.C. Monday, Sept. 10, called by its president, Miss Wickham, Kitty Johnson was elected secretary of the group, Janet Campbell, treasurer, and Betty Congleton, program chairman. The new secretary and treasurer were elected to replace Jean Martin and Ada Huffman, respectively, who did not return to Maryville college this fall.

All students interested in international relations are invited to join I.R.C., the president said. No restrictions or limits are placed on membership.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP

Writers Workshop held its initial meeting of the year Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Robert Whitford, president, conducted the meeting. A governing board composed of Louise Corbett, Ruth Freeman, Robert Whitford, and Miss Nathalia Wright, was chosen by the members. Olinde Ahrens, Bette Lou McCoy, Miss Jessie Heron and Dr. E. R. Hunter were elected to the membership committee. It was decided that the regular time of meeting would be Wednesday afternoon at 4:30.

Readers at the first regular meeting will be Miss Jessie Heron and Bette Lou McCoy.

Question of the week: Why was Edith DeLaney late the other day?

Answer: Her car had indigestion. Hadn't had so much gas in years.

Study In Classes, or Does This Mean You?

By Janet Miller

With their studious looks
Perhaps ten or twelve books
Armed with pencils, paper and pen
For another evening
Of worrying and scheming
And no thought in their minds of men . . . .
Who else could this be but the Freshmen.

In swings a sophomore
Full of boasts and swaggers
He knows all about it and never you doubt it
He's happy-go-lucky
And life is just ducky
For he beats all the best of the braggers.

A fact that is frowning
There's no time for clowning
With a superior look and a knowing air
He's sure of where he's going
In a year he'll be "blowing"
For the juniors are almost there.

In strolls a senior
Of stately demeanor
Graduation is coming up—fast!
For his armsful of books
And those quizzical looks
Are almost a part of his past.

Now I would have it known
That the moral of this poem
Is somewhat like that of Aesop's Fables
So be careful what you say
Because perhaps you may
Have a person just like me at one of those tables!

Caroline Wallace Marries Saturday

Caroline Wallace was married to Pfc. Seth Fleetwood in an informal double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon at 5:00 in the Andersonville Baptist church at Andersonville, Tennessee. The Rev. Herbert Gilmore officiated.

The bride's street-length dress was of aqua wool fashioned with cap sleeves and with large gold buttons. She wore black accessories Her corsage was of white gardenias.

A quiet reception was held for the couple after the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents in Andersonville. They are spending their honeymoon in Gatlinburg.

Mrs. Fleetwood, ex '47, was a home economics major here. Pfc. Fleetwood has just recently returned from France where he was stationed with the airborne infantry. He was a cadet student at Maryville, with the 46th C.T.D. group.

Ring In the Girls!

It became evident that the matrons of Carnegie are having trouble with their belles and bells. There was a telephone call the other day from an Army base for a certain party on the third floor. The bell used to summon girls for special announcements failed to get any response. So a messenger was immediately dispatched to the third floor. After a 10 minute delay the young man was informed that the young lady could not be found. It seems that this is not the first time this has happened. Girls must be rounded up for every house meeting by knocking on each door. All are looking for a solution. Has anyone an old cow bell or better yet do you have a buzzer to install, so the matrons will have only the belles to manage.

MORE AMAZEMENT AND LESS AMUSEMENT IN THIS WEATHER

By Janet Miller

A dark cloud, a puff of wind [illegible] the trees, a few drops [illegible] rain, of course) and suddenly what da ya know—straight hair, puddles, and damp (please pronounce the "p") books are the prevailing fashion as can be seen from any angle on campus. Each and every time it rains, students grow sleepier than usual in classes, attendance at breakfast decreases alarmingly, and the dorms become quieter as if by mutual consent of all the slumbering members. Rainy weather also seems to bring out the true nature of Tennesseans.

Take, for example, the cloud burst on Wednesday eve right after supper. Coming from the dining hall, we noticed that the pavements were wet and a coagulation of students stood disconsolately on the front porch of Pearsons. After [illegible] our raincoats and umbrellas and were puddle-jumping [illegible] a number of native Tennesseans (and a few adopted ones daintily holding their shoes, and socks under their umbrellas picking their way through the slippery grass as though it were an every-day occurence. The excuse was, "Well, after all, shoes are rationed!" but we still thing that there's only one pair of feet for [illegible] with soap instead of lotion [illegible] do it.

Although it appears that there's only one cloud and it decided to overflow just as Maryville has once again rotated on the earth's axis to the exact spot under that cloud there IS a happier angle to this business of excess precipitation of H2O upon the earth's sufrace. Couples can be seen under one raincoat and one umbrella. Of course, the fact that the back of the raincoats is soaked, from all appearances there is only one person under it and he has four [illegible] and the rain is pelting from the opposite direction of the umbrella, seem not at all disturbing to the individuals.

Piroueting across the campus during this sudden and rather wet rain were two or three freshmen (who else?) soaking it all in and thoroughly enjoying themselves in bathing suits. Oh!!!!! What Vargas and Memorial missed !!!!!

Some optimists such as the Californians will say, "Oh, this is just a heavier mist than usual." I'd like to add that I'd rather 'mist' it entirely.

TAYLOR, MOTOR LAW STUDENT, DIRECTOR MACFADDEN SPEAKS

By Lorraine Swift

Mr. Hamilton MacFadden and his staff of five transformed our simple campus into a Hollywood set for two days last week, and a number of Maryville students had a taste of living as successful actresses and actors. "Sunday was a fine day's work." Mr. MacFadden said in appreciation. "We had a very willing and intelligent cooperation from everyone here." He expressed his appreciation for the willingness of the students and faculty and the other members of the staff to help in many ways. "I think," he said, "that you have achieved here a community spirit that is seldom caught on any one campus."

During his brief visit here, Mr. MacFadden told numerous stories of interest to Maryville students about Hollywood.

He told of the beginning of the career of the one time child star Shirley Temple, who was then five and one-half years of age. He was directing the movie "Stand Up and Cheer," which had a child in one of the beginning scenes of the first day's shooting. When they ran off [illegible] for ability," for Shirley stole the show. He immediately called the producer, who felt that here was no reason to become excited, but upon viewing the scenes he was convinced that the director was right. They created ad lib scenes throughout the script and Shirley Temple became a star in her first feature movie.

"Jeanette McDonald," said Mr. MacFadden, "had the reputation of being very temperamental, and when I told the producer that I wanted to make a picture with her everyone said I was crazy. We made the picture, and we did not have five minutes of trouble. She is a wonderful person." Miss McDonald, "he went on to say," was a singer and it seems that most of Hollywood continually forgot it. She was asked to do things which a person who cared for her throat could not do. She refused to sing over and over again; she disliked trying to sing on the set at 8:00 in the morning; she did not enjoy being shouted at—she was tagged "temperamental."

"You seldom have any trouble

MOVIE MAKING AT MARYVILLE

The campus teemed with activity Monday, September 24 as students and faculty ignored class schedules for a lively, if legitimate, vacation, and wandered after the camera and sidewalk-traveling sedan to watch historic scenes and the Maryville college of this fall being filmed for posterity.

For many of us this was our first opportunity to observe the procedure involved in making moving pictures. It was gratifying to see that to the students, it was not merely a matter of satisfying their curosity as to what was going on and leaving. A good deal of genuine interest was shown, and we have been thanked again and again for our cooperation as "bit-players," "extras" and stage crew.

We have had a tiny peek into another world, a world symbolized by the name Hollywood. For most of us it was a deglamorizing experience. The sun was hot, the director, precise and business-like; retakes were frequent. Confronted with the same situation, without the sparkle of novelty, it is not surprising that movie idols find the chief attraction of such a career in the number of digits occurring before the decimal point of their pay checks. Hollywood produces the most commercialized art of all times. In order to sell their goods they must please the public. And they account public pleasure by the amount of box office intake and by the number of fan letters received each week.

Of course we have all seen a movie because someone mentioned about it that the Hays office certainly is getting lax these days. And we have been lead to believe that not too many college professors write fan letters. So, if the movie we get are not what we want, it is the result of the producers inability to read our minds, for we certainly aren't going out of our way to let them in on the secret. Mr. MacFadden stated that measures to control the type and value of movies have been thus far of a negative effect. In some states, movies are censored. No scenes are included in movies which might cause some large organization to ban the production, and thus decrease attendance and cause the picture to make less money. However, Mr. MacMadden brought out, no positive steps toward movie control have been taken. His suggestion was that we let the movie-makers know what class of pictures we want—by letters, by attending only those which offer to add up to our standard.

Moving pictures constitute one of the major tools ofof modern society. It ranks extremely high in the field of entertainment; it has a future in schools as a method of education; and it has been, and will be used with immense success for propaganda. As we talk and think about a better world, must we ignore such a valuable potentiality.

Mud On The Rug

We've heard of AAA, but EEE is something different again. Just what have you there, boys . . . a secret organization? Or is it merely another escape? The very idea . . . asking Mr. Mac if he had a date in the college woods!

This nine to one ratio doesn't seem to affect everybody Some girls get calls—eh Lois? nIcidentally, how is John coming along these days?

Calamity! Captain Wilson (strictly the Boit type from the No'th'n po'tion) seems to be a Humphrey Bogart fan . . . or is Lauren Bacall? His remarks in class leave some room for doubt, especially when he knowingly asserts that Cleopatra had "it." The bell rings—the Cap'n quotes Bogart—and Max laughs his special laugh. (You know!)

By the way . . . blondes, Max? (Methinks that bleach is connected with a house in some way—or is it a football game?) Poor li'l Lil just can't find any peroxide. Consolation is she does have blue eyes Or had you noticed?

Just which one of those handsome he-men of the Slammin' Six is it who attracts all the fems on Tuesdays and Thursdays? Couldn't be Chandler, could it . . . even if he is on the ball most of the time?

Don't know about the Scotch—but there seemed to be plenty of soda on the way to "Sunday school" on the twenty-third. These freshmen (names ranging all the way from Brooks to Brooks) seem to catch on fast . . . even have refreshments at their Tuesday club meetings. "How about that???" as Vogel, Leister and Company would say.

"Got a million more!" they assure anyone who'll listen. We wonder. Not that they're slow on the draw or anything, but they seemed to be a bit behind on the "Moonlight Hike" a few Saturdays ago. Just ask the "company." Slowly . . . but that Smith gal did get around.

Speaking of hikes (ah, we must!), what with those of the moonlight, starlight, pique-nique, and just plain hike varieties, this rug-bug has an eye-ful as well as a bookful, of highly explosive exclusives. For instance, there were Merrill and Betty. (Need we say more?) And than there were the see-all, hear-all, know-all "sign-posts." Just ask them if you'd like a corner-by-corner description of the aforementioned hike.

The as-usual la-de-da choir party lasted kinda late for some girls and most of the fellas. Can't understand why . . . unless Tom was setting the pace. Always was a fast-walker, you know.

Mutt and Jeff! The initials are right . . . and Mary Jane and Jim fit the description of the pair to the . . . description. Say, now— aren't they a striking couple? (Oh, no . . don't hit me again!)

That "Apple core" "Baltimore" rhyme sin't so funny, is it, Sarah? Especially when you come out with wet feet. (Now laugh!)

My, is this getting complicated. One minute out for getting the Stewart-Messer-Williams-Stewart affair all straightened out. Lessee now . . . Joy goes with Bill and Gwyn goes with Trevor and Jean rooms with . . . no, that's not it. Joy goes with Trevor and Jean goes with Bill and . . . Well, anyway, most of it's in the family somehow. You work on it for a whi[illegible]urn it in as an outside project for Logic. If the prof doesn't give you an A for axcellence or at least an E for effort, you've got a kick coming. (Out of class, probably).

Check that dazed look on Helen Sorenson's face! Is that what Maryville does for a world-wise girl? Amaze number one . . . "that he looks like that!" (dreamy expression, please); bewild number two . . . "that he even knew my name!" Oh, come now, Helen . . . are you pullin' that one on us? Then there's the incident of the cookies before she went home. She still looks all mixed up.

Talking about mixed-up . . . these movies are enough to make even a rug-bug like me go star-stuck . . . just like Katie when her wandering Romeo blew in from Tusculum. Think we weren't around?

And then there was Dr. Barker, the "little green boy," as the director affectionately called him. Didn't the boys make good-looking Puritans and judges? Of course, there was the gleam in his eye that David H. just couldn't hide. Maybe that's why they used to call him "Sheeny," you think?

Ginny Peters has something to remember those movies by . . . a corrspondent who wore a blue and white shirt on the chapel platform. No. further comment There are some things you try not to show jealousy over.

Lorrie and her Gene have something in common, they tell us. Orange and holey, to be specific. "Ugh!" says her roommate. Est-ce que j'ai raison, Miss Wilson?

Tom is called Miss Wheeler, Fred answers to Miss Wilson. What goes on here? Is this a cabal, boys? 'Taint funny. That'll bring the ratio up at least two more points!

He had to maul himself to do it, but Don made it back to see Mary again. Underclassmen, please take note. Maybe you'll be big enough boys some day to show your sincerity that way—huh?

Question of the week: What's MacArthur's first name? Please tell Broadhead, somebody. (Just kidding, of course . . . of course!)

Last year it was a bathing beach . . . but now it must be some kind of night-club. (Oh, . . that word!) Portable radio, Tommy Dorsey, moonlight . . . plenty of dreamy-eyed audience. Too bad the catwalk's so narrow or we'd have—CENSORED—. It's a nice thought, anyway—huh, Lib?

Oh, oh . . here comes the matron. Time for me to crawl back in me widdle hole in Pearsons' parlor rug. Well, whaddayanoknow! Olinde . . . howdeedoo! What's that? You say Dock . . Alma . . . Uh . . . ummm . . . Well! They did . . right there in the middle of campus . .onThursday, too! Oh . . . this is . . . .

"This is a take"—"Action"—"Cut."—familiar words? Faculty members and students alike spent an unusual Sabbath in the history of Maryville college. Many of us took advantage of the opportunity to see a movie camera actually filming a picture complete with actors and actresses of our own acquaintance.

Perhaps some of the scenes raised questions in our minds. Where did the log cabin entert into the picture of the church-related college we know most about? The kind-faced gentleman reposing above the first set of shelves at the north end of the library is the one to whom students of today owe much. It might be said that Maryville college started in 1802, for in that year Isaac Anderson's "Log College" began to be the center of community life in Grassy Valley, about twenty-five mlies from Maryville. Two services on Sunday plus his daily teaching (for he was the only professor; were not enough to satisfy this Presbyterian preacher. His zeal for spreading his program became known and in 1810 he was called as pastor of the New Providence church in Maryville. Because he felt the new field would call for wider service, Isaac Anderson moved his academy to Maryville.

On his "Presbyterian circuit-riding" Mr. Anderson, sensitive to human needs, realized the great lack in the lives of the youth of East Tennessee. Their cultural and spiritual growth was sadly neglected. The seminary and college which followed as tangible results of his planning were the forerunners of the Maryville college we know and love today.

The "Maryville spirit" he created is difficult to define in words. Students of the college need no interpretation: we have seen, felt, and believed it. The high standards for which our college stands are worthy of our respect. Indeed, no tribute we can pay is great enough to express our gratitude to Isaac Anderson and his successors—they who made the existence of Maryville college a reality.

From the "log college" of 1802 to the Thaw Hall of 1945 represents years of planning, disappointments, financial difficulties, and genuine hard work. The movie we will view in the spring will endeavor to present the picture of the church college as a whole. It is then that our minds will turn to our own college and its beginnings.

Remember---Send Your Overseas Christmas Mail Sept. 15 - Oct. 15

The temperature is torrid but "summer girl" Irene Verner, National Barn Dance songstress looks ahead to Christmas. Santa Claus, alias Arkie, the Arkansas Woodchopper, swelters in his Santa suit as a reminder that Christmas packages for our men overseas should be in the mail between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

Student Council Proposes Abolition of Senior "Comps"

Student Council met for its regular weekly meeting in 212 Thaw hall on Thursday evening, September 27, at eight o'clock. Mildred Waring, president, presided.

The meeting was brief with only a short discussion of a proposal to improve the condition of the college golf course.

The previous week the student council had a lengthy business meeting with three proposals being passed by the council to be presented to the student faculty senate meeting for further consideration. They concerned abolition of the curfew for men's residences, abolition of comprehensive examinations and abolition of compulsory physical education for upperclassmen.

Use Ink in Making Your Report to Jupiter

By Elsie Onifer

"Gather 'round everybody and I'll tell you a deep, dark secret. Now you have to promise you won't tell. It's about a telephone message that the personnel fofice received the other day. What the message. Now, cross your hearts portant, but rather who sent the message. Now, cross you rhearts that you won't breathe a word of this. Come a little closer, Nancy. Well, the message was from—gosh, I won't know whether to tell you or not—well, it was from J-J-Jupiter. And do you know what he said?

He said, "Congratulations, you lucky people, at last you have accomplished the impossible. You have arranged time tn such a way as to get twenty-five hours out of a day instead of the customary twenty-four. What are you going to do with that whole extra hour? Now, you mustn't waste it because you will never have such a chance again.

Wasn't that extraordinary? (To say the least). Just think, the gods are so interested in us that they want our every minute here at Maryville college to be spent to some profit."

(Two day later). "Whew, I'm worn out. I've never seen such a long day in all my life. That extra hour just seemed an eternity. I caught up on all of my lessons, did my outside reading and—Wait a minute, what am I saying? I muet be getting mixed up. I mean, I went to church and Sunday school.

Since that extra hour came on Sunday, not much outside activity was experienced, but if it had fallen on Monday for instance, Jupiter would have had a great variety of reports on that hour.

Students would probably have reported such things as: playing tennis, running, practicing football (?), catching butterflies, swimming, hiking, sleeping or maybe even studying.

I suppose I have dwelt on this subject long enough. I must close and try again to get back into the habit of getting everything done in twenty-four hours.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Flying Six eclipse Parrots, 26-0. That was the tale of woe which filled the air on the campus last Thursday afternoon. The old football was continually in the air on offensive passes by both teams, but the glue-fingers of the F.S. boys did the damage. Intercepting two of the Parrot's passes, Bill Stewart began putting pay dust on the ball turning the dust into paydirt by passing for a 40 yard score to Will Lenoir who also laid hands on the flying pigskin for the extra point. Following another interception, three passes from the 40 yard line made the outlook dim for the Parrots, for the score at the quarter read 14-0.

In the third quarter a basketball pass to Houdeshel on the fourth down made it 20 to 0. This was soon followed by the best run of the afternoon when Stewart galloped 48 yards down the sideline making the final score stand as follows:

Flying Six	12	0	14	0	—26

Flying Six Win

On Tuesday, September 18, the Big Six appeared to be on their way to their second victory as Wilbern Seymour charged around right end on a reverse play for a touchdown. Hubby Doyle put the Flying Six another point behind by adding the point after touchdown by drop kicking.

In the second quarter a 35 yard pass to Lenoir made the game again two-sided with a 6-7 score. Late in the first half "Skinny" Smith used his weight for the purpose of blocking a Flyer punt. That resulted in a safety and two more Big Six points.

Working the ball to the Big Six five yard line, a short pass to Lenoir sewed up the game for the Flying Six. Score by quarters:

Flying Six	0	6	6	0	—12
Big Six	7	2	0	0	— 9

Slamming Six Triumph

Two freak passes in the second quarter and a 46 yard trot won the ball game when the undefeated Slamming Six kept their record unmarred by trouncing the Parrots of Paul Myers 13 to 6 on Thursday afternoon, September 20.

A pass from Bob Hill to Max House which was caught by Fred Wilson after it had been knocked from the hands of Max placed the ball on the 3 yard line for the Slammers. A quick flip to Bill Dinges and it read 6-0. However, later, a 15 yard pass my Mat Cardella to three opposing players was finally snagged by Bob Robinson, his team mate, who used his feet 40 more yards to tie the score at 6 all. Late in the last quarter Merrill Grubbs, using the "foot system" again, closed the game at 13 to7 in favor of the Slamming Six.

Slamming Six	0	6	0	7	—13
Parrots	0	6	0	0	— 6

Slammers Take Thriller

In the finest played game of the young season, which was a sensational winning score in the closing seconds by the Slammers, the Big Six went down to a 7-0 defeat.

This game, which was played on Wilson Field on Tuesday, September 25, was the most thrilling seen in the intramural competition this year. In the last few seconds of the game Merrill Grubbs received a 30 yard pass from House and then raced 40 more yards to the goal line for the game's only touchdown. A bullet pass to Wilson over right end made the final tally.

Two More High School Football Games Scheduled

You have two more afternoons this year to witness two excellent football games that will be played on Wilson field. Word from Coach Walter Coker of Everett High school says that on the afternoon of October 12, Everett will give Etowah High school a neat polishing. A month later on November 10, Rule Hi of Knoxville can be prepared to take the same medicine. To date Everett has sunk Townsend Hi 27-0, and then they "goose-egged" Alcoa Hi 33-0. College students are admitted to the games free of charge.

DINGES VS. KIDDER IN TENNIS TOURNEY FINALS

Bill Dinges and Harold Kidder have reached the final match in the annual men's singles intramural tennis tournament, which has been underway since the first part of September. The championship match is to consist of the best three out of five sets. It will be played in the afternoon of Tuesday, October 2, on the Memorial courts.

Both finalists had their worst trouble getting to the final round with their respective semi - final matches. Dinges went four hard sets to eliminate Tom Wheeler (6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3). Kidder also had to go four sets to get past Harold Hunter (3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3).

Kidder, who is philosophy major from Berwyn, Maryland, had previously defeated Merrill Grubbs and Jack Howard. Dinges had taken Jay Bishop and Leonard Schieber in his earlier round matches. He is a freshman from Nashville.

Everyone who has seen the two finalists play in the tournament so far is predicting that the championship match will be an extremely close affair, likely to go to either player.

Many New Library Books Added

Miss Martha R. Grierson, college librarian, has recently released the library budget for the year 1945-46. $16,000.00 has been allotted for new books, $875.00 for periodicals, and $350 for bindings and upkeep for books. This is a total of $2825.00, or about $6.00 per student. While five years ago the total figure was $3,981.00, there were then some 800 students enrolled, and the amount for each student was only $5.00. As the general standard set by the accrediting associations is $5.00 per person, Maryville is spending well over the total amount required as a minimum. As the enrollment increases the allotment for new books will increase.

Some of the newer publications collected by the library during the summer are listed.

Biographies

"Pleasant Valley," by Louis Bromfield.
"Enrico Caruso" an autobiography.
"Black Boy" by Richard Wright.
"Ancestors' Broades" Millicent Todd Bingham.

Fiction

"Earth and High Heaven," Gwethalyn Graham Brown.
"City of Trembling Leaves," Walter Van Tilburg Clark.
"So We Remembered," James Hilton.
"Lion Is In the Streets," Adria Locke Langley.
"Two Solitudes," Hugh MacLennan.
"White Tower," James Ullman.

History and Travel

"Brave Men," Ernest Pyle.

Language and Literature

"Negro Caravan," Sterling A. Brown.
"Bolts of Melody," Emily Dickinson.

Social Sciences

"Probing Our Prejudices," Hortense Powdermaker.
"Touchdown," Amos A. Stagg
"Thermodynamics," by Enrico Fermi, who is among the developers of the atomic bomb.

This is not a complete list of new books. There have been many additions mare to the psychology, education, and science hselves. Most of the books of Virginia Wolfe are now in the collection.

Recital Sept. 25 Features College Music Students

The first student recital of the school years was held last Tuesday afternoon in Vorhees chapel with pupils of the college music professors as program participants.

The program was as follows:

"Adoration," by Borowski
Louise Corbett
"Toccatta in D Minor" by Bach
Louise Lloyd
"Opus 14 Number 2" by Beethoven
Marian Weiler
Allegro Movement
"The Rosary LaVonne Heard
"Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me" by Handel Ruth Ramsey
"Notturno" by Respighi
Janet Rich

Accompanists were Miss Dorothy Horne, assistant professor of music, and Jean Keen.

All college students studying music for credit are required to be in these bi-monthly recitals at least once a semester. Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, is in charge of these recitals. Ruth Freeman acts as mistress of ceremonies.

Nu Gamma Groups Breakfast Outdoor In College Woods

New girls, freshmen and transfers, were entertained at a breakfast in the college woods this morning by their Nu Gamma leaders. This was the final activity of the year planned by Nu Gamma, which is under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. The group met at 6:45 on Pearsons' steps, and were taken to the college picnic grounds by Marion Lewis, Joan Liddell, Mildred Orr and Audrey Stringer. Elsie Jean Cotton and Lois Thomas led devotional exercises. In charge of preparing the meal were Leona Richardt and Kitty Johnson. They were assisted by Edith Merle Delaney, Betty Saint, and Janet Miller.

Girls Busy With Soccer Practice, Tennis Tourney

Practice in soccer is in full swing in the two groups of Point System girls. Captains will be elected and teams chosen within the next few weeks.

The tennis tournament has begun, the first brackets to be played off by October 3. All girls out for Point System are required to enter the tournament. Twenty points are accorded all entrants, and five points are added for each match won.

Volley ball and aerial darts tournaments will complete the girls' program for this semester. According to Ruth King Wood, the coach, approximately forty girls have signed up for Point System this year.

Dr. Gillingham Is Club Speaker

Dr. C. H. Gillingham, visiting professor of Bible, will be the principle speaker at the Faculty club's first regular meeting of the school year, October 8 in the home economics rooms. Dr. Gillingham will read an original paper on Edgar Allen Poe. Audience discussion of the composition will follow. At the completion of the program refreshments will be served by home economics studdents.

The Faculty club, composed of the college teaching staff, meets five times during the school year, with special program spresented at each meeting by members or guests.

The 1945-46 Faculty club committee is composed of Dr. H. E. Orr. professor of religion and philosophy; Miss Ruth Cowdrick, associate professor of French; Dr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology and education; Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics; Dr. L. L. Williams, associate professor of biology.

ATHENIANS

The college woods was "on location" for the Athenian picnic which was held on Saturday night September 29th for the Athenians and their dates. The picnic lasted from 6:30 until 10:00 and was primarily for the initiation of the new members. Freshmen gave readings and skits while Harold Kidder, Bob DuBois, Merrill Grubbs and Tom Wheeler made up the singing quartet. Mr. and Mrs. Vine were the official chaperons. The picnic was a weiner roast complete with all the trimmings. Kenneth Kribbs, the program chairman, also announced that "All initiates that followed instructions were issued passes to the game."

I.R.C. PICNIC

The International Relations club held its second meeting of the year with a picnic on Monday, September 24, on the college picnic grounds. There was 25 present among whom were Professor Commodore B. Fisher and his wife.

ROBERT DOCKENDORF, junior English major from Hyattsville, Maryland: The gossip column, I guess, then the front page. A news column would be a good addition to the Echo.

LILLIAN CONRAD, sophomore psychology major from New Orleans, Louisiana: The gossip column; I never get much past that. Yes, indeed! I never have a chance to read a newspaper.

JIM MARTIN, junior psychology major from Bloomington, Illinois: I always glance over the front page and then turn immediately to the gossip column. No, I wouldn't be interested in a news brief on the front page because in some way I get most of the important news, and it seems to me that there is enough school news to write about without taking up a column with world news.

AUDRE MONTEITH, junior zoology major form Pottsville, Pennsylvania: I read the headlines first, glance over the front page and then read the gossip column. I usually read the entire paper. I think this suggested column would be a decided asset to the paper. I know there are loads of students who have no time to read more than the headlines of the daily paper, and a summary of the news in Echo would help us to keep up with the news in a small way at least. I also think we need more expository and discusison columns in the Echo.

CARL LAZENBY, freshman math major from Jasper, Alabama: I usually read the sports page first. Yes, I would be interested in such a column.

JUSTICE RUTLEDGE TO SPEAK ON FOUNDER'S DAY

News Capsules.....

By Lonnie Richardt

This week in review—the headlines:

LABOR PROBLEMS MOUNT

400,000 men are "strike-idle." Until Saturday, when they returned to work, New York dock workers, or longshoremen, had held up shipping for nearly two weeks over cargo net load limits. 53,000 men were involved.

NLRB reports that labor disputes have hit na all-time high with 507 strike petitions since September 1.

WLB is to meet with President Truman today on the liquidation question. CIO stands for continuance; AFL spokesmen dissent.

A sixty-five cent wage level controversy may be near compromise in the Senate. Truman and cabinet (including new labor secretary, Schellenbach) favor the twenty-five cent boost.

ARGENTINE POLITICAL SHAKE-UP CONTINUES

Gen. Avalos and Vice-Adm. Lima, "strong mn" of Argentina, have taken over six of eleven cabinet positions and instituted drastic army shakeup. Several provincial leaders have been asked to resign. New political-military regime reflects pro-capital, anti-Nazi shift.

BYRNES REPORTS ON RUSSIAN PARLEY

James F. Byrnes reported this week after London conferences over Balkan, Yugoslav problms between Russia and western allies. Delayed action is necessary in handling of Russian relations; Stalin is easier to confer with than Molotov, says Byrnes. Age-old Dardenelles question is still a sore sport.

HOSTILITIES RECUR IN JAVA, INDO CHINA, CHINA

Student Council Considers Many Current Problems

Mildred Waring, president, presided over the weekly meeting of the Student Council held in Thaw Hall Thursday evening, October 11, at 8 o'clock.

Items of business were as follows the suspension of the Town Night privilege for three weeks for a student who had forgotten to sign in her dormitory the previous town night, a report of the committee on student government, a discussion of the recreation center and the trouble there is of getting persons to serve as hosts and hostesses and a decision by the council to ask any student council representative, who misses three council meetings without arranging for his absences, to resign his position on the council.

At the previous regular meeting of the student council, held on October 3, there was a discussion of possibility of getting the college golf course put into good repair and a decision by the council to accept the resignation of Robert Whitford, senior representative. There were no Town Night violations to be passed on at that meeting.

Sisk Will Head Social Committee

Katherine Sisk was elected chairman of the social committee of the regular meeting on Friday October 12. Miss Sisk, a senior music major from Maryville, Tenn. replaced Bob Whitford, who automatically resigned his position as chairman of the social committee when he recently resigned from Student council.

JOHN H. WEBB, BENEFACTOR, DIRECTOR OF M.C. SUCCUMBS

Funeral services were held for Mr. John H. Webb, a director of Maryville college for the past seventeen years, at the New Providence Presbyterian church, Tuesday, October 9, at 10:00 a.m. The Reverend Thomas A. Graham and Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd officiated.

Mr. Webb, who was in his eighty seventh year, had not been very active for a number of years, although he had been in reasonably good health. He attended Maryville college more than sixty years ago, having enrolled as a student in 1877. His daughter and only survivor, Mrs. David W. Proffitt, graduated in the class of 1916.

A merchant all of his life, Mr. Webb was at one time manager of Miller's Department store in Knoxville and for a number of years was the proprietor of Webb's Store in Knoxville. He lived in Maryville and commuted to Knoxville every day for over twenty-five years. During his later years there, he drove his own car and often told the story of how on his seventy-fifth birthday he drove a short part of the distance to Knoxville at a seventy-five mile an hour speed.

After he retired, he spent much of his time in Proffitt's Store in Maryville, which is owned by his son-in-law.

In speaking of Mr. Webb's life, Dr. Lloyd said that "he was a man of many friendships, fine character, and a succesful career. Throughout his life he was a good friend and benefactor of Maryville college." There will be a memorial minute prepared by the directors for their meeting in November.

The body was interred at Grand View cemetery in Maryville.

Frances Sisk Is Alumni Assistant

Miss Francis Sisk of Maryville has recently ben named assistant in the college alumni offfce, filling the office vacated this summer by Mrs. Marie P. Cundiff.

Miss Sisk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Sisk, graduated from Maryville college in 1942 with a degree in French. Following her graduation she was employed by the navy department at the Alcoa Aluminum plant, the position which she held until becoming alumni assistant.

New Clock System Will Synchronize Campus Minutes

Recently there has been installed and put in operation in the personnel office a master clock for the whole campus and a program clock that works with the master clock and regulates the schedule of bells.

According to Mr. Louis A. Black, director of maintenance for the college, nine secondary clocks have been purchased and, when the necessary wire is available to make connections, they will be placed in Balwin, Carnegie, the chapel, the dining hall and kitchen, gymnasium, library, Memorial and Pearsons. Additional ones can be purchased for other locations any time later. Ten six inch bells have also been purchased and will be placed in halls of the dormitories and class room buildings.

Mr. Black stated, "This is one of the most valuable additions to be provided for the college. Every individual and every scheduled activity is dependent on the time equipment."

The secondary clocks will be hourly - supervised, which means that they check automatically with the master clock in the personnel office every hour, so that on the hour every clock will register the exact time. That is designed to do away with the confusion and delay that result when the clocks in the different buildings do not register the same time.

The following is a technical description of the new equipment released by the office of maintenance:

Master clock — "Motor wound, weight-driven, self-regulating movement, with wall type case, with sixty beat mercurial pendulum designed to control and supervise hourly program machines and secondary clock equipments checking against each power interruptions or irregularities."

Program clock — "Twelve discs, minute interval, three circuit program machine, bell circuit relays, push button and switches, with master relay, transformer, rectifier, advance switch. All mounted in a wood case cabinet with glass panel doors that match the master clock case."

Dr. H. L. Weber At Student Vols

Dr. H. L. Weber, a medical missionary from the Fred Hope Mission, led a forum at the regular Volunteer meeting, Sunday night, October 14. At the same time all students had an opportunity to give contributions, an arrangement replacing the annual dues of previous years.

At the meeting of October 21, the speaker will be Mr. Sam Franklin, a former misionary to Japan and a present chaplain. He has been and soon will continue working with Sherwood Eddy and the migrants in the South.

Catherine Boyer, a freshman who spent thirteen years in Korea, spoke on October 7.

College Students Play at Recital

A recital was held in the chapel on October 9, at 4:30. All lessons students taking individual lessons were required to attend. Mr. Vine is in charge of a all recitals.

The program was as follows:

Charlotte Harris, Acc.

Brazileira from Scaramouche Suite ..... Mulhaud
Duet Marion Weller, Mary Jo Bolin

ALL YEAR BOOK PHOTOS TAKEN

Jayne Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean for this year, has announced that all pictures for the year book have been taken.

Those students who sat for retakes on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 10 and 11, are expected to have their proofs by the end of ten days.

Mr. Benson, who handles the printing and engraving for the annual has been on campus during the week and is doing everything that is necessary for smooth publishing.

Both the editorial and business staffs are determined that their aim be reached: that is, to have a copy in the hands of each student who desires one, before the closing of school in the spring.

"No Hazing" Says Committee on Initiation Rules

Acting to clarify policies concerning initiations, and to bring them to the attention of the heads of various campus groups, the faculty committee on scheduling of activities met recently and adopted the following rules:

1. No organization is to conduct any initiation which has not been approved in detail by the factulty sponsor of the organization, or, if there is no direct sponsor, without approval of either the Supervisor of Men's residence or the Supervisor of Women's Residence.

2. All initiation ceremonies must be completed during one regular closed meeting. They cannot extend over a period of days.

3. All hazing (any act which might probably result in physical injury) is forbidden.

4. Initiates are not to carry out in public (i.e, ouside of the organization's own meetings) any instructions designed to embarrass or humiliate.

These specifications have been drawn up in the interest of giving uniformity and smoothness to the very full program on the campus.

Campus Showing of May Day Film Soon

Moving pictures in technicolor of the processional and royal court of last year's May Day celebration will be shown on campus this week. The film was sent to President Ralph W. Lloyd by Mrs. Ethel Hanners Beall, who reigned as May Day queen last year.

All participants and those who served on committees as well as those who may have some interest in this year's program are invited to see this short film. The time and place of showing will be announced in chapel.

All-Girl Choristers Pick Committees; Plan Weiner Roast

The fifty-two voice all-girl choir, under the direction of Curtis Hughes, instructor of music, has announced its personnel of managing committees.

Composing the executive committee are Director Hughes, Alma Lancaster, Eleanor Kelly; Sara Enloe, social chairman, and Ruth King Wood, recreation chairman.

Members of the social committee, in addition to its chairman, are Joyce Jones, Katherine Payne, and Eloise Gaston.

The recreation committee is made up of its chairman, Miss Wood, Mary Jane Blizzard, Virginia West, and Buffie Carver.

A weiner roast October 19 in the college woods is the first recreation event scheduled for the girl chorusers, Director Hughes stated.

The all-girl choir made its first public appearance at the Sunday vespers service October 7. Their musical selection was Todd's. "Alleluia!"

The all - girl choir will sing at vesper services the first Sunday in each month, Mr. Hughes said. Numbers selected for the choir's appearance Novemeber 4 are "O Savior of the World" by Pears-Reigger and "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn.

Theta Alpha Phi Chooses New Play

The Tennessee Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi has selected the play "Guest in the House," by Hagar Wilde and Dale Eunson, for their annual production, Mrs. Nita Eckles West announced last Thursday. The leading roles will be played by Jean Balch, Max House, Virginia Miller, Jay Bishop, Bette Lou McCoy and Sara Crider. Other members of the cast have not been selected, but will be announced at a later date.

The college players had previously chosen "Angel Street," which is known also as "Gaslight," but because the play is going on the road, rights have been withdrawn for college production. The cast had been completed for "Angel Street" and it may possibly be given later in the year.

Y.M. Hikers Climb Mount LeConte on Annual Excursion

Y.M.C.A. had its annual overnight hike in the mountains the night of Saturday, October 13. Sponsored by the fellowship committee of Y.M. the group of 50 fellows left for the Smokies in a special bus at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon and returned to the campus 5:30 Sunday night.

Mr. Commodore B. Fisher, associate professor of social science, went with the fellows and gave the Sunday School lesson Sunday morning. Tommy Parkinson was in charge of arrangements for the event.

Tom Wheeler was in charge of the campfire program on Saturday night. That program consisted of humorous talks by Mr. Fisher and Bob Dockendorf, president of "Y", skits, numbers by a quartet composed of Kidder, Wheeler, Barlow and Ross, and group singing.

The feature of the whole outing was the hike of the group up Mt. Williams on Sunday. Dr. L. L. Williams, Harold Hunter, and Charlie Huffman were the hike leaders.

Cooks for the hree meals were John Shell, Harold Kidder, and Tommy Parkinson.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court Was Maryville Student

Wiley Blount Rutledge, Jr., Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, will be the speaker of the Founder's Day service on Saturday, October 27. Founder's Day this year will have as its theme "Maryville College and the Nation." Justice Rutledge will speak at the service to be held at 11:00 a.m. in the chapel, while immediately after the program, there will be lunch for the students in the dining hall and the annual Homecoming barbecue for alumni on the baseball field.

Three thousand bulletins announcing the annual Homecoming and Founder's Day have been sent out by the Alumni association, of which the Reverend James R. Smith of Knoxville is the executive secretary. Mr. Smith is in charge of arrangements for Homecoming. Before the war, a football game was the feature of the day.

Justice Rutledge, who will be guest of honor at the barbecue, attended Maryville college as a student through his junior year; he was in preparatory school here for two years and attended the college until his family moved to Wisconsin. He received his B.A. degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1914. He studied law at the University of Colorado and Washington University in St. Louis, and became the dean of the College of Law at the University of Iowa in 1931. In 1939, he was appointed by President Roosevelt to the United States Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, and in 1943 to the United States Supreme Court as an associate justice.

His wife, the former Miss Annabel Person, was a member of the Maryville college faculty from 1911-1914. It is expected that she will accompany her husband and that they will be guests of President and Mrs. Lloyd while they are on the campus.

Missionary, Dr. Weber, Speaks of Leprosy Work

Dr. H. L. Weber, for forty-two years a medical missionary in French Cameroun, spoke at the vesper service Sunday, October 14. Dr. Weber is a graduate of Hamilton college in New York and Rush Medical college in Chicago, and holds the master's and doctor of science degrees from Hamilton.

In 1902, Dr. Weber began this work in the Efulan forest, ministering to both the bodies and souls of the natives. After sixteen years of this work, his vision of a central hospital began to come true. When a site was chosen for the building, word of the work spread so fast and so far that soon the need far exceeded the facilities. Before 1926 had ended, the second unit of the project was finished and bigger and better equipment began to arrive. In 1907, Dr. Weber began his dental department; in 1929, the McBurney orphanage was finished; and also in 1929, the Memorial chapel was made posible.

Some of the most effective work of Dr. and Mrs. Weber has been done among the lepers. They began this work in 1925 when permission was received to reopen the German colony for lepers. From this beginning of one hundred and fifty-eight lepers, the work has increased through the years until in 1944, Dr. Weber and his associates were administering to many, many times that number. In 1930 a leper colony for less extreme cases was begun with the aid of the American Mission to Lepers. While the lepers themselves worked on the buildings, the doctors at central hospital began experiments in the making of ethyl esters from crude Chaulmoogra oil, thus saving thousands of dollars previously spent in the shipment of prepared ethyl esters from America. In 1940, Dr. Werber began treatments with diphtheria antitoxin, and found that there was still more to be learned about the treatment of leprosy. A home for untainted leper children has lately been started and those still at Central hospital are looking forward to its success.

Dr. Weber's individual work in the French Cameroun was recognized in 1934 by the French government when it made him a Knight of the French Legion of Honor. This is one of the rarest and most coveted honors bestowed by the French government and is rarely ever given outside official circles.

During his stay here, Dr. Weber addressed the student volunteers after the vesper service and is scheduled to speak to the pre-medcial club tonight.

Judy Turk Speaks at Prayer Meeting

Judy Turk, junior from Thomasville, Georgia, was the speaker at the weekly Wednesday evening prayer meeting held October 10, at 6:45 in the "Y" rooms.

Miss Turk's address was taken from a letter that was written by the late Betty Hollis to a brother that was entering Davidson college. Her theme was taken from Jeremiah 33:3, "Call unto Me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."

Jack Ross, accompanied at the piano by Mary Batchelor, led the group singing. Special music was a violin solo of "Berceuse" from Jocelyn, by Miss Anna Sakaizawa.

128 Girls Attend Y.W.C.A. Fall Hike

The annual YWCA hike was held last Saturday, October 13. Approximately two hundred girls left Maryville at one o'clock for the bus ride to Mont Vale. From Mont Vale the girls hiked up to Look Rock. After their return to Mont Vale they ate supper and sang songs before starting back.

Ruth King Wood, junior from LaFollette, Tenn., had charge of the trip. Serving under Miss Wood were Grace Ellen Cross, Doris June Vinton, Betty Alverson, Marjorie Prall, and Virginia West. On the food committee were Lucille Sitler, Mary Jo White, and Edith Delany. The songs were led by Mary Evelyn Jamison. The group was chaperoned by Miss Nancy Hunter, secretary to Dr. Lloyd, and Miss Viola Lightfoot, assistant to the dean of students.

President Lloyd Attends Business, Church Conference

During the past week Dr. Lloyd has traveled between New York City and Atlanta, Georgia, in the interests of Maryville college and the Presbyterian church.

His first trip was from Maryville to Washington, D. C., by train. There he was a guest at the home of Wiley B. Rutledge, a justice of the United States Supreme Court, and former student of Maryville college. While in Washington, Dr. Lloyd also saw Dr. Verton M. Queener, professor of political science, who is on leave of absence.

In New York Dr. Lloyd atttended a session of the American Committee of the World Council of Church. The Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., has selected four men for representation on that committee. The men are John Foster Dulles of New York (Mr. Dulles was advisor to Thomas E. Dewey in his presidential campaign), Dr. William Barrow Pugh of Philadelphia, President John Mackey of Princeton Theological Seminary, and Pres. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, of Maryville.

Also while in New York, Dr. Lloyd took care of some business

Seven Tryouts Make Echo Staff; Three Sophs Augment Business Staff

Seven new members were elected to the editorial staff of the Highland Echo in a meeting of the publication committees Thursday afternoon, October 11. These reporters have been trying out for positions in the past three issues of the paper.

Betty Lou McCoy, now senior associate editor, is a philosophy major from Dayton, Ohio. She worked on the Echo her freshman and sophomore years. Miss McCoy is also campus correspondent for the Knoxville papers.

Janet Miller, sophomore from York, Pennsylvania, majoring in biology, and Kenneth Kribbs, sophomore sociology major from Orlando, Florida, were elected to fill vacancies in the sophomore staff of reporters. Miss Miller was feature editor of her high school newspaper. Kribbs was sports editor of his high school publication.

Freshmen apprentices include Mary Elizabeth Carver of Ambridge, Pennsylvania, who worked on her high school publication. Grace Gugger of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, who has had no previous experience; Betty Harte from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania worked on the paper of her high school and Naomi Hoffman, Scranton, Pennsylvania, has not done previous work on a peper.

Appointed to the business staff as sophomore aprentices were Katherine Johnson, psychology major from Hopkinsville, Kentucky; Marian Monteith from Pottsville, Pennsylvania, who is a biology major; and Joy Stewart, bilogy major from Birmingham, Alabama.

In Memoriam

Ringing the Anderson bell was one of the jobs young John Webb did some sixty years ago as he worked his way in school. He attended Maryillve seven years as a prep school and college student. These were not consecutive years, for he dropped out at times to work, and he gave up college without having obtained a degree. But he never lost touch with the school or with the work it was doing.

He was interested in the individuals, usually the individuals who were having to struggle to make their way. These he helped quietly, unobtrusively, and people never knew or when.

May the kind and helpful spirit of this friend live always in his school.

We Look At Student Government

"What's this discussion we hear going the rounds about the possibility of student government in the women's dormitories? Is there any thing to it? What's it for? What would we have to do? What's its purpose?

If you've been asking some of these questions, put them down on paper for the student government question box next Wednesday.

What are the purposes of student government? The purposes of student government in the women's dormitories of Maryville would be, in general, those stated in the constitution of the Student Body of Maryville college, viz: to cooperate with faculty and students in maintaining Maryville's distinctive major policies. Its more specific purpose would be to provide a medium for self-government for the women of the college and for the various dormitories, within the general regulations of the college; with a view to stimulating and maintaining standards of Christian living at college by fostering and makng effective a sense of unity and fellowship among the women of the college; by increasing their sense of responsibility to one another and to the college, and by cooperative planning in the administration, especially or dormitory life.

Its objectives, then, are to provide an experiment in practical democracy, emphasize honor and individual responsibility, and develop personality through cooperative living.

The chief values of student government in the dormitories would be that students might "learn by doing," and develop self-sufficiency by assuming responsibility.

In any organibed society privileges go hand-in-hand with responsibility. In many progressive colleges and universities students are governing themselves, and if campus opinion here is in favor of assuming responsibility in the women's dormitories, this would be a major step in that direction. Other steps toward self-government which have received the whole-hearted cooperation of Maryville students are Town Night and the recreation center.

Discussion will be held soon in house meetings at each of the women's dormitories to consider the responsibilities and privileges which student government in the dormitories would entail and to discover student opinion in regard to it.

A student committee, appointed by the student council, has been discussing with the faculty committee on student government the possibility of such self-government in the dorms. They would like to know the question in your minds concerning such student government and ask the cooperation of the women students of the college in writing out their questions relative to student government and depositing them in a box which will be provided for the purpose next Wednesday (October 17) in Pearson's lobby at noon. These question and comments will then form the basis of the group discussion at the house meetings.

Thru The Keyhole

Constance Hawkins

Those table tennis champs again—Skip, Harold, Bill, and Dave—only this time they seemed to be playing on the walls and ceiling as well as on the floor. Kibitzer Becky must have decided that table tennis that way was a little too much for her.

And speaking of Harold—consolations? It seems that if the Cubs won, Fred was to wait the table, but as everyone knows, the Tigers won, hence Harold waited. Don't feel too badly, Harold, there's at least one boy who envies you. James Payson would like to be a waiter permanently—he didn't say what kind.

More World Series news—citrus competition can lead to strange things. Kribbs, who's from Florida, bet on the Tigers simply because the Cubs trained in California.

As Art said to Jim, "All the world's a stage, and Haaf's the character." Move over, Art, from the sighs around here, you've got plenty of company.

At the supper table one special night—since vitamin X (remember those old X's and circles?) is so vital to good health, it should be passed all around the table. Well, Ma started off in a good spirit, but Bill decided that that wasn't good enough for him, so in passing it back to Ma, he enlarged upon it. Bill! And in public, too!

The very thought of "supper" makes us hungry. Too bad, "Charlie's Chop Suey Joint" in 325 Baldwin isn't open right now. Nan says anyone is welcome to a special deluxe supper of coffee and limburger cheese.

Mary Annis, just where do you get all those men? Hoarding is a word which is rapidly going out of date, but how else can you describe your actions?

Then there are those people who think. Andy is in the hospital because of Janet. One can stand only so much corn. But away from it all you should soon feel better, Andy. We hope so.

Paul Myers certainly seems to be getting around. Besides all the girls on campus, 'tis also rumored that he has a girl in town.

Lonnie's very proud of that ring and basketball, but, Hubby, if you must give your trophies away, why not be more like Paul—scatter your affections.

For a play by play description of the Ole Miss-Louisana Tech game last Saturday, see Kitty Stidham and Millie Jones. But surely the game couldn't have been the only reason for their trip to Mississippi!

Seen passing—Mr. Hughes looking, as one of the girls phrased it, as if he had stepped out of a bandbox or a fashion magazine for men, such as Esquire. Esquire?

Was Mr. Vine's mind more on the widow or the sleep when he asked the orchestra to play "The Sleeping Widow"? But maybe the widow was a beauty!

Is Chandler God's gift to senior women? Well, what about the rest of the girls?

Midnight parties being almost wholly (?) a freshman custom—if it's luck and succeses you want, Carnegie, don't see Janet's wing of the hall. They always seem to get caught, and at the most awkward moments, too!

After hearing about Charles, that hunk of the Navy, for days on end in that afternoon lab, some of these Freshmen girls must have been frankly envious when he finally came to see Carol.

Jeannie Cobb's s.p. has become a k.p. (which doesn't mean "kitchen police"!) but as for his name you'll have to see Jeannie.

Also after lights out, heard across the way—"Now, do it with your lips, Elsie."

One more thing and then it's "Lights Out" for this column—Some of the orchestra must not have been listining when Mr. Vine jokingly told of the girls that unless the members had a class to cut, they couldn't be in the orchestra picture for the Chilhowean, or he'd have had a mass walk-out.

See, I told you, there go the lights! Be seein' you.

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

"And as for me, though that my wit be light,
On books for to read I me delight,
And to them give I faith and full credence,
And in my heart have them in reverence."

From these thoughts of Geoffrey Chaucer in the 14th century to the following from Winston Churchill in the 20th is a long span of time. "Books in all their variety offer the means whereby civilization may be carried triumphantly forward."

However, to each of these and many other literature-lovers through the years, books have penetrated the outer shell of mere intellectuality and reached the depths of mind enrichment and heart or soul-enjoyment.

Suppose we be frank with ourselves. What do books mean to us other than an assignment in Milton or home ec or music history? Do we ever come into the library just to browse around? Have we ever checked but a book for pleasure-reading that wasn't some piece of light fiction? Is our critical judgment of a boook based on heearsay and the realization that the book is a "best-seller"; or is it an evaluation formed by reviews in the Saturday Review of Literature, the New York Times book section, or our own reading of the book?

These are personal questions, aren't they? Their answers will tell us just what sort of mental personalities we are developing. The stupid read little. The intelligent do much reading. Thus the measure of our intellectual level is determined by the quality and amount of reading we do. In our library we have almost unlimited opportunity for book selection when we choose to read. There are three books I would like to set before you with the hope that they will serve toward further choice-making of your own.

Margaret Landon's Anna and the King of Siam is the story of an adventurous little English governess who dared to speak frankly in the oriental court of a heatehn monarch. She introduced Christian concepts of democracy into the Siamese kingdom.

Brave Men by Ernie Pyle finds a place on bookshelves today even with the war at an end. The ordinary "G.I." lives within the pages as this war correspondent lists names and addresses of those whom he met in Nissen huts, trenches, and headquarters throughout the European campaigns.

Interested in a story with a sociological problem? Gwethelyn Graham's Brown's Earth and High Heaven may be your answer. A young Jewish lawyer and a Gentile girl find their love for each other conquers the barriers of parental refusal, tradition, and public opinion only after a series of frustrating incidents and many religious and racial conflicts.

Why not check out a book for your week-end reading?

Watch My Dust , Or, Oops, I Swept My Roommate Under The Rug

Here it is the middle of the semester and if work ever piled up on you it does just now. Life is one constant rush. All you hear are bells. Zoom—you're off to another class.

Much thought is given to homework but it has been suggested that you devote some time to your lowly dormitory room. In your twenty-four hour day each one of you lucky peple is allowed four to five hours in which to participate in extra curricular activities. Why not take three and a half hours of this time and as your amusement, dust, sweep, wash, iron, and perhaps warite a few letters?

Here is a prevue of what one-eighth of your day iwll be like. 1st you need exercise. Throw away that medicine ball and pick up the broom. You say you don't have one (Elder's have beautiful ones with green handles and eight pieces of straw to the inch.) Grasp the broom near the top, right hand over left. Now push. Cough! Cough! A little gentler, please. I just remembered, you did it backwards. You were supposed to dust first. That piece of burlap is just fine. Dust around June's picture. That's great. Here is something never heard of before. Windex. See, now look out the window and the corn is green. Forget about the washing today. You still have a pair of green socks left for tomorrow. You'll find something that will go with them. This was very simple and takes care of the ironing. I'll bet you're surprised not to find any.

Now, friend, draw up a chair and lift a fountain pen. "Dear Mom, had a very busy day today. Why are the professors so hard on us? Love."

So ends your extra curricular activities and thus stars study period. Much more fun, isn't it?

Dr. Hunter's Class Devises Test for Vocabulary Count

By Mary Elizabeth Hunt

Have you ever wondered how large your vocabulary is? Nine students who are studying English 331 not only wondered how large their vocabulary was, but also how they might make a fairly accurate count without having to count each word in the dictionary. So under the direction of Dr. Hunter, they set out to find the answer.

Unable to find a record of any previous count that had been made, they decided to try a method that might devise and test the results. They chose the Webster's New International Dictionary as the book to be used. Then they decided to take one page for each hundred pages of the dictionary. In order that they might compare results, it was decided that they should take page 100 and every hundredth page thereafter, which would make the final page number 2900. They agreed to make two lists, one composed of words that they would recognize if they saw in written material, and the second list composed of words that they would use in speech.

These two lists were added together to form the complete list of words that they knew. The result of the twenty-nine pages was multiplied by one hundred, since only one hundredth pages were used. The result was taken as an approximate vocabulary count.

All of the results were better than the average which has been set for college graduates. The highest count that was received was 76,800 and the class average was 53,075 words.

The number of words that the students knew varied from page to page. On some pages, students found that they knew none of the words, while on others, some knew as many as fifty words. They also found that there was not a very strong line of demarkation between words that they would recognize, and those that they would use.

The time required to make the count varied with different students, but two to three hours was long enough to discover with a fair accuracy, the number of words that they know on the twent-nine pages.

In order to check the plan, one might decide to take some other twenty-nine pages, one hunderd pages apart, and try the same method on them, comparing the results.

matters for the college, conferring with the United States Trust Company of New York, who are financial advisors of Maryville. In Philadelphia he met with officers of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, and saw Dr. Luther Stein, who was on the campus several weeks ago during the filming of motion pictures.

From Philadelphia, President Lloyd flew to Atlanta, for the annual meeting of the Southern Students' Field Council of YMCA and YWCA. Maryville was also represented there by Miss Rebecca Davis, president of YW. Dr. Lloyd is chairman of the student committee on the work of the student area council of the YMCA.

Alpha Sigma Officers Installed

Alpha Sigma officers were formally installed Oct. 13 at a ceremony conducted in the Alpha Sigma room in Anderson hall. Mr. E. McCurry, supervisor of men's residence, was a guest as he has been at this occasion for many years.

New members who were formally initiated with secret rites in Bartlett hall on Oct. 6, are Jay Bishop, John Briggs, Bob Mac Clay, Paul Meyers, Ed Anthony, and Ronald (Pee Wee) Regan.

Carnegie Girls Will Entertain Thetas

Because of the "Y" Hike, the regular meeting of Theta Epsilon announced for Saturday, October 13, was postponed. Theta members will be entertained Saturday evening, October20, by the talent of all those new members who were not initiated and who live in Carnegie. Suen Chen and Dorothy French will be in charge of the program.

The following week's program will be in charge o fgthe Baldwin members.

Cloth on the Line or Soapsuds Blues

"I was a washerwoman and thee was a washerwoman in our kingdom down below," below the first floor. Oh, yes, the rat of washing clothes has greatly improved since grandma's day—well it's changed anyway. Happy little washday suds get things spotlessly clean and our hands are lovely to touch because It floats, if you can get it. Washboards no longer sing their gentle little songs — now we used our knuckles and they are not brass! Never more do we carry buckets of water to the wash tubs—we carry the tubs to the water. If we are hardy enough to get through the ordeal of the actual washing we have only to look and see our futile efforts trailing in the mud because the clotheslines were just too tired to hold them any longer. Speaking of clotheslines, have you seen the lines of dainties hanging from the third floor windows of Memorial? Such immodesty! A few of us have new fangled clothes dryers but you know it's a funny thing but my roommate objects to my washing hanging over her bed on a trapeze. Narrow-minded. Then we come to the ironing of the finished product. Oh such joy, especially when you must stand in line to do it. Oh, well, just add a case of fallen arches to your scarred and bleeding knuckles. You dampen the things and when two weeks later you prepare to iron them, whadda-you-know, some more mold for biology class! Grandma's day was never like this—lucky, grandma!

LAUGHING MATTER

One Sunday Mr. Graham was on his way to church when he saw a group of boys busily engaged in digging. He stopped to reprove them for working on the Sabbath.

"Boys," he said, "don't you know that you must never work on the Sabbath except in case of great necessity."

"This is a great necessity, minister," said one of the boys. "We can't go fishing unless we find some worms for bait."

An Irishman whose name was Michael Howe went to the post office and said to the clerk:

"Say, is there a letter here for Mike Howe?"

"No," he replied, "there's no letter here for your cow or anybody alse's cow."

"Say," asked one fellow of another, "What would you think of a man who got up at three o'clock in the morning in the rain to go horseback riding?"

"I would thing he was crazy," replied his friend.

"Paul Revere did," he answered.

Teacher to student: "How stupid you are. You can't even multiply eight-eight by twenty-five. I dare say that Charles can do it in no time."

Student: "I shouldn't be surprised. They say that fools multiply very rapidly these days."

Frosh Scrappers Take Upper Crust With 7-6 Score

By Kenneth Kribbs

The spectators at Wilson field on Saturday afternoon, October6, witnessed one of the most exciting six-man touch football games this year. The freshmen class, who were known as the Frosh Scrappers, tangled with Uppre Crust, who had been selected to represent the upper-classmen. A last minute touchdown pass gave the game to the freshmen, 7-6.

By half time the Freshmen Scrappers with Bill Stewart and Hubby Doyle using the fresh air system of flipping the pigskin to Will Lenoir and Bob "Minute-Man" Hill had rolled up a total of 87 yards to the 20 yards of the upper crust. The first half ended with the score at 0-0.

The Scrappers kicked off to start the second half. Within four plays the crust had made their touchdown to take the lead, 6-0. Mat Cardella had returned the kickoff 30 yards to the Frosh 46 yard line. On the third consetuve pass, Cardella connected with Tom Parkinson on the 31. From there on in Parkinson was the man of the minute.

In the fourth preiod Bill Stewart's intercepting a second pass within a minute's time gave the Scrappers their last chance to score. The fireworks began when Stewart intercepted a Crust pass on the 25 and returned it to the Crust's 48. A thirty yard pass to Doyle put the ball on the 18 yard line with a first down, and goal to go. At this point in the game Bob Hill, high scorer in the intramural games, re-enacted the game. With one minute to go, two passes put the ball on the 5 yard line. A blooper pass to the waiting arms of Hill in the end zone tied the game 6-6. An extra point pass to Bill Dinges had to be played twice due to disagreement between the offifcials. This made the score 7-6 in favor of the Frosh with 55 seconds left to play. A kickoff and an intercepted pass by the Scrappers ended the game.

Starting lineup:

Frosh Scrappers		Upper Crust
Hill	LE	Seymour
Dinges	C	Cover
Lenoir	RE	Parkinson
Martin E.	LH.	Cardelle
Doyle	RH	House
[illegible]	B	Grubbs

Subs: Frosh, Robinson, Miller Candler, Richardett; Upper, Scheiber, McArthur.

Flying Six Win, 1-0

The whistle had blown, and the game was over with a 0-0 tie game remaining to be decided by overtime play. That was the picture last Thursday afternoon on Wilson field, as the Flying Six of Leonard Schieber and the Big Six of Bill Cover fought to se who would take the game, 1-0.

After playing the entire game, and both sides still remaining score less, the overtime period was played. As neither side made a score during this time, the ball went to the Big Six for four downs. Ken Kribbs' freak pass to Fred Richardett who hoofed the ball to the Flyer's 4 yard line really gave the Big Six the edge. On their fourth down the Big Six lost possession of the ball on the Flyers on their own 26 yard line.

At this point Bill Stewart of the Flyers flipped a short pass to Leonard Schneider who raced down the field 75 yards for the only socore of the game. This automatically gave the game to the Flying Six, 1-0.

KIDDER WINS TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP FROM DINGES

Harold Kidder overcame a large lead to beat Bill Dinges in the championship match of the intramural tennis tournament played on the Memorial courts, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. It took Kidder the full five sets of the final match, which was a best three out of five affair, to overcome Dinges for the championship. The scores were 2-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Both players were nervous at the opening of the match and the tennis was slow as a result. However, the tennis improved as the match progressed. Dinges won the first set without too much trouble and managed to take the second also. At that point, with Dinges needing only one more set to take the match, Kidder got "on his game" and played his best brand of tennis. The next three sets went to Kidder by wide scores, but it was going stronger than Dinges, with both players making excellent shots. Both players tired considerably during the course of the afternoon, but at the end Kidder was goinf stronger than Dinges, who had a blister on his racquet hand.

Kidder had defeated Hunter in the semi-finals and Dinges had eliminated Wheeler in that round to get to the finals.

Last year Squire Kemp, who is now in the army, won the tournament. His opponent in the championship match was Luther Cross.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

On Tuesday afternoon, October 2, the Parrotts of Paul Myers brought themselves out of the cellar position in the intramural football standings. From the first down until the last play it was the Parrot's game, as they thumped the Big Six of Bill Cover, 13-7.

On the first down of the game Mat Cardella of the Parrots received the pass from the center. From the time that he received the ball until the referee threw both hands into the air to signal a touchdown he had run 65 yards for the first touchdown for, the Parrots. Their second score soon followed. Working the ball from the thirty to the four, Earl Martin sliced left end for a 12-0 score. A quick flip of the pigskin to Charley Huffman, and it was 13-0.

In the second period an interception by Ken Kribbs of the Big Six on the Parrot 15 yard line, and quick foot work gave the Big Six their only tochdown. Bill Cover passed to Lloyd Chandler for the extra point.

Score by quarters:

Parrots	13	0	0	0	—13
Big Six	0	7	0	0	— 7

Slamming Six Wins Fourth

On October 4, the Slamming Six of Merrill Grubbs defeated the Flying Six for their fourth straight victory. The final score was 21-0. The scores were made in the first three periods of play.

Grubbs finding the right side of the Flyers' line weak placed the Slamming Six ahead, 6-0. A 13-yard pass to Fred Wilson on the one yard line set up the next score. Making his third touchdown of the year, Bob Hill took a pass from House to set the score at 12-0. The third score came at the beginning of the second half, when Hill ran the kickoff back 75 yards for a touchdown. A short pass for the extra point; it was, 19-0. Will Lenoir of the Flyers added two more points when he was caught in the end zone.

Score by quarters:

Slamming Six	6	6	9	0	—21
Flying Six	0	0	0	0	— 0

Parrots Win Overtime Game

October 9th will long be a day of remembrance to the Slamming Six. Mat Cardella's 81 yard run on the last play of the game was what the doctor had ordered for the Parrots to beat the Slamming Six, and to hand them the first defeat of the season.

Max House passing from his 31 yard line to Capt. Grubbs for a 69 yard touchdown in the third quarter was the play that made the Parrots go to work from there on in. A pass again by House, but this time to Hal Hunter made the score 7-0.

In the final one second of the game Mat Cardella finding a hole at left end weaved his way through the line; then outran the secondary for a touchdown and a 7-6 score. The extra point pass to Bob Robinson threw the game into the overtime period.

After three minutes of overtime play, a one yard loss by the Slamming Six gave the ball game to the Parrots, 8-7. Final score:

Parrots	0	0	0	8	—8
Slamming Six	0	0	7	0	—7

Doleful Faces in Freshie Dilemma

Next week if you should see a sad sack with a doleful face and a sleepy head wandering around the campus, he's a freshman. For the past week the Frosh have been undergoing the harrowing experience of their first college tests. In a few days the reports are to be sent home, and then there is the eternal interval of waiting to see how the results affected parents. All over the campus you will see students hesitating before opening letters. If you should see smiling face, run right over and shake his hand for that lucky person has received an A!

Yes, the period of burning midnight oil, poring over text books, and yawning in lectures is finally over. But the period of rehabilitation can not come until reports have come and gone. In the meantime, however, "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Bainonians Postpone Meeting for Saturday

No meeting of Bainonian was held October 13, because of the hike scheduled for that date. Ruth Broadhead, chairman of the program committee, states that the next meeting will be in charge of the freshmen members of the society.

Ships of Flowers Will Honor Men Who Died at Sea

October 21, which has been designated as Navy Sunday, will be a special day of tribute to the men in all the services who lost their lives at sea in the defense of the United States.

The Navy League has asked the American people everywhere to send one flower to one of the designated ports nearest their own community in time to arrive before midnight on October 20. The League suggested that wherever possible the flower sent be either home grown or wild, and in no case should the exenditure exceed a modest sum.

In the Eighth Naval District, comprising seven southern states and the ports named are Pensacola, Florida; Mobile, Alabama; and Corpus Christi, Texas. The flowers will be sent in care of senior chaplains at the naval air bases of these ports.

All flowers received by these chaplains will be placed on naval vessels, and following appropriate all-faith ceremonies at the respective docksides, the ships will proceed to sea from each port and when the vessel reaches a point beyond the sight of land, the flowers will be scattered on the waters.

Club Activities

DISC CLUB

Schumann's Quintet for Piano and String, which is recorded by Sanroma, pianist for the Boston Symphony, and the Primrose quartet was the focal point of the Disc club's meeting on Oct. 18. Miss Katherine Davis will present the commentary.

A committee from the Disc club met at the home of Miss Katherine Davies on Friday, October 12 to discuss plans for future programs. The program committee consists of Robert DuBois, Tom Horst, Jean Keen, Philip Watts, Gelolo Kell, and Ruth Freeman.

On Thursday, October 4, Tom Horst commentated on Schubert's Unified Symphony.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish club had its regular meeting on Thursday, October 11. The theme of the meeting was Mexico. Records were played, a short reading given, a poem was read and all participated in Mexican dances. Presideat Betty Wells presided.

I.R.C.

For its weekly meeting on October 8, the International Relations club met at the home of Mr. Commodore Fisher, the club sponsor. An exhibition of trophies obtained from Iran was displayed to the members.

The subject for the October 15 meeting will be "Feeding the Hungry of Eurasia." The topic will be delivered by Olinde Ahrens. Nellie Cuellas will discuss the news happinings.

During the first fifteen minutes of the meetings, news is reviewed as featured in "Time" magazine. This week subscriptions will be taken for those interested in buying this magazine.

To date the club has enrolled the following members: Violeta Gomez, Joan Anderson, Ruth Broadhead, Sara Enloe, Christine Wilson, Lily Gunn, Mary Elizabeth Hunt, Marie Baxter, Wanda Neal, Jane Callahan, Kate Reeves, Alverta Fink, Marty Scanlon, Maybelle Rule, Dorothy Jones, Betty Mason, Katherine Dean and Boby Jo Reed.

Anyone who is interested in international relations is cordially invited to participate at the meetings held on Monday nights in the "Y" rooms.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP

Louise Corbett and Nita Hinson read at last week's meeting of the Writers' Workshop, October 10. Miss Corbett, a senior Spanish major, read "Interlude," and was criticized by Betty Wells. Miss Hinson, senior psychology major and editor of the Highland Echo, read a narrative, "Picturesque Panorama." She was criticized by Miss Jessie Heron.

At the next meeting, October 17, Mildred Waring and Ruth Freeman will read.

GERMAN CLUB

As their officers for the coming year, the members of the German club have elected the following students: Bob DuBois, sophomore, president; Janet Miller, sophomore vice-president and porgram chairman; Marion Lewis, sophomore, secretary; and John Briggs, freshman, as treasurer.

Serving under Janet Miller on the program committee are Esther Cornelius, Kenneth Baron and Leonard Scheiber. For one of their first social functions, the club is planning a Hallowe'en party. Complete plans for this party have not yet been drafted. The committee is also planning a formal initiation. The old members are going to teach the news members folk dances, songs and some of the German customs, both old and new. As soon as the new members have advanced sufficiently, they are going to put on all-Germanic skits. All plans for social activities will be announced later.

FRENCH CLUB

Under the direction of Miss Margaret C. Wilkinson, assistant professor of French, the French club held a program meeting Thursday evening, October 11, 1945 at 6:35 in Theta hall.

The program was a musical one. Anna Sakaizawa played a violin solo, and there was a piano selection performed by Mildred Orr. Catherine Sisk led the group in singing.

Messiah Practices Begin October 28

Richard W. Vine, assistant professor of music, has announced Sunday, October 28 as the date of the first practice of "The Messiah," world-known oratio by Geo. Frederick Handel, which is given by the college each year. Rehearsals are held in Voorhees chapel at 3:00 o'clock.

All members of the vesper choir and all-girls choir and orchestra are required to attend. Everyone who is interested is asked to come to these rehearsals. There is special need for men's voices.

Bill: I asked her if I could see her home.

Tom: What did she say?

Bill: She said that she would send me a picture of it.

King and Thomas Make Plans for Barnwarming Fete

Betty Lou King and Virginia Thomas are Y.W.C.A. chairmen in charge of this year's barnwarming. Miss King, a senior Spanish major from Knoxville, Tennessee, is president of Theta Epsilon, president of "M" club, a member of the B.G. club, and was in the Daisy Chain last spring. Miss Thomas is a junior biology major from Stearns, Kentucky. She is vice president of Theta.

Chairmen of the various committees have been announced as follows: decorations, Ginger Clabough and Joanne Hart; publicity, Mary Batchelor and Edgar Potts; tickets, Harold Kidder and Bob Dockendorf; program, Ruth Broadhead and Merrill Grubbs; costumes Marjorie Dickinson and Marian Monteith.

Barnwarming, the bigegst campus event of the fall saeson, will be held in the alumni gymnasium on the evening of Thanksgiving. The identity of the recently elected class sponsors wil be revealed then as will that of the Barnwarming king and queen who are elected from the senior class by the entire student body. The exact nature of the program will be kept secret, but a general theme will be announced in advance advertising.

New Residents of Carnegie Welcome Faculty in Open-House

The faculty of Maryville college were received at Carnegie hall by girls for the first time in the history of that dormitory on October the fifth. All faculty with their husbands and wives were invited by special invitations which were made up in the form of verses. The open-house was held for the express purpose of showing guests how well the one-time boy's dormitory had adapted itself to the girls and how well the girls had become adopted to Carnegie.

Guest hours were from eight until nine-thirty and the guests were guided by the girls themselves. The hostesses were Mrs. Worley and Mrs. Cate, the house moothers. Small groups were shown around at a time, this giving the guests a good chance to look around.

On the first floor, the guests were ushered by Dorothy French and Zita Marie Cate and their tour started with the guest room and moved along to the two sitting rooms. Henrietta Turner and Janet Lock received the faculty on the second floor while the third floor committee consisted of Helen Smith and Mildred Miller. The guests were also shown the recreation room and the laundry facilities in the basement. All of the guests were presented with individual favors which had small verses printed on them.

Approximately fifty guests were welcomed by the ned residents of Carnegie hall.

CANDLE-BOUND DEADBEAT BEATS THE DEADLINE

Scene: Anyplace. Time: Anytime . . . but usually late. Character: One . . . working feverishly to meet—you guessed it!—a deadline.

No limits on this deadline business (no, I didn't sal dead line . . . deadline!) No matter where . . . they're there. Anyone who's ever had freshman English themese—tests—term papers — systematic speeches—classes of any kind . . . just ask 'em. If you mention the word, they'll most probably turn a special color especially designed for last-minuters, get that hunted expression . . . and start the special mental processes which procrastinators are addicted to.

Someone will probably write a book one of these days on the psychology of procrastination. And guess who'll buy the counters clean—the criminals themselves. They'll probably want to see if there is some way to improve their technique.

You don't thing they have technique? Why procrastination is an art itself. If it doesn't take a master's skill to do in a few short days what it has taken others a whole semester to compile (Bible notebook — maybe?) freshman candle-burners will be a sadly disillusioned lot. And if it doesn't take a master to assure a teacher that he's right up to date on his term paper, when he has visions of blank sheets and unread books well — we're just barkin' up the wrong tree and this article isn't going to be worth much.

The personal determindedness of the procrastinator-perfect has always fascinated us. He'll lose hours and hours of sleep just to get that paper in on time.

And his endurance!

It's an art that's been a long time in the making . . . believe us. When a fella in question was just a little putter-offer, he probably waited until five minutes before the big neighborhood baseball game to hunt up his ball and mit. And now what does he do? He's still waiting 'till the last minute. But he has improved, you know. Now he doesn't let people know just how long he did wait to start work.

All this time, the disease has rather grown on him. His line of thought goes thus: Time's time. Lots to do now. I'll not have so much to do later. Besides, I need some recreation time now. I'll make it up next Sunday . . . and so on. First thing you know, there is candle-bound the night before the stuff is due.

The one sad note in the whole affair is that he's usually the one who comes out first in grades. How it happens . . . wish we knew!

High-preseure work . . . long as there are profs who assign semester work . . . there'll be last minute fellas who defeat all the ideals of education.

And as long as there are newspapers that do go to press, there'll be dashing . . . or dashed . . . supposed reporters who'll be handing their stinking little articles straight from the typewriter to the press.

Pearsons Gets New Clock

The clock which was formerly in the personnel office in Anderson hal lhas been placed in the second floor lobby of Pearsons hall. Since this woman's dormitory has been without any timepiece, this addition is a decided improvement, according to Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, head of women's residence.

Judge to prisoner: "And you say that you are certain that you did not steal the rooster from Mr. Jones?"

Prisoner: "Yes, sir—I am innocent, and furthermore, I can prove it."

Judge: "How can you prove it?"

Prisoner: "I stole two hens from Mr. Smith that night and Mr. Jones lives ten miles from Mr. Smith."

Judge: "The proof is conclusive. Case dismissed."

An old negro preacher, in a sermen on hell pictured it as a land of ice and snow, where it froze through eternity. When the service was over, a visiting bishop asked the minister:

"Why did you picture hell as a cold place?"

"I don't dare to tell them anything else," he replied. "If I were to say that hell was warm, some of these rheumatic niggers would be wanting to start down the first thing."

A little bird toul us:

One of the seniors took a train trip during the summer. At each little fence post stop the conductor would tell the passengers from which end to leave so as to avoid confusion. When the senior was almost at his destination he asked the conductor from which end he should leave. he conductor said: "Makes no difference. Both ends stop."

A doctor attending a wit who was very ill apologized one day for being late by saying that he had stopped to see a man who had fallen in a well.

"Did he kick the bucket, doc?" groaned the wit.

JUSTICE RUTLEDGE RECEIVES HONORARY DEGREE FROM M. C.

Speaks of The United States and World Peace

Wiley Blount Rutledge, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, spoke at the Annual Founder's Day Service of Maryville College on Saturday, October 27, where he was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by the college. Dr. Rutledge was a former student of Maryville college, having attended the school for five years: two years in the preparatory department, and three years of the college. When his family moved to Wisconsin at the end of his junior year, he transferred to the University of Wisconsin, from which he graduated.

In his address, Justice Rutledge expressed his pleasure at being back on the campus after having been away for 32 years. He "used to think people were ready for the grave when they came back after five," he said.

"Who Has Won The War?"

The topic of his speech was "Who Has Won the War?'. This nation's most historic year is the year 1945, he said. We are on a Mount Everest of history, where we have gained a new height in accomplishment, but we also are able to see new dangers.

One of the main questions of the day is whether a democracy is able to plan. Mr. Rutledge is in favor of planning, not in the sense in which a totalitarian states uses the word, but with the idea that no government can endure without looking at the future.

He stated that we totally misjudged the immediate consequences of the first World War, and its future consequences as well. We took the attitude that

Mrs. Snyder's Son Back From Europe Visits On Campus

Miles Snyder, son of Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, dean of women, recently visited his mother here on the campus. He arrived Tuesday, October 16, and left Wednesday, October 24. While here he and Mrs. Snyder spent a few days in Gatlinburg.

Mr. Snyder recently received his discharge, having been in the army since February after Pearl Harbor.

He took part in the African Invasion, was in Italy, France, and Germany with the 7th Army. Mr. Snyder was a member of the Signal Corp and also did some radio work. He arrived back in the states on September 29.

He expects to continue his photography business, since this was his work before the war. He is to continue his music also.

Mr. Snyder made some colored pictures while in the various countries overseas. He showed them in Theta Hall last Monday evening. Among the slides was one of V-E Day in Paris.

About his future plans Mrs. Snyder says, "There wil probably be wedding bells.", His fiancee is Miss Rosella Hawkins of La Grange, Illinois. She is teaching speech at the La Port High School in La Port, Indiana. Both Miss Hawkins and Mr. Snyder are graduates of the University of Illinois.

Rehearsal of Messiah Postponed To Next Week

Practice for "The Messiah", scheduled to begin yesterday, was postponed because of Director Richard W. Vine's illness. Regular rehearsal time is Sunday after noon at 2:45 o'clock in the chapel

Two hundred are expected to participate in this year's presentation of the oratorio, including townspeople and church choirs. Those who do not have copies of the music may obtain them from Mr. Vine at $1.25 each.

Practice Debates Start As Charlotte Tournament Nears

A series of intercollegiate practice debates, in anticipation of the Dixie Championship Forensic Tournament to be held December 6-7 in Charlotte, North Carolina, are scheduled this week and next for the college debate group, Dr. David H. Briggs, debate coach, has announcede.

Debating Wednesday afternoon on this year's college debate question, "Resolved: That the foreign policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world," will be June Garland and Judy Turk, on the affirmative, and Audria Stinger and Miriam Wickham on the negative.

Debating this question Friday evening, November 2, will be Lilybelle Gunn and Mary Annis Beals, affirmative, and M. G. Merlanti and Kitty Johnson, negative.

Scheduled to debate November 7 are Geneva Robinson and Mary Woolridge, affirmative; Janet Campbell and Sara Jo Kiger, negative.

On November 7, the remaining debaters will clash with Janet

Station W.E.A.K. Broadcasts For Saturday Program

Station W.E.A.K., which broadcasted from Maryville college, presented a Variety Show on Saturday evening, October 20, at 8:00 as arranged by the Social Committee.

Notables were presented by announcer, Harold Kidder. The program was composed of: Peggy Howell singing "The Desert Song"; Tolerico's Tuneful Trio (Roy Smith, Charles Huffman, and Richard Tolerico) presenting ten minutes of "jazz as you like it;" news commentated by Kenneth Kribbs; a spoonerism by Ruth Broadhead; a reading by Virginia Miller; animated songs by a trio—Barbara Blair, Betty Hall, and Carol Fuller; tap dancing by Jean Balch; several stark dramas enacted under the direction and narration of Orson Smells (Tom Wheeler); and the Barbarshop Quartet—Jack Ross, Harold Kidder, Bob Harlow, and Tom Wheeler. Bill Cover and Leonard Sheiber manipulated electrical equipment involved. Cover was also responsible for the stage setting.

The audience sat on the floor upon rugs.

Rededication Of Ministerials Held By Candlelight

The Ministerial Association held an impressive candle-light service on Thursday, October 25th in the "Y" rooms at 6:45. The service was a formal rededication of all members.

The president of the association, William Robarts, senior English major of Lake City, Florida conducted the services. He spoke briefly on the betterment of "Our Services to Our God and Father."

After the service a program consisting of the male quartette, H. Kidder, T. Wheeler, J. Ross, and B. Barlow was presented. Max House, program chairman, assisted by Jack Ross, was in charge of the devotions and program.

The chaperons for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham.

Bill Robarts has announced, "Programs consisting of practicale aspects of the ministery were planned for the coming meetings through Christmas."

New Record Room Will Accommodate Eight Students

Ear-Phones Eliminate Distractions, Confusion; Loudspeaker Installed

Because of Miss Catherine Davies' vision and Mr. James Smith's generosity, a new listening room has been equipped for the use of the Fine Arts Department, specifically for the music appreciation and music history classes. Located on the ground floor of the chapel, the room is provided with four turn tables and eight sets of ear-phones; two sets to each table.

Two years ago, Miss Davies, professor of music and chairman of the division of Fine Arts, returned from Julliard summer school, New York City, excited about a record player table which she believed would be a great boon.

Despite the shortage of electronic equipment, the Reverend Mr. James Smith, executive secretary of the Alumni association and pastor of the Greystone Presbyterian church in Knoxville, undertook to have the specified unit built. Mr. James Smith described his experience thus:

"Mr. Buford Smith, (no relation ternity among men who are of mine, althongh there is a fra-'buggie over radio'), agreed to prepare a circuit design for the amplifier according to the specific job we wanted it to do. The structural and layout designs were finally chosen from experimental models. Obtaining the components was the next and most difficult job.

"Orders were placed with all possible sources with no results until a personal friend began a wholesale radio parts distributing business in Knoxville. With the College's priorities and his connections, we began to get a few parts occasionally. Then came the day when word was received that the last needed components would be shipped in 120 days. By the time those parts arrived some of the less scarce items ran out; replacement seemed impossible. In some instances, substitutes for mathematical values had to be worked out.

Ghosts, Goblins, Witches, Horrors Will Mark Parties

Seniors Will Be Guests

Annual Hallowe'en festivities will commence at 7:30 on Wednesday, October 31. The Junior, Sophmores, and Freshman classes will celebrate separately; while seniors will attend any party which they wish. As senior president, Louise Corbett confirmed, "We visit the class whose program appeals to us most. Many of us flutter from one group to another—in search of food, of course!"

Surprise is the esesnce of the Junior's party; neither location or details of the program have been revealed! Relays, ghost stories, and games with a Hallowe'en tinge will embrodier the evening.

Juniors in charge of the program are: Jessie Lou Brunson, Eleanor Kelly, Beth Huftalen, Jeanne Heaps, Jinny Miller, Bill Cover, and Leonard Schieber. Mr. and Mrs. Commodore Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Williams, Mr. Holmes Wilhelm, and Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz will chaperon.

The Sophomore Hobgoblin Holiday will take place in the basement of the First Methodist Church amid the sinister gloom of a dark, cave-like setting. The prorian Wieler, and a vocal solo by Miriam Bell, a piano solo by Marian Wieler, an da vocal solo by Peggy Howell. Jack Ross, Tom Wheeler, Bob Barlow, and Harold Kidder will form a singing quartet. Two skits, (one portraying a trolley car trip; the other, "life with the draft board", will exemplify campus and city satire.

The program committee consists of Harold Kidder, Marion Lewis, Bill Vogel, and Lib Baird.

Bartlett Hall's recreation center will contain the Freshman's Hall of Horror and the following program of "Witches Wrath." Folk dancing will conclude an evening of grisly murder, prophetic witching, nerve quieting (i.e. nerve deadening) horror perpetrated by eery, scrawny crones. "We are here to serve you—on a platter" is the motto of the evening. An apple bobbing relay and several other relays will while away time between passage through the Hall of Horror and the opening of the program. Becky Walton, Grace Cross, Bill Stewart, Dale Motzinger, Mildred Miller, Barbara Eggleton, Joan Anderson, and Helen Smith are the social committee.

Theta's of Baldwin Give Saturday Night Program

Baldwin freshmen planned the program for October 27. Those who were not initiated participated. Bette Alverson and Maryjane Blizzard were chairmen. "Itchin' to Go" was the name of the skit dramatized by the Thetas. Beverly Muetzel rendered a clarinet solo "My Blue Heaven" and Shirley O'Shana sang "Night and Day."

The Theta meeting of October 20 was a variety show sponsored by the freshman from Carnegie who failed to be present at the initiation program. The chairmen were Suen Chen and Dorothy French. Katy Holden opened the program with a reading "Goodnight, Carolyn." Rosemary Barber sang "An Irish Lulaby", and a reading "Nocturne" was given by Jean Childress. "Gathering of the Nuts' ' a skit, was narrated by Anne Knapp and enacted by Audrey Dear, Margaret Galbreath, Henrietta Turner, La Verne Hilton, Harriet Perry, Charlotte Laster, Bernice Holmberger and Mavis Sykes. Faye Campbell read a poem as the conclusion of the program.

Co-Ed Records Mornings In Stream Of Unconsciousness

By CONSTANCE HAWKINS

A pox on the guy who greets the dawn
With a gladsome cry instead of a yawn;
Who acts as if reveille's his cue
To rise and wade knee-deep in dew.

There's something loathsome about Paul Spry
To civilized folks who glorify
The hour of noon, when upright men
Have got their blood to flowing again.

Let those who must, spring out of bed
While the naked morn is blushing red;
Then, later, using a hoist or crane,
Please, someone, come and wake Maclean.

Rod Maclean

And me, too: But, since teachers have a way of liking us to attend their lectures (purely for our own good, of course) and I can hardly get along without going, I'd better get up a little earlier—say, five 'till eight. That should give me time to wash my face—hastily, of course (but I can always come back and do a proper job after chapel, when I've no classes); hunt up that last pair of clean socks—what! no clean socks? Well, the ones I wore yesterday will do another day. Oh Oh! Oh, well, I'll just go without socks, it really isn't too cold; comb my hair, put on the bare essentials of make-up; and dash for chapel. I did make it. After all, if I get there just as the announcements are being made, that isn't late, is it? And so I begin the day, but once started I won't be late anymore. (It says here that I won't.)

Next morning, I'd surely like a shower before beginning the day's dirty grind. I want to be liberal with my time, so I'll get up at fifteen 'till eight. I've so much extra time, I think I'll spread my bed before getting under the shower. That's done—oops, better dash for the shower, it will take at least five minutes to finish. Golly, aren't showers wonderful things, they pep one up so—he're so wonderful. . . wish I could stay a little longer, but, no, I must firmly answer the call of duty.

Hurry, hurry! I haven't much time left (so they tell me). But I got up early! That should make a difference. (Gee, isn't it nice to get up early?) Now for that daily dash—oh, pardon me, this morning it's a leisurely stroll—to the chapel. My goodness, the doors are closed! How'd that happen? And they're singing the first hymn! And I got up early, too!

Pardon Me, I Hab A Slight Cold In De Head This Week

By MARY ELIZABETH HUNT

Having lived with this cold for what seems to be the greater part of the month, I feel that I have come to know it quite well. At this point, I no longer question its existence, the length of its stay, or how I might rid myself of it. In spite of all I can do, I'm afraid that it has moved in for a long time.

I might not mind having it around, if it would be more polite. But everythime I go to class and have my mind (?) on something that the professor is saying, my cold decides that it must bark too. By the time tha I have coaxed it to be quiet, with the aid of cough drops, I have managed to miss something imnortant. And then my poor nose—I'm thinking of letting it got out for track this year. I'm sure that no one could beat its record for running; or mine either, since I spend most of my time dashing up to my room for more Kleenex.

For days now, I have been unable to taste or smell the food that I eat. I can't decide whether this is good or bad, now I eat all my meals. But then, when I decide to take a dose of awful testing medicine. I always seem to get my taste back.

My mathematics are being revived as I strive to save as much time as possible to enjoy(?. the bliss of rest and, at the same time, to get to class with some preparation. And it would take a math genius to figure out medicine schedules—if one had a schedule for taking pills.

I have forgotten where the swimming pool is located. I am afraid that my cold would not like for me to spend time there. Rainy days find me at my desk, for walks in the rain might offend my cold.

The luxury of using both ears at the same time for hearing has been cast aside. Oh well, I always thought that it was a bit extravagant.

I have come to the conclusion that the best thing to do is to sell it to someone. So here it is—one well used cold, but good for quite a while yet. Owner will accept any kind of terms for immediate sale.

MRS. WALKER SENDS PLANTS FOR DINING ROOM DECORATION

Mrs. Walker, long-time friend of Maryville college, has sent a number of large pots of Wandering Jew vine to decorate the dining room during the winter months.

"The plants dress up the dining room, adding much to its appearance," said Miss Susan Ware, college dietician. "It is a pleasure to have them. We appreciate Mrs. Walker's thoughtfulness."

THE STUDENTS MAKE THE COLLEGE

Over a century ago, when Tennessee was a part of the "Great Southwest," a young minister, Isaac Anderson, opened a log "academy" of which he was the sole professor. At the beginning of the civil war, the growing institution, which had moved to the Hill, had three buildings. The venture had established roots. Maryville college had already made strides. The school had many enthusiastic and generous friends interested in promoting education where there had been great need, but little opporunity. Students, too, were caught in the fire of this enthusiasm for the ideals and principles of the school.

One night in February, 1877, three earnest young men discussed the problem of building character at college. From that session come plans for a campus Y.M.C.A. None of them had belonged to a Y.M. None of them had ever heard of a college "Y", but they worked to establish one of the first such organizations in the world.

To show his gratitude to the college and the Church, a young Japanese graduate proposed in 1895, to secure a building to house Y.M. He supervised the making of bricks and solicited for funds; he worked two years on his project, watching the structure grow wall by wall.

These men gave of themselves to their school.

Plans for a new swimming pool had for twenty years been discussed and considered and laid aside for more urgent needs, when the students took the matter in hand in 1915 and offered to raise $1,500 of the necessary funds if the College would take over from there. The College would. The $1,500 was somehow managed, and a swimming pool was added to the campus.

They sacrificed for their school.

The College needed a paper, the students decided. The students decided and the students acted. The first edition of the Highland Echo was published November 4, 1916.

Again they had achieved a goal, not for themselves, for their school.

In 1923, through the efforts of interested classmen, the first constitution of the student council was drawn up. Student-body members could now meet faculty members on the same ground, could discuss prevailing problems, could, together, work out solutions. The student council has recently enacted spectacular changes. Town-night and the recreation center have filled important social needs. Now they are discussing plans for student government. Much of a future progress will be accomplished through the student council.

For 126 years Maryville has been living ideals. The students have developed and cherished these ideals. The students make a school. Ours has a rich heritage, a promising future.

Long after we have gone from the Hill, the influence of our college generation will remain. WE are determining that influence.

Thru The Keyhole

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Seems that way back in this vague memory, we recall someone telling us that the best way to earn enemies is by the process of "gossipation", but we'll put on a brave front, catch a long breath, tighten our shoes to insure against stumbling when forced to running, and——g-o-s-s-i-p.

You know, Bob Robinson enjoys listening to Janet Rich's piano playing. We say this because Barbara Blair, having a date with Mr. Robinson, came into the Baldwin parlor Tuesday night and saw Bob in a jack knife position over the grand piano. She stood——and stood——and stood. Finally the impatient Barbara said, "Tell him I'm gone," and she walked out the door.

Will someone please gather enough nerve to ask Mavis Sykes why in this world she mailed eighteen letters to the same boy last Tuesday morning?

There was high excitement among the girls in the dormitory, and good enough reason! What! With Bob Dubois and Merrill Grubbs climbing in the window of 303 Baldwin!

We haven't quite figured out the occasion for the numerous visitations received by so many feminine members of the student body last week-end. Seemed like old times must have been to see the various couples strolling(?). There were Miriam Bell and Bob Free—Roommates Rosemary Barber and Virginia Gress with Cpl. Mac McLaughlin and Merchant Marine David Gautier—Loretta Nunn and Sailor Newton Copeland (Yea! Oklahoma)—Katie Payne with Soldier Lyle Knaupp, and Judy Turk with Bob Schwanebeck. But the happiest people we've seen for some time are Audre Montieth and her fiancee Scott Heaton. Scott drove down from Pennsylvania and, well—can't you just see all of the other girls green with envy?

'Tis nothing like a lovely fall day to call Maryvillians toward the eastern mountains. That, we think, is why at exactly 2:00 P. M. on October 21, near a small stream named Trout Branch, Coach Honaker was seen in a position which might be described as a horizontal, evidentally enjoying the sport page of the Sunday paper. . . . . In the midst of the motorcycle club picnic held beneath the Chimneys we expected to see Mary Jean Lawson, but for some reason she was missing. Glen Fox must have had a cold. . . . . Becky Davis, Polly Lickteig, and Elise Frazier (the latter with some degree of difficulty) had just gulped their first drop of coffee (or reasonable fascimile thereof) when the supposedly quite premises were intruded upon by none other than those famous hikers, Miss Nancy Hunter, Miss Viola Lightfoot, Dale Motsinger, and Phil Watts. You figure it out. They tell us that Dale is the nephew of Miss Lightfoot. . . . . Vain attempts were made to spy Margaret Brooks, Betty Alverson, Anna Sakaizawa, Katherine Boyer, Suen Chin, and Mary Case, who were supposed to have been in the vicinity. Just what do you consider the vicinity, girls?

Some weeks ago this department made reference to Miss Weller's and Mr. Hughes' blowing soap bubbles. Further investigation has brought new light on the subject, and we feel that the student body should be informed of such activities of the faculty members. It is said that an innocent student was motioned (enticed would perhaps be a better word) into an Anderson office to behold Miss Lightfoot, Miss Henry, and Dean Hunter in their play—blowing soap bubbles. Pardon us if we don't quite understand.

Embarrassed boy of the week was Tom Horst during the last Experimental play. June Garland made no attempt to hide her desire to become a wife. Jim Martin failed to improve matters when he offered Tom the hand of congratulation.

Joan Hart would like to reduce her Home Economics course to a straight study of Norwegian dishes. Alf Oines—he was here not long ago—has something to do with her train of thought.

Daggers: Thrown at the merciless Carnegie creature who had the idocity to put a cracked egg in one of her dorm member's bed.

Happy Nights: You would have them, too—so thinks Henrietta Turner and Janet Locke as five alarm clocks ring at intervals during the short, short night.

Command: Someone tell Genva Robinson and Jo Campbell to move their beds to third floor.

Just Wondering: Do those numerous letters from Everett Dobbs, who is at present spending a lengthy forced vacation in Germany, indicate a serious note? Mildred Miller could tell.

Consolation! That's O. K., Henrietta.. If we heard that certain person was on his way home from overseas, we'd fall down the steps, too.

Four years is a long time, but four years have passed and Sue Cochran now happily screams, "Jim is coming home!" Oh me, this thing called love must be grand. Since we cannot speak with the voice of experience we unashamedly copy from another "Echo"—that of the University of Chattanooga——the following poem:

Love is desperate! love is sad.
Love is useless; love is mad.
Love's a sorrow; love's a curse.
But, heavens! Not to be in love is worse.

Anyone verify the statement? "Not I," says Miss Doo-Flunky, as she hangs up the receiver.

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Do you know:
why the Recreation Center exists?
how old it is?
what it does for students?
who runs it?

Since we probably do not know the answers offhand, let's call on our memories and do a bit of reviewing. Quote:

"In order to provide for the men and women of the student body and the faculty and staff of Maryville College increased opportunities for constructive recreation and wholesome fellowship, there shall be a Recreation Center. . . ."

The Student Council is held responsible for the operation of the Center and the Operating Committee is also representative of the student body. However, the responsibility does not end here! Another quote!

"The Operating Committee shall delegate responsibility for the operation of the Center during open hours to individuals selected from the student body. . . . hosts and hostessess."

Yes, we are living in a democracy. This is a government of, by, and for the people. This recreation center of ours is not in the hands of a certain elite few. Rather, since it is for us, we are also part of its functioning.

The plan could not have been put into operation without the approval of the student body. It it should ever need revision, we must present our verdict. Apparently, then, the Recreation Center is, or should be, the concern of the students.

We upperclassmen need only remind ourselves what the recreational facilities were(or were not) before the Center opened. Freshmen, just know that there was no place to play games or even to read in a comfortable chair beside a radio. Well, we have it now. No one will deny the fun of a fast ping pong match or a good workout in volleyball. Let's keep it by remembering that each of us is a part of the whole plan on which the Recreation Center operates. The November schedule is up now!

DID YOU KNOW WE ARE PLANNING FOR STUDENT GOVERNMENT

What It Is Now Student Council:

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Yes, there are definitely plans afoot at present for a form of student government at Maryville. There has been a joint faculty-student committee appointed to investigate and work on a plan of student government for this college; that committee, headed by Olinde Ahrens, is alive and is working on the project. Although the committee plans to hold house meetings in the near future, there is really nothing definite to report as yet. But we shall have some plan worked out in the near future for sure—in all probability there will be some system instituted in the women's dormitories this year! And that is all very good. . . .

What Do We Have Now?

Right now, however, let's look at what we have in the way of student government already. In other words, let's look at the Student Council a moment. The Student Council, as it stands today, is the most misunderstood organization on this campus: more people haven't the least idea of what it is and what its purpose and duties are! Though it should not be that way, about the only thing most students ever see the Council do is have "police duty" on town night. That is neither the only, nor the most important thing the Council does. What and who is the Council? How did it get that way? What is it really for? What has it done for the students in the past?

What and Why a Student Council

The Student Council is a group of twenty-two students elected to serve as representatives for the students of their respective classes. The main objects of the Student Council are to furnish a responsible group of students who will represent accurately the points of view and the interests of the student body and to serve as a body by which proposals arising from the students may be heard, developed, and presented through official representatives to the Student-Faculty Senate for further consideration.

History of Council

There has been a functioning Student Council at Maryville continuously since its organization in 1923. Nevertheless it is the opinion of many persons that during most of those years the body did not accomplish much. In the past two years, with added talk about Student government circulating, a new spirit has gotten into the Council. They have begun to do things. This year the group has already presented the Student-Faculty Senate with three proposals and they are already working on three more. The Council points with pride to, and takes full credit for, the institution of the Recreation Center. That undoubtably is a worth-while thing; no one argues that. And without the Council pushing it, it is quite conceivable that we would not have anything like what we do have, now or ever. Maryville College existed and prospered 125 years without a Social Center, and she could and perhaps would have gone another 100 the same. Certainly we should thank the Council for what it did last year.

Town Night

And that brings us directly to the subject of town night. That, too, is a fruit of Student Council effort as you have probably heard several times. Town night has not been in existence many years at Maryville, but it is the tendency for this generation of M.C. students to take that great privilege for granted and to "gripe" about the Council "policing". It's obvious what an improvement "town night" makes to our social life here, so let's get wise and be a trifle grateful to the Council rather than "griping". The responsibility of a program like town night—seeing that its regulations are abided by—had to fall on someone and the logical group is the Council, its parent so to speak.

Council Is For Students

Before we go any farther towards student government, let's get it clear what we have now. Let's remember that Council members are the students' representatives and we should give them any suggestions that seem wise. If there be any need, present your council representative with a proposal. That's the best way to get action.

Be Interested in Council Members

Last year in spring elections it was considered that the Council positions were important enough to be filled before the class offices were. Take into consideration when election time comes again that a Council representative is a position with more responsibility, and maybe even more authority, than even the class presidency at this college, If you don't know who your representatives are, find out. If you have a suggestion on any matter which would be put before the Council to good advantage, don't fail to tell it to your Council member. That's the way it should be. Don't forget that the Student Council is composed entirely of fellow-students and exists for the good of the student body. The Student Council at Maryville is this college's first step toward student government.

Captain L. E. Bond Speaks at Chapel: Is Maryville Grad

Army Chaplain Attended Maryville With President Lloyd A... Dr. Hunter

Captain Lester E. Bond of the U. S. Army Chaplain Corps spoke in chapel on Wednesday, October 24. He spent his boyhood on the coast of Maine and then came to Maryville college and was in the same class as Dr Lloyd and Dr. Hunter. Upon graduating from Maryville, he became a minister and had churches in Chicago and then California. Capt. Bond was once on the faculty here, and has returned to be a Commencement speaker. Maryville has conferred a Doctor's degree upon him.

Capt. Bond's sermon was based on a passage from First Psalm which states that people shall be like trees. Enlarging upon this, he explained that the trees on the sides of Mt. Hood had a real struggle for survival as the atmosphere grew thinner and that the trees were tough, hard, and strong. He also stated that the masts of sailing vessels were not cut from the outside porifera but were taken from the very center of a forest and he then compared this with man, stating that the real character of man comes from the heart. He closed by saying that when Christ went out on the highway of life he became strong. "He shall be like a tree."

On Wednesday, October 17, Chaplain Sam Franklin of the U. S. Navy Chaplain Corps spoke. He told of his varied and interesting experiences that he has had with the Japanese in stockades which he called his "Barbed Wire Parishes". He mentioned three points that he hoped would be remembered. The first was that the Japanese are human beings like ourselves; second, we are all sharers in a common guilt; and third, we are representative of the people, by our treatment of whom we are going to be judged. He ended by saying that we could build our future world security only on Love and Justice.

The chapel speaker for Wednesday, October 31, will be Rev. Colvin L. Hammock of the First Baptist Church of Maryville.

Said one piece of toast to the other: "This is the hottest I've been since I was bread."

Justice Rutledge Says It's "Grand" To Come Back

After 32 Years He Notices Little Change; Misses Cedar Trees

Right at home on Maryville campus after 32 years, Justice Wiley Blount Rutledge said, between bites of a barbeque sandwich, that it was "grand" to come back. "I wish I could have done it a long time ago."

Yes, there had been changes. Thaw Hall, he gestured, had been added. He missed the cedars, but the beauty of the campus had been kept. This time his arm included the autmun-tinted trees, red-brick buildings and tall white columns, the freshly trimmed walks.

Our conversation was frequently interrupted by his old schoolmates who shook his hand and wished him well and asked to be remembered to Mrs. Rutledge. A well-dressed woman smiled delightedly when he recognized her.

Justice Rutledge was born in Cloverport, Kentucky. He attended Maryville college from 1908 to 1913, two years of which time he was in preparatory school. His father was a Baptist minister in town. Dr. Samuel Wilson was president of the school. Dean Edwin R. Hunter was a classmate; President Ralph W. Lloyd a year behind. He was active in football and debate, but when questioned about his college experiences, he said, "Oh, Dr. Lloyd told you about that this morning!"

When his family moved to Wisconsin, he transferred to the University of Wisconsin for his senior year as a Latin major. At the University of Colorado he received his L.L.B. in 1922, his L.L.D. in 1940. He taught in high schools in Indiana, New Mexico and Colorado. He has served as professor of law and Dean of law schools at Washington U. and Iowa State U. In 1939 he became associate justice of the U. S. Court of Appeals. Since 1943 he has served as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. He has a family, two girls and a boy.

Justice Rutledge doesn't really have a hobby, just likes trout-fishing in Colorado. But mostly he likes people. "One can't teach fifteen years without liking people."

"There's lots of it!" he said concerning his work. "I'm playing hookey now, but I'll pay for it next week."

Wary about giving judicial advice on current campus plans for student government, he is highly in favor of it. "If they undertake the responsibility," he emphasized the necessity of increasing responsibility with privileges and of cooperation of the entire student group. "If people can't govern themselves when they're growing up, they can't govern themselves when they get up."

Then his somber, brown eyes twinkled as he turned and smiled broadly at another, "Hello, Wiley".

—V—

Thy asked Grandpappy why he was going to marry a glamour girl from the city instead of some woman his own age and he declared: "I'd a heap ruther smell perfume than liniment."

Mother: "Billy, don't go too far out in the water."

Bill: "But look, Daddy's a long way out."

Mom: "He's insured, dear."

M. C. Team Takes "Hi" For A Ride

On October 19th, at Wilson Field a group of boys from Maryville High tangled with the boys of the Maryville College intramural teams. The final score ended one-sided in favor of the college team, 97-0.

From the third play of the game, when Hubby Doyle of the college team intercepted a pass for a touchdown, until the final second with the ball in the possession of the college team on the Hi's 3 yard line, the game was always on ice. Top playing was done by Doyle, Cardella, Seymour, Lenoir, Parkinson, Grubbs and others of the college team. Mac Law stood out for the visitors.

BOYS BEGIN PRACTICE FOR BASKETBALL

On Wednesday evening October 24th at 8:00 the first step in the reconversion of sports on campus to the inter-collegiate life was taken. Coach Lombe Honaker had the boys report for basketball practice that he might see what he will have to work with. The coach announced that any boys interested in coming out should report at the Alumni gym every Monday and Thursday evening at 8:30, promptly. Coach Honaker said that this practice would keep up until Thanksgiving. If the prospects look good enough, a tentative schedule will be worked out.

Leonard: "An upholstered worm."

SOCCER TEAMS TIE IN FOURTH GAME OF TOURNAMENT

The Chillies and the Howies played their fourth soccer game of the season on Thursday, October the 25th. The two teams turned out a tie score of 2-2. Both of the two goals for the Chillies were made by Margaret Rock, freshman, while Louise Corbett, senior scored for the Howies. Chilies have won one game to the two of the Howies and the next and final game, which is to be played on Tuesday, October 30th, will decide the winner.

Dot Justice of the Chillies who had a severe cold, was a side-line spectator for her team throughout the game.

The fifth soccer game coming up for the two teams will close the soccer season. Spectators are welcome at all Point System games.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The Slamming Six of Merrill Grubbs virtually captured the intramural six-man touch football championship on Thursday, October 25th, by crushing the Flying Six under Leonard Schieber, 32-0.

Bob Hill scored the first touchdown for the Slamming Six by covering a blocked kick behind the Flyer's goal line. Grubbs, a few plays later, intercepted a Flyer pass for the second first period score.

The Slamming Six doubled the score in the second half, as Grubbs shot Max House a 12 yard touchdown pass. Again Grubbs intercepted a pass by Flyer Bill Stewart to go 16 yards for the fourth touchdown. This time the extra point was good, as Hill passed to Bill Dinges. The score at the end of the first half was 25-0.

An 80 yard touchdown pass by Grubbs was the final touchdown for the Slammers. In the third quarter passing from his own 20 yard line to the 50 to House who went the remining distance, The Slammers clinched the game. A pass to Wilson for the extra point was good; the score stood, 32-0.

If the Slamming Six win one more game of their three scheduled, they automatically clinch the championship. The Parrots or Flyers must win all of their remaining games to obtain a tie for first place.

Grubbs' two touchdowns were his 6th and 7th of the season. At the present he is high scorer with 42 total points scored. Bob Hill also of the Slamming Six is second with 31 points.

The shutout score kept the Slammer's record of being scored on by the Parrots only, unmarred. It was their fifth shutout of the year.

Points by quarter:

Slamming Six	12-	13-	7-	0—	32

PARROTS FLY OVER FLYERS, 24-6

With Mat Cardella running and passing the pigskin, the Parrots wholloped the Flying Six touch football team on Tuesday, October 16th. The score ended, 24-6.

To open the game Bill Stewart of the Flying Six flipped a 20 yard pass to end Bill Mackey. From the 50 yard line Mackey moved the ball to the Parrot 10 yard line. Ayers of the Parrots stopped the Flyers cold by intercepting a pass on the 2-yard line. The Parrots then proceeded to march 98 yards to their first score. A final pass from Cardella to Martin, and the score was 6-0.

In the second period a pass from Cardella to Capt. Myers for 68 yards brought the Parrot's second score. A few plays later Cardella trotted the ball 60 yards for the third score. The Parrot's final score came in th e third quarter on a 9 yard pass to Robinson. Dave Miller had set up the score on a 66 yard pass from Cardella.

The Flyer's score came in the second half on behalf of an intercepted pass by Bill Stewart. Six plays later the aerial method was used, Stewart passing to Will Lenoir in the end zone.

Final Score:

Parrots	6	12-	6-	0—	24
Flying Six	0-	0-	6-	0—	0

SLAMMING SIX TAKE FOURTH SHUTOUT

Capt. Merrill Grubbs of the Slamming Six scored the only touchdown of the afternoon, as the Big Six went down to a 7-0 defeat on October 18th. It was the fourth time this year that the Slammers had ouplayed their opponents.

The game was played most of the time within the two hitrty-five yard lines. The Big Six thrice went into scoring position only to loose the ball on intercepted passes.

In the final quarter with a minute left t play a pass by Grubbs to Hal Hunter put the ball on the Big Six's 18-yard line. Bob Hill INTRAMURALS con't.

then sailed the ball to Grubbs on the 8; Grubbs went over for the score. A pass to House for the extra point was good.

BIG SIX COME TO LIFE, 19-0

Losing five straight games was too much for the Big Six of Bill Cover. On Tuesday, October 23rd, in the thirteenth game of the season the Big Six saw the win column for the second time, as they took in stride the Parrots who were handicapped with only five men to play, 19-0.

Early in the first quarter a pass to Fred Richardett by Wilburn Seymour for forty yards put the Big Six in the lead. The second score came in the third period when Capt. Cover blocked a punt and coverd it behind the goal. A pass by Hubby Doyle to Ken Kribbs was good for the extra point. The Big Six's final score came late in the fourth quarter, as Doyle on a single reverse went 31 yards for a touchdown.

DUPONT LECTURES, DEMONSTRATIONS IN BARTLETT HALL

Representing the Dupont Educational Service, Mr. J. M. Bruner lectured before a meeting of the Blount County Home Demonstration group, Wednesday, October 24, in Bartlett Hall. He exhibited numerous types of merchandise manufactured by the Dupont Corporation. Among these were lucites, nylon fabrics, products manufactured by wood.

Women from all parts of the county were present at this meeting presided over by the Blount County Home Demonstration Agent.

Four-year-old Ethel liked very much to go to church, and she especially enjoyed the singing. One day the choir sang "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me" and when she got home was heard singing seriously, "Rock the babies, kept for me."

NEW RECORD ROOM

"The work of constructing the units required a period of over a year and was done 'after hours'. Except for the roughest of it which was done in the residence basement, all work was done on the library table in the bed room. It was a matter of sleeping with the job until it was done."

When using headphones, eight persons can play four records in the same room without interfering with one another. Tones are bell clear; distraction at a minimum. Soon, there will be a portable loudspeaker which will enable teachers to demonstrate any one record to an entire class.

Records may be obtained by anyone from the record library located in the organ power room. Listening rooms and the record library are open for use from 8:30 to 5:30 daily and from 6:30 to 7:30 on Thursday and Friday evenings. Mary Jo Bolin is librarian; Ruth Freeman attends cataloging.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP

Writer's Workshop met on Wednesday, October 24, with June Gowanlock reading a titleless piece of lyric prose. Soapie Bernadini also read two original poems in blank verse. The first was titled "Ballerina" and the second "Night Balm". Miss Gowanlock's critic was Carol Titus and Dr. Hunter criticized Miss Bernadini's creations.

DEBATE

Nesbit, Ruth Ellen Crews, and Carolyn Kaye upholding the affirmative, and the two boys' teams, John Briggs and David Campbell, Lloyd Chandler and Nathan Osborn, debating against the question.

Tryout debates with judge decisions will be held November 28, the results of which will form a partial basis for determining those who will go to the Charlotte debate meet.

To this tourney Maryville plans also to send entrees to the oration, after-dinner, extemporaneous and impromptu speaking, and dramatic reading divisions, Dr. Briggs stated.

Athenians Present Quiz Program

An "Information Please" program was held at the Athenian meeting, Saturday, Octobeer 27, in the new Athenian Hall on third floor Anderson. The program, planned by program-chairman Kenneth Kribbs, was much like the radio program of the same name, except that the audience participated more.

Catherine Sisk, senior music major, sang at the October 20 meeting in Bartlett Auditorium. Her numbers included "Deep Purple", "How About You?", "I Got That Certain Feeling", and "Every Night About This Time." She was accompanied by Alice Newhouse.

Fred Wilson, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Harold Kidder.

Little boy: Naw, I'm sent.

Tech Oracle

In a church school much like Maryville, a student asked the dean of women for permission to go riding with a man.

"You know the regulations," asked the dean. "Is he your father?"

"No."

"Is he your brother?"

"No."

"Are you engaged to him?"

"No," she replied, "but I expect to be when I get back."

The permission was granted.

"Uncle John," said little Emily, "do you know that a baby was fed on elephant's milk for a week and gained twenty pounds?"

"Nonsense! Impossible! Whose baby was it?" he exclaimed.

"The elephant's," said Emily

JUSTICE RUTLEDGE

whatever happened in Europe could not help us. "France was a battlefield to make the world safe for democracy, not to make the U. S. secure."

Ocean No Longer a Barrier

Wilson's vision and plan was rejected by the people. This rejection became a permanent judgment of the people of the United States for we have since turned our back on all forms of international cooperation. Our idea was that of staying home and keeping out of international affairs. We misjudged the first World War, its after-effects, and the future about as widely as were able to misjudge. He stated that, "After demonstrating that the ocean was no longer a barrier of the passing of large bodies of men and supplies, we lapsed back into the idea of an oceanic barrier and hoped that the passage was just a one-way streak." We can repeat the mistake which ran from 1920 to 1941 by reverting to wishful thinking, returning to our prejudices, and smugly assuming our own superiority. Now we are only sixty days from V-day, but already to most of us the war seems far away. Football games, and domestic problems take up our attention, rather than how to build a permanent peace. We do not yet have the will to make the principle of democracy workable—there is too wide a willingness to "let George do it", he said.

Our Repsonsibility Grows With Power

This second War has made it plain for all to see the earth's shrunken size and the enormity of the power which man has at his disposal. "It is possible to make the world a place less horrible than eternal damnation only by its duration. We, the people, must decide—within a year or a few months—by lethargy or by action, but decide we must!"

Differences in power makes differences in the degree to which various nations are responsible for the future condition of the world. The United States is one of the most powerful nations, therefore a very great responsibility lies with us. Our basic choice is the same as before—it means we can come home, grow soft, rest on our laurels, and get fat, and the next time there will not be left time to rebuild. The next time there may not be three nations to stand in the way and take the brunt before we come in.

Justice Rutledge concluded by saying that, "We have at stake not only the future of the nation and its people, but of civilization in the world!"

Mississippi Shipyard Seeks Afar for Workers

Seeking additional workers, the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., Pascagoula, iMss., has been running advertisements in newspapers as far north as the Great Lakes.

While making a brillian record turning out auxiliary aircraft carriers, troop transports, seaplane tenders and combat transports during the war, the management readied the Ingalls Yard to make peacetime merchant ships immediatly after V-J Day. It has a backlog of $125,000,000 in orders.

Feminine Moans Pierce Stillness; A College Education

Blue-jeaned girls lolling on beds, desks, dressers, and window sills, their mouths popped with apples, crackers, peanut butter, candy, and cake; the stillness of night is smattered to smithereens by a wierd trilling resembling a modulated train whistle.

Life, the morning after, is a hollocast of books, bedspreads, rugs, and dust cloths. Energetic damsels eye the remains of dissipation. . . . . apple cores, orange peels, cracker crumbs, cake crumbs, a sprinkling of crumpled papers peppered with bobby pins, and lidless jars still tinged with a faint icing of peanut butter and cheese.

Slightly later eager eyes glimpse the shadow of a bent form staggering up the stairs; a shrill yell pierces the hall, forms lurch from every nook and cranny to cascade toward that insignificent person, the mailman.

Napoleon, Caesar, Alexander the Great, in fact the labrinyth of study, await the weary eyed as they return from a gruelling day of menal labor. The blue-jeaned girls loll on beds, desks, dressers, and window sills, their mouths popped with apples, crackers, peanut butter, candy, and cake. Quiate a college education!

Experimental Theatre Opens

Dramatic Art Students Present One-Act Plays

On Friday night, October 19, the Experimental Theatre opened with its first program of the year, consisting of three one-act plays. The program began with a play by Percival Wilde, "Over the Tea Cups". Members of the cast were: Lois Thomas, who played Mary Beardsley; Bette Lou McCoy, Emily Tucker; Jean Balch, Betsy Young, and Jane Huddleston, who was Mrs. Polhemus. The story concerned two elderly ladies, once of great wealth, but now in comparatively penniless circumstances, who take turns masquerading as a personal maid.

The second presentation was a dialogue between two high-school girls, entitled "Last Night". Edith Earle and Harriet McKeen were the principles involved.

Third was a skit entitled "All on a Summer's Day", and was about three sisters, No. 1, who sewed "this way", and was played by June Garland; No. 2, who sewed "that way", played by Sarah Crider; and No. 3, who sewed "straight up and down", Virginia Davis. Each sister received the answer to her greatest wish. Ann Thornton was Mammie.

The plays were directed by Mrs. Badgett. Stage managers were Mary Lib McKnight and Angell Kincaid.

Plumbing and Heating Equipment Survives Atomic Bomb Blast

Skies were clear over Hiroshima when a Superfortress dropped the first atomic bomb in warfare. Smoke dust, and debris from the explosion rose 40,000 feet. Shown in the picture are the remains of Hiroshima as they are being viewed today by American occupation troops.

The only identifiable items of household equipment that survived the blast are radiators, pipes, and a tiled bathtub complete with faucets. The latter was in a barbershop. The radiators were not broken, warped, crushed, or cracked by the terrific explosion which flattened houses for ten miles around.

Farbman, Schiller Will Open Artist Series With Joint Recital

Harry Farbman, violinist, and Edith Schiller, pianist, performing in a joint recital, will be Maryville College guest artists November 19 at the first artist series program of the school year, Dr. G. D. Howell, chairman of the artist series committee, has announced.

Both Mr. Farbman and Miss Schiller have made previous personal appearances here with the Farbman String Symphony and won an admiring audience, Dr. Howell stated.

This joint recital, sponsored by Charles L. Wagner, has achieved national acclaim with their interesting and attractive programs which present a large musical variety, critic reports state.

Mr. Farbman, fresh from instantaneous success on European and American tours, is at the present time concert master and assistant conductor of the St. Louis Symphony.

Miss Schiller, successful pianist since the age of seven, has had brilliant successes in the New York Town Hall, on tours, and as soloist with leading symphony orchestras.

Floyd Worthington, baritone, and Miliza Korjus, coloratura soprano, will complete the 1945-1946 artist series to be given respectively December 3 and March 25, Dr. Howell announced.

These musical series, under college sponsorship, are an annual educational feature of musical appreciation. In charge of their arrangements here is the artist series committee composed of faculty, Y.W.C.A., and Y.M.C.A. representaitves. This year's committee consists of Chairman Howell, Miss Katherine Davies, Miss

Writers' Workshop

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter and Nellie Cuellas were the readers at the regular meeting of Writers' Workshop Wednesday afternoon, November 7, at 4:30.

Dr. Hunter's paper was free verse poetry, which was divided into three parts. The titles of the parts were "Plan of Battle"; "The Winged Death", and "The Kept Secret". Robert Whitford criticized the work.

Miss Cuellas read "Not By Bread Alone", a piece depicting some of the customs and attitudes of Puerto Rico. It was a type of Spanish literature, Cuadros de costumbles. Louise Corbett criticized.

On October 31, Bob Whitford read a short story titled, "Phaedra Contemporizes". An experiment in narrative technique, the story was developed after the pattern of stream of consciousness. The plot was based on the myth of Phaedra and Hippolytus. Betty Ann Showalter acted as critic.

Miss Jessie Johnson and William Roberts will read at the next meeting, November 14.

Dorms Discuss Pro and Con, Plan For Student Rule

House meetings were held Friday night, November 2, in each of the women's dormitories to discuss the pro's and con's of Student Government in the dormitories.

Committees were chosen by each dormitory, one girl from each floor to assist Studenet Government Committee in drawing up tentative plans to be submitted at subsequent house meetings.

The committee members selected by Pearsons Hall are Betty Wells, Jo Liddell, and Judy Turk; Nan Wooten, Loretta Nunn, and Julie Pancoast will represent Baldwin Hall; and Mildred Miller, Barbara Eggleston, and Katherine Holden were chosen from Carnegie.

KEYNOTE OF THE WEEK

Truman, Atlee, MacKenzie King finished yesterday the second phase of their parley on the Potomac concerning atomic power. Object: to decide what is to be done to prevent the atomic discovery from the destruction of the world. Speculators wonder about Russia's part in handling of the bomb.

Meanwhile, Russian military staff in Berlin, at the erecting of monument to the dead in the fight for Berlin, promises to Red soldiers" a Russia, strong and prosperous, in which we also will have atomic energy."

JEROME KERN DIES IN NEW YORK

News came yesterday that Jerome Kern, famed composer of top American tunes, died in New York's City Hospital of cirebral thrombosis. Composer of "Showboat", such hits as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes", "Dancing in the Dark", Kern was 60 years old.

WHY MUST MORNING COME; OR, TAKE A POWDER, ROOMMATE

By BETTY HARTE

Yawn. I'm s' tired. M' bed is warm and comfy—just right for dreaming. But I dread to go to bed because of the morning.

Back home on the farm, we awoke when our old rooster stretched his neck to the sun and oricalled the beauty of the morning. Here, among these dalburn mountains, horror is likely to wake one—and it usually does.

There is variety to the horror, though. One method is the Teasing Torment, in which my roommate begins by gently wiggling by toe. As I continue to drowse blissfully, the wiggling progresses to a frantic pulling, then a single, mighty heave. Bang. Boom. Bam. Goose-pimpled and bleary-eyed, I rise in astonishment from the floor.

The practical joker with a vivid imagination inevitably mistakes me for a water baby and uses the Aquatic Treatment. From the kindess of his heart, he trickles a glass of water down upon the face of his "pooh transported fish."

Violent Heatheliffe softly raises windows. "The better to chill you, my dear." As the grey, frosty mist creeps in, the fiendish Fresh-Air Frolic begins; all blankets are torn from the unsuspecting sleeper. A tug of war ensues with Heathcliffe on one end of the blanket and the goosepimpled victim on the other end.

THETA EPSILON

Theta Epsilon, at its meeting Saturday night, November 10, had a program made up of musical and dramatic numbers.

Marian Weiler played a piano solo, "La Legend du Chateau Moro". Bob Dubois sang "A Friend of Yours", and "It's Only a Paper Moon".

A humorous skit was presented by Kitty Johnson, entitled, "The First Client."

The program was concluded by another number from Bob Dubois, "Night and Day".

"Circasia" Is Theme of Annual Barnwarming

The annual barnwarming program will be held on November 14 in the Alumni Gym at 7:30. This is the annual Thanksgiving program in which both members of the student body and faculty take part. Circasia is the theme for this year. The program is to be kept secret. The barnwarming queen, accompanied by the class sponsors, will be crowned.

Crawford Speaks At Ministerials

The Ministerial Association held its monthly meeting on November 8th at 6:40 in the Alpha Sigma Hall. President William Robarts presided over the services.

Rev. Earl Crawford, discharged Army Chaplain, was the speaker of the evening. He climaxed his address by telling the story of an Army Chaplain who disgraced his uniform and profession by removing his Chaplain bars and behaving in a disgraceful manner to the high calling of which he was serving. He left with the group this thought, "As ministers of Christ's Church not to throw away our emblems, but to wear our crosses at all times."

Jack Ross led the group singing at the beginning of the meeting.

Athenians Stage Boxing Match

November 17, Athenians will have a musical program with Florence Houch and Josie Hale in the spotlight of the evening. Saturday, November 10, the Athenians enjoyed a fake boxing match and on November 3, there was a joint meeting of Athenian and Bainonian.

Alpha Sigma members were guests at the program.

Girls' Choir Makes 2nd Appearance

The All Girl Choir, under the direction of Mr. Curtis Hughes, sang two anthems on Sunday night, November 11, at Vespers, "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelsson and "O Saviour of the World" by Pears-Riegger. This was their second appearance of the year.

They will furnish the music for Thanksgiving service at the First Methodist church in Maryville on November 27.

They will also sing for the Chilhowee club on December 4. The December Musical of the club is one of the most outstanding programs of the year.

Students' Help Needed For Bond Drive Success

Members of the student body celebrated the opening of the first Victory Bond Drive on Wednesday, November 7, when bonds and stamps were sold in Pearsons Lobby under the auspices of the International Relations Club.

Miss Harriet McKean, publicity manager of the committee in charge of the sales, reports that two freshmen participated, buying $1.10 in stamps. Nine sophomores bought $20.25, six juniors bought $13.60, and eight seniors bought $2.25, and one senior ordered a bond. This makes a total of two bonds which have been sold, one being purchased by a sophomore.

Miss McKean, states that she feels we should support the peace as well as the war, and that she hopes more of the student body will form the habit of buying stamps and bonds from their class table weekly.

Y. W. Consecration Held In Program At Amphitheatre

The Amphitheater was the scene of the Y. W. C. A. Consecration service on November 10. The program to which all girls were invited, centered about the religious background of the Y.W.C.A., effectively illustrated in talks given by Y.W.C.A. officers. "Pilgrims" was the title of the talk given by Helen Marie Wilson, secretary; "The National 'Y'" was presented by Judy Turk, treasurer; "The History of the Maryville 'Y'" was discussed by Mary Evelyn Jamieson, vice-president; and "The 'Y' Today" was introduced by Rebecca Davis, president.

Special music, a hymn of consecration, was provided by Catherine Sisk. While singing "Jacob's Ladder" the group lighted candles and formed a triangle. Mildred Waring then read "Kneel Reverently As You Light A Fire".

Kneeling, the girls were lead in prayer by Jean Messer, Nu Gamma chairman. Still kneeling, the group touched their candles to a heap of leaves in the center.

After the service, the group adjourned to carol before Mrs. Walker's house as is the tradition.

Students Meet Wednesday To Vote On Truman Petition

Main business at the regular meeting of the Student Council Thursday night, November 8, was the discussion of proposed action by the Student Body in drawing up and sending a petition, concernieng atomic power and its control, to President Truman. After much discussion the Council voted to have a committee draw up petition similar to one the president of the council received from Bennington College in Vermont. There will be a meeting of the whole Student Body after chapel Wednesday morning, November 14, to decide on the matter. The petition is to state that the members of the Student Body and faculty of Maryville College think it wise and necessary for our government to work toward an international council to control and regulate the production and use of atomic power, in the interest of the world peace and security.

Other business of the meeting consisted of committee reports. Mildred Waring, president of the Student Council, presided.

Following is the Maryville College documentary petition, signed by the president of the student body and the college president:

Honorable Harry S. Truman
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D. C.

My dear President Truman,

In view of the grave challenge to our security and the peace of the world, which depends so greatly on the judicious control and regulation of the newly discovered atomic power, we the student body and faculty of Maryville College feel compelled to ask you:

(1) to propose at once in the name of the United States Government the creation of an international commission for the control of the production and use of atomic energy, and to pledge the readiness of the United States to comply with the full inspection of our production facilities and the control of their use by that commission, on the single condition that other countries do the same.

(2) to see to it that this action be taken regardless of the progress of legislation on domestic control of atomic energy research and production.

(3) to demand extensive hearings on legislation proposing the creation of a domestic agency controlling research and production in the field of atomic energy.

Mildred C. Waring,
President of the Student Body.
Ralph W. Lloyd,
President of Maryville College.

Cross Describes Work With Indians

Margaret Cross, senior from Brent, Alabama, addressed the Student Volunteers on Sunday, November 11 on the subject "An Indian Summer", giving her experiences with the Indians of South Dakota while under the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian church. Special music was furnished by Mary Margaret Robarts and Katherine Franklin, singing a duet.

On Sunday, November 4, Suen Chin spoke to the group on "China". Martha Scanlon read the words of a hymn accompanied by Alma Lancaster at the piano.

Hopson Resigns From Episcopal Rectorship Here

The Reverend Maurice H. Hopson on Sunday, November 4 read his resignation to the congregation of Saint Andrews Episcopal Church in Maryville.

During his two years in Maryville, Mr. Hopson has served as priest-in-charge of St. Andrews Episcopal Church, Maryville, and Trinity Mission, Gatlinburg. He is a member of the Maryville Ministerial Association, of the Board of Directors of the Blount County Red Cross, and of the Board of Directors of the Church Mission of Help. This Youth Consultation Service originated as a service for unmarried mothers, but is now a service for troubled young people in need of the help and guidance of the church.

While serving at Trinity Mission, Mr. Hopson has held services once a month for tourists and members of the Episcopal faith in the Gatlinburg Library. A new eighteen hundred dollar Hammond organ has recently been donated to the misison and will be installed as soon as plans are completed for a church. In Maryville, the Ralph Colbert Memorial organ fund, which is in memory of St. Andrews first choir director, and plans for a new church which may be erected on Gamble

Survey Finds Class Of '45 Seeking Fortune All Over Country, Abroad

Members of the Maryville College alumni, class of 1945, have scattered all over this nation—two have gone abroad—pursuing their various occupations and furthering their training. According to information recently obtained many of last year's graduates have gone into the following fields: teaching, directing religious education, theological seminary, and some type of medical training.

The following is a list of the majority of last year's seniors of Maryville College, where they are, and what they are doing.

Lt. Jefferson Ingram Breazeale, Jr., (ex'45) has recently been discharged from the service. He plans to attend Maryville College the second semester of this year.

Miss Hannah Duke is now working in Chattanooga, Tennessee for T. V. A. as a Cartographic-Engineer Aide in the Maps and Surveys Division.

Mrs. David J. McDaniels (Beverly Jackson '45) is with her husband in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Mr. McDaniels (class of '42) is working on his master's degree at the University of Michigan. Mrs. McDaniels plans to work as a dietitian.

Miss Winifred Anita Sommers has gone to the Territory of Hawaii and is teaching the second grade at Lahaina Maui in Hawaii. Most of her students are of Japanese ancestry.

Miss Betty Ione Ballard is teaching in the city schools in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Joanne V. Bellerieau is teaching the first five grades in a township school in New Jersey.

Margaret Graham Caldwell is Director of Religious Education at the Highland Presbyterian church, Louisville, Kentucky.

Helen Holland Cassile is studying the Arabic Language in Jerusalem. She is to study that for one year in preparation for her work in Syria, where she has been sent by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Misisons.

Lois Mae Collett is doing case work in the family department of the Luthern Inner Mission in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Luther Silsby Cross is attending Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, New Jersey.

Martha Elizabeth Dean is another of the teachers. She is teaching Spanish and history in Bull's Gap High School, Bull's Gap, Tennessee.

Marian Ruth Garvin is attending Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore, Maryland.

Martha Jane Hays is serving her internship as student dietitian at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Margaret Louise Henry is Director of Religious Education in Chicago Heights Presbyterian Church in Chicago Heights, Illinois.

John H. Houdeshel is another one of the class attending Princeton Theological Seminary at Princeton, New Jersey.

Anne Kerr is teaching at Beechwood School in Rye, New York.

Dr. Lloyd Back From 10-Day Trip

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College, returned Saturday from a ten day business trip in Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C.

In Philadelphia, Dr. Lloyd attended to business matters regarding Maryville College and met in conference with a group representing Negro ministers from both the North and South. The chief concern of this group was the relation of the Negro churches to the Presbyterian denomination.

After leaving Philadelphia, Dr. Lloyd spent three days in Pittsburgh at a meeting of the Presbyterian Council on Theological Education. This council has general oversight of the recruiting and training of ministers, directors of religious education and other trainees for full time church vocations. It also has oversight of various theological seminaries. Dr. Lloyd was elected to this council by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

Dr. Lloyd also spent one day in Harrisburg at the semi-annual meeting of the Presbyterian Department of Church Cooperation and Union. This group, of which Dr. Lloyd has been chairman for

The great victories won by our Armed Forces can only be made a reality if we help our Government to complete the job. We must now care for our wounded, rehabilitate the returned veteran, make fair adjustment with industry and labor in the cancellation of our War Contracts and generally provide our Government with ample funds to convert to a peaceful world. To do this every citizen is called upon for an additional act of the highest patriotism—that is to purchase bonds in the victory loan to the utmost of his or her ability.

—Bernard F. Gimbel.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

October 31 appeared on the calendar several days ago (Imagine Corky Monteith insisting that Halowe'en was on the twenty-second!), but, not having had the chance to express opinions and facts at an earlier date, we choose to include it—among other tihngs—in the present column.

The Freshman party was a scream, and most of the chilun were doing just that. . . . . Jean Sankle proved that a lighted jack-o-lantern could be carried on the head. . . . the curl all came out of Hubby Doyle's hair when he ducked for apples. . . . . Janet Nisbet could have been tagged "hoarder", with Bob Maclay and Ronald Reagon each bringing her refreshments. . . . . E. J. Cotton and Edgar Potts made a grand entrance (How did they get in here?). . . . . Peggy Brooks and Ken Borom chose to keep each other company. . . . Bob Hill almost escorted Harriet Perry to the dorm.

Being given by somewhat older students, the Sophomore party was not quite so riotous. . . Harold Kidder and Gus Hundeman demonstrated pianistic abilities before the program began. . . . Jack Craig wandered around verbally wishing that he were at the Freshman party. . . . . Observation of couples disclosed that Eva Toro and Wilburn Seymour, Elizabeth Crawford and Willis Pribble, Soapie Bernadini and Merle Grubbs, Katie Sisk and Harold Kidder (Impossibility!), Lil Conrad and Max House, and J. T. Anderson and Susie. Everybody were together. . . . Earl Martin's long oration informed the audience that birth, marriage and death are more suitably called "hatched, matched, and snatched."

We wandered as far as the gym door, but were frightened to crash the Junior party. They were telling ghost stories.

The Sadie Hawkins square dance was success plus, and these "pore" eyes saw unusual sights. . . Alma Lancaster, Bob Dockendorf, Lottie Lavender, Harold Hunter, June Garland, Tom Horst (Serious?), Martha Merk, and Bill Cover all successfully illustrated the mechanics of the various dances. . . . Edie Earle, Ruth Broadhead, Marky Cross, and Tucky Thomas were the best dressed girls, but Tommy Parkinson was not to be outdone. . . . Seemed to be several mix-ups about couples, but—from where we stood—Olinde Ahrens and Dale Elmer Hemingway, Arline Whiting and Jack Ross, Marian Scott and Dale Motsinger, Betsy Click and Earl Martin, Peggy Howell and Merle Grubbs, Edie Earle and Edgar Potts, Bob Dubois and dreams of Margaret, Marky Cross and Jack Craig, Emily Leety and Bob Maclay, Betty Hall and couples. . . . Pardon us, if, over a period of days, we seem to have the same persons with different people. It can happen, you know.

Is it true that—

Bebe Whalen and Paul Myers are moonshined. . . . on Hallowe'en night Mrs. Butcher yelled, "Don't come up Mrs. Snyder. You'll get hit!". . . . following a disagreement, Bill limped on an injured leg, and Gwen displayed a black eye. . . . Light bulb Installer Arthur Haaf ran around the corner in a Pearson's hall when someone called, "Don't come out now, Ginny (Miller)!". . . . Jean Balch actually walked into the fish pond. . . Grace Ellen Cross and Kitty Stidham are anticipating service men homecoming troubles during Christmas. . . . the Admiral of Annapolis wouldn't let Dave meet Margie when she visited her sister in Lexington this week-end. . . . . there is any sincerity in the "Love you always" written by a Robert on a picture displayed in 215 Carnegie. . . . Trevor is coming Thanksgiving. . . . Johnny is coming Christmas (Eh, Joy?). . . . this question is lengthy?

Wilburn Seymour, Marion Lewis and Lloyd Chandler, Lavonne Heard and Tom Wheeler, and Mary Barnwell and Bob Barlow wore a few of the many

We can't quite figure out why they chose to perform the ceremony in front of the Chatterbox, but Kay Stout and Bill Vogel were married by Jim Liester the other day. Mary Ruth Barber's class ring came in handy at the time. Mr. Graham said that he would have been glad to do it, but he wouldn't marry anyone to Bill Vogel.

We see Julie Pancoast and Fred Richardette together after breakfast. . . . Miriam Bell came out of French class last Tuesday and was shocked to see Sailor Bob Free back again. . . . . We see Julie Pancoast and Fred Richardette together after lunch. . . . . Laverne Helton and Sailor Fred Coates are a cute couple. . . . We see Julie Pancoast and Fred Richardette together after supper. Suen Chin has gone home to become a bridesmaid. She met Dicke there Saturday, but we're hoping that she won't return as a bride. . . . We see Julie Pancoast and Fred Richardette together.

Jack Howard just could not understand Dr. Sisk's explanation of a trig problem. Leaning toward the point of exasperation, Dr. Sisk firmly asked, "Howard, what am I up here for?" "I don't know, suh," Jack answered.

We have more, but they limit us on column inches, and we would like to save a bit of our neck, so——bonjour——ohhhhhhh, forgiveness, please, Miss Wilkinson; of course we meant au revoir.

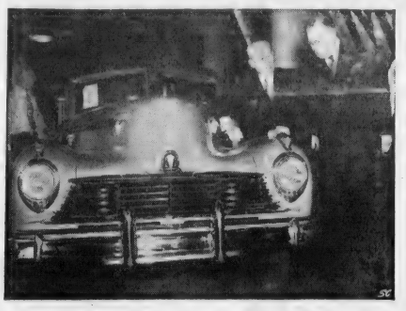
The ..... annual Artist's Series concerts are beginning with a violin and piano recital next Monday evening. How aware are we students of the privilege we enjoy in being able to attend concerts such as these for such a nominal fee? Outsiders must pay full admission price in order to be present.

However, going to the Artist's Series is not just a matter of getting something for almost nothing. Nor is it just another chance to wear your formal or perhaps to be fortunate enough to have a corsage. The opportunity to hear good music by skilled artists should be the motivating purpose behind a reserved seat holder.

The program is planned with you, as the listener, in mind. The varied compositions are chosen and given their place after thoughtful consideration of their type and the relationship to the program as a whole. A heavy number, such as a symphony, will not be placed immediately preceding the intermission. Then rather would be the time perhaps for a sprightly dance to lighten the fatigue accumulated following the opening numbers. The opening composition must be able to appropriate the attention of a fresh and alert audience.



If then, the program is planned for us, do we not have a share in its success? Indeed so. Several points of concert etiquet are pertinent. It is always embarrassing to find yourself applauding between the movements of a symphony. "When in Rome . . .", if in doubt, observe your neighbor who perhaps is acquainted with the work or has taken music appreciation or music history.

Then there is the matter of conversation. Everyone knows how annoying it is in the movies. It is not just as disturbing to hear about the intricacies of a new hari-do or football play during a piano concerto? If not to you, you can be sure it is to others.

Late comers realize they should not try to find their seats after the concert has begun. They must take the consequences of missing part of the program.

Our appreciation of these artists is usually expressed by applause and requests for encores. We should learn, however, to be aware of an artist's fatigue, and not request that which is beyond his ability to give. Artists coming to Maryville have always spoken highly of the gracious welcome they have been given by the college students. We want them to continue feeling that way, don't we?

New Advance In Automobile Viewed By Pioneers In Transportation

DETROIT, MICH.—When the first new 1946 Hudson rolled off the production line here, Orville Wright, Dayton, Ohio, (left) inventor of the aeroplane and Col. H. Nelson Jackson, of Burlington, Vt., first man to cross the country by automobile, were the "official sponsors." The pioneers who made transportation history in 1903 hailed the new Hudson with its complete new front, many exterior changes and a completely new interior as a great advance in automobile progress.

"This Is Not a Democracy" Says Dr. Crane

Eminent Psychologist Speaks On Post-War Problems at Knoxville

"Dr. Crane is an institution," said the Rev. E. A. Beasley of the Knoxville Episcopalian Rectory in introducing the eminent columninist, psychiatry student, professor of psychology, to a large audience in the Knoxville high school auditorium Friday evening, November 9. A number of psychology majors from Maryville attended the lecture, which was sponsored by the Woman's Club of Knoxville.

Dr. George W. Crane is a well-built man with black curly hair and a neat mustache. He is young and vigorous and quite prof-ish with a black bow tie and gleaming rimless glasses. He doesn't really mind lecture tours except that it puts him three or four weeks behind answering his mail, and takes his smart-looking wife along for company and "fun."

"Psychological Problems Arising from the War", was the subject of the address, under which he connived to weave in a great number of intrinsically interesting points and anectdotes about the effects of the war on people and institutions.

Is There a God?

"Every young person with any brains asks if there is a God." They ask for proof, and balk at having to take it all on faith. Dr. Crane offered specific arguments to answer this question. Since the most common negative answer is backed up by the assertion that the world, the universe, is just a cosmic accident, that is the point at which he attacked. "Did accident ever produce a synchronizing machine?" Human experience tells us NO. Behind every synchronizing machine is some creative mind. "Is the cosmic universe a synchronizing system." The answer is obvious. According to Dr. Crane, there is no answer to this argument.

'Demon Rum"

"Everybody else is doing it," is the answer of young people to the question of drinking. The "demon-rum"-will-get-you idea is not enough. Again specific arguments must be used. Alcohol does have food value. It's almost as fattening as butter, but one can get as much food in a candy bar as in a shot of liquor, and for only five cents. For medicinal purposes, it is no longer considered good "snake medicine" but it is used—to dissolve drugs which do not dissolve in water. "Alcohol has never given anybody courage," said Dr. Crane. It slows the brain so that one walks where angels fear to; it makes one act stupid, without discretion.

Two psychological arguments against alcohol are:

1. It slows you down 10%, and you aren't aware of it and can't allow for it. Ether works faster, but it has the same effect.

2. "You are temporarily feebleminded." When under the influence of alcohol, one loses his sense of propriety, forgets his finer skills, becomes child-like to the point that anyone may take advantage of him. "You must stay alert all the time in this modern competive age," asserted professor Crane.

"If labor needs 30%. . ."

Now that the war is over, labor upsets are increasing. Dr. Crane advocated courts with impartial jurors to settle strikes. Let management and labor put up bonds whereby the one judged in the wrong may pay for losses. "Instantly wildcat strikes would stop," he said. Why argue when facts are easily ascertained? Problems can be figured scientifically. "If labor needs 30% increase, they should have it." But he maintained an impartially as to whether labor or management is in the right.

We are not a Democracy

"This is not a democracy; this is a republic." Dr. Crane shocked some of his audience. In a democracy, the rules of the majority prevails. If 51% of the population were brunettes they could vote to confiscate all the property of the blondes. Our fore-fathers put certain brakes on such a stamped government: the constitution, the Supreme Court, and the two bodies of congress. "Explain this to the youth," demanded Dr. Crane, "so they can answer arguments. . . ." We have been approaching socialism, thinks Dr. Crane, since the U. S. entered competition with free enterprise in opening Postal Savings accounts in 1910. The government should turn over to free enterprise all such functions if a republican form of government is to be maintained.

"At worst, our working men earn two and one-half times as much as do those under other forms of government." Why, then should we make any change from our way of governing, he asked.

Trouble in Homes

A 40% divorce rate has been predicted in the years following the war. Broken homes leave behind emotionally maladjusted individuals; children suffer from a feeling of insecurity which is devastating to children. For happy marriage, Dr. Crane makes these suggestions: have children; compliment your spouse; compliment your children; engage in mutual recreation. And realize that men and women are not alike and respect this difference. "We're all problem children." Everyone has problems. One of the significant values of prayer is to slough off burdens that are too great to bear alone.

At the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Crane introduced his wife, and when the audience turned from applauding her, the stage was empty.

Frances Sisk To Be Bride of Curtiss Wright Nov. 20

At 8:00 p. m. on November 20, Miss Frances Sisk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Sisk, will become the bride of Curtiss W. Wright of Greenport, Long Island, New York. The service will be solemnized at the New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Miss Sisk, class of '43, will have as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. John McGee, the former Margaret Sisk, of Nettleton, Mississippi. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Ruth Hoyt and Miss Natalie Yelton, ex-'43, former classmates of the bride.

Miss Catherine Sisk, sister of the bride and senior French major here, will sing for the candlelight ceremony, to be held in the church sanctuary. Miss Katherine C. Davies, professor of music here, will be at the organ.

Mr. Wright, son of Mrs. E. Nichols, and the late Mr. Wright, ex-'42, has chosen as his ushers, Harold Kidder, junior from Berwin, Maryland, and John McGee, brother-in-law of the bride. Manager of intramurals while here, Mr. Wright was discharged November 1 from the U. S. Air Corps at Fort Dix, New Jersey. He has spent two years overseas, serving part of that time as a chaplian's assistant.

The bride will be gowned in white satin for the ceremony, to which family and close friends have been invited. Her dress, fashioned with a marquisite yoke, has a full skirt. A finger tip veil is attached to the Dutch calot headpiece.

Marvin Minear Visits On Campus

Marvin Downer Minear, yoeman third class in the United States Navy is on a four day visit with his family and friends in Maryville. Mr. Minear graduated from Maryville College in 1939. A sociology major here, he distinguished himself in both studies and extra-cirrucular work.

After he graduated, he returned to the college where he was employed in the treasurer's office, and taught classes in economics.

In the summer of 1944, he entered the navy, and the the present time, he is doing work in one of the navy schools at Bainbridge, Maryland.

Chilhowean Will Be Enlarged

Jayne Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean, announced that approximately twelve pages will be added to the yearbook, an addition which will enlarge the space occupied by the athletics groups, other organizations, and the feature section. The number of feature pictures are increased as a result of the work done with the speed graphic camera last spring and this fall; consequently, the editorial work is greater than it has been for several seasons. Certain pictures centered around the major activities this fall, such as Barnwarming, are yet to be made.

It is probable that the heavy paper formerly used in the annuals will be obtainable for the book this year. The paper has been unavailable for the last two years, and no definite information has been received assuring its use for the 1946 annual.

The order was placed last week for the covers of regular imitation leather. The four-hundred covers represent the number of books that can be printed, a decrease of twenty books from last year's number.

Both the editorial and business staffs have been active in taking every precaution possible to send the material to the printers at the earliest possible date. It is hoped that by sending it to the engraver and printer before Christmas the books can be delivered next spring before school is dismissed; however, the continued shortage of both labor and supplies in the printing industry often causes considerable delays in the delivery of the books.

Miss Shouse said that a few group pictures will be retaken this week, particularly those of the Girls' Point System and the Parish Project Workers. She urges all seniors to complete their activities cards and to turn in snapshots.

CRAWFORD TO BE CHAPEL SPEAKER

Chapel speaker on November 14, will be Rev. Earle Crawford, graduate of Maryville in the class of '35 and of Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. Rev. Crawford recently returned to civilian life after serving as a Chaplain in the Army, and participating in the African and Italian campaigns.

The speaker on October 31 was Rev. Colvin L. Hammock of the First Baptist Church of Maryville.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

In the only protested game of the season the Slamming Six unofficially captured the touch football title on October 30th. They feated the Big Six of Bill Cover, 6-0.

On a 20 yard pass by Max House to Capt. Merrill Grubbs the only score was made. The touchdown was made "during the time that the half should have been over" according to the protesting team. An unintentional default in timing was announced by the timer at the end of the game.

A later game, played on November 6th when the Big Six defeated the Parrots, automatically gave the title to the Slammers. Whether the Slamming Six won the title on that date or as a result of the protested game, will be decided at a later date.

Score by quarters:

Slamming Six	0	—6	—0	—0	—6

PARROTS TAKE SECOND PLACE

With second place in the balance the Parrots of Paul Myers dished out at 14-0 shellacking to the Flying Six on November 1st. The victory gave the Parrots second place temporarily in the touch football race.

The scoring for the Parrots started in the first quarter. Paul Ayers intercepted a Flyer pass on the 40 yard line and raced to the Flyer's 26. Two passes to Robinson put the ball on the 1 yard line. Mat Cardella then went across for the score.

In the second period Leonard Schieber intercepted a Parrot pass on the one yard marker to quinch another Parrot drive. Loosing the ball to the Parrots, a pass to Robinson by Cardella on the 4 set up the second score. Earl Martin then hit right end to make the halftime score, 12-0.

As the fourth period was closing, Schieber intercepted another Parrot pass, but this time he was trapped behind the goal to give the Parrots another 2 points.

Score by periods:

Parrots	6	—6	—0	—2	—14
Flying Six	0	—0	—0	—0	— 0

BIG SIX WIN CLOSE ONE, 14-13

On November 6th the Big Six of Bill Cover trounced the Parrots, 14-13, the third time this season. Two overtime periods were used to complete the game. It was the Big Six's third victory in nine starts.

Spotting the Parrots 13 points, the Big Six then rolled over the Parrotmen for two last-quarter scores. A superior yardage gain in the second overtime period gave the Big Six the victory. Three factors entered into the Big Six's win—Bill Cover's blocking, Hub Doyle's broken-field running, and Lloyd Chandler's extra point pass.

With two minutes left to play the Big Six started to roll. Bill Cover's exceptional good blocking for Doyle quickly brought in two touchdowns. The crucial point in the game was reached when the score stood at 13-12 in favor of the Parrots. A quick flip of the pigskin to Chandler for the extra point, and the ball game was tied.

After the whistle to end the original time, the three minute period was played without score. The four plays allowed to each team were played then. The Parrots were held steady while the Big Six rolled again for 36 yards to take the game by the one point allotted to them.

The loss for the Parrots automatically registered the championship for the Slamming Six of Merrill Grubbs. The Parrots had been the only team left in the running to tie the Slammers for the first place. The title goes to the Slamming Six, even if the protested game of October 30th is played over, and the Slammers lose the game.

Score by quarters:

Big Six	0	—0	—0	—14	14
Parrots	0	—13	—0	— 0	13

Bill Stewart put the Slammers to route in the second period when he passed to Schieber for a 45 yard touchdown. An extra point pass to Ed Anthony and the Flyers led, 7-0. Again Stewart was a factor in the second score as he went over the Slammer's goal from the 5 in the third period. A pass to Carl Lazenby made the score,, 14-0.

Capt. Grubbs of the Slammers ran his number of touchdowns to 9 for the season when he went 10 yards for the Slammers only score.

The defeat was the second of the season for the Slamming Six. Previously they had been defeated by the Parrots, 8-7. The Parrots also had been the only team to ever cross the Slammer's goal line.

Tennis Tournament Nears Mid-Point

The tennis tournament for girls is now in the third and fourth brackets. Those in the third bracket are Holder and Cotton, Eggleston and Cook, DeLaney and Lavender. After these games are completed King will play the winner of the Holder vs. Cotton match, Thomas will play the winner of the Eggleston vs. Cook match, Ledbetter will play the winner of the DeLaney vs Lavender match and Anderson will play Justus. Then two more brackets will have to be completed before the final game is played to decide the championship.

Vesper Choir Sings Over Knoxville Radio Program

The Maryville College Choir, under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Vine sang three anthems at the morning service of the Second Presbyterian church in Knoxville on Sunday, November 4. Dr. Barber, minister of the church, broadcasted his service as usual.

The first anthem was "Beautiful Saviour" by Christiansen, a Crusader Hymn arrangement. "Hallelujah, Amen" by Handel and "Lost in the Night" by Christiansen were the other two anthems. Barbara Blair, sophomore music major, sang a solo.

The choir will sing in Knoxville on November 18, at the Fourth Presbyterian church. At this service four anthems will be sung.

For the Thanksgiving Vesper Service, on November 18, the choir will sing "Now Thank We All Our God", a Mueller arrangement, and "Rock and Refuge" by F. M. Christiansen. The latter is an arrangement of an old Swedish folk song.

On Sunday, November 25, Robert Du Bois, Greek major, from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania will sing a solo at Vespers. His selection is "Then Shall the Righteous Shine Forth", the tenor aria from Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

Alma Lancaster Speaks At Weekly Prayer Service

Miss Alma Lancaster, junior from Hendersonville, North Carolina, was the speaker at the weekly prayer meeting service last Wednesday evening. The meeting was held in the "Y" rooms at 6:40.

The group singing was led by Merrill Grubbs, and the special music for the evening was a piano solo played by Mary Evelyn Jamison. She played "Meditation" by Henselt.

Miss Lancaster's subject was Service. She gave a condensed story of the book, "The Monk's Consecration". The topic centered about the idea that our services are the result of our opportunities, and that we should take advantage of them to do the most possible good for mankind.

The Department, which is composed of twenty men from various parts of the country, held an all-day meeting in the Capitol cabinet room. They were guests of the governor at lunch, and a few of them were guests of Governor and Mrs. Martin at a dinner held in the Hershey Hotel.

Friday Dr. Lloyd was in Washington, D. C. on college business, and the next day returned to Maryville, completing his trip begun on November 1.

HOPSON RESIGNS

Avenue next to the rectory have been established by Mr. Hopson.

Before taking the position in Maryville, Mr. Hopson was rector of the All Saints Episcopal church in Brooklyn, Mich. He was born and received his early education in New Haven, Conn. He obtained his B. A. from Hobart College, Geneva, New York in 1939, and his B. E. from Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexander, Virginia in 1942. On December 7, 1943 he was ordained to the priesthood in Jackson, Michigan.

Mr. Hopson has accepted the call to become rector of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Bristol, Virginia and St. Thomas Church, Abingdon, Virginia. His work which he plans to begin on December 1, also includes student work with about one hundred and fifty to two hundred students at Sullins College, Virginia Intermont, and King's College, Bristol.

Mr. Hopson has spoken to the students and faculty of Maryville College many times during his rectorship here and has won a place for himself on the "Hill".

ARTIST SERIES

Dorothy Horne, Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, Miss Catherine Sisk, and Mr. William Robarts.

In past years the college has had as guests such musical virtuosos as pianists Jose Turbi and Vladimir Horowitz; singers Alexander Kiprus, Jussi Bjoerling, and Jinka Milanov; the Westminster Choir and the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus; violinist Robert Spalding. The operas "The Barber of Seville" and "Don Pasqualle" have also been presented in past college series.

These musical programs are not for financial gain. Admission prices to the series are included in the students' activity fees. The only additional charge for admission is the seat reservation price of fifteen cents plus tax for each performance.

Reservations for the Farbman-Schiller joint recital to be given on the announced date at 8:15 p. m. in Vorhees Chapel will be sold in the lobby of Pearsons during the last of the week.

Air Cargo Space Rising

Wasihngton—Plans of the nineteen domestic airlines call for increasing their carga carrying capacity more than five fold above the 1944 level according to the Air Transport Association of America.

Juniors Present "Television" Show Saturday Night

Television (a la Maryville College) was used for the first time in a radio program on Saturday night, November 10, 1945. The occasion was the Saturday night program presented by the junior class in Voorhees Chapel at 8:00 o'clock.

Edith Earle, junior from Salerno, Florida, was in charge of the program which consisted of several skits, presented "via television", and of acting out of advertisements. The following skits were given: "Uncle Ed" with Jim Leister as Uncle Ed, and Mary Ruth Barber in charge; "The Reverend's Revival Hour" with Jim Evans as the Reverend, Ruth Kaye in charge; and "The Misleading Beacon" presented by Jean Messer and Joy Stewart. John Shell was the announcer.

The All-Girls Choir, with Sara Enloe in charge, gave a Sadie Hawkins Day program in the Alumni Gym the previous Saturday night, November 3. With Miss Martha Merk, of the University of Tennessee, doing the "calling", barn dancing was featured. Wilbern Seymour and Betty Hall were selected as the best Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae. Tom Wheeler, as "Marryin' Sam" conducted a mock wedding between Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae after she had been successful in the race. Robert Dockendorf was the master of ceremonies. Cookies and punch were served after the program.

The social committee has announced that the Saturday night program for next Saturday night, November 17, will be an Experimental Theater program.

Howies Win Over Chillies

The Howies emerged victorious from the series of soccer games played against the Chillies. The last game was played on October 30th at which the Howies were triumphant with a score of 3-2. The three goals for the Howies were made by Janice Lindsay. Merle Henderson and Dot Justus each made a goal for the Chillies. This made the third win out of five games for the Howies. The fourth game of the series had a tie score of 2-2.

Practice is under way for the volley ball games. A test will be given and teams will be picked on November 13th. The games are scheduled for the 15th, 20th, and the 27th of November. All those who wish to attend the games are welcome at the alumni gym at 4:30 p. m. on the afternoons of the games.

VOLUE 31 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, November 19, 1945 Number 7

8 SENIORS MAKE WHO'S WHO

FARBMAN, SCHILLER PERFORM TONIGHT AT 8:00

Both Guests Have Played At M. C. In Past Seasons

The Maryville College Artists Series Management opens its 1945-1946 concert series tonight. At 8:00 p. m. in Voorhees Chapel, Edith Schiller, pianist, and Harry Farbman, violinist, will appear in joint recital. This inimitable couple needs no introduction to a Maryville audience since for two seasons they appeared here together in the Farbman String Symphony, Mr. Farbman as conductor and Miss Schiller as the soloist in piano concerti.

Miss Schiller is an artist whose ability to please the most of audiences has been consistent wherever she has played. At the age of seven she began studying piano, and it was not long before she was winner of New York's Music Week Contest appearing in Carnegie Hall. After graduating from the Institute of Musical Art in New York, she won three fellowships at the Juliard Graduate School with Olga Samaroff-Stokowski. She has had brilliant successes in New York's Town Hall, on tour, and as soloist with leading symphony orchestras.

The St. Louis Times said in a review of one of her performances that, "Edith Schiller performed graciously as guest artist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in Schumann's refreshing Piano Concerto. . . . . Such was

Societies Enjoy Varied Types of Entertainment

Under the captainship of Leonard Schieber and Bill Cover, the Alpha Sigs met on November 17 to bowl at the Maryville bowling alleys.

Meanwhile at the sister society, Theta Epsilon, Ed Anthony and Soapie Bernardini entertained. Ed played several pieces on the piano and Soapie danced "The Doll Dance." The dance is a modern ballet in which a toy doll is wound up, dances, breaks a spring in her leg, is wound up again, dances, collapses.

At the Athenian meeting, Bainonians Josie Hale and Footsie Housch were the main performers. At the piano, Josie played "Tuxedo Junction"; Footsie sang "Dream" and "How Little We Know". Both girls harmonized on "Till the End of Time" and "The Desert Song".

In the meantime, "Little Black Sambo and the Oleomargerine" was presented in Bainonian room. According to this version of the story, Black Sambo was walking through the College Woods when he was accosted by five tigers. The usual strip tease ensued, and while the tigers were turning themselves to oleomargerine, Sambo fel asleep to dream that Katie Sisk sang "Shortening Bread." When he awoke he decided he didn't want to sell the oleo in order to get such bread, and donated all of it to the dining hall. Margaret Cross produced the skit. Included in the program was Negro reading read by Bette Lou McCoy.

Dr. Fred H. Hope Will Open Drive at Chapel Service

Dr. Fred H. Hope, originator of the Fred Hope Fund, will be present at the Wednesday morning chapel service, November 21, to open the annual drive for that fund himself, and to address the chapel.

Dr. Hope is an alumnus of Maryville College, having graduated in 1906. As a scholar he felt that the students ought to do more for the mission causes. Being a principle campus leader, he proposed a campaign fund. In 1907 he went to Africa as a missionary where, until recently, he has spent most of his time. Dr. Hope is now president of the Maryville College Alumni Association. He has now reached the retirement age under the Board of Foreign Missions and has come back to America to stay. His home is in Orlando, Florida. On his visit to Maryville he may bring moving pictures which will be shown on Tuesday or Wednesday night.

Though Dr. Hope has not been here to carry on the drive, it has been functioning for forty years. The money is sent to him to use as he thinks best. The money has done many things which include the building of the Maryville College Chapel in Africa.

This year the drive will be sponsored by the Student Vols. At the chapel service Bill Vogel will deliver an address on the value of the Fred Hope Drive. Then opportunity will be given to pledge. The pledge can be fulfilled in three installments. Last year the college contributed $734.00.

Rev. Crawford Urges Growth

"Becoming a Man" was the subject of Rev. Earle Crawford at the Wednesday morning chapel service on November 14. Mr. Crawford, a graduate of Maryville College in 1933, was until recently a chaplain in the Army. He has participated in the African and Italian campaigns.

In his sermon, Mr. Crawford stresses four points by which maturity can be recognized. These are growing mentally, emotional stability, gaining self control and growing spiritually.

The chapel speaker for November 21 will be Fred H. Hope, formerly a graduate of Maryville College and until recently a missionary in Africa.

Crew Designs New Stage For "Guest In The House"

Mrs. West, who is directing the Theta Alpha Phi play to be given on December 1, has stated that the play is coming along satisfactorily. A new stage, somewhat different from ordinary stages, has been designed by the crew. Those working on the play are looking forward to a successful production.

The play, "Guest in the House", had a successful run in New York, and was favorably reviewed by many critics.

Among these, the New York Times says "An engrossing play about a suburban couple who give houseroom to a female guest and live to wring their hands in anguish. . . . . The authors are shrewd and have told their story maliciously well . . . . . A taut horror drama which rouses the audience to an emotional response . . . . College Board Of Directors Will Meet For Reports, Plans

The semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors of Maryville College will be held Tuesday morning, November 20, in the art gallery of Anderson Hall. This fall meeting is for the purpose of discussing matters of financial and general nature. Reports of the school year ending last May will be reviewed and plans for this year will be discussed and action taken if necessary.

Judge Samuel O. Houston is chairman of the board with Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Broady as vice-chairman. Judge John C. Crawford of Maryville serves as recorder or secretary. These officers are all Maryville College alumni. Judge Houston is a great-nephew of the famous Texan hero and Dr. Broady was for many years pastor in Birmingham. Two standing committees are always elected at the same time at this November meeting. For the past year President Ralph W. Lloyd has served as chairman of the Administration committee and Judge A. E. Mitchell of Knoxville has been chairman of the committee on Finance.

The directors are elected by the Synod of Mid-South of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. at their annual meeting in June. They are elected for a three-year term. The other regular meeting of the board is immediately preceding the Commencement program for the express purpose of granting degrees and approving faculty and staff appointments.

Following this meeting Tuesday, the directors will be guests of the college at lunch in Pearsons Dining Hall to which members of the college administration and heads of divisions will be invited also.

All Electees are Women

Eight Maryville college seniors have recently been chosen by the college faculty and student council for the climaxing college honor of being in the 1945-46 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." They are Olinde Kay Aherns, Zenobia Bernardini, Louise Corbett, Rebecca Ann Davis, Ruth Lillian Freeman, Mildred Constance Waring, and Helen Marie Wilson.

These eight were officially notified of their selection last week by the 1945-46 Who's Who editor in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, following their approval by the national committee.

Basis for consideration of Who's Who candidates are character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulnes to business and society.

Miss Aherns, native of Osborne, Kansas, has had an accelerated school curriculum. During this shorter than average period she has written for the Highland Echo, is vice president of Student Council, member of International Relations Club and its 1944 treasurer, parish project worker the past two years, member of the Glee Club in 1943, member of Writers' Workshop for the past two years, one of the cast in "Letters to Lucerne," and "The Cradle Song" business manager.

Miss Aherns' post-graduate plans include working toward her master's degree in religious education.

"Soapy" Bernardini from Cincinnati, Ohio, is a choir member for the third consecutive year, secretary of "M" Club, sophomore May Day attendant, junior of the Social Committee, secretary of Bainonian, vice-president of the senior class, and member of French Club and Writers' Workshop.

Miss Bernardini's immediate plans after her Christmas graduation are indefinite.

Louise Corbett, Spanish major from Jacksonville, Florida, is a member of Bainonian society, orchestra, Spanish Club and its president last year, "M" Club, and Writers' Workshop. She was junior class sponsor, vice-president of her junior class, and a member of the Daisy Chain. This year she is president of the senior class.

Miss Corbett's plans upon graduation are not definite. Under consideration are continuing her studying of music and doing government work in South America.

"Becky" Davis from Sturgis, Kentucky, was freshman class secretary, president of German Club her sophomore year, Nu Gamma leader, cabinet member of Y.W.-

"CIRCASIA" COMES THURSDAY

By Betty Lou McCoy

The committee for Barnwarming, headed by Betty Lou King and Virginia Thomas has informed us to expect something new and different in the way of a program this year. They have not confided just what sort of performance there is to be, except that it will not be in the line of the usual "talent show." As most people know by now, the theme of the festival is "Circasia."

Drawing our own conclusions, we can conjur up visions of trapeze artists, clowns, trained animals, pink lemonade, and other circasiorum inhabitanti. And from the way the decoration committee is getting on, we can only say that our surroundings will be as nearly like the real thing as they can be without being the real thing.

Various campus groups such as YW and YM and others are to be represented, not to mention some terpsichorean choruses. (Look it up in the dictionary). Barnwarming would not be Barnwarming without a performance by the faculty, and they promise to be with us this year, as inspirational as ever.

But leave us divulge the names of the persons whom we may praise or blame, as the case may be, for the work of different committees. The program committee is under the overlooking (pardon, please, we mean overseeing) eyes of Merrill Grubbs and Ruth Broadhead. Marian Monteith, Jean Cobb, and Margie Dickinson, as heads of the costume committee, have been in stitches for weeks. Mary Batchelor and Jean Almy, gossips par excellence, have as their duty the telling of choice tidbits about the entertainment—just enough to get people curious enough to come see the thing for themselves. In other words, they are on the publicity committee. That committee which makes possible the impossible, namely, the decoration committee, is controlled by the wild imaginations of Ginger Clabough and Joanne Hart, with additional mental phenomena furnished by henchmen Melba Holder, Bill Cover, and Leonard Schieber. The booth committee is flourishing under the hands of Bob Whitford and Bob MacClay.

While sale and distribution of those little bits of colored paper that let you get in to see the show is in charge of that Mad Merchant, that Super-Salesman, Harold (he'll talk 'em into it) Kidder. And by the by, if you are one of those persons who like to see a program start on time, don't wait to buy your ticket at the door. Get it before-hand, at the Chatterbox or in Pearson's lobby when they are on sale, so that the performance in the sawdust ring can start at 8:15, as scheduled.

The doors of the gym will open at 7:30 to give opportunity for visiting the unique cultural offerings of the Side Show. And then, on with the BIG SHOW!

The crowning moment of the evening will come with the crowning of that glamorous senior, Queen (censored) and the presentation of the class sponsors. Misses (you knew I wouldn't ruin your surprise!)

P.S. Proceeds from the sale of tickets will go this year to the World Student Service Fund.

SENIORS LEAD IN STAMP DRIVE

While the stamp sales are slowly rising, the seniors managed to lead the classes in the sales on Wednesday, November 14, with an average of 14%, and nine persons taking part. The Juniors were following closely behind with 10% of the class taking part.

The seniors bought $1.70 in stamps and the Juniors bought $3.55. The Sophomores, who also had nine participants, bought $2.70 part. The freshmen had 3% and part. The freshmen had 3.% and $12.15.

Members of the committee say that they feel the students are not participating as they could. They urge that all get behind this drive in order that our nation may make the necessary arrangements to reconvert to peace.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Eight members of the senior class have been elected by the faculty and student council to Who's Who of American Colleges and Universities in recognition of outstanding achievements during their college careers, and of potentialities of character that promise to reach further realization after school. These students have capitalized on their time and individual abilities to an admirable degree with a success that cannot be measured by dollar signs. This recognition is a distinctive honor.

To each of you, we are pleased to be among the first to offer hearty congratulations and sincere best wishes for a future you have been elected to conquer.

THIS PAPER IS FOR YOU

In this issue of the Highland Echo we are printing a letter from a member of our student body. It is our conviction that one thing in these crowded days there is always room for anyplace is improve-not have the objective range of view of outsiders ment. A small staff, no matter how earnest, can-whose only connection with the paper is reading it. We are sincerely interested in criticisms, laudatory and otherwise, and ideas concerning our paper. Could, or should, the paper include more than it has? What features of the Echo do you like or dislike, and why? What would add interest for you?

In the interest of such, we are placing in the lobby of Thaw Hall a mail box for letters to the editor.

A college newspaper has a definite function to serve as a voice of the college. Printable comments, observations and suggestions on campus situations may also be dropped in the box. Faculty members are asked to participate in this program. Any opinion is relatively valueless when the author is unknown, so we are asking that all contributions be signed. Each letter will be considered in the spirit in which it is written.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Not wanting other classes to feel slighted this week, we have—strictly on our own—elected ten members to WHO'S WHO. It was not an easy task, but after careful consideration and elimination, the following students have been chosen.

J. T. Anderson, alphabetically heading the list, of course is a charter member, for he hoards certain qualifications that no other student on campus can claim. What other boy, or girl, for instance, would come to school a week early just for the heck of it—or sleep through three classes a day, six days a week, four weeks a month, nine months a year, two years in a row—AND PASS? What other student could pull from a mystical memory historical knowledge that can be compared only with that of Winston Churchill? J. T. undeniably is qualified for membership.

No such list would be complete without one-tenth of the space being occupied by that famous name of a famous personality—Ruth Broadhead. Laughter is her middle name, and this writer admires her to no end for her ability to make or take a joke out of anything.

We could not think of excluding Sue Cockran. Such wit we have never seen or heard. It was she who insisted that "Baldwin is going to the dogs" just because the girls in 201, 203, and 216 found three pups and proceeded to take care of them. It was she who ventured to warn the freshmen that "this polio you've been hearing about isn't the kind you play with a mallet." AND it was she who breathed,

"Oh well. . . . . .
'Tis better to have loved
A short man than
To have never loved a tall."

Then there are Matt and Roy. They would be brothers, except for the rather insignificant facts that one is a fraction smaller than the other, one is from New Jersey, while the other is from Florida, and one's name is Cardella, differing slightly from the other's unusual surname, Smith. Otherwise, they would be brothers, if they had ever heard of each other before. They might even be twins, if one was not a sophomore and the other a freshman. But as for the standards they meet, allowing them in the WHO'S WHO—yes, let's see—their qualifications? Oh, never mind; we insist on including them.

Obviously Josie Hale should occupy a place in this list. Her method of pouncing on the piano keys amazes us completely, and we are a somewhat envious audience. She is forever nonchalant, seldom blinks an eye, and usually appears to have the saddest of sad expressions on her face, while her fingers—those remarkable fingers—beat out the happiest jive that was ever heard in Jive-Land. Ah yes, Josie is here.

With qualifications towering above all fellow members is little Jim Martin. If for no other reason, we would include him for his unique description of how he sleeps (all six feet four inches of him) in a top bunk. In case you are wondering, he piles pillows sky-high, which tend to increase the length of his bed. These pillows slightly protrude over the side of the bed, but are counterbalanced by the wall. Upon these pillows he rests his downy head and then manages to sleep through a third of his life by keeping himself more vertical than horizontal with that plane he calls a mattress—the miracle of the ages.

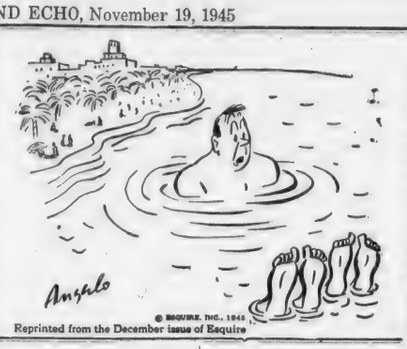
You may not know this freshman too well. She more or less hibernates, but even we would be tempted to such a life if we could be certain of the same results. Katherine Theda—for the first time in a long time at Maryville College—succeeded in pulling down from somewhere five beautiful A's for her midsemester grades. "They shore grow 'em smart in that there state of Washington." Yep—Kathie must be included. She's unusual.

Searching the directory of students, our eyes fall upon the name of Judy Turk. Now there is a girl who can be compared with no other, for she is entirely different. Why? Well, as a present day Chaucer would say, she simply does not show the symptoms of love, in spite of the fact that she is acquainted with the definition of the word. She eats—she sleeps—she works in the Chatterbox—she holds any number of offices—and she studies. Now, isn't that stupid? Absolutely contrary to all axioms, theories, rules, or laws of love. That's why we say Judy Turk should be in the WHO'S WHO.

Last and least is that little character who is gradually pushing himself into the favor of the various campus crowds, particularly girls' groups. He was the latest arrival, entering several weeks late, but he assures us that more of his friends are coming soon. In the meantime, he enjoys himself immensely, doing nothing in particular except keeping himself in an ugly sprawl and maintaining an orange complexion. Perhaps he's embarrassed. Wouldn't you be—if you were called Pete, the College Pup? Well, Pete, we consider you one of the ten most outstanding characters on campus.

'Tis said that a noisy fellow annoys a fellow, so we'll close until another day.

Scotch Broth



By HELEN MARIE WILSON

And what did you think of the atomic bomb petition? Or did the whole question find us napping? How much consideration and thought have we alloted to contemporary affairs which vitally concern each of us as individuals and as nations?

We are all guilty, in part, of one of the major causes of the war just ended: compaisance and causes of the war just ended: compalsance and stances. This guilt is perhaps most obvious when a survey of voting citizens is made. We may well feel ashamed at the low figure representing votes cast in any election. As youth, unable yet to vote, we censure our elders. But is it not possible to find ourselves in a similar situation? Attending class meetings, serving on committees, and voting in class elections represent a minimum of duties as individual class members.

Two challenges have been presented to us recently. How have we met them? Last Wednesday there was a student body meeting at which time a petition in letter-form was read to students. The plan proposed to President Truman of creating an international control of atomic power was not original with our Student Council. Bennington College in Vermont (just one of many) wrote requesting that we follow their proposal with a similar one. Conquering the ever-present foe of procrastination and the minimizing of any good from our efforts, the Council drew up the petition as you heard it. You also voted as you believed right—whether or not President Truman should receive the letter. Through that vote, you became a strengthening link in the growing chain of international relations—of the U.N.O.

Participating in the Victory Loan is, of course, the second challange. The figures printed in the last issue of the Highland Echo speak adequately for themselves. Do we need a reminder that this loan is building for peace—for reconstruction in a world destroyed? Our response to the stamp drive last year was great enough to purchase a jeep. We were willing then to help with the war program. Our giving was largely motivated by the fact that we were, in some measure, helping our boys to come home sooner. Now with so many discharged and home again, that purpose has lessened. However, living as members of the United Nations places a responsibility on each of us. We in America have not seen our cities burned, our homes destroyed or our families killed as have people from the other nations at war. That we may reply to the stand of brotherhood we have taken, it is our task to help in the rebuilding of these impoverished countries. We can have a concrete share in this by purchasing savings stamps and bonds. Pearl Harbor Day on December 7 marks the end of the Victory Loan Drive. Will Maryville College be well-represented?

LETTER TO EDITOR

I was interested in the write-up for the Writers' Workshop, in the November 13 issue of the Highland Echo, which mentioned both the readers and their pieces. I feel sure some of your other readers also wanted to know more about "The Kept Secret" and "Not By Bread Alone." How about letting us in on these sparks of the genius? I would like to see your paper publish a resume, if not the whole paper of some of the readings given at the Workshop meetings.

POLLY LICKTEIG

Thank you for your suggestion. Watch for the next edition.—Ed.

Ruth King Wood, giving the Point Systemers advice: "The best way to enjoy vigorous health is to take a cold shower every morning."

Mae Short: "I'm not fussy; what's the second best way?"

Two ambitious Baldwin girls enter a store: "A can of floor wax, please."

Clerk: "Sorry, ma'am, all we have is sealing wax."

Co-eds: "Why, who'd want to wax the ceiling?"

TO HAVE OR HAVE NOT; WHAT PRICE OUR PEACE?

"The war is over! The war is over!" "No, it isn't; it's a rumor!" "A rumor!" "A rumor!" Such were the reports that came to our ears during the tense days before the termination of hostilities with Japan was actually confirmed. Now, we have been told, the shooting and the shouting have died; the war is over for a certainty. But is it?

There are countless numbers of people for whom the war will never be over. There are the wounded, with the long, slow processes of healing ahead of them—but the scars will not heal, and men cannot grow new arms or legs. There are those whose suffering is mental, for whom expert treatment must be had. An there are those for whom medical treatment nor all science can do nothing, for theirs is the permanent loss of bereavement, the weight of grief, the sudden end of hopes and dreams, and the blank despair that follows. There are those who may as yet have been unscathed, but who will feel the trampling hoofs of Riot and Pestilence that ride in the trail of the great horseman, War.

Say to the dead if you will, "Look, we're grateful. You haven't died in vain. The world we're building out of all this will prove that." They do not hear. Say to the living, "It's settled now; it won't happen again." But how can they believe empty words when no man lifts a hand to keep the tides of avarice and hate from surging over all the world again?

"The cost of this transition from war to peace is as much a part of the cost of war as the transition from peace to war and we should consider it so." This is what President Harry Truman said in his message to Congress on September 6, 1945. And this we must not forget if we are to pass the real test of this war. The price of it is not paid yet—not only the price in human suffering, but the monetary price, which if paid, can alleviate more suffering.

There are munitions bills still unpaid.

There is the task of guarding the conquered nations. This means occupation forces, their equipment, supplies, their pay. The army estimate is that as late as July 1, 1946, some 1,315,000 of our finest men will remain on guard over seas.

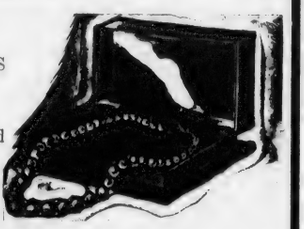
There are millions of homes awaiting the return of sons and daughters who have been too long away. We want them to be returned quickly and safely. But travel is expensive, and the cost of bringing tehm home has been estimated at $1,400,000,000.

As for the wounded—500,000 American boys need medical care, at the cost of many millions of dollars. We can do our best to help them become physically and mentally prepared to find a place for themselves in society. We cannot take away their bitterness at disfigurement or loss of limb; we cannot share with them the pain of readjustment. We can only offer anything that money will buy: hospitalization, treatment, surgery, artificial limbs, and vocational training—and we can do that gladly and freely.

There are 8,000,000 veterans to be discharged by next July. These soldiers and sailors must have something on which to start again in civilian life. The law provides mustering-out pay up to $300 per man. If the reduction in armed forces goes according to schedule, this item adds up to more than $2,000,000,000 in the coming year.

War contract terminations is another expense of the bill of war. Here some $3,000,000,000 is concerned.

And then, the leering face of inflation threatens. Unless the money in circulation can be kept down, it will become worthless, for the supply of goods is not great enough to meet the demand. Our farms and factories must be kepet going for the boys who come back, so that they may work, so that a dollar will buy a dollar's worth and so that there will be a dollar's worth to buy.



No, it isn't over. It's a long way from being over. Shall we give up the fight? Shall we throw away the progress we have made? Building the peace and keeping it will be expensive. There are far too many wounds that can never be healed, but there are many that can.

What shall we do? We must save to rebuild. Our government needs our help to finish the victory. The Victory Loan Drive needs our fullest support. We do not have much, most of us; we do not have great incomes. But we have pennies and nickels that can grow into dimes, and we have dimes that can grow into dollars.

Let us buy more stamps and bonds! Let us continue to support our boys! Let us give! Let us sacrifice a few ice-cream cones and candy bars for those who laughed at hell for us!! It is more than just a favor we can render it is our duty "to bind up the Nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have born the battle, and tor his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

Players Select All-Star Team; Points Awarded

By Ken Kribbs

A total of 33 boys signed for the intramural touch football league on September 4th. One week later the whistle for the first game sounded. On November 15th the final whistle blew to end the season. The boys had played and worked hard. As usual an All-Star team has been chosen. This year all of the players were asked to pick the players whom they thought to be worthy of the honor.

The idea of letting the players choose the team was conceived, as the players themselves knew from experience the capacities of the other players. The players and captains of each of the four teams follows: Slamming Six — Capt. Merrill Grubbs, Bill Dinges, Bob Hill, Max House, Harold Hunter, Willis Pribble and Fred Wilson; Big Six—Capt. Bill Cover, Lloyd Chandler, Hubby Doyle, Ken Kribbs, "Pee-Wee" Reagan, Fred Richardett, Will Seymour and Roy Smith; Parrots—Capt. Paul Myers, Paul Ayers, Bob Barlow, Mat Cardella, Charley Huffman, Earl Martin, Dave Miller, and Bob Robinson; and the Flying Six—Capt. Leonard Schieber, Ed Anthony, Bill Houdeshel, Carl Lazenby, "Wee-Gee" Lenoir, Bill Mackey, Bill Stewart and Dick Tolerico.

After careful consideration by each player, the team has been chosen. Two teams, a first and second string, and the players who the boys thought was the outstanding player were chosen.

Seven players were nominated as the outstanding players of the year. Hubby Doyle, freshman from Conyers, Georgia, had the majority of the votes. Doyle played three years for his high school team. He was a running back for the Big Six, scoring 19 points in the intramural league. He has played the full time of every game except the latter part of one quarter when he was sent to the sidelines with an injury. His broken-field running was one of the outstanding features of the Big Six's last 4 straight victories. He is not only an excellent runner, but an equally good passer and kicker. If the Big Six were ever in the need of an extra point, Doyle's right foot was on the job. Doyle played good football, and the fellows chose him as the outstanding player. Congratulations to you, Hubby Doyle.

The first and second string All-Star Team is made up of the following players:

FIRST TEAM

Player	Team	Pos.
Lenoir	F.S.	LE
Dinges	S.S.	C
Hill	S.S.	RE
Grubbs	S.S.	LH
Doyle	B.S.	RH
Cardella	Par.	FB

SECOND TEAM

Player	Team	Pos.
Chandler	B.S.	LE
Cover	B.S.	C
Robinson	Par.	RE
Stewart	F.S.	LH
House	S.S.	RH
Seymour	B.S.	FB

The Slamming Six and the Big Six placed four men each on the two teams, while the Parrots and Flying Six placed two men each. Tom Parkinson, '44 intramural manager, announced that "Intramural points are given to these men, who are elected to the All-Star Teams."

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

SLAMMERS SUFFER WORST DEFEAT, 20-6

On November 10th the "cellar boys" of the Big Six handed the Slamming Six their worst defeat of the season, 20-6. The tilt was the play-off game of the protested game that was played on October 30th. The Big Six had protested the game on the grounds of "improper timing."

The victory for the Big Six was due especially to the superb backfield playing of Wilbern Seymour. Seymour scored two of the Big Six's touchdowns and was a factor in the third one.

The Big Six's first score came in the first quarter. Kribbs intercepted a Slammer pass on the 50 and returned it to the 40. Hubby Doyle and Seymour then become very active, running the ball to the 6 yard line. On their second attempt Seymour hit the right end for the remaining yardage and the score. A pass from Doyle to Kribbs for the extra point was good. The Big Six was held scoreless in the second period, but Doyle weaved and bobbed 72 yards for a score in the third period. On the play Seymour was very busy giving Max House the blocking treatment that has given the Big Six their last 4 victories. A pass to Chandler for the extra point made the score, 14-0. The Big Six's final score came in the fourth quarter. Seymour intercepted a Slammer pass and clipped off 65 yards for a touchdown.

The Slammer's only score came in the fourth period. House passed to Merrill Grubbs for a 65 yard touchdown.

Score by quarters:

Big Six	7	0	7	6	—20
Slamming Six	0	0	0	6	— 6

BIG SIX TRIUMPH AGAIN, 6-0

The Big Six did it again. On November 13th for their fourth straight victory, which sets a record for the season, the Big Six of Bill Cover laid low the Flying Six, 6-0. A goal-line pass did the trick.

The Flyers, who had previously dumped the Big Six 12-9 and 1-0, held them to one touchdown. The score came in the first quarter on a 7 yard pass by Doyle to Ken Kribbs. The Big Six had worked the ball to the Flyer's goal twice before. The Flyers played excellent ball, holding the Big Six six times within the ten yard stripe.

The win for the Big Six set a record for the season. It was their fourth straight victory. Previously the Slammers and Parrots had turned in three game streaks.

Score by quarters:

Flying Six	0	0	0	0	—0
Big Six	6	0	0	0	—0

SLAMMERS TAKE SEVENTH WIN, 25-7

On November 15th the Slamming Six of Merrill Grubbs plucked the feathers of the Parrots, 25-7. It was the last game of the touch football season.

Scoring two touchdowns in the first period, the Slammers went on to an easy victory over the Parrots of Paul Myers. The victory was the seventh of the season against 3 losses for the Slammers. The game rounded out the 10 game schedule of all teams.

In the first quarter two intercepted passes by Bob Hill set up the Slammer's scores. Hill intercepted the first one on the Parrots' 25 and returned it to the 15. Grubbs picked up 9, and House passed to Hill for the score. Hill's second interception was on his 30. He returned the ball to the Parrotmen's 48. Another pass to Grubbs put the ball on the 7. House's pass to Dinges made the score, 12-0. The Slammer's third score came at the beginning of the second half. On the kickoff Grubbs picked up a Parrot fumble on the 40 and raced to the 11. Two plays later Grubbs crossed the double marker. The Slammer's last score came in the fourth period. Grubbs ran the ball 28 yards for his 11th touchdown of the season. A pass to Wilson for the extra point was good.

The Parrots' only score came in the latter part of the first half. Cardella intercepted a Slammer pass on the 22. A pass to Earl Martin for the touchdown, and a pass to Myers for the extra point made the score, 25-7.

Score by periods:

Slamming Six	12	0	6	7	—25
Parrots	0	7	0	0	— 7

FINAL STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Pct.	DP	OP
Slamming Six	7	3	.700	137	55
Big Six	5	5	.500	81	59
Parrots	4	6	.400	85	123
Flying Six	4	6	.400	59	125

The six man touch football championship has been won, and the ten game season has been completed by the four teams.

The Slamming Six, captained by Merrill Grubbs. All-Star backfield man, finished the season in first place with 7 victories and 3 losses. The Big Six of Bill Cover were runners-up.

Intramural manager Max House announces, "The singles ping pong tournament will begin soon. The matches will be played in the Bartlett Gym at the convenience of the players. This program is to last until the Christmas vacations."

Chilhowean Soon Goes to Engravers

Jayne Shouse, editor of the Chilhowean, announced that all photography, with the exception of a few individual shots, has been finished, and the draft of the dummy has been drawn. It includes the extensions of the athletics and in formal sections. The special photography for the feature section, involving the class queen, has also been completed. These pictures are to be included in a different page plan than has formerly been used.

The first large group of class section glossy prints has been returned and is now being grouped for the make-up of the panels. This material is to go to the engraver immediately upon the receipt of the other group of photographs which was taken at a later date.

"Give me a well-known date in Roman history, June."

"Anthony's with Cleopatra."

Backfield men who received honorable mention are Martin of the Parrots and Kribbs of the Big Six. At the center position honorable mention went to Roy Smith of the Big Six, and Leonard Schieber of the Flying Six received the honorable mention for an end.

Mr. Farbman has a distinguished musical career to his credit, both as a violinist of virtuoso attainments and as a brilliant young conductor. He was a pupil of the great Leopold Auer, and at the age of eighteen was the first American violinist to tour South America, where he appeared under the baton of the best conductors and in concert, winning unqualified acclaim. At present, Mr. Farbman is concert master and assistant conductor of the St. Louis Symphony.

"There is no doubt that Mr. Farbman is one of those divinely favored mortals fashioned by Providence in the image of a great violinist." Thus has commented The Detroit News.

This attraction combines the artistry of two young, colorful personalities in a program consisting of two sonatas for violin and piano and solo groups for each.

The program has been arranged as follows:

Sonata for Violin and Piano,

WHO'S WHO

C.A. and is its president this year, secretary of Student Volunteers and member of the Chilhowean business staff last year. Theta Epsilon member, and parish project worker. Miss Davis is a member of the Regional Council of Y.W.-C.A., and this summer was one of the four delegates from the southern region to attend the National Intercollegiate Christian Council.

In addition to her extra-curricular activities, "Becky" has worked in the college post office for the past three years. Her immediate plans for the future are likewise alternative: working toward her master's degree or going into full-time Y.W.C.A. work.

Ruth Freeman, English major from Philadelphia, has a four-year honor roll record. She is Bainonian president, secretary of French Club, chairman for the past two years of Disc Club, member last year of the Y.W.C.A. cabinet, Daisy Chain, parish project, and junior class president, member of the governing board of Writers' Workshop. She is now doing honors work in English.

"I would like to go on for my M.A. and then teach English," Miss Freeman disclosed.

Marinell Ross, history major from Maryville, was last year's business manager for the Chilhowean, Varsity debate member, president of Phi Kappa Delta, secretary and treasurer of Student Council, co-editor of the "M" Book, and member of the Daisy Chain.

Miss Ross last year won the state championship in debate, first place in the state in extemporaneous speaking, and co-winer of the Phi Kappa Delta award of the Grand Eastern Debate Tournament.

Upon graduation at Christmas, Miss Ross will enroll the following term at the University of North Carolina law school.

Mildred Waring is a socialogy major from New Bedford, Mass. Her college activities include membership in Spanish Club and its secretary her freshman year, member of parish project, Y.W.C.A., Writers' Workshop, and Bainonian society, junior May Day attendant, member of student faculty senate and student council the past two years and present student council president.

Miss Waring plans to go into some type of personnel work after her graduation.

Helen Marie Wilson, English major from Fairview, Penn., was a Nu Gamma leader, has been a member of the Y.W.C.A. cabinet for the past two years and present Y.W.C.A. secretary, Student Volunteers cabinet member for the past two years and also its present secretary, member of student council, secretary of student-faculty senate, member of French Club and managing editor of the Highland Echo.

Miss Wilson's future will probably include graduate work in English.

Biographies of these eight Maryville College selections for Who's Who will apear in this year's edition as national recognition of their outstanding college record.

This year the college was limited to eight Who's Who selections by the national committee because of the decreased size of the 1945-46 senior class.

Club Activities

MINISTERIALS

The speaker at the meeting of the ministerials, held on November 8 was Rev. Earle Crawford. Rev. Crawford told of his duties as a chaplain in the war. Rev. Crawford served as an Army chaplain in the African and Italian campaigns.

—See Circasia—

GERMAN CLUB

The German club met on Monday, November 15 in the chapel. Esther Cornelius was in charge of the program. The memebsr listen from "Die Valkurie" by Wagner. Evelyn Vaughn commented on "Die Valkurie" and "Das Rheingold"; Virginia Baier commented on "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung", all from the work "Der Ring des Nibelungen."

WRITERS' WORKSHOP

Miss Jessie Johnson and William Robarts were the readers at the regular meeting of Writer's Workshop Wednesday afternoon, November 14, in Thaw Hall.

"Hayride Romance" was the title of Miss Johnson's short story. It dealt with the discouraging incidents on a teen-age girl's first date and her cheerfulness through it all. Mildred Waring criticized.

Billy Robarts read a short story which did not have a title. It was about a Spanish lady in 19th-Century Florida who married and went to live with her husband in a new environment. It related how she changed from being very happy to being unbearably unhappy. Virginia Claybough critized this paper.

Betty Wells and Jean Tarwater will read at the next meeting of Writers' Workshop, Wednesday afternoon, November 21.

FRENCH CLUB

The French club will hold its next meeting on November 29, in Bartlett Hall. Elsie Jean Cotton will be in charge of the program which will be a play, "Let Surprises d'Isodore." The cast will include Edgar Potts, Soapie Bernadini, Helen Marie Wilson, Merle Grubbs and Nell Ousley.

Table Tusks On Display In Thaw

Dr. Fred Hope Presents M. C. With Costly Gifts

Dr. Fred Hope, treasurer of the West Africa Misions of the Presbyterian Church and Superintendent of the Frank Jones Industrial school at Elat in Africa for 38 years, has given the college a table which was constructed in his school. Made from the finest African wood called Ovon, it was shipped in a mahogany case. (Ovon wood is considered better wood than mahogany.) The table's surface is one unbroken plank of Ovon measuring 92 1-2x35 1-2 inches.

A pair of Ivory elephant tusks were included in the gift. Measuring approximately 62 inches, the tusks are hollow. They will be placed in the college museum.

Both the table and the tusks are on exhibit in the library.

From Carnegie comes the following description of Janice Lindsay tuning up on her flute:

544 SPECTATORS THRONG TO SEE CIRCASIA

"Guest In The House" Will Star Jean Balch

House, Miller, Play Lead Supports

Saturday, December 1 In Voorhees Chapel

"Guest in the House", a drama by Hagar Wilde and Dale Eunson, under the direction of Mrs. Nita Bickles West, is to be given in Voorhees Chapel on Saturday, December 1, by the Tennessee Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi. The lead role, that of Evelyn Heath, will be portrayed by Jean Balch, junior from Detroit, Michigan. This will be Jean's first appearance before a Maryville audience. The chief supporting roles of Douglas and Ann Proctor are to be given by Max House, sophomore from Cato, New York, and Virginia Miller, junior from Kennett Square, Pennsylvania. Max came before a college audience in last year's JUNIOR MISS, which was given by Bainonian and Athenian societies. Virginia took a small maid's part in the same play, and by her vivid characterization, made it outstanding. Other supporting roles are played by Ann Thornton as Lee Proctor, daughter of Douglas and Ann; Betty Lou McCoy as Aunt Martha Proctor; Jean Messer as Miriam Blake; Jay Bishop as Dan Proctor; Mirian Pope as Hilda, the maid, and John Briggs as John, her husband; Tom Wheeler as Dr. Shaw; Fred Wilson and Lois Thomas as Mr. and Mrs. Dow; Sara Crider as Miss Rhodes, a reporter, and Arthur Haaf as Cam Tracy, a photographer.

"Guest in the House" presents a story of a household upset by a neurotic guest who has overstayed her welcome. As a result of the actions of Evelyn Heath, Douglas' model leaves, and he is unable to get another; Lee, his small daughter, begins to imitate Evelyn's languishing ways; Douglas begins to drink as a result of his constant bickering with Ann, who realizes something is wrong, but doesn't know what. Finally Ann, after a scene with Douglas about Evelyn (which Evelyn has brought about very nicely) threatens to leave him. Evelyn becomes exultant, and overplays her hand. Douglas, realizing at last her state of mind, agrees to and even urges her departure. But the events leading up to the rather unusual manner in which Evelyn leaves the Proctor's, after involving them in a still greater entanglement, add greatly to the psychological and human interest of the play.

Margaret Cross, publicity manager, said, "It's a good play, a good cast; and they're all working very hard." The publicity campaign so far has included some very good skits on several of the programs. Miss Cross is planning further stunts including handbills which are to be passed out to the student body.

Several items are still lacking for the stage, Harriet McKeen, who is in charge of properties, has stated. Among these are fireplace equipment, a small desk and chair, a diary, canvases, and several small ornamental pillows. Miss McKeen said, "Everybody should see the play; it promises to be a thriller."

Floyd Worthington Baritone To Come

Next Program Dec. 3.

Joint Concert Team Praised

Floyd Worthington, a young American baritone of widely diversified talents, will appear on December 3, 1945. The Maryville College Artist Series Management states, "His accomplishments in grand opera, light opera, radio, concert, and oratorio justify our securing him for the second artist of our Artist Series. Press reviews and music critics have praised him highly. 'He possesses a fine resonant baritone voice, splendidly controlled, with rich tones and velvet texture, capable of wide extremes of volume from pianissimo to thundering climaxes.'"

The program has not yet been announced.

Edith Schiller, pianist, and Harry Farbman, violinist, appearing in joint concert here on Monday, November 19, were well received by a capacity audience by their brilliant playing and fine interpretation of both joint selections and solos. The program, included two sonatas for violin and piano, and solo selections by both artists.

Mr. Farbman and Miss Schiller have made two previous appearances at Maryville with the Farbman String Symphony.

On March 25 Miliza Korjus, colortura soprano, will be presented.

Debaters Will Try Out For Placement Before Judges

Debate try-outs for debaters' individual placements will be held all afternoon next Wednesday before official judges, Dr. David H. Briggs, debate coach, has announced.

Results of these tryouts will partially determine the eight to participate December 6 and 7 in the Dixie Champions Forensic Tournament at Charlotte, North Carolina, Dr. Briggs stated.

Debaters, who for the past weeks have been having intercollegiate practice debates, and from whom the Maryville College tournament participants will be chosen, are as follows: John Briggs, David Campbell, Janet Campbell, June Garland, Carolyn Kaye, Sara Jo Kiger, Kitty Johnson, Lilybelle Gunn, Mariagrazia Merlanti, Janet Nisbet, Geneva Robinson, Audria Stinger, Miriam Wickham, Mary Mitchell Wooldridge.

$1102 Pledged For Fred Hope Fund

Dr. Hope Speaks On Elat Mission Last Wednesday

It has been anonunced by President Lloyd that faculty-student pledges to the Fred Hope Fund, taken last Wednesday morning after an address by Dr. Hope, have so far totalled $1102, with 393 of Maryville's 450 students pledging. More pledges are being received in the office of Miss Clemmie J. Henry, treasurer of the fund.

Uses to which the Fred Hope Fund has been put was Dr. Hope's topic on Wednesday. Hope, treasurer of the West Africa Missions of the Presbyterian Church and superintendent of the Frank James Industrial school in Elat, Africa, has recently returned from the African field where he has been a missionary for 38 years.

The Fred Hope Fund, established in 1906 when Fred Hope was a student here, has been subscribed to every year by students and faculty for foreign mission work. Dr. Hope recounted the use of it in Elat. Bill Vogel, representing the Student Volunteers, and Miss Clemmie J. Henry, as treasurer, spoke also Wednesday morning, urging students and faculty to support the fund.

Results of the pledging showed a considerable increase. Five years ago, in 1940, the amount pledged was $520.35. The increase is notable, since the student body has decreased a great deal since that time. In 1943, $608.85 was netted, and in 1944, $734.00.

Fred Hope will continue to administer the fund, although he will not go back to the mission field; he is now making his home in Florida.

One-Act Plays In Bartlett Tonight

Experimental Theater presents this Saturday night's program in Bartlett Hall. Two one-act plays will be given, "Some Women Were Talking" and "Purple Rim."

The cast of "Some Women Were Talking" is as follows: Milly Wimble, Mary Mitch Wooldridge; Luther Wimble, J. T. Anderson; Miss Mathews, Ruthellen Crews; Mrs. Dean, Katey Holden; Mrs. McCrae, Mazie Howard; Mrs. Badendock, Jean Childress.

The cast of "Purple Rim" is as follows: Miss Babcock, Mary Elizabeth McKnight; Lucy, Becky Walton; Mrs. Amory, Mrs. Elsie Crow; Anne, Marian Pope; Philip, Dave Campbell; Bob, John Briggs.

Stage manager for the program was Marian Scott, and Kitty Johnson was the commentator.

Directors Meet To Elect Officers, Hear Reports, Plan

At its semi-annual meeting on Tuesday, November 20, the Board of Directors of Maryville College elected officers and committees for the coming year, to be headed by Judge Samuel O. Houston of Knoxville.

The Board received reports from its Committees on Administration and Finance, from President Lloyd of the College, and from Acting Treasurer Crawford.

President Lloyd, who completes fifteen years of service on November 29, presented a review of the history and progress of the College during his administration, which the Directors ordered to be printed.

The Treasurer's report showed that the operating budget of the College has been balanced during all but one of the war years. A new Treasurer to succeed the late Fred L. Proffitt has not yet been selected. Judge John C. Crawford was re-elected at the May meeting to serve as Acting Treasurer for the current year. Mrs. Walter A. Wrinkle, Assistant to the Treasurer, members of the Finance Committee, and the President are handling the important details of the position.

The Board approved President Lloyd's report that the officers of the College are seeking provisions for the housing of married veterans who desire to return to College. The possibility of obtaining demountable houses from Government installations is being explored with Government officers in charge of housing and surplus property sales.

Dr. McClelland To Resume Office Dean of Students

Served As Major With Marine Corps In Pacific Theater

According to a release by President R. W. Lloyd, Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Dean of Students at Maryville College since 1937, is in Washington, D. C., preparing to resume his duties at Maryville after being on leave of absence since March, 1943, during which time he served as an officer in the U. S. Marines. The exact date of his return is yet unknown, but it will probably be before the end of the fall semester.

For more than a year, he was attached to Marine Headquarters in Washington, in charge of nation wide programs in the Signal Section of the Marine Corps. He was then sent to the Pacific; he went into Okinawa on the first day of the invasion, remaining there through all the fighting and for a considerable period of time after Japan's surrender. Thn he became commander of a battalion at Camp Catlin, contigous to Pearl Harbor. In October he landed in San Francisco and early in November reached Washington where his wife and two sons lived during his year in the Pacific war area.

"Major McClelland was with the Marines on the Western Front in World War I and there was decorated for bravery. "He will bring back to his work at Maryville a distinguished military record of two years, a rich experience as a teacher of chemistry, as dean and as president of Pikeville College, in Kentucky, before coming to Maryville in 1937, and as Dean of Students at Maryville. He is an ideal man to counsel returning veterans and other young people as well in the postwar years," states President Lloyd.

He and his family are to live in the house beside the football field on the campus which was occupied for some fifteen years by the late Treasurer Fred L. Proffit and his family.

Chaplain Dollenmayer To Resume College Duties

Lt. Commander J. D. Dollenmayer returned home Tuesday, November 20, will resume his duties as a part of the faculty of Maryville College upon his release from the Navy on January 1. During his leave of absence for the past year he has been attached to the Naval Air Station at Hilo, Hawaii, as a chaplain. Chaplain Dollenmyer taught Bible before entering the service. He said, "It is wonderful to be back home after being gone a year." He and his family will live in Maryville.

Soapy Bernardini Revealed As Queen Senior Sponsor

Barber, Harte, Lancaster Attend As Respective Class Sponsors

As Zenobia Bernardini, Barnwarming Queen of 1945 as well as senior class sponsor, took her place atop "Circasia's" life-size elephant in the "big-top" tent set up in the Alumni gym on Thursday evening, November 22, the traditional Thanksgiving evening celebration program began before a crowd of 544.

In a white-veiled litter carried by two "negro" slaves, Miss Bernardini was borne into the circus ring. As she stepped out of the litter, the crown, silver and decorated with red carnations, was the program's clowns. Gowned in placed upon her head by one of white, she carried a bouquet of white crysanthemums and red carnations. After the crowning she was escorted to her seat of honor during the program. Miss Bernardini is from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Her entrance was preceded by that of the other class sponsors. Miss Rosemary Barber, from Crescent City, Florida, representing the freshman class, entered first, followed by Miss Joanne Hart, from Helena, Arkansas, sophomore sponsor. Both Miss Barber and Miss Hart wore red dresses and carried yellow chrysanthemum bouquets. Miss Alma Lancaster, junior sponsor from Hendersonville, North Carolina, and a transfer from Montreat College, wore aqua and carried yellow chrysanthemums also.

The three class sponsors sat in front of the elephant on ring-master's stools during the "Circasia" presentation.

Circus Atmosphere Prevails For Night

Gala Festival Boasts Clowns, Band, Side Shows

The 1945 Barnwarming program entitled "Circasia" and headed by Betty Lou King, Virginia Thomas, Ruth Broadhead, Virginia Clabough, and Bob Whitford got off to a 7:30 start Thursday evening with typical circus sideshows open to the audience.

The Chatterbox's merry-go-round, the "House of Charms" freak tent, and the "tennis-ball target" were intriguing highlights of the warming-up preliminaries.

The barn-warming queen, her court, and "slave" attendants made their royal entrance as the curtain-raiser to the "big tent" program.

First to entertain the royal court were acrobatic clowns. Then followed a tight-rope dance featuring Jean Balch and Betty Lou King.

The college male quartet with the voices of Tom Wheeler, Jack Ross, Harold Kidder, and Bob Barlow serenading the court.

Then in came "Blackie", local trained dog, and his mistress, Miss Dora Lee Milsaps who put him through his paces.

The uniformed college band with Major Bill Cover and director Richard Vine gave a musical rendition, "Tiger Rag". Twirling majorettes were Merle and Marion Henderson and Harriet Perry.

The Pony Dance starred black-and-white clad jockies, Betty Lou King, Dorothy Justice, Lottie Lavender, Marian Monteith, Juanita Hinson, and Jean Balch.

The faculty horse and chariot show starred a score of collegiately-clad professors and teachers.

Tumbling Jean Balch, Hobby Doyle, and Mat Cardello performed in a second acrobatic act.

Following was a clown dance by the pony dance particpants. Then in galoped donkey-riding clowns who batted out a rough-and-tumble baseball game.

Climaxing "Circasia" was the grand finale with a marching band and the circus performers in an elaborate three-ring circus act and a colorful exit.

Alpha Sigs Bowl; Would Meet Athenians In Match

Alpha Sigma thought their bowling match on November 17 was such a success that they unanimously voted to have similar meetings, and they are challenging Athenian to a bowling match. The Alphas under Jay Bishop's captainship averaged 114, while the Sigmas, captained by Paul Myers, bowled a close second with 113.

Jay Bishop had the highest single game (152) and the highest total score, with an average of 140. Paul Myers came in second with a 131 average. Wilbern Seymour's game (149), however, was the most outstanding since he had never bowled before.

Jay Bishop, program chairman, states that "Alpha Sigma hereby challenges Athenian to a bowling match."

Songs and Poetry At Theta Program

One candle flickered at the Theta Epsilon meeting tonight, while Mary Maud Cunningham read romantic poetry, and sentimental lyrics were sung by Rosemary Barber. The program included such poems as "Shore Leave", "Deliah", "To A Friend", and "I Love You" and such songs as "Sweetheart of All My Dreams", "I'll See You In My Dreams", and "My Devotion."

Kindly Critic Passes Out Pills, Praise To Barnwarmers

By BETTY LOU McCOY

Willingness to comply with one's editor-in-chief's request to write a criticism of the Big Tent performance in the gym on Thanksgiving night gets one into difficulties. But, (long sigh of resolution)—here goes!

Let's take the medicine first, before we have the candy. The most noticeable error of the evening was the unjust hiding of our pulchritudinous queen. Perched as she was, "in that hole", as someone has aptly phrased it, most of us could see notihng of her from where we sat. Another weak spot in connection with the same situation was the lighting effects. A well-aimed spot-light or two would have helped a great deal in publicizing the beauties of Queen Soapy (if she had been where a spot could hit her) and her fair attendants.

And now one more pill. The method employed in getting the male quartet before the audience was clever,—no doubt about it.—but I have heard people wondering if their performance wouldn't have been improved had they sung a little louder, enunciated a little more clearly, and perhaps done numbers of a livelier disposition.

The candy next. Something about which no one argues is the work of the decoration committee: may all the members thereof enjoy long life and good health! What could have been more eye-taking and atmospheric than that handsome and "daring young man on the flying trapeze", hanging throughout the evening in tireless nonchalance, with a perpetual salute for the performers below. And that menagerie of stuffed paper animals (particularly the intriguing creature resembling a cow from the waist on back, and a horse from the waist on up) was notihng to be sneezed at.

As for the clowns—who could

PRAYER DISCUSSED W.C.A. MEETING

Prayer was the topic of discussion for the Y.W.C.A. meeting held on Sunday afternoon. It was led by three sophomore girls, Betty Crawford, Anna Sakaizawa, and Lonnie Richardt. The speakers were introduced by Lois Thomas and special music was played by Martha Barnwell. Program planning was handled by Ann Anderson.

TURKEY SANDWICHES

Remember how at home we used to find camouflaged turkey on the table every other meal for days after Thanksgiving. All that was left of our most celebrated feast of the year. Cold turkey sandwiches are all right! Here turkey sandwiches are obtained, when obtained, in boxes from home. But, turkey sandwich, slice of cake, or mere memory of what was, they all stand for the same thing; the last of Thanksgiving. With that last gulp of turkey sandwich is our thanksgiving ended, too?

We shan't try to list all the things we have to be thankful for this season. The things for which you gave thanks, you know. It is well that one day each year is set aside to renew within each of us the spirit of thankful prayers. It is good to observe that day with feasting, giving thanks that our daily bread is buttered. But our thanksgiving is not to be crammed like food for a feast, into an isolated day. We sometimes sneer at a Sabbath Christian, the Sunday school superintendent who polishes his dusty halo with the sleeve of his Sunday coat, for whom the significance of Sunday exists only one day a week.

A constant prayer of thanks cannot but emphasize a positive out-look on life, making us search for our assets, giving us a realization of our own strengths and purpose to use them. In this constance our thanksgiving season will long outlast the turkey sandwiches.

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

LIFE, in the personage of the roommate, christened Janet Wilson, and the girl who shares her supposed-to-study desk, heard hints of a circus in the close neighborhood, and decided to take the beyond-the-call-of-duty risk of attending "Circasia". Arriving at the door, the lovely notes of Fred Wilson's melodious yelling greeted out ears, and stepping around Betty Saint, obviously near Fred, we found that the gym was decorated to the Nth degree for the annual "Barnstorming", as Mr. and Mrs. Grahm innocently called it. We suspect that Betty Lou King and Tucky Thomas passed out some self-concocted super-duper vitamin tablets about 5:00 o'clock that afternoon, for wonders were performed in the gym between that time and 7:30. Certain things had held the committee's work back —certain things like Shieber falling off a ladder and tearing his pants, and Mildred Miller stepping on a pincushion and running a needle through her foot.

Once inside we tried to glue our eyes on every piece of available gossip, and there were Elsie Jean Cotton and Edgar Potts wandering around, Bob Robinson pulling Barbara Blair into the House of Charm—what muscles you do have, Grandpa Anthony—and Lil and Max taking in all the side shows. Marinell Ross and Dorothy Jones were each with soldeirs—we were not successful in discovering their names, but only a little probing revealed that Betty Hall's escort was Bob Hunter, who has a slight relationship to Dean Hunter. Something like son and father, or an equally insignificent tie. . . . . Why on this earth was Bob Hill alowed to run around alone all evening? Surely not because Kitty Johnson didn't see him. Even Bob Dockendorf and visitor Squire Kemp were stag, but the program of the evening rather truthfully broadcasted their reasons, we think.

Seemed the program began early, or at least people grabbed all the seats early. So sorry there wasn't room for you, Lois and Lloyd, Footsie would like to pay damages to the kind lady whose hat she crushed. She didn't really intend to make it resemble Dean Hunter's chapeau. Janet Miller lost a stick of gum in the crowd; the only bad part about it was that she was chewing it.

The presence of the Henderson twins in their plaid skirts at the head of the parade made us realize at long last why our school colors are orange and garnet. . . . . The clowns being too numerous to name, we only wonder if that was Arthur Haaf's true self dancing around. Confidentially, Haaf, we heard some one say, "Isn't he cute? And to think that he's engaged. Darn it!". . . We couldn't help but notice that Dinges had on a belt.

Congratulations to Queen Bernadini, and her court, which included Alma Lancaster, Joan Hart, and Rosemary Barber.

We felt so grieved for poor Mother Eggelston and Junior Smith (What! Dissimilar names?), but they did find each other eventually.

Ringmaster Jay Bishop told the truth when he announced that they had the most peculiar freaks in the world. Mae Short asked, "Well, how did he know we were coming?" Then Old Man Jack Ross, Miss Mamomth Wheeler, Ceiling-Limited Barlow, and Weakley Kidder walked out. Forgive us if we feel that their lovely music failed to fit their appearances.

Undoubtedly the most humorous events of the evening were arranged by Ralph W. Lloyd and Assistant Jackson, but they couldn't have been correctly enacted without the pictures of Photographer Heron. (We later congratulated Miss Jackson, but she shoved all the blame—ahem, credit—on Miss Heron). Our champion, Speedy Davis, came in first on the stick-house race—we always knew Julius Ceasar was made of good stuff—in spite of the stiff competition of Skinny Hunter, Horsy Orr, and Shorty Fisher.

Winner Little Boy Honaker won the chariot race, with the help of red sweatered Williams and the Wilkinson-Cowick-Weller-Eddins team, but it wasn't because Miss Green didn't paw her part.

We understand that the only reason Kid Hughes won the last race was because Lone Ranger Walker's horse kept trying to step out of its roll and become Professors Briggs and Barker.

In our estimation, bouquets galore should be thrown at Jean Balch, Hubby Doyle, and Matt Cardella. (Sure you'll appreciate them, boys.) We're trying to be serious this once; we thought they were wonderful. But Corky, Jean, Dotty, Betty, Nita and Lottie were not to be outdone. They added that extra something.

Came 9:30 and the parade marched out, followed by the crowd, to enjoy the dramatic abilities displayed by the greatest actress of the evening, Old Mother Nature herself. The snow was particularly for Ken Kribbs and Lloyd Chandler, ousted Floridians who had never seen snow before. Ken, my boy, snow wasn't made to lie in.) And so ended a lovely evening, and we are willing to attend Barnwarming again next week. Are you?

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Two days ago was November 22. Thanksgiving Day. Turkey, cranberry sauce, and mince pie. Pistol Creek Polecats versus Memorial Marauders. Circasia—with sponsors and queen. Did the day mean more?

Everyone knows about the first Thanksgiving. The Pilgrim fathers, Plymouth Rock, John Alden and Priscilla all form the story we first heard in grade school. From its humble beginning to the twentieth century, Thanksgiving has had varied meanings for the American people.

The farm boy or girl has always been conscious of the thankfulness at home following a good harvest. The city child remembers a praise service or knows—perhaps, that Santa Claus will be in each department store until Christmas.

The college student—what does he know or remember about Thanksgiving? Let us think particularly of Thanksgiving, 1945. Yes, we realize there are only twenty-seven more shopping days until Christmas; that we are going home on December 20. In addition to the above (which includes Barnwarming, always associated with a Maryville Thanksgiving), we may see something else were we to look.

The war has been over almost three months. This is the first peace Thanksgiving we have had for four years. That alone is sufficient cause for rejoicing. The return of service men to their families is another. A prayer of thanks that lives need no longer be sacrificed is probably present even in the empty hearts of those whose loved ones will never return. Then there is the final prayer of humble gratitude that God has granted us another chance to rebuild the destroyed and to prove our brotherhood.

Here are Maryville college we have many opportunities to give thanks materially, as well as spiritually. Our Fred Hope pledges, our participation in the Victory Loan Drive, and even our attendance at Circasia (for its proceeds are given to the World Student Service Fund) are all tangible proofs of our Thanksgiving.

"Now thank we all our God with heart and hands and voices,

Who wondrous things hath done, in whom His world rejoices."

Thanksgiving Is Come And Gone But, Between You And Me—

By GUGGER AND HOFFMAN

Dear Diary, (write after Thanksgiving feast)

The topic for the past week has been food. Let's drop it now. How could so many nice scholars feel so miserable? Why, not an hour ago, I sat down with the seven nicest students. But then the "Boarding House Reach" started and I guess I reached the farthest. Dear Diary—Nov. 23,

Since you're forcing me to talk about myself and food, here goes. I have to get back into the routine. I've got to start eating boiled cabbage again. But gosh! only for another four weeks. Then that last week and I won't know what I'm devouring. Well to get back to Thanksgiving and food, I've been gossiping with some of my turkey-loving friends and I've been getting around too.

Kitty Stidham was saying that she just ate herself silly. Now she guesses she better take it easy till the next turkey is on the platter. Jack Howard was afraid he wouldn't know when to stop, so he really had a system. "I just sit, one foot from dat table; and when Ah touch, I let that old gobbler alone."

Which reminds me. Why did I see Becky resting at the bottom of each flight of stairs? What's the matter, Becky, did you eat too much or didn't Mr. Gobbler want to roost.

At one of the table's there was even a history lesson. Broadhead educated one and all by saying she knew what country the turkey was from originally. All ears were focused on our heroine. "Greece, because he's always in it," and all mouths dropped, but forks kept working.

In the afternoon I just snoozed to my heart's content. Did I give thanks for that! I heard no supper bell, and if I did—so what? But then I heard the circus band play and knew I had to spruce up to see the gala "Circasia". What a side show! But I must admit that I was petrified. I was afraid that someone would grab me by the collar and say "Didn't you escape from behind those bars?" Yes sir, I'm sure I looked mighty queer and more than a little green behind the gills. Not wishing to be the fat lady of the evening, I waddled over to my grand stand seats. Again I gave thanks that each member of the audience got two seats for the price of one. But putting away the turkey for one more month, I'd like to know, why was Tom Wheeler humming "Turkey in the Straw" in his dreams last night. They're really getting better all the time.

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

(Allow us to introduce a column consisting of choice items which, ten years ago, were considered the best gossip on the hill. Each column is dated back approximately 10 years; thus today we have November 16, 1935.)

We agree with Senator Hegner, anonymous columnist writing The Weakly Filibuster in the November 23, 1935 isue of the Echo, who states: "Famous personalities to be interviewed—the man that retrieves the oysters from our oyster stew just before it is served."

At least three female Esquire addicts noticed a certain sophomore as he entered the dining hall clad to dress suit without a tie. After holding council, they each chipped in three cents to buy him a tie—a bright, dashing red one. The next day they presented it to him. In fact, they put it on him. Several males were overheard murmuring among themselves, "Wish we had a valet, too."

The issue included notation that results from the Fred Hope Fund drive at that time, the two-third mark, were $700.

The prize for that week's biggest boner went to Jack Ormsbee. In Miss Herron's English class the freshmen were told that an ancedote is a good way to start a theme.

"And who knows what an ancedote is?" she concluded.

"I know," spoke up Ormsbee, "it's a medicine."

(We think the ole boy had the RIGHT idea.)

We note with interest a space-filler stating that marriage was compulsory in Peru during the Inca regime. The state did the pairing off. (Well, girls, we need SOMEthing too.)

Bill Downing's Alpha Sig Orchestra created musical background at the third annual performance of the Water Carnival; while King Red Kent and Queen Reba Blazer reviewed such feats as night-gown races, suicidal greased-pole scrambling, exhibition diving, a "beauty" review, and a sensational fire diving. One of the innovations in the 1935 Carnival was the presence of girls as well as boys in the group of performers.

A middle aged woman stopped a man about 45 on a downtown street corner.

"Why aren't you in the Army?" she demanded in that policeman manner women wear so naturally.

The over-age man looked up. "For the same reason," he murmured "That you aren't in the Follies".

Doctor Sisk: "Working out this much of the equation shows you that X equals zero."

Harold Hunter: "Whew!! All that work for nothing."

All-Star Touch Football Game Ends In Tie

Snow! Barnwarming and Football made the unbeatable Thanksgiving combination. A snappy wind blew across Wilson Field, as the Pistol Creek Polecats and the Memorial Marauders fought to a 0-0 tie score. It was the annual intramural touch football game for Thanksgiving.

Th two teams were formed by Max House, intramural manager. The men of the teams then chose their respective captain and quarterback. Tom Parkinson led the Polecats, while Hubby Doyle called the plays. House and Cardella represented the Marauders. Each team had a nine man starting lineup with reserves.

The game started at 2:45, as the Cats received the kickoff on their 10. Grubbs returned it to the 20. Going into their T-formation with Parkinson close, the Cats picked up 4. A pass to Robinson and a quick lateral to Doyle made it a first down on the 41. Then the forward wall of the Marauders stopped the Cats dead in their tracks. A quick puput by Doyle set the Marauders on their 6. For the remainder of the game it was an exchange of punts with the Cats getting the advantage from longer kicks. The Cats' neagest approach was when they took the ball on the Marauder's 30, only to lose the ball on the 21. The Marauder's chance came on a Cat fumble on their own 35. The Marauders were able to inch the ball o.ly to the 29 yard line.

Roy Smith and John Briggs were the outstanding players on the Marauder's forward wall. Cardella in the secondary was outstanding, as he picked up 45 net yards. Bob Hill and Bill Dinges of the Cats kept the box formation of the Marauders boxed up when they approached the Cat line. Grubbs and Doyle were the main-stays in the Cats' backfield department, as they each picked up 20 net yards.

In the field of records the Cats rolled up 2 first downs to one for the Marauders. The Marauders completed 4 of their nine attempts. Only one of their passes was intercepted. The Cats' advantage came on the exchange of punts. The Polecats averaged 31.3 yards on 8 punts, while the Marauders could only get an average of 25 yards on 4 attempts. Doyle of the Cats got the best punt of the afternoon off, when he set the Marauders back to their 6 on 50 yard punt.

The officials for the game were Myers, Lazenby, Hunter, Reagan, Tolcrico and Hundemann.

Chillies, Howies Each Victorious

Tuesday's meeting of the point system girls resulted in two volley ball games with a victory for each team. Margaret Rock's Chillies downed Virginia Wood's Howies 45 to 26.

The Howies, captained by Lottie Lavender, staged a comeback by beating Betty Lou King's Chillies by a four point margin.

The score keepers for the games were Virginia Weese, Ruth King Wood, and Marian Scott.

not help loving the whole silly, tumbling lot of them? I still burst into guffaws every time I tihnk of Bob Dubois chasing that elusive butterfly and later looking for the ball which he knocked into the air and never saw come down. I hope Art Haaf found some liniment for his stomach-burns—he must have some from sliding across the floor so much on that part of his anatomy.

"Oh, sir, have you seen my little boy? I've lost him!"

The faculty, not to be outdone by previous years' performances, was at its uninhibited best. They really took their lives in their hands—indeed, they did not escape without a few casualties, among them "Grape" Vine's upsetting situation and "Horsey" Orr's runaway. Photographer Heron was perfect; and you've got to hand it to Dr. Ralph W. All right, Dr. Briggs—we recognized you under that horse blanket.

"Mother! . . . . Mister, have you seen my mot!er? She's lo!"

Things which can't be left unmentioned: the ingenious Dance of the Clowns. . . "Kid" Hugh's disarming grin. . . . . the "tightwire" and acrobatic numbers. . . . "Lone Ranger" Walker's equestrian skill . . . . our villian-voiced M. C. . . . and the orchids which ought to go to King and Thomas.

"Mamma!"

"Junior, I've found you at last!" Clinch. Smooch!

"Skinny" Hunter, indeed!

Dr. Fred Hope Describes Start Industrial School

Thirty-eight years can witness a great many changes. . . for Fred Hope they witnessed a change in a civilization and a way of life. For Christianity has established itself in the interior of the dark continent, where, in 1907, the natives had never before seen a white man.

Frank James Industrial School

After graduating from Maryville in 1906 in a class of 27 members, Hope was sent by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions into Elat to establish an industrial school for the missions there.

With little money and no experience, odds seemed to be against him, but the school proves to be the largest in that section and one of the most outstanding of its type.

"The school is named in memory of Frank James, a millionaire's son who was killed in the jungle," explained Hope in a recent interview. James, hunting big game, went out into the brush with only a native guide. When he crippled an elephant, it turned on him and killed him. The native, wild-eyed, recounted later how the enraged animal had trampled the hunter's body.

Later James' sister requested the mission in that section to help set up a monument where her brother was killed. Dr. Halsey, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, suggested that the $1000 she would give for that be used for beginning industrial work, for the jungle would grow up and envelop the proposed monument. Agreeing on the condition that the school be called the Frank James Industrial School and that the money would not be used unless the school were a success, she set up the fund. "I thought I'd have that money to begin with," said Hope, "but when I was told about the clause." He started the school with his own funds.

"The school has made a world of difference," he states. The products are sold on the coast—furniture, tools, and so forth—, contract buildings are put up—homes for missionaries, stores. "Houses that would be a credit for any village or city in America", he termed them.

The school, located 120 miles into the interior,—"white man's graveyard"—has accommodated as many as 1000 students, although the present enrollment totals 300.

This introduction of homes and furniture to the natives' experience has brought about a complete change in the economic system of the area. Whereas a man's wealth was once determined by the number of women he had, as Hope explained in the chapel service, the industrial school has set wealth into the European standard of other possessions such as homes, furnishings, and automobiles.

"Polygamy is not anything like it was before", the gray-haired man explained. Instead of many wives, the headmen or chiefs now own several automobiles, elaborate home furnishings.

The people of Elat, members of the Bunu tribe, part of the Bantu race, are small and brown, not black. Hope hastened to explain that the idea that Africans are all of one race is false; they are five races of Africans. Of these, the Bantus made the best slaves, were not so fierce as the others. Cannibalism is not a common practice among the Bantus, although some of the others still practice it.

"At first they were like children," Hope said. "They thought the first white man they saw was a ghost spirit of a departed one of their people." Later they looked upon the white man as a sort of god, above the petty things that they did among themselves. "But when the first World War came, they lost all their confidence in the white race," he stated. The white men had taken their guns away from them, yet they fought each other; some of the natives who were enlisted by the French to fight came back with tales of cruelty such as had been common among them before Christianity came. They have learned that they have to "walk softly, softly", as the Bunu language would say, to keep at peace with the Germans or the French.

Hope stressed the need for missionaries in Elat. There are 14 stations, he said, each of which should have a minister; however, there are only seven ministers in the area. One minister there has three stations in his care, which means 50 or 60 thousand people for him to look after," he explained. There is only one doctor in charge of all seven stations.

Dr. Hope, returned to the United States in retirement, is making his home in Orlando Florida, with his sister.

Hogarth's Works Of Wide Appeal Added to Library

Among the books acquired recently by the library are two volumes which will interest readers with a taste for art, literature, politics, sociology, and ethics. They are entitled The Works of Hogarth in a Series of Engravings (London, 1883). That such a variety of topics should be touched upon by the work of one man is perhaps surprising, but not when he is known to be England's great pictorial satirist of the eighteenth century, William Hograth. In this instance, his wide appeal is well enough illustrated by the fact that the books were ordered by the philosophy department at the request of an English professor, will be placed on the shelves with the art books, and have been paid for out of a special fund.

By profession Hogarth was an oil painter and an engraver, but he is far more famous for his attention to his subject than to his medium. Indeed, he often spoke of himself as an author rather than an artist. "I wished to compose pictures on canvas," he said, "similar to representations on the stage." And so his most original creations have the form of a series of pictures, telling a story by their sequence, revealing in teeming detail and with merciless irony the manners of the age, and proving that the rewards of an immoral life are bankruptcy, disease, and death. The titles of some of these series are: "A Harlot's Progress," "A Rake's Progress," "Industry and Idleness", and, most elaborate of all, "Marriage a la Mode."

Al lthese, with a large selection of other Hogarth pictures, appear in this edition of his works. Though not complete—the artist was voluminous—it includes all his important pieces in a total of one hundred and seven engravings. The accompanying text is by the eccentric divine, John Trusler, a character of considerable originality himself, who has the distinction of being the second earliest and the first extensive commentator on Hogarth. His explanations of the pictures have been included in numerous editions of the artist. Their inestimable aid to the reader of these volumes lies in Trusler's minute descriptions of each plate, his account of its history if there is one, and his quotations and anecdotes from Hogarth's contemporaries. Here, for example one may read that when a certain uncommonly ugly man was displaesed with Hogarth's faithful likeness of him and refused to pay for the commissioned portrait, Hogarth extracted the money from him by threatening otherwise to add a tail to the figure and send it to "Mr. Hare, the famous wild beast man."

How perspicacious Hogarth was regarding himself will be agreed by anyone who examines these newly acquired reproductions of his work. The volumes are now on display on the New Book Table in the Reading Room.

"GUEST IN THE HOUSE"

said, "I'm very excited about the play. It should prove enjoyable to all the students on the Hill". Virginia Miller, who plays Ann Procter, whose artist husband, Douglas, is slowly becoming a drunkard, stated, "It's the best play yet. I enjoy working on it."

Mrs. West, director of this interesting psychological play, gave the statement, "The play is very good, the cast is well-chosen; altogether, we're expecting a great success. The play is an interesting one, touched with drama, horror, pathos, and comedy. Everyone should enjoy it."

Those in charge of equipment and production of the play are as follows: assistant to director, Sara Crider; stage manager, William Cover; stage crew, Willis Pribble and Rebecca Davis; electrician, Leonard Schieber; costumer, Virginia Clabough properties, Harriet McKeen; business manager, John Shell; publicity manager, Margaret Cross, assisted by Mary Elizabeth McKnight and Angell Kincaid.

The cast and crew expect a large crowd; and tickets and programs are being printed. The stage crew has worked up a new and different stage which suits the play well.

Dorm Holds Service For Thanksgiving

On November 21, residents of Carnegie Hall participated in an all-house Thanksgiving Service. Before a wooden cross, amid boughs of pine and evergreen, four candles burned during the program. Ann Childress lead the hymns of praise; prayers of thanksgiving were offered by Juanita Johnson and Mildred Miller; Dorthea Frederick read the scripture; Marion Pope presented Edwin Markham's poem, "How The Great Guest Came;" Jean Childress in a short talk urged that every day be a day of thanksgiving; and Margaret Rock and Barbara Eggleston sang a duet.

The program was organized by Peggy Smith, Beatrice Hahnberger, Anna Katherine Knapp, and Betty Harte. Beatrice Hahnberger, with the aid of John Briggs, constructed the devotional center.

Troops in a certain South Seas settlement discovered a crude little theater where American motion pictures had been shown. The films, however, had invariably been old and worn and very badly scratched.

"What do you think of America?" a GI Joe asked one native devotee of the theater.

"No like," was the unflattering reply. "Always raining there."

Miss Cowdrick asked Jack Bailey for the future of the verb love.

Jack responded, "to marry."

Workshop Reviews

Betty Wells and Jean Tarwater read at the meeting of Writers' Workshop last week, Wednesday afternoon, November 21. Miss Wells' paper was written about an incident which was treated as a contemporary version of the myth of the love of Cupid and Psyche. The paper of Miss Tarwater was written as a letter by a war widow of the first World War to her husband who had died in the war ten years before. The title was "Wastebasket Papers."

Miss Wells' paper, which was termed "a protracted incident" began with a woman bathing at the beach. She "lazed" over a paper and noticed the story of the death of an acquaintance of hers, Mrs. Weber, who had been happily married for a while, then separated, and reunited with her husband once again. The couple had been on a picnic to celebrate their reunion when a snake bit Mrs. Weber and she died.

After thinking of all that, the main character, the woman at the beach, noticed a lone bather, whom she recognized to be the dead woman's husband, Mr. Weber. While she was at the beach the man drowned, and the crowd that gathered about said that it was an awful tragedy that a man in his prime of life should die. The woman at the beach, knowing the whole story and knowing how much the man had loved his wife, wondered if it really were a tragedy for the man not to live when his lover was gone.

William Robarts criticized.

The letter Miss Tarwater read, which was criticized by Tommy Parkinson, portrays the sorrow of a widow, Margaret, and her thoughts, expressed to relieve her longing for her husband and her great deisre to talk with him. She had found a letter he had written at seventeen to his future self, to be read ten years later. She answered the questions he had asked and wrote of her memories, her life, and their ten year old son.

Tommy Parkinson and Ann Anderson will read at the meeting of Writers' Workshop on Wednesday, November 28.

OLD WEST INDIAN TABLE DONATED TO LIBRARY

As a memorial to her husband, Mrs. Matthews gave the college a table which was obtained while she and General Matthews were stationed in the West Indies. It is made of wood said to have been part of a church built soon after Columbus' landing on the Islands. The table has been placed in the area behind the library's circulation counter.

General Matthews attended Maryville college for several years, leaving to enlist in the Tennessee Regiment when the Spanish American War broke out. At the end of the war, he entered the Marines where he remained for forty years. In World War One, he was a member of the Second Division.

During the course of his career, General Matthews received such honors as the Congresional Medal of Honor, Chevalier of Legion of Honor and medals from the French and British governments. He spent his years of retirement farming in Landon, Tennessee, until his death in 1943. General Matthews was related to Dr. Lloyd and Dr. Griffiths.

Mrs. Matthews is living in New Orleans at the present time with relatives. She is the sister of the Higgins brothers who have a big ship-building co. in New Orleans which is operated along Henry Kaiser lines.

A young private had been keeping company with a colonel's daughter.

"How's your romance coming buddy?"

"Oh, I'm getting along pretty well," answered the private.

"That's fine," said his buddy. "But I heard somebody say that the colonel objected to you."

"I've got that all fixed up," replied the private. "Last night when he kicked me out he was doing it for the last time."

"Mah Uncle Zeke's in de hospital."

"What's de matter wid him?"

"He done walked down de ladder a few minutes after dey tuk it away."

Margaret Brooder Will Be Speaker At Student Vols

Miss Margaret Brooder, sophomore from Pennsylvania, will speak on the subject "From ? to !" at the Student Vols tomorrow night, November 25. Gus Hundeman, giving a piano selection, will provide the special music.

The three project speakers will speak at the meeting of December 9, after which all members will vote on the Student Vol Project. Anna Sakaizawa will give the story of Kagawa, a Japanese Christian, who is doing much toward the rehabilitation of Japan. Harold Hunter will present the story of Sheldon-Jackson School in Alaska, and Tom Horst will point out the needs of lepers.

Miss Martha Grierson, librarian, spoke on "India" at the November 18 meeting of the Vols. Special music was given by the Boys' Quartet, Bob Barlow, Harold Kidder, Jack Ross, and Tom Wheeler, who sang "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind."

GRADUATING SENIORS TO BE RECOGNIZED

Prof. Dollenmayer Resigns Faculty For Chicago Call

Former Teacher Of Bible Department Released From Navy

The Rev. Raymond J. Dollenmayer, Associate Professor of Bible and Religious Education at Maryville college since 1937, on leave of absence as a Navy Chaplain since 1943, has accepted a call to be Associate Pastor at the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park, Chicago, Illinois; President Lloyd has announced.

"Chaplain and Mrs. Dollenmayer and their children take with them the friendship and good wisnes of all who have been associated with them at the College and in the community. They are returning to the church from which they came to the College eight years ago. Mr. Dollenmayer had been Assistant Pastor and Mrs. Dollenmayer Director of Religious Education there. This recall testifies to the abiding regard in which they have been held by the church. The associate pastorate to which he returns represents a marked advance over the assistant pastorate which he filled from 1934 to 1937.

"Oak Park is one of the largest and most desirable residential suburbs of Chicago. The First Presbyterian church of Oak Park is one of the strongest Presbyterian churches in the Middle West, with a membership of approximately 2200, and last year gave for current expenses and benevolences over $85,000.00.

"Mr. Dollenmayer graduated at Maryville college in 1931 and at McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, in 1934. After three years at the Oak Park church he accepted the call to teach at his Alma Mater. In 1943 he requested a leave of absence to accept appointment as a Navy Chaplain. For a year he served at Hunter college, WAVE training center in New York, and then for a year in the Pacific. He is now on terminal leave.

"When the call back to the Oak Park church came he felt it was his duty to accept and asked the College to release him. The College has granted his request. He will assume his new duties in Chicago on January 1.

We are appreciative of the six years of loyal service at Maryville and will follow the new work with our best wishes."

Committee Discusses Student Government

The committee on Student Government met with the Student-Faculty Senate, last night, December 7, at 7:15 in the office of the President of the College.

Members of those two bodies, which are composed of both students and faculty members, considered that meeting a very important step towards student government at Maryville.

The main business of the evening was the reading and thorough discussion of the proposed constitution and by-laws of the Women's Student Government Association of Maryville College.

Dr. Lloyd Attends Meeting to Plan Union of Churches

President Ralph W. Lloyd returned from a meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches who are trying to form a final revision of a plan whereby the two churches may unite. The conference lasted two days with a committee of five from the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A. and a committee of four from the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. The committee of Presbyterian Church U.S.A. consisted of: Dr. R. W. Lloyd, chairman of this commitee, Dr. H. Ray Anderson, Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Chicago, Dr. Stewart N. Hutchison of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church in Pittsburg, Dr. William B. Pugh of Philadelphia, a Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. and Mr. N. D. Rodes of Danville, Kentucky, a lawyer.

The committee from Presbyterian Church U. S. is made up of the following members: Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden of New Orleans, Dr. Frank H. Caldwell of Louisville, Kentucky, speaker of last year's February Meetings here, Judge Henderson of South Carolina, formerly a member of the Supreme Court, and Judge Rose of Norfolk, Va.

The week preceding, Nov. 26-Dec. 1, Dr. Lloyd attended a meeting in Chicago of the Executive committee of Presbyterian College Union to discuss various plans concerning the colleges in different parts of the country.

Yearbook Will Have New Feature, "Chilhowean Girl"

The 1945-46 Chilhowean will contain a new feature, exclusively for the annual and entitled "The Chilhowean Girl of the Year", Jayne Shouse, editor, has announced.

Selected by the Chilhowean editorial staff on the basis of service, character, leadership, and scholarship, this girl will symbolize the true meaning of Maryville College to its students, the editor stated. Only seniors can qualify for this honor, she said.

This selection will not be revealed until the annual comes out, said yearbook staff members.

Approximately 60 pages, which is almost half the yearbook, are ready to be sent to the Nashville engravers, the editorial staff revealed.

All senior snap-shots for the senior pages will be taken as soon as weather permits, Miss Shouse stated. The exact date will be publicly announced later.

Before the Christmas vacation, all senior activity lists will be in the hands of the publishers, said the editor. At present these lists are being typed and proof-read. Any seniors who have not turned in their activity lists or who desire to make changes or additions must do so immediately, staff members stated.

"Y" Questionnaire Reveals College Women's Problems

In order to obtain more facts concerning what college women are facing and thinking, and what things constitute their chief problems the National Student Council of the Y. W. C. A. has asked a selected group of colleges over the country to participate in filling out questionnaires. At Maryville, which is one of the colleges chosen, a committee was formed from representatives from Theta Epsilon, Bainonian, the student council, student vols, and Y. W. to distribute questionnaires among a typical sampling of the women students and to tabulate the results. Of the two hundred question sheets given out, only 95 were returned.

The National council urged that the results be studied on the campus as a basis for a better understanding of the women and their problems.

From the results of this campous, were noted the following facts.

Sixty-three of the 95 plan to get a B. A. degree. Seventeen more plan to go on for a master's degree or some other tyne of graduate work. Four are aiming for a docterate.

All but 39 of this sampling earn some part of their college expenses.

The chief problem, the one most frequently asserted, was that of deciding upon a vocation. Next in number were problems of studying and of meeting college expenses. Others included adjusting to returning husbands or fiances, development of a philosophy of life, finding enough time, and relations with friends.

In answer to a question on personal ideas about the maior problems facing the world, the group gave these answers in order of frequency: international peace, racial and minority prejudices, atomic bomb, and capital and labor problems.

HOMER WAS SICK

U. S. PLAYS SANTA CLAUS—

Yesterday the headlines told of the agreement of United States to settle lend-lease debts owed to this country by Great Britan for 260 millions of dollars—the total amount would have amounted to 25 billions—and to make a new 4 billion dollar loan to Great Britian to help put Britian's warweakened economy back on its feet. This morning President Truman anonunces that he will shortly recommend approval of the multi-billion-dollar loan by Congress. Many congressmen are voicing their objections.

MORE TROUBLE LOOMS FOR GM—

While Geeneral Motors strike negotiations continue, the Department of Justice announces that it is investigating whether General Motors has been violating antitrust laws by making automobile parts for competing car manufacturers. A union reequest brought about the inquiry; that was after GM suggested that union workers resume operations of its parts plants during the strike in order to supply other automobile manufacturers.

"PROBE" CONTINUES—

General George C. Marshall has been testifying before the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor diaster of four years ago. He stated that "nonalertness" in Hawaii was the reason for the attack and its success. Later he disclosed that he had informed Thomas Dewey that the U. S. had smashed Japan's secret code before Pearl Harbor, but Dewey had decided not to bring it up in the political campaign of 1944.

Joseph L. Lockard, who was in Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941 and who warned of approaching planes, expresses a growing public sentiment by saying that he does not tihnk the Pearl Harbor inquiry "is doing our country any good."

BIG THREE MINISTERS TO MEET

The State Department announces that the foreign secretaries of United States, Great Britian, and Russia are to meet in Moscow on December 15. Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Commissioner Molotov, and Foreign Minister Bevin will tackle several critical international issues including the control of atomic energy.

TRUMAN DENIES IRAN ACCUSATIONS

President Truman denies that American foreign policy in Iran had been destroyed by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, as had been charged by Maior General Patrick J. Hurley who testified immediately upon his hasty return from Iran. Hurley charged that America career diplomats sabotaged U. S. foreign policy calling for a unified democratic China.

LAWYER ASKS PARDON FOR MRS. HOUSER

A lawyer for Mrs. Emma Houser, business woman who was tried and convicted in Maryville last year and who is serving a sentence of two to ten years for voluntary manslaughter in the state penitentiary, asked the State Board of Pardons and Paroles yesterday to grant her a pardon. He stated his case just a month after Mrs. Houser began her sentence. A petition with signatures of 12 of the 13 jurors who tried the case was presented asking for full pardon.

Dr. Barbour Will Conduct Annual February Meetings

Returns For Third Time; Dr. Stringham To Lead Singing For 24th Year

The 70th series of February Meetings will be held from February 6 to 14, 1946. The preacher will be the Rev. Clifford E. Barbour, Ph.D., D.D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tennessee. The song leader will be the Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, D. D., Pastor of the New McKendree Methodist Church of Jackson, Missouri.

This will be the third series led by Dr. Barbour, the first being in 1938 and the second in 1942. He is a native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; holds degrees in courses from the University of Pittsburgh, Western Theological Seminary, and the University of Edinburgh, Scotland; and received the honorary degree of D.D. from Maryville College. He was a pastor in Pittsburgh and Edinburgh, Scotland, and has been in his present pastorate since 1928. Few ministers in Knoxville church history have been so well liked or so highly regarded. His church has always had a special sense of relationship to Maryville College. Dr. Isaac Anderson, Founder and first President of the College, was for ten years the first pastor of Second Church, traveling to Knoxville every other Sunday to preach.

The 1946 February Meetings will be the twenty-fourth series for Dr. Stringham as song leader. This means that more than five college generations have sat and February dates in mind and to stood and sung under his leadership. His contribution to the influence of the Meetings is cause for gratitude by all Maryville alumni.

Maryville College people everywhere are asked to keep the pray for leaders, faculty, and students.

Experimental Theater Has Saturday Program

The College Experimental Theater will present two plays and a reading under the direction of Mrs. Martin Badgett tonight at 8:00 in Bartlett auditorium.

The duet which composes the cast of "The Night Before Christmas" are Marian Scott and James Leister.

"Some Women Were Talking," the second play of the evening, has in its cast Mary Mitchell Woolridge, J. T. Anderson, Jean Childress, Mikie Howard, Katie Holden, and Ruth Ellen Crews.

Lois Thomas will give a dramatic monologue reading.

Hostess for the evening will be Betty Jean Hale. Stage manager is Kitty Johnson.

An exhibition of miniature stage models designed and made by Mrs. Nita Eckles West's dramatic art class will be on display this evening in an adjacent room in Bartlett Hall.

Alpha Sigma Repeats Challenge

Attention, Athenians! As in the Echo of two weeks ago, Alpha Sigma challenges you to a bowling match. Sarcastically they state: "A few weeks ago the Alpha Sigs challenged those idoitic imitations of Grecians to a bowling match. It seems they have forgotten. We would like to play that match off before exams. What's stomata? Yellow?"

Tonight the Alpha Sigs are meeting to elect next semester's officers; discuss the ordering of Alpha Sigma pins and decide the time and date of the party which is to serve as their final meeting.

Prospective Sheepskin Holders Reveal Variety of Future Plans

The seniors who will receive their diplomas this December will be honored at a recognition service to be held on Wednesday morning, December 12th. Those who plan to graduate are Ruth Anderson, Zenobia Bernardini, Essie Broom, Sara Crider, Neysa Ferguson, Sibyl Tallent Haney, John Ross, Marinell Ross, Betty Lou McCoy and Carol Titus.

Ruth Anderson from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is a religious education major. In her sophomore year she was a choir member and is now on the Y.W.C.A. cabinet. During her junior year she left Maryville to attend Temple University. Her parents are missionaries in Africa.

In the near future Miss Anderson plans to enter Eastern Baptist Seminary, Philadelphia, to get her Master's Degreee.

Zenobia Bernardini, biology major from Cincinnati, Ohio, is a choir member for the third consecutive year, secretary of "M" Club, secretary of Bainonian, vice president of the senior class, and member of French Club and Writers' Workshop. Miss Bernardini's immediate plans after her Christmas graduation are indefinite. She was a May Day attendant, and chairman of the Socil Committee.

Essie Broom is a religious education major from Ridgeland, South Carolina. She is a member of the French Club and Bainonian society. Miss Broom has participated in the Student Volunteer functions.

After her graduation, Miss Broom plans to work in Johnson City, Tennessee, as a director of the Good Will Center.

Sara Crider, from Marion, Kentucky, is a Dramatic Art major. She is a member of Bainonian and Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honor society. Participating in many of the plays of the campus, she appeared recently as Miss Rhodes, reporter in "Guest in the House."

Miss Crider's future plans are uncertain.

Neysa Ferguson, French major from Maryville, Tennessee, is the chairman of Pi Gamma. She has Club for the past two years and on the Y Cabinet.

Miss Ferguson plans to work and then continue her study of French in the near future.

Siybl Tallent Haney from Etowah, Tennessee, has chosen for her major, biology. During the first three years of her college career she was a member of the choir. While at Maryville, she has been a member of the Disc Club and Pi Gamma. Mrs. Haney has participated in the orchestra one year, the band two years and in previous years has been a "Messiah" soloist. She belongs to the Theta Epsilon society.

John Ross, an English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has taken the accelerated course, having spent two summers at Temple University. Since first coming to Maryville, he has been a member of the choir. He is vice-president of both the Student Vols and Pre-Ministerials during his senior year. He has also been on the Student Council for two

New Additions In Curriculum For Next Term

Dean Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, announced that nine courses, some of them new and some which were not originally planned to be repeated, have been added to the curriculum for next semester. The title, number, and a brief description of each are as follows:

Art 318 is to be given as a one-hour course in Art Appreciation by Mrs. W. L. Patterson, who before her marriage was an art teacher at the college. The emphasis will be on painting. The class will meet once each week on Tuesday at 11:30.

Bible 314c, The Letters of Paul, is a course designed to provide familiarity with the Pauline epistles in their historical setting and with their content. Mrs. Margaret Cummings will have the course.

Biology 319a, Genetics. This course has not been given for some time. Dr. Lyle L. Williams is teaching it next semester.

Dramatic Art 104f. A continuation course following 101, in which more advanced speech work and interpretative reading will be given. Mrs. Nita West will conduct the course.

Economics 312c, Taxation and Public Finance, and 317cx, Production and Distribution, are being offered after some lapse of time. They will be given by Mr. Wesley E. Wilson.

Education 234A, Arithmetic, is a content course in arithmetic required by the Tennessee State Board of Education for Elementary Teacher Certification. Mr. Edgar R. Walker will have the course.

Home Economics 326e. A course in Meal Planning and Table Service. Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz will teach the course.

Physics 304e, Meteorology. Some interesting plans are being worked out with the local Weather Bureau Station at the Air Port for laboratory experience. Mr. Edgar R. Walker will conduct the course.

Political Science 304. This course in current political systems, formerly taught by Dr. Horace E. Orr, will be given by Mr. Commodore B. Fisher.

Debaters Return From Trip Tonight

The debate team, which is coached by Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, will return tonight from Charlotte, N.C., where they participated in the two-day Dixie Championship Forensic Tournament. Those from Maryville college attending the tournament were Judy Turk, June Garland, Miriam Wickham, Audria Stinger, Mary Mitchell Woolridge, Janet Nisbet, John Briggs, and David Campbell. The topic of the tournament was—Resolved: That the foreign policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world.

This is the only debate team trip planned for this semester, but several more will be taken next semester.

INVITATION EXTENDS TO ALL

Bainonian program tonight features reading by Lois Thomas, and singing by Catherine Sisk. All members are cordially urged to come.

Writer's Workshop Names Five Best

Writers' Workshop in their last meeting of this semester on Wednesday, December 5, voted in the traditional election to select the best five paper senresented to the group this semester. The results were as follows:

Tied for the top number of votes were Miss Nathalia Wright, who read "Asides on the Good Samaritan", a short story; and Robert Whitford, who read "Phaedra Contemporizes", another sort story. Third place went to Olinde Ahrens' "The General Store", which was a sketch. Dr. Edwin R. Hunter was voted fourth place for his three poems, "Plan of Battle", "Winsed Death", and "The Kent Secret". June Gowanlock, who read a piece of original lyric prose, was noted fifth.

Interesting Character Contrasts Of "Guest In The House" Played to Peak

By DOROTHY HARNED

(Miss Dorothy Harned, who was a dramatic art student under Mrs. Nita West, graduated in '45. She had leading roles in "Kind Lady", "Arsenic and Old Lace", "Letters to Lucerne" and other plays on the Maryville college stage, and was elected a member of Theta Alpha Phi. She may well be considered as judge of college dramatics.) Ed. note.

Maryville College's dramatic season opened last Saturday night, December 1 in Voorhees Chapel duction of Wilde and Eunson's "Guest In The House," which was played to the peak with interesting mental and emotional twistings and character contrasts, all of which built up beautifully to the final dynamic scene. The play, in itself full of innumerable nuances and undercurrents, was performed with clear and admirable interpretation.

Jean Balch, as "Evelyn, the dispicable invalid," gave a talented performance with her soft and husky voice so well suited to the role and by her illusion of fragility through body movements. Her emotional contrasts were forcefully brought out first in her interpretation of Scene 2, Act II.

Virginia Miller as "The Wife" gave a poised and glowingly sincere portrayal. Her presentation was an enjoyment in the fact that she kept pace with the action of the story.

"Douglas," as played by Max House was an uninhibited performance denoting an outward delight for drama but lacking somewhat in the more mature characterization of "The Artist". Although static in his interpretation, he delighted all of us, as indicated by applause in mid-scene.

The intriguing laugh-lines were capably inspired by Jean Messer, who as "The Model" turned in an exultant characterization and produced more laughs than usual for an opening scene.

Bette Lou McCoy, as "Auntie", remained consistently in character and mounted to her final speech with deftness.

We should liked to have seen more of Jay Bishop who handled his bit with an unmistakable ease.

The supporting cast lent itself to the fast upbuild of plot, with Ann Thorton as a little girl with slightly exaggerated expressions, and Wilson and Thomas as the bored and embarrassed dinner guests.

The gripping scenes were played upon with much cognizance, even in the very beginning with the contrast of the canary scene and the THEN soothing "Liebestraume".

We liked the staging and costuming, with the exception of Max's too collegiate trousers, and we would have liked some separate curtain calls for the protagonists.

P. S. Mrs. West looked radiant and happy, didn't she?

IN THESE TIMES

There was once upon a time, long long ago, a French philosopher who observed that all the evils of the world would disappear if only everyone would stay in his own room. Today this is neither a practical nor a possible solution to the world's problems. We are socialized beings, dependent on our fellows. But, for college problems, especially semester, there may be an editorial or two to the ones that stack up toward the end of the write in favor of it.

We are not advocating student isolationism. Without friendships, we wouldn't be ourselves; college wouldn't be college. Feasts and cat sessions and bridge are here to stay. However, the menancing approach of final examinations has its influence on those of our number who are not, just now, a lesson ahead in all courses. The play, you know, and Artist Series. . . . We can safely assume that a small number have reviewing to do and a smaller number will actually be doing it.

There may be times when even our best pals across the hall can sustain life without the sight of our smiling faces. Let's think twice before touring the dorms in search of new gossip, a new audience, or the words to "All I Owe Iowa."

Watch in the next weeks for signs of the times,—open text books and dog-eared notes,—and where you find them, tread softly and preferably before 7:15 p. m. Welcome mats may be pulled in after that. Some hints, light as Grey's Anatomy, to the effect that visitors might convey their tongues to the far end of the campus, will be in vain. After such visitors go sour grimmaces and bitter words.

Have your ears been burning lately?

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

We were climing Thaw steps the other day in a mad rush to Miss Jackson's literature class when we were accosted b y that dear but puzzled old December gentleman—recognizable by his red suit and white beard (and it wasn't Jim Martin)—who shoved a stack of papers in our hands and pleaded almost childishly that we see that some of the "stuff" was put in print. "These Maryville College people," he complained, "send in some extremely queer requests. I thought that the readers might have some suggestions as to how I could fill the orders." Remembering how disappointed we were a couple of years ago when we discovered that the little electric stove's appearance could be scientifically explained, we heartily and hurriedly agreed to comply to the old man's wishes. Because not all of the letters can be published, we apologize to Ronald Reagon, who just wants to be left along (Girls! Give the guy a chance.). Lorene Summitt and Betty Jean Moser—they want a radio —and Suen Chin, who wants a school nearer Dickie. By the way, did you all know that Suen is engaged? A Chinese custom prohibits her possession of the ring right now, but she's engaged.

After seeing Verea Dockendorf's and Margaret Hennemuth's decorations in 225, we achieved the Christmas spirit and looking through the files we found that much of Carnegie Hall seems to be represented by—

Dear Old Sweet Santa,

First, I want to tell you that I don't want all the tihngs that other girls want. Zoe Sayre wants a diamond ring, but I don't. Carolyn Scruggs wants a car, but not me. And you know what, Santa, Harriet likes "Hills", but I don't even like them—or him.

All I want is a little rectangular glass plane to replace the one that I kicked out of Carnegie door the other day while I was in one of my—moods.

Ernestine Hutchisn.

In case you haven't noticed, a group of the girls—Bea Hohnberger, Laura Crawford, Charlotte Lester, Mary Jane Mackey, and Mickey Howard—all did a good job of decorating Carnegie, especially Mr. Carnegie himself. He, they say, is "Santa Carnegie." Sometimes we wonder about them.

These two letters are rather short and rather odd, but worth printing.
Hi Santa.

Scotch Broth

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Orange and garnet streaking down the gym floor—Swoosh! A neat one-handed throw chalks up a final two points for Maryville. Timekeeper's whistle!

An intercepted pass, a fumble and a 45 yard run which gives Hiwassee six points. End of half. Third down and goal to go in the final quarter. A chant! "Go get 'em. go get 'em! Go get 'em Scotties, We're out to win this game." An end around puts the Scotties on the four. Another end run gains nothing but on the third down an off-tackle drive puts the pigskin on the one foot line! Hiwassee buckles down to hold, but a quarter-back sneak puts the ball just across the white line: Maryville-6—Hiwassee 6. The try for extra point is good. Maryville has won another—7-6!

What is this: Scotch Broth or the sports news of the Highland Echo? It may very well be the latter. Yes, you lucky underclassmen will have the chance to rejuvenate that old Maryville spirit you have heard so much about.

Coach Lombe S. Honaker has some dates in his little book now. That means a basketball team after the Christmas holidays. So drop by your high school gym and make some baskets, fellows!

Veterans will be returning next term to colleges and universities throughout the states. Coach Honaker believes that many of these ex-G.I.'s will attend the smaller colleges in order to have more opportunity fer participation in inter-collegiate sports. Selection on the basis of superior athletic merit for large university teams will prevent many who play for love of the sport from doing so.

As for Maryville and our Scottie teams—what may we look for? By the fall of 1946, our inter-collegiate program will have begun again. Coach plans football practice next spring. Former Maryville grid players will be asking for uniforms along with their registration cards.

All college men will not be stars on Wilson field or in the Alumni gymnasiums. The intramural program will continue in expanded form. Tournaments will grant points to any and all men who enter the program.

This is not "for men only". Cheerleaders will animate the whole student body. The band will give us more of their Barnwarming show. The Highland Echo will have a sports page again!

Howee How. Howee How. Howee, Howee, Chilhowee!
Maryville, Maryville, Tennessee!

I wanta belt. Is you got a red one with a green buckle? I'll be spectin' it to be hung in a purple and yellow sock, which you is also spose to bring.

Bill Dinges

Dear Santa Claus,

Please bring me a tall, brunette husband. His name must be Scott.

Audre Monteith.

The remainder of the letters varied a lot, so we chose what seemed to us to represent the group. They are something like—

Dear Santa,

Couldn't Soapie , Katie, Betty, Billie Ruth, Bettye Lou and I have more tea and sandwiches in our next S. S. class? We'll wait until after Christmas.

Ann Thornton.

A worried waitress sent in this request.

Dear Santa,

Couldn't the members of my table, Gelola, Janet, Tom, Earl, Bill, and especially Footsie and Jim (Choir party) have a better excuse, motto, or whatchamaycallit, than "Say prunes." It would be greatly appreciated.

Marilyn Hartpence.

Here's another.

Dear Santa,

Thanks so much for telling Mavis' Calvin to send those Christmas cards to all our table (Beth, Jo Justyn, Rosemary, Georgee, Scottie, Edgar), but next time I'd prefer to have a chair that doesn't fall through when I place my heavy weight upon it.

Grace Hildebrand.

Santa,

Oh, for some brains, or else an incentive to study.

Ginny Weest.

We were a bit surprised at this one.

Dear Mr. Claus:

I want a student who a paper can take
And write a theme without a mistake.

Miss Jessie Heron.

A town student sent in this one.

Dear Santa,

I'm glad Bill's home and I'm glad Judy Turk has a diamond ring, and I'm glad Esther Cornelius' Art finally came back to the States after two years overseas, and I'm glad Fay Gaddy's fiance, Chester, is here and is going to drive her home, and I'm glad Ethel Brocker got a telegram from her boy friend who's been overseas three years, and I'm glad that Barbara Eggleston and Seymour are happy, and I'm glad that Mussie's sailor, Paul, is here (even if Dot Justus does insist that he is bow-legged), but I'm sorry that Kay Stout is sick while Lloyd Anderson is here. Could you send her some pills?

Edith Merle Delaney.

P. S. Dot Justus has used all the peroxide, and it still hasn't worked. Would you send some more?

Any suggestions, you all? Poor old Santa is up a stump. Sometime when you're gazing at the lighted tree in the bookstore window, or watching the occasional now flurries, or listening to the choir carolers (Pretty music in spite of Lazenby and Mr. Vine having a snowball battle—and who were the two we saw wandering a bit behind the others? The background of the white snow helped us perceive Mary Barnwell and Bob Barlow), or dreaming of home, think of that bearded old gentleman and quit asking for such outlandish things. We will stop it, too, if he will just bring us a paper weight snow scene—that's all.

Workshop Review

Readers at the regular meeting of Writers' Workshop on Wednesday, November 28, were Tommy Parkinson and Ann Anderson. Virginia Claybough, Vera Ross, and Ruth Kaye were the readers at the final meeting of the organization for this semester, Wednesday afternoon, December 5.

"Massacre at Boston" was the title of Mr. Parkinson's paper. It presented an historical incident and its background. The writer created a fictional main character and built around him actual incidents of trouble between the British troops and the people of Boston in 1770. The climax was the dramatic and historical incident of the "Boston Massacre": the Redcoats fired on some Boston youths, killing one of the main characters. Vera Ross criticized the paper.

Miss Ann Anderson read a piece of descriptive narrative entitled "Sunset". She depicted the sorrow of two children who were forced to live away from their mother, since their father was dead and the mother had to work. She opened with a very descriptive scene showing the two girls coming from seeing their mother. Another part showed the girls years later as they expresseed various things they would liked to own. They were happy since they were to go back to live with their mother finally, but this proved to be impossible. Ruth Kaye was her critic.

Miss Claybough was the first of the three readers at the final meeting. Her paper, which was critized by Bette Lou McCoy, was in the form of a letter. It was written with the idea of axpressing the feelings and emotions of the woman writing it rather than with the purpose of sending the letter to someone. The letter brought in the setting. Long ago the writer of the letter and the man written to, or rather about had been in love. The letter related how much they had been in love, showed how they had parted—because of a religious difference—and how they had missed each other since that time.

The short story read by Miss Vera Ross did not have a title. It began with a man, the teacher, in the classroom of an isolated country schoolroom refeleting on what the past had held fr him. He had once been a worker in a war plant in the city, where he had led a happy married life. But he had separated from his wife when they had lost their child; his wife had not wanted a child to tie her down. The man had gone to this isolated country for his health. There he had married again. The story ended with the man getting a letter from his doctor in the city telling him that his first wife was very sick, and that she needed him to come to her. The paper closed with his thinking that he would go, for his present wife "would understand." Ann Anderson criticized.

Miss Kaye read six original, short poems. Miss Jessie Johnson criticized her work.

Her first poem was about the power of books; it offered books as the medium of many diverse pleasures and experiences. Another was written in a light vein, about trees. The author termed one as "The Song of a Scottish Lassie". The members of workshop thought her poem about "The Kitten" was the best of the group; it, too, was written in a fresh, light style. Two of her poems were religious poems, the last one ending with a prayer.

Antiquated Antics

By BETTY HARTE

"Twenty-three of the 1935 football players, eight of whom were seniors, received school letters"—— we sing to the tune, "Once In The Dear Dead Days Beyond Recall."

Looking into the Melting Pot we see: What a man is this professor Dr. Bradshaw! Miss Heron gleaned this from a freshman description of him, "He either paces the floor with his hands behind him or with his feet upon the desk." He is a chemistry genius but to be such a contortionist!—well, THAT'S NEWS.

The Athenian presentation "The Man From Home" was hailed as stimulating a high dramatic trend for that year. Description of their acting could certainly be applied to "Guest in The House"..... quote. "There was sincere, honest effort on the part of the producing cast to delineate their parts as vividly as possible in the interest of good drama"..... end of quote.

Greatest observation of the month: Corn is nothing new. On the 1935 stalk grows the rhyme—

Mary had a little watch
She swallowed it one day.
Now she takes castor oil
To pass the time away.

Hold tight to your hats folks. Doris Woodwell 1935 featurist, tells us that two thousand individual meals were served daily. She asks, "Have you ever thought of the great quantity of food necessary for this? Bread, the staff of life, was used to the extent of six thousand loaves per month, or two hundred per day, spread with 90 pounds of butter. "Did you ever gaze on a hundred shiny, golden pies at one time——Pies, pies, pies as far as the eye can see?" (How the old girl does rattle on!!) Turkey by the half-ton, eight gallons of soup at a time—and on into the night. Speaking of food did y'all enjoy our intoxication last week? Rum cake, hmm hum.

Well, as our Senator Hegner savs in concluding his column, The Weakly Filibuster, "The stork that brought me was arrested for smuggling dope."

Chillies Win Volley Ball Tournament

The Chillies were victorious over the Howies in the recently completed Volley Ball Tournament of the Girls' Point System. Margaret Rock's Chillie team came through undefeated, while Betty Lou King's Chillie team lost two games and won one. Both Howie teams, under the leadership of Lottie Lavender and Virginia Woods, lost two games and won one.

The aerial dart tournaments, begun on Thursday, Dec. 6th, will close this semester's point system program.

Vesper Program Given By Fine Arts Department

This year the Girls' Choir will join the Vesper Choir in the annual Christmas Program which will be given on December 9 at 6:55, in Voorhees Chapel. The program is as follows:

Organ Prelude of Christmas Carols (at which time the candles will be lighted)
"Hark the Herald Angels Sing" Congregation
Organ Music
The Christmas Carol read by Mrs. West
Candlelight Processional (Girls Choir and Vesper Choir)
"O Come All Ye Faithful"
Anthems by Girls Choir
"Christmas Bells"—Bampton
"While Shepherds Watched" —Holler
Carol Congregation
"The First Noel"
Anthems by Vesper Choir
"Glory to God in the Highest" Pergolese
"Cradle Hymn" Christiansen
"Silent Night" Traditional
Vesper and Girls Choir antiphonally singing
"Jesus Bambino" Pietro Yon (soloist—Robert Barlow)
Candlelight Recessional
"Joy to the World"
Benediction Choir Amen
Organ Postlude In Dulce Jubilo Bach

These programs have been an annual feature of the Christmas season for the last several years.

On Sunday, December 16, there will be no Vesper service because of the annual presentation of the "Messiah."

Theta Has Christmas Program In "Y" Rooms

Tonight in the "Y" rooms, Theta Epsilon will present a musical program. "Cantique de Noel" will be played as the prelude by pianist Jo Campbell. Helen Sorenson will read "The Night Before Christmas"; Peggy Howell will sing "White Christmas"; and Joanne Harte will give "Jest 'fore Christmas." Carols will be featured in group singing.

W.S.C.F. Group Will Meet In Switzerland

The General Committee of the World's Student Christian Federation will meet for the first time since 1938, in Switzerland, August 9-20. Fifteen delegates, ten with votes, will represent the United Student Christian Council. Eight of these will be nominees of the University Commission, four the national student councils of the YW—YMCA, and three will be delegates at large. The group will include students and staff, men and women, and racial minorities, and will be so chosen as to give representation to the Interseminary Movement and the Student Volunteer Movement.

A Student Conference, open both to European students and American visitors will follow immediately afterwards. The program of the conference will be designed to make the attending students participants in the world-wide work of the Federation. Announcement has been made that Americans connected with the student Christian movements of this country who plan to be on the continent after August 20 should apply to USCC, 156 Fifth Avenue, for program details.

Mrs. Snyder Attends Son's Wedding in Ill.

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Dean of Women, left Tuesday morning, December 4, for LaGrange, Illinois, to attend the wedding of her son, Miles Snyder, who was recently discharged. Mr. Snyder's fiancee is Miss Rosella Hawkins who is a high-school dramatics teacher in Indiana. She was given a month's leave of absence from her position but will again resume her duties. The wedding took place at the Episcopal Church at 4:00 in the afternoon. Donald Pope, cousin of the groom, was the best man. The couple left immediately after the wedding for a honeymoon in New York, but hope to make their home in Illinois.

MESSIAH TO BE GIVEN DECEMBER 16

Sunday, December 16, "The Messiah" will again be presented to the students, faculty and friends of Maryville College. This is the thirteenth presentation.

Since October 28 the choruses have practiced every Sunday afternoon. The orchestra began practice with the choruses on November 18 and had been rehearsing with the soloists before that time.

The next issue of the Highland Echo will announce the soloists and give fuller details.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Since only one player has reached the finals, the men's single ping-pong tournament sponsored by the YMCA is to be finished on Saturday night, December 8, at the sophomore class party in the Alumni Gymnasium.

In the lower bracket "Wegie" Lenoir, freshman from Norris, Tennessee, has reached the finals.

In the first round of play he scored an upset over Jay Bishop, who was last year's co-winner in the doubles tournament. After dropping the first set (16-21), he then proceeded to take the next two sets and the game, (21-18), (21-13). He advanced to the quarter-finals by taking the second round sets from John Briggs, 2-1. The "Tennessee Toehead" then moved to the semi-finals, hands down, as he thrashed Max House, (21-7) (21-8). He moved to the finals by taking the fourth round sets, 3-2, from Bill Houdeshel, who had advanced to the semi-finals by taking six straight sets from Pennsylvania, and Tom Parkinson, junior from Memphis, Tennessee, match skill to obtain a crack at Lenoir for the title. Both of the contestants have reacheed the semi-finals.

Grubbs drew a forfeit in the first round, defeated Harold Hunter in the seceond round, 2-1, and rolled over Dave Miller (21-14) (21-12) to reach the semi-finals.

Parkinson, having stiffer competition in Hundemann, Cover, and Doyle, is ready to give Grubbs a run for his money. Parkinson's toughest sets were with Bill Cover, who he defeated, (21-18) (21-19). He advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Hubby Doyle in three sets, (21-15) (19-21) (21-11).

The winner of the Parkinson-Grubbs match will play Lenoir for the singles championship.

Max House, intramural manager, announced that thirty-two boys signed up for the tournament. He said, "Cooperation like that is what makes a well rounded schedule." House said that the intramural points of the players would be ready for the next issue of the ECHO. Plans for next semester's program have been prepared. They include basketball, doubles tennis, doubles ping-pong, and soft ball.

WEDDINGS OF FORMER STUDENTS OF INTEREST

Martha Plemons, Elaine Woods Become Brides

Martha Louise Plemons, of Sweetwater, Tennessee, and Flight Officer Walter Dale Peterman, Jr. of Indiana, Pennsylvania, were married Sunday, December 2, in the Mount Vernon Methodist Church in Birmingham, Alabama.

The bride wore a grey suit with black accessories and a corsage of white orchids. Her only attendant was Miss Mary Wilson of Chattanooga.

Lieut. Richard Pentz of Craig Field, Alabama, was the best man.

Mrs. Peterman attended the college for two years and was a member of the class of '47. Peterman was stationed here with the 42nd C.T.D. for his pre-flight training.

ELAINE WOODS

Miss Elaine Woods of Flintville, Tennessee became the bride of Mr. William Powell on October 20.

Mrs. Powell graduated from the college last spring. She was a French major, and an active member of the French Club. Mr. Powell is now attending business college in Raleigh, North Carolina, where they plan to reside.

Weiler, Blair In Recital December 4

Marian Weiler, pianist, and Barbara Blair, contralto, were presented in the first sophomore recital of the year in Voorhees Chapel on December 4 at 4:30 p.m. Janet Rich and Mary Jo Bolin assisted in the program.

Vols. In Last Meeting: Choose Yearly Project

The Student Vols' program tomorrow night at its last meeting of this semester will consist of special project speeches, Margaret Cross, program chairman, has announced.

Anna Sakaizawa will speak on Japan; Tom Hurst will reveal facts about the American mission to lepers in Africa; Harold Hunter's topic is to be the Sheldon-Jackson School in Alaska.

Student Volunteer members will select from these three fields their project of the year, to which place members' donations will be sent.

At this final 1945 meeting, the election of a new vice president and program chairman for the new year will take place. Nominations for the vice-presidency to replace Jack Ross, who graduates at Christmas, are Fred Wilson and Bill Vogel.

The office of program chairman will be filled by Martha Scanlon or June Garland. Miss Cross's term as program chairman expires this semester.

Last Sunday evening at Student Vols, Lt. Commdr. R. J. Dollenmayer spoke on the work of missionaries in Hawaii. Nan Wooten, accompanied by Mary Batchelor played as a trumpet solo the Navy hymn.

Sophs and Frosh Must Register

Sophomores are to register at the Personnel office December 6 to 8 (Thursday to Saturday noon). The late registration fee will be charged after December 8. Freshman schedules will usually be a continuation of the first semester courses. Necessary changes will be made at the time of registration. Freshmen will call for their cards at the Personnel office December 13-17 (Thursday through Monday). The late registration fee will be charged after December 17. Juniors and seniors were to have registered this week. Registration included approval of the tentative schedule card, and the filling out and approval of the completed registration card.

The registration of all students now in attendance is required before the close of the first semester. Those who do not register within the designated period for each class will be charged the late registration fee of $2.50. (A student who will change classification at mid-year should register within the period designated for the class in which he will be next semester.

Registration cards, after being filled out and approved, are to be left at the Personnel Office.

The regular time for payment of bills at the Treasurer's Office will be from 9:00 to 11:30 each morning and from 3:30 to 4:30 each afternoon, January 16-8 (Wednesday through Friday) for those who registered before the holiday vacation, and from 3:30 to 4:30, January 17, 18 (Thursday and Friday) for those who did not register before the holiday vacation. Registration cards will be on file at the Treasurer's Office during that time. Those paying bills after January 18 will be charged the late payment fee of $5.00.

The Student-Help Office will be open for those who wish to make arrangements and sign their notes before vacation.

Class attendance will be required from the first day of the second semester, January 16. Absences will be reported according to class rolls made up from the registration cards. The usual penalties will apply for absences on the first two days after a recess.

The regular day for necessary changes in schedules after registration will be Monday, January 21.

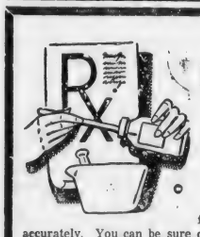
VETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Sixteen veterans, all former students, have already made arrangements to re-enter Maryville college next semester. The purpose of this article is to introduce them to many of you, and to give some information about their collegiate activities and what they have been doing in the service.

DON KENT, who left here in '41, has served in the quartermaster corps in Africa and Europe. He was a member of Athenian, editor of the '41 CHILHOWEAN, a member of Writers' Workshop, and a member of the track team. He was an English major and had completed his junior year when he left. He is married to another former student, the former Miss Wintermute of Maryville.



ROBERT HUNTER, son of Dean E. R. Hunter, is planning to return next semeseter. As a member of the signal corps, he served in Europe and Germany prior to his recent discharge. He was a member of the tennis team, won awards for golf, and sang in the choir. Hunter was a member of the junior class when he left.

IRVING McARTHUR hopes to be able to return next semester, but as yet, has not been discharged. He served in the Pacific area and has been in the states since early fall. He was an economics major, and attended Maryville three years.

BILL GROSH, former naval pilot and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, will again be in college here. He married Francis Harris ('44) of Maryville.

GEORGE MARTZ is returning after several years absence. He has been in the Army, and for a

Club Activities

The German Club held its last meeting of the semester on December 6, in the "Y" Rooms. Bob DuBois, president, led the members in singing Christmas carols and playing games. Plans were discussed for next semester's meetings.

PI GAMMA

Pi Gamma held its regular luncheon on December 6, in the Tea Room. The club is an organization to promote fellowship between the town girls and those girls who live in the dormitories. Betty Lou Boyatt was in charge of the meeting, and each town girl invited a dormitory girl.

PRE-MED

The Pre-Med Club held its last meeting of the semester on November 29, in the second floor chemistry lecture-room. Dr. Griffitts and Dr. Williams showed the Navy film, "Medicine in the Jungle". Meetings will be resumed next semestere.

DISC CLUB

Robert DuBois, commentator for the Disc Club on November 29, chose several oratorios and used them as the basis of his program. He told the members of the club what oratorios are, and why they are no longer used as extensively. The purpose of this program was to give interest and information to the students in this form of music.

Mr. DuBois chose to play "Rolling on Bounding Billows" from the oratorio Creation; "It is Enough" from Elijah; "King Ever Glorious" from Crucifixion"; "Every Valley" from Messiah; and also "I Know My Redeemer Liveth" from Messiah.

Ross plans to further his education at Princeton Seminary after his graduation.

Marinell Ross, history major from Maryville, was last year's business manager for the Chilhowean, Varsity debate member, president of Phi Kappa Delta, secretary and treasurer of Student Council, co-editor of the "M" Book, and member of the Daisy Chain.

Miss Ross last year won the state championship in debate, first place in the state in extemporaneous speaking, and co-winner of the Phi Kappa Delta award of the Grand Eastern Debate Tournament.

Upon graduatin at Christmas, Miss Ross will enroll the following term at the University of North Carolina law school.

Betty Lou McCoy from Dayton, Ohio, has majored in philosophy. She has served three years on the Echo Staff, now being Senior Associate Editor. In her second year, Miss McCoy was secretary of I.R.C., on the Y.W.C.A. cabinet, store manager of the Y.W.C.A. She was a member of the debate squad until this year and is a Phi Kappa Delta and Theta Alpha Phi member. Participating in the college plays, she was recently billed in "Guest in the House."

Carol Titus, English major from India, has been on the Y.W.C.A. cabinet for the last two years, and on the Chilhowean staff in her senior year. She belongs to the Student Vols, Writers' Workshop, I.R.C., and Spanish Club. She was also selected as one of the partipants of the Daisy Chain.

Miss Titus plans to return to India at the end of December, where she will be married.

ABBOTT KEMP will resume his studies as a first semester junior after the absence of one year. He has been in the Army Air Corps since last January, and was stationed in Nevada.

ROY LAUGHMILLER, a chemistry major who has been in the Air Corps, is returning here. He is married to the former Polly Park ('43) of Maryville. He left Maryville during his sophomore year.

CURTIS WRIGHT, recent groom (he married Francis Sisk) is planning to graduate here this spring after serving in the Pacific. He is a French major from Greenport, N. Y. He took part in Student Vols, intramurals, and was a member of the swimming team.

EDWARD HENDERSON, whose wife is now employed in the treasurer's office, is returning to finish his work in biology. He was a member of the choir here.

ALBERT DOCKTER, who has served in the transport command along the Alcan Highway in Canada, plans to re-enter here. He has been repairing radios for planes and acting as chaplain's assistant. Dockter married Dorothy Gredig of Maryville. He was a member of the glee club.

ALBERT BRITTON, who was drafted during his first semester here is planning t. re-enter and work toward his degree. He has been in the Pacific.

LEWIS PURIFORY of Dalton, Georgia who has been in the signal corps in the European theatre will study here again.

JAMES HENRY, sophomore of Maryville, is coming back after serving in Italy.

JEFFERSON BRAZEALE, a chemistry major from Loudon, Tenn., is planning to be back also. He entered the Air Corps in March 1943 and has been the pilot of a B-24. He is married to the former Winnona Peterson. Brazeale played football here for two years.

RAY SWARTZBACK, who served with the Old Hickory division in Europe, will again be on the campus. He was injured about a year ago while serving in Germany. Swartzback was a sophomore here when he left, and had been a member of the YM cabinet and vice-president of Ministerials.

JOHN RUNION, who attended Maryville for one year, plans to return after three years in the army.

Under the GI bill of rights, many veterans will be attending college, and more will be coming back to Maryville by next fall. The ECHO will publish news of these others as soon as it may be available.

$82.66 In Stamps Sold To Students

Year's First Play Financial Success

John Shell, business manager for the Theta Alpha Phi play, "Guest in the House," has stated that 580 tickets were sold, bringing in a total of $250. Full accounts have not as yet been completed, but Mr. Shell stated that approximately $125 of this will be profit. This money goes to the Dramatic Department for use in buying stage equipment.

Mrs. Nita E. West directed the play. The acting stage crew was as follows: assistant to director, Sara Crider; stage manager, William Cover; stage crew, Willis Pribble and Rebecca Davis; electrician, Leonard Schieber; costumer, Virginia Clabough; properties, Harriet McKeen; business manager, John Shell; publicity manager, Margaret Cross, assisted by Mary Elizabeth McKnight and Angell Kincaid.

Music's Connection To The Church Service Presented

Miss Katharine Davies, Professor of Music and Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association. The meeting was held in the "Y" rooms on November 29. President William Robarts introduced the speaker.

Miss Davies in her informal talk brought forth the point that "preministerial students should be very well acquainted with good church music, as it was the nucleus of the service." Miss Davies urged the candidates to be "closely connected at all times" with the musical part of the service, and to have the music connected with their sermons. She emphasized that they should be accustomed to all types of Christian music, and to be able to use them whenever necessary.

Jim Leister, first vice-president, led the group singing at the opening of the service.

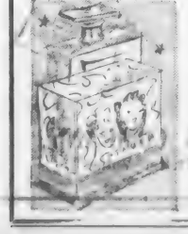
Rededicate To Christ, Theme of Wheeler's Talk



Thomas Wheeler, English major from Peekskill, New York, gave the talk at the weekly Wednesday evening prayer meeting in the "Y" rooms on December 5.

Mr. Wheeler emphasized that we should be able to answer Christ, as he knocks at the door of our heart. He said, "We should answer him by praver, service, and joyful thanksgiving." In closing he brought out that we should bring to our life and heart a sincere re-dedication to Christ.

Miss Jean Keen, senior music major, played special music at the piano. Jim Leister led the singing of the Christmas carols.

On November 28 Kitty Johnson, sophomore from Hopkinsville, Ky. was in charge of the services.

Student Gov't Passes Faculty

Grant on Condition Of Acceptance And Enforcement

Constitution of The Women's Student-Government Association of Maryville College

Preamble

With approval of the Executive Council of the Faculty and the President and upon vote of the women students residing in the dormitories of the College a Women's Student Government Association has been formulated and the following constitution adopted for its guidance. This grant of authority by the Executive Council is conditioned on acceptance and enforcement by the students.

ARTICLE I—NAME

Section 1. General

The name of this organization shall be The Women's Student-Government Association of Maryville College.

Section 2. In the Individual Dormitories

The branches of the organization in the various dormitories shall be known as the (Pearsons, etc.) Section of the Women's Student-Government Association.

ARTICLE II—PURPOSE

The purpose of the organization shall be to provide a medium for self-government for the women of the College in the various dormitories, within the limits of this Constitution and the regulations of the College; with a view to stimulating and maintaining standards of Christian living at College by creating a sense of responsibility to one another and to the College, and by encouraging student participation in the administration of dormitory life.

ARTICLE III—ORGANIZATION

Section 1. House Committee

1. In each dormitory there shall be a House Committee composed of a House Chairman, a Vice Chairman, a Secretary-Treasurer, and a representative from each floor elected for one semester by all residents of the dormitory as hereinafter provided.

2. The House Chairman, except in dormitories housing freshmen only, shall be elected near the end of each semester to serve during the ensuing semester; she shall be a member of the incoming or continuing class of highest classification regularly residing in that dormitory; all residents of that building, and of other buildings, who are of such classification that they normally will reside the ensuing semester in the building electing the officers, shall be eligible to vote; in all dormitories any vacancy in the chairmanship existing at the opening of college shall be filled at the fall election time.

3. At the close of each spring semester, at the time of election of the House Chairman, of the junior-senior dormitory, there also be election of a rising senior to serve as Freshman Counsellor. The Freshman Counsellor shall be a resident of the Freshman Dormitory during the first month of the succeeding fall semester to

Executive Council Agrees to Remove Men's Curfew, If

Action to Abolish Comps And Physical Education May Be Taken Next Year

At the meeting of the Executive Council of the Faculty on Thursday, December 13, that group took action on the three proposals, which had presented previously to the faculty by the Student Council.

The proposal for the abolition of the existing eleven o'clock curfew in men's residences was considered. The faculty voted to permit in men's residences the same arrangements about lights that will go into effect in the women's residences under the new student government plan, provided the men work out in cooperation with Mr. McCurry and Dean McClelland satisfactory methods of supervision. The faculty voted also to remove the eleven o'clock curfew when the men of the dormitories submit a satisfactory plan of procedure supervision.

Concerning the Student Council proposal for Abolition of Physical Education requirements for upperclassmen, the faculty voted to make no change for the year 1945-46. The matter for the future is being studied in connection with plans for a major in physical education. That will be announced in the May 1946 catalog.

The proposal for Abolition of Comprehensive Examinations was not finally decided on, but it was reported that it is now under study. Questionaires, which have been sent alumni, are being returned with their opinions of the value of that type examination. Experience of other colleges is also being investigated.

Dr. Barbour Has Severe Accident

Will Lead February Meetings As Planned

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, of Knoxville, who is to lead the February meetings this year, suffered a serious accident in his home a week ago Saturday. While taking a shower, he slipped and fell. His colored valet helped him to bed, where he waited to be taken to the hospital. X-rays disclosed that the socket bone of the femur (the upper part of the leg) had been broken. It was his leg that has been affected by infantile paralysis that was injured; this being the case, Dr. Barbour will probably be up sooner than otherwise.

At present he is recuperating in Fort Sanders Hospital, where he will be confined for a few weeks.

Plans are still under way for Dr. Barbour to lead the February meetings. In the meantime, President Lloyd is taking charge of his church services on Sunday mornings in the Second Presbyterian church of Knoxville.

Howell, Sisk, Franklin, DuBois, Bishop, Kidder

Thirteenth Presentation Of "The Messiah" Given Sunday

The thirteenth annual presentation of "The Messiah" was given in Voorhees Chapel, Sunday, December 16, at 3:00 under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Vine. The soloists were Harold Kidder, bass; Katherine Franklin, contralto; Catherine Sisk, soprano; Margaret Howell, soprano; Robert DuBois, tenor and Jay Bishop, bass.

Miss Franklin, a junior from Knoxville, Tennessee, is a Religious Education and Bible major. This is her second year in the choir.

Miss Sisk, a senior voice major from Maryville, has been in the choir for four years.

Miss Howell, also a music major from Maryville, is a sophomore and this is her second year in the choir.

Mr. DuBois, a Greek major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has been in the choir for two years and a tenor soloist both years.

Mr. Kidder, a philosophy major from Berwyn, Maryland, is a sophomore and has sung in the choir for two years. Mr. Bishop, is also a philosophy major. He is from Detroit, Michigan. This is his second appearance as a soloist for "The Messiah".

Mr. Vine Directs

This is the fourth time that Mr. Richard W. Vine has directed "The Messiah". He is the assistant professor of music at Maryville College. Mr. Vine received his Batchelor of Music degree at St. Olaf College in Minneapolis, Minnesota. He also studied at the University of Minnesota, Rutgers University, New Jersey and he received his masters degree at the MacPhail School of Music in Minnesota. He was once the tenor soloist in the St. Olaf Choir under the direction of F. M. Christiansen. Mr. Vine also studied in New York under Frederick Southwick and Miss Agnez Fordo.

First M. C. "Messiah"

The first time "The Messiah" was presented to students and friends of Maryville College was in 1933, when Miss Frances Henry directed it. The next two years, 1934 and 1935, Miss Henry also directed it. From 1936 to 1941 Mr. Ralph R. Colbert presented this oratorio. In 1942 when Mr. Vine directed it for the first time it was almost a tradition at Maryville College, and since that time Mr. Vine has directed it except for the year 1943 when Mr. Phillip O. Jones took his place.

This year around 150 students, including members of the orchestra choir, and girl's choir, took part in "The Messiah". Since 1933 there have been fifty-two different soloists and a great many choruses.

Favorite Oratorio

"The Messiah" was written about 200 years ago by George Frederick Handel, a German, and has become one of the most popular and best loved oratorios ever given.

"The Messiah" has played a great part in the life of Maryville College since 1933. It is one of the big events of the college year and is looked forward to by new and old students and by those people in and around Maryville who love music.

400 Register For Next Semester

Registration of all seniors, juniors and sophomores have been completed and freshman registrations are still under way. All freshmen were to register by Monday, November 17. All students now in attendance must register before the close of the semester. Registration includes approval of the tentative schedule and the filling out and approval of the completed registration card. Those who did not register within the designated time set for his class will be charged a late registration fee of $2.50.

At the present 57 seniors, 77 juniors, and 107 sophomores have registered. Approximately 200 freshman completed their registration today.

Registration cards will be filed at the Treasurer's Office. The regular time of paying bills for those registering before the holiday vacation will be from 9:00 to 11:30 each morning and from 3:30 to 4:30 each afternoon, January 16-18. Those who register after the holidays will pay bills from 3:30 to 4:30, January 17-18. Class attendance will be required from the first day of the second semester, January 16.

Mrs. Francis Grosh, '45, who had sung the alto solos in previous years, sang those solos after the intermission as Miss Franklin was suffering from a severe cold.

Martin Speaks At Prayer Meeting

The last Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the semester was held at 6:40 on December 12 in the "Y" rooms. Jim Martin, junior from Bloomington, Illinois, was the speaker. Mr. Martin's topic was "Faith, Hope, and Love".

Mr. Martin took his talk from 1 Corinthians and the thirteenth chapter. He enumerated on the three points of faith, hope and love; the greatest of these was love. "We must have undying faith in Christ, as our hope for tomorrow is He. We can recognize God's love for man by John 3:16, and we have Christ to help us share our burdens of faith, hope and love." These were the points of Mr. Martin's subject.

Bob Dubois, sophomore Greek major, was the soloist for the service. His song was "Master, Let Me Walk With Thee". Mr. Dubois also led the students in the singing of Christmas carols at the beginning of the services.

Mr. Martin, Devotional Chairman for the YMCA announced that the prayer meetings will be resumed in January.

Garland, Turk Win Debate Championships

June Garland and Judy Turk won the Women's Championship in the Dixie Forensic Tournament in Charlotte, N. C., on December sixth and seventh, by winning six out of six debates. Other teams from Maryville won lesser numbers of debates but did some really good debating, it was stated by Dr. D. H. Briggs, debate coach.

Sisk, Davis Head Girls' Societies

The sister societies have announced their newly elected officers selected by ballot on December 12. Bainonians have chosen Catherine Sisk as president, Jean Messer as vice president, Lucy Sitler as secretary, and Ginger Claybough and Janet Miller as program chairmen. Theta Epsilon president is Becky Davis; vice president, Audre Monteith; secretary, Betty Vineyard; treasurer, Doris White; program chairmen, Corky Monteith and Buffy Carver.

STUDENTS WILL VOTE ON PROPOSAL AFTER XMAS

Council, Faculty Worked Months on Constitution

Executive Council of the Faculty met on Thursday afternoon, December 13 to consider the proposed constitution of the Women's Student Government Association of Maryville College, and voted to approve the constitution and the inauguration of the plan outlined when the women of the dormitories have likewise voted approval.

At that meeting the Executive Council voted approval of the revision of dormitory rules of the college as proposed by the joint student-faculty committee on Student Government. These changes concern lights in the dormitories, laundry, room inspection, and parlor dates; also the provisions for handling penalties which the committee had proposed.

The only other action that has to be taken before the plan of student government can be set up in the women's residence is the of the dormitory women by a vote. Olinde Ahrens, chairman of the Committee on Student Government, has stated that it will not be possible to have house meetings for the voting by the students this semester. That will be done early next semester, and if the results of the voting are in favor o fthe plan of student government, the Women's Student Government Association of Maryville College will be formed and put into operation during the first part of next semester.

This action by the faculty is the most important step at present in the numerous stages of the Student government project. The Committee on Student Government, consisting of students and faculty members, has been working all this semester towards getting a plan of student government instituted. In October they wrote the initial draft of the proposed constitution. It was then presented to representatives of the dormitory women of the College who worked with the committee in slightly revising the constitution and in adding the by-laws and proposed rules. It was in that form that the matter was discussed at length in the last meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate, Friday evening, December 7. The Senate made some minor changes in the wording and unanimously voted that the constitution and its by-laws and rules was worthy of serious consideration by the Executive Council of the Faculty.

After revealing the faculty decision on the matter, President Lloyd expressed his satisfaction with the plan. He stated, "I hope it turns out to be a good thing for all concerned."

Working with Ahrens, chairman of the joint committee on Student Government, was Dr. Lincoln Barker, Jessie Lou Brunson, Elsie Jean Cotton, Laura Crawford, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Miss Viola Lightfoot, Ruth Lloyd, Dr. Horace Orr, and Mrs. G. P. Snyder.

Special Service Honors Graduates

The ten seniors who graduate at the end of this semester were recognized in a special chapel service on Wednesday, December 12. The service began with a hymn, followed by the scripture reading by Dr. F. D. McClelland, dean of students. After an anthem, "Now Thank We All Our God", by the vesper choir, President Lloyd gave the address of recognition with a brief account of these seniors' records here.

The diplomas will be presented later and these ten—Ruth Anderson, Zenobia Bernardini, Essie Broom, Sara Crider, Neysa Ferguson, Sybil Tallent Hancy, John Ross, Marinell Ross, Betty Lou McCoy, and Carold Titus—will be entered on the Alumni Roll as members of the class of 1946.

The service was concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Dr. Fred Hope Is Seriously Ill

Word has been received from Orlando, Florida that Dr. Fred Hope, who recently visited the Maryville College campus, is seriously ill in the Orange County Hospital there, President Ralph W. Lloyd announced in chapel on Friday morning.

Hope, member of the Board of Directors, president of the Maryville College Alumni Association, and recently retired missionary to West Africa for the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, had been in extremely poor health for many months before he came to Maryville for the Founder's Day Service on October 27. He became ill while here and was not able to attend the service. On November 20, he returned for the Director's Meeting and Fred Hope Drive Service, which was very successful. He seemed fairly well despite the fact that he had lost much weight, but he wrote after his return to Florida that he had taken cold on the trip and that his arthristis trouble had returned. Letters written last Sunday informed friends that he was in the hospital there, both his legs paralyzed. The doctors had informed him that he has cancer and that the length of his life is uncertain. It had not been known previously that he was suffering from cancer.

He has begun to write farewell letters to his friends—"letters. . . that only such a great Christian character as he could write at such a time," states Dr. Lloyd. He expresses appreciation to his friends for their kindness and is beginning practical plans for his leaving this world and entering the next. He has sent for his five daughters, who are in different parts of the country.

At the time of this publication, no further word has been received. There is some hope for his improvement.

Men's Societies Choose Heads

On December 8, Alpha Sigma elected Wilbur Seymour president, Paul Myers, vice president; Willis Pribble, secertary; Edgar Potts, treasurer; and Jay Bishop, program chairman. An installation service was held on December 15.

Athenians annual election took place on December 15. Nominations were: President, John Shell, Tom Parkinson; Vice president, Bill Vogel, Max House; Secretary, Tom Wheeler, Jim Leister; Treasurer Earl Martin, Jim Martin. Program chairman is appointed by the president.

Wilson And Garland Fill Student Vol Offices

The Student Vols have held elections to fill the vacancies in their cabinet. Fred Wilson was elected vice-president and June Garland, program chairman. The topic "Toyohikokagawa" was selected as the fund to which money would be sent. This money wil lbe sent to Mr. Toyohikokawaga to use as he thinks will give the most benefit.

On December 16th, a fire-side and candlelight service was held in Pearsons Hall. The service was sponsored jointly by the Student Vols, Y.W.C.A., and Y.M.C.A. Mrs. Nita West read Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Special music was furnished by the quartet.

FACULTY CLUB HONORS THREE 25-YEAR MEMBERS

Orr, McCurry, McMurray Serve Quarter of Century

At the Faculty Club dinner held on Monday night, December 10, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd announced that three members of the Maryville College staff were celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversaries in college service here this year. They are Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, Mr. Eulie Erskine McCurry, proctor of men's Memorial Hall, and Mrs. James H. McMurray, head of the College Maid Shop.

Dr. Orr came to teach at the opening of the year 1920, returning to his Alma Mater, where he had graduated with the class of 1912. His first work here was as Associate Professor of the English language and the English Bible; then he was made Associate Professor of the English Bible; then Professor of Religious Education. Sixteen or seventeen years ago he became Head of the Department of Bible and Religious Education. He is now Chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy, and Education.

Orr studied at the Theological Seminary of Kentucky after his graduation from Maryville and then at Lane Theological Seminary in Cincinnati. From his graduation from seminary in 1915 until his return in 1920, he was a pas-

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS . . . . . .

Carols in the night ringing across the snow, Christmas parties, gay with laughter and bright packages, a superb rendition of "The Messiah"—traditions and snow-balls mixed again, and Christmas vacation is upon us.

Home for Christmas—warm and wonderful words of poetry possible again for many who have been away too long. An extra-special Christmas it will be for those who are giving, or getting, bright ties and sweaters instead of khaki socks. With not so many mail-before-October-15th packages, it will be a Christmas to make up for all those others. A Christmas with those certain someones—brothers, dads, or just—someones.

In every home the Yuletide has a special meaning, is associated with intimate family tradition. "In our house at Christmas time we always . . . . ." But whatever it means to you, it means for every home togetherness. And this year that word has a new poignance.

Every now and then it strikes us how the really important things about Christmas—the gifts we receive, the sums we spend—are so soon forgotten, how nondescript they grow with age, and how only the trivialities are clear. The sound of carols in chapel, the chimes across the snow, the heady fragrance of fir boughs, the glow of the Bookstore tree, the feelings that pile, year upon year in our hearts and strain a little more each time. These are the things we cannot hold quite close enough, that yet are always there. With this, and more in our saying it—

Merry Christmas, everybody!

. . . . . .

And a happy New Year! Some of us should come back a little wiser, if sadder. Funny how things are left undone until done. Already our conscience has piled us high with resolutions for the new semester. If we only finish this one!

. . . . . .

Next year will find gaps in our groups. To Betty Lou McCoy, senior associate editor, we give hearty and well-deserved thanks for the job she has done in the Echo office in addition to comps and honors work, and especially for getting in those little assignments handed to her just before the dead-line.

Good-bye, kids. Have fun!

The Party Line

By LORRAINE SWIFT

Once a year, because of the December holiday, we studious people begin traveling in different directions to spend three, or possibly four, blissful weeks in the dwellings of the parents. No one can think of anything else, but before you commence your long sojourn, let us inform you about all the latest gossip.

Sailors seem to be in style this year. Joy Gaskins likes them tall and named Jerry Tillman, Fay Gaddy has accepted (double meaning) a blond Chester Ellyson, and Betty Hall takes a dark Joe.

The only sad part about Christmas is the long unendurable separation of the various campus couples. We're not so worried about Virginia Thomas and Leonard Shieber, but who will furnish the handkerchiefs for Celeste Martino and Will Lenoir? Then there are Jean Balch and Hubby Doyle, Grace Ellen Cross and Jay Bishop, Betty Alverson and John Briggs, and Paul Myers and Whoeverthegirlmightbe.

The once becoming shade of red we have seen displayed this season was shining from the face of choir member Merle Grubbs last Wednesday morning, when Soapie's "indefinite" plans were mentioned. The "shade" can only be compared with that of Chester Ellyson's when the boys sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" to Faye.

Geneva Robinson tells us that unless you wish to listen to a long oration, don't mention the word "Charlie" around Gertie Wade.

We don't know who put the salt in Laura Crawford's short-sheeted bed the other night, but, as a result of it, Bea Hohnberger received a pan of water poured on the floor of her room.

Earl Martin is one in a million. He, the dear boy, buys "Sucrets" for girls, particularly for Laverne Helton, who strolled to town with him Tuesday night.

Audrey Dear is getting tired of people saying, "Audrey, dear", and she is going to have her name changed over Christmas. That may prove difficult, for as one person has said, "It takes two to do that." And Benny isn't home.

Mary Margaret Cuningham was going to have a visitor (we hear that he's called Stubby) earlier this week, but she decided to take a few days vacation in the hospital. He sent a telegram and told her to be out by Sunday.

Did you know that Suen Chin and Libby Boell will not be back next semester? Libby wants to be nearer home, and Suen wants to be nearer (Ahem!) Dickie. Sorry to see you leave, girls.

Those two happy faces seen on the campus are those of Bob and Margaret DuBois. She arrived Friday night and now we know why Bob considers himself such a lucky fellow.

The easiest way to spend a Christmas vacation is to spend it being moonshined. Ask Buffie Carver and Carl Lazenby.

Marianna Hayes is slowly driving people insane by her daily letters from someone.

As if it wasn't enough to go home one weekend and receive a corsage of pink camelias, the next weekend Betty Emory receives a corsage of white carnations. And she complains about not receiving letters!

Corky Monteith had a visitor the other night. Need we say more?

Ethel Brocker believes in doing things in a big way. Otherwise, why would she hold a thirty minute conversation with a returned from overseas party who telephoned from New York!

Anyone mind poking their head in Jean's and Lil's door (318 Baldwin) and telling them that lights don't go out at 10:15? They waste precious commodities.

By the way, Mil Waring and Bill Robarts told the postoffice gang that they, too, can play post-office.

Thursday night was party night for the Carnegie gang. High-lights of the evening were performed by Santa Claus Graham, who wrote something in poetry about every dorm member. In spite of his role, he was a receiver of gifts, also. He was given a yo-yo to pass his idle hours and a whistle to keep his congregation awake.

As a bit of closing advice, let us bid you to promptly forget all the terrible exams you have flunked, and

"At Christmas play, and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year."

December 12, 1945—May 22, 1946. To approximately fifty seniors those two dates have a magic significance. Why? The answer is obvious to all who know the college calendar. On each of those days Maryville College grants each eligible senior his first degree.

Attached to the spring date are all the festivities centered around Commencement week. Baccalaureate, the alumni banquet, the daisy chian, and the impressive academic procession—these lend color, gaiety, and importance to the occasion.

The Recognition Service in December serves the same purpose. Each student completing his liberal arts course, including the ever-present comprehensives, at the end of the first semester finds himself on the platform during a morning chapel service. He, too, becomes a Bachelor of Arts. What have you there? Of the class of 1946, ten were graduated last Wednesday morning with that degree. "One who has had the first academic degree conferred on him by a college or university" . . . . . a Bachelor of Arts according to Webster's Collegiate Dictionary.

Addresses at high school Baccalaureate services are all based on the theme of Commencement as a challenge of life and its opportunities. If high school graduates are reminded of their position, how much more do college graduates face? For one who has completed four year's advanced training, Commencement Day is a fulfillment or realization of early aspirations. However, this achievement is not thus ended. The possessor of an A.B. or B. S. degree has everything ahead of him, whether it be further study, accepting a position of responsibility, or making a home—each opens doors of service to the graduate.

Congratulations and best wishes for a successful and happy future to each of the ten!

Antiquated Antics

THEN AND NOW . . . . . .

"Pityingly the Doctor's looked down at me as they wondered whether it had been a cyclone or a railroad smashup. I thought of a calico pony grazing peacefully in the dewy mead and held my peace", concluded a wild and wooley westerner in a blow by blow account of bronco-riding.

Frosh Crax, corny column of 1935, states: A man walks a mile but only moves two feet; honeymoon salad is made of lettuce alone; my mother was a great singer—she used to hold her audience, yes, hours, then she'd lay it in the cradle and rock it to sleep.

In another column, "The Stubbornness of Geraldine", Bainonian play, is described as a "strong bid for the Theta cup."

We laugh with glee as we read given an arch-woman hater was how the campus-wide prestige dealt a fatal blow. This hapless victim of feminine ingenuity was finally forced to have a date, our ancient reporters tell us. Although he did make his Hi-Trail friends pay expenses. The ole boy collected $2.35 for a .30 event!

"Othella", performed by New York players, was presented in Voorhees chapel under the sponsorship of the Social Committee. Proceeds went to buy equipment for our college entertainments. 'Sounds wonderful. "Othello" is high drama with quick-silver humour. ("Now you see it—now you don't"). Lucky were they to have seen it—provided it was well played. Though there is doubt that anyone could do Othello so well as Paul Robison did in the 1944 Guild production. With his deep resonant voice and dominating personality plus the dramatic character of Othello, Paul gave an exquisite portrayal. Anyone who came dry-eyed from that show is a callous, blankety-blank blank. . .

We also note with interest that the 1935 "Messiah" group was the first to include the seldom-sung "Amen Chorus". In that "Messiah" performance, all soloists were non-college people! This year watch for the famous Hallejulah chorus. The 1935 reporter included in his article Handel's statement that as Handel was writing this piece he "though he saw heaven open and the great God Himself."

Toyohiko Kagawoha, Japanese Christian was among the scheduled speakers at the twelfth Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer League.

The convention was held in Indianapolis December 28 through January 1. It was expected that 3000 students from the U. S. and Canada would be present. Maryville Student Vols of today as you know, are projecting their interest to Japan. We know there are more Christians like Kagawaha, so let's all back 'em up, shall we? With "The World for Christ" as our motto.

An irate husband disgusted over his wife's action addressed her reproachfully:

"Believe me, I certainly would give anything to know why God made you women so beautiful and yet so awfully dumb."

"Well, I'll tell you, my dear,' answered the wife. "God made women beautiful so you men would love us, and He made us dumb so we could love you men."

He was applying for a job as a bus conductor. "What are your qualifications for the place?" asked the superintendent of the bus company.

"I used to work in a sardine packing plant!" was the reply.

Dean McClelland Back From Pacific

Expresses Interest In Renewing Sports

Major Frank D. McClelland, on leave of absence as college dean of students, returned last Friday on terminal leave to assume his duties here after serving more than 3 1-2 years in the United States Marine Corps. As of January 7, 1946, Major McClelland will return to inactive duty and a reserve marine officer.

Dr. McClelland of Maryville College became Captain McClelland of the Marines March 1943, when he left his duties here to enter the Marine Corps division of planning and policies with headquarters in Washington, D. C. His one and a half years there were spent in gaining Marine office communications training in various marine corps in the communications field. His wife and two sons fololwed him to Washington where they remained until Major McClelland's terminal leave brought them back to Maryville.

From Washington, D. C., Major McClelland was to be assigned to the 10th Army Headquarters in Pearl Harbor. His three months there were spent in planning the Okinawa operation.

Major McClelland sailed in March 1945 for Okinawa, spending 10 days en route at Saipan. He arrived at Okinawa at 6:00 in the morning of the island's D-Day. He remained there throughout the operation. Then back to Pearl Harbor he went and to a new assignment as commanding officer of the main force signal battalion. At this post he remained until he was relieved this fall to return to the States.

October 19th found Major McClelland in San Francisco and December 7th found him and his family in Maryville.

"It's wonderful to be back," said Major McClelland with a smile, "and settled into the familar routine."

The soon to-be officially dean of students again expressed his special interest in the college athletic program and curriculum. "I'm extremely interested in rebuilding athletic teams and renewing intercollegiate sports as our men return," said Major McClelland. "Also I'm interested in the new plan now being made concerning increased varieties of courses, and majors offered, particularly Physical Education majors. This will arouse more interest to prospective and returning students and will make the prespective school program more attractive to the returning service men.

An Ode To Men; Allah Approaches Bow, Blessed One

"Man may come and man may go, but not if we can help it." Let us talk about men. It is a gruesome topic but an ever present topic never-the-less. What makes men tick? Your guess is as good, and probably better, than mine. The only thing that ticks about the male species is their watches, or, if they are old enough, their slightly loose uppers. They are essential, if one is short of cash, for a movie date and a soda. The majority of them are egotistically, imagining themselves as a cross between Clark Gable and Van Johnson. Oh baby what a cross! Some of them have protruding ears and blond hair, but that's all. But they expect to grab something like Lana Turner and are hurt when we girls don't quite come up to requirements. And when they ask a girl for a date. Bow down you lucky, lucky creature—praise Allah—you have a date with "ME".

Have you ever seen an extremely love-sick girl writing her true (she hopes) love a letter to the music of "It's Been a Long, Long Time"? You haven't? Well take it from me, you have missed a rare sight. Only it's usually pretty well-done. If sweetie-puss doesn't answer by special delivery right away—oh woe—bitter tears are shed. Phooey—men are a lot of unnecessary trouble. Just think how the divorce rate would go down without such animals!

I think (yes I do once in a while). I'll close my little satire now—don't be offended, boys—I am conversing about Men Only.

Grubbs Holds First Place In Intramural Sports

Parkinson Wins Ping-Pong Title

Merrill Grubbs, sophomore from Pennsylvania, is holding down first place in the Intramural sports activities by thirteen points", according to Max House, Intramural manager. Participating in all three of the programs this semester, Grubbs has amassed 99 total points. Grubbs was captain of the Slamming Six team, which won the Touch Football Championship, played in the tennis tournament, and was defeated in the semi-finals of the ping-pong tournment by Tom Parkinson, the title-holder. Last year Grubbs finished in fifth place in the final standings.

Following Grubbs in second slot is Bill Stewart, with a total of 86 points. Lloyd Chandler, Bill Dinges, and Willis Pribble round out the top five standings.

The following is a list of the students that participated in the program and their points for the semester:

1.	Merrill Grubbs	99

WHAT HOLDS

With almost a dozen more students entering the Intramural program this year than last year, the second semester plans of basketball, doubles tennis and ping-pong, volleyball, and baseball appear very bright. According to Tom Parkinson , Intramural manager '45, last year's program was higher than ever before. Hats off to Max House for getting this semester's group out!

Next semester brings returned vets and more new students, thus a still better Intramural program. Awards are to be presented next May to those who have earned the greatest number of points.

Intercollegiate Basketball Games Are Scheduled

Maryville College definitely expects to return to intercollegiate athletics, with teams and schedules in the major sports, for the next college year beginning in September, 1946, according to announcement just made by Coach Lombe Scott Honaker, Director of Athletics at the College for 24 years. "Even now," he says, preliminary basketball practice indicates that a promising squad may develop after the opening of the spring semester on January 16, boosted by the expected return from the Services of a number of former Maryville cage artists.

"Spring football practice will," he predicts, show a fair turnout of veterans, most of whom have played on Service teams, and a number more will return during the summer months."

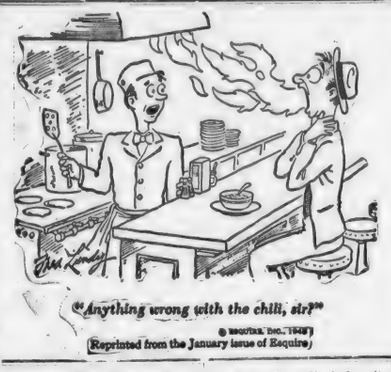
In connection with the return of intercollegiate athletics to a normal basis. Maryville plans an extension of its offerings in Physical Education to include a major in that field for the Bachelor's degree, both for men and women. Several physical education courses will be offered next semester, including Coach Honaker's class in "Theory and Technique of Major Sports".

Lindsay Is Aerial Darts Champion

The aerial dart tournament of the girls' point system was played off Thursday, Dec. 13, between representatives of the Chillie and Howie teams. Janice Lindsay, freshman won two games out of three over Dot Justice, senior. Janice was the winner for the Howie team, while her opponent was the high scorer for the Chillie team.

Basketball practice and games will begin at the first of the second semester.

LAUGHING MATTER



A mathematician fell madly in love
With a lady, young, handsome and charming.
By angles and ratios determined he strove
Her curves and proportions all faultless to prove
As he scrawled hieroglyphics alarming.
Let x denote beauty, y manners well-bred,
z fortune (This last is essential)
"Let L stand for love," our philosopher said;
Then L is a function of x,y, and z
Of the kind which is known as potential.

It used to be Father who gave the bride away. Now it's Walter Winchell.

Golfer in a thicket: "Never mind my ball, caddie. Come and find me."

LAUGHTING MATTER

There was a young man from the city
Who met what he though was a kitty
He gave it a pat
And said, "Nice little cat."
They buried his clothes, out of pity.

"Anything wrong with the chili, sir?"

Maryville Man In Australia Writes Of Kin Takahashi

The Reverend James R. Smith, who is the executive secretary of the Maryville College Alumni Association, recently received a letter from the Reverend T. Worsley Maguire, who is the only Maryville graduate to make his home in Australia. His parish is Phillip Island, where he ministers to three churches. Of his experiences at Maryville Mr. Maguire writes:

"It may be of interest to you that Kin Takahashi and I were associated together on the editorial staff of the college magazine. When Kagawa was visiting this country about 1937 he came to Geelong and at a conference of ministers I had the pleasure of meeting him and asking him if he knew of Kin's work in Japan. He told me that he had never met Kin but heard of the very fine work he had done in Tokyo in connection with the Y. M. C. A. When Bartlett Hall's foundation had just been laid Kin was stricken down with a mild form of typhoid. It was summertime. The campus was deserted. Kin and I were the only occupants of the Hall. I was in his room doing my best to dry his tears. He thought he would never see his people again. There were Shintoists and Kin's ambition was to go home and convert them as soon as Bartlett Hall was completed. I pointed out to Kin the work he had to do; and that God who had given him that work was not going to cut him off before it was done. Just then David Jones, the contractor, came to the window which overlooked the rising brick walls of the new building. "How is Kin this morning?" "He's not too well," I whispered. And then David went on to tell me that Mrs. Jones had prepared a room for him at their home, would I bring him in the afternoon. I can see that lovely room and Kin between the white sheets and smiling and leaping toward good health. Such lives are needed in Japan today. They are the solution of her problems and deepen our affection for the College that trains them. My prayers are with you all in the good work."

Spanish

The Spanish Club held its last meeting of the semester on Thursday, December 13, in the Spanish classroom, with the annual Christmas program. Evo Toro and Nellie Cuellos were in charge of the program which consisted of Christmas poetry and songs.

PRE-MINISTERIALS

The last meeting of the Pre-Ministerials was held in Athenian Hall on December 13th. Dr. Hunter spoke on "A Layman's Viewpoint of the Intellectual Equipment of a Minister". It was the last meeting of the semester.

With The Colors

CAPT. LOUISE SHEDDAN

Captain Louise Sheddan, '23, who has been stationed in Germany, England, and France as an army nurse in the 100 group hospital, will spend part of the Christmas holidays in Maryville with her sister, Mrs. Fisher.

While she was stationed in France, she ran across Carl Murry who was then a patient in the hospital there. He is the grandson of Dr. Wilson and a cousin of the Fishers.

P.M. 3-c BILL BUFORD

Bill Buford, '44, visited the campus this week-end. Stationed at the Naval Air Station in New Orleans, Buford has been in the hospital there for operations on his leg. He will report back to the hospital on January 3. Buford is a lab technician, and was in the separation center there prior to his entry to the hospital.

GRACE JARNAGIN

Grace Jarnagin, '43, a history major who graduated on the accelerated program, is a senior cadet nurse in the Army Hospital at John Hopkins. She expects to graduate there in February.

S.-SGT. FRANK KRAMER

Frank Kramer of Maryville is on his way home from Europe, after having been stationed there about twenty months. Kramer was in the field artillery and should arrive sometime during the Christmas holidays.

BEELER THOMPSON, HA 2-c

Beeler Thompson, HA 2-c, visited the campus last week. He is planning to return to his base at the Naval Hospital in Pensacola, Florida on December 20, after having a fifteen day leave. Thompson, ex'48, is the brother of Ella Mae Thompson, a sophomore here.

5 Days And 18 Minutes Till Home And A Mistletoe-Covered Ceiling

By CONSTANCE HAWKINS

Fourteen more days and twenty five minutes—no, twelve more days and eight min—I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas—Dear Santa Claus—roommate, what do you want for Xmas that doesn't cost more than fifty cents?

"Mother dear, I don't really want anything for Christmas, but in case you really insist on getting me some little thing here is a little list; a suit, sweaters, luggage, about two of those cute gold bracelets, if you can't get gold ones I still love turquoise and let's see—oh yesssss and a new formal with evening coat to match. What do you want dear? Just name it and its yours and oh please send me some money for gifts right away, I yam broke per usual.

Your loving daughter"

Oh did you know that Bernie will be home, and Bill and Vernon and Spot and Virgil and Alex and "It's Been a Long Long Time". 9:18 A. M., 7:45 A. M., or 2:30 P. M.; bus, train, or plane, it will still be a "Sentimental Journey" for countless of us homesick humans upon Maryville campus. There will be snow up north (we hope), Christmas trees all lit up, holly wreaths with big red bows and I am going to cover all the ceiling on the first floor of our house with Mistletoe! You would honestly think that we were in prison (quiet, freshmen) to see the little black lines marking of the days. Conversations just aren't held without Christmas coming into the limelight and all your letters are full of "I'll Be Seing You". Rooms have taken on the festive spirit with wreaths and bells and tinsil and believe it or not but there are even mysterious packages being wrapped. Boy do I love to punch, shake and pinch my mysterious-looking packages!

Be of good heart chilluns', it won't be long now 'till we can hang our stockings (no, no! not the professors— the stockings!) and loaf for a whole month. Oh bliss!

4. The Vice-Chairman and Secretary-Treasurer and Floor Representatives on the House Committee to serve during the first semester shall be elected by each dormitory after the opening of college in the fall, and for the second semester there shall be elected near the close of the first semester at the time of electing the House Chairman.

5. All elections shall be conducted by the Elections Committee of the Student Council under its regulations. In each dormitory two nominations for each office shall be submitted by a committee on nomination appointed by the House Chairman, to a meeting of all eligible voters at least one week before the date set by the Elections Committee for the election. Additional nominations may be made from the floor and shall be added to the ballot if approved by one third of those present at the meeting.

6. There shall be a regular house meeting for cooperative at 10:00 p. m. one designated night the first week after the opening of each semester and during the first week of each month thereafter. The House Chairman shall preside.

Section 2. Coordinating Committee

1. There shall be a Coordinating Committee composed of the Chairman of each House Committee and two dormitory women members of the Student Council, of whom one shall be the dormitory woman who is Council President, Vice President, or Secretary-Treasurer (in that order of precedence) and the other shall be a dormitory woman elected by the dormitory women members of the Council from their number; if none of the three Council officers is a dormitory woman, then both Council representatives shall be elected by the dormitory women members from their number.

2. Membership on the Coordinating Comittee shall be for the current college semester.

3. The Chairman of the Senior House Committee shall be Chairman of the Coordinating Committee.

Section 3. Student-Faculty Senate

The Chairman of each House Committee shall be a member of the Student-Faculty Senate.

ARTICLE IV—DORMITORY OPERATION

Section 1. Duties of the House Committee

The duties of the House Committee shall be to (1) assume general responsibility for the proper management of the dormitory at all times; (2) enforce dormitory regulations as to study hours, lights, and other matters; (3) recommend or decide penalties for infractions of dormitory rules; (4) appoint monitors and other assistants; (5) arrange the schedules of monitors and other appointees; (6) cooperate with the Head of the Dormitory and other faculty representatives; (7) participate in establishing rules as hereinafter provided, and (8) perform such other duties as may appear to be its responsibility.

The Chariman of the House Committee shall make it her special responsibility to discuss with the Head of the Dormitory matters under consideration at the House Committee meetings.

Section 2. Monitors and other Assistants

Monitors and other assistants shall be appointed by the House Committees in the various dormitories for such periods and in such numbers as may be approved by the Coordinating Committee.

ARTICLE V—ESTABLISHING RULES

Section 1.

The making of the rules of the College and of the dormitories is delegated by the Directors of the College to the Executive Council of the Faculty; however, through approval of this Constitution and other action the Executive Council at present grants to student organizations certain participation in determining what the rules shall be.

Section 2.

The rules governing dormitory life shall be reviewed at least once a year, preferably near the close of the first semester, by the House Committee in each women's dormitory and by the Coordinating Committee and recommendations submitted to the Executive Council through the Dean of Students. One or more of the House Committee Chairmen may go to the Executive Council meeting with the Supervisor to assist in the presentation. Other House rules not in conflict with the rules established by the Faculty may be made from time to time by each House Committee.

ARTICLE VI—PENALTIES

Section 1.

In ordinary cases penalties for infraction of dormitory regulations shall be decided and administered by the House Committee; but the Committee may at its discretion refer cases to the Coordinaitng Committee for advise or recommendation; the Coordinating Committee may refer the case back to the House Committee or to the Student Council, or to the Dean of Students for faculty consideration.

Section 2.

Penalties imposed by the House Committee shall be in the form of withdrawal of privileges but other penalties may be recommended by the House Committee to the Student Council or to the Dean of Students for faculty consideration.

ARTICLE VII—AMENDMENTS

Amendments to this Constitution may be made when approved by two-thirds vote of the women in each dormitory and by the Executive Council of the Faculty and the President. Proposed amendments shall be posted in each women's dormitory at least one week before a vote is taken.

tor, as was his father before him had been.

In 1920, he did graduate work at the University of Chicago; for three other summers he did graduate work at the University of Tennessee and there received the Master of Arts degree in 1924. In 1927 and 1923 he spent a full semester and two summers in study at Northwestern University. In 1926, meanwhile, he had been awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree by Maryville College.

"It would but embarrass him for me to point out that Dr. Orr is one of the most loyal and inspiring teachers in Maryville's long history," Dr. Lloyd stated, "but the influence of his teaching and living is year by year evident in the thinking and character of Maryville College students."

Mr. McCurry became Proctor of Carnegie Hall in the fall of 1920. A student here during the same years that Dr. Orr was a student here, Mr. McCurry finished his course later when he returned here to work; he was one of the graduates of 1934 and in 1937 received the Master's degree in Education from the University of Tennessee. From 1913 to 1915, he had done general work on the maintenance staff and was assistant in the dormitory. From 1915 to January, 1918, he was proctor of Memorial Hall; at that time, men students occupied both Memorial and Carnegie Halls. From January, 1918, until 1920, he was out at the College, but was engaged in managing farms which he owned in upper East Tennessee. He returned to Maryville in 1920, where he has remained to the present time. This actually constitutes 30 years of service, although only 25 of them have been continuous to date. "The fact that he has continued steadily in that position for 25 years is proof of the hardiness of his strength and of his patience", Dr. Lloyd remarked.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. McMurray joined the Faculty in September, 1920. Dr. McMurray as Professor of Political and Social Science, and Mrs. McMurray as Head of the Department of Home Economics, have served together here until Dr. McMurray's death seven years ago. They had been in college work in Illinois where Dr. McMurray was a college president, and came to Maryville from Oberlin, Ohio. Mrs. McMurray had served as teacher and dietitian for two years.

Before long at Maryville, Mrs. McMurray, in connection with the Home Economics Department, began to develop a program of making and marketing clothing articles. Her purposes were basically two—to give students experience and to provide for them a means of earning something toward their expenses. The College Maid Shop was the result. It grew to such proportions that in 1927 Mrs. McMurray gave up her teaching to devote full time to the shop. She was production manager, sales manager, and general manager. Uniforms for factory workers, choir gowns, gym suits, nurses uniforms, and so forth have been the products of recent years. "Mrs. McMurray's energy and ingenuity," said Dr. Lloyd, "have been the forces back of this impressive and useful department of our college life."

FRENCH

The French club held its last meeting of tihs semester on December 13th. A special Christmas program was presented. The club will resume its meetings after the Christmas holidays.

When the campus was having troubled with its lighting system, one enthusiast from Baldwin said, "Why I'm just delighted."

With this Greeting we wish to include our sincere thanks for the splendid cooperation we have had from our customers the past months. It has been difficult, at times, for us to maintain our usual standard of service, yet you have been most understanding and liberal with your patronage.

It has been a privilege to have these associations and we will strive with our every effort to merit a continuation of your patronage.

CITY DRUG

We extend to you our best wishes for a happy holiday season and for even more success in the years to come. May your every dream be realized in the New Year.

COULTER'S RESTAURANT

And all good wishes during the next year and the years to come. May health, happiness and prosperity be yours.

PARK DRUG COMPANY

The true meaning of Christmas is best manifest by the cheerful atmosphere and the friendly associations of those about us. It is the time of good fellowship and the thoughtful consideration of others.

May this happiness be yours to enjoy, not only at Christmas but during every day of the coming year.

J. C. PENNEY CO.

for a RICHER CHRISTMAS

FOR those of us here in America let this be truly a real Christmas. Let it be a season to be remembered for many years to come.

Here, in America, is cause for rejoicing. We have had no invasion, our homes are still intact, we have food, warmth, good fellowship—and FREEDOM. What greater heritage could be ours.

Let us be appreciative. Let us carry on in the traditional spirit of the happy holiday occasion. We owe it to ourselves, and more important, we owe it to those lads who have gone forth to defend the American way of life. It is our obligation to keep the Christmas tradition alive as a part of the thing for which they have fought.

This should be a richer Christmas. Sharing the heartaches and disappointments with others has made each of us more thoughtful, more considerate and more appreciative and from this attitude comes the contentment and happiness so essential for a successful Christmas season.

May all that is worthwhile be yours this Christmas.

TALK OF THE WEEK

VOLUME 31 — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, JANUARY 26, 1946 — NUMBER 11

LAMAR MEMORIAL LIBRARY MARYVILLE JAN 31 1946

COEDS VOTE FOR STUDENT GOVERNMENT IN DORMS

At house meetngs held last night in the various women's dormitories, women students elected student government for each dorm. were elected chairman and vice-chairman, respectively of Pearsons Hall; Virginia Miller, secretary-treasurer; and as floor representatives, Carolyn Ulrich, second floor, Mary Margaret Robarts, third, and Betty Wells, fourth. Baldwin elected Loretty Nunn as chairman, Kitty Johnson, vice-chairman, and Betty Muetzel, secretary-treasurer. Floor representatives are Julie Pancoast, first floor, Violet Tommerville, second, and Nan Wooten, third. Carnegie's chairman and vice-chairman were named as Virginia Gress and Margaret Rock; Charlotte Laster is secretary-treasurer; as floor representative for first, second and third floors respectively are Onida Newman, Ruth Ellen Crews, and Barbara Berthalf.

The coeds voted by a large majority to accept the constitution of Student Government in the dorms after a meeting in Voorhees Monday night, January 21, at which the student council committee presented the constitution and by-laws and gave an opportunity for open discussion and questions about student government, privileges, responsibilities and volations. Only fifteen dissenting votes were recorded. The plan is expected to go into effect February 1.

In addition to the constitution for Student Government in the women's dormiories, the women of the college have adopted some revisions in dormitory rules.

These include light-cut privileges, phone service during meals and Church services, abolition of room inspection, and additional privileges for parlor dates. Penalties for violations are in the form of loss of privileges.

Thetas Present Style Show

The Theta officers for the spring semester were installed in an impressive candlelight service at the first meeting of the new semester. Following the installation, a short program was presented. Peggy Howell sang three numbers; "Symphony," "It Might As Well Be Spring," and "I Can't Begin To Tell You," with Jo Campbell playing the accompaniment.

Alpha Sgma will meet with Theta Epsilon tonight in Theta Hall. Teh groups will put on a fashion show with a background of music under the supervison of Kitty Johnson.

Abner Richard To Head Ministerials

The Ministerial Association elected Abner Richard, recently returned student, its president for the new semester, at the organization's first meeting of the year last Thursday evenng in Athenian Hall.

Max House, retiring Vice-President, presided over the election. The complete results are as follows: President, Abner Richard; James Martin, First Vice-President; Fred Richardett, Second Vice-President; and Thomas Horst, Secretary-Treasurer.

Retiring President William Robarts spoke briefly to the new officers in regard to their duties. Abner Richard then gave a brief pledge of keeping the honor bestowed upon him throughout the semester.

President Richard's first official act was to appoint William Robarts as Custodian of the Association. He pointed out that the custom in past years for the retiring presipast years was for the retiring president to become the holder of that

Your Echo Is Late

This edition of The Highland Echo, due and dated January 28, was late in coming off the press because of the depleted staff with which the printing shop is operating. The war is over, yes. And men are coming home, but not all of them. Evidently there are still several printers abroad. We join you in the hope that future Echos will be delivered on time.

Vesper Speaker To Tell Of Jap Prison Camps

The Reverend John Y. Crothers, who has been a missionary and principal of the Memorial Bible Institute of Southern Korea since 1909, is the Vesper speaker speaker Sunday evening, January 27. He will tell the story of his and his wife's imprisonment in the Philippines. When the war began they were taken prisoners, later being released by American forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Crothers are the parents of Katherine Crothers Hodges, a senior Home Economics major. The family is now residing in Maryville.

Y.W. and Y.M. Will Exchange Speakers

The young men and young women of the Christian Associations will exchange programs for the Sunday of January 25. Mary Evelin Jamison, vice-president of Y.W. will speak to the young men on the subject of "Continuing in the Harvest."

A trio consisting of Barbara Blair, Betty Hall and Carol Fuller will sing the sacred number, "I Bind My Heart That Ties." Harold Kidder is the exchange speaker for Y. W. and his topic for discussion, "Y-1946." Jean Keen will provide the special music for the group.

Bainonians Offer Washer In Contest

In 25 words or less, tell why Maryville is good to the last drip and you, the lucky winner, will receive a hansome Bendix washer, free. This contest is sponsored to all contestants. The contest will close Feb. 7 and the winner will be announced Feb. 9. At the first meeting of the Bainonian this contest was announced and new officers were introduced. The program for the second meeting of the sprng semester was in the form of a short play the title of which was, "The Corn is Green" or "There Was No Script (ink)" or "Try the Next Drugstore, They Might Have Some."

Former Echo Editor With Columbus Mirror

Robert F. Huber of Passaic, New Jersey, editor of last year's Echo, s now serving as a reporter on the Columbus Mirror in Columbus, Georgia.

Honorably discharged from the army in 1943, Mr. Huber returned to school here and graduated in May, 1945. He held various positions on the staff of the Echo and served as editor during his senior year. He also took part in debate. He was a member of Pi Kappa Delta and president of I.R.C.

During the month of December, Mr. Huber was the guest editor of the Lake-Land News, a bi-weekly paper in Dover, New Jersey.

Classes Fill Executive Vacancies

Number of Returning Men Elected to Office

Class meetings of the senior, sophomore and freshman classes were held last Wednesday morning for the purpose of election of officers and council members to fill recent class executive vacancies.

The senior class met a second time Saturday afternoon since the election Wednesday morning was declared unconstitutional according to parlimentary procedure. Harvey Overton, a returned serviceman was elected to succeed Zenobia Bernardini, who graduated in December, as vice-president of the senior class. Catherine Sisk was elected to fill the student council vacancy left when Marinell Ross graduated in December. Robert Hunter and Curtis Wright, both veterans, were chosen to serve on the student council in the vacancies left at the graduaton of Jack Ross and the resignation from the council of Robert Whitford.

The sophomore class, wth president Max House presiding, elected Frank Kramer, returned veteran who attended Maryville college previous to his enlistment, as its newest Student Council. Kramer replaces Fred Wilson who is now classed as a first-semester junior and therefore is ineligible as sophomore representative.

Class mercenary matters and committee appointments concluded the business of the meeting which

New Male Members Added To Choir

Three Tenors Added; Two in Bass Section

Tryouts have been made for the male sections of the choir and five new members have been accepted. The new members are Melvin Gaughan, Arthur Haaf, Robert Hunter, James Evans and Peter Van Blarcom.

The first tenors including the old members are Robert DuBois, Thomas Wheeler, Melville Gaughan, Arthur Haaf, and Marion Lewis. Second tenors are Merrill Grubbs, William Robarts, James Evan, Edward Anthony and Harold Hunter.

The only new girl in the choir is Mary Barnwell. Miss Barnwell is a second alto.

The choir is scheduled to sing for the New Providence Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, February 3.

Vets, Wives and Families "At Home" In Carnegie Basement

"Something new has been added," seems the most appropriate statement for this campus. This is especially true in Carnegie, for the basement of this building now houses returned veterans and their wives. This gives Carnegie girls the privilege of lights all night and the only drawback comes with the appetizing odors that rise from the lower premises and make the girls hungry-er than usual. Each couple has a suite of two rooms which have been arranged and decorated and made into homes by the wives of the veterans. There is one big room with a cooking range and several hot plates. These individuals also have a washing machine. Six couples occupy rooms at present and two other couples are expected to move in soon. The capacity is eight couples.

Mr and Mrs. Lloyd Shue are one of the six. Mr. Shue is an Education major and will graduate in May. He was with the Army Ordnance. Mrs. Shue is a graduate of Maryville college.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Russell are from Pa. They have a 13 month-old daughter, Bonnie. Mr. Russell is a pre-ministrial and has been recently discharged from the Navy Air Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Breazeale also live there. Mr. Breazeale is majoring in Biology and intends to go into Pharmacy. He was with the Army Air Forces previously.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kribbs are another one of the couples in Carnegie. Mr. Kribbs has been here since the beginning of the fall semester, but his family lived in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Secrest have another of the suites of rooms. Mrs. Secrest arrived Jan. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Norton also live in the basement of Cornegie. Mr. Norton is a pre-med student from Mass.

DR. STEIN WILL LEAD MEETINGS

Dr. Fred Hope, M.C. Grad, Dies in Fla.

African Missionary Well-Known on Campus

Dr. Fred H. Hope, 70, retired educational missionary to Elat, Africa, director of Maryville college, and president of the college alumni association, died of cancer following an extended illness on January 4, 1946, at the Orange County Hospital, Orlando, Fla. He was buried at Winona Lake, Ind., where he and his family had previously lived during Dr. Hope's short furloughs to this country.

Dr. Hope, graduate of Maryville college in 1906, had made two visits to the college last semester. He attended the Founder's Day services in October and the director's meeting and Fred Hope Drive in November. Returning to Orlando following his last visit here, the missionary's health gradually grew worse, his legs became paralized, and a diagnosos of cancer was given.

In the last few weeks of his life, Dr. Hope wrote his many friends expressing his appreciation for their kindness in letters which, in the words of Dr. Lloyd, "were the kind that only such a great Christian character as he could write at such a time."

Dr. Hope's five daughters and his sister were with him at the time of his death. His second wife had died a few years ago in this country and is buried at Winona Lake.

Dr. Hope went to West Africa as a layman in 1907 to establish an industrial training school for the natives there. He remained in West Africa, with the exception of brief furloughs to America, until last year when he reached the age of retirement. During that mission perod he was superintendent of the Frank James Industrial School, of which he was the founder.

Dr. Hope, at work in Africa, was given an honorary doctor's degree by Maryville college in 1926, the wentieth anniversary of his graduation from the college.

Alumnus Presents Carving Collections

Mr. E. E. Wrinkle of Knoxville presented to Maryville college on January 21 a collecton of 50 wood carvings of birds. Introduced by the Rev James R. Smith, president of the Maryville college Alumni Association and pastor of the Graystone Memorial Presbyterian church in Knoxville, of which Mr. Wrinkle is a member, the carver read a letter of presentation to Dr. R. W. Lloyd which he had prepared for the occasion. The ceremony was held at 1:00 p.m. in the Lamar Memorial Library before an assemblage of college friends, associates and students.

Mr. Wrinkle, a long-time friend of the college, presented the carvings for the college museum; they are now on display in a glass case at the entrance of the library. The artist uses simple tools for his work; most of it was done with a pocket knife. Carving has been a hobby for him for 50 years, during which time, he asserts, he hasn't had a scar from his work.

Thirty Added To Enrollment

This semester's enrollment is thirty above last semester's, which was 486. There are 52 new men, 46 of whom are veterans. Our total of veterans, however is 50, counting the three men who entered last semester, and one woman who entered this semester.

The Senior class has 67 members as compared with last semester's 64. The Junior class has 80 enrolled against 68 last semester. Five have been added to last semester's 118 in the Sophomore class. As against the first semester's 195, the Freshman class has 121 this semester.

Davis Attends Meeting in N.Y.

Rebecca Davis, president of Y.W. C.A. at Maryville, left Thursday evening for New York City where she has been appointed to serve as the representative of the Southern region on a committee planning next year's conference of the National Intercollegiate Christian Council. The meeting will last through Sunday.

Miss Davis was sent by our Y.W. last June to a conference of young people at Camp Highland Lake, North Carolina, and was chosen from that group as one of four white girls to attend the Southern Regonal Council in Atlanta. Of those four, she was the one to attend the N.I.C.C. Conference in New York last summer.

Youth Worker Here Last Fall; Dr. Barber Still Recuperating

WILL LEAD MEETINGS

Dr. Stringham To Lead Singing For 24th Year

The Rev. Luther E. Stein, D. D., of Philadelphia, Pa., Secretary of the Division of Christian Relations of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, will be the preacher and leader of the February Meetings, President Ralph W. Lloyd has announced. Stein, replacing Dr. Clifford E. Barbour of Knoxville who is still recovering from a hip injury, will be remembered by college students for his visit to Maryville last September when he accompanied the moving picture crew and delivered addresses at the college vespers and Student Volunteers meetings. It was under his supervsion that the moving picture was produced.

Before the Christmas holidays it was announced that the Rev. Clifford E. Barbour, of Knoxville, would be the preacher and leader of the 1946 February Meetngs. Early in December he suffered a broken hip, but he expected to be recovered sufficiently by February to go ahead with the Meetings. However, his recovery has not been so rapid as was hoped and about two weeks ago President Lloyd received word that it would be impossible for him to fill this appointment.

The Rev. Sidney E. Singham, D. D., who is at present pastor of the New McKendree Methodist Church at Jackson, Missouri, and who has a cordial place in the hearts of Maryville college people, will lead the singing for the twenty-fourth year of the Meetings.

The dates of the Meetings are being changed one day because Dr. Stein has speaking appointments of long standng in Detroit on the day the meetings were originally scheduled to open. He plans to fly from Detroit to Tennessee in time for the opening service on Thursday morning, Febuary 7. The closing date will be Friday, February 15.

Dr. Stein, a graduate of Hastings College, Nebraska, and of San Francsco Theological Semnary, California, went to Philadelphia in 1942 to take charge of developing the relationship of the ten thousand Presbyterian churches in the U.S.A. to the denomination's program of Christian Education. Before that, he had been pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian Church at Los Angeles. He was a leader in many Pacific coast youth conferences and conventons and had a notable youth program in his own church. Mrs. Stein is well known as a counsellor of youth and is a trained and successful psychiatrist.

Speaking of Dr. Stein, Dr. Lloyd states, "He is a man of strong personality, large in stature, vigorous and friendly in manner. His message is a spiritual and practical one and his spirit and outlook are balanced and wholesome."

Additional Service Stars Dedicated At Chapel Service

Chapel service for the dedication of additional stars on the Maryville college service flags was held on Wednesday mornng, January 23.

The scripture was read by Thomas Edward Henderson, a member of the senior class and a returned veteran who has had service in Europe. "Send Forth Thy Spirit," was the anthem of the choir. Dean McClellan, a returned veteran of our faculty, led the prayer.

The two service flags contain a total of 1,185 stars, 1,153 of them blue and 32 gold. Information concerning our men and women in service continues to arrive and it is probable Dr. Lloyd stated, that there will be one more dedication of stars.

This service was for the primary purpose of dedicating the blue and gold stars for those of whom we have learned since Commencement Day last May.

The roll of the six men whose stars have turned from blue to gold since May and some information of each is as follows:

Clifton Kirkland Pool, Baltimore, Maryland, at Maryville college one year, in the Class of '44, in the Army Air Forces, reported missing off the coast of Puerto Rico December 21, 1942, and a year later, December 21, 1943, offcially reported dead.

James Victor Chittick, Frankfort, Indiana, a member of the Class of 1936, at Maryville college three years, killed in action in Germany in August, 1944.

Oscar Rankin Proffitt, Maryville, Tennessee, a year and a half at Maryville college, in the Class of '45, a gunner on a B-17 of the Army Air Forces based in Italy, reported missing over Jugoslavia November 7, 1944, and a year later, offlcially reported dead.

Griffeth Harrison Fort, Rogersville, Tennessee, at Maryville college one year, in the Class of '43, a radio gunner, in the 15th Air Force in Italy, shot down December 17th, 1944, over Germany, and a year later reported dead.

Charles William Dunning, Elmhurst, Long Island, New York, at Maryville college three years in the Class of '44, a Lieutenant in the Marines, killed in action on Okinawa, April 27, 1945.

Edward Ackerman, Cincinnatti, Ohio, at Maryville college one yea in the Class of '38, later graduated from the Naval Academy, Annapolis, a Lieutenant Commander in command of the submarine U.S.S. Kete which on June 30, 1945, was reported overdue and was presumed lost.

Three men formerly reported missing were later reported safe and are now at home. They are George Richard Miller, of Woodbine, Pennsylvania, who escaped through France into England.

Paul W. Schuster, Bellevue, Ohio, who was rescued at a prison camp.

William J. Sweeney, Norwood, Pennsylvania, picked up by a Russian patrol.

Potential Reporters?

All students interested in reporting or writing for the college newspaper are asked to meet in The Highland Echo office in Thaw Hall Monday night, January 28, at 8:00 o'clock. There are a number of vacancies to be filled, and a special need for fellows interested in writing sports or features.

Dr. Hunter Sees College Movie

While attending a meeting of the Presbyterian College of Union and the Association of American Colleges in Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, saw a showing of the movie for which some shots were taken here last fall. The movie, which was taken under the sponsorship of the Board of Christian Education, included scenes of five church-related colleges in the eastern part of the United States, of which Maryville was one.

Dr. Luther Stein, a member of the Board of Christian Education, who is to lead our February meetings, was responsble for having the movie flown to Cleveland and for its showing in a down-town theater.

The 26 minute film is, according to Dr. Hunter, a remarkably good one. The scenes were all clear, with excellent lighting effects.

Miss Bernardini, Mrs. Henderson On Office Staff

Miss Zenobia Bernardini and Mrs. T. Edward Henderson have been added to the college office staff this semester.

Miss Bernardini, graduate of December 1945, is assisting in the Student-Help office taking dictation, typing, and doing general clerking. While in college, Miss Bernardini was active in Point System, Writer's Workshop, and Parish Project. Queen of Barnwarming and Class Sponsor in her senior year, Miss Bernardini was also a second alto in the choir and a member of B. G. club. She majored in Biology.

Mrs. T. Edward Henderson, Home Economics major graduating in May 1942, is assisting the Treasurer's office. The former Dorothy Buchanan, Mrs. Henderson is the wife of Edward Henderson, a senior majoring in economics. The couple were married on August 19, 1945 in a formal double ring wedding at Indianapolis, Indiana. Previous to her present position, Mrs. Henderson has been employed as assistant dietician under the Civilian Fifth Service Command Laboratory at Fort Harrison, Indiana. After Mr. Henderson graduates, the couple plans to do graduate work in seminary while Mr. Henderson prepares for the ministry.

Montieth Heads Social Committee

The Social Committee has recently been reorganized with Marian Montieth, sophomore biology major from Pottsville, Pennsylvania, as the new chairman. New members were added to the committee following the Student Council elections last Wednesday. The new members are Ruth Broadhead, Katie Sisk, Jim Martin and Bob Dockendorf.

Mrs. Patterson Returns To Faculty to Teach Art

Mrs. W. L. Patterson, who instructed in the art division for two years, 1937-39, returns to the college staff this semester to teach the 318 Hisory of Art course, a onehour credit class. Mrs. Patterson, who was Miss Frances Rich when she taught here before, is a graduate of Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and the School of Fine Arts which is located at the Boston Museum in Boston, Mass.

WOULD YOU SING . . .

The following scenes are cut from the drama, Life on Maryville Campus, which is presented each day at the Terra Theatre. For our impressions of expressionism, we are grateful to the modern American playwrights.

Scene 1. In any occupied room in any dorm; a student sits before a crowded desk. A newly appointed committee chairman enters. The two exchange greetings and bat the breeze briefly.

Chairman. (Remembering mission) I'm getting up the program for any night. Would you sing a couple of songs, sort of sweet and swooney? There's going to be a north pole setting with. . . (chairman grows rapturous, not noting boredom on the other's face.)

Student (flatly) No. (An argument ensues. Our dreamer gives up.)

Chair. Then how about helping with the decorations—we'll need three or four on that.

Stu. Nope. Got to cram for that Greek test we're having six weeks from then.

(There is no audible use of uncouth words, and no actual spitting.)

Curtain

Scene 2. Chairman enters any other room in any dorm where a student sits before a desk.

Chair.. (A little loundly in falsely confident voice) Hi! Whatch doing any night?

Stu. 2. Nothing, Why?

Chair. How about singing a couple of those hubba hubba blues for . . .

Stu. 2. (Shrinking like a violet) No. No showing off for me.

Chair. Then come on over and help move the piano and clean up the gym.

Stu 2. (Coldly with Why-what-do-you-think-I-am tone) Sorry, just remembered I might have a date that night.

(The chairman, who has shrunk to the height of two inches at his own presumptuousness, slinks away.)

Curtain

Scene 3. (Chairman enters and crawls along the walk toward any stately student, who has assumed the center of the stage.)

Chair. (In attitude of desperate supplication, a little hysterically) Please, please, donate a trill of your melodious voice to the program any night.

Stu. (Shouting indignantly) NO, NO, NO!

Chairman slumps and his school spirit is seen to rise and evaporate.

Curtain

Scene 4. (As this chairman was an earnest one, the show does go on; we find students leaving the crowded gym after any program.)

Stu. 3. (Kindly) Not as a bad program.

Stu 4. (Maliciously) Aw, they always get the same ole people. Why don't they ever have somebody different?

As the curtain falls, the chairman is seen in the distance, walking off a cliff.
